RAYMOND MCKEE, WHO WILL BE SEEN IN ELMER CLIFTON'S MASTERPIECE, "DOWN TO THE SEA IN SHIPS"
Enjoying the laugh in Mabel Normand; behind the post is Hank Mann; the little girl below is Ida May McKenzie, who is to play Abe's sister in the historical film, "Abraham Lincoln," and in the corner is Barbara La Marr.
Hollywood and Return, or A Personal Disappearance

By AL MARTIN

It was on Main Street of Paris, and this being my first trip to Illinois, I was thrilled to think of being so far from home. I was thrilled again in the same place when I saw a sign on a moving picture theatre which told all that Francis Z. Fairford, the famous screen star, was appearing personally at that theatre.

After I was comfortably seated next to some girl who had parked her gum on the arm of my chair, the theatre manager announced Francis Z. Fairford. Francis jumped up on the stage with his hat in hand, and was all out of breath as though he had run all the way from California. He told the audience how glad he was to be with them, and how much he enjoyed working in pictures. Also he hoped they would like him in his new pictures as well as they did in his old. All together it was a wonderful speech, and when he told the audience he was going right back to California they all applauded to their full strength.

He didn't go back to California as he had promised, for the president of the lobby of the theatre shaking hands with people, and answering their foolish questions. When it came my turn I told him how wonderful I thought he was, but he didn't seem at all surprised. I also told him I expected to go to California shortly, and asked him where I could get a pass to Hollywood, as I would like to see how pictures are made. He laughed right out loud at my question, and as he laughed, I had sufficient time to notice that his tonsils were out.

He then explained to me that there were other things in Hollywood besides motion pictures. In fact it is a regular place, being just ten cents worth of car-fare from Los Angeles, he emphasized.

After my confab with Francis, I went to a restaurant nearby, and over a saucer of coffee I managed to get an idea. Most people like to see motion picture actors in the flesh, so I figured I would go to Hollywood, get in a motion picture, and then I would return east and make personal appearances with it. The people in the smaller towns would think I was a star because I would not only admit it, but I would have a picture to prove it. However, I could improve on the speech that Francis made, and I don't believe I would rush on the stage like he did, but might run off, which, of course, would depend on my audience.

It is so seldom I get an idea that when I do I sure make use of it. So two weeks later finds me sending post cards from Hollywood to my friends back home in Komoko. I tried very hard to get work in pictures, but found it is not a very easy thing to get. Every place I went seemed as though all the work was done, which was good for them, but not so nice for me. It didn't take me long to get on my feet as I wore my shoes out, and did the wire act, telegraphing home for money.

I made up my mind that I was going to get work in pictures, but it seemed as though all the directors had made up their minds that I wouldn't. Finally, one day for no reason at all, a man stopped me on the street, and asked me if I wanted work in his picture. His question took my breath away, and as soon as I was able to speak I said, "Lead me to it." I know this is not the way to talk to a director in, but I couldn't think of anything else to say at the time.

He took me to the studio, and as we passed by a window he pointed out to me his assistant director, and I couldn't think of anything else to say at the time.

I followed him into the studio, and just as I thought, everyone was waiting for me. He introduced me to the entire company, which did not take long, and then he said, (Continued on Page 22)

Sheiks and Sheikesses, Beware and Be Careful

Fresh from conquests of the hearts of San Francisco's flappers comes Reggie Morley (Merrill). The whisperer of the crown so long worn by Rudolph Valentino has just completed a series of twelve Plum Center Comedies in which he created the character of "Dude Bisbee." This, of course, was one of Reggie's lighter moments. He now feels the spur of Sheikin, and hereby gives notice to all other aspirants to the laurels of Valentino that his bandana, or whatever it is that sheiks wear around their heads, is in the air.

When Rudolph established his prior claims to the title of "Pioneer Sheik of America," Merrill was in the east. As soon as he heard of the "Four Horsemen," Reggie came out to the coast, but Valentino had retreated to the east.

One of Reggie Morley's early roles, in which he demonstrated conclusively that he was a coming Sheik, was "Love's Comet." In this vehicle Reggie played the part of a negro preacher in support of Ora Carew. So you see even in those early Mack Sennett days he leaned toward the ducky hero roles.

For the benefit of the sighing maidens and signing producers Reggie announces that through the aid of the Motion Picture Players Association, he has located a harem and can be reached on the phone by dialing 435-252 and 435-253.

In a truly Sparkplugish vein Reggie says, "I am overlook any more time to go, and will go and won't stop until Hollywood Boulevard is called 'Morley's Lane.'"

STARS TO ENTERTAIN STARS

Stars of the motion picture world are to be hotly besieged at many important social events in July when the Monroe Doctrine Centennial will be celebrated in Los Angeles.

Many distinguished educators will visit the Exposition in Los Angeles on their way home from the meeting of the National Educational Association, which is to be held in Oakland and San Francisco the end of June. Famous men and women of the South American countries are to be invited to speak at a series of conferences which will be held at the American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exhibitions.

California universities have been engaged for some time in research work that will enable the directors of the events at the Monroe Doctrine Centennial to adhere strictly to historical facts. As all the episodes will be filmed as educational pictures the importance of exactness in even minor details is recognized.
“The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry”

Gossip from New York

By RAYMOND MCKEE

Persons here are asking the question, "What about the Laemmle-McCrea Ford match?" The persons who usually buzz about other people's business are now sending out on the underground radio that although smothered under banks of flowers, the affections between the two are not as cordial as they once were. We dunno!’

Hooray! Spring has cub! Without a doubt! The Ringling Brothers and Barum and Bailey Show, "Bigger and Better Than Ever," is in town. Monday night the General Equestrian Director of the "Greatest Show on Earth" blew his whistle and hundreds of people, elephants and things snapped into somersaults, twisters and whatnots, while Mr. and Mrs. New York sat on the "blues" and ate peanuts.

Mrs. Petrova obtained $5,000 for the injury sustained when struck by a New York trolley. It was settled outside court. She sued for $25,000.

Marion Davies bobbed her hair for the part of Pat O'Day in her next Cosmopolitan picture, "Little Old New York." "Ts said she spends an hour a day oiling and brushing the locks in order to take out the permanent wave.

"Enemies of Women" has opened at the Central for an extended run. It is by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, the author of the "Four Horsemen," "The Black and the Range." It is presented by Cosmopolitan and features Lionel Barrymore and Alma Rubens.

Joseph M. Schenck this week paid $35,000 in purchasing "Secrets" from Sam H. Harris for screen production with Norma Talmadge.

"The Covered Wagon" at the end of its first week at the Criterian Theatre drew $10,573. This is an astonishing record considering that the theatre has only 628 seats and only two performances a day were given.

The following sign appeared over a New York theatre last week: "Larry Senon," "The Christian."

Johnny Hines is by this time enjoying the Hospitality of Carl Laemmle, with his assistant, and Charlie Gilson to turn the crank, are there to work for Warner Bros., on their screen adaptation of "Little Johnny Jones." C. C. Burr is largely responsible for the success of the Hines pictures.

Neal Sullivan will replace Charles Gilson behind the camera at the Glendale studios, and turn on the Charles Murray-Raymond Mckee Comedies.

Charles Harris, miniature scenic artist, not with the brush but miniature in size, is laughing on the other side today. It seems Charlie is a Mason and has been looking forward to the initiation of Harry Keeler. When asked, "How?” the other night, Charlie is "some husky," and as we said before Charlie the reverse Annie, whoa! Harry is doing the laughing today, and Charlie, sorta walks with a limp.

Anthony Paul Kelly was next to the best man at Raymond Mckee's marriage to Marguerite Courtoit, says Mrs. Mckee. -Raymond Mckee.

At last the secret is out regarding the marriage of Edward Laemmle, world adventurer, who left Los Angeles recently to enter the state of matrimony in Chicago at the home of an uncle, Louis Laemmle. The story involves a romance cradled in the old world through the first job held by Carl Laemmle, now president of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

When Carl Laemmle was a little boy he went to a small town in Bavaria and apprenticed himself in the business of Aaron Heller, a Saxon who had a big wholesale paper business there. Between the boy and his first employer a strong friendship grew which outlasted the surrender of their business to the war. Last year, ten years ago Mr. Laemmle then a film producer on the road to prosperity in America, returned to Bavaria and visited the Heller family. When he came back to America he brought with him a daughter of Aaron Heller, who was to live for a time with the Laemmle family in America.

A short time later she married a brother of Carl Laemmle, Louis, living in Chicago.

A year or so ago Mr. Laemmle again visited the Heller family in Bavaria. Another daughter of Aaron Heller, Peppi Heller, was invited to come to America. She went to live with her older sister, Mrs. Louis Laemmle, in Chicago. Then Edward Laemmle visited his uncle Louis, and there met Peppi Heller. A romance developed rapidly, and when Edward returned to Universal City to take up his work, he was told that he would make one more picture. Upon the completion of that, "The Oregon Trail," he packed up his belongings and returned to Chicago, where Peppi Heller will be married to Edward Laemmle on April 8.

Edward Laemmle is the son of Joseph Laemmle, who resides near the Universal studios at Universal City.

If Carl Laemmle had not chosen to enter the wholesale paper business it is likely a boy, "the story might have been different.”

A band of Universal cowboys and several cars of friends accompanied Edward Laemmle to the train in Los Angeles when he left for Chicago.

Duke R. Lee, who was "Buffalo Bill" in Universal's film version of that doughty pioneer's life, and Ruth Royce, who has played in a half dozen of the recent historical serials, have important roles in the chapter play which is being made at Universal City today, immortalizing the figure of Daniel Boone. Their roles are in support of Jack Mower and Eileen Sedgwick, who co-star in the picture. Frank Messinger and Jay Marchant co-direct the filming.

At Universal City there is one comment on the lips of everyone who has seen "Merry-go-round," the film spectacle of love and war in the old world which Rupert Grinton has directed and which it has been previewed in rough form. That comment is, "A new star has come to the screen."

Mary Philbin, picked out of a Chicago High School talent contest two years ago and taken from high school to start her training in pictures, is one member of the big all-star cast of "Merry-go-round." In the same film, the artists are Norman Kerry, Cesare Gravina, Dane Fuller, Maude George, Lillian Sylvester, Constance O'Brien, George Siegmann, Anton Vavera and Dorothy Wallace, giving the full measure of sincerity in dramatic portrayals.

But little Miss Philbin exhibits an emotional-interpretative ability which has astounded experts at Universal City and caused predictions of a spectacular career for her. The role she plays is far from being a straight romantic one. It is sad, vibrant with the pathos of eternal love and brightened by the great beauty of faith, faith in the seemingly impossible.

This girl of whom they speak has never met the tragedies of life's "Merry-go-Round" and the understandings she shows remains an inexplicable mystery.

A preview of "Drifting," the latest completed Universal-Jewel starring vehicle of Priscilla Dean, which the editorial department at Universal City has nearly finished editing, has disclosed the fact that the star's excellent performance is supported by some rare and fine characterizations, conspicuous among them the portrayal of a Chinese girl of high caste given by Anna May Wong.

Miss Wong, as mentioned in a recent issue of Photoplay magazine as having given the best individual performance on the screen during the last year, her friends believe her work in "Drifting" superior to any previous portrayal. The role is a tragic one, imbued with the wierd, mysterious spirit of the East.

(Cast on Page 20)
Taking Chances on Being Movie Actors
By RAY H. LEEK

Steeplejacks who gambol on the pinnacles of skyscrapers lead soft, pampered existences, as compared to those laid out for the male players in productions now under way here.

For hair raising thrillers the sort that used to be performed by the luckless "double" have been the order of the week. And in every case the players whose names appear in electric lights were those who braved the perils laid out by imaginative script writers.

Within a few days Milton Sills submitted to a spectacular beating that would have chilled the ardor of any ring champion. Walter Hiers clung, head downward, from a parachute several hundred feet above the ground, while Kenneth Harlan provided the climax to the thrills by crashing from the clouds in an aeroplane, through the roof of a house and landing right side up with care, almost in the arms of a Spanish senorita.

Sills took his trouncing in the interest of the second production of "The Spillers," in which the Goldwyn organization is attempting to outdo the famous fight originally staged by William Farnum and Tom Santchi. Noah Beery's idea of making the fistic encounter realistic was to hurl Sills over his head three times in the course of the fight—a bit of unexpected violence that kept Sills in his bed for two days after the struggle.

Hiers' thriller is a feature of "Fair Week," being filmed by the fat comedian as his newest Paramount picture. The story calls for a rescue scene in which the hero all but loses his life. If the good natured Walter's statement may be accepted at its face value this is just what occurred. At any rate, it is hardly likely anybody will be able to persuade him to leave the ground for many days to come.

But it remained for Kenneth Harlan, experienced aviator that he is, to provide the real breath taking thrill. "The Broken Wing," in which he is playing a featured role, calls for the collapse of an aeroplane in mid-air, a drop through a roof and the wrecking of everything in sight but the intrepid Harlan, who is needed for fresh hazards in later episodes.

When the production was seen on the speaking stage in New York and elsewhere the crash was pictured largely in the words of the player rather than in fact. But in the Tom Forman production it was agreed that it would be visualized down to the last broken bolt of the aeroplane.

The drop, which carried Harlan and a pet dog through the tiled roof and log-covered patio of a Mexican home, was figured out with mathematical precision in advance. Engineers who weighed and balanced the plane assured Harlan that there was no chance of his meeting death in the fall. "A broken arm or leg at the most," was the reassuring statement of the cheerful experts.

So the fall was taken the other day amid a roar of timber and rending steel. And Harlan didn't break so much as the mere leg or arm that the experts had figured

(Continued on Page 21)
"The Covered Wagon" as it finally comes to the picture-going public of Southern California and inasmuch as the screen version is rather worthy of the highest encomiums. Slight imperfections, chiefly in the assembly, have been eliminated since its première showing six weeks ago and, as the picture stands now, it is well-nigh the maximum in true art. Los Angeles critics seem to agree that Ernest Torrence takes the top honors although Tully Marshall is given credit generally for offering one of the most brilliant performances the screen has had in some time. J. Warren Kerrigan as the hero and Alan Hale as the villain have also registered personal triumphs while Lois Wilson does some of her best work as the heroine. James Cruze is entitled to much praise for the directorial genius he displays. All in all, "The Covered Wagon" constitutes an entertaining masterpiece, high mark in screen history and there is every reason to believe it will stay in Hollywood permanently for several months.

Although there is plenty of room in which to take exception to some of the revelations in "Souls For Sale," Rupert Hughes has a proven credit for the creation of a motion picture sensation—one which is pretty sure to attract thousands to any theatre any place. With a total of twenty-five principal characters in the hands of twenty-five well-known photoplayers, it would seem Mr. Hughes put himself to the disadvantage of an unpracticed, but close scrutiny of the results of his assemblage of talent reveals traces of mastery handling and consummate skill in doting characterizations so as to prevent the confusion to be expected. By all means, "Souls For Sale" is a picture for the audience—it will inculcate itself with the minds of the people. It is riveting with class and is devoid of serious faults. It is an eloquent example of the tendency of the American cinema to reach out and do something different.

"Success" is a daring title for a photoplay inasmuch as giving two of the回来了 too wide a latitude in which to poke fun in case the picture does not live up to its name. This one made by Metro is blessed with enough commendable qualities to keep it quite out of the class of the unsuccessful and it is in reality exceedingly interesting, because it seems to be a class draught and in it is unfolded an intriguing story of stage life. Suspenseful moments abound after the picture gets away to a slow start and no one is likely to walk out of the theatre before. "Flintz" is the featured player, Ralph Ince directed this picture and did a very good job of it, all things considered. Brandreth Tynan and Naomi Childress, to whom are intrusted the two principal roles, do excellent work and add interest to the feature by virtue of their intelligent interpretations of the interesting characters, "Success" is especially suitable for neighborhood theatres.

"Slippery McGee" slips into the going with something of a pleasing rush and it is destined to return a fair profit because it offers a story of which one is out of the run of the common-place. It is rather unfortunate that there should be so much of the hackneyed in some of the situations in this film, because if this occasional element could have been avoided, the whole story would have come under the wire as a novelty. As it is, it's only half novel. Wheeler Oakman and Colleen Moore carry the bulk of the responsibility for making the story although Sam De Grasse and Edmund Stevens handle their roles with artistic finesse. Wesley Burger directs with a good deal of ability, but overlooked some good points. However, for a crook story with a sufficiency of human interest, "Slippery McGee" sizes us up well and with its memorable dramatic climax it is bound to send a good percentage of any audience away talking favorably.

"Foreign production is now at a rather low ebb, in great contrast to the activity one sees in the California studios. We think in larger terms over here, with more self-confidence and assurance, knowing, as everyone does who has made pictures on both sides of the Atlantic, that Los Angeles easily maintains its supremacy as the world-center of motion picture production." This is the statement of Joseph J. Cohn, Goldwyn production manager, who has just returned to the studio from a two months trip to Europe.

Although not primarily in search of entertainment, Mr. Cohn visited Europe's gayest capitals, including the three cities which vie with each other for Continental night life, viz: Paris, Berlin and Vienna. His itinerary also included Venice and Rome.

"If European pictures are not as good as the American product," he says, "one reason is that the Los Angeles-made pictures now showing abroad are just about four years old. This puts the foreign producer and public just that far behind American ideas and methods, which, as practically the whole world admits, set the pace."

Borzage Has Foreign Americans!

Frank Borzage, directing "Children of Divorce," for Arthur Kober, is an American company, but by the sounding of their names one might think them all-american.

The list below demonstrates this fact: Italy, Frank Borzage, art director, Holland, Tristram Tupper, author, Ireland, Frank Dozier, scenario; Scotland, Johnnie Walker, star, France, Pauline Garon, star, Germany, Frank Oramont, art director, England, Howard Breherton, cutter.

Jack Cooper Asks Questions

Jack Cooper, who is playing the leading comedy role opposite Doris Eaton, in the Century Comedy in which the famous Gorman Folliés appear, wants to know if studio employees are heartily welcome to the following:

- If they KILL a set
- If they TRIM a light
- If they UNDERESS a set
- If they THROW a spotlight
- If they DRESS the stage
- If they FULLY DO UV a light
- If they BREAK DOWN film

Cooper asks these few simple questions, and believes anyone correctly answering these questions deserves a free ticket to the theatre showing Century Comedies in which the dazzling Gorman Folliés appear.
CAMERA'S WEEKLY WAKE-EM-UP

SPECIAL NEWS SECTION

SATURDAY, APRIL 14, 1923

WOMEN ARE ZEALOUS IN SUPPORT OF EXPOSITION;
CLARA K. YOUNG TO TALK

Although preparations for the American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition have not yet advanced to a stage where the women's part in the great enterprise is definitely worked out, their clubs are taking a real interest in the Monroe Doctrine Centennial.

In response to an urgent invitation from Mrs. David A. Fraser, president of the San Diego County Federation of Women's Clubs, Miss Clara Kimball Young will talk on the significance of the centennial celebration at the convention to be held at San Diego Wednesday and Thursday in Balboa Park Auditorium, San Diego. Miss Young is peculiarly gifted as an orator, and probably is more often invited to appear before women's clubs than any other motion picture star. As a representative of the Revue and Exposition she will do much to interest residents of San Diego county in the international celebration, which opens in Los Angeles, July 21.

The exhibition bungalows, the first buildings to be erected in Exposition Park, made good headway during the week. On May 1 it is expected the Spanish-Colonial city will be well along, so that an idea of that beauty when completed can be obtained. Plans for the buildings to be placed at the disposal of women's organizations include a beautiful court that will be the center of hospitality. Here will be a tea-room that will afford a pleasant resting-place in the course of sight-seeing and it is to be conducted on novel lines.

The work of landscape-gardening is to be most extensive and the recent rains have meant much good for the sowing of the scheme that is to be carried out on the grounds.

The Momoa Special, dedicated by the Southern Pacific to the American Motion Picture Revue and Motion Picture Exposition, made a triumphal trip to New Orleans, arriving Tuesday evening. Many friends went to the station to hand good wishes to Miss Ruth Roland, who represented the Monroe Doctrine Centennial on the eastern journey, and from the first stop onward there proved to be the sort of enthusiasm that satisfied even such an exacting publicity man as Garrett Graham, who personally conducted the eventful tour.

Crowds awaited the train at every station. Bands played and there was much cheering as the distinguished Angelinos appeared. The mayors of many cities responded to the radio adnouncement of the coming of the “Special” and received the invitations from Mayor Cryer who urged attendance at the Premiere and subsequent five weeks of entertainment which the Revue and Exposition will offer.

Despite the counter attraction of a Confederate reunion in New Orleans an immense crowd assembled to welcome Miss Roland and the other Californians. School children almost mobbed the train in their demand for pictures of the star and the newspapers were all represented. Not even a President of the United States, or a presidential candidate could have drawn better than the Monroe Doctrine Centennial and its motion picture envoy, Miss Roland.

NOAH’S ART

With the completion of Marshall Neilan’s “The Eternal Three,” at the Goldwyn Studio, this producer celebrates the fourth production directed by himself in collaboration with Frank Urson.

Mr. Neilan’s system of direction has always been marked by the cooperation of a co-director and is based on the ancient adage that two heads are better than one. It is Mr. Neilan’s contention that no single director can do full justice to a story and that the collaboration of another mind in the directorial phase of picturizing is highly essential. The record of consistent successes which have marked Neilan’s past performances seems to confirm his belief.

Mr. Urson was affiliated with Mr. Neilan a year ago following the production of many Paramount successes in which the former directed the foremost stars of that organization. “The Eternal Three,” it is said, will illustrate examples of achievements made possible only through the association of two directorial minds on the production of a photoplay.

WHAT’S WHAT AT WAMPAS FROLIC APRIL 21

The second annual “Wampas Frolic and Ball,” to be given on the evening of Saturday, April 21, under the auspices of the Western Motion Picture Advertisers, an association of motion picture studio publicists and theatrical press agents, will be held on the world’s largest studio stage recently completed at the “Wampas” studios in Los Angeles.

A majority of the big cinema stars, producers, directors and others and personnel of the various studios in Los Angeles and vicinity will be in attendance, making the assemblage one of the most celebrated gatherings ever grouped under one roof.

Thirteen potential stars, selected and sponsored by the “Wampas,” will be presented in a novel pageant at the big “Frolic.” They are Eleanor Boardman, Evelyn Brent, Dorothy Devore, Virginia Browne Faire, David Niven, Francois, Pauline Garon, Kathleen Key, Laura La Plante, Marzaret Leisy, Helen Lynch, Derelys Perdue and J ohny Ralston. These “stars of tomorrow” want to meet you in person at the ball.

And the thirteen present-day luminaries who made their formal debut at last year’s “Wampas Frolic,” also will be present at this year’s big event. These include Lois Wilson, Maryon Aye, Jacqueline Logan, Bessie Love, Louise Lorraine, Lila Lee, Colleen Moore, Mary Philbin, Kathryn McGuire, Claire Windsor, Patsey Ray Miller and Helen Ferguson. These charming young “stars of today” will appear in the costume of some one role they made famous on the screen during the past few months.

Fred Niblo, who was master of ceremonies at last year’s ball, will officiate in the same capacity at the 1923 frolic. He will introduce the numerous celebrities to the audience and will also see to it that no speeches are made.

An elaborate entertainment program is now being arranged for the “Wampas Frolic and Ball.” Three well known orchestra, a mammoth verdict and fashion page-ante is to be staged under the supervision of J. K. Gorham. The West Coast’s new producer, a gorgeous ballet presented by Ernest Bécher, unique dancing numbers by Marvel and Cartyne Emmers, and a series of spectacular features will be offered preceding the dancing.
SOCIETY GIRL IS WINNING WAY IN FILMS

Another high society girl is making a successful conquest in Filmland. Martha Marshall is this latest one to score as a result of abandoning a life of ease in the midst of luxuries to embark on opportunities for a screen career.

Up to a year ago, Miss Marshall was a leader of Chicago’s Smart Set. Now after a year of persistent effort, she has angled herself into that enviable position from which she bids fair to travel to leadership in film circles.

During her brief career as a playgoer, she was seen admiring friends for her promising histrionic work in such notable productions as “The Covered Wagon.” “Adam’s Rib” and in support of Betty Comson in “The Rustle of Silk,” under the direction of Herbert Brenon.

Miss Marshall’s next engagement will be in W. Irving’s production of “Threeed,” a sea story just about to be filmed at the Goldwyn Studios. All those familiar with her talents are predicting a brilliant stellar future for her and she seems destined to go far in a short space of time.

FAY FORGES FORWARD

Little Fay McKenzie has been and continues to be as busy as the next one. Her most recent career reads like a hasty tour of the whole studio district. No sooner had she finished in the Palm-er-play, “Atrocities at the Ince Studios,” than she was rushed into Marshall Nedian’s cast for the coming “Early Three.” The minute she completed this characterization at the Goldwyn Studio, she hurried over to the Keystone company to play Sarah Lincoln, the famous Abe’s baby sister in the historical photodrama of “Abraham Lincoln.” Incidentally, Fay’s sister, Ida, will play the part when the story calls for a lapse of time and she is supposed to be older.

GOULDING KEPT BUSY

Edmund Goulding is rapidly finishing the script on “Broadway After Dark,” and it will go into production soon under the personal supervision of Harry Rapf for Warner Brothers. The director has not yet been selected, and this casting is personally selected by David Selznick to do the adaptation of Belasco’s famous novel. The screen and he will start work on it within the week. Sidney Franklin will direct “Tiger Rose” and “Sister Kenny” will play the leading role. Actual production will start about the first of June.

MAE MARSH A TITLED DADDY IN “FADDY”

Those who see Mae Marsh in the new British film, “The Next Best Thing,” will scarcely realize that her film father in this production is Simeon Stuart, a distinguished soldier and English aristocrat.

Just for the sake of the film, the fine old English gentleman dropped his title and disguised himself with a moustache.

Stuart, by the way, is one of the few titled people who have achieved their position in filmland by sheer hard work and determination, coupled with the very essential dramatic ability. He has been playing in films for three years only, but when at Maga- leen College, Oxford, he was a very active member of the O. U. D. S., and played a great many leading parts for this society, which were always well applauded.

It was after he was demobilized that he was signed for war that Simeon cast his eye around to discover into what niche he could fit himself in order to maintain his way of money into his almost empty coffers.

The stage attracted him, but the stage was overcrowded and so he auditioned, with the aid of many thousands of others, to try his luck in filmland. He is one of the fortunate ones, for he has gone far and not on account of his title, because until quite recently no one in the industry knew that Simeon Stuart, the good-natured film actor was none other than Lieutenant-Col.- onel. Simeon Stuart.

At heart he is Bohemian, and although he is proud of his title (for he is the seventh holder of the title, which was created in 1660), he never utilizes it in connection with his business.

As a soldier he has had a very distinguished career, for as a Major and D. A. G. he served in South Africa where he obtained a medal and three clasps and was many times mentioned in dispatches. During the recent war he commanded the Second B C. of the Imperial Yeomanry in France and was several times gassed.

To see him with Paddy is to realize why he is so producing, and as he feels, for he enters into the majority of Paddy’s escapades with heart and soul.

HOLLYWOOD’S NEW MYSTERY OF THE FILMS

While watching a vaudeville show recently, Director Fred Caldwell of the L. K. C. Productions, discovered Gene Metcalfe, and through Dr. Frank E. Met- calfe, arranged an interview for Gene with William Jenner, west coast representative of the American Releasing Corporation.

Dr. Metcalfe introduced Mr. Jenner as Mr. Palmer, who had been selected by Mr. Caldwell to play the juvenile lead in some forthcoming pictures. Mr. Jen- ners expressed the opinion that Mr. Palmer was just the type.

The following day Director Caldwell introduced a Miss Ham-ilton to Mr. Jenner, who was dully impressed with the fresh- faced, young woman’s appearance. Then Miss Hamilton made some reference to a conversation she had held with him on the day previous. He was sure he had never before laid eyes on her.

“How much will you bet you didn’t meet me in this office yes-terday?” inquired Miss Ham-ilton.

“Only my right arm and maybe a couple of teeth,” was the reply.

“How about Mr. Palmer, whom you met yesterday?” she asked.

“Well, I’ll be —.” exclaimed Mr. Palmer.

“Say, was he, a man or a woman?”

“I — I —. Gosh, guess we’ll have to wait

YOUTH’S BUSINESS ACGMEN WINS APPROVAL

Frank Borzage was busy one afternoon this week directing scenes with half a dozen youngsters of the street in his new picture, “Children of Dust,” for Arthur H. Jacobs.

One of the juveniles had a bright idea for some diversion between scenes, so went outside and got some children who were anxious to see the studio. “Wanna git in?” questioned one of the archibs.

“Sure how kin we.”

“Gimme a penny am I’ll take yer troo. Yeh kin see Brozage and all the actors; they’m makin’ real movies from Noo York.”

Soon the director noticed that his gang of Granemore Park youngsters had mysteriously grown from six to nearly thirty-six.

“Hey, Bunny,” he yelled to his assistant, “where’d this regiment come from?”

Then Bunny went on a still hunt for a hole in the wall, but came upon the youthful financiers parking his Bannum speech outside.

When Bunny went to oust the children he met with such re- monstrance that Borzage allowed them to remain and watch the shooting.

for the next cardioid of notices from Gene Metcalfe’s agent before the mystery is solved.

“MEANEST MAN IS GETTING QUICKLY ONTO FILM

Principal Pictures Corporation’s “The Meanest Man in the World” is in its fourth production week with filming progressing at a rapid pace. The production, being made at United Studios under the direction of Eddie Cline, and a cast of exceptional merit will be seen in the making. Its star, made famous by George M. Cohan, will be presented.

So Lesser, president of Principal Pictures Corporation, is now in New York confering with Irving M. Lesser on general distribution matters pertaining to this comedy feature, and all other Principal Picture products for the present and coming seasons. According to Lesser, “The Meanest Man in the World” will be a comedy feature de luxe. No thought is being given to spreading the screen a truly big picture in every sense of the word.

The cast now includes Bert Lytell, Blanche Sweet, Bryant Washburn, Marye Aye, Helen Lynch, Carl Stollery, Charlie Crane, Forrest Robinson, Frances Raymond, Lincoln St e d m a n, Walter Hensley, Victor Potel, and others of equal merit.

Camera work is being done under Arthur Martinelli with Fred Eldri the and Frederick C. Clarke in charge of still photographs.

The company will soon leave for Fresno, where many of the rural episodes of the former Cohan stage play will be filmed. Two big stages at United Studios and many exterior settings occupy that spacious studio “lot” where a team of experts is being attached to the production by the film colony of Holly-wood.

Lytell is ideally cast as “the meanest man” and the other artists have been selected with utmost care for the various later roles in the comedy feature which is scheduled for release immediately after the summer months.

MOST BEAUTIFUL ARMS ARRIVE IN FILM COLONY

The world’s most beautiful arms, belonging to the girls of Los Angeles. They were accompanied on their trip from Spokane by the band, the latest aspirant to the title of “America’s Most Beautiful Woman.” Both the arms and body are the personal property of the girl who comes to Los Angeles on a business trip in the interests of beauty. She has invested in a moving picture device. Besides her great beauty, Mrs. L’Ehmann is one of the fastest “shooting stars” she being the holder of many medals. She looks like a bright possibility for a motion picture career.
No doubt a great many of the present screen favorites have attained their prominence through the screen rather than through the stage, but the truly interesting character is the one who graduated in the great world of the hard school of experience. No more glaring example of this can be more readily seen than William S. Carroll who is one of the high lights of the present cinema year.

The cinema will doubtless remember Bill Carroll of the Rice and Dixey days. The same Bill Carroll who attained fame overnight at the old Bijou Theatre in "Adonia" and as quickly disappeared from the screen, will now be appearing in pictures, to make the managers fight for his services.

From musical comedy he took a flying circus. Here, as in all his endeavors in the amusement field, he was acclaimed. Not satisfied that he had tried all the branches of the theatrical business, Carroll left the Leon W. Washburn Circuit and enrolled with the Cummings Dramatic Stock Company in Canada.

In his long stage experience Mr. Carroll has appeared in all varieties of plays, ranging from "The Mummy" and "The Humming Bird" to "Dr. Wainwright."

He has reigned the pinnacle of success in New York, and has been more than one to use a human being in cinematography. He later joined the Biograph company and there have been happy in this field not only him but also his son. The fact of the matter being that he had never played vaudeville.

He completed a tour of the pantages circuit and again reappeared in moving pictures.

Among his recent roles are: Henry Drey in "House of the Seven Keys; John in, "Yellow Men and Gold;" Philip Ashton in, "Gas, Oil and Water" and in support of Herbert Rawlinson in "Conscience."

BULL WILL MAKE "THE UNCOVERED WAGON" NOW

Florence Gilbert has been re-signed by Hunt Stromberg to play in Bull Montana's new burlesque on "The Covered Wagon." The comedy will be known as "The Uncovered Wagon" and will follow the great film epic as closely as "Rob 'Em Good" did "Robin Hood."

Miss Gilbert recently finished important roles in "Snowed Under" and "Breakin' of the Holy" Society," and it was her excellent work in these comedies that earned her the cherished big screen role in the burlesque on Emerson Hough's historic photo-play. "The Uncovered Wagon." This makes Miss Gilbert's fortieth two-reel comedy, although she has twenty-four features to her credit, also.

Returns From Frisco

James Farley, the well known heavy, has just returned from San Francisco, where exterior scenes from the new Paramount Picture, "The Woman With the Green Faces," starring Lillian Gish, and directed by Herbert Brenon, have been filmed for the past week.

Why Ralph's Thankful

Ralph Lewis is feeling very happy over the fact that in the new production, "Blow Your Own Horn," he does not die or get killed off. It is his first production for several months in which he does not get his life snuffed out before the final fade-out.

Johnny Walker is always on the run from one picture to another. His popularity is to blame. He has just finished the leading role in Frank Bezinger's "Traveller," and is back at the R.C. Studios.

COUPLE RETURNS FROM EUROPE TO ENTER FILMS

Among the most recent interesting arrivals in California are Mr. George D. Colovos and his beautiful American wife, Mrs. Colovos, or, to be more exact, Mme. Septimus Valiste. Colovos is the director of one of the finest southern families, and is a true southern type.

M. and Mme. Colovos have just arrived from Europe, where they have charmed on the screen and stage for several seasons. Their work took them to all the principal cities of Europe, but both claim they have never seen anything to compare to the beauty of California.

Kent Has Real Life Double

Have you a double? Are you called to account for the sins of another? If so, you are in good company. Fred Astor Kent, playing a leading role in the Gassner production, "Mothers-in-Law," faces this predicament, but with this advantage—he's double is a perfectly behaved friend.

For years past, Kent has been confused with Frederick Tiden, an actor well known in New York. Even brother members of the Lambe Club constantly mistake one for the other. At Grauman's Theatre, recently, Kent accompanied Reginald Denny to a Sunday morning concert. After a careful reedition of several selections, a number of people waited to congratulate him as "my old friend, Frederick Tiden!"

Actor Gets New Tooth

Theodore Hays looks natural once again. The tooth which was knocked out during a recent film fight at the Hollywood Studios has been replaced with one of the dentist's products, and once again Mr. Hays can chew a complete mouthful.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 9—Gideon Cowland, Zasu Pitts, Fanny Midgley and Frank Hayes ail arrived in San Francisco last week to join Eric Von Stroheim's production of "Greed" for Goldwyn. Chester Conklin and Jean Hersholt are still to come, when the cast will be complete. The company is working very hard day and night on their set at Hayes and Laguna Streets, with a little location work. Having been drenched in the cold, dark waters of the bay on Friday night, Cesar Gravina has almost finished his part in the picture, and will return to Los Angeles in a day or two.

Paul Powell, director, is editing "The Fog" made by the Graf Productions, at the Pacific studios at San Mateo. The shooting of the picture was finished on Thursday after a little more than seven weeks' work.

Joseph Kerr has severed his connection as publicity director for the Paul Gerson studios on Page Street and returned to Los Angeles.

The Victor B. Fisher Productions began work at the Hollywood studios last Monday on the filming of "Youth Triumphant." Ward Crane, lately with Lasky in "Within the Law," and William Boyd have been added to the cast. David Chaplin, business manager of the corporation, and Iverson Blake went south, from the office here, on Sunday to remain during the shooting of the picture.

The Rolphino Film Syndicate, of which Dr. Orlando E. Miller is the head, and who has offices in the Chronicle Building, has started the filming of their first picture in a southern studio. The story is as yet unnamed, but it will be a picture with a psychological punch. Louis W. Chaudet is directing.

John Arnold, cameraman on "The Fog," is returning to Los Angeles in a day or two. He says he has enjoyed every day of his ten weeks' stay in San Francisco, and will always be more than willing to come back. His next picture will be at the Metro studio under Harold Shaw's direction, the story by Rita Wellman.

The Famous Players-Lasky company making "The Woman With Two Faces," put off their expected coming to San Francisco for a week, but they really arrived on Sunday morning. They will do some jail and other location work here for several days. The company includes Herbert Brenon, director, Harold Schwartz, assistant director, James Hare, cameraman, Betty Compson, Richard Dix, Gladden James, Theodore Von Eltz and some dozen other members of the cast and staff.

With Eric Von Stroheim's outfit now filming "Greed" in what is probably the highest paid actor for his size in captivity. A large black raven with a friendly disposition, but seemingly little conversation, who is drawing the merry little salary of $75 dollars a week.

San Francisco people have had the unusual opportunity the last week of seeing a favorite star either in person or on the screen, as Eddie Ferguson was playing "The Wheel of Life" at the Columbia Theatre, while her picture "Outcast" held the screen at the Royal.

ANOTHER FOOTBALL HERO TO BECOME FILM HERO

Three years ago Robert Cosgriff, full-back of that famous Oregon football team, who played Harvard off her feet, to finally lose the game on a fluke play, at Pasadena, visited Hollywood. When he returned to college his mind was made up that some day he would return to Hollywood, equipped to take some part in the great motion picture industry which has its home here.

Daring in dramatic art was the result. Graduating, Cosgriff's ability was recognized immediately by leading stock companies of the Northwest. More lately he has been featured in a series of pictures made in Portland and released by Pathé. He has now come to Hollywood, where he has been assured of leading roles by some of the most prominent producers. He will probably be seen first in Irving Cummings' next all-star production.

FROM WITHIN FILMDOM'S INNER PORTALS

Gladys Walton has just started her starring vehicle, "Sawdust," at Universal City under the direction of Jack Conway. It is a story of the old time circus days when the appearance of the big tents in a community was the occasion of a general holiday. It was adapted to the screen by Hugh Hoffman from a magazine story by Courteny Riley Cooper.

She will be supported in the cast by several well known and popular screen players, including Niles Welch, Edith Yorke, William Robert Daley, Frank Brownlee and Mathew Betz.

Extensive improvements have been made in the property department at Universal City, where nineteen companies are dependent upon one studio's facilities, not counting the outside firms that lease space there. Under management of A. E. Rounsbery, the department has been considerably enlarged. "Props" to the value of twenty-five thousand dollars have been added to the stock and ten thousand spent on general improvements.

"The Hunchback of Notre Dame," the spectacular film starring Lon Chaney, following several other specials of unusual magnificence, made such demands upon the existing stock that enlargement and improvement were necessary. "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" is not only the biggest motion picture undertaking in history, but, due to its period and locale, the most exacting in construction and investment.

With the recovery of William Duncan, incapacitated for several weeks past by a broken hand, work will start within the coming month on "The Steel Trail," Universal's big railroad story, by George Plympton and George Pyper.

Dulceau was the victim of one of the oddest accidents in the history of Universal City. While riding his horse in a thrilling "Rescue scene" he stretched his hand out over the animal's head as it reared sharply. His hand, weighted by a heavy revolver, was forcibly hit by metal on the bridle, and a shattered bone resulted.

Despite his pain the actor finished the scene. "The Steel Trail" marks a reunion between actor and playwright.

While filming some very dangerous fire scenes for "Never See a Raging Fire," which James W. Horne is directing, Virginia Fox, who plays the leading feminine role, was injured. In fact, startling excitement remained completely away.

Tom Gallery, the hero of the screen story, made no daring escapes except those ordered by the director.

This story is quite unusual because it is against all stereotyped rules of press-agentism.

Following several weeks at Universal City the author will return to Oakland, having recently purchased a new home on Lake Merritt, and thereupon plans to gravitate between studio and home. The most amazing thing to me, said Beumont on his arrival at Universal City, "is the immensity of the film capital of America. After going over the gigantic 'Hunchback of Notre Dame' settings and the great Vienna street setting of 'Merry-Go-Round,' and seeing the big productions in the making, I was almost breathless with amazement. It gives one a thrill for the first time to see crowds of several thousand directed with the precision of an army,—a thrill almost akin to awe."
FISHER JOINS IN INDEPENDENT FILMING

The ranks of independent producers have been augmented by the formation of a new concern, Fisher Productions, which plans to produce a series of offerings, the first of which will be “Youth Triumphant,” from the story by George Gibbs, which ran serially in the Green Book magazine.

An all-star cast is being assembled at the Hollywood Studios, where the company will operate. Victor B. Fisher will supervise the making of each production and attend to the business affairs of the organization. Mr. Fisher was for two years general manager of Associated Photoplays. Prior to that he was associated in Super Art Productions and concerned in the production of pictures with Mary Anderson, and other photoplays.

San Francisco capitalists are numbered among the officers and members of the directorate of Fisher Productions. Aaron L. Jaffe, manufacturer of the northern city, is president; S. L. Blake, formerly affiliated with the Anglo-California Trust Company of San Francisco, has the post of secretary, and Victor B. Fisher is treasurer.

Lillian Ducey will direct “Youth Triumphant” under Mr. Fisher’s supervision. Mrs. Ducey has had wide experience, having been associated with Allan Dwan, Eric Von Stroheim and Maurice Tourneur, “The Christian,” “The Scoffer,” “Deep Waters,” and “Love Portrait.” The pictures are among the pictures she has worked on in the past.

Dryden Tells of India

Wheeler Dryden, young English stage playwright, the novelist entitled “Dramatic Art in India,” at a meeting of The Playcrafters, held on Sunday, April 8, at the home of Sydney Sprague, president of the organization. Mr. Dryden illustrated his talk with a number of “still” photographs brought by him from Bombay, India. In these pictures Mr. Dryden posed as the hero and the villain of a dual role of a novel published in Odaret, the native language of the Bombay presidency. Mr. Dryden also exhibited a copy of the novel itself, in which reproductions of the photographs were used as illustrations. The novel bears the dedication to Mr. Dryden in the personal handwriting of the author, Mr. P. R. Marzban, a noted Parsee dramatist and philosopher. This is the second time Mr. Dryden has read his interesting story in New York, where dramatic art, the previous occasion being at a meeting of the Ebell Club in Los Angeles.

MAX GRAF SIGNS MILDFRED FOR LONG TERM

It is nothing less than terrible the way everybody keeps pestering Mildred Harris these days. And the sad, sad part of it is that all of them are endeavoring to force her out of the field of her great and jobs—“engagements” in the artistic parlance.

Motion picture producers, vaudeville producers, musical comedy producers and dramatic producers—all of them have lately discovered that Mildred Harris is a lady of versatile possibilities. She, however, also knows what she wants—namely, to be a sure-thing photoplay star. A happy career during which her name has blazoned in electric lights, exclusively as a photoplayer, has convinced her that the articulate theatre does not offer sufficient opportunity for representing the great multitude who have learned to love her.

Miss Harris became convinced of this when a month ago she left the vaudeville stage to play the leading feminine role in “The Fox,” which is being produced in San Francisco under the personal supervision of Max Graf. A year later, Miss Harris finds her present work far more interesting. “It affords you a chance to give play to your emotions. It is much less wearing on the nerves, and consequently one is able to keep in better health.”

This last item is a matter of considerable concern with the fair Mildred, which is why she depends on Max Graf so far from the glare of the studio lights, motoring with her mother from their home to a small villa, does not worry about the pestering offers—not she. She has signed a contract to appear in the future under the management of Max Graf, if you please, and now she is letting that gentleman do the worrying.

ESMELOM DEMURS

Fred Esmolom, playing the role of the whimsical butler in Goldwyn’s “Three Wise Fools,” says he does not think it is fair for those who are work- ers to send out queries to women asking how much spooling they should have done in the time without saying something to the men. Esmolom is going to take it upon himself to send a thousand queries to married actors, electricians and travelling salesmen, asking how much they are doing in the time prior to the marriage ceremony.

Harry Burns Recovers

After being confined to the Culver City Hospital for eight weeks, Harry Burns is at his home in Los Angeles and has made a most remarkable recovery from his serious illness. He resides at 1425 Gordon street.

FISHER JOINS IN INDEPENDENT FILMING

There are all kinds of ways to "steal a picture," but Muriel McCormac's way is absolutely the most certain and the most effective. She simply hires her rival for camera honors just as the camera starts. Here's proof of the provability of the winsome little Miss for all extreme measures. It happened when she was playing opposite little Mickey McBan in Gansier's "Poor Men's Wives." Muriel decided she was to have a scene all to herself despite Mickey's protestations in favor of staying in camera range. Hence down dropped a big Turkish towel and all of Mickey that was left to be photographed was Mickey's feet, which he is not featuring at all.

"I hated to do it, but it was my scene and Mickey wouldn't move out of it," Muriel says.

Muriel and Mickey did so well as the Heavenly Twins in the Gansier picture that now William Fox has engaged them to be twins in the Dustin Farum picture which is scheduled to start early next week.

HOW NIBLO GETS RESULTS FROM ACTORS

Fred Niblo became even more firmly entrenched in the front line of directors with the beginning of "Captain Apache," his second independent production for Louis B. Mayer and Metro release.

Not only because he has a big story with an all-star cast and a studio of his own, but because he revealed the secret of his success in two minutes a conversation with one player.

Thomas Ricketts, admirable old character star, is playing the role of "Lush," the spickily funny British butler of the story.

Mr. Ricketts asked Mr. Niblo's suggestions for one bit of action. Mr. Niblo told him and then asked what he thought of it.

"You know more about the role than I do," he said, "you are a splendid actor and you have the character. The finishing I will welcome every suggestion from you to make the character the outstanding role of the production."

Mr. Ricketts is one of an all-star cast which includes Matt Moore, Enid Bennett, Barbara La Marr, Mrs. Mathilde Brundage, Robert McKim and Otto Hoffman.

MOVING DAY SOON TO COME FOR WARNERS

Moving day is rapi dly approaching at the Warner Brothers Studio. Files, desks and all sorts of paraphernalia are being assembled so that they can be moved into the new executive offices. Equipment is beginning to arrive. Part of the library which S. L. Warner contracted for on his recent trip to New York is beginning to come in. The Warner Brothers expect to be comfortably settled in their new offices within a two minute conversation with one player.

Thomas Ricketts, admirable old character star, is playing the role of "Lush," the spickily funny British butler of the story.

Mr. Ricketts asked Mr. Niblo's suggestions for one bit of action. Mr. Niblo told him and then asked what he thought of it.

"You know more about the role than I do," he said, "you are a splendid actor and you have the character. The finishing I will welcome every suggestion from you to make the character the outstanding role of the production."

Mr. Ricketts is one of an all-star cast which includes Matt Moore, Enid Bennett, Barbara La Marr, Mrs. Mathilde Brundage, Robert McKim and Otto Hoffman.
Eva Novak has completed "Temptation" for the Wilnat Production Company.

Michael Park has completed his role of Lord Balfour in the Clara Kimball Young production tentatively titled "La Rubia."

Lillian Lawrence has completed her role of the mother in the new Vitagraph production starring Alice Calhoun.

Ernest Buxton, Sr., actor and author, has again taken upon the pen and joined forces with the Harry Edmondson unit.

Eva Novak's series of articles now published in book form will be offered for sale at the depot. The title is "Beauty Hints For the Blonde."

Taylor Graves has completed "Only 28," under the direction of William de Mille. Others in the cast are Elliott Dexter, May McAvoy, and Lois Wilson.

Huntly Gordon is in Catalina making water scenes for the new Lasky production, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." Gloria Swanson is starring in this production.

Cullen Landis has returned from San Mateo where "The Fox" was made for Metro. The entire production was made "on location" and at the Pacific studios there.

"Bull" Montana, Metro's, cave man comedian, led the orchestra on the occasion of the opening of his burlesque, "Bob 'Em Good," at Loew's Warfield Theatre in San Francisco.

Elbert Grey Terry is at work on the new Jack Dillon production, "A Self-Made Wife." Miss Terry is playing the title role under the direction of Mr. Dillon at Universal City.

Myrtle Stedman is again playing a "modern mother" role in the new Goldwyn production, "Six Days," now in process of production under the direction of Charles Brabin.

Carl Gerard has completed his role of the juvenile in the new Cosmopolitan production featuring Anita Stewart. The title is "The Love Flier," and was written by Frank R. Adams.

Taylor Graves has completed the juvenile role in the William de Mille production "Only 28." The production was made in twenty-two working days.

Huntly Gordon has returned from Catalina, where water scenes were made for the new Gloria Swanson production, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife."

Harold Shaw, who will direct Viola Dana in Rita Weiman's "In the Line," will direct Ireland Davis, directed Cyril Maude in the only motion picture in which this famous stage star ever appeared.

Lionel Belmore and Lillian Leighton have been added to the cast of "Never for Money," under the direction of Richard Thomas, which is in production at the Hollywood Studios.

Max Murry's portable dressing room built especially for her use during the filming of "The French Doll," for Metro, is quite elaborately furnished and equipped with the dashing settings in this picture.

Metro has dispatched "location scouts" to Wyoming to choose the natural settings to be used in the filming of Katharine Hepburn's "The Blue Bottle," under the direction of Edward Sloman.

Otis Harlan has been assigned the role of a Chief Eunuch, in the forthcoming Maurice Tourneur production, "The Brass Bottle," new under way at the United Studios for First National release.

Margaret Landis has returned from Truckee, where snow scenes for the new Harry Carey production were made. The title of this new Carey production for Robertson-Cole is "The Miracle Baby."

Fred Huntly, well-known character actor, and Charles Stevens, one of the screen's "dirtiest guys," have been added to the cast of "The White Silence," directed by M. Frankford for the Warner Brothers.

"Main Street" which has just been completed at the Warner Bros. Studio and distributed by the DeMille brothers studio, is going forward rapidly under the guiding hand of Director Regisman and film editor Lewis Milestone.

James Kirkwood, who is now enacting the leading male role in Mrs. Wallace Reid's anti-narcotic film, "Human Wreckage," this week branded the report of his engagement to Lily Lee as "idle gossip."

Lincoln Stedman is playing the role of the boy in the Sol Lesser production of "The Meanest Man in the World." This is the screen version of the George M. Cohen production.

Lincoln Stedman is busy these days playing the role of the office boy in the Sol Lesser production, "The Meanest Man in the World." This is the screen version of the George M. Cohen production.

R. B. Fineman has announced the signing of House Peters, starring dramatically as the leading part in "Don't Marry for Money," the production which will be played by Mr. Fineman, to West Coast activities after an absence in the East of a year.

E. de L. Newman and Robert Thorburn of the Courtland Productions are filming "The Man from Mexico," a crime picture, for the Post special, on the Thomas H. Ince lot. The story was written by James Oliver Curwood. Fred Myton arranged the scenario.

Not only does Viola Dana have to perfect herself in some difficult steps for her new Metro picture, but she will also be needed by the Highland Fling and the Mr. Piker. In "Honed Lips," Rita Weiman's story of the stage which will be the first of her new Metro starring pictures.

Three of the costumes that Lewis Stone wears in his portraiture of the cut-throat of the De Mille d'Azur in Rex Ingram's production of "Scaramouche," weigh 30 pounds apiece and are typical of the elaborate and costly draperies of a French Nobleman in the Eighteenth century.

George O'Hara completed this week a thrilling fight scene for the end of a Perfect Fray, tenth in the Witwer "Fighting Blood" series, his adversary being Morry Lax, noted ring veteran. The new vehicle has some delightful home scenes, comedy touches and the usual charming romance. Mai St. Clair directs.

Joe Buxton, brother of the well-known juvenile, Ernest Buxton, has been engaged by the J. K. McDonald company at Hollywood Studios. He is playing a role in their feature, "Penrod and Sam," while Ben Alexander enacts the role of Penrod.

Armand Loyd has purchased the site of the old Pass school, located on New Hampshire and Gordon Street for a price of $35,000. In contradiction to circumstances which are considered this purchase was made as an investment, and will not be the location for a new studio to house future Loyd activities.

Madeleine Hurlock, leading lady to Bob Turpin in Mack Sennett comedies, was granted a divorce from her husband, John Sturtevant, on the ground of cruelty and desertion. Miss Hurlock termed her husband a "jerry act," and confessed he had married Florence Wright of New York, under the pretense that he had been divorced.

Senorita Marina Vega, the Mexican Girl who attempted suicide recently at the home of Charlie Chaplin, will be returned to Mexico City by officials of the county charities, under whose observation she has been since her arrest, when information was received from Mexico to the effect that sensational attempts at suicide were an obsession with her.

Cinema stars will play a big part in staging the Charity Circus, which will be held at Fraser Park, May 4 to 15 inclusive, Cecil B. DeMille, Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and Tom Mix will act as alas to Capt. George K. Howe. Marian Faust will appear in a musical act and Harry Mille will have charge of the presenting of the "King Tut Remains," which is the most prominent and beautiful刷唱片 will appear. Mrs. Mack Sennett will assume the position of supervising balloon sales at the circus.
THIS NEW STAR OF DAWN SHINES BRIGHTLY

Arthur Trimble has finished his second two-reel comedy under the direction of Jack Dawn, who also wrote the stories.

The first story is centered around a youngster who dreams of being a movie star. Arthur Trimble portrays the youngster who dreams he is a prince. The new boy star is supported in this picture by Becky Love.

The second comedy is centered around a regular kid, who is mistreated by his foster family. The titles are now being written by Max Abramson, who titled many of the Jackie Coogan films.

Trimble has one of the most promising stars of the ultra juvenile sphere, and is not yet seven years of age. A natural talent, big stories and splendid direction is going into every one of these pictures.

New associations are being whipped into shape by Director Dawn, who will continue to direct Little Trimble in the others to follow.

The comedies are being made at the Century Studio.

FATE CONSPIRES TO MAKE LITTLE GIRL AN ACTRESS

The old saying that “Some are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them” has found a Betty Giles, little ten-year-old schoolgirl in New Orleans, is having opportunities to become a screen actress literally thrust upon her. She never intended to become a star, but her parents were in opposition to a professional life.

Betty was learning her a helping hand when Betty took part in the Carnival of the Woodcrafters of America at the Hollywood Bowl. Betty was the screen star’s choice as the winner. Later she was watching a Harold Lloyd comedy being filmed on the street, and the director drew her out of the crowd to play in the picture. Lastly, when visiting at the Charles Ray studio, Betty was snatched up to play “the big sister” to the Pilgrim children in “The Courtship of Miles Standish.” She has had several other offers since then, it seems little Betty is finding herself an actress in spite of herself.

Holmes Needs No Home

Stuart Holmes probably is the busiest man in Hollywood these days. During the daylight hours, he is to be busy in his featured roles in “Daughters of the Rich,” a Gamier production being shot at the Vitagraph Studios. At night, the Universal Company is employing his talents.

CALNAY ENGAGES STAGE STAR FOR NEW PICTURE

Arthur Beckman, a delineator of character roles on the American and Canadian speaking stage, has been engaged by Calnay to portray the lead in the second of the series of films in which he has played opposite such celebrities as Keeler, Morgan, Madame Waxman, and many others, before he entered screen work. He is now engaged by the producer, Frank Prentiss, who will play the difficult part of the condemned man, whose execution he has some reason to expect will arouse such sympathy in the hearts of the staunchest believers of capital punishment. The picture is designed to awaken the conscience of all the nations against what it holds to be the barbaric and unnecessary practice of legal vengeance.

“There is no more promising artist on the screen today,” said Mr. Calnay to Arthur Beckman, capable enough to depict a role so sympathetic as this, and willing to do service for two.

NEW ASSOCIATION IS SIGNING PLAYERS UP

Gordon Maloney, formerly of the Knickerbocker Stock Company of Chicago, yesterday, through the excellent work of the Motion Picture Players’ Association, was signed to a long-term contract as leading man by the Laughlin productions. Mr. Maloney has been a trooper for fourteen years and one of the first members of the Motion Picture Players Association. He leaves for Fresno, the home of the Laughlin productions, and expresses his delight at the fine way in which the Motion Picture Players’ Association cooperated with him.

Carol Moore, formerly in charge of the motion picture company of “Abie’s Irish Rose,” has also received favorable recognition and has joined Eddie Lyons Comedy Players.

MARJORIE A BUSY ACTRESS

Since completing a part with the Charles Ray company in “The Courtship of Miles Standish,” Marjorie Warfield’s activities have been many and various, including parts at the Goldwyn and Laasy studios, at Universal City, and with the Monte Banks productions in Los Angeles. Marjorie portrays a “The Rustle of Silk,” at the Laasy studios, Miss Warfield is said to have done some fine work, which likewise applies to her characterization of an office girl in the Herbert Blaché production, “Twenty Dollars,” starring Herbert Rawlinson and Doris Fawn at Universal. At present Miss Warfield is working with Monte Banks in his latest comedy, “Please Arrest Me.”

Town Talk Boosts Brown

Othman Stevens, purveyor and conveyer of Town Talk in the Los Angeles Examiner, blossomed forth last week with an exceedingly complimentary paragraph anent Sidney Brown. It seems that he received each of the newsboys a copy of Town Talk’s ear to the effect that a certain motion picture production was not being secured for Mr. Brown’s services as a director for forthcoming production work. He also notified them that any producer who wishes to make the pictures would have his opportunity to direct a series of one-reel comedies for Universal starring Herbert Forde, the English comedian.

FATE CONSPIRES TO MAKE LITTLE GIRL AN ACTRESS

JACKIE COOGAN’S SQUAD IN THE RING

Even the kiddie stars of filmdom are desirous of participating in the second annual “Wampas Frolic and Ball” to be held Saturday evening, April 21, on the monster stage now under construction at Jack Dawn and Stuart Holmes’ Studio in Hollywood. Comes Jackie Coogan with a $50 bill in his pudgy little hand and lays it on the counter for a box at the affair.

But Jack Coogan, Jr., was not the first to secure one of the muchly prized logos for the publicists’ big entertainment. Manager E. C. Beetock of Loew’s State Theatre was in possession of being holder of Box No. 1, while close at his heels were B. P. Sedley, Winifred Carewe, Al Christie, Joseph Henaberry, Abraham Lehr, and a host of other equally well-known members of the players’ union, who were not willing to satisfy themselves with boxes bearing higher numbers.

Upon learning that the “Wampus” had opened the seat sale for their second annual frolic, B. P. Sedley, producer of many big screen successes, wired his protege, Ethel Shannon, who, by the way, is one of the stars of the forthcoming feature being issued by the publicists, to reserve one of the box admission tickets she was selling for him.

According to Joseph Jackson, president of the “Wampas,” it will be necessary to hang out an “Advance” sign on the evening of Saturday, April 21, if not before, providing the ticket sale continues as it has begun. Every present indication points toward a capacity “house” at the frolic and arrangements to handle the crowd are being made accordingly.

Preceding the ball, an unique entertainment will be staged at the State Theatre on the program of which will appear many celebrated stars of the cinema and legitimate stage. A pageant, in which the stars introduced at last year’s “WAMPAS Frolic” will take part, will be one of the many big features of the evening. In this novel procedure, the thirteen original artistes sponsored by the publicists will appear before them in their greatest film triumphs of the past few months. The individual stars will be presented to the assembled crowd in this manner while the “stars of tomorrow,” the latest aggregation of juvenile and semi-juveniles to be taken under the “Wampas” wings, will be introduced in an equally effective manner.

Raymond McKee and Margaret Court, stars of “Down to the Sea’s” feature on the last week in New York.
ANN'S CONSCIENCE ADDS TO HER DANGERS

If there is any one thing that Ann Little wants to impress upon the minds of picture fans, it is that she will perform several roles and not allow a double to perform the precarious stunts she is called upon to do in various photoplay thrillers.

"To allow another girl to enact the dangerous stunts that I am going to perform would be gain- ing admirers under false pretenses," Miss Little says. "I have been nick-named 'the most daring girl on the screen,' and I want to prove, at least, that the thrills and dangerous scenes interpreted in my pictures are provided solely by myself."

So Ann is setting about to prove this.

The Universal company now filming the serial, "The Eagle's Talons," in which Miss Little is being starred, has left for Irelland, where the final scenes of the fourth episode will be shot.

The public at large will be invited to the scene of action when Miss Little plays one of the most dangerous stunts of the entire serial, one of which will necessitate her jumping from a speeding train onto her horse.

Duke Worne, director of the serial, has said that Miss Little will allow an experienced stunt actress to perform these risky feats, but has met with no luck.

Miss Little is adamant whenever she is asked to refrain from the practice of enacting hazzard-ous scenes, sticking to her firm belief that a person should not accept a role resulting from any-other's efforts.

Barry's Plans Changed

"The Printer's Devil," an original story by Julien Josephson, will be the first picture for Wesley Barry at the Warner Brothers' Studio upon his return from his personal appearance tour.

The Warner brothers had intended making "Little Johnny Johnson" from the George M. Coohan, of which the screen rights, first, but because of the merit of Josephson's story and its particular capability of Wesley Barry, they have decided to make "The Printer's Devil" first. Wesley Barry will direct. None of the cast has been selected.

Dog Joins Free-lancers

Brownie, the former Century Com-fort Weekly, now pays a free-lance actor. He got his release from Century March 28, and two days later went to work with Fred Harkipp, taking eleven of his pals along with him. Here Brownie interrupts: "Oh, Boy! I'm sure having fun!"

MARY PICKFORD'S LIBRARY

Convalescing patients in hospitals and the dear old ladies at the Los Angeles County Poor Farm will no longer have to read for reading matter when Mary Pickford's new library plan gets under way. The new library is being provided by Miss Pickford's papers subscribed to by the Pickford Fairbanks banks are being read with dispatch and then collected by the little star and distributed to the wards and the patients.

Practically every publication of any consequence in this country as well as abroad is subscribed for Miss Pickford, and only a few days is required to read them each month when they arrive, they can then be sent to hospitals while their contents are still a matter of current news.

V. F. Joins R.C.

Virginia Fox, screen cornedie-cienne and one of Hollywood's most interesting girls, has been provided with a long term contract by the Robertson-Cole organization. Miss Fox's former work under her new contract is the leading woman in "Now You See It," which has just gone into production, with James Worsley Horne directing. Her role in "Now You See It" represents Miss Fox's first serisous characterization. Herefofore, comedy has been her forte. She has appeared for two years with Bennett cornediee and has displayed opposite Buster Keaton for two and one-half years and appeared in a picture with Lupino Lane.

Sidney Making Farce

The Christie organization is working on a fast farce comedy featuring Bobby Vernon, under the direction of Scott Sidney. The picture film cah is called "Take Your Choice," and is by Frank R. Conklin. Five leading ladies in the picture, including Charlotte Stevens, Helen Thompson, Natalie Johnson, Margaret Cloud and Gladys Baxter.

Noted Dancer in Film Debut

Della Vana, nationally-known terpsichorean artist, who recently scored a sensational hit in the Greenwhich Poliies in New York, has been signed by Finis Fox to present an eccentric dance numer in the cabaret scenes of his latest picture, "The Man Between," according to announcement made by Robert K. Thaw, general manager of the company.

This will be the first time that Della Vana's dances have been recorded by the motion picture camera.

Finishes With Roach

Roach and O’broch, who also claims the "Old Biographic Days" as his family tree of the pictures, recently placed the characters, "Paddy" in the Roach production of "Tea—With a Kick." He has just completed the part of the "Jockey" in "The Big Life," while Jack Roach is producing under the direction of Fred Jackman.

GLANCES AT THE PAST

King Vidor probably has the distinction of having appeared in pictures more celebrities than any other director. He gave pictures to Miss Jones, Davis, Florence Vidor, Lloyd Hฝาก, Za Zu Pitts, Robert Gordon and David Butler. He also persuaded Corinne Griffith to leave a little town in Texas and seek fame before the camera.

Erich von Stroheim now has a Goldwyn contract and is prepareing to direct Frank Norris' great novel, "McTeague."

Frank N. Norcross Signs

After an absence of two years in New York, Fred Norcross has just returned to Hollywood. Mr. Norcross immediately closed with James H. Robertson, of the Robertson-Cole Studios, to play a role in the forthcoming feature, "Blow Your Own Horn." When in New York, Mr. Norcross was seen with Charles Ray in "19 and Phyllis" and in "Garments of Truth."

Where Filming is Work

Four and one-half miles to location each day. This is what the Trimble-Surfin Company is doing now. They are going through the snow, where the only means of travel is skis or dog sleds. The company, under Director Lauren-tce Trimble, is now working at Lake Louise, in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, where Strong-hero's next starring vehicle, "The Phantom Pac," is being made. They are now "shooting" at Lake Louise. They are going to travel a mile and a half across the lee of the lake and three miles up the mountain on skis.

Also, the company's designer writes Walter Perry, "is carrying in our own water and coal. We are taken over the sumer cabins and they haven't all the comforts of home."

Peggy Finishes "Orphan"

Baby Peggy has just finished the final scenes in "The Orphan," at the Century Studios under the direction of Alf Goulding, with her fond papa, J. Travers Mont-gomery, directing the Jitney Burns part.

She will soon start work at Universal on her first seven-reel special.

Prisoner Respects Lewis

Ralph Lewis has just received a fan letter of which he is quite proud. It was a birthday letter written by a inmate at San Quentin prison who said that he had just seen Lewis in "The Birth of a Nation," and added that he would hate to run-up against Ralph in trying to make a getaway from the police, as Lewis "never handled the southern mob in the Griffith classic in a very wicked manner."
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, April 16

Cameral intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-869.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BERWILLA STUDIO.</td>
<td>5821 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>Eddie Lyons Productions (Arrow release)</td>
<td>Eddie Lyons</td>
<td>McGill</td>
<td>Ditz</td>
<td>2-Week Comedy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BOYLE STUDIO.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Boggs De Ric</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BRENWOOD STUDIO.</td>
<td>4811 Fountain Ave.</td>
<td>Ben Wilson Productions (Federated release)</td>
<td>Monty Banks</td>
<td>Win, Nobles</td>
<td>McGough</td>
<td>Comedies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BRONX STUDIO.</td>
<td>1745-31 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td>H. and B. Productions</td>
<td>Arthur Hilton</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Titus</td>
<td>5-Week Drama</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BURBANK STUDIO.</td>
<td>Burbank, Cal.</td>
<td>Kelpine Productions</td>
<td>Kelpine</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Comedies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHESTER STUDIO.</td>
<td>1438 Gower St.</td>
<td>Arthur Trimble Productions.</td>
<td>Arthur Trimble</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHAPLIN STUDIO.</td>
<td>Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr. 1416 La Brea Ave.</td>
<td>Regent Film Company.</td>
<td>Charles Chaplin</td>
<td>Edna Purviance</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Public Opinion&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHOICE STUDIO.</td>
<td>6044 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>Choice Productions</td>
<td>W. N. Hamilton</td>
<td>Fred K. Robinson</td>
<td>Alex Alt</td>
<td>&quot;What Women Want&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHRISTIE STUDIO.</td>
<td>6101 Sunset.</td>
<td>CHRISTIE STUDIOS.</td>
<td>Harry Edwards</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Dangerous Men&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COSMOSART STUDIO.</td>
<td>3700 Beverly Blvd.</td>
<td>COSMOSART STUDIOS.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FINE ARTS STUDIOS.</td>
<td>Individual Casting. 4500 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>FINE ARTS STUDIOS.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FOX STUDIO.</td>
<td>Arthur Forde, Casting. 1401 N. Western Ave.</td>
<td>FOX STUDIO.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GARSON STUDIOS.</td>
<td>1845 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDWYN STUDIO.</td>
<td>R. B. McIntyre, Casting. Culver City.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HORSLEY STUDIO.</td>
<td>6050 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Director</td>
<td>Star</td>
<td>Cameraman</td>
<td>Asst Director</td>
<td>Scriptwriter</td>
<td>Type</td>
<td>Progress</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------------------------</td>
<td>--------------------</td>
<td>--------------------</td>
<td>-------------------</td>
<td>-------------------</td>
<td>--------------------</td>
<td>-----------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chas. R. Seelig Productions</td>
<td>W. Seelig</td>
<td>L. Natterfield</td>
<td>Western Special</td>
<td>Casting</td>
<td>Holly 1431</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS</td>
<td>6642 Santa Monica Blvd</td>
<td>J. Jasper, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| Richard Thomas Productions  | Jack Pugus         | Norval MacGregor  | Underworld Drama  | Hollywood          | 1st Week           |
|                            |                    | Burnell-Mayle     |                   |                   |                    |           |
| Dudley McLean Productions   | Lloyd Ingram       | Douglas Misslehan |                   |                   | Preparing          |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
| Ivan Cummings Productions   |                    |                    |                   |                   | Preparing          |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
| Victor B. Fisher Productions|                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
| J. K. McDonald Productions  |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
| Supreme Art Productions     |                    |                    |                   |                   | Preparing          |

| Associated Authors, Inc.    |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
| Palmer Photoplay Productions|                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
| Corlind Productions         |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
| Mrs. Wallace Reid Productions|                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
| Trimble-Murfin Productions  |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
| KEATON STUDIO               | 1025 Lillian Way   |                    | Individual Casting| 2814               |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| LASKY STUDIOS               | 1520 Vine St.      | Fred Kley, Studio Mgr. | 2400             |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| Paramount Pictures          |                    |                    |                   |                   |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| METRO STUDIO                | 3800 Mission Rd.   |                    | Individual Casting| 4485               |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| MAYER-SCHULBERG STUDIO      | 8300 Rosewood Blvd |                    |                    | 2120               |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| Preferred P. Mgr. Corp.     |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| Preferred P. Mgr. (All Litchfield Release) |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| PACIFIC COAST STUDIO        |                    |                    |                   | 4980               |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS  | Individual Casting | 7100 Santa Monica Blvd | 7901             |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| United Artists Release      |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| R-C STUDIO                 | 7800 Gower St.     |                    |                    | 7780               |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| Individual Productions      |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| ROACH STUDIO                | 1425 Fleming St.   |                    |                    | 598-141            |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| ROACH STUDIO                | 1425 Culver City   |                    |                    | 761-721            |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| SENNIT STUDIO               | 1712 Glendale Blvd |                    |                    | Wils. 1550         |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| UNITED STUDIOS              | 5341 Melrose       | M. C. Levee, Pres. |                    | 4080               |
|                            |                    | Nan Collins, Mgr.  |                    |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| Louis B. Mayer Productions  |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| San Mateo Cal.              |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| Pickford-Fairbanks Studios  | Individual Casting | 7100 Santa Monica Blvd | 7901             |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| United Artists Release      |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| R-C STUDIO                 | 7800 Gower St.     |                    |                    | 7780               |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| Individual Productions      |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| ROACH STUDIO                | 1425 Culver City   |                    |                    | 761-721            |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| SENNIT STUDIO               | 1712 Glendale Blvd |                    |                    | Wils. 1550         |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| UNITED STUDIOS              | 5341 Melrose       | M. C. Levee, Pres. |                    | 4080               |
|                            |                    | Nan Collins, Mgr.  |                    |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| Louis B. Mayer Productions  |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| San Mateo Cal.              |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| Pickford-Fairbanks Studios  | Individual Casting | 7100 Santa Monica Blvd | 7901             |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| United Artists Release      |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| R-C STUDIO                 | 7800 Gower St.     |                    |                    | 7780               |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| Individual Productions      |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| ROACH STUDIO                | 1425 Culver City   |                    |                    | 761-721            |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| SENNIT STUDIO               | 1712 Glendale Blvd |                    |                    | Wils. 1550         |
|                            |                    |                    |                   |                    |                    |           |
| UNITED STUDIOS              | 5341 Melrose       | M. C. Levee, Pres. |                    | 4080               |
|                            |                    | Nan Collins, Mgr.  |                    |                    |                    |           |
Dr. W. I. Schuster
203 Boccardo Bldg., Sunset at Western Chiropractor and Nerve Specialist
"You have tried the rest, now try the best"
Catering to the foremost of the profession
10 to 12, 2 to 5, Evenings 6 to 8
Palmer Graduate Phone 436-124

Straus' Bakery
SPECIAL ATTENTION
GIVEN TO PARTY ORDERS
5900 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 9290

YE RUB SHOPPE
Professional Hair Dyeing for Professional Men
621 West 8th St. Pico 1566

Registered Motion Picture Talent Bureau
Amie Riggs, Director
1755½ N. Western Ave. Phone 436-924

Oriental costumes and properties, both modern and historical. Authentic in every detail. We have a large stock at moderate prices for sales and rental.

Oriental Costume Co.
6223 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 9594

BOB METZ SAYS:
You shall know him by his razor.

"Bob the Barber"
Hellman's 6772 Hollywood Blvd.

All Legal Matters Attorney and Counselor at Law
JACK P. LEONARD
340 Douglas Bldg. Consultation Free Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone 659-42

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"
Page Nineteen

CAMERA I

Principal Pictures Corporation.
Radio City All-Star

Norman Manning

"Meanest Man in the World" 5th Week

UNIVERSAL STUDIOS, Fred Datag Casting.

Universal Film Manufacturing Co. (Universal Release.)

Edward Forstner, Les Brown,
George Marshall, Jack Holt

Messinger-Marshall-All-Star

Jack Dillon All-Star

Robb Hunt, Wm. Desmond

Duke Worner, Little-Thompson

Jack Conaway, Gladys Walton

Edward Sedgwick, Hoot Gibson

Wm. Waterman, Nels Edwards

Wallace Worsley, Lon Chaney

Harry Pollard, Reginald Denny

Stuart Paton, Roy Stewart

Jimmie Davis, Joe Rock

Reno Productions

Bos Fisher

Victor Schertzer, All-Star

Herman O'Conner, All-Star

Millerico Webb

Franklin-Myton

"Wolf Fangs" Sarazen Series 9th Week

WARNER BROS. STUDIOS, 5842 Sunset Blvd.

WARNER BROTHERS PRODUCTIONS.

Chester Proskolin, All-Star

Homer-Scott

Millerico Webb

Franklin-Myton

"Wolf Fangs" Sarazen Series 9th Week Edition

WILNAT STUDIO, 6070 Sunset Blvd.

HOLLY 7940

Saturday Night Banking at all Los Angeles Branches.

Hollwalt Bank

Sixteen Branches in Southern California

QUICK MONEY RELEASE!

Producers—Active or Prospective—Get in Touch with a Live One

H. and B. Film Company

Distributors—Producers

Bronco Studio, 1745 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles.

Lomisourse $2.50 Per Hour

SUNSET TAXI

Special Rates on Studio Trips and Touring

577-994...

578-280

MOTION PICTURE PRODUCERS ASSOCIATION, 1004 Hollingsworth Bldg. Main 1072

Hal E. Roach Studios

Eddy's Film Corporation

Stu. M. Selenski Enterprises

Relp Pictures Co.

Mack Bennett Films Corp.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

Robertson-Cole Studios, Inc.

THE VITAGRAPH COMPANY

"Make-up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry"

We sell the finest make-up and hair goods at the very lowest price it can be sold in proportion to its quality. Our tremendous purchasing power makes this possible.

819 South Hill Street

Telephone Pico 498
Specials This Week
Some Real Wardrobe Bargains

Beautiful white fox, perfect condition, only $45
Kolinsky cape stole.............. $55
$250 afternoon dress, worn once, for $42
$150 evening gown............... $29

Screen Stars Wardrobe Exchange
2006 Ivar Avenue
(in the brown residence on the corner)

Reed Heustis
and Sherley Hunter
in collaboration
Comedy-Drama
TITLES and Continuities
$16 Detwiler Bldg.
Phone 665-09

"Service to Producer"
"Justice to Performer"

Special department for children; national types. The same care is given in the selection of the supporting atmosphere as is given to the cast.

The Service Bureau
1036 South Hill Street
General Phones: 821-071

Minor Blythe
Attorney-at-Law
Suite 620 Pacific Finance Bldg.
Los Angeles
Telephone 134-88

FROM U TO YOU
(Continued from Page 6)

Besides Miss Wong, the cast includes Matt Moore, Wallace Beery, J. Farrell McDonald, William V. Mong, Rose Diane and others of note. It is expected to surpass the Dean vehicles in the appeal of its polished artistry.

Reginald Denay, who a short time ago completed Jack London's "The Abysmal Brute" under Horkan Henley's direction, and who is now battling his way through six more two-reel classics of "The Leather Pushers" series, is essentially the fighting, red-blooded type.

Side by side on one Universal City stage Roy Stewart and William Desmond are starring in motion pictures of the North West and the Royal Mounted Police. Each plays a rough-cut hero of the outdoors with no sign of the dancing idol characteristics popular among screen heroes of the yellow-day. Stuart Paton directs. Stewart and Richard Stanton direct William Desmond.

Hoot Gibson has returned from a warm dash through the sun around San Diego and the Mexican border in "Blindy," a story of the cavalry and the making of a man, directed by Edward Sedgwick. Gibson is the world's champ horseman and has never shown a "softer" characteristic.

Jack Hoxie is masquerading before the camera as "Don Quickshot of the Rio Grande" under George Marshall's direction. There is nothing namby-pamby about the hard-hitting, fast-shooting "Don Quickshot."

Herbert Rawlinson, the screen's athletic hero of mystery romances, whose physique and training enable him to play "he-man" roles to perfection, will be in action in a few days in "Thicker Than Water," in which he will be directed by Edmund Mortimer.

Lloyd Bacon, son of the late Frank Bacon, famous character actor of the stage who scored such a tremendous hit in "Lichtin'," and himself a well known comedy director, has been engaged to direct single reel comedies for Universal. The comedies are featuring Walter Forde, a well-known English comedian. Production of the first will start at once.

The new Bacon unit is one of three which will be in operation under the general supervision of Tommy Gray, famous song writer, vaudeville actor and scenarist.

Gerald Beaumont, former sporting editor of The Oakland Tribune, and now one of the most famous writers of sporting fiction in America, is the latest author to hear the lure of the celluloid. Beaumont arrived two days ago at Universal City, where he will consult with scenarioists and directors, and personally collaborate in the direction of his stories of "The Informant Kid" and others of his celebrated characters.

Adeline M. Alvord
Authors' Representative

In exclusive control of unusual motion picture stories by English and French authors, which are now ready for consideration by producers and directors.

1720 GOWER STREET
Telephone Holly 484

Genuine
German
Mause

The latest model 9 shot automatic, Shockproof and seawater resistant—pistol point—World's finest.

Luger cal. .380

$12 95

Plus Postage

SAVING NO MONEY

$.99

Latest practical pistol—complete with 25 cal. Jacket Automatic—Blue Steel Army Matic 5.6 mm. cal. $10.05; Officer's Auto. Matic 5.6 mm. cal. $10.15; General's Auto. Matic 5.6 mm. cal. $10.75; Officer's Double Action 25 mm. Cal. $10.45; Officers' Automatic Pistolette 25 mm. Cal. $10.40; Officers' Automatic Knife with Red and Orange FREE. 100% Money back on any model returned. Blackrock, Top-Brake Reviol, 13¢; $6.65; $10.50; $14.50.

Universal Sales Co. 141 D'way, Dept. 17
New York City

YOUR PHONOGRAPH
will reproduce in soft Mellow Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a

Delexograph

Fits any Phonograph or Victrola.

Using Changeable Needles. Play any hours—will not disturb. Delexograph attaches to needle holder, filters sound oscillations, prevents scratch and surface noises entering sound box. No metallic noises.

GOLD PLATE 15¢

NICKEL PLATE 1.00

VANTONE CO., Dept. 416
110 W. 15th St.
New York, N. Y.

WANT ADS

WANT ADS

Please send your name, address and the kind of ads you want.

CAMERA

WANT ADS

Young gentleman, brilliant stenographer, desires position as secretary, preferably to a director or writer. Formerly staff secretary before entering university. Can give the best of references. Address Box W 239, "Camera."
JOIN WITH THE BEST
MOTION PICTURE PLAYERS ASSOCIATION, Inc.
Non-Profit Organization

An Old Idea with New Clothes
Monte West, Director General, Casting and Exploitation
Jack Carroll, Studio Representative
Open daily and Sunday, 7 a.m. to midnight
1614 Cahuenga Avenue
Hollywood, Calif.

Marion Warde
Acting and Make-Up for Stage and Motion Pictures. A Legitimate, Practical School of Results. Classical, Character, Ballet, and Step-Dancing.
423-4 Music Arts Bldg. Telephone 821-181
233 S. Broadway

ALLEN CURTIS
SHOE EMPORIUM
104 W. 3d Street
303 S. Main Street
215 S. Main Street
Fine Footwear for Men, Women and Children
We Buy in Large Quantities—Cost Us Less—Cost You Less

MOTION PICTURE STUDIO FOR RENT
Open Stage, 100' x 100'; Open Stage, 60' x 100'; Dark Stage, 125' long; 26 Dressing Rooms; Carpenter Shop; Paint Shop; Projection Room; Dark Room; Modern Office Building; Flats, Props. Can divide. Corner Venice Boulevard and Durango, near Culver Junction, Culver City. Open for inspection.
FRED L. HUNT, Owner
333 Title Insurance Bldg.
Broadway 695

WANTED: A PRODUCER
One that can handle strong melodramatic screen stories, produce the pep, and bring out the technique points from well written screen versions.
I have six vehicles which are protected by United States copyrights.
To such a producer I will offer the most liberal percentage.
Call or address Albert Du Lany, 300 H. W. Hellman Bldg., N. B. corner Fourth and Spring, Broadway 4522.

FROM YOU TO ME
Imagine walking about all day carrying a hundred pounds in dead weight!
If you can picture that, you may appreciate what Norman Kerry is undergoing at Universal City where he has to wear a suit of full armor in “The Hunchback of Notre Dame.”

First Kerry has to don a suit of mail, which completely covers all portions of his body, and over that he wears heavy steel breast, leg and thigh plates. The entire suit weighs one hundred pounds and to add to the discomfort, the actor’s body is kept perfectly rigid by the metal encasement.
Kerry’s suit of armor was carefully selected by Perley Poore Sheahan, who is supervising his adaptation of Victor Hugo’s romance, and Colonel Gordon Magee, technical director, who are both authorities on fifteenth century Paris.

Somebody discovered among the extras playing in a Siberian scene in “The Fog” the other day, no less a person than Floyd Oltzirch, much advertised ex-husband of Margaret Matzener. He says he likes the game and when “The Fog” is done he is going to Hollywood to try to break in.

LOOK!!
Here is Our Second Big Good-Will Offer! Your Photographs for the Casting Director are Our Specialty. Come in Today!

100 8x10’s
6 poses $30.00
12 8x10’s $6.00
12 Movie Specials $3.50

VICTORIA STUDIO
M. T. KACH, Mgr.
328½ South Spring Street Telephone Pico 3342

CAMERA

TAKING CHANCES
(Continued from Page 7)

might be lesser. He did announce that any cameraman who suggested a replacement of his own scene “just to make sure,” would be clubbed to death without a moment’s warning.

For even the experts have been known to make mistakes. And though Kenneth seems to have found death with death, he is averse to making the stunt a daily occurrence.

Victor Schertzinger, known to music lovers the nation over as a composer, to picture fans as an understanding director, and to his friends as a lover of children, is one of those individuals who is credited with a real understanding of the childish mind. It is probably due to this fact that he was sought as the director of Jackie Coogan’s next picture, “Long Live The King,” by Mary Roberts Rinehart. The arrangement was made by special agreement with J. P. Schulberg, who has consented to delay the making of the next Schertzinger production, “A Mansion of Aching Hearts,” in order to permit this association with the child-star.

The Holy Land seems to be growing rapidly in favor as a background for picture production. With C. B. de Mille proposing a trip to Palestine for the filming of his new picture, “The Ten Commandments,” Lawrence Weingarten discussing the plans for the making of a new series of Biblical pictures there, and another body of financiers announcing a series of scenes production to be “shot” there, the censors seem likely to lose their hold on our celluloid entertainment.

Ethel Shannon, filmman’s youngest starlet, has gone the King Tut fashion makers one better by obtaining an entire wardrobe of hand painted gowns. One striking negligence shows what seems to be a band of Egyptian natives chasing a lotus leaf down the bank of the Nile. Another appeared to be constructed of building blocks. Miss Shannon likes them, however, and insists that she knows what the strange figures mean.

All the World Losses a Lover, and “A Whisper” suggests a confidence.

Young or aged, single or wedded, you will find a revelation in “A Whisper by Master Thought to Wives and Husbands,” printed in two colors on antique paper, that will reveal the real path to right understanding and true happiness. “A Whisper” will prevent, will cure most of the mental ills, its good for all. “A Whisper” should be in every home, and fact in every hand. If you would learn to be really happy and make others happy—try this large and beautiful book for a minimum price of $1.50. This edition is superbly artistic and very limited. Send your order with check to S. A. S. COMPANY
343 S. Pacific Blvd.
Huntington Park, Calif.

HOOVER STUDIOS
6321 Hollywood Boulevard
Telephone Holly 9161

Only the Finest Types of Professional Photography
All Sittings Made by Appointment

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry" Page Twenty-one HOLLYWOOD AND RETURN
(Continued from Page 5)

"The first scene is where you and the lion meet."

I heard him all right, but realized that he was looking over in my direction. I wondered who he was talking to, however, so I looked behind me, and saw nobody, so I again realize, by this time he was talking to me, and I tried hard to answer him. That’s the way that came from my mouth meant nothing to the naked ear, but finally managed to say “When?”

As soon as I said that I knew I should have said “What.”

So I corrected myself very quickly. I was very nervous and was getting more so every second, in that I nearly noticed this, as I had no control over my lower limbs which were knocking together something terrible, so he explained the ownership, management, and the two people that were in the cage, the director yelling at me not to hurt Jerry, and I yelling at him to let me out. As I ran, I remembered the dressing room, and that the director told me it would be bad luck, so I made up my mind right there that if I got out of this thing alive I would stay away from the circus again.

Everything comes to an end, and when Jerry got me in a corner with no chance of escape I didn’t move, but was breathing very hard because I was nervous. But I finally came near, in fact too near, for when he got a whiff of the garlic I had eaten previously he fainted, doing a Chaplin grin as he hit the floor.

Seeing that Jerry was out temporarily the director took more or less scenes, in fact finished me in the picture. I asked the name of the picture, as that was most important to me, and was told it was to be called the "Lyon Pool." I then told the director how much I enjoyed acting for him, and he gave me five dollars for my work. Of course five dollars wasn’t much, but it was enough to give the manager of the Grand Theatre in Kokomo to run "The Lyon Pool" at his theatre, and that I would appear personally with it. I also sent a wire to my Dad for car-fare home, and told him to tell all my friends that I was a full-fledged movie actor, and they would see me soon, on the screen and off.

Three weeks later a train pulled into the station at Kokomo, and the whole town was there, as I was a passenger. The fire department and his assistant were there, with all the girls I ever knew and even a few more, the mayor and my folks. They were very proud of me, to have gone to Hollywood, returning to them a regular movie actor.

Of course I had to answer many foolish questions, but the worst one I believe was, "What kind of vaseline does Valentino use?" Of course I answered them as though I really knew what I was talking about, but anyhow everyone was glad to see me, and a parade followed in which they marched me down to the hotel, where a banquet was waiting. After the eats were devoured we all went to the Grand Theatre, and sure enough, there was a sign with my name on it. The hardships I had gone through in Hollywood were for some good after all, because now that I was started making personal appearances I would do the same in other towns.

The wonderful moment of my life had arrived when the manager made his speech introducing me, and telling all how proud they should be of one reared in their town. I came on the stage with my hat in hand as Frango had done, and a half-hour later, after the applause had discontinued, I told them how glad I was to be with them. I also told them that I would explain my part in the picture, and give the opening idea of the picture and start to work, which he did almost immediately. Sure enough there was the picture that I was in, but as the picture advanced I didn’t see myself in it. The audience didn’t either, evidently, for they yelled, “Where’s ya?”

“Where’s ya?” I answered, and thought the chances were they cut some of my first scenes out. After every picture is finished it is given to a film editor, who cuts the bad parts out to make it more presentable. By this time the picture was half over and I hadn’t appeared on the screen, and the audience giving me the well-known "raza" with variations.

Two things now thought that I never worked in a picture at all, but was just trying to kid them, and they didn’t hesitate to tell me what I must be thinking about. As we were yelling, I wished that I was any place but where I was, even the cage with Jerry would have been better. I was so confused now that I was thinking fast I remembered meeting the editor that cut this picture, and when I told him about going east and my plans, he laughed and asked me to go with him, and I bet with myself that he had cut me out of the picture.

For the first time in my life I was right, as the picture finished, all my friends gave me the horse-laugh and other things. I tried to explain, but there was so much noise it was useless, and jumping off the stage I ran through the audience ashamed of myself. They said I had made a thing disagreeable to hear, but as I reached the door, above every other wise crack I heard someone yell, "The yan’ fool."
Michael Tellegen

heavies characters

Call Fred W. Fox at Camera!

------

Hugh Hoffman
Scenario and Production Supervisor
Gladys Walton unit, Universal
Current production, "Sawdust"
Jack Conway, Directing
Recent Releases, "A Dangerous Game," "The Love Letter," "Gossip"

Raymond McKee
The Friars Club
New York City

Reproductions Still Finishing
LITTLE Commercial Photographer
5874 Hollywood Blvd. Corner Bronson

Animated Cartoons—Original Title Ideas—Clay Animation—Miniature Sets and Animated Figures

Cinema Arts Studio
ELMER H. YOUNG, Mgr.
612 Lissner Bldg. Phone 644-42

Location Lunches on Short Notice
KWIK LUNCH
Holly 7660
1626 Cahuenga Ave.
1714 Highland Ave. 7560 Sunset Blvd.

------

John Harron

Juveniles Male Leads

Telephone 563-76

------

Brown, Caldwell & Ladd

Photo Engravings

317 South Hill St.
Phone 635-51

------

Are You Coming East?
Don't fail to stop at the

NAT LEWIS SHOP
47th & Bdwy, New York City
Theatrical Outfitters, Haberdashery and Ladies' Hosiery

THEODORE HAYS
Is not a director, but he can give the director the action he wants.
Expert Horseman Complete Wardrobe
Main 525

"We save your sole and heel you too"
FRANK
The Shoe Doctor
Holly 3752 6666 Hollywood Blvd.

Walter Frederick Seely
Shadowed Photography
1448 North Wilcox
(One-half block west of Cahuenga at Sunset)
Telephone 439-774

Prompt Efficient Thorough
NATIONAL TAILORING CO.
1718 Highland Ave. Phone 379-185
In assuming responsibility for the success of the American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition, more tersely referred to as the “Monroe Doctrine Centennial,” the Motion Picture Industry has taken an important step towards becoming definitely and permanently identified with the civic destiny of Los Angeles. The people of this city have implicit confidence that the Industry will stage one of the most entertaining and spectacular expositions ever held in America. The entire city of Los Angeles has assumed, as a matter of course, that the Exposition will be an unqualified success if the Motion Picture Industry is back of it. This is a compliment to the Industry which should not be taken lightly by those who are at the head of affairs in Filmdom.

All great expositions are predicated upon some momentous event in history; and this one is no exception. Hence the name, “Monroe Doctrine Centennial.” When President Monroe promulgated his famous doctrine Los Angeles was a sleepy little Spanish settlement completely foreign to the sturdy American republic then heroically struggling to hold aloft the banner of Liberty and Territorial Independence in the Western Hemisphere. No one living in that age, on either the Atlantic or Pacific coast, dreamed of the wonderful transformation the little City of the Angels was to undergo during the hundred years to come. And now, at the ending of the greatest century in all history, Los Angeles, grown into a world metropolis, is selected to be hostess on the momentous occasion of celebrating the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine. And immediately Los Angeles proves her confidence and faith in the Motion Picture Industry by intrusting to its leaders the full management of this historic function.

It is not necessary to add that this faith is not misplaced. The Motion Picture Industry will prove to be more than equal to the task.

Fill out this blank application and mail to Exposition Department, 1005 Hollingsworth Bldg., Sixth and Hill Sts., Los Angeles.

Patron's Application

THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVUE AND MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION

For the purpose of taking part in the First Annual American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Industrial Exposition to be held in the City of Los Angeles during the year 1923 in commemoration of the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine. I hereby make application for Patron's Coupon Book... of Admission Tickets to the Revue and Exposition, for which I agree to pay the sum of ten dollars each, payments to be made as follows:

..................................................
Dated......192... Signed

Occupation........................................................................................................
Address...........................................................................................................

Make All Checks Payable to Motion Picture Exposition
Mickey McBann
"POOR MEN'S WIVES" AT THE KINEMA THEATER
B. P. SCHULBERG PRODUCTION, DIRECTED BY LOUIS J. GASNIER
Martha Marshall

INGENUE AND SOCIETY PARTS

Telephone 439-801

Old As The Hills
doesn’t necessarily mean antique. If you are looking for antique furniture, works of art, bronzes, statues and bric-a-brac that is genuine and authentic come to our big establishment IN HOLLYWOOD and look over our superb collection.

We buy, sell, rent and exchange. Our prices are moderate, and when you deal with us you are assured of prompt and unexcelled service AT ALL TIMES.

Foster’s
ANTIQUE SHOP

4534 Hollywood Blvd.    Phone 598-030
From Within the Editorial Sanctuary

If you want to see a lot, go on any studio lot.

The trouble with too much continuity is it continues too long.

And the Wampas "wamped" again, "wampingly" and triumphantly.

Culver City is growing. Reason: all of its studios are going—full blast.

The price of carpet sweepers is going up. Just to help clean out the family man?

It is to be hoped the Protectionists won't get the wrong impression and try to ban "Captain Applejack."

Fortune smiles on the cinema as never before. May the cinema smile back with ever-increasing quality.

L. A. stands for a lot more than Los Angeles. It stands for more dangerous criminals than it should.

Maybe there will be four or five new theatres built in Hollywood all at once. Evidently what is meant is ample amusement.

Misunderstanding! Ye gods, will human beings never learn to understand each other? We've been misunderstood so much this week that we can't understand it at all!

It begins to look as if even the most confirmed pessimist will be forced to look up to the wholesome, prosperous conditions now obtaining in the motion picture industry.

During the early part of a late photoplay, the climax of the story comes too soon and so the chances of success for the film goes before it's well started. Thus it goes.

Universal has reached a high crest of activity with something like thirty companies working. Better still this top-crest tendency is getting more and more universal every day.

If you are not actively boosting the forthcoming Motion Picture Exposition, you are overlooking a chance to help boost the greatest amusement project ever essayed in Southern California.

After producing a picture called "The Real Thing," Johnnie Walker licked the director he hired to do the picture. Perchance he wanted to be sure of having the real thing in all ways possible.

There is an agitation against calling the screen the screen. Shadow stage is claimed to be more elegant. What's the difference what you call it so long as the pictures projected on it are good?

Someone suggests making a picture under the title of "Don't Mention It to Your Wife." In most cases, a man couldn't mention much of anything to his wife without being accused of being rude for interrupting her.

Society girls are becoming more numerous in pictures every day and in many cases are making good as actresses. Is it that they just naturally know how to act? All society girls do—in society, or else, they wouldn't stay in it.

Kings will continue to occupy their share of the screen. Wallace Beery will show us more of the character of Richard, the Lion-hearted and Alan Hale will play king in Jackie Coogan's first Metro feature, "Long Live the King." Indeed his Royal Highness may not be as popular in Europe as he used to be, but he's sure going to make a brave fight to retain his prestige on the screen.

William Humphrey, the well-known director who is now acting for a change (and of course the change) in "Scaramouche," is of the opinion that nick-names would be better if abolished. Although he admits they generally denote endearment, he believes a discontinuance of the use of them would aid in improving our manner of talking by encouraging people to stop corrupting the English language. Now, Bill, you don't expect us to ever stop calling you Bill, do you, Bill?
TECHNICOLOR

Motion Pictures in Color

Now Available to the Producer for Prologues - Inserts

Episodes - Titles

No Limitation on Action or Type of Sets
Double Exposures, Dissolves and Stop Motion
Prices on Application

Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation
C. A. Willat, Manager
Hollywood 4470
1116 Lodi Street Hollywood, Calif.
"Selected Pictures" of Interest to Everyone Interested in Any Way in Motion Pictures

That there are 702 motion pictures of 1574 submitted to the National Board of Review during 1922 and now available, which constitutes work while entertainment is revealed by the 1922-23 catalog entitled "Selected Pictures" just issued. This catalog, which is compiled by the National Committee for Better Films, affiliated with the National Board at 70 Fifth Avenue, New York, lists pictures of feature length, short comedies, scenes, cartoons, reviews and various entertainment-educational chosen by the disinterested volunteer committees of the Board at the time the pictures come before for possible editing and action as to passage.

Exhibitors, schools, churches, community houses and others using motion pictures and this catalog valuable, as do also libraries, clubs, better films committees and the individual motion picture."Every effort has been made," writes the secretary of the committee, "to make this catalog accurate and serviceable. The name and address of the producer or distributor from whom the films can be obtained is given, the number of reels, the "star" or "stars," a brief description or characterization of each film and the published source when not based on an original scenario. This information is of particular interest to schools and libraries. The catalog will be revised annually, and we do not expect everyone to agree with these selections—as people's opinions differ so much on motion pictures—it is nevertheless the testimony of those who use our catalogs and supplementary lists year after year, that the selections are reliable.

In this connection I should point out that one of the most valuable features of the catalog is its designation of age-group suitability for each film listed. 340 films suitable for young people, in age from 12 up and 10 up, are specially marked, thus affording a guide to the selection of pictures for special young people entertainments and for the patrimony of the home, as supervised by careful parents. These are the ideal 'family group' films, as everyone both young and old can enjoy them together. Most of the remainder we say are also suitable for the family group, where children are accompanied by intelligent adults who can explain pictures and regulate their attendance with a thought to the child's temperament and development. Only eight of the films listed in the catalog are advised for strictly adult audiences only.

"Thus, by means of the catalog and our Photoplay Guide issued weekly and monthly, which supplements it, people can be apprised, in advance of seeing them, of the better pictures, while another publication, "Exceptional Photoplays," supplied under our popular plan of membership, will actually contribute to their enjoyment and appreciation of the inner pictures critically reviewed in its pages. Just as one must hear good music and then study it, in order to thoroughly enjoy it, so must one see the films listed in our catalog and Photoplay Guide, then study and analyze them (as can be done by reading 'Exceptional Photoplays'), in order to discriminate and fully appreciate the best. A quarter only sent to us by mail will procure the catalog for anyone anywhere in the country, for free, postpaid, or we will send on request copies of our three monthly membership publications—The Photoplay Guide and Exceptional Photoplays, illustrated, and an interesting bulletin-magazine for members exclusively entitled Film Progress. Membership in the National Committee is on a popular basis, open to anyone who wishes to join."

Communications should be addressed to the secretary of the National Committee for Better Films at 70 Fifth Avenue, New York City. Officers of the Committee are: Clarence A. Perry, chairman, Associate Director Dr. William Russell Perry, Secretary; W. D. McGuire, vice-chairman, executive secretary National Board of Review of Motion Pictures; Dr. Myron T. Scudder, head of the Scudder School for Girls; and Alice Belton Evans, secretary of the Committee. Members-at-large of the executive board comprise leaders in social and civic work, educators, ministers, clubwomen, etc.

The membership creed of the National Committee is as follows: I BELIEVE that the best way to improve motion pictures is to select, patronize and advertise the best. I BELIEVE—

In special performances for boys and girls and special "family nights." In educating parents to study their children and to regulate their attendance at motion pictures with intelligent care.

I BELIEVE in the maintenance of the highest standards in the conduct of the motion picture theatres which I will attend. I BELIEVE in telling the exhibitor when I like his program and why, as well as when I don't like his program and why. I BELIEVE in the motion picture theatre as a community institution and in community cooperation with the exhibitor.

I BELIEVE in the value of educational, cultural and recreational values of the screen, and in my own ability to add a little to the forces working for its constant elevation.

Can Screen Adaptations Ever Satisfy Authors?

"Yes," says Creator of 'Brass'

"I came prepared to curse. I came away pleased and marveling a bit." In these words Charles G. Norris, author of "Brass," the best-seller that deals with marriages and divorces, describes his reaction before and after attending the première showing of the screen adaptation of his novel.

So enthusiastic did he become watching his puppets live on the silver screen that he wrote, in the first flush of pleasure, to Harry Rapf, the producer, "I tell you, Harry, I have never laughed so much in my life!"

Mr. Norris had made the transcontinental trip from California to New York City for the express purpose of sitting in the darkened theatre auditorium and observing his story of modern American life in celluloid version.

"I reached New York," he explains, "and the first thing I did was to go and see 'Brass.' I confess I went with some trepidation. I had no idea how I should like my 'child' in other clothes, but I confess I was pleasantly surprised. The reason, I think, is there, and what more has an author a right to ask. On the whole, I think you have made 'Brass' a big picture and I congratulate you."

By thus revealing the pleasure the photography afforded him, Mr. Norris proves himself an exception to the general rule. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, authors experience emotion ranging from contempt to disgust when viewing the mutilations and changes suffered by their brain children at the hands of motion picture producers. This proceeding sometimes so far that their work is unrecognizable.

His stamp of approval on this Warner Brothers classic of the screen sets a fashion of a profession that can only be for the best in its influence upon motion pictures. It would be easy to find the novel in the hands of writers who forsake the silver screen medium as hopeless, or who sell the movie rights to their novels as a drug of indifference and never take the trouble to see their finished product on the silent sheet. That this novelist could sanction the film version is a tribute to the care and skill of those responsible for this production directed by Sidney Franklin.

Norris, as he himself puts it, is a harsh critic, particularly where his own work has been altered or edited.

"For an author to see his puppets that have originated in his mind and lived there, he reads with trepidation setting on the screen is a hard, tough and may I say, at best an unpardonable experience. In many ways you have accomplished the impossible—you have transferred the spirit, the lesson, the purpose of the book on to the screen. In places it is a beautiful picture. In spots, it has moments of bigness. Never is it bad. Let me say here that I am a harsh critic, particularly where my own work has been altered or edited, and so, what I have said of the photoplay you have made of 'Brass' is high praise from me."

Much of the picture's success he attributes to Irene Rich, whose successful playing of the role of Mrs. G. won her a long period of contact with Warner Brothers following the release of the picture.

Fred Thomson, world's champion all-round athlete and latest advent into the ranks of screen actors, will not appear before the camera for several days, as the result of a peculiar and spectacular accident that marred one of his sensational "stunts." Thomson, in attempting to swing on a rope between two buildings at Seventh and Main Streets, lost his hold, and was jerked to the limit of the slack of the rope, and suffered a badly sprained ankle.

Department was doing the rough stuff as a feature of "The Eagle's Talons," being produced as a chapter mystery play at Universal City.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., April 15th.—Zasu Pitts has been confined to her apartment at the Fairmount Hotel most of the past week with a bad attack of tonsillitis, but she now is improving, and hopes to be able to begin work in a few days in Eric Von Stroheim's production of "Greed."

Marjorie Bennett, sister of Emil Bennett, and herself a star of the stage and screen, arrived in San Francisco from Australia on the “Sonsia” last Tuesday. She, during the last year in Australia, has been leading woman for Louis Bussinon, well-known American actor in his play, "Benvenue." Miss Bennett spent part of her short stay in town seeing her sister Edith in "Robin Hood," and later went on to Los Angeles for a visit with her mother and sister.

Gibson Gowland is now playing the dentist in "McTeague's" very life-like office on Von Stratten's set of "San Francisco," and kept the camera people, where the picture is making fine progress. Off the set Gowland probably attracts more attention than any other man in San Francisco, as McTeague had to be a blonde, so he has had his fine and curly crop of hair bleached a wonderful light, bright yellow, with the result that he looks like a very large and lively yellow cymothocean.

Leigh Smith, assistant director on "The Fog," has finished his work here and went to Los Angeles on Thursday night.

On the bill at the New Portola Theatre last week was a most delightful travelogue of Holland made by the Castle Films Corporation of San Francisco, who have offices in the Spreckles Building. The Castle Films have been making good and successful travelogues and educational pictures for several years, but so modest is the management, and so successfully have they hidden their light under a bushel that few people in San Francisco even know there is such an organization. Judging, however, from this picture their output is well worth seeing.

Al Christie of Christie Comedy fame, Dorothy Devere, Vera Steadman, Hadden, assistant director, and several other members of the company went last Saturday in San Francisco en route to Westwood, a lumber camp in the mountains, where they will do location work for the next Christie Comedy.

N. Rapapornovich, head of the West Coast Films, went to Los Angeles on Thursday last to spend the week-end and attend to some business for the company.

Mildred Harris having finished her work in "The Fog," which the Great Productions are just completing at the Pacific Studios at San Mateo, left for New York last Monday night. She will go to London for a short holiday, and return to play the lead in the Graf's next production, "The Grain of Dust."

Robert Warwick beloved of cinemus as well as stage fans, made his first appearance Sunday last as a visiting star at the Fulton Theatre in Oakland. The present play is "The Masquerader," to be followed by several others during which period he will be seen in five of the known directors in film, charming voice, and good acting won him a very warm reception in his first appearance in this part of the country in several years.

(Continued on Page 21)

From U to You
By BEN WESTLAND

TONI SANTSCHI has been signed for the "beauty" role in the new play soon to be made at Universal City under the direction of Harry Garson, famous as the producer of Clara Kimball Young's best known films. The play, a story of Java, will present J. Warren Kerrigan and Anna Q. Nilsson in the leading roles. The title has not been decided upon yet.

"The Daughter of Crooked Alley," one of the best known stories of Jack Boyle, has been purchased for screen use, according to announcement at Universal City. This is one of the "Boston Blackie" stories, several of which have proven decided screen hits. Adrian Johnson is now working on the continuity, and an all-star cast is to be assembled for the production.

Walter Whitman, one of the pioneer character actors of the screen and who is perhaps best remembered as the priest in "Hearts of the World," has been engaged to play the role of Father O'Shea in "McGuire of the Mounted," a production of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, starring William Desmond, now being made at Universal City.

"McGuire of the Mounted" is an original story by Raymond L. Schrock, head of the Universal story department, and was written especially for Desmond. It is Desmond's first starring vehicle under his new contract with Universal which calls for feature production only.

With preliminary research work practically finished, designing of costumes and scenery for Frances Hodgson Burnett's "A Lady of Quality," is about to be commenced at Universal City under the direction of Frances McDonald. The story is to get the quaint story of the London of 1790. An important cast will be chosen, in which Virginia Valli will be introduced, and also Milton Silva.

Ann Little and Herbert Fortier, photoplay favorites, and Al Wilson, famous "stunt aviator," had narrow escape from injury. Bill Noble, cameraman, was partially injured and his valuable camera damaged, and Duke Worne, director, caught a flying greece cup neatly by his left eye, as the result of an odd mishap in one of the "stunts" filmed at Universal City.

The actors were in an automobile that was to have sped over a specially made track covering a pit in which the camera was placed, on a level with the ground.

Following the accident repairs were made in the auto, camera and cameraman's scalp and the "stunt" repeated successfully.

Jack Dillon, who directed Mary Pickford in "Suds," and who has directed many other notable screen successes, has been engaged by Universal to direct the "Self Made Wife," which will be produced with an all-star cast. Production has just started.

"The Self Made Wife" was written as a serial for the Saturday Evening Post by Elizabeth Alexander, and later published in book form. It was adapted to the screen by Edward T. Lowe, who wrote the continuity for "Under Two Flags," "The Prisoner" and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame."

Among the well known screen players who have already been chosen for the cast of "The Self Made Wife" are Ethel Gray Terry, Crawford Kent, Virginia Valli, Dorothy Cummins.

Mary Philip, whose clever characterization of the little girl in "Old MacDonald Had a Farm" furnished one of the surprises of the season at Universal City, is to have an important role in "A Lady of Quality." This was announced yesterday by Herbert Holnay, who is to direct the play. Miss Philip will be seen in support of Virginia Valli in the new picture.

"A Lady of Quality" is a filminization of the famous novel by Frances Hodgson Burnett, and will be presented at Universal City by a large and important cast, and in an elaborate setting of historical as well as technical interest.

The world's youngest film star has "arrived." She's not quite four years old yet—but she's now a "great big star," with one of the best known directors in filmland. She won it all through clever acting.

This is the news from Universal City, with the announcement that Baby Peggy is to make her debut in a big feature play. Raymond L. Schrock, scenario editor at Universal City, and King Baggot, famous actor and director, are now engaged on the story in which she is to play, and King baggot himself is to direct the picture. It is to be released as Universal Jewel photoplay. The title has not been announced yet. A big cast of well known grown-up actors and actresses will swell the diminutive star in a seven or eight-reeler special.

(Continued on Page 22)
Artists in Springtime and Miss Dupont for One Time
By RAY H. LEEK

This is the season of the year when screen idols, stage players and literary lights are journeying here to plant and prune the fig trees, delving into vineyards and irrigating their orange groves.
Visitors at the film capital daily report the conflicting sensations resulting from a glimpse of the romantic Bert Lytell hoeing potatoes, Barbara La Marr shaking a table cloth over a back porch, or Charlie Chaplin in the very serious business of looking into the possibilities of city property.
Just now the conversion of a modern Apollo to domesticity is the wonder of those who make up the "seeing-filmland" tours. For Orville Caldwell, the six-feet-three of muscular activity whom Morris Gest called "a modern reincarnation of Apollo," and whom Elinor Glyn calls "the most physically perfect man of stage or screen," is engaged in the completion of a pretentious foothill home and the setting out of the ever-present shrubbery that is of greater importance than the mere house here.
In the semi-privacy of overhanging trees, Caldwell's bulk has been glimpsed in the rear of his house in the same abbreviated costume that made him famous as a discus thrower and all-round athlete during his university days at Oakland, a few years ago. And those who have been curious enough to peep between the trees insist that the domesticated Caldwell is just as interesting as the romantic figure in "Meece" which first attracted the attention of Miss Glyn and several million women who saw him in person or in the widely circulated pictures of the picturesque sultan of the extravaganza.
Miss Dupont, she of the economical name but unstinted allurement to the masculine eye, is in the latest to sign a B. P. Schulberg contract. Although the present contract is merely for one role—an important one in the Tom Forman Production of "The Broken Wing"—it has been the occasion for numerous rumors.
"Is Miss Dupont called 'the most beautiful blonde in America,' often characterized as a 'more vivacious edition of Katherine MacDonald,' being groomed to follow in the footsteps of the retired Katherine?"
The youthful producer, however, has failed thus far to enlighten those asking the question. It is known, however, that when he concluded the contract under which Miss MacDonald was starred a few weeks ago, he announced his intention not to make any more "star pictures." He has kept his promise, thus far, by concentrating on productions like "Shadows," "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" and "The Hero," in which all the roles were assigned to players who seemed best to fit the parts.
**
Good news for the boys—those whose ages range from six to sixty. A local statistician has just reported that not fewer than six pirate pictures either are under way or are about to be filmed. Captain Kidd will figure in person, or under some casual recognizable alias, in all of them.
Probably the most important of the cutlass crew will be Doug Fairbanks, who is letting his hair grow to the proper piratical length in anticipation of his contribution to the series of swashbucklers.
**
One way to gauge the activities in picture productions is to watch the transactions in favored players. During the halls of the summer months the agencies that handle these loans usually report no re-
(Continued on Page 20)
A bathing suit.
A letter of introduction.
A Broadway stage success.
All of these have been the medium by which pretty girls have gotten onto the screen.

But Marie Campbell chose a typewriter. She told about it yesterday between scenes at the United studios where she is doing her first in Maurice Tourneur's "The Brass Bottle."

"I had four years coaching in dramatics when I was in the Waco High School," she said. "I took part in all of the high school plays and later in dramatic society presentations at the University of Minnesota. My teachers urged me to go on the stage or the screen."

"Girls who had tried told me how hard it was to attract attention to themselves at a auditions. I resolved to prove I had talent."

"I spent two years in Oklahoma as secretary to a bank president in Sepulpa, and a Y. W. C. A. secretary in Tulsa. Then one day I heard an advertisement. The week I quit my job and came to Los Angeles."

Once here Miss Campbell made the rounds of the studios, seeking a place as secretary to a studio executive. She got it.

For two years Miss Campbell was secretary to M. C. Levee, president of the United studios. She made the acquaintance of producers and directors by the score. She handled scenarios. She watched pictures in the making. She became familiar with all departments of the studio, with all the details of production.

Those were two bad years for pictures. There was little production. But Miss Campbell had a good salary.

Business picked up. The script of "The Brass Bottle" passed through Miss Campbell's hands on its way to Mr. Levee. It had an opportunity in the part of the maid, for a beginner: an opportunity which would allow of recognition on the screen.

Miss Campbell asked for a chance and got it. She left the typewriter for the make-up box. She has a bit, a good bit. She can get an audience with directors and producers. She has assurance of enough work to keep her busy.

Her typewriter made a place on the screen for her.

Calling Feminine Slackers Downright Parasites

"Today there would be much less unhappiness and fewer divorces if the man who really loves his wife and daughters would, instead of trying to keep them in idleness as a sop to his own vanity, see to it that they do their share of constructive and interesting work."

Thus did Ida McGlone Gibson, noted author and war correspondent, sum up the modern domestic upheaval which is sending husbands and wives in veritable droves to the divorce courts throughout the land.

Mrs. Gibson was prompted to discuss the feminine slackers by the role her son, Kenneth Gibson, is playing in "Day's Wit's," an F. E. O. production which plays in scenes of stirring drama the pampered and petted wives of all the rich who neglect their husbands and spend their time at bridge tables and jazz palaces where lowered lights and lounge lizards are the chief attraction.

"Every foreigner who comes over here," continued Mrs. Gibson, "is greatly surprised to find that most American men consider it a disgrace to let the women of their households work. It is every man's ambition to make his wife and daughters only walking advertisements of his business acumen and prosperity."

"Consequently, although she does not own it to herself, it is the ambition of every mother to marry her daughter to a leering, a limousine, if not a steam yacht, with all the accompanying appurtenances of great wealth."

The man doesn't count very much, provided he has the money to make greenback plasters for his deficiencies.

"It has always seemed to me that those ancient writers of tradition who, when describing the lives of our first father and mother after they had, through idleness and its attendant vices, been expelled from the Garden of Eden, made a great mistake.

"They intimated that work was a curse. In the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread until thou return to the ground," was a part of the supposed curse put upon humanity.

"It was not a curse, but a splendid privilege that God gave to man when He made him eat his bread by work instead of picking up his sustenance from the foot of the tree.

"To bear many a young married woman talk you would think that she was the most injured individual in all the world because she is made to do her own housework when she is married."

Movies and Millions—They Go Together

The day when a producer may spend as much as a million and a half dollars, and wisely, on a single picture, is approaching in the opinion of Joseph M. Schenck, film magnate, whose stupendous expenditures as producer of Norma Talmadge, Constance Talmadge and Buster Keaton photoplays in the past, give weight to his predictions.

Picture expenditures, thinks Schenck, is "in its infancy." Mr. Schenck at present is spending more than half a million dollars on one picture, "Ashes of Vengeance." One scene do the sixteenth century French costume drama cost more than $100,000 to build and film.

"The expenditure on superproductions is not going to stop within the limited capacity of the cinema to get results," says Schenck. "A picture is worth every cent the returns justify."

Schenck was one of the few producers bold enough to declare publicly that "Dough." Fairbanks was justified in spending a million on "Robin Hood" if it showed in results.

Schenck looks forward to the time when superfetion will enjoy continuous runs of two and three years, like the biggest of the stage successes.

A new era in the showing of pictures is at hand, according to the producer of Talmadge and Keaton films. An era when the real big films will play the big city theatres from three months to a year or more and then be taken on the road like stage plays. Ordinary program pictures then will have their first run at neighborhood picture houses.

Of course these great "more than a million" productions will necessitate the charging of higher prices of admission.

"There's no need to worry about the public's willingness to pay such higher prices," says Schenck. "It already has demonstrated its willingness to pay higher for superior things in films."

"In spite of the thousands of screen actors that have been developed, there is a scarcity of real talent," he says. "Perhaps there always will be, because the screen is more exacting in the appearance of actors. On the stage a woman of 35 may very well make up to create the illusion of 20. But that can't be done on the screen. A young woman is more or less an older woman when she must have a girl of 20 play a character of her own age."

That technical advancement of the films has outstripped the other branches, and the producer expects that further development must come more gradually.
EXPOSITION CONSTRUCTION IS SPEEDED AS DEMAND FOR EXHIBIT SPACE INCREASES

TO FILM WILDEST OF UNCLE SAM'S WILD 'UNS

America's least civilized inhabitants are to become motion picture players. They live in the Tonto Basin, Arizona, and will play in the mob scenes in the filming of Zane Grey's famous novel "To the Last Man." Mr. Grey, who will supervise the production of the epic scene, is to leave Leslie, the director, and Lucien Hubbard, production editor, have left Hollywood for Tonto Basin, where they will look over the ground.

The actual production will begin April 30, and the cast will journey 100 miles by horseback into this rugged valley from Payson, the nearest railway station. The story is that of a feud between shepherds and cattlemen in which both factions were wiped out literally to the "last man." The tale is based on fact and the actors in this drama of the primitive west will include descendants of this last man.

The country where the picture will be filmed is said to be the most rugged in America. It abounds in big game and is heavily timbered on the ridges which in some places rise sheer above the valley for several thousands of feet.

Mr. Grey wrote the story at his ranch in the Tonto Basin and will provide the tame bears, several horses and sheep for use in the making of the picture.

This will be the first of Mr. Grey's novels to be produced by Paramount under Mr. Grey's contract which arranges for the production of photoplays from all his current and future works.

HAS FIRST NATAL DAY PARTY AT LATE DATE

Scott R. Beall (Scotty) was host at the first birthday party of his life last Saturday. Members of the cast of "The Brass Bottle" and of the staff of Maurice Tourneur Productions filled the parlor of his home at 1333 North Ridgewood while he was away on an emergency call to Mr. Tourneur's home. "Scotty" is assistant director and production manager of Maurice Tourneur Productions.

"A member of a theatrical family, I've been on the move all my life and hardly ever have lived long enough in one place to become acquainted with people, so that they would know my birthday," Mr. Beall declared after he had recovered from his surprise. He was presented with a silk bouquet by the cast and staff and a gold wrist watch by Mr. Tourneur.

Among those present, besides members of his family and relatives, were Mr. Tourneur, Harry Myers, Charlotte Merriam, Ford Sterling, Arthur L. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Menasco, Louise Lester, Fred Pelton, Nan Collins, Aggie Herring, Charissa Selwyn, Edna May Strauss, Buddy Erickson, Anna Manee, Wesley Jones and Frank Evans.

Christie Girl III

Hazel Deane, new Christie leading lady, is seriously ill at the Chara Barton hospital, suffering from peritonitis. She was taken sick suddenly on the day when a new picture was to be started.

With James Cruze's production, "Hollywood," nearing completion at the Lasky Studio, Paramount has announced the complete list of players who will appear in this picture. Among those who will have conspicuous parts in the unfolding of the drama is Mr. Cruze himself, but the producer of "The Covered Wagon" will not be able to be the sole representative of the directorial profession, for Cecil B. DeMille, director general of Paramount, and Alfred E. Green, producer of all of Thomas Meighan's latest pictures, we recently completed the production of Rex Bech's "The Never Do Well," both being their debuts as screen actors.

In no sense propaganda or, on the other hand, a travelogue, or "trip to the movie studios," this picture, Paramount states, is a straight human-interest drama, adapted by Tom J. Geraghty from Frank Condon's absorbingly interesting novel, "Hollywood, and the Only Child." The theme undoubtedly carries the most widely popular appeal for the average picture audience that could be conceived, for it is the intimate drama of the hopes and aspirations and the trials and disappointments of a girl whose consuming ambition is to gain fame and fortune in the movies—the prototype of perhaps a million screen-struck American girls not only of the small town but of the big city.

The four or five dominate characters are played by people unknown to screen audiences but all carefully chosen for types by Director Cruze. All of them, moreover, have had previous stage experience.
TECHNICOLOR HAS COME WEST TO MAKE FILM

Unusual interest has been manifested among movie folk over the announcement the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation of Boston has established a new laboratory in the Western section of the country, under the management of C. A. Willat, brother of Irvin Willat, who has been employed in the business for the past eighteen years. The Technicolor process has been in development for the past seven years, and according to reports will cost $1,500,000 has been spent in perfecting it. The personnel responsible for its development is composed of Dr. Herbert T. Kalman, formerly Professor of Physics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Queen's University of Canada; Dr. Daniel T. Comstock, who also was a Professor of Physics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. Troland, president of the American Optical Society and associate professor of Harvard University; Dr. Proctor, professor at Dartmouth College; Mr. Weaver, and Mr. Pollitz, graduates of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and C. A. Willat.

The first picture shown by the Technicolor company was "The Gulf Between," which was exhibited to be shown in the houses of Klaw & Erlanger. At that time a special projector was necessary for the screening of these pictures, and it was not possible to exhibit in a motion picture theater. Since that time they have worked on the process until today they can show their films in any cinema house. This was accomplished a year ago and the process is known as Technicolor exhibition. "Toll of the Sea," which was released through Metro and is now reported to be enjoying an extensive run throughout the country. Technicolor is now establishing itself here to offer its process to producers. They also intend to produce a complete picture here for autumn exhibition. It is interesting to note that the Technicolor process has no limitations as to double exposure, dissolving, or stop motion, and its action is in this same as that of an ordinary camera. The local establishment is under the direction of Mr. Willat and Mr. Ball, and their management should enjoy rapid expansion.

Mae Busch Wins Again

Victor Seastrom has chosen the one American motion picture. The noted Scandinavian director has selected as his heroine to play Besse, the percipient heroine of "The Master of Man." It will be Mae Busch's second Caine heroine. She went to England with Maurice Tourneur to play Gloria Quifle in "The Christian."
LEW CODY ADDED TO GOLDWYN'S STAR LIST

Lew Cody is the latest celebrity to be added to the ever increasing Goldwyn stock company. Announcement was made this week that a long-term contract had been signed with the star in New York, where he is now playing in a picture.

Cody's excellent work as the villain in Rupert Hughes' "Souls for Sale" is responsible for his engagement. He will return to the coast as soon as he completes his present engagement and will have an important role in one of the big productions now in preparation.

Cody has been in pictures for nine years and has been starring and featured most of the time. He has played for nearly all the leading companies. Before going on the screen he was a well-known stage actor in New York and in stock. He was born in Berlin, N. Y., and graduated at McGill University, Montreal.

The Goldwyn Studios have created a sensation in film circles by the signing of such a large number of distinguished players. The stock company now consists of the following: Frank Mayo, Mae Busch, Claire Windsor, Eleanor Boardman, Helen Chadwick, Raymond Griffith, James Kirkwood, George Walsh, Hobart Bosworth, Conrad Nagel, Patsy Ruth Miller, Kate Lester, William Haines, Cecil Holland, Lucien Littlefield, Aileen Pringle, Katherine Conrad, Ralph Murphy, Mrs. Haver,and the latest addition, Lew Cody.

LURE OF HOLLYWOOD DEPRIVES HOLLAND OF PLAY

Because motion pictures are made in Hollywood, the people of Holland, Holland, will not be able to see Peer Gynt this year.

Although this statement may seem strange to some and unimportant to others, it bears a deep significance because it means that the great actor of the theater field is being drawn upon for artists and artjans by the American film industry.

Six months ago, Svend Gade, celebrated Danish producer and designer, came to America from Copenhagen, Denmark, to stage "Johannes Krieger," rated as the most unique and revolutionary theatrical productions ever seen on Broadway where it enjoyed a long run this season.

When Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford were in New York last fall, Miss Pickford decided to engage Svend Gade to design the settings for her next production because he had brought something new to the theater and she believed he could do likewise for the screen.

Gade is now busy on designs for sets for the new Pickford picture.

"Film work is so new and so interesting," said Gade, "that I have decided to remain a long time in Hollywood."

And that is why the people of Amsterdam, Holland, will not see Peer Gynt this year.

Gade was under contract to produce this famous Ibsen play at the Royal theatre in Amsterdam, where it was to be presented for an unlimited run, starting May first. Because of his desire to remain in America, the Peer Gynt production has been postponed a year.

COMEDIAN GETS SHOCK IN FORM OF GOLD MINE

Returning from Balboa, California, where he had been "shooting" scenes for his forthcoming Fox production, Al St. John, comedy star, arrived in Hollywood recently to learn that he was the owner of a potential gold mine. For the past nine years the comedian has been associated with a syndicate of Los Angeles players who had been buying city and farm properties in California, and St. John gave power of attorney to his associates recently when he expected to be away from the city for several days. During the comedian's absence, the syndicate purchased an eighty-acre tract of land which at one time was considered a valuable gold claim, and at Al's suggestion the group will now endeavor to rejuvenate the once-famous property. A crew of miners will be dispatched to the discovery with in the next thirty days and a new shaft will be sunk to bed-rock.

CALL FOR IRISH TYPES

DREW MOTLEY MOB OF 'EM

The Fine Arts Studio was Shermaned this week by a mob that gave the appearance of a Hollywood invasion by Irish insurrectionists. The cause was a call sent out by Director Fred Caldwell for Irish types to appear in the comedy feature he is about to start, entitled "Hogan in Hollywood," an original story by J. Stewart Woodhouse.

Inasmuch as the script calls for a whole Irish family, the mob varied from old men and women down to babies in arms, and there was a constant flow of sons and daughters of Erin into the offices of the Caldwell company from nine a.m. until five o'clock.

Mr. Caldwell says he doesn't expect to be able to talk without a brogue for a week or ten days.

MISS NORMAND TO PLAY "EXTRA GIRL"

Mabel Normand, inimitable comedienne of the cinema, is one of the brightest stars of the present day. And she has plenty of work to look forward to, for while she is at present starring in "The Extra Girl," plans are already being formulated for the next big production of "Mary Anne," immediately upon the completion of the present vehicle. Both stories are from the pen of Mack Sennett and ideally suited to Miss Normand's individuality.

The story of "The Extra Girl," embodies a big wholesome theme, and is estimated to prove an ideal vehicle for Miss Normand, star of such previous classics as "Molly O'" and more recently "Suzanna."

In her present vehicle, "The Extra Girl," Miss Normand will enjoy ample opportunity to further demonstrate her wistful charm, while the all-star casts ever assembled, including such artists as Ralph Graves in the male lead, George Nichols, Dot Farley, Anna Hernandez and Vernon Dent.

F. Richard Jones, supervising director of Mack Sennett productions selected William A. Seiter to direct this latest classic. Homer Scott, well known as one of the best cameramen in the profession, and an expert on lighting effects, is in charge of the cameras, cranking first camera himself, as he did with previous Mack Sennett productions starring Mabel Normand.

Work is continuing on the filming of the interior scenes in the home of "The Extra Girl," a setting which has been described a marvel of realism, and which took four weeks until completely constructed and seen in its entirety. Phylis Haver had started in this picture, but, according to report, a disagreement brought about the substitution of Miss Normand.

POLICE CHIEF OAKS AID MRS. REID ON HER FILM

Chief of Police Oaks not only gave Mrs. Wallace Reid permission to film a number of scenes for "Their Hour to Stand," her anti-narcotic film, in and around the Los Angeles city jail but also issued her a squad of policemen to work in the picture and assist in handling several hundred "hop-heads," drug addicts and "types" from all types of positions and scenes. Chief of Police Oaks, as a member of the organization committee of the Anti-Narcotic League which is sponsoring the Reid film, has been deeply interested in the development of the project and has visited the Ince studios many times to confer with Mrs. Reid about the picture.
MAYER INCREASES EFFORTS TO CORRAL

In order to keep up with his increased program of production and distribution, Samuel Goldwyn has announced that Herman Raymaker, who has been typical of the many new producers, for some time now as an independent film producer, Louis B. Mayer is gathering together number of the leading stage and screen celebrities who will be placed under long-term contracts for starring in the all-star productions, made by him.

The contract of Goldwyn is with John M. Stahl, Fred Niblo, Reginald Barker and other units now assembled under the Mayer banner.

Jack Roach, popular leading man in the industry, is the latest to sign his name on the dotted line, having been engaged by Mr. Mayer immediately upon the latter's arrival in New York last week. While no definite announcement has been made as yet, it is reported that he was taken the colorful and romantic role of the Portuguese in the old New England classic, "Cape Cod Folks.

The starring contract with Mr. Roach followed closely upon a similar one recently awarded by Irving G. Thalberg to Robert Fraser who is now playing in "The Dover Boys." Mr. Fraser's production is at the Goldwyn studio opposite Anita Stewart.

Among the other stars who have recently placed under contract to play in Louis B. Mayer productions are Renee Adoree, a former Broadway favorite who is giving an excellent performance in the leading role of Regina Miller in the latest picture, "The Master of Woman." Norma Shearer, selected by John M. Stahl for one of the principal parts in "The Wanderers," and Huntly Gordon, signed as a result of his striking success in "The Bachelor's Fair," are two others who have signed.

Mr. Gordon is working at the Lasky studio at the present time, having been loaned by Mr. Mayer to play the lead with Gloria Swanson in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife."

Takes Over Faire Contract

Associated First National Pictures announce that the company, this week, took over the long-term contract which Virginia Browne Faire recently signed with Richard W. Faire. This picture will not immediately appear in First National pictures, however, as the case for the early pictures to be made by this company have already been engaged. It is very probable, according to informed sources, that the National studio office, that Miss Faire will be seen in a number of the company's productions before given a role in a First National picture.

Victor Seastrom considers his best picture was a tragedy of Ireland called "Ev'ryone of the Hills," made in 1917. It has never been shown in America.

TRAVESTY BECOMES THE FAD AMONGST COMEDY PRODUCERS

With the completion of "Where Is My Wandering Boy This Evening?" the initial Ben Turpin comedy which Mack Sennett will release in the Pabst pictures, the producer announced that he has plans for the continuation of this series of short subjects based on the popular sob-stuff drama, which will insure for lovers of the screen a series of such wits that have made the name of Sennett a byword the world over. Under this classification is the popular "Shrirk of Arab'y" and the second of Ben's new comedies, on which production was started this week under the direction of Herman Raymaker, is to be a sequel of "Where Is My Wandering Boy?"

It will deal with the Boy's adventures in the city while his first relates his downfall and subsequent parting from home life. The workshop title is "Pitfalls of a Big City."

Mack Sennett's plans include several comedies in the spirit of some of the famous multiple-reel cinema sensations. His scenario department in conference with F. Richard Jones, supervising director of all Sennett productions, is now working out two or three stories based upon "sober" drama.

THAIS FINDS OUR LANGUAGE A PUZZLER

Thais Valdenar, a young Russian lady recently escaped from the land of the Bolsheviks, is one of the many extra people who has been brought to New York to take Blanche Sweet under Eddie Cline's direction in the Principal Pictures production of "The Meanest Man in the World." Though an actress of recognized standing in her home land, Miss Valdenar has trouble with the English language even in its meagre use in pictures.

Director Cline, recognizing the young artist's native ability, picked her for a small role and was rehearsing her in the action. She was supposed to speak a line or two, a which, after she had "tapped" it, was to be used as a substitute on the screen; but the lady's voicing of the sentence was so far from coinciding with the words to be flashed on the screen that the discrepancy became numerous, as when one would be supposed to say, "Oh, yes," and the words would appear "Gracious, no."

After several ineffectual efforts at getting a proper registration, Mr. Cline suggested to the young lady: "Never mind speaking the words that way; say it in pantomime."

"Say it in what?" the lady enquired.

"Pantomime," repeated Eddie.

"I could say it in French, or Russian, or German, but of that cannot be expected to catch the expression of the words on a phonograph," said the lady.

"Here," says Eddie, "is a modest one, for most Russian is she is most eloquent in pantomime. Perhaps if I had taken some trouble with her she would have understood."

STAHIL, UNAFRAID, STARTS FRIDAY, THE 13TH

Waving the megaphone of defiance at the god of superstition and all its illumined subsidiary deities, John M. Stahl started work today, Friday the 13th, on the production of Lida Burton Wells' "The Wanters," as his next big picture for Louis B. Mayer's First National release. Keenly interested in an early release, the producer refused to be overawed by superstitions beliefs, and opened his first camera barrage on the successor to his latest triumph, "The Dangerous Age," at a Santa Monica seaside location.

With the signing of Gertrude Astor for one of the leading roles in "The Wanters," Mr. Stahl practically completed the list of principals for this picture. Miss Astor, who is a noted screen beauty, will play a snobbish society girl of the type most symbolized by the chronic "wanters" in life. Among the other stars in the cast are: Marie Prevost, Norma Shearer, Robert Ellis, Lincoln Stedman, and Cyril Chadwick. Paul Bern and J. G. Hawks wrote the scenario which will be produced with Ernest G. Palmerefficiting as chief photographer.

This picture is an outgrowth of a story read by Mr. Stahl, in which he saw a remarkable camera work through the medium of a new stereoscopic lens, on which Mr. Miller holds the patent.

Carewe Completes Masterpiece

Edwin Carewe this week completed the picturization of David Belasco's greatest stage success, "The Girl of the Golden West." After his tremendous work, the word "Finis" has been written to the production which Carewe hopes will be his masterpiece. No effort in either expense or time was spared to make this one of the stellar pictures of the year, to which Carewe has devoted an all-star production unit.

SUN OF A SON OF FILM MAGNATE RISES EARLY

Lawrence J. Kane, Yale senior, who is the youngest son of Arthur S. Kane, president of Associated Exhibitors, has been appointed recently to the editorial staff of the Yale Daily News, a position much coveted in university circles. He was placed in charge of the pictorial section, and, without loss of time, gave a demonstration of organizing and business setting ability which even Dad never surpassed.

The pictorial section had been started as an in-house publication, but not long ago was incorporated with the Yale Daily News and issued as a supplement with the other newspapers. Mr. Kane proceeded to make a weekly of it and in the three weeks since he took over the editorial, has filled it with new and interesting features that its circulation has risen from 1200 to 2000 daily.

The pictorial section is a mirror of student activities, and besides being of deep interest to the undergraduates, was of immense value to the university. With its ten-fold increase in circulation, its birth produced, of course, vastly enhanced. Arthur S. Kane, Lawrence's father, was a newspaper man before he went into pictures.

"POPPY BRIDE" TO BE MAX MILLER'S NEXT

Coincident with the engagement of Patricia Palmer for the feminine lead and "Ranger" Bill Miller for the principal masculine role in the latest of the Max Miller Productions of San Francisco, announces his next picture, "Poppie Bride," by J. Stewart Woodhouse, a Los Angeles scenarist.

The production is to be made with an all-star cast, in which Mr. Miller is combing the field for the best obtainable talent.

Of especial interest is the fact that this feature, the action of which ranges from a western cattle ranch to San Francisco's Chinatown, will be made with a very remarkable camera work through the medium of a new stereoscopic lens, on which Mr. Miller holds the patent.
MISS NILSSON TO STAR IN YOUNG'S "PONJOLA"

Sam E. Rork has purchased "Ponjola," Cynthia Stockley's sensational story of South Africa, which he plans to produce at the United States for Associated First National.

Simultaneous with his announcement that he will visualize this widely read novel, he also announces that he has contracted with Anna Q. Nilsson to play the feature role.

The signing of Anna Nilsson to play the leading role is the result of an unsolicited selection by producer, director, distributing organization and the author herself. As the heroine is also the hero, meaning that the girl manqué and success is a young man throughout the story, Miss Nilsson is considered the perfect selection because of her dramatic ability, but because of her wide range of virile characterization Miss Nilsson is now playing the leading role of "Cherry Malotte" in Rex Beach's "The Spoilers," which Richard Walton Tully production for Goldwyn in association with Rork.

James Young is now hard at work on "Trilby." The Richard Walton Tully production at the United Studios. Upon the completion of this role more casting will be done until Mr. Young has completed "Trilby."

The leading viking's daughter considers the heroine in "Ponjola" to be her greatest screen opportunity. The part is that of Miss Nilsson herself who first called the attention of Mr. Rork to the story. Everybody else in pictures was bidding for it, but the star and producer managed to win the race by an hour or so.

ACTOR BUYS CLOTHES

Carlo Miller is investing heavily in "gloom" stocks for some climaxes scenes he will portray for the "Danish Dreamer" in the "Public Opinion," the Charles Chaplin vehicle starring Edna Purviance. In order to feel trite to the 19th degree, Mr. Miller is absorbing the gloom of Ben Hecht's "Fan-Tasius Mallara" and the equally cheerful diploma of the Italian Leopardi who frequently offers in his works that "life is fit to be despised."

These scenes form the final fadeout for the pictures and exteriors and local shots will follow when Mr. Miller will play the part of Messrs. Hecht and Leopardi.

CLOWN OF 50 YEARS AGO TO CLOWN AGAIN NOW

One of the features of the Charity Circus to be held under the auspices of the Charity Hospital at Praeger Park from May 4th to May 17th inclusive will be Tote Du Crow, local film actor who scored a success a couple years back in "The Pride of Forsyth." Mr. Du Crow, whose parents were circus performers, and who himself is by all odds the most famous clown in the sawdust ring will appear.

To do this, the make-up artist is predicted he will be one of the biggest attractions of the affair. He will be ably supported by the noted clowns of many years experience, Jim Chalmers and Cal Cohen.

The show will be in the form of a one-ring circus, which is so popular a half-century ago under the direct supervision of S. H. Barrett, Jr., whose fat was one of the prominent figures in the show world of the late '80s. Mr. Barrett, who has been known heretofore as "Shell" has for many years harbored a desire to stage a sawdust performance, and his dream is now about to come true. That it will be a success is evidenced by the scores of letters pouring in from all sections of the country offering talent for the affair.

The accompanying picture, which was taken twelve years prior to the present date, is one of the most instructive proof of how the dog, which originated and presented the renowned "rabbit hunt dog," which was later so widely imitated. Tote labored for almost half a year to teach the dog what he had done, and upon the first presentation of the act they were greeted with a tremendous ovation. The dog died later, and Tote turned all of his attention to piano playing, but there has been an interesting figure for fourteen years or more.

LEAH BAIRD'S LATEST FILM WINS AT PREVIEW

The first print of "The De- stroying Angel," the second of the 1923 Specials featuring Leah Baird, arrived in New York a few days ago and is expected of Associated Exhibitors to have a preview of the picture. This feature is perhaps the most ambitious Miss Baird has done, and, in the judgment of the Associated Exhibitors, it is enhancement greatly the popularity of this player and prove a superior box office attraction.

Miss Baird herself adapted the picture from the well known novel by Louise Joseph Vance. It is in six reels which abound with romantic features, contain many thrilling situations and are said to possess some remarkable scenic effects.

OLD-TIMERS REJOIN

Mack Sennett has engaged the man who directed the first comedy in which Ben Turpin was featured to do the same for his latest comic "The Cross-Cross Eyed Comedian," the second comedy released on this week. George Terry, who supervised the Ben "Bear Cub" westerns, has been engaged as director and fit him with Ben's burlaps orbs. Rehearsals for the new production were conducted by C. B. Duke, who was supervising the direction of Mack Sennett production. Filming began today.

PRODUCER THINKS SWAN SONG IS DUE WESTERN

The crook, or underworld type, of photoplay is fast taking the place of the old-fashioned "western." With its cowboys, renegades, and villains with a flair for ranchmen's daughters, that is the belief of Richard Thomas, the young producer-director, who is filming his second of a long series of under- world "snaps" at the Hollywood Studios.

One need only to look at the magazine sales records for proof that the western atmosphere in literature has been superseded by detective stories and crook narrations. Pictures, naturally, had to follow the public trend of reading, aver Mr. Thomas.

Louise May Tour England

Louise Fazenda has received a standing offer of a personal appearance tour throughout England and being featured in a sketch especially written for her, with English management. The comedienne is tremendously popular in England, for her characterization of the tight braids, unique hats, quaint basques and full skirts has been seized upon as identical with the English stereotype type. One leading magazine for years has devoured a page to her sayings and doings. Miss Fazenda has yet named the day, but plans one of these summers to cross the pond.

"BLACK OXEN" TO BE FILMED FOR 1ST NATIONAL

Gertrude Atherton's widely-discussed novel, "Black Oxen," which is regarded by many as the most startling literary gem of the year, is to be produced for the screen by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

Several of the plot points of the story have caused such widespread comment as this having story, which, dealing with the rejuvenation of a middle aged woman and her love for a brilliant man, many years her junior, promises to make ideal screen material.

Its adaptation is in the hands of Malcolm Farley, who is regarded as one of the foremost scenarios in the motion picture industry.

"Black Oxen," has not only occasioned a furor in the field of literature but also it has been the subject of considerable discussion among the medical profession, for its theme, based on what is generally supposed youth-giving glandular treatment, is one which is still stirring scientific and medical men the world over.

The story of "Black Oxen," centers around a woman of sixty, who is a results of a rejuvenation treatment, becomes able to lock, act and feel as a woman of twenty-five. A brilliant columnist and dramatist falls in love with her and it is around this strange romance that the novel plot of the story is wound.

No announcement is forthcoming from First National as to the date of production, but it is expected that camera work will begin on the production several weeks from the next few months.

At the present time the executives at the offices of First National are busily conferring with those in Hollywood, are engaged in sifting the whole field of motion pictures to secure the best available talent obtainable to enact the various roles.

Sennett is Expanding

Additional outdoor stages are being constructed on the Mack Sennett lot because of the addition of several new companies. With the new space ready the Sennett studies of 32 acres will contain over 40,000 square feet of actual stage space, exceeding the floor space of any studio in the West. The work is progressing under the supervision of Sanford D. Barnes, technical director.

King Vidor, who is directing "Three Wise Poobs," is exceedingly fond of tennis. Every Sunday finds him out on a neighboring court. He is making plans now to have one built in his own garden.
Joseph A. Eliason presents

BABY BETTY
Wampus Frolic
(age 26 Months)

WARNER BROS.
STUDIO
World's Largest Stage
1923

BABY BETTY
"Movieland's Youngest Celebrity"
Personal Appearance
Wampus Movie Ball
Ambassador Hotel
1922

Announcing at This Time

"Baby Betty"
Cinema Tour
Around the World Producing Twenty-six One Reel
Educational Gems
Completed June 1924

Open for engagements until August

THE WORLD EDUCATIONAL FILMS
6060 Sunset Blvd.,
Hollywood, California
THERE ARE MORE JOBS THAN ACTORS!

That the time has arrived in Hollywood film producing circles, when the demand for talented players exceeds the supply, is indicated by the fact that for the first time in the history of the industry there has become evident a distinct shortage of established actors.

This is particularly true of character men, according to Maurice Tourneur, who, for two weeks, searched Hollywood for an actor to play the important part of Prof. Putroye, in the forthcoming First National picture of "The Brass Bottle." It was only after many negotiations for the production schedules of the part of a number of other producers who were interested in utilizing Tully Marshall at present, that Mr. Tourneur was finally able to sign the well-known actor to portray one of the leading character parts in his new film.

In order to appear for Mr. Tourneur, Marshall's working time at two other studios has to be so dovetailed with the producing schedule of Tourneur's film, that it is possible for the actor to appear for all three companies at the same time.

A careful survey of all the established character players has been made in procur- ing two or more productions simultaneously.

NEW STARRING LINE-UP FOR CHRISTIE COMEDIES

With the signing of Jimmie Adams, Elsie Hay and numerous other names under exclusive contracts to be featured in Christie Comedies, the star team under producer Paul Muni has made a fine-up of comedy stars by which five or six different "names" will appear alternately in starring positions in the new releases. Pictures are also arranged so that the supporting players will alternate their appearances.

For instance the latest pictures released will present a great variety of talent: "A Hula Honeymoon" features Henry Murdock and Ebe London. Next comes "Baby's Welcome" in which Dorothy Dore is starring, supported by Ann May Wong and George Stewart. "Green As Grass" introduces Jimmie Adams, supported by Charlie Melville and "Take Your Choice" features Bobby Vernon, supported by five different leading ladies.

On-screen rights to "The Renegades," a powerful story of mountain setting, by Madeline Ralston, has been purchased by the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation and work will be started on the picture as soon as possible.

FILM PROMISES TO AROUSE SHADIES OF OLD TIMES

Little Mr. Wettin, well-known king of England, will perhaps be away to a high dungeon when he sees "Captain Applejack," for a high change... nearly as fast as a huff, but it is a more dignified vehicle and every assurance to the pique or scorn of "Captain Applejack," which Fred Niblo is directing as his second independent production for Glidden. The film, which is a release, concerns a modern British family who suddenly discovers that the original bearer of the name assassinated his fortune as a pirate and that he was a newly old squandered with a taste for rum and a cast-iron conscience.

The story was first a stage play with a permeating historical background. That it deals intimately with the history of a famous British family is a favorite rumor among young British anti- quarians who anticipate best over unhealthy and soda in exclusive clubs.

"Extraordinary thing using the name and name," said one keen critic. " Might at least have changed it a bit."

Mr. Niblo is changing it. "Captain Applejack" is derived from "Captain Ambrose Apple- john" just as applejack is de- rived from saddles and rumor and humor to that mild tittle.

The director has an excellent cast with which to tell his story. Matt Moore has the title role while Emil Bennett, Barbara La Marr, Robert McKim, Max Malh- ile Brundage, Thomas Ricketts, Emily Fitzroy and Otto Hoffman are among the principal characterizations.

BABY BRUCE NAMES LOTS AFTER PICTURES HE'S IN

With many dollars invested in Los Angeles real estate, three stables and several fruit groves, it is quite possible that Bruce Gardner, a half year old screen kidde, will not starve in his old age. Bruce has played featured roles in several productions in a little more than a year and every cent of his earnings has been invested for him by his father who bought him a lot of property in his name at the completion of each picture. The most recently enacted roles in "Irma" for Warner Brothers and in "Drifting," his earnings from his work in those two productions have been saved in Hollywood lots. For his "Bachelor Daddy" lot, costing $25, his mother received $3,000, its valuation as business frontage having increased simul- taneously with Bruce's progress since appearing in that picture. The tiny tot was signed last week on a long-term contract by Warner Brothers.

Dives Alway Dressed Up

Talip Lewis took a high dive from the mast of a big vessel into the Pacific while attired in a dress suit for one of the big scenes in the R-C production of "How Your Own Horn." Lewis is a powerful swimmer, as well as a skilled diver and when Di- rector Jimmy Horne asked for a retake because the camera had buckled, Lewis made the dive a second time without a murmur.

Robbers Take Poems

Fred Esmelton had his apartment on Vermont Avenue robbed of his more old valued British poems. The burglars also took some clothing and bric- a-brac, but Esmelton states he does not mind the loss of the latter articles if the thief will return the books. Esmelton plays one of the important roles in "The Rustle of Silk," now appearing at Grauman's Metropolitan.

CONNIE GOES ON LOCATION TO BUSES

Constance Talmadge and the "Duley" company have left for location in the Yosemite region. Accompanying Miss Talmadge were Sidney Franklin, director, and the cast which includes Jack Oakie, Hebe, Ann Wilson, Johnny Harron, Ann Cornell, Andre de Beranger, Gilbert Douglas and Milla Davenport.

Three special double-deck busses such as are used on Fifth Avenue in New York and which probably will be common sights on the streets of Los Angeles soon, were used to transport the players and technical staff of the Talmadge company. These busses are fitted up with sleeping berths and cooking stoves so that the company will be able to camp out while on location.

The three crews will take the players to Big Bear Lake, San Diego, San Francisco, and Santa Barbara where they return to Los Angeles. Last week scenes for "Duley" were filmed at Barstow, where a severe electrical storm caused much static in the cameramen's boxes.

During the past week additional scenes were filmed at the Joseph M. Schenck studios. A stay of about ten days will be made in Los Angeles.

A magnificent mountain lodge has been rented by Mr. Schenck for the Yosemite sequence of the comedy, Constance Talmadge will live in this lodge and will mix out to location during the upcoming stage days. "Duley" is based on the New York stage success of the same name by Robert E. Sherwood and Marc Connelly. In it Constance has the role of a feather-brained young woman named Barbara. Walter Israel, costumer, has secured for Miss Talmadge several new gowns from the Paris spring shows, several of which showing the Tut-Ank-Amen influence, will be worn by her in "Duley."

BARBARA TO TRY VAMPING "VAMPABLE"

KING SOLOMON

Barbara La Marr is to try to vamp in "Vamping," for King Solomon. She was signed this week for a role in "The Brass Bottles," playing a part of a Princess, beloved of Fal- rash-et-Aamash, a Ninnie. Her job, in the story, is to take King Solomon and his band of wives, and all of his other worries, so that he may be put under a spell so that he will be ploting his ruin.

Solomon is warned and the Princess's efforts are fruitless. One of the jinn is put in a brass bottle and thrown into the sea, not to be released until Mr. Vol- steed's time.
A Chance to "Break In"

We Want

100 People

with or without experience in

MOTION PICTURES

to appear in Feature Film with all star cast headed by two of the most prominent stars in the Motion Picture world. We are looking for people with the sincere desire to "break in," and those who believe they have the talent and ability, but hitherto have found it difficult, if not impossible to obtain the chance to show what they can do.

THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY

We want to give you a chance to act in Feature pictures to be filmed in our own studios, and at the same time you will have an opportunity to become a shareholder in a large motion picture concern. It is an unusual and rare opportunity to become a shareholder in a company which produces and distributes their own pictures. An investment of $1000.00 is required which entitles you to receive dividends from our Co-operative Stock sharing plan, besides your salary and permanent contract.

ACT TODAY

Send recent photo, with full name, nationality, height, weight, color of hair and eyes, complexion, and state what motion picture experience you have had, if any, and type of work you believe you are best fitted for.

We have a bona fide proposition which will bear strictest investigation.

Address Box 77

Care of CAMERA!

6318 Hollywood Boulevard
CAMERA I

"Pulse of the Studios"

Page Seventeen

Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, April 23

Cameral intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-889

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass’t Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BERWILLA STUDIO. 5821 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>Eddie Lyons Productions (Arrow release)</td>
<td>Eugene De Rue</td>
<td>Eddie Lyons</td>
<td>McGill</td>
<td>Dilts</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BOYLE STUDIO.</td>
<td>Phone Boyle 6368</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BRETWOOD STREET. 4811 Fountain Ave.</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Eugene Vogt</td>
<td>5-Reel Drama</td>
<td>Editing</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. A. Horsley, Calvin Kelpine</td>
<td>Burbank, Cal.</td>
<td>Burbank 54-R</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BRONX STUDIO. 1745-51 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td>Kenneth Bishop, General Mgr.</td>
<td>Wilshire 4275</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H. and B. Productions</td>
<td>Cliff Smith</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Thompson</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arthur Tramble Productions</td>
<td>Jack Dawn</td>
<td>Roland Price</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHAPLIN STUDIO. Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>1416 La Brea Ave.</td>
<td>Holly 4070</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Regent Film Company. (United Artists release)</td>
<td>Charles Chaplin</td>
<td>Edna Purviance</td>
<td>Rollin Totheroh</td>
<td>Eddie Sutherland</td>
<td>Monta Bell</td>
<td>&quot;Public Opinion&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHESTER STUDIO. 1438 Gower St.</td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 2693</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHEO CHOICE. 6044 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>5-Reel Comedy</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COSMOS ARTS. 3700 Beverly Blvd.</td>
<td>J. E. Bowen, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>Wilshire 2115</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I. W. Irving Productions. (B. P. S. release)</td>
<td>Paul Hurst</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Joe Walker</td>
<td>Irving</td>
<td>&quot;Blood Barrier&quot;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Revere Productions</td>
<td>Joe Murphy casting.</td>
<td>Amos</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FINE ARTS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 4500 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>Stock</td>
<td>Stock</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fred Caldwell Productions.</td>
<td>Edith Mack Productions. (Western Pictures Exploitation)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Henry McCarthy All-Star</td>
<td>Floyd Jackson, Chas. Mack</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jess Robbins Productions.</td>
<td>(Vitagraph release)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hugh Deirker Productions. (American release)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sacramento Pictures Corp.</td>
<td>Forrest White, Vice-Pres. &amp; Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clifford S. Efert Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fins Fox Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FOX STUDIO. Arthur Forde, Casting.</td>
<td>1401 N. Western Ave.</td>
<td>Holly 3000</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CARSON STUDIOS. 1845 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td>Wilshire 81</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metro Release</td>
<td>Clara K. Young</td>
<td>Charles Richardson Jack Blond</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDWYN STUDIO. R. B. McIntyre, Casting.</td>
<td>&quot;Lo Old Model&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDWYN STUDIO.</td>
<td>R. B. McIntyre, Casting.</td>
<td>&quot;Lo Old Model&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HORSLEY STUDIO. 6050 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>Holly 7945</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Fashion Features. G. W. Gibson, 1442 Beachwood Drive.

G. W. Gibson

Elinam

Baby Betty

Wm. Field

F. M. Abbey

L. Robinson

News Weekly "The Forty Niner" Schedule
Hollywood Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Richard Thomas Productions</td>
<td>Big Boy Williams</td>
<td>W. Seeling</td>
<td>J. Mather</td>
<td>Western Spectacle</td>
<td>Casting</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Douglas McLean Productions</td>
<td>Jack Benny</td>
<td>Norval MacGregor</td>
<td>underworld Drama</td>
<td></td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Irving Cummings Productions</td>
<td>Charles Woolstenhalme</td>
<td>W. A. Crane</td>
<td>Production Manager</td>
<td></td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J. K. McDonald Productions</td>
<td>Dick Tracy</td>
<td>Geo. Pike</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
<td></td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supreme Art Productions</td>
<td>Chas. J. Hall</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Preparing</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

INCE Studio

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Horace Williams, Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>761731</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Lasky Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>L. M. Goodstadt, Casting.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2400</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Paramount Pictures

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jerome Storm</td>
<td>Red Jennings</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harold Swart</td>
<td>George Hopkins</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frank Brandon</td>
<td>Children of Jazz</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beulah Marie Dix</td>
<td>Woman With Four Faces</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount Pictures</td>
<td>Hollywood</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>William Paley</td>
<td>Broken Wings</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charles Winninghome</td>
<td>Daughters of the Rich</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>George Stoneble</td>
<td>Mansion of Aching Hearts</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Metro Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Harold Shaw</td>
<td>Viola Dana</td>
<td>John Arnold</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rex Ingram Productions</td>
<td>Mountaineer</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt Stromberg Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edward Soman Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Pacific Coast Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sam Mateo</td>
<td>Walter L. Bell</td>
<td>Chas. L. Fulton</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Pickford-Fairbanks Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

United Artists

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

R-C Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Hal Roach Comedies (Fathe release)</td>
<td></td>
<td>Walter Luning</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>17th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Newberry-Taylor</td>
<td>Robert Golden</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Horroft-Fay</td>
<td>Hucklom</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reiner-Reinhardt</td>
<td>Van Dorn</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McKenna-McCloy</td>
<td>Egbert</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Senetett Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mack Sennett Comedies</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Wils. 1550</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

United Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Louis B. Mayer Productions</td>
<td>Clune's Stage</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>4080</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frank Borzage Productions</td>
<td>Remo</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edwin Carew Productions</td>
<td>Tycoon</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maurice Tournean Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louis Mayer Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Universal Studio. Fred Datig Casting.

Universal Film Manufacturing Co. (Universal Release.)

- Edmund Mortimer: Herb, Rawlinson
- George Marshall: Hitchcock
- Measinar-Marchan-Mower-Sedgewick: Jack Dunn
- Robert Hill: Wul. Desmond
- Duke Wrenn: Little-Thomson
- Jack Connally: Gladys Walton
- Edward Bedick: Hoot Gibson
- Wm. Watson: Neely Edwards
- Wallace Nutley: Low Chaney
- Harry Pollard: Reginald Denny
- Stuart Paton: Roy Stewart

- Jimmie Davis: Joe Etock
- Rongo Productions: Dallas Fitzgerald

Warner Brothers Productions.

- Chester Franklin: All-Star
- Herman Reymann: All-Star
- Homer Scott: E. B. Dupar
- Millard Webb: Sandy Roth
- Franklyn Myron: Davis-Moyston

Vitagraph Studios. 1708 Talmadge, W. S. Smith, Gen Mgr.

- Victor Schertzinger: All-Star
- Steve Smith, Jr.: Vincent McDermott

Warners Bros. Studios. 5842 Sunset Blvd.

- Vincente Minnelli: Lyle Bettis

Waltz Studio. 6070 Sunset Blvd.

- James Kilgallen: James Colwell

Dr. W. I. Schuster

203 Bogardus Bldg., Sunset at Western Chiropractor and Nerve Specialist

- "You have tried the rest, now try the heat"
- Catering to the foremost of the profession
- 10 to 12: 2 to 5
- Evenings 6 to 8
- Palmer Graduate: Phone 496-724

Art Lee

Specialist on Make-Up

Will teach you how to Make Up Correctly

Read my references

Telephone 598-207

1712 St. James Court, Hollywood, at Western

YE Rub Shoppe

Professional Hair Dyeing for Professional Men

621 West 8th St., Pico 1566

Raymond McKee

The Friars Club
New York City

Works of Art from China and Japan

Oriental Costume Co.

622 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 5954

Bob Metz Says:

1 raise my cash with a razor.

Yours,

"Bob the Barber"

Hellman’s 6772 Hollywood Blvd.

All Legal Matters

Attorney and Counselor at Law

JACK P. LEONARD

340 Douglas Bldg. Consultation Free
Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone 659-42

Marion Warde

Acting and Make-Up for Stage and Motion Pictures. A Legitimate Practical School of Results. Classical, Character, Ballet, and Step-Dancing.

4214 Music Arts Bldg.

Telephone 821-181

233 So. Broadway

Allen Curtis

Shoe Emporium

104 W. 3d Street

203 S. Main Street

215 S. Main Street

Fine Footwear for Men, Women and Children.

We Buy in Large Quantities—Cost Us Less—Cost You Less.
FLASHER FROM FRISCO
(Continued from Page 6)

Jean Hersholt of the cast for Eric Von Stroheim's production of "Greed," came to town last week and is hard at work. Jean doesn't mind the cold in San Francisco, but goes around with his collar turned up because he has to wear a comedy hair cut which makes him look like a small town dude of a few years ago.

The Victor Fisher Production office here reports that the company making their picture "Youth Triumphant" at the Hollywood Studios, is making most satisfactory progress. They have been at work two weeks and expect another three weeks to complete the picture. They are especially delighted with some of the photography in the night scenes. A very finely trained Belgian Police dog, the property of Dr. Humber of San Francisco, has been taken to Hollywood to play a part in the picture.

The Famous Players-Lasky company making "The Woman with Four Faces" under the direction of Herbert Brenon, worked here several days last week shooting some scenes at one of the jails, and others in the insane asylum at Napa, and returned to Los Angeles Thursday night. James Howe, cameraman, was back in town over the week-end to do some special locations.

Alexander Pantages, head of the Pantages vaudeville circuit, has announced that he is planning to build a new theatre in San Francisco. As this is his home town he says it will be a sort of monument, and one of the largest and finest theatres in the United States, and in its building he will use all the knowledge he has gained of theatres through years of experience.

ARTISTS IN SPRINGTIME
(Continued from Page 7)

quests for players. Just now, however, there is an unprecedented demand for featured actors and actresses—chiefly leading men.

Probably the most important "loan" of the week was that of both Gaston Glass and Kenneth Harlan to the Renoe concern for the production of a big all-star picture titled "After the Ball." Director Dallas Fitzgerald, who is at the helm for Renoe, changed his shooting schedule in order to accommodate the equally active schedule at the Schubert Studios, from which the two favorites were obtained.

The man who paraphrased the bromide about the industry being in its infancy, saying it should read "infants are in the industry," said a forkfull, in the informal, but forceful language of backstage. For Hollywood's famous youngsters are making known their presence with a vengeance.

Jackie Cooper is about to begin work in what promises to be his most costly and ambitious picture, "Long Live the King," by Mary Roberts Rinehart. Dinky Dean, Charles Chaplin's latest child find, is about to appear in a series of features to be filmed by an independent concern.

Baby Peggy, having completed a series of two reels for Century Comedies, has been loaned for an eight-reel special production.

Soon the clock will be turned back to the London of 1700—and bewigged and bepowdered gallants and their ladies will live their lives again back in the romantic days when England's highwaymen were heroes of the populace and civilization was in its early springtime. That will be "A Lad of Chance," Frances Hodgson Burnett's novel, to be filmed by Hobart Henley, starring Virginia Valli.
CAMERA!

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry" Page Twenty-one

SCREEN STORIETTES

Those who abandon an occupation which has brought them a full measure of success for the sake of an ideal are few and therefore unusually interesting. Hence this focusing of attention on Lucy Beaufont, who has just returned to Los Angeles to dedicate herself exclusively to enacting mother roles in motion pictures after a brilliant career of twenty years devoted to the speaking stage of New York, London and most all parts of the world. She bade farewell to the footlights just as she reached the height of her success to embrace the opportunities of reaching more and larger audiences through the medium of film because she is eager to continue her work towards inculcating a spirit of greater respect for mothers in the firm belief that a return to old-fashioned notions of the importance of women's influence is not greater than other single force towards solving most of the national and international problems confronting the world now.

"If the importance of mothers were more deeply impressed and if the object lessons she holds for all humanity were shown more in the close-up of men's affairs, I am confident most of this terrible inclination to quarrel and fight would be eliminated and I think impressive characterizations on the screen in relation to the right kinds of roles will do much to help in this desirable endeavor," Miss Beaufont says. "I have high hopes of making millions of people feel the true impulses of the good mother and thereby enabling them to settle down to a more amicable consideration of all matters in dispute. According to my way of thinking, the screen offers the greatest possible medium for spreading the thoughts of goodness that will inspire universal goodness and I aspire to be instrumental in using my knowledge of dramatic expression, whatever it may be, to serve such a useful purpose. It is my ideal, the ideal that has won me away from the stage for the wider latitude of the screen."

"Parson Fred" isn't a sky pilot any more. He has signed a contract to star in Universal pictures. He is now co-starring with Ann Little in the Universal chapter play, "The Eagle's Talons."

From the athletic field into the pulpit and now seeking fame before the camera is the former small-town minister, Parson Fred.

While a student at Occidental College in Los Angeles several years ago he was studying to become a structural engineer. Thomsen, a member of the baseball team and won the national all-round track and field championship at Franklin Field, Chicago, the first time that a western athlete had ever carried off this honor.

That same year he decided to enter the ministry and began his theological studies in Princeton. The next summer, as a member of the Princeton track and field team he again won the National championship at Franklin Field.

Then he went into the ministry and preached from coast to coast. During the war, he served as a lieutenant in the 143rd Field Artillery and became known as "Parson Fred."

It was during a football game on the Carnegie field at San Diego, in honor of Mary Pickford, honorary colonel of the regiment, that Thompson was requested by Miss Pickford to appear at the end of the war from the ministry to the movies. Thomson had his leg broken during the game and during the weeks of his convalescence Miss Pickford visited him often.

Miss Pickford persuaded him to appear as a character man in motion pictures at the end of the war. Thomson made his initial debut before the camera with her in "The Love Light." He has had many important roles in pictures since that time.

Thomson was signed by Universal for a long term and is now preparing reels of thrills for the motion picture public by his daring performances in "The Eagle's Talons."

Daniel Boone, George Washington, General Braddock, Thomas Jefferson are living their lives over again in one corner of the city of shadowland. Boone and his hardy frontiersmen battle with real Indians—patriots of the days when America was in the making and grapple again with the problems of a new nation's independence. The world will see them, in a few months, in the chapter play "Daniel Boone" a history lesson in celluloid featuring Jack Mower and Eileen Sedgwick.

Charitable enterprises seem to be demanding most of the leisure of studio workers who are popularly supposed to hive themselves to jazz palaces immediately after wiping the grease paint of labor from their brows. Raising funds for the Children's Hospital and the Studio Club—Hollywood's home for its ambitious girl workers—is the chief business of the day.

Gaston Glass has devised a method of raising cash that has proved effective, and a warning to studio visitors. The ever-present star chair, bearing the name in large letters on its back, may be used by visitors for a substantial contribution only. Since the price of a brief visit to the coveted chair is not handled by Glass until after its occupant is comfortably seated, the sum collected has mounted to a respectable figure.

Olgis Friztian, Eve Unsell, Jane Mathis and practically all of the well-known writers, are spending their waking hours adding to the building fund that is expected to serve as a foundation for a great structure that will house Hollywood's girl picture workers.

"Yes!-----We Are Really Sure!"

Everybody Wondered If We Would Ever WE DID—WE WILL—WE ARE Better Join with Us Right Now

MOTION PICTURE PLAYERS ASSOCIATION, Inc.

MONTE WEST—Casting Director

HARRY C. ELLIS, Secretary-Treasurer

JACK CARROLL—Studio Representative

Open daily and Sunday, 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.

1614 Cahuenga Avenue

Phones 435-252

Hollywood, Calif.

"Service to Producer and Justice to Performer"

Rapid—Efficient—Thorough

National types of all kinds. A special department for children. The same care is given in the selection of supporting atmosphere as is given to the cast.

THE SERVICE BUREAU

1036 South Hill Street

Telephone: 821-071

"Make-up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry"

Why is it that so many people prefer to buy their make-up here? We believe it is because we are constantly endeavoring to give them the best in make-up at a price that carries a fair profit for us—and because they appreciate it!

819 South Hill Street

Telephone Pico 498

ZAN

Carmelita in "Rosita"

When Carmelita Geraghty appeared before Ernest Lubitsch who had reviewed that day only a few days after the role for a Spanish favorite for Mary Pickford's new production, "Rosita" which is directing, he immediately said, "You are just the type." For that Miss Geraghty feels she is indebted to her mother's nationality, who is Spanish and from the famous De Cossaro family of San Francisco. The young actress is now appearing in the Cosmopolitan film, "The Daughter of Mother McGinn" in the making at Goldwyn's.

Some Survival of Fittest

Although it was released in April a year ago and was heavily booked from the beginning, Associated Exhibitors' picturization of "Silas Marner," George Eliot's classic, continues in great demand. Not only has this feature proved a popular and profitable attraction in leading theatres everywhere, but it is believed to have been booked by a larger number of non-theatrical enterprises—notably schools—than almost any other film ever made.
The letter worked. Mortimer talked to Herbert Brenon, who was casting a picture. Brenon wanted a skipper for a ship who could really "skip" the thing. When Mortimer alleged that he could "sail a boat!" Brenon explained that it was a four-masted schooner. Then Mortimer explained that he had sailed everywhere and could handle the ship.

So Edmund Mortimer became an actor in pictures more because he had been in the navy three years and the merchant marine two years than because he had been on the stage fifteen years appearing with famous stars.

After a short period as an actor Mortimer turned director and has been one ever since. He will direct Herbert Rawlinson in Margaret Bryant's "Thicker Than Water," scenarized by Harvey Gates.

Production has been completed at Universal City on "Pure Grit," Hoot Gibson's latest starring vehicle, which was directed by Edward Sedgwick.

"Pure Grit" was adapted to the screen by Sedgwick from a Blue Book magazine story, "Blinkey," by Gene Marley. It is a story of the adventures of a youth in a troop of United States cavalry on the Mexican border and an entire group of cavalry was used in the filming of the play. All the exterior shots in the production were made near Camp Hearn, San Diego, along the Mexican boundary line.

HOW TO MAKE A MOVIE

William Beaudine, famous director who is directing the J. K. McDonald production, "Penrod and Sam," for First National, was once asked how to successfully make a motion picture.

"Just as a cook bakes a cake," answered Beaudine. "He uses so much sugar, so much butter, so much flour, so many eggs, a pinch of salt, a dash of flavoring and the other ingredients, which if properly mixed and baked, results in a palatable confection.

"That is the same receipt for the making of good pictures, only the ingredients are different, so much suspense, so much pathos, so much comedy, a dash of logic—and a lot of human interest. The art comes in the proper mixing of the film ingredients. And they must not always be stirred by the same spoon. By this I mean the situations must not be bonaded, they must be new, or at least handled from a different angle to get the maximum of entertainment value.

"In the making of 'Penrod and Sam' for First National, I have attempted to make it just as natural on the screen as Booth Tarkington made his characters famous on print paper. I believe that every man will be able to see himself in this picture as one of the characters. He will recall his boyish thoughts, his ideas and ideals and if he does not recognize himself as one of the kiddies in this production he will surely be able to recognize some similar youth with whom he played in his childhood.

"Penrod and Sam," which is said to be the best juvenile picture ever produced, is interpreted by an all-star cast which, among others, includes: Gladys Brockwell, William V. Mong, Rockliffe Fellows, Mary Philbin, Gareth Hughes, Denny Alexander, Joe Huntavern, Newton Hall, Biddle and Gertrude Messinger, Martha Mattox, Victor Potel and Hermann and Verman, the pleasantries line.

The story is Tarkington's sequel to his "Penrod," and offers an even better opportunity for the screen than did its famous predecessor.
MARGARET LaMONT
HEAVIES—LEADS
NINE YEARS LEGITIMATE
439-869

With Earle Williams
in
"You Never Know"
A Vitagraph Special now at Pantages Theatre

ROSE WATERMAN
Characters
"Richard the Lion Hearted," Starring Wallace Beery
Also Comedy Hawaiian Number
Wampus Frolic
Telephone 579-683

WANTED!
For permanent positions

First Camera Man
Chief Electrician
Chief Carpenter
Studio and Wardrobe Matron
Chief Property Man

Apply by Letter only, in confidence

International Co-Operative Motion Picture Corporation
Producers and Distributors

COY WATSON, Jr.  Wilshire 3616
The people of Los Angeles have accepted without question the public announcement that the Motion Picture Industry will stage a magnificent and brilliant spectacle on the occasion of the Monroe Doctrine Centennial, to be held at Exposition Park and Coliseum from July 2 to August 4. They know positively that it must be a success because Filmdom is behind it. No greater compliment could be paid to the people of the Industry than this manifestation of faith on the part of the Los Angeles public. The outcome is certain to be a closer and more cordial relationship between the Industry as a whole and the entire citizenry of Los Angeles than has ever existed since the Industry was established as an inseparable part of the great metropolis of the Pacific Coast.

No more appropriate name could have been selected for this important function than the official title, "The American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition." It is being held to commemorate the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine. Many of the most enlightening and illuminating chapters of history have been written during the century which has elapsed since President Monroe proclaimed to the Old World that, henceforth the United States purposed, at any cost, to safeguard the territorial independence of all the nations of the Western Hemisphere. And today it is the priceless privilege of the Motion Picture Industry to stage a spectacle that will vividly and accurately portray the outstanding events that have occurred during that soul-stirring period.

Every one in Filmdom knows the publicity value of this great opportunity—and furthermore, they all realize that Los Angeles, as Hostess on this momentous occasion, looks to the Industry to maintain the City's world-wide reputation to make a glorious success of anything it undertakes.

Fill out this blank application and mail to Exposition Department, 1005 Hollingsworth Bldg., Sixth and Hill Sts., Los Angeles.

Patron's Application

THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVUE AND MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION

For the purpose of taking part in the First Annual American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Industrial Exposition to be held in the City of Los Angeles during the year 1923 in commemoration of the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine. I hereby make application for

Patron's Coupon Book... of Admission Tickets to the Revue and Exposition, for which I agree to pay the sum of ten dollars each, payments to be made as follows:

Dated................192... Signed..............................................
Occupation.................... Address...........................................

Make All Checks Payable to Motion Picture Exposition
MARTHA MARSHALL
Get a Close-up of our wonderful stock of antique furniture, bric-a-brac, bronzes, statues and works of art in our huge establishment IN HOLLYWOOD.

We invite you to FOCUS on our prices, too. They're so low they're almost a FADE-OUT. Remember, we buy, sell, rent and exchange, and when it comes to service WE'RE RIGHT THERE!

TECHNICOLOR

Motion Pictures in Color

Now Available to the Producer

No Limitation on Action or Type of Sets

Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation
C. A. Willat, Manager
Hollywood 4470
1116 Lodi Street Hollywood, Calif.
Results of Editorial Observations

It begins to look as if the weather is like many a human being, to wit: it can't settle.

Is it that people are forced to go the rounds of humdrum existence every day that they can't go on the square?

The cinema art needs no champion to defend its worth, but it does need all of its people working for its improvement for all they are worth.

It is predicted there will be a war between various factions of exhibitors this fall. In other words, there is a dire possibility of peace going to pieces.

Whenever anybody tries to tell you that moving pictures corrupt anybody's morals simply because they happen to constitute a Sunday attraction, you tell 'em they're crazy. True, this is rough stuff, but it is nevertheless true.

They say crop conditions are ideal and that this is bound to be a year of bumper crops galore. But, still we hear some talk of hard times in certain sections of the country. Wonder if it would make any difference if it rained gold for a couple of seasons?

You cannot always tell what a picture is going to do when it reaches the public. It's all because you can never tell what the public is going to do. If you want to know how little anybody knows about the public, ask the politicians about this time of the year.

There is a very general disposition on the part of exhibitors throughout the country to demand all-star casts more stellar than ever. If this keeps up, there is the danger of the tastes of these exhibitors becoming so fastidious that no star will be big enough to be a member of the cast playing in the picture they will play. Then what?

Now that Warner Brothers have built the largest stage in the world,—in Hollywood, mind you,—and there are bright prospects of William Fox and other film magnates building other stages of such gigantic proportions in this same Hollywood, it sounds more foolish than ever to give utterance to words of worry over the possibilities of Florida or any other section of the country taking the motion picture industry away from the aforesaid Hollywood.

They are beginning to discuss restrictions in the matter of ownership of motor cars in some of the larger and more congested eastern cities. According to the plan suggested, no one will be permitted to own more than one automobile, the hope being to thus eliminate some machines from the streets. It sure does sound funny to hear about people who own several autos when the fellow who does the hearing has only one car and still owes a lot on it.

The threatened passing of the two-reel comedy seems to cease to be a menace, because as fast as the two-reel comedians move on up to the full-length features, the one-reel kings move up to the two-reel status. Hence it looks as if about the only part of the program which is due to suffer is the one-reel fun film, which many think could be dispensed with entirely anyway. The average fan will not give a whoop one way or the other so long as he is given ample opportunities to laugh a-plenty.

The growth of Hollywood has been such that ground occupied by some of the studios "closer in" has become most too valuable to be used for the purpose of making motion pictures. Hence there is the start of a movement for studios to move farther out into the outskirts of the town. And since Hollywood has only begun to spread out, we are just wondering whether or not even the outskirts are far enough out! It would be all wrong if the studios had to move out about every ten years.

For many years we have heard a great deal about the coming of the great American opera, but it has never come. Now, according to advance information, a group of eastern capitalists have plans for building a theatre in Hollywood dedicated to trying to discover the great masterpiece through offering the means for premiers of the promising works of ambitious composers. It sounds like a bright prospect of very general interest. Moreover, if it leads to the discovery of the long-sought musical gem, Hollywood will be placed in a new limelight of vast consequence. We're for that theatre without reservation and here's hoping the plan proves feasible enough to get quick action.

Personally we are not interested in politics any more, but we quite agree that motion picture people should interest themselves in the game enough to vote for men who will regard the film industry in Southern California as being of some importance and will therefore see to it that there is no detrimental legislation passed against it without putting up a fight of sufficient force to arouse those concerned to a realization as to what it's all about. There is too much of the insidious political maneuvering in America for anyone to be asleep at the switch at any time. Therefore, Camera urges picture people to make it more of a habit to scrutinize the records of seekers of public offices with great care with the idea of ascertaining definitely just what such are likely to do upon gaining possession of any of the reins of government.
A Chance to "Break In"

We Want

100 People

with or without experience in

MOTION PICTURES

to appear in Feature Film with all star cast headed by two of the most prominent stars in the Motion Picture world. We are looking for people with the sincere desire to "break in," and those who believe they have the talent and ability, but hitherto have found it difficult, if not impossible to obtain the chance to show what they can do.

THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY

We want to give you a chance to act in Feature pictures to be filmed in our own studios, and at the same time you will have an opportunity to become a shareholder in a large motion picture concern. It is an unusual and rare opportunity to become a shareholder in a company which produces and distributes their own pictures. An investment of $1000.00 is required which entitles you to receive dividends from our Co-operative Stock sharing plan, besides your salary and permanent contract.

ACT TODAY

Send recent photo, with full name, nationality, height, weight, color of hair and eyes, complexion, and state what motion picture experience you have had, if any, and type of work you believe you are best fitted for.

We have a bona fide proposition which will bear strictest investigation.

International Co-operative Motion Picture Corp.
Producers and Distributors

1329 Gordon Street Holly 1918 Hollywood, Calif.
Synthetic Divorce, Reform and Make-up

By RAY H. LEEK

Now it is the synthetic divorce! In a category with beer without a kick and whiskey without a headache may be classified the divorce without a heartache.

But, lest a false impression of this variety of separation go forth, let it be explained, that we refer to the professional—not the domestic—variety, which has to do with the screen careers only and is in no way related to the family hearth.

Most recent of the synthetic divorces is that of the beautiful Miriam Cooper, who is happily married to R. A. Walsh, the director with whom she has scored her many screen successes. Practically all of Walsh's most successful productions have shown his gifted wife in featured roles, while all of her screen career has been guided by his directorial megaphone.

Now Miss Cooper has joined Gasnier's cast of players at work on "Daughters of the Rich" and will be seen in an important role in that unusual story. Incidentally, she advanced an interesting theory in explanation of her plunge into big productions not directed by her husband.

"As for the why of it, I can only say that no star ever accomplishes their best work until they have had the broader experience permitted by working with more than one director," she said. "Every director and every player can contribute some idea, some suggestion that is helpful to the screen worker. No matter how complete the sympathy between the director and star, there is much to be learned by experience with another director of the caliber of Gasnier."

Of course the stage version of this Paul Dickey and Charles W. Goddard story was one of many thrills. But imagine what can be done with it by a director as resourceful as Gasnier and a company of players who are ready to follow him to the end of the earth.

Once more reform stands accused of robbing us of our cherished traditions. One of the leading film critics of Los Angeles, on reviewing the elaborate production of "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," recently released by Al Lichtman, found much to praise in the production, but balked at the cleanliness of the jail in which Kenneth Harlan is imprisoned.

But, for the benefit of this particular reviewer, let it be explained that the dart of criticism is aimed, not at the artificiality of the screen, but at the onrush of reform. For the cleanly cell and corridors to which attention is called, are not the work of a technical director, but an example of hospitality offered by Los Angeles to its convicted law breakers. The jail, in fact, is none other than the Lincoln Heights jail, Los Angeles, just as it was found by the cameramen, players and producers of the picture!

Sam Jaffe, production manager for "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," who claims to know the inner workings of prisons from here to Siberia and back, (professionally, of course) is authority for the statement that (Continued on Page 20)
After a careful combing of the entire field of available directors, Jack Coogan Senior has engaged Viktor Schertzinger to direct Jackie in "Long Live the King," his first Metro production.

Schertzinger has just finished "The Man Next Door." Under his leadership with R. P. Schuhberg, he handled Katherine Macdonald in her last four pictures.

Schertzinger will be remembered as Charles Ray's director for many of his successes, and also for his work with Mabel Normand and Tom Moore. He is one of the universally appreciated directors of the screen, a capable technician, a man of artistic imagination, and the powers and capabilities to transmute those ideas and images into screen language.

Frank MacMullen, who has been a clothing, collar, statuette and other manufacturers, has decided that displaying his wardrobe before the camera would offer him a greater opportunity than presenting it for the approval of prospective customers on the street, in hotels and other places. Jack Ford, fox director, has cast the former model for an important role in his next production, as yet untitled, which will enter filming soon at the company's west coast studios.

Patsy Back on Screen

Patsy Hayes, having recently completed a vaudeville tour, has returned to work in motion pictures. She is remembered for her brilliant characterization in "Ivanhoe," the "Son of Wallingford," a Vitagraph production.

Two thousand women, attending the annual convention in Indianapolis of the Indiana Federation of Women's Clubs and the "T-Teachers" Associations, expressed enthusiastic approval when Florence Vidor's latest picture, "Alice Adams," was presented as the entertainment feature of their program recently.

At each annual convention of these organizations one photograph is screened, the choice being made by the Executive Council of Women's Clubs from a selected list of eligible offerings.

A further endorsement was forthcoming when, following the screening, an address was made by the Hon. Joseph T. Lytell, discussing the subject, in which many of the women particularly commented on the adaptation of Mr. Tarkington's "Alice Adams" theme of the discussion.

Blanche Sweet, now completing her characterization in "The Meanest Man in the World," the United Studios, is to appear in two Goldwyn productions. Upon conclusion of her present engagement wherein she depleted the country last assiduity Bert Lytell, Miss Sweet will start on Goldwyn's picturization of "The Palace of the King," to be directed by Emmett Flynn. Following this she will appear in the title role of Marshall Neilan's "Tess of the U'рубberlives." This will mark her initial appearance on the home industry's screen and the band's direction in four years.

Miss Sweet's recent return to the screen as "Quincy Adams Sawyer," after her years' absence has been a triumph for this popular star and has proved that the film and her popularity with the American public as a result of her absence from the screen.
CAMERA

“The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry” Page Seven

FLASHEs FROM FRISCO

By AGNES KERR CRAWFORD

San Francisco, Cal., April 23—Jack Dewey, of the Golden Gate Productions has returned from Los Angeles with the finished continuity for three pictures. F. E. Fisher, who is business manager of the organization, announced that they expect to begin actual shooting of at least two pictures early in May, doing their studio work at the Pacific Studios, with location work in and near San Francisco.

Paul Powell, director of “The Fog” finished editing the picture at the Pacific Studios last week, and drove home to Los Angeles in his car last Friday. Mr. Powell has not only made a good picture here, but leaves behind him many new, but warm friends.

Eric Von Stroheim, now making “Greed” here, for Goldwyn, says that every picture he directs he has to learn a lot of new stuff, and that this time part of it is dentistry. “McTeague,” hero of Frank Norris’ great American classic from which the picture is being made, was most of his life a cheap dentist. So by the time Von Stroheim and Gibson Gowland, who plays “McTeague,” have, with the help of a real dentist, worked out all of the detail of the scenes in the dental office they both, if the picture business ever fails, can start out as country dentists.

H. A. McKenzie, of the Kenmat Productions, a San Francisco organization with offices in the Mills Building, returned last Saturday with the finished film of the company’s first picture. It was made in a southern studio under the title of “Scarlet Shadows,” but it has had its title changed to “Crested Wire.” It will be shown here to a few personal friends, after which Mr. McKenzie expects to leave with the film for New York to arrange distribution.

The “Pair of Hellions” company working under the direction of Walter W. Bell for the Stereoscopic Productions are making most satisfactory progress with the picture, another week or ten days of work will finish the shooting. While on location last week up near Niles Canyon the company had a funny experience, as they wanted to get a shot of Ranger Bill Miller getting off a train. So in full cowboy outfit he dashes on a little local train making a short stop at a station, and ran through the cars to do his bit getting off. With the result, that in spite of the camera clicking away on the platform the passengers thought it was a real holdup, and a panic ensued. A few nights ago the company staged a big and most realistic barn dance at the Pacific Studios, where they are doing their studio work.

Edwin B. Willis of the Goldwyn organization spent a few days in San Francisco last week.

Ivor McFadden has decided that making pictures on a co-operative basis has too many difficulties, so the Co-Operative Film Company of this city is, for the time at least, on the inactive list.

Louis Graf, president, and Max Graf production director of the Graf Films left for Los Angeles last Friday with the just completed film of “The Fog,” made at the Pacific Studios, with an all star cast, and to be released through Metro.

Ashley Cooper, well known English actor of both stage and the silent drama, arrived in Ben Franklin last week. The cast of “A Pair of Hellions” now being made at the Pacific Studios.

Frank Hayes, of the “Greed” cast is having a beautiful time in San Francisco these days, for not only is his part in the picture getting well, but he is enjoying a visit to his old home city. For although he has been away for twenty years, he was born and reared here, and belongs to a well known old family, so well known in fact that Hayes Street, where the Von Stroheim set is now, was named after them. So every time Frank sticks his funny face outside the door some old friend is sure to come up to hold a reunion with him.

Robert Eddy, director, and Joseph Gonga, his assistant, have returned to San Francisco, and are busy making preparation for the filming of the second series of Plum Center Comedies soon to be started at the Gerson Studios here.

Noah Berry, his wife and little son spent several days last week at the St. Francis. He said he was here, not on business trips, but for a little holiday, and a complete rest to recover from his very strenuous fight in “The Spellers,” and his four months’ steady work on four big pictures. He returned to the south to start work on “To The Last Man” and says he is going to be the last man himself if it kills him.

WHY “SOULS FOR SALE”

By RUPERT HUGHES

The crimes committed by the public against moving pictures and their people are largely due to the habit of comparing the lives of actors with imaginary and ideal lives, instead of comparing them with the real lives of other people.

An article devoted to the divorces in Hollywood makes starting reading. But when you say, “The divorces in Indiana are still more numerous,” that throws a different light on the matter.

Conditions in the studios are not always beyond criticism, but look at the scandals and murders in church choirs and pulpits.

In “Souls for Sale,” I have tried first of all to tell a story of moving picture life; second, to make it true to its life; and third, to give a true idea of the life outside. And so I take a minister’s daughter for my heroine, and I show that she has no end of temptation and misfortune in her snug (and snug it is) home town. She finds in the moving pictures first a refuge, and then a fascinating lifework.

I have not idealized the movie-world, but have emphasized its ideals. I have not concealed its unpleasant phases, but I have tried to show its difficulties. I have made what use I could of the heartaches, heroines and nobilities, the bright rewards and the fine soldierly quality of the movie men and women and children as I have known them so well and so long.

Noah Berry, whose great performance in the B. P. Hampton production of “The Spellers,” just completed, is said to be a classic in perfect characterization.

THE GIRL ON THE COVER

In presenting the likeness of Martha Marshall on its cover this week, we cannot take all the credit when published in magazine and book form and later in the newspapers. But to make any use of it at all on the screen, would violate the rules of every censor board, and set the axe to swinging. The head of the picture would have been cut off before it could be seen. So I changed it. But the very difference between the original story and its picture version may make both more interesting for many reasons.
Unqualified praise of Norma Talmadge's new crime drama, "Within the Law," was given in an official communication from Police Chief Daniel J. O'Brien, of San Francisco, following a special showing of the film recently held at the chief, the police commissioners and other officials.

Chief O'Brien's praise was reiterated by Commissioners Andrew J. Mahoney and Jesse Cook, of the police board in speeches. The program, of which the showing of the film was a part, included a speech by A. M. Bowles, San Francisco Executive of the West Coast Theatres Circuit, telling of the personal assistance given by Chief O'Brien when Miss Talmadge's company was filming scenes of "Within the Law," in San Francisco.

The San Francisco police head proclaimed the Joseph M. Schenck film a fair revelation of police methods, and gave an "unqualified endorsement" of it in a letter to the peace officers of America. In his letter he urged the police chiefs of the country to see the film and extend their commendation. He also sent telegrams to Miss Talmadge, Director Frank Lloyd and Joseph M. Schenck warmly praising the film for its dramatic excellence.

O'Brien's letter to police chiefs reads: "To My Brother Police Officers of America. It was a pleasure to see Norma Talmadge in 'Within the Law' and endorse it unqualifiedly as entirely fair to the police of America—which endorsement I sincerely believe you will uphold. The San Francisco police have seen it and laud it as an intelligent revelation of the conditions with which the police have to cope. "I take this means of thanking Norma Talmadge, Frank Lloyd, her director, and Joseph M. Schenck, producer, for the splendid compliment paid to police officers in eliminating from the screen version of 'Within the Law' some of the exaggerated barbarisms, relics of a past period of police methods, which the stage play originally called for. "It is the criminal who keeps within the law who is hardest to trap, and whose apprehension sometimes requires the extreme methods shown in the Norma Talmadge film. Police officers take risks and give their lives every day, not merely to pursue crime, but to prevent it. "I hope you will all take occasion to see this impressive picture and that you will lend your communication to it."

TENDENCIES TELLABLY TOLD

If King Tut only knew how many newspaper columnists and film fans he'd probably be inspired to utter the objection: "Tut, tut," if he has any modesty left in his unmummified self. Mensa are using his name in films and those who are not are using that name in publicity. So don't they will keep at it and the producers are courageously trying out implausibly a most resounding "Tut, tut!"

Anyone who thinks the 'original story' is on the high road to coming back has only to read the almost daily lists of recent purchases of stories by prominent producers. Successful and unsuccessful stage plays and novels constitute the very big bulk of the current acquisitions of film-makers and the buying of an "original" is a rare event.

Now it is predicted that farce comedy will have its vogue on the screen. Several producers are preparing screening plays of this type. Thus far farce comedy never has been able to dominate the silver sheet situation, but it is said the public has manifested an abundance of patience, and that comedy is more occasion for merriment.

Popular demand for more photoplays is causing the studios to increase production. All present conditions in the motion picture industry seem to be wholesome. So, if you're worrying, don't.

There is a depth in character men due to the unprecedented demand for their services in pictures nowadays. If the supply of character men cannot be made sufficient the making results from the stage, why not give the character women a chance.

If the price of materials entering into the work of making motion pictures should be increased, as it is predicted, show business journals, it is not likely that the admission prices to theaters will be raised. On the contrary, there are indications that these prices will be lowered in spite of any further soaring of rawstock prices. Meanwhile, however, the country is entitled to some explanation from Washington, D. C., as to the reason for the apparent helplessness of the government in the matter of cutting the high cost of living with anything like reassuring rapidity.

Although the picture is not scheduled for release by First National for another week, a special set of the film is shipped to San Francisco for the showing.

Following are the telegrams: "Miss Talmadge, Have seen 'Within the Law' and congratulates you on the wonderful triumph and handling of emotional scenes. Your 'Mary Turner' was a gripping, vital portrayal." "Frank Lloyd: 'Within the Law,' was shown to myself and Police Commissioners, and we unanimously proclaimed it the great event of the season. It is a wonderful tribute to your ability as a director, and to the fine playing of your cast." Chief O'Brien's telegram to Mr. Schenck thanks the producer for eliminating on his recommendation scenes which would show police methods now said to be obsolete, obsolete.

JAZZ AND TORRENCE

Jazz and more jazz, excitement, music, dancing—all of these form the component parts of opening scenes for Jerome Storm's Paramount Picture "Children of the Paramount," in which are featured Theodore Kosloff, Ricardo Cortez, Elleen Percy and Robert Cain. Beulah Marie Dix adapted the Harold Dark house play and Richard Blossom is producer-editor. Very shortly the company will go to an island location for some important scenes.

The recent announcement by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, of the engagement of Ernest Torrence for a group of Paramount pictures, has caused much interest in film circles. Since James Cruze's production "The Covered Wagon," reached the screen, Torrence has been the recipient of innumerable congratulations for his work as "Bill Jackson." The first picture announced under the new arrangement is entitled by George Melford of Emerson Hough's story "North of 36," in which will be featured Ernest Torrence, Jacqueline Logan and Noah Berry.

"Something different every day" is the program that the makers of the Monro Doctrine Centennial in Los Angeles this summer, between July 2 and August 4, are working on. In addition to its historical aspect, the exposition is going to make a special appeal to the 20,000,000 motion-picture-goers of the country, because all of the studios, their technical forces and actor folk are uniting in supporting the undertaking. While there have been film exhibitions in New York, Chicago and other points, none of them have had the scope of this project in filmdom's own capital. Such a gathering of all lines and in such numbers has never been held anywhere; and the studios have joined hands to put their best feet forward that the public may have an opportunity to get a closer glimpse of "what's what in the movies."
CAMERA'S WEEKLY WAKE-EM-UP

SPECIAL NEWS SECTION
SATURDAY, APRIL 28, 1923

NEW ORLEANS' MARDI GRAS GENIUS WILL SUPPLY THE EXPO WITH PAGEANT

Floats which will excel in gorgeousness anything ever seen in the West are now being designed by Charles Larkin for the Mardi Gras in the United States for the American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition, which opens in Los Angeles, July 2. Frank Cox, who for ten years had charge of the Mardi Gras parades in New Orleans, is the designing artist and technical director of construction and display of floats and pageants. He has in his charge not only the history and development of floats but the commercial floats as well. Thus artistic harmony is assured.

For more than twenty years Mr. Cox has been recognized as supreme in his special line of art. One of his foremost successes was the National Peace Jubilee in Washington, D. C., in 1899, following the end of the Spanish-American war, and from that time he has been almost continually engaged in civic or governmental pageants. During the World War he was employed in the National Liberty Loan campaign and at that time executed dramatic floats which added much to his brilliant record, for he has the highest dramatic and poetic gifts.

California lends itself to outdoor festivities in a way that no other stage can boast and gives peculiar inspiration to the artist, Mr. Cox is now at work on designs for various counties that have requested him to submit drawings for approval. While cities and counties are at liberty to design and produce their own floats, there being no obligation placed on them by the exposition management, most of the entrants are desirous of employing Mr. Cox. As there will be displayed every evening on the great stage of the coliseum many original floats the aggregate for the five weeks of the exposition will tax the originality and ingenuity of the artist.

Plans for the historical revue are well under way and they promise pageants of the most wonderful magnitude and most beautiful conception. Hundreds of actors and actresses will be mobilized for this part of the Monroe Doctrine Centennial celebration.

Work on the Spanish-Colonial city, which will house the exposition in progressing rapidly. A number of the exhibition bungalows are nearly finished and they give promise of the most unique and most picturesque setting.

KANE TELLS CUBA 1923 WILL BE BIG YEAR

Arthur S. Kane, president of Associated Exhibitors, carried the gospel of motion picture prosperity to Cuba on his recent southern trip. With Arthur S. Kane, Jnr., he deserted the beautiful golf courses of Florida long enough to go over to Havana for a few days and there he was feted in a manner becoming an American magnate.

Mr. Kane and his son were met at the dock by a party including Rafael Martinez Ybor, Instructor of Consul; Henry Weinr, General manager of United Artists Corporation in Cuba; Roderick Ross, of Chicago, and Paul de Cuto, Cuban manager for Universal.

Under the heading, "Sport Writer is Movie Magnate," the Havana Telegram said: "An interesting story among the recent arrivals in the capital city is Arthur S. Kane, head of the New York film organization which bears his name and Associated Exhibitors. Through these organizations the releases of pictures starring such screen celebrities as Charlie Ray, of rural role fame, and Harold Lloyd, the goggled comedian, are handled.

"Mr. Kane is authority for the statement that the motion picture enterprise which he enjoys its most prosperous year in 1922, with every indication pointing toward even greater success during the present season. Over 700 feature films were released last year—a record for the industry."

"Charlie Ray now has in course of production a film which warrants the title, 'The Courtship of Miles Standish,' over half a million dollars will be spent on the making of it, and it is the most elaborate of any in which the master of rural interpretation has appeared."

The Havana Post published an interview in which Mr. Kane spoke enthusiastically of the possibilities of successful picture production in Cuba.

CONSTANT THRILLS FOR CONSTANCE IN YOSEMITE

Yellowstone National Park, the famed wonders of which draw thousands of beauty seekers from over the world each year, has been worked into the scenic splendors of the park from the film. As an attempt to make a trip of it that is also a loop, in its swirling descent. The trip, which was made through the direction of Sidney Franklin in charge, was reported to be one of mixed delight and disappointment due to freakish weather conditions. From hour to hour the members of Connie's troupe could not tell whether they would have sunshine, rain, snow, or clouds. On one day the film was interrupted by three reels, and the members of the party spent the time while it was drenched before the weather change again.

Miss Talmadge suffered somewhat the effects of the flooding or heavy rain when the company left the hotel for location in a remote part of the park.

An unusual engineering feat was accomplished by the technical staff. The falls were supposed to represent Niagara. In order to increase the volume of the Yosemite waterfall the flow from some of the rain-swollen streams nearby were temporarily diverted. Permission to do this was secured from Park authorities.

GEORGE LARKIN TO STAR IN NEW RUSSELL FILM

Russell Productions, Inc., are to present George Larkin as the star in another feature story, temporarily titled, "The Valley of Uproot." This will be the seventh picture in which the company has given Larkin the stellar role. Actual filming of the picture will start this week under the personal direction of Bernard D. Russell, an official of the company, who reports that his pictures starring Larkin are proving popular with state rights buyers.

PLAYCRAFTERS TO TRY NOVEL PLAN

The usual Monday night meeting of The Playcrafters had at the last session, April 23, the unusual feature of hearing L. M. Baell of the University of California, Southern Branch, give a talk on aspects of Greek drama and its influence on modern productions. The speaker proved himself entirely familiar with the history of the stage, and made many interesting comparisons between the old plays and those of today.

The second half of the evening was given over to the reading of the results of Miss Talmage's one-act sketch, entitled, "The Closet of Dreams." Criticism was made by the members who were introduced to the writers of the play. The results of the first principles this organization supports is that a member of the organization is to sponsor his own production, secure the actors and direct the rehearsals. The organization will then vote on which numbers are the most suitable for public presentation. In this way many weak points will be eliminated.

Anyone interested in drama construction may visit the Club, which meets each Monday evening at The Denishawn Studios, 522 South Grand Avenue. Two one-act plays are to be passed on at the next session.

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS AT FOX WIN PROMOTION

Promotions are in order at the William Fox studios! During the past few days the assistant directors, William Wellman and James Flood, have been elevated to the ranks of directors. Wellman will direct the Dustin Farnum pictures, while Flood will avid the megaphone for William Russell features.
Ince Buys Big Drama

Thomas H. Ince has purchased screen rights to "Ann Christie," Eugene O'Neill's big drama which had a sensational run in New York last year and was awarded the 1922 Pulitzer prize for literature. Of the year which would most advance the cause of American literature, Robert F. McClure, the in-house writer at work is on the screen adaptation which will go into production shortly under direction of John Griffith Wray. Mr. Ince personally will supervise the screening of the "special" which he is planning to make one of the biggest features of his full releasing program.

Title for Novel Chosen

The "Cock of Morality" is the title which has been chosen for a new novel on which Talbot Mundy, well known author, and Thomas H. Ince, who arranged the Ince writing staff, are collaborating. The story, which later will be adapted to an Ince screen special by Miss King, deals with the modern code of morals from an unusual angle and a certain femmish mania for which a man who convicted himself of hypocrisy is the "villain" of the tale. Mundy and Ince had completed work on "The Devil's Own," a novel dealing with the power of the American press which is being published by the Bobbs-Merrill company. Miss King has adapted it for the screen under the title, "Her Reputation."

Ray With Technicolor

Ray Rennahan, well-known cinematographer, is again with the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation, who are using studio sites on Lodi street. Rennahan recently returned from the biggest Technicolor feature he has before his return. He was with them nine months last year.

Arrived From Boston

C. A. Wilhel, J. A. Ball, Ray Rennahan and staff have arrived from Boston and are now established at the National studios. They are handling the Hollywood business of the Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation, and will engage in complete film making at their new site, and produce a feature in color in the near future.

Ince Has New "Find"

Thomas H. Ince has made a new screen "find," Lucile Rick- son, a two-year-old beauty who plays an interesting character "bit" in Mrs. Wallace Reid's anti-narcotic film, "Hu- man Wreckage," which has signed a three-year contract with Mr. Ince. Her first appearance under the Ince banner probably will be in "Country Lanes and City Pavements," the big "special" featuring Madge Bellamy which will be directed by Mr. Ince personally. Work on the new feature will begin as soon as Miss Bellamy returns from her cross-country "cruise." In the meantime Miss Rickson has been loaned to Marshall Neilan to play a part in "The Rendez- vous."

Elephantine Appetite

Two hundred and eighty pounds of lump sugar were consumed by "Oscar," the elephant star in Thomas H. Ince's screen novel, "Soul of the Beast," during his engagement with the Ince studios. Oscar had his fits of temperament like every other screen celebrity and as his poundage and sugar lump ration was forthcoming at frequent intervals he went on strike. Sugar kept him in a good temper. Miss King, who stars with him in the novel production, fed him some ice cream. The elephant required a dish of ice cream hourly until his work hours were over. The picture will be re leased later by Metro Pictures corporation.

Ralph Gets Facetious

"Yes, I'd like to be a leading man, and I probably will be soon--leading a horse around the studio." This wise crack from Ralph Clounger, who by the way is one of those furthest removed from a casting director, playing a big part in Dustin Farnum's "The Twins of Suffering Creek" at the Fox Studios.

Otto's Past Revealed

Otto Moreland, who recently finished the part of Philippe de Vilmorin in Rex Ingram's "Scarface," is best known as the leading man in "The Infinite," "Shakespeare and Wash- ington Irving. He is a Dane by birth and has played before many of the crowned heads of Europe as well as most of the prominent people of this coun-

Mickey Was There

Yup, Mickey was there in all his glory! Young Mr. McBean was an important factor in the presentation of the thirteen Baby Stars at the Wampas Frolic, and was accorded a very appropriate introduction by Frederick P. O'Brien, master of ceremo-

Returns From Showfest

Chapman Day, her return from the Ziegfeld Frolics in the lurch when she turned her attention to the Rickcine celluloid, has just returned from New York where she went to visit her mothers after a three years' ab-

Welsh Has Hobby of His Own

Golfing or tennis hold no lure for Niles Welsh, well known screen leading man, is now spending his spare time fashioning an as-

Wants to Build an Asylum

Director and producer who is now at work on the screen version of the novel "Tutankhamen," says that one of his contracts is for an asylum with padded cells for directors who have gone crazy trying to make the movies perfect enough to satisfy all the various types of theatregoers in the country. It's quite a job, according to Director Earle.

Speed Boat Christened "Bebe"

Dirk and the Danes have scenes for her latest Paramount picture, "The Exciters," Bebe Daniels was called upon, for the first time in her life, to drive a speed boat. It happened that Bebe was in the front seat of the car being driven by Jack Conway.

The Stars the Merrier!

Hollywood reports an infusion of noted New York character actors to the films. First Horace McMahon signed to play a part in "The Horse of Mary Pickford;" then Emmett Corrigan is signed by Marshall Neilan and Ralph Clounger has brought Harry Mestayer across the continent for an important part in the screen adaptation of his play, "The Merrie World" which is now being filmed at the Ince Studios.

Actor Burned

Martha Franklin, playing the role of Miss Vindaloo in Richard Walton Tully's all-star production of "Trilby," was painfully, though not seriously burned last week, and is taking time off this week. She was carrying a plum pudding covered with chocolate icing, and the liquid ran over her hand and arm. Undaunted, however, she continued her work.

Jackie Saunders Back

Jackie Saunders, who recently returned from the East after a successful vaudeville tour, is now with the Reinsurance Com-

Welsh Takes "Daisy" to San Diego

Welsh has a hobby of his own--golfing or tennis hold no lure for Niles Welsh, well known screen leading man, in the future. He was a guest of the Metropolitan Opera last week, and his guest list included a number of his friends, including Mrs. Thirtle, Mrs. Martha Tully and many others.

Welsh Takes "Daisy" to San Diego

Welsh has a hobby of his own--golfing or tennis hold no lure for Niles Welsh, well known screen leading man, in the future. He was a guest of the Metropolitan Opera last week, and his guest list included a number of his friends, including Mrs. Thirtle, Mrs. Martha Tully and many others.

Wallace Worsley Going Abroad

Wallace Worsley, who is directing and producing "Jules and Jim," which is now in production for "The Mysteries of Notre Dame" for Universal, is planning to take a company abroad for two weeks for the filming of four feature stories. In any case, this is the report received from his press agent Mr. G. D. McCall, that he has engaged with Mr. Thomas, about May 8th.

Estelle Taylor Busy

Estelle Taylor, who has been the feminine lead in Richard Thomas' current production, "Other Men's Money," has been cast in C. B. DeMille's "Ten Commandments," which will go into production immediately after the completion of the work. Alphonse Ethier, Walter Percival, Frederick Lewis and others who have not yet been selected.
RUPERT JULIAN IS THROUGH AT U, REPORT

According to announcement, Rupert Julian has terminated his contract with Universal.

The taking over of 'Merry Go Round' left that company April 25th, on the fulfillment of his contract.

Julian has completed the editing and titling of the Viennese spectacle, after fifteen weeks of hard work at this task. The picture has been reduced to ten reels from over 200,000 feet.

When interviewed, Julian said that he had under consideration a number of leading producing companies, including one from Universal, but that he would make no decision for the present.

"My engagement with Universal was a most pleasant one," said Julian. "The treatment accorded me by Mr. Laemmle and other studio executives was excellent and they paid me what I consider to be quite fair for a picture of the sort. I have had the most perfect co-operation with the Universal directors and staff, and I think I deserve a short rest. Several of the leading directors have approached me with offers of work and Universal has made me an excellent proposition to remain with them. But I shall make no decision for a few days. Universal has assured me that the picture I am working on, 'Merry Go Round' will receive proper care in the cutting of it in New York, so I shall return to New York on this trip east to supervise the work."

Julian, who began his film career with Universal more than ten years ago, has been engaged on more than sixty feature productions, several of which have grossed over $1,000,000 each. "The Kaiser, The Beast of Berlin," more than two million. He has been rated as one of the few directors able to consistent- ly make financial successes. Julian retired from motion pictures in 1919, but was persuaded to return to Universal last fall to take over the 'Merry Go Round'.

MORANTE TO BE STARRER

IN NEW COMEDY SERIES

Milburn Morante, who co-starred with Gale Henry and Billy Franey in the old 'Joker' comedies produced a number of years ago, by Harry Corbett, has again entered the comedy field, this time as the featured player in a series of two-reel situation comedies, to be made at the Baus sell studios under the direction of Tom Gibson. Eddie Barry and Ken Williams will co-star, among a number of others, to appear in his support.

"KIPPS" GETS THERE IN AMERICA IN TWO UPS

George K. Arthur, who for two years was starred in feature films produced by Stoll Films, Inc., in London, England, and who is one of several artists from England to recently enter Hollywood, has hung up a record which is going to be hard for some of our stars to equal.

George K., who became widely known as "Kipps" throughout England and other foreign countries, where his pictures were exhibited, finished his contract with Stoll Films last January. He had been away from the weather, heavy fogs and rains, which prevail in his native land during the active months of the year, young Arthur decided it would be a great time for him to make a trip to Southern California, a trip he had eagerly looked forward to for some time. In Southern California, he says, he will work for five weeks basking in the warmth and sunshine, he would give the post-production methods the twice around and then after an enjoyable, vacation, would return to England to resume his career.

Fate, however, played her hand in a manner quite agreeable to the young Englishman.

Two days after becoming a resident of Hollywood young Arthur stepped over to the Fox studios, to find that he could gain admittance to the studios and gather data on how pictures are made in this country. Like all other visitors, however, he was denied permission to enter the plant. He had expected that Hollywood studios were like English studios in every respect, at least, that they would be open to the public through the studio. As he re- traced his steps toward the street, he heard some one talking to the casting director.

"Perhaps I can get a studio pass for Casting Director," said young Arthur to himself. As he approached, the c. d., who had been closely observing the youth, said, "You're just the fellow I can use in one of our pictures. Come with me, please."

LOUISE FAZENDA

CAST IN STAHL FILM, "THE WANTERS"

Louise Fazenda, the famous comedy queen, has been added to the all-star cast of the John M. Stahl special, "The Wanters," now under production at the Louis B. Mayer studios for First National. The role is said to be especially adapted to Miss Fazenda's unique kind of fun making. The comedienne's most recent work was in "Main Street," a picture in which she played the role of Bea Sorensen, Swedish maid. She finished work recently in a feature comedy in the Fox, "Fog," as a Max Graf production for Metro.

ROY DEL RUTH

FINISHES NEW COMEDY FOR SNETTEN

Roy Del Ruth has completed "Skytopping," an all-star Mack Sennett comedy to be released through First National, which was started under the working title, "Mud Pies and Puddings." The cast includes Harry Grribbons, Alfredo Guardians, Alma Vaughn, Kewpie Mor- gan, Lila Leslie, Josephine Adair, Jack William Lucas and Tug Wilson. Del Ruth started today on another comedy production in which Harry Grribbon is to play a featured role.

GOLDWYN GETS BIG COSMOPOLITAN OUTPUT

According to telegraphic advice from New York to the Goldwyn Studios, fifteen pictures produced by Cosmopolitan Productions will be placed on the market next season by the Goldwyn Distributing Corporation, in connection with the Goldwyn output.

This announcement follows that of the merger for distributing and handling of the company, consummated by William Randolph Hearst and F. J. Goddard. The pictures include "Enemies of Women," by Vicente Blasco Ibenez, now enjoying a successful run at the Central Theatre in New York, and a comedy in the same theatre in Los Angeles, with a cast including Lionel Barrymore and Alma Rubens. This is a picture which was di- rected by Alan Crosland.

Following this will be Marion Davies in "Little Old New York," written by F. M. Field and Young and directed by Sidney Olcott. The Daughter of Mother McCoo," of which Frances Marion and George Hill; "Unseeing Eyes," by David Butler, directed by E. H. Griffith, "Two Laughing Men," directed by Lionel Barrymore and Seena Owen; "Under the Red Robe," by Stan- ley Weyman, directed by Frank Curwood, with Robert B. Man- tell, John Charles Thomas and Alma Rubens.

"ALAN" IS POPULAR NAME

IN JACKIE COOGAN CAST

This is a tale of the three Alans. Despite the title, it does not concern a vaudeville- act but merely states that three young men who bear the proud name of Alan are prominent in various branches of the show business. Alan O'Leary, known for "Long Live the King," "There is Alan Forrest, as Nicky, the replacement of the Royal Guards and Jackie's own aid de-camp; Alan Hale, who will play bluff King Kral (no relation to the country), and Alan Sears who will play the role of the American boy's father in the Mary Robertin Rineway story.
Laura LaPlante has been cast for her third leading feminine role in support of the popular Hoot Gibson at Universal City. This feature is the story of which Miss LaPlante appears is "Out of Luck," an original story of the Northwest Mounted Police, written by Edward Sedgwick, who is directing the picture.

Other plays in which Miss LaPlante appeared with Gibson were "Dead Game" and "Shootin' for Love," both typical western pictures. In each of these she is known as "the Wampus," as one of the thirteen baby stars for the coming 1923 season.

Production has just been completed at Universal City on "Turning Words," a story of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, starring Roy Stewart. The play was directed by Stuart Paton.

"Turning Words" was written especially for the screen by Harrison Warren Jacobs and formed the vehicle for Stewart's first appearance as a player in a feature under his new contract with Universal. Previous to his new contract, he had appeared in chapter plays and two-reel westerns, and cast in all-star pictures.

The entire cast of the film was made up of bright young stars and included: Laura LaPlante, Harold Goodwin, Edith Yorke, Alfred Fisher, Noble Johnson, William Whiting, Leni Carter and George McCannell.

The world's youngest film star has "arrived." She is not quite four years old yet—but she's now a "great big star," with one of the best known directors in Hollywood. She won it all through clever acting.

This is the news from Universal City, with the announcement that Baby Peggy is to make her début in a big feature play. Baby Peggy's comedies have been famous for some time. Her "Jack, the Giant Killer" and "Rags to Riches" have made her the best known baby in the world.

Wherefrom Carl Laemmle has decided to cast a 4-year-old in the first magnitude. Raymond L. Schrock, scenario editor at Universal, and producer of "A Quiet Life," a famous actor and director, are now engaged on the story in which Baby Peggy is to play, and King Vidor, himself, will direct the offering, to be released as a Universal-Jewel photoplay. The title is "Peggie the Proud." Baby Peggy will support the diminutive star in a seven or eight reel elaborately special.

Jack Hoxie, veteran cowboy and trick rider of the screen, has ridden, roped and shot his way into another adaptable feature for Universal, "Don Quickshot of the Rio Grande," a story of the great southwestern cattle country.

The story was adapted to the screen from a magazine story by an artist of film standing, directed by George E. Marshall, who will also direct Hoxie in his production of a western feature, "Where Is This West," an original story by George C. Hull. Hoxie has been signed by Universal to do a series of feature productions built around the western cattle country. In the pilot unit at Universal City are a dozen glorified veterans who have ridden the range from the Border of Alberta, old friends of the cowboy, and, star, some of whom knew him when he was just a youngsters. Satisfied with the ranch in Oklahoma, they tend realistic atmosphere to his productions.

Clarence L. Brown has been signed by the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Brown directed "The Light in the Dark," and other notable screen successes and is regarded as an artist of film standing. His contract with Universal calls for the making of four productions this year.

The first of these will be "The Acquittal." Rita Weiman's famous stage play, which has been produced in New York for just one opening a run in London which is expected to rival his own. Its lead role of the woman in the "Acquittal" is as intense, dramatic, as anything Miss Weim has played and should afford her an excellent opportunity.

The "Acquittal" tells the story of Basin in the Pacific, an accused of murder, his benefactor, but owing to his own slowness to the nature of the woman in the "Acquittal" is as intense, dramatic, as anything Miss Weim has played and should afford her an excellent opportunity.

Jules Furthman, a writer of titles, and editor of the "Motion Picture Herald," a writer of titles, and editor of the "Motion Picture Herald," is expected to prove one of the various sensational promised in the visual romance by Madeline Ruthven.

The engagement of Lincoln follows on the heels of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn's recent acquisition of Cora Nagel, who is coming on from New York to play the leading role in the film, a role of equal fame are now under consideration for the different parts and the cost will be completed with in the next few weeks.

The film will mark a departure for Nellie in that it is entirely different from any story he has picturized in the past. Work on the sets is now under way and the production should be started within the next week at the Goldwyn Studio.
COURTENAY STAGE HIT TO BE FILMED

John W. McDermott, former director of Universal, Fox and Christie comedies, has been engaged by First National to direct a picturization of "Her Temporary Husband," the famous farcical comedy stage success currently in production in New York for three months and since then has been played in most of the big cities in the East. It is a vehicle for Miss O'Hara, a picture star of many of the leading companies and there has been much speculation as to whether or not a producer and director will be engaged for Miss O'Hara's picture. There has been talk of Edward Delaney being engaged to direct her picture, but nothing definite has been heard since "Are You a Mason?"

McDermott, who will handle the project, is known as a versatile director with a large experience at the three big studios. He has been the manager of the leading companies and they have been engaged in directing.

He is the author of a hundred or more original film stories, many of which he directed personally. During the last year he has been engaged in directing for several companies and he has been engaged in directing.

The statement of Universal officials that Baby Peggy is to be supported by an all-star cast in her new Universal-Jewel production, took definite form this week in the announcement that Miss Mack Brockwell, who is the most popular star of the "The Day's Heirloom" series, will be the new Miss Holms. The character of Esmeralda, the young ingenue opposite of the character, leads, while Frances Cole, the heretofore popular vaudeville dancer, is playing the ingenue character opposite Don Armando, the Spanish nobleman. Miss Holmes is being replaced by one of the newly engaged and talented actresses who have come to America from across the sea, and the new Miss Holms is bound to be a success, while Frances Cole needs no introduction because her wholesome and charming character has made her popular with American vaudeville audiences everywhere. The Screenland is a favorite with audiences everywhere and will doubt win her the love of the movie fans as well.

The Screenland performers recruited from the stage, as was previously mentioned, are Don Armando and Arthur Beckam, both of whom have long previous successes to their credit.

COURTENAY TO GIVE SCREEN NEW FACES

James Calnay, author and producer of "Why Do We Live?" the seven-reel problem picture soon to be completed, is introducing a new cast of actors in the principal parts of his new production and all are entertainers who have been associated with him in the past.

"The public is constantly asking for new faces," said Mr. Calnay. "And successful producers must heed the public demand. Although we number six popular screen celebrities, among the leading characters of "Why Do We Live?" we also have several equally prominent stage players in the picture who are making their screen debut in this production. We are confident, however, that shortly after our picture is released their names will become as popular as if they had been the stars for years."

"Midge Holmes, who recently arrived here from her Russian stage tour, is our leading lady. Midge is one of the newly engaged and talented actresses who have come to America from across the sea, and the young ingenue opposite of the character, leads, while Frances Cole, the heretofore popular vaudeville dancer, is playing the ingenue character opposite Don Armando, the Spanish nobleman. Miss Holmes is being replaced by one of the newly engaged and talented actresses who have come to America from across the sea, and the new Miss Holms is bound to be a success, while Frances Cole needs no introduction because her wholesome and charming character has made her popular with American vaudeville audiences everywhere. The Screenland is a favorite with audiences everywhere and will doubt win her the love of the movie fans as well.

The Screenland performers recruited from the stage, as was previously mentioned, are Don Armando and Arthur Beckam, both of whom have long previous successes to their credit.

SCREEN "VAMP" PURSUES HIGH CLASS LITERATURE

Madeleine Hurlock, playing a vampire with Ben Turpin in his new Mack Sennett comedy series, "First Night of a Phantom," prefers the writings of Conrad, Tourgenief, Tolstoy, Hauptman, and Cabell to popular fiction and magazines. Away from the studio Madeleine is seldom seen in public. She prefers reading and studying.

Duncan Starts Work at U

According to the Universal production officials, the contract between Miss O'Sullivan and Universal and the contract between Duncan and his co-star, Edith Johnson, will begin serial work there. April 30th. "The Steel Temple," a new serial play produced by Duncan under his recently signed contract with the studio, is to be developed with his own pictures.
Who’s Who and What’s What in Filmland This Week

Hank Mann has signed to play one of the comedy roles in “Lights Out” for F. B. O.

Putty O’Byrne has finished her work in support of Stan Laurel at the Hal Roach studios.

Floyce Brown, Katherine Bates and Mahle Shoulders are the leading women in support of William Russell.

Jimmy Hone finishing “Blow Your Own Horn” with Warner Baxter, Ralph Lewis, Derelys Perdue and others, at Powers lot.

Fred DeSera has been signed by Vittagraph to appear in support of William Duncan and Larry Senou in their respective pictures.

Ethel Allen has been signed by Charles R. Seeling to play “Foe Benton” in “The Rider of Devil’s Hoot,” starring Big Boy Williams.

Margaret Landis is Harry Carey’s leading woman in his latest production for F. B. O., “The Miracle Baby,” being filmed under the direction of Val Paul.

Eleven tons of cement tiling were made at the Metro studio for the flooring of the castles and chateaux in Rex Ingram’s production of “Scaramouche” for Metro.

Otto Matiesen, practically a newcomer to the screen, has been selected to play the part of Philip de Vilmorin in “Scaramouche,” Rex Ingram’s production for Metro.

Edward Everett Horton has been cast as Vincent Platt in “The Sign,” a Trumble Murfin Production, which is being directed by Mrs. Murfin and Justin H. McCluskey.

George O’Hara has finished “When Gale Meets Hurricane,” and has now begun “Judy’s Punch,” twelfth of the Walter “Fighting Blood” series in which he is starring.

George K. Arthur, better known in England as “Kips,” has signed with F. B. O. to play leading roles. He is at present engaged in “Hollywood” at the Lesby studio.

Al. Murphy, who plays “Andy Gump” in the new Gump Comedies at Universal City, has an idea. He wants to play “Andy at Universal City,” and have Andy meet Priscilla Dean, Virginia Valli, Mary Philbin, Regional Denny and the rest of the stars. Murphy promises to have the biggest albatross ever seen in a comedy.

Julia Brown scored such a great hit in a recent “Our Gang” comedy that she was re-engaged last week by Director Bob Mack-Gowan for a part in the latest picture of the series.

Al. Saultell has begun work as director for F. B. O. under terms of his new contract. The first feature released Brown was in “Lights Out.” Based on P. B. Dickey and Mann Page, has a moving picture studio background.

Duke R. Lee, who plays “George Washington” in “Daniel Boone,” being filmed at New York City, is at work on a scenario. Lee has been engaged on his story for some time. It is a big Western tale. “Happy” Arthur, portrayer of comedy characters, has been cast in Capt. Leslie Peacock’s latest production, which entered filming almost two weeks ago, the Hoke-Hewitt (formerly Balboa) studios in Long Beach.

Harry Lamoont, well-known character actor, has completed a six-week’s vaudeville engagement, which took around about a adventure on the T and D circuit and has returned to Hollywood to resume his activity before the camera.

Pretty little Josephine Adair has been re-engaged by F. H. Sanders and Jones, supervising director of M. C. Sennett productions, to play a little boy part in “Scaramouche.” Sennett all-star comedy to be directed by Roy Del Ruth, with an all-star cast.

Willis Goldbeck, who wrote the continuity for Rex Ingram’s production of “Scaramouche” for Metro, has been selected as one of the production photographers of the Metro director. Mr. Goldbeck was formerly Mr. Ingram’s personal publicity representative.

Music hath charms to speed a wild sach. So Ruth Joyce, one of the principals in “Daniel Boone,” being filmed at Universal City, opines. She has a small portable phonograph, and plays it on “location” with the Daniel Boone company.

Carrie Clarke Ward, who probably has played more character roles than any other woman in name in pictures, has been cast by Benoit in “Scaramouche.” Rex Ingram’s newest Metro production. J. D. DeRue, an ex-skilled character artist, was cast for the part of her husband, M. Benoit, in the same picture. Rex Ingram did not know when he selected them for the cast that they are related. J. D. DeRue is the grandson of Sedley Brown, Miss Ward’s husband in real life.

Emory Johnson, creator of F. B. O.’s “The Third Alarm” and “Westbound Limited,” is re-casting his unit for a new picture. Mrs. Johnson, who is professionally known as Elia Hall, is doing well. They have two other children, both boys.

Ashley Cooper has returned from San Francisco where he played the character part of Bill Meade in “A Pair of Helmets,” a Saturday Evening Post story. The production was made at the Pacific studios, San Mateo. Mr. Cooper reports great activity at this studio.

Malcolm McGregor, Metro featured player, is to judge the diving contests to be held at the Ambassador Hotel swimming pool along the Hollywood in April. Mr. McGregor formerly held the Metropolitan diving championship and was also a member of the Yale swimming team for two years.

Edward Sllman who is to direct “The Eagle’s Feather,” the first of six all-star specials to be made by Metro during the coming season, handled the megaphone for two of the Jack London stories filmed by Metro several years ago. They were “Burning Daylight” and “The Mutiny of the Elsinore.”

Marvel, well-known vaudeville dancer, whose Spanish dance is one of the high lights of “In Old California,” starring Cora Kobell Young, has got the newest Metro starring picture, is said to closely resemble Rudolph Valentino. While in Theodore Roosevelt’s company, Marvel’s dancing partner was Natalie Rambova, Valentino’s present wife.

Gerald Beaumont, noted author, whose magazine stories are to be filmed at Universal City, has returned after a motor trip to Oakland to bring back his family. Beaumont, on his arrival, was so charmed with Los Angeles that he closed his home in Piedmont and has taken a bungalow here.

In line with the announcement made by him recently that no more Westerns would be filmed, Rex Ingram in the production of his new Pathe comedies, Mack Sennett is having a change of heart. Rex Ingram in the new Ben Turpin comedy, “Pittfalls of a Big City,” one of the most elaborate modern interiors ever conceived. It is of semi-futuristic design, with enough silk and satin drapes, batiks, pillows, and tapetries to delight the heart of a Fifth Avenue debutante.

Victor Saville, a leading producer and distributor of England, has been a visitor at the Metro studios during the past week. Mr. Saville has been especially interested in Rex Ingram’s production of “Scaramouche” for Metro. Next week and with him will go Betty Compson, who is to be starred in his next picture to be made abroad.

Fred Stanton, well-known actor of the legitimate stage, and better known for his character portrayals on the screen, has been engaged by Mack Sennett to play the “heavy” in “Pittfalls of a Big City,” in which Ben Turpin is being featured. This is the comedy which is now under filming in the Culver studios, and which will be directed by Roy Del Ruth. At the present time its title is “Number 115.”

Real cavalrymen eclipse actors any day for army scenes—because their riding is less specious. Orville Sedwick, who directed Hoot Gibson in “Pure Grill,” adapted from a novel by Willa Cather, is a border cavalry troop furnished thrills aloof. Their riding is all the more remarkable because it was done by Sedwick himself, the director. “Maybe I’m prejudiced, because I love the army so—but in this case, I think the film bears me out.”

Julia Gordon Here
One more screen player has wound her way westward. Julia Swaine Gordon, has arrived in Hollywood to play a part in Rex Ingram’s production of “Scaramouche” for Metro. During all the time Miss Gordon has been identified with motion pictures, which covers a period of many years dating back to the early Vitagraph days, this is her first trip to California.

Youngster Forging Ahead
Dorothy Sey has been engaged by the Hockett Film company to portray the role of Lincoln’s step-sister in its latest feature on Lincoln and the character of Abraham Lincoln.” This is the eleventh picture in which the younger has appeared since coming to California eight months ago.
The field of comedy producing was this week invaded by a new organization to be known as the Forrest Film Manufacturing company. The new company, which is hatched by well known eastern film men will specialize in the highest type of two-reel comedies. According to Martin J. Heyl, who has come here to organize the production talent for making the fun films. It is understood the comedies will be distributed by Educational, and that plans are already under way to start production on a series of twelve of the comic cinemas.

The productions will be made both here and in the east. They will be made at the present Deitzwood studios near Philadelphia in the summer, and this November the second series will be put into production here.

Heyl, who has opened headquarters at 6647½ Hollywood boulevard, is reporting to his associates the plans to take a battery of directors, assistant directors, cameramen, technicians, gags and scenario writers east with him at an early date.

"Practically all the comedians have been made up and sent west for a long time," says Heyl. "And Los Angeles streets are familiar to many of our fun film fans. We plan to make our first comedies in Philadelphia and can run over to Atlantic City and other eastern seaboard resorts any time we want beach stuff.

"California is the ideal place to make our movies because a change will come back here next November, but we believe comedies made in the east will have an opportunity of exciting a high class, dignified comedy touch with its characteristic that gives him great satisfaction. "How well the actor can blend the humorous with the pathetic is the measuring-stick of the artist's ability," said Lewis.

Lewis Likes Role

Ralph Lewis is highly pleased with his first role under his new starring contract with B. P. Pictures Corporation. In "Blow Your Own Horn," he has an opportunity of injecting a high class, dignified comedy touch with his characterization that gives him great satisfaction. "How well the actor can blend the humorous with the pathetic is the measuring-stick of the artist's ability," said Lewis.

Players Engaged

J. Warren Kerrigan and Anna Q. Nilsson are among the players who have so far been engaged for the new Universal production, "Havoc," which Harry Garson will direct.

When "Tutankhamen," the screen version of the famous Pharaoh and ancient Egypt, which is being produced by William P. S. Earle, is finally viewed on the screen the spectators are going to be greatly perplexed by these obviously false looking beards which many of the characters are adorned with. The spectator in fact will be quite apt to attribute this, and properly so, if a certain fact were not clearly explained to him, for the chin whiskers worn by Sam de Grasse and other members of the cast are queer looking arrangements that somewhat resemble the affairs used by Dutch vaudeville comedians. The beards worn by the actors in "Tutankhamen" are not supposed to be real looking because if they were it would be a directorial blunder and not true to old Egyptian life and times. It seems that in the days when King Tut ruled the Nile countries he was the custom for important men of state and church affairs to have not a set of whiskers but a variety of facial growths that every change of will at. On one day they would wear one set and on another day they would change to a new set according to the particular whim of the day. These beards were simply worn over the chin and mustache by cords which were tied behind the head. No effort was made to make them appear genuine and therefore Director Earle, in spite of the fact that he realized they would appear obviously false on the screen, ordered the actors to abide faithfully to the ancient custom even if it did see a little odd to spectators of the film.

EDUCATORS TO AID IN STAGING EXPOSITION

To determine just what episodes shall be represented in the historical revue, which will be an integral part of the Monroe Doctrine Centennial, a commission of prominent western educators has been selected. Their willingness to aid in the making of an accurate picture which will graphically picture the successive steps in the making of America, from its discovery down to the present day.

Those who have agreed to serve on this educational commission are President C. T. King Smid, president of the University of Southern California; Dr. Ernest C. Moore, dean of the University of California, Southern Branch; Dr. J. A. Blaisdell, president of Pomona College; Dr. Remsen D. Bird, president of Occidental College; Dr. Ray L. Wilbur, president Leland Stanford, Jr., University; Dr. Amelina H. Reinhardt, president of Mills College; Dr. Tully Knowles, president of College of the Pacific; Dr. Harry N. Wright, Whitier College; Dr. Victor L. Dukes, University of Redlands; Mr. F. H. California Institute of Technology; Mark Keppel, superintendent of Los Angeles County Schools; Mrs. Susan B. Dorse, superintendent of schools, city of Los Angeles; Mrs. Martha Neilson McCan, president Los Angeles Board of Park Commissioners.

At its first session, this commission found there is so much dramatic interest in this historical picture of the United States since 1492 that to reproduce anywhere near all it would require a year and a permit of a different pageant every day. As the Monroe Doctrine Centennial will last only thirty days, it means that merely the highlights can be presented, although the program will be rich in detail.

The revue will be put together in such a manner that all who see it will have a comprehensive idea of the more important episodes in American history. The idea is in the making of America under the auspices of the motion picture industry of Southern California, it has at its disposal all of the skilled directors, technicians and mimic artists. No other group could undertake a production in this magnitude.

Wherefore it is certain that the historical revue will be carried out on the scale that it merits.

Several interesting outlines have already been presented for this phase of the big display which will be held in the new coliseum that has just been completed by Los Angeles in Exposition Park. When the educational commission has made its selection, the plan will be turned over to a pageant-master of national reputation; and he will be supplied with a small army of designers, artists, costume-makers and other workers to externalize the plans.

Because of this permanent record, members of the educational commission are taking more than ordinary interest in the historical revue, because they see in it another important aid to the teaching of history.

The schools—graded, high and collegiate—will find it a valuable supplement to the printed text-books, whereupon special subscrip-tions will be made to guarantee the accurate representation of each incident that is portrayed on the screen. In this way, Los Angeles hopes to make its forthcoming exposition render a service to the future.

BUSTER BLOSSOMS FORTH WITH A BIGGEST SET

It is a far cry from a custard pie to the Coloseus of Rome, but that, literally speaking, is the measure of progress made by Buster Keaton in his graduation from the two-reel slap-stick to the large and highly amusing comedies and other valuable implement made by him. The latter is the real Coloseus to play with in his "Three Ages," the initial six-reel comedy he is making for the Joseph M Schenck Productions. Incidentally, the Coloseus is the largest set ever erected for a motion picture comedy, and, in general, is one of the largest ever built for a playspace.
A new film comedian has appeared on the horizon of stardom in Los Angeles. He is Johnnie Jones, who has within the last two years hoisted himself from comparative obscurity to the enviable position of one of the movies’ leading comedians.

Hines, who heretofore had confined his work to New York, has recently stepped to the fore in his production of "Burn 'Em Up Darners" and "Sure Fire Pilot." He has arrived on the coast to appear for the Warner Brothers in their production of George M. Cohan’s play "Little Johnny Jones."

"When we purchased 'Little Johnny Jones' and 'George Washington, Jr.' from Cohan," says J. L. Warner, "the problem of finding an actor with the ability to put Cohan on the screen arose. About the time our search began to look futile, every critic in New York broke forth with two assertions that a comparatively unknown film star was 'The George M. Cohan of the movies,' so immediately our office there sent away and after viewing two of John Hines' latest films, we agreed with them.

'He is certainly George M. Cohan minus the American flag. He is 'pep' itself. One of the first things he did upon arriving at the studio was to lay the rule down that no one was to sit down on any set where he was working and that only the chairs required in the set, which would be few, were to be there. According to Hines, this doesn’t give any actor opportunity to loaf and it keeps the speed up, and another thing, he refuses to work his people too long, as it is bouncing them with pictures. From what we have seen of Hines, he is not only a George M. Cohan in action, but has just as many ideas as this famous stage producer.'"

M. NEILAN TO START NEW PRODUCTION THIS WEEK

Marshall Neilan will start his third production for Goldwyn the latter part of this week following the completion of "The Eternal Three," which Hacket Bosworth, Claire Windsor and Raymond Griffith portray the principle characters.

Neilan’s newest production, a picturization of Madeleine Ruthven’s "The Readymours," will once more unfold romance, a story unlike anything this director has produced in the past, and in the cast of players engaged are Conrad Nagel, who has just arrived from New York to play the part, and Emmitt Corrigan.

Frankie Quite Stage

Sidney Franklin has returned to Hollywood after fulfilling a 57-weeks’ engagement with the "Ariadne Trios" company in the north and east. He rejected offers to play in several other Eastern cities so he might come back home to find the work of which he is so fond. On his way home he paid a visit to his beloved family in Tully and evidently nothing there could stump him for he continued on his homeward way after several glances at this unique spot.

TOURNEUR’S FIRST COMEDY READY IN 3 WEEKS

Maurice Tourneur’s "The Brass Bottle" produced by M. F. Higby, is nearing completion at the United Studio company will be ready for First National distribution within the next three weeks. This production marks Tourneur’s initial comedy. The story, P. A. towered over to speculative proportions with thousands of breathing girls, famous elephants, caucuses and mock in fantastic scenes. The trials and tribulations of the young architect, following his acquisition of the mysterious brass bottle from which he releases the trouble-making Jince are expected to offer many laughs.

The early part of the production will take one back to King Solomon’s time and will be staged with all the splendor of the period. Barbara La Marr is the heroine in the cast and will portray the part of the vampish Princess. The picture will be for all the troubles which follow the brass bottle through the ages. Other in the cast are Harry Hines, the famous Ernest Torrence, Tall Marshall, Charlotte Merriam and Aggie Herring.

Another feature of this production is the appearance of Maurice Tourneur as a screen actor. This marks the director’s first appearance in pictures since his acting days in France.

Helpful Resurrection

When Wilfred Lucas, the famous character man, who is playing the role of the "Laif" in the forthcoming Richard Walton Tully production of du Maurier’s "Rebecca" was assassinated on certain occasions, he remembered some old suits of his own, which he long since had packed away in mothballs and saved, and the sake of "auld lang syne." These clothes, tailored for him in Ireland by his brother, were reacquired and Lucas will be seen wearing his own apparel, which fits perfectly into the "Trilby" period.

Finishing Desmond’s Latest

Big Baru, Cali, is at the moment one of several Nature’s greatest achievements in film effects. Desmond’s Universal vehicle, "McGaire of the Mounted," which Richard Stanton is directing. The Harrison Jacobs story is of the Northwest Mounted Police and the atmosphere is the big woods. Louise Lorraine, leading woman of many past features and serials at Universal City, is the chief remaining of McGaire of the Mounted."

ENGLISH ARTISTS FLOCKING TO HOLLYWOOD

For the past few weeks Hollywood has been the center of an influx of actors, actresses and directors from British and English film studios. They have been attracted to this city because of the great opportunity being offered at the present time to demonstrate their talents and ability and who can successfully display their talents before the camera.

Among several artists of England who are now in Hollywood is Monte Moles, formerly one of the leading comedians on the London stage, who won wide recognition in European cities as a capable performer and a worthwhile entertainer. Maurice Tourneur has cast him for the part of a London center in his latest production, "The Brass Bottle," and several other engagements are open to him as he finishes his work in this picture.

Highly in "Talismam"

Willbur Higby, who will be remembered for his excellent work in all of Griffith’s Triangle Productions has been engaged by Frank Woods for the important role of "Lothar" in the production of "Talismam," now under way at the Ince Studios. Mr. Higby has been on the stage and screen for 20 years and while playing the Mason Theatre here with the "Oh Look" comedy company was signed by the Associated Authors. "Oh, Look" was playing New Orleans when Wilbur received word to return home and he started work at the studios the day after his arrival.

Kentucky Boy Busy

Arthur Trumble, sixty-year-old Kentucky boy star, has finished the first two of a series of two-reel comedies for his own company. Four additional stories have been purchased for his use, or at least to be included if he feels inclined. In either case director Jack Dawn, who produced Arthur’s first two. The stories purchased are all by well-known short story writers.

WILL NICH’S NEW FILM IS READY FOR PUBLIC

After four weeks of continual editing of Will Nich’s second special production for L. Lawerence and Loew’s, the picture has at last been cut down to exhibition length. The original footage was 90,000 feet. In its present form, excluding the subtitles which Mr. Nich himself is writing, the picture is in seven reels.

All the scenes have been cut out and from the flash of the first foot of film the action hits a fast pace which it maintains with increasing speed to the very end. No important scene has been omitted and it can safely be said that the story breaks out to concentrated dramatic perfection as it is humanly possible, the present out standing feature of the production is the perfect registration of "Lawerence in London." Nigh has also succeeded in securing for each important character predominant his in particular scene.

Tom Moore adds new laurels to his reputation as a light comedian with his society part. Ann Forrest, who has rapidly been coming to the fore, were the effrontery wonder, is said. In straight, straight comedy line Tom Lewis comin out with flying colors as the burly, unconsciously funny "Ivan vivant." Harry T. Mory fills the serious sustaining role with his accepted appeal. Edmund Breese takes the father’s part and Florence Billings, Shannon Day, John Goldsmith and two deliveries. Micky Bennett and Russell Griffin, round out the cast.

Andree Gets Kleig Eyes

Andree Lafayette, the girl with the sunny disposition and famous feet, suffered a slight attack of Kleig eyes, and has been forced to take a rest of a few days. There are very few scenes in "Trilby," the Richard Walton Tully production for First National, in which Miss Lafayette does not appear, and the constant strain in the blinding glare of the Kleigs, finally made necessary a few days of relaxation.

Leow Official Here

Lionel H. Kneue, western representative of Leew's, Inc. arrived in Los Angeles yesterday on official business of the organization. He was accompanied by his wife, his mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Void and his sister, Mrs. S. M. Strott, of Chicago. This is the first time that the executive’s mother and sister and the party plans to remain here several days before leaving for San Francisco.
"Pulse of the Studios"

For Week Starting Monday, April 30

Camera intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-869

Director Star Cameraman Ass't Director Scenarist Type Progress

BERWILLA STUDIO. 5821 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 3130

Eddie Lyons Productions (Arrow release). Eddie Lyons, Bobby Dunn McGill Cooks Diffs 2-Reel Comedies Schedule

Ben Wilson Productions (Federated release). Ward Hays Monty Banks Wm. Nobles McGosh Staff Comedies Schedule

BOYLE STUDIO. Phone Boyle 6368

BRENTWOOD STUDIO. 4811 Fountain Ave. 594-162

Bob Horner Productions.

Bob Horner Daw-Perrin Mountain Story 1st Week

BRONX STUDIO. 1745-51 Glendale Blvd. Kenneth Bishop, General Mgr. Wilshire 4275

H. and B. Productions

Kelpine Productions

BURBANK STUDIO. Burbank, Cal. Burbank 54-R

Century Comedies (Universal release).

Frank Mayo
All Herman
Al Broadway
Harry Edwards
Arthur Trumble Productions.

Jack Dawn
Arthur Trumble
Roland Price
Alex Alt
Jack Wagner
Comedy Schedule

CHAPLIN STUDIO. Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr. 1416 La Brea Ave. Holly 4070

Regent Film Company. (United Artists release).

Charles Chaplin
Edna Purviance
Rollin Titheroh
Eddie Sutherland
Mona Bell
"Public Opinion" 22nd Week

CHESTER STUDIO. 1438 Gower St. Holly 2693

Phil Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release).

W. Y. Howard
Fred K. Robinson
Snowy Baker
Cronin
Eugene Lowry
Staff"What Women Want" 2nd Week

"White Panther" 3rd Week

CHOICE STUDIO. 6044 Sunset Blvd. 439-764

Choice Productions

Tom Mills

Paul Hurst
All-Star
Joe Walker
Irving "Blood Barrier" Preparing

Harry Revere Productions.

Harry Revere
Johnny Harron
Stillwell
Joe Murphy-
Walter McNamara "Supreme Test" 5th Week

E. D. Saunders
Ted Henderson
Kermit Wood
A. Olsen
Hattie Carson
2-Reel Comedies Schedule

Sherwood MacDonald Productions.

MacDonald
Beckway
3-Reel Comedies Casting

Swickard Productions.

Chas. Swickard
Joseph Swickard
Andre Ballutee
Natalia Navarro Productions
Wilford North
Norp & Conrad All-Star
Andy Billutee
Natalia Navarro "Deadlocked Souls" 1st Week

Better Picture Association

E. A. Marks
All-Stars "What You Sow" Preparing

FINE ARTS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 4500 Sunset Blvd. 599-163

Fred Caldwell Productions.

Chas. Mack Productions. (Western Pictures Exploitation).

Lee Garwood All-Star
Floyd Jackman Chas. Mack "Beyond the Horizon" Preparing

Jess Robbins Productions. (Vitaphone release)

Halperin Productions.

Hugh Decker Productions. (American release)

Sacramento Pictures Corp. Forrest White, Vice-Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

Clifford S. Eiflet Productions

Frisco Fox Productions

FOX STUDIO. Arthur Forde, Casting. 1401 N. Western Ave. Holly 3000

Metro Release.

Robert Hefton
Charles K. Young
Charles Richardson
Jack Boland
Frank Bressford "In Old Madrid" "Harrow" 5th Week

Hart Gerson
Neilsen-Kennedy
Richardson
Cowan
1st Week

GARSON STUDIOS. 1854 Glendale Blvd. Wilshire 81

Metro Release.

Robert Hefton
Charles K. Young
Charles Richardson
Jack Boland
Frank Bressford "In Old Madrid" "Harrow" 5th Week

Hart Gerson
Neilsen-Kennedy
Richardson
Cowan
1st Week
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>GOLDWYN STUDIO</td>
<td>R. B. McIntyre, Casting.</td>
<td>Culver City</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thomas Lloyd</td>
<td>King Vidor</td>
<td>Van Engel</td>
<td>David Howard</td>
<td>King Vidor</td>
<td>&quot;The Wise Pools&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Clarence Linder</td>
<td>Marshall</td>
<td>Thomas Held</td>
<td>Carey Wilson</td>
<td>&quot;Red Lights&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Marshall Neilan</td>
<td>VIII</td>
<td>Thomas Held</td>
<td>Carey Wilson</td>
<td>&quot;The Eternal Three&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Charles Bronson</td>
<td>McFadden</td>
<td>Van Strumho</td>
<td>San Francisco</td>
<td>&quot;The Horn&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Howard Lloyd</td>
<td>McCarthy</td>
<td>W. Benedict</td>
<td>D. Benedict</td>
<td>&quot;The Rendezvous&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>E. Mason Hooper</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Guy T. Mitchell</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Martin Montagu</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Pulse of the Studios&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HORSLEY STUDIO</td>
<td>6050 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>West Coast Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>World Educational Films</td>
<td>Thespians</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Why Do We Live&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chas. R. Seelng Productions</td>
<td>(Ayrein release).</td>
<td>1442 Beachwood Drive.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Forty Niners&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS</td>
<td>6062 Santa Monica Blvd</td>
<td>J. Jasper, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richard Thomas Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>1431</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thomas Lloyd</td>
<td>Jack Pucella</td>
<td>Noval MacGregor</td>
<td>Burnell-Manley</td>
<td></td>
<td>Drama</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lloyd Ingraham</td>
<td>Douglas Maclean</td>
<td>Geo. Crone</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Irving Cummings Productions</td>
<td>Charles Woostenholme, Production Manager.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Irving Cummings</td>
<td>Jeving Cummings</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Victor B. Fisher Productions</td>
<td>McWilliams Theodore Joos.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Youth Triumphant&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J. K. McDonald Productions</td>
<td>Ariel Alexander</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Man From Ten Strike&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Children of Jazz&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Man From Ten Strike&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Chalkboard&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supreme Art Productions</td>
<td>Thos. J. Hall.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INCE STUDIO</td>
<td>Horace Williams, Casting.</td>
<td>Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>Culver City</td>
<td>761731</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Associated Authors, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palmer Photographic Productions</td>
<td>Joe Walker</td>
<td>Claude Mitchell</td>
<td>Frank Woods</td>
<td>&quot;Richard, the Lion Hearted&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Del Andrews</td>
<td>Max DuPont</td>
<td>Frank Gerchty</td>
<td>Kate Corbey</td>
<td>&quot;Judgment of the Storm&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cortland Productions</td>
<td>Robert Thomas</td>
<td>Harold James</td>
<td>Frenchie de Ruelle Jas. Oliver Curwood</td>
<td>&quot;Man From Ten Strike&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mrs. Wallace Reid Productions</td>
<td>Harold James</td>
<td>Harold James</td>
<td>Frenchie de Ruelle Jas. Oliver Curwood</td>
<td>&quot;Man From Ten Strike&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trubr-Murfin Productions</td>
<td>Henry Sharp</td>
<td>Ross Lederman</td>
<td>C. Gardner Sullivan &quot;Man From Ten Strike&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trubr-Murfin Productions</td>
<td>King Gray</td>
<td>Corbey-Van Upp</td>
<td>&quot;The Sign&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LASKY STUDIOS</td>
<td>1520 Vine St.</td>
<td>Fred Kley, Studio Mgr.</td>
<td>Hollywood</td>
<td>2400</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount Pictures, (Famous Players-Lasky Release.)</td>
<td>Jack Boland</td>
<td>Wells Hastings</td>
<td>&quot;The Ladies&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Alfred Green</td>
<td>&quot;Children of Jazz&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Man From Ten Strike&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Jerome Storm</td>
<td>Frank Brandon</td>
<td>George Hopkins &quot;Man With Four Faces&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Herbert Benson</td>
<td>&quot;Lone Star&quot;</td>
<td>Thomas Garth &quot;Hollywood&quot;</td>
<td>11th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>James Custer</td>
<td>&quot;Bulldog&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Rodeo Drive&quot;</td>
<td>11th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Iron Man&quot;</td>
<td>Harold James</td>
<td>Frenchie de Ruelle Jas. Oliver Curwood</td>
<td>&quot;Man From Ten Strike&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Bluebeard's Eighth Wife&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The Chalkboard&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The Chalkboard&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Chalkboard&quot;</td>
<td>Harold James</td>
<td>Frenchie de Ruelle Jas. Oliver Curwood</td>
<td>&quot;Man From Ten Strike&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAYER-SCHULBERG STUDIO</td>
<td>3800 Mission Rd.</td>
<td>Individual Casting.</td>
<td>Lincoln</td>
<td>2120</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louis B. Mayer Productions</td>
<td>Harry Hilburn</td>
<td>Harry Schenck</td>
<td>Monte Katterjohn &quot;Law Bringers&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Preferred Pictures Corp.</td>
<td>B. P. Schulberg, Gen. Mgr. (All Lightning release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Tom O'Meara</td>
<td>The Leonards</td>
<td>&quot;The Broken Wing&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Louis Gansher</td>
<td>&quot;Children of Jazz&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Daughters of the Bitch&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Louis Schumacher</td>
<td>&quot;Mansion of Aching Hearts&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>METRO STUDIO</td>
<td>Romaine and Cahunega Ave.</td>
<td>Harry Kerr, Casting.</td>
<td>Holly</td>
<td>4485</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Harold Shaw</td>
<td>John Arnold</td>
<td>Frank Steyer</td>
<td>&quot;Roughed Lips&quot;</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Viola Dana</td>
<td>John Selz</td>
<td>Willis Goldbeck</td>
<td>&quot;Scaramouche&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Max Ingram</td>
<td>Curt Rehfeld</td>
<td>Willis Goldbeck</td>
<td>&quot;Scaramouche&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>(Metro release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt Stromberg Productions, (Metro Release)</td>
<td>Winfred Dunn</td>
<td>&quot;Kath's Feather&quot;</td>
<td>Casting</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edward Soman Productions</td>
<td>Edward Soman</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS</td>
<td>Individual Casting.</td>
<td>7100 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>Holly</td>
<td>7901</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists Release</td>
<td>eBay Pickford</td>
<td>Charles Rosher</td>
<td>Jim Townsend</td>
<td>Edw. Knoblock</td>
<td>&quot;Rosie&quot;</td>
<td>Holly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R-C STUDIO</td>
<td>Melrose and Gower.</td>
<td>780 Gower St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists, (Film Booking Office).</td>
<td>Richard Attenborough</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Individual Productions</td>
<td>(9th Week)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hal Roach Productions</td>
<td>(Pathe release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jesse Hyman</td>
<td>Walter Lunden</td>
<td>Robert Golden</td>
<td>&quot;Miracle Baby&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Carey</td>
<td>Roach Doran</td>
<td>Hackney</td>
<td>&quot;End of the Day&quot;</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wes Marshall</td>
<td>Moreno</td>
<td>Beatrice Van</td>
<td>&quot;How You Win&quot;</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hal Sandler</td>
<td>Led Ashley</td>
<td>Owens Davis</td>
<td>&quot;Edison's Prize&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hal Sandler</td>
<td>Led Ashley</td>
<td>Owens Davis</td>
<td>&quot;Edison's Prize&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ROACH STUDIO</td>
<td>Culver City.</td>
<td>Warren Doane, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R C STUDIO</td>
<td>Melrose &amp; Gower.</td>
<td>780 Gower St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hal Roach Productions</td>
<td>(Pathe Release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jesse Hyman</td>
<td>Walter Lunden</td>
<td>Robert Golden</td>
<td>&quot;Miracle Baby&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Carey</td>
<td>Roach Doran</td>
<td>Hackney</td>
<td>&quot;End of the Day&quot;</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wes Marshall</td>
<td>Moreno</td>
<td>Beatrice Van</td>
<td>&quot;How You Win&quot;</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hal Sandler</td>
<td>Led Ashley</td>
<td>Owens Davis</td>
<td>&quot;Edison's Prize&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RUSSEL STUDIO</td>
<td>B. D. Russell, Mgr.</td>
<td>1439 Beachwood Dr.</td>
<td>Holly</td>
<td>7945-6</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Malaboe Productions</td>
<td>Leo Malaboe</td>
<td>V. Walker</td>
<td>Bob Williamson</td>
<td>&quot;2-Real Western&quot;</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Logan-Bayhun Productions</td>
<td>Tom Gibson</td>
<td>&quot;2-Real Comedy&quot;</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CAMERAI
“The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry” Page Nineteen

SENNETT STUDIO.  1712 Glendale Blvd.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mack Sennett Comedies.  (First National Release).</td>
<td>Roy Del Ruth</td>
<td>Billy Bevan</td>
<td>Jim Wright</td>
<td>George Bordeau</td>
<td>“The Extra Girl”</td>
<td>8th Week Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frank Borzage Productions, Arthur H. Jacobs Corp.  (First National release).</td>
<td>Frank Borzage</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Chet Lyons</td>
<td>Bunny Dull</td>
<td>John C. Davis</td>
<td>“Children of Dust”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edwin Carewe Productions,  (First National release).</td>
<td>Wallace Fox</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Sol Polito</td>
<td>Walter Fuhrman</td>
<td>Walter Fuhrman</td>
<td>Walter Fuhrman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joseph M. Schenck Productions.  (First National release)</td>
<td>Frank Lloyd</td>
<td>Norma Talmadge</td>
<td>Tony Gaudio</td>
<td>Harry Well</td>
<td>Frances Marion</td>
<td>“Athena of Vengeance”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maurice Tourneur Productions.  (First National release).</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Tourneur</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Principal Pictures Corporation.  (First National release).</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Frank Borzage Productions, Arthur H. Jacobs Corp.  (First National release).</td>
<td>Frank Borzage</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Chet Lyons</td>
<td>Bunny Dull</td>
<td>John C. Davis</td>
<td>“Children of Dust”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edwin Carewe Productions,  (First National release).</td>
<td>Wallace Fox</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Sol Polito</td>
<td>Walter Fuhrman</td>
<td>Walter Fuhrman</td>
<td>Walter Fuhrman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joseph M. Schenck Productions.  (First National release)</td>
<td>Frank Lloyd</td>
<td>Norma Talmadge</td>
<td>Tony Gaudio</td>
<td>Harry Well</td>
<td>Frances Marion</td>
<td>“Athena of Vengeance”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maurice Tourneur Productions.  (First National release).</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Tourneur</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Principal Pictures Corporation.  (First National release).</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

UNIVERSAL STUDIOS.  Fred Datig Casting.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jack Del T.L.</td>
<td>L.G.</td>
<td>John MacGowan</td>
<td>Ben Reynolds</td>
<td>George Hively</td>
<td>Second Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Larry</td>
<td>L.L.</td>
<td>Joe Dowling</td>
<td>Charles Sturka</td>
<td>Harvey Gates</td>
<td>Second Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe</td>
<td>L.L.</td>
<td>Joe Lennon</td>
<td>Vincent Geary</td>
<td>Shehan Lowe</td>
<td>Second Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe</td>
<td>L.L.</td>
<td>Joe Lennon</td>
<td>James Caudle</td>
<td>Tony Richmond</td>
<td>Second Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe</td>
<td>L.L.</td>
<td>Joe Lennon</td>
<td>H.B.</td>
<td>William F. Marshall</td>
<td>First Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe</td>
<td>L.L.</td>
<td>Joe Lennon</td>
<td>R.B.</td>
<td>H.B.</td>
<td>First Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe</td>
<td>L.L.</td>
<td>Joe Lennon</td>
<td>M.M.</td>
<td>H.B.</td>
<td>First Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe</td>
<td>L.L.</td>
<td>Joe Lennon</td>
<td>R.B.</td>
<td>H.B.</td>
<td>First Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

VITAGRAPH STUDIOS.  1708 Talmadge.  W. S. Smith, Gen Mgr.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dave Smith</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Larry Semler</td>
<td>B. Smith, Jr.</td>
<td>Joe Basile</td>
<td>“The Alibi”</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louis Wm. Chase</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Larry Semler</td>
<td>B. Smith, Jr.</td>
<td>Joe Basile</td>
<td>“The Rural Rival”</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

WARNER BROS. STUDIOS. 5842 Sunset Blvd.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rollo Productions.</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Abbott Linwood</td>
<td>Dick Sherer</td>
<td>Grace M. Sanders</td>
<td>“The Man Behind”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dallas Fitzgerald</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Archie Smith</td>
<td>Marion Fairfax</td>
<td>“Lady of Quality”</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe Rock Productions.</td>
<td>Leo Leon, Prod. Mgr.</td>
<td>Joe Rock</td>
<td>Irving Reis</td>
<td>James Kilgallen</td>
<td>“After the Ball”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

WILNAT STUDIO.  6070 Sunset Blvd.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Edwin Carewe</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Edwin Carewe</td>
<td>Edwin Carewe</td>
<td>Edwin Carewe</td>
<td>Edwin Carewe</td>
<td>Edwin Carewe</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richard Attenborough</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Richard Attenborough</td>
<td>Richard Attenborough</td>
<td>Richard Attenborough</td>
<td>Richard Attenborough</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

QUICK MONEY RELEASE!

Producers—Active or Prospective—Get in Touch with a LIVE One
H. and B. Film Company

MOTION PICTURE PRODUCERS’ ASSOCIATION, 1004 Hollingsworth Bldg.  Los Angeles.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Distributors—Producers</th>
<th>Productions</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bronson Films, Inc.</td>
<td>Fox Film Corporation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cahn-Bennett Productions</td>
<td>Goldwyn Pictures Corporation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Carpentier Productions</td>
<td>Universal Pictures Corporation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C. L. Chester Productions</td>
<td>Warner Bros. Pictures Corporation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dahlgren Productions</td>
<td>National Films Corporation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Douglas Fairbanks Productions</td>
<td>Famous Players-Lasky Corporation</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Marlon Warde

Acting and Make-Up for Stage and Motion Pictures. A Legitimate, Practical School of Results. Classical, Character, Ballet, and Stip-Dancing.

819 South Hill Blvd.  Telephone 235 So. Broadway

“Make-up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry”

“Make-up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry”

All members of our personnel are experts in matters pertaining to make-up. Specialized training coupled with a knowledge of what is correct for each individual have established them as the foremost of their kind.

YE RUB SHOPPE

Professional Hair Dying for Professional Men

202 Bogardus Bldg., Sunset at Western Chiropractor and Nerve Specialist

You have tried the rest, now try the best

Catering to the foremost of the profession

10 to 12 in the evening, 6 to 8

Alley Graduate Telephone 486-746

Service—Always “Bob the Barber”

Hellman’s 6772 Hollywood Blvd.
SYNTHETIC DIVORCE
(Continued from Page 3)

the cleanly Lincoln Heights Jail is typical of modern penal institutions, and that if directors crave the good old days of rat and dirt infested cells they must join the ranks of the up-to-date hizzahlbown, build over-sized pockets on their trousers, and carry their own.

The philosopher who allowed that clothes didn’t make the man may have been right. But, if screen standards are to be accepted, one’s ornamentation goes a long way toward establishing him. Both director and players are in complete agreement on at least one belief—that the cut of a man’s hair should be absolutely in character no matter what else may be sacrificed in the interest of time or the actor’s own personal preferences.

To prove that they are living up to this theory with a vengeance one has to note the recent sacrifice made for the sake of a head of hair. Bert Lytell, who submitted his wavy black locks to the blonde experts in order to become a yellow haired Rupert of Hentzau, is spending his days endeavoring to regrow the wealth of thatch that once made him famous.

Lloyd Hughes spent approximately three months on vacation (but on pay) for the sole purpose of growing the long hair seen in “Scars of Jealousy.” But Kenneth Harlan, whose luxurious head of hair has caused so many feminine hearts to skip a beat, submitted to the most ignominious fate of all in the interest of art. He permitted barbaric clippers to mow his thatch to the common or garden variety of “dish hair cut” in order to lend color to his role in “April Showers.” Fortunately, it is said that Kenneth will outgrow the role in a few weeks.

Directing the affairs of a rapidly growing organization from the seclusion of a jail cell is the unique distinction of Joseph Jackson, newly elected president of the Wampus, otherwise, The Western Motion Picture Advertisers.

For Jackson was the victim of one of the comedy stunts that usually are expected only on the screen. He was driving over a little used street in the outlying district of Los Angeles to keep a delayed appointment. Suddenly, he heard the motor of a car whose driver evidently was attempting to pass him. The street was broad and there were no other machines in sight, so Jackson stepped... on the gas. The driver behind was persistent. Jackson urged his machine a little faster.

In spite of the fact that the press agents’ president was moving at a high speed (according to his own conservative admission) the pursuing machine drew up alongside him. Then, to the chagrin of Jackson, he recognized, not the triumphant face of a co-worker, but that of an equally triumphant speed cop.

The judge who smiled at the recital of the case settled upon three days as a proper period in which, away from all earthly cares, he might consider the merits of a more leisurely pace.

Will the Pola and Charlie romance develop into a professional alliance only? At the moment of this writing intimates of the illustrious pair believe that such may be the case.

For Chaplin, who has completed his first directorial effort with Edna Purviance in the stellar role, is reported to have expressed a desire to show what he could do with Pola’s doubted, but as yet scarcely plumbed artistic possibilities.

"The logical solution of their romance," said one close friend of the pair.

And, since the picture public probably would profit by it, why not?

The one and only Gibson of western fame has abandoned the galloping pinto for the galloping waves. He’ll straddle the forward gun of the California, the greatest battleship of the Pacific fleet, and pipe all hands to the binnacle to see where he is going—in “Out of Luck,” the picture upon which he has just started work at Universal City under Edward Sedgwick’s direction.

HOLD-UP
prices don’t prevail here! Our photography is of the best, but it’s REASONABLY priced.

Come in and see our superb Movie Specials! You can get a DOZEN of 'em for ONLY $3.50.

Victoria Studio
M. T. KACH, MGR.
328½ South Spring Street
Pico 5342

YOUR PHONOGRAPH
will reproduce in soft Mellow
Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a

Deflexograph
Fits any Phonograph or Victrolas

$1.00
Post-paid

$1.00
Post-paid

Gold Plate
(See Cut)

Nickel Plate
(See Cut)

VANTONE CO., Dept. 416
110 W. 15th St.
New York, N. Y.

Reproduction from Life

Wax Figures for Rent
We are in a better position than ever before to serve the Motion Picture Industry. With our skilled staff of artists we can supply you with character figures and reproductions from life.

The reproduction above portrays the character of our workmanship. Figures of this type are made on order. We carry in our studio many stock figures in artistic poses, which are available for rent.

Advise us of your needs and we will fill your order

You are invited to visit our studio

L. E. Oates
MAKER OF WAX FIGURES
STUDIO 105 EAST TENTH STREET
LOS ANGELES
PHONE 820-734
The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry

LOW-DOWN ON HIGH-UP

A mop, a bucket of hot soapy water and a dirty floor.

A strange combination, indeed, to start anyone on the road to histrionic fame. But it was such a combination that was the means of bringing Conway Tearle into the limelight as an actor.

This famed motion picture player told of his incongruous advent into the acting profession between camera "shots" at the United Studios. Where he is appearing, opposite Norma Talmadge in the first National production, "Ashes of Vengeance." It was while Tearle was still in his teens. He had made no out of a reputation as an amateur boxer and billiard player and he was then dividing his time between the squared ring in the Old Kent Road district of London and acting as a billiard marker at the old Wyndham Hotel on the Strand.

To be a billiard marker meant that he had to be a player far above the average, for casual players who engaged in a game with the marker and won were not asked to pay for the games. Tearle was a profitable investment for the house for there were very few of the professional players who came to Wyndham those days who could beat him.

"I guess I might still be chalking up the scores back in London if it were for the mop and pail of water," the famous actor declared.

"On the day that I lost my job the janitor, who daily cleaned up the billiard room, was sick, or drunk—at any rate he didn't show up. The hotel proprietor ordered me to do his work, telling me to go down to the kitchen to get the necessary paraphernalia so that I could mop up before the morning patrons began to arrive.

"Right then and there I reneged. I told him that mopping floor was just a little below my dignity, I refused to do it. He got peevd. And I not fired.

"Walking out of the hotel I ran into one of the patrons with whom I had often played. He was the stage manager of one of the big London theatres. I told him of the mop and pail accident and he instantly offered me a small part in a show, then in preparation. Naturally I accepted.

"After that I had no desire to go back to the old job.

"Later I had a good laugh on my old boss. Dressed in tall silk hat, morning coat, striped trousers—the habiliments of a London man-about-town—I strolled into the Wyndham billiard room.

"The proprietor was the personification of graciousness as he greeted me. But he didn't recognize me. I reminded him of the floor mopping episode and then, shaking hands with him, I thanked him for firing me.

"I considered that by kicking me out of the hotel he had done the best thing he ever could do for me."

Esther Ralston, popular Universal heroine of chapter plays and westerns, will play the leading feminine role in "Thicker Than Water," Herbert Rawlison's latest starring vehicle which is now being filmed at Universal City under the direction of Edmond Mortimer.

Miss Ralston's most recent appearances before the cameras were made in support of William Desmond in "The Phantom Fortune," a chapter play, with Hoot Gibson in "Blindy," a special feature built around the United States Cavalry. "Thicker Than Water," was adapted to the screen by Charles Kenyon from Margaret Bryant's popular novel of the same name.

Other well known players in the cast are David Terrance, Alfred Fisher, Lionel Belmore and Mike Donlin.

Hugh Hoffman
Scenario and Production Supervisor
Gables Walton unit, Universal
Current production, "Sawdust"
Jack Conway, Directing
Recent Releases, "A Dangerous Game," "The Love Letter," "Gossip"

Professional Photographs
It Costs No More for Quality Photographs at "Los Angeles’ Finest Theatrical Studio"

American Legion Stadium
Hollywood at El Centro
Holly 100 for reservations

SEE BRUNO
Rugs
F UR Robes Mounting Storage
Renovating
Colburn’s
TAXIDERMY STUDIO
933-925 South Broadway
Telephone 643-13

HYDRO-HEROINE
Universal Studios
900 Hollywood Blvd.
Holly 2560

SUNSET TAXI
Touring Cars, $2 per Hour
Limousines, $2.50 per Hour
Special Rates on Studio Trips and Touring
577-994 578-280

Motion Picture Cameras for Rent
Late Model 1 & 2 Still and Genflex
Cameras rented by day or week.
Ultra-Speed Street Motion and Alecky
Cameras rented with operators.
For Information Call
Ries Bros.
PHOTOGRAPHERS
6035 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 4338

Location Luncheons on Short Notice
KWIK LUNCH
Holly 7640
1626 Cahuenga Ave.
1714 Highland Ave. 7560 Sunset Blvd.

THEODORE HAYS is not a director, but he can give the director the action he wants.
Expert Horsemam Complete Wardrobe
Main 525

"We save your sole and heel you too"
FRANK
The Shoe Doctor
Holly 3752 6666 Hollywood Blvd.

Walter Frederick Seely
Shadowed Photography
1442 North Wilcox
(One-half block west of Cahuenga at Sunset)
Telephone 439-774

Raymond Mcke
The Friars Club
New York City

Works of Art from China and Japan
Oriental Costume Co.
6221 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 5954

CAMERA I

"The One Bright Spot Friday Night"
BO
BOXING
ING

United Sales Co. 141 E. 2nd St., New York

Professional Photographs
We are professional photographers and have the best equipment for making Portraits—Publicity Photographs—Special Stills, Commercial work and Enlargements.

F ands Studio
6035 Hollywood Blvd.
Holly 2560

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"
AGNES RAY
INGENUE
577-029

MARGARET LA MONT
HEAVIES—LEADS
NINE YEARS LEGITIMATE
439-869

MARY RUBY
At Liberty
May 1st
594-774

OLIVE TREVOR “Vampires”
437-231
NINE WEEKS MORE
And Then the Gates Will Open at Exposition Park for THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVUE
and
MOTION PICTURE EXPOSITION
Following Which There Will be THIRTY Days
July 2nd — August 4th
the Like of Which Los Angeles, the Great Southwest,
the Pacific Coast or the Entire United States
Have Never Seen Before
And How the People Are Going to Flock Here
From Far and Near, They’re Coming to Help Celebrate the Hundredth Anniversary of America’s Outstanding Pronouncement on Foreign Affairs and the Declaration That Insured the Freedom of the West Coast
Everyone Has His Eye on “THE LOCATION,” which Will Be the UNIQUE Amusement Thoroughfare of All Expositions

As this will be the BIGGEST Show on the American Continent during the Summer of 1923, you don’t want to miss it. To make sure not to miss a single feature, fill in this Blank and mail it to
The Exposition Department, 800
N. Spring St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Patron’s Application
THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVUE AND MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION
For the purpose of taking part in the First Annual American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Industrial Exposition to be held in the City of Los Angeles during the year 1923 in commemoration of the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine. I hereby make application for Patron’s Coupon Book of Admission Tickets to the Revue and Exposition, for which I agree to pay the sum of ten dollars each, payments to be made as follows:

Dated................................192... Signed...........................................
Occupation................................ Address..............................................
Make All Checks Payable to Motion Picture Exposition
LOIS WILSON IN "THE COVERED WAGON"
NOW AT GRAUMAN'S EGYPTIAN THEATRE
UNO

Authentic Details and Photographs

INTERIORS AND EXTERIORS
French, English, Italian, Swiss, German, Dutch and Egyptian Hotels

Exterior views of Ciro's, Cafe de La Paix, Cafe La Cigale, and Chat Noir—Paris.

Foreign street scenes showing details such as street lights (signs, taxi cabs, etc).

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

INTERNATIONAL CINEMA RESEARCH
L.A. HOWLAND
Phone 438-761
300-301 HOLLYWOOD SECURITY BLDG.

MARTHA MARSHALL
LEADS INGENUES
SOCIETY PARTS
Telephone 439-801

TECHNICOLOR
Motion Pictures in Color

Now Available to the Producer
No Limitation on Action or Type of Sets

Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation
C. A. Willat, Manager
Hollywood 4470
1116 Lodi Street Hollywood, Calif.

Iris In

and take a look at the most wonderful stock of antiques in the southwest. Our big shop IN HOLLYWOOD is filled with all descriptions of statues, furniture, bric-a-brac, rare oil paintings and other works of art.

We buy, sell, rent and exchange. Our LOCATION is IN HOLLYWOOD for your convenience. Let's get together! Iris in!

Foster's ANTIQUE SHOP

4534 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 598-030
Cowboys, a Historical Curtain and a Definition

One by one the camp fires of the cowboys, the rugged cavaliers of the West, are flickering out. "Ma Pettinculps" boys, the roistering range riders of Owen Wister and Hough, are giving way as the mass of population creeps inland from the Pacific.

But the West of the cowboy days has not completely passed away. In a few spots it lingers in all its primitive colorfulness, with its habits and dress and manners unchanged.

The old West has found new converts in Norma Talmadge and the galaxy of film luminaries who are with her at the Mathewson Ranch, where they are filming scenes for her spectacular French historic drama, "Ashes of Vengeance," for First National. Miss Talmadge and the big cast who accompanied her on location in charge of Director Frank Lloyd, have been delighted to discover a bit of this old West on the ranch where they are encamped fifty miles from Los Angeles. The owner of the ranch, who owns the biggest clock manufactury in the world, has two holdings of 15,000 and 70,000 acre extent.

Over the 15,000-acre Mathewson "front yard" the "Ashes of Vengeance" company, in their 16th century French costume, sweep and gallop in battle array, ambush their foe, abduct pretty women, make ardent love as Frank Lloyd directs and Tony Gaudio grinds his camera. And while they are a crowd of cow-punchers, in fleecy chaps and high Stetsons press round watching with wide-eyed interest.

To those who know that he has spent six months or more on some of his recent successes, it may come as a blow to know that in the early days of pictures Gasnier established a speed record for production, actually filming a complete picture a day for a year! It should be explained, however, that the pictures were of the length then in vogue, from two to three hundred feet in length, or about one-fifth the length of a single reel of a present day picture.

John S. Robertson, the producer of "The Bright Shawl," a First National picture, in which Richard Barthelmess is being starred, has brought a touch of sentiment that will appeal to old theatregoers who remember the days of the glory of Daly’s theatre in New York City. Memories of the stage are incomplete without some incident that brings back to the mind the great Augustin Daly, who will always be remembered as the great American drama producer.

The reminder of Daly’s in the screen version of Joseph Hergesheimer’s celebrated story, "The Bright Shawl," is the famous curtain, which, when hung in 1889, created a sensation throughout the entire world.

"We used this curtain in this production in the big theatre in Havana where the negroes held their famous ball annually," said Mr. Robertson.

Only one other curtain in New York City is as famous as the Daly curtain, and that one is now in the Metropolitan Opera House. In Judge Daly’s life of his brother, Augustin, the curtain is described in this way: "Daly’s theatre was new (1889) enriched by a curtain embroidered in silk, representing the ‘Crowning of Comedy,’ by Garibaldi. The needlework was done in Milan under the direction of Garibaldi, who wrote: ‘Never a piece of work like this was attempted before,’ and added, ‘What an undertaking! What a work! What a cost!’"

What are these things you’ve heard of so often in connection with motion picture-drama, conflict, suspense, and surprise? Of course, any "fan" knows their general definitions, but that dealing with their peculiar use in modern picture entertainment isn’t to be found in Webster.

The Palmer Photoplay Corporation, which is soon to release its first feature production, "Judgment of the Storm," believes that even a little knowledge of the technique of photoplay building contributes to the enjoyment of seeing good screen offerings, so the instructors of its educational department give the following definitions:

Drama is the structure or method of depicting emotion-provoking events most effectively. Stage and screen drama differ radically. Conflict, suspense and surprise are the greatest elements of drama. Conflict may be physical or mental, between two or more opposing human wills, or a struggle within one person. Suspense, based upon the principle that anticipation is greater than realization, builds a foreboding or uncertainty about the outcome of a situation, and surprise fittingly caps the climax of suspense by bringing an unsuspected outcome.

How many times have you said, “That plot’s so illogical” when you meant “so absurd”? A plot may be perfectly logical if it is so constructed that one step of thought leads naturally to another, and yet the whole may be an utter absurdity. And did you know that “melodrama” originated from “melody-drama,” an ancient form of musical comedy or tragedy?

The first of the Zane Grey productions for Paramount, directed by Victor Fleming, is scheduled to begin in the near future. It will be "To the Last Man" and was adapted by Doris Schroeder. The production editor is Lucien Hubbard. The latter, with Victor Fleming and Zane Grey, returned recently from Tonto Basin, Arizona, where the picture will be made in the original locale of the story. The cast and other features are to be announced shortly.
FATHER DODD IS GIVING A SHOW

"A NIGHT in DREAMLAND"

700 Adults and Children in the Cast

For the Benefit of "The Little Church Around the Corner"

Woman's Club House Hollywood

May 10th and 11th

Seats One to Two Dollars

FATHER DODD

YOU ALL KNOW HIM

FATHER DODD GOT WELLINGTON "THE WIZARD" TO STAGE THE SHOW. HE TURNS LOCAL AMATEURS INTO ACTORS OVER NIGHT, HAS COACHED OVER FIFTY THOUSAND PEOPLE IN HIS "A NIGHT IN DREAMLAND," AND HAS ACCOMPLISHED WONDERS WITH HIS HOLLYWOOD CAST.

THE WIZARD—DIRECTOR WELLINGTON

At Ketis Drug Store Hollywood Beginning Tuesday, May 8th.
Noted Impressario To Rule Film Exposition

With the arrival of R. H. Burnside in Los Angeles Thursday, officials of the American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition pulled the bell cord for the "full speed ahead" signal.

Mr. Burnside will have charge of producing the historical revue from July 2 to August 4. He has been producing head of the New York Hippodrome for the past decade and in his time seen the biggest show in the history of Los Angeles this summer.

The engagement of R. H. Burnside was officially announced at a luncheon given at the Biltmore in New York, just a week ago, by Charles H. Christie of the Christie studios. The announcement aroused untold enthusiasm among Gotham newspapermen, trade journal representatives and motion picture producers, distributors and exhibitors. All pledged their unqualified support, and many indicated that they would come to the Pacific Coast for productions this summer, to attend the exposition.

Charles L. O'Reilly, president of the Motion Pictures Owners of New York State and chairman of the Burnside Exposition, promised co-operation on behalf of the 1300 exhibitors of the Empire State for Los Angeles' forthcoming motion picture exposition. They will all use trailers and slides to advertise the American Historical Revue; and the project is to be officially endorsed by the next state convention.

That the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association, of which Will H. Hays is chief, is back of the Monroe Doctrine Centennial was made very plain by Mr. Hays. Garrett Graham outlined the plans that are now being worked out in Exposition Park, creating a large degree of enthusiasm in reporting the progress that has been made to date.

Ruth Roland, who has been making a swing around the circle in the interests of the exposition, told of widespread interest; and she also pledged the unqualified support of the active workers in the industry, from extra to stars. Other informative talks were made by Frederick H. Elliott and E. H. Allen.

The introduction of Mr. Burnside, as impresario of the Monroe Doctrine Centennial, was the signal for an ovation. He promised the supreme achievement of his theatrical career, saying that this was just the sort of opportunity for which he had been looking for many years.

Mr. Burnside is to have full charge of producing the spectacular revue of American history that has been outlined by the commission of thirteen California college presidents and educators. It is to be put on in the largest way possible, because it will be the opening event in the new coliseum that seats 80,000. Mr. Burnside's handling of masses and getting big effects in the Hippodrome for the last ten years qualifies him better for this production than any other man in America.

"If anything further were needed to insure the success of the Monroe Doctrine stage production, Mr. Burnside says, "we have achieved it by enlisting the co-operation of R. H. Burnside. He is sure to give the people of Los Angeles and all who come here this summer the best entertainment of its sort that has ever been staged anywhere. In the minds of many, the mammoth spectacles of Yesteryear and Old World-Kiralfy have never been equalled; but I predict that they will be surpassed here this summer by Mr. Burnside. His play will be given every possible facility to make the American Historical Revue the feature of the exposition."

World-Wide Survey Reveals Forthcoming Prosperity

It promises to be a big picture year—for the theater-goer.

The amusement seeker who leaves his admission fee at the box office during the coming twelve months will get more entertainment for his money than ever before in the history of the screen.

Such, in brief, is the optimistic forecast of B. P. Schulberg, producer, who has just completed a world-wide survey of conditions involving the screen and those interested in it, either professionally or from the standpoint of the average theater-goer.

Mr. Schulberg has just returned to his Los Angeles studios after a five weeks sojourn in New York, where he met Al Lichtman, head of the distributing forces of the producing body of which Schulberg is president. Mr. Lichtman has returned from a tour of Europe that included every important capital.

"The outstanding development of interest to theater-goers at large, is the fact that there will be an increase of approximately forty per cent in picture production this year," said Schulberg. "That means an opportunity for the exhibitors to select only the best for their audiences.

"Consequently, that will mean better pictures. Barring the isolated cases of bad judgment on the part of the theatre owner, which are not as frequent as one might expect, only the best pictures will be shown. The mediocre or actually bad film will die a natural death.

"Of course this situation will not add to the profits of the producer. But it will result in the immediate increase in the quality of productions made and that, in the long run, cannot help but prove beneficial to the screen, the producer and the public."

In answer to the oft-repeated query, "Why not write directly for the screen?" it may be said that this is the trend of the big producers on the West Coast. Writers who have learned screen technique and are ambitious to learn more of it—not simply the possessors of names that might be expected to possess a box office value—are moving toward the coast.

Larry Evans, whose keen dramatic sense and whimsical humor have endeared him to magazine and fiction readers in every English-speaking country, has joined the forces of Preferred Pictures, and is enroute to Los Angeles, typewriter in hand.

Evans, incidentally, has turned the tables on every writing tradition. When he wrote "Are You A Failure?", his outstanding screen success, he prepared it first for the screen, then as a magazine story, and now has it under preparation for a New York stage production.

"Any really successful screen story has the elements of the successful fiction story or stage production, while all successful stage productions and fiction stories cannot be translated into the language of the screen," says Evans. Why not approach the writing business from this angle and address the picture, fiction reading and stage following public simultaneously?"

John Russell, author, explorer and war correspondent, has again joined the ranks of screen writers on the West Coast. After a year in New York, during which he aided in the picture production of his story, "Where the Pavement Ends," he has returned to Los Angeles under contract to write original stories for Fox.

Stuart Holmes, known to every screen fan since the first flicker of the original screen drama as a picture "bad man," is introducing himself all over again in a character as remarkable as any undertaken by Lon Chaney, recognized master of picture makeup.

In "Daughters of the Rich," Holmes has dropped his mask of wickedness and become a Russian Duke whose face promises to the celluloid lot after his true features are forgotten. Incidentally, Holmes has offered an explanation of his bizarre characterization as interesting as the role itself.

"I never have seen a Duke who looked or acted just as I have done," he said. "It may be that there is no such Duke and never has been one. But there are certain (Continued on Page 21)
The start of Pola Negri's third American-made picture for Paramount, "The Spanish Dancer," is awaited with keen interest because of the undoubted magnitude of the production planned and the numbers of people and important scenes to be used. It will be a Herbert Brenon production and the latter is now in New York gathering data for the picture which starts about June with Pola Negri and the Lasky studio. The scenario is the joint work of June Mathis (author of the screen version of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," "BLOOD AND SAND") and Beulah Marie Dix, and is an adaptation of "Don Caesar de Bazan" by Adolph d'Ennery and P. S. T. Dumenier.

Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president of Famous Players-Lasky, in his announcement of the production stressed the brilliance and importance of the forthcoming picture. The efforts put forth in the making of Miss Negri's two previous pictures, "Della Donna" and "The Blood of the Virgin," will be exceeded by what will be done with "The Spanish Dancer" and inasmuch as it is a period picture with costuming an integral part of the quality of the production, potential of "Spanish Dancer" character; there will be great opportunity for beautiful effects. Unquestionably this picture will be one of the biggest pictures ever made by the organization, with splendid acting opportunities for the lovely star.

Big pictures, however, are the order of the day, for example, "Hollywood" which is now being completed by James Cruze, producer of "The Covered Wagon"—the greatest success in cinema history. "Hollywood" is a screen version of Frank Condon's short story and was adapted by the screenwriters of "Greed" for Goldwyn by Paul Armstrong and W. R. V. Dumenier. "Hollywood" is said to be one of the most elaborate ever made in stereoscopic. Hippodrome show itself. Walter Woods is production editor of this film.

Then there is "Salomey Junior" another picture with a cast of feature players, Jacqueline Logan, Frank Fay, and Maurice Flynn being named as the leading ladies. Valdemar Young adapted the story by Bret Harte and play by Paul Armstrong and is being made in locations where the original story was laid, in Northern California. Here the days of the gold rush and thereby are being reinserted with startling fidelity.

To the Tomto Basin Arizona, Victor Fleming has taken his company making "To the Last Man" first of the Zane Grey productions for Paramount. Featuring Richard Dix, Lois Wilson, Noah Berry, Robert E. Edeson and Frank Conpean, this picture promises to be one of the most powerful dramas of the open spaces since "The Covered Wagon." The tale of the deadly feud in an almost uncivilized region, it brings into play all the vital forces of life and nature, with unexcelled chances for strong dramatic action. Dorothea Schroeder adapted the story: Zane Grey is personally cooperating in its production and Lucien Hubbard is production director.

Sana Woods has just completed—or virtually completed—a brilliant social drama, involving a rich and poor Italian family. It is called "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" and was adapted by Sada Cowan from the Charles Portis adaptation of Alfred Savoir's French play. Gloria Swanson is the star and never has she given greater moments in a picture; never has she been more captivating. Exquisite gown, surrounded by every facility in sumptuous settings and costume effects. While a modern play it involves several costume effects and a big Egyptian set scene, etc., Julia Crawford Ivers is production editor.

"Children of Jazz" which Jerome Storm is directing, is another picture with a cast of featured players including Theodore Kosloff, dancer, artist, actor and writer; Ricardo Cortez, Eileen Percy and Robert Cain. Contrasting scenes between the young people and their exploits—today and yesterday—their love—their fame. It is an adaptation of a play by Harold Brighouse and the scenario is by Beulah Marie Dix.

Charles MacLaine is producing "The Silent Partner" and getting the entire Florin Moore. Robert E. Edeson featured. Here is a story of modern life in New York, contrasting wealth and poverty, having to do with the stock market and love—two qualities not always separate in human affairs. Ralph Block is production editor and the story is by Maxine Elliott, and produced by Sada Cowan.

For comedy relief, so to speak, Walter Hiers is doing "Fair Week" under the directo (Continued on Page 22)

Flashes from Frisco

By AGNES KERR CRAWFORD

San Francisco, April 20—J. Hesser Warraven, efficient publicity man with the Gram Productions, has been confined to his bed by illness for two weeks, but is so far recovered as now to be able to be back in the office again.

Ray Moore, well known member of the Goldwyn forces, and Victor Seastrom, director, spent the week-end in San Francisco looking for possible locations to be used in the forthcoming production by Goldwyn of "Masters of Men."

The Belasco Productions of this city have sold the state release rights on their first picture "Her Accidental Husband," and the picture will be shown here at the Granada Theatre along with the next few western pictures of Los Angeles' leading theatres. The reports on the picture show most unusually successful showings all over the country.

Caesare Gravina has finished his part in Erich Von Stroheim's production of "Greed," from Frank Norris' great American classic, "McTeague," and left for Los Angeles last week leaving the Singapore. He arrived this morning to join the company, and Mrs. J. E. Jewell and two children, who are to play the parts of the Jewels, arrived yesterday. Work on the production is making steady and most satisfactory progress, and it undoubtedly will be one of the real big features this year.

Robert E. Bruce, of scenic fame, will arrive in San Francisco tomorrow to complete his arrangements for the making of some new scenes near here, and farther north.

Dan Mason has left New York and is enroute for San Francisco. From present indications, it looks as though Dan would be featured in a reversed comedy drama, to be made at the Gerson studios here, before the new series of Pluma Center Comedies is started.

The Fisher Production's picture, "Youth Triumphs," is going along satisfactorily, and they expect to finish it about May 6.

Hugh Wiley, beloved of all Saturday evening Post readers for his stories, left for Hollywood a week ago, for some business calls on some of the studios. Mr. Wiley says if all goes well, his "Wildcat" and "Lily, the Goat" will soon appear on the screen.

Al Christie, Vera Steadman and Neil Burns spent the week-end in San Francisco on their way south for Hollywood, a lumber camp in the mountains, where they have been doing location work for the next Christie Comedy.

John Stout, cameraman for the Famous-Players-Lasky company, and A. C. Cuttback, an air pilot from the Varney Flying Service, yesterday came to grief yesterday while trying to shoot some scenes of San Quentin prison from an airplane. The shots were to be for "The Four Wives of the Air." With Mr. Stout came up on Saturday with Harold Schwartz, assistant director, to try his luck. Stout got the plane at Varney Flying field and flew up to San Quentin, and had flown over the prison several times, which is strictly against the rules, when, as they didn't heed the warnings of the guards, they fired on them. The plane wasn't hit, but was forced to come down in a nose dive in the soft earth of Baltimore Park, not far away. The plane was damaged, but both men escaped unhurt.

Two old friends met in San Francisco the other day who hadn't seen each other in years. Panny Midgley, playing in Erich Von Stroheim's production of "Greed," and Florence Moore, of the "Pair of Hollies," cast, being shot by the Stereoscopic Productions. Their friendship dates back to the old days on the stage when Florence Moore was an ingenue and Panny Midgley was playing child parts in the same company, so they had many old friends and old times to talk over.

The Kemnat Productions have decided to change the name of their first picture from "Crossed Wires," as announced last week, to "Tipped Off." The few friends who saw the picture getting the film the other morning were much pleased with it, and Harry McKenzie, head of the organization, will leave for New York with it next week to complete arrangements for release. The company has picture rights to a number of good stories, and expect to continue production of quite a large scale at the Pacific studios at San Mateo.

The Stereoscopic Productions have finished the filming of "The Pair of Hollies," the picture is being edited and cut, and will soon be ready for release through the American Releasing Corporation.
Some motion picture artists have trouble getting engagements. With others it is a case of not being able to accept all offers. Virginia Brown Faire is among those in the latter class. Since starting work as the leading woman in the Universal feature, "The Sky-Line of Spruce," starring Bill Desmond, the actress has signed with two other producers to head the all-star cast in forthcoming productions, with arrangements being made to film these pictures one month apart. New plans have now been made that call for each picture entering production the same day. Consequently, Miss Faire will not be able to appear in both pictures, despite the fact that she has agreed to put in night work in order to play both roles.

Helen Ferguson, having returned from Fresno where, as a representative of the American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition, which is to be staged in Los Angeles beginning July 2nd, she was one of the principal speakers at the "Raisin Week" convention, is now assembling a new wardrobe for her work as the featured player in a new series of special productions to be made by George Perry, associated with Mae Murray productions, at the Goldwyn Studios in Culver City. Actual filming of the first story "The Unknown Purple," will start on May 14th.

After playing detective roles in thirty-six well known film productions, B. Wesley Borman, who has come to be recognized as a foremost portrait of this type of role, the other day proved himself to be as efficient a detective in real life as he is on the screen. Three times within a week a new house the actor is building in Hollywood was broken into and electrical fixtures of great value were stolen. This not only proved annoying to him but easily as well so he decided to do a little sleuthing of a kind that has made him popular on the screen. After watching the house each night for two weeks Borman caught the robber band, consisting of three fellows, each of them is not over 21 years old. As a result of their capture the actor is to be fully reimbursed for the stolen fixtures and during the next 189 days the thieves will have ample time to determine the burglary trade pays for they have been sentenced to jail for this length of time.

Norma Talmadge, one of the most photographed women of the screen, recently remarked: "I have had thousands of photographs made, but there never have been such wonderful likenesses made of me as those just finished by Mr. Spurr."

Melbourne Spurr, whose Hollywood Studios are known to all filmdom, claims the rare distinction of having photographed every Motion Picture Star in the industry. Little Mother Spurr, who acts as hostess to Melbourne's guests, is as well acquainted with the stars as is her son, and, while engaged in discussing the relative merits of different types of photography, she is remarkably conversant with all affairs of Film-land.

Another comedian from the Mack Sennett fun factory is fast gaining fame in feature pictures. He is Garry O'Dell, who in the old Keystone days was starred by Sennett in two-reel comedies and who within recent years has been playing the comedy relief in feature productions. His latest engagement with Richard Thomas productions in whose latest picture, "Other Men's Money," he portrays the role of "Spike Louis," one of the principal supporting parts. It is a most exciting characterization and one that requires the fullest utilizing of his histrionic ability.

Craig Ward, scion of a wealthy Boston family, who as the hero in Reginald Barker's "Heart's Aflame," starring Anna Q. Nilsson, scored a decided hit with his brilliant performance, and who is acquiring the same amount of popularity with motion picture devotees that he enjoyed with stage audiences while acting as leading man for Margaret Anglin in many New York successes, has recently received an offer to return to the "legit" but he...

Sidney D. Cohn, who has just finished twelve years A. B. C. time, announces to his many professional friends the opening of his office in suite 392 New Bank of Italy Bldg., 7th and Olive, where he will continue in the diamond buying business.
Some Studio Storiettes

Several years ago—not so long, though, as Mabel Normand starred in a picture, made by Mack Sennett, which was titled "Miss Mickey." Shortly afterward, a noted songwriter penned a song, called "Peggy," it dedicated to Miss Normand because of her splendid work in the picture.

Now comes Peggy Browne, from New York, and because of the success she already has achieved, and that which seems to be in store for her, friends are wondering when a new "Peggy" song will appear on sale in the music stores.

Miss Browne has just finished an important part in "McGuire of the Plains," starring William Desmond, which Richard Stanton directed for Universal. Before coming to Hollywood, she appeared in a number of comedy productions in New York, but has decided that she likes dramatic work most, and is directing all of her efforts in that direction.

"Do those who decry the jazz music of today realize their efforts to stifle it would result virtually in turning humanity back to 16th century bigotry?" asks Norma Talmadge.

Jazz music is more than the music of a restless age—it is the expression of the American people, Miss Talmadge says. Any attempt by self-constituted moralists to stamp it out is a restriction of free expression, almost class legislation holds. Miss Talmadge draws a parallel between the attempts to censor jazz music today and the musical restrictions of France in 1572.

"In reading up on the historic background of France for my next costume drama, 'Ashes of Vengeance,' which is to be released by First National, I found there was no music for the common class," said Miss Talmadge. "There was only the music of the Church and the Nobility. There was no such music of the people, as today finds expression in the so-called jazz. Jazz is the music of the people, and those sour critics who assail it can only succeed in driving freedom of expression back to the 16th century extinction. In this free country they are doomed to failure."

One girl wanted a husband. One girl didn't want a husband but had to take one.

The first girl wanted a husband so bad that she kidnapped one.

The second girl wanted to lose a husband to show she was a sanitarium invalid with one foot in the grave and the other on a banana skin.

These two characters whose views on matrimony are so diametrically opposed, are the heroines in two distinct pictures now in preparation at the United Studios for Associated First National release.

In the first picture, "The Huntress," the heroine is a white girl, brought up as an Indian, who kidnaps "her man," holds him on an island and then marries him before he knows what it is all about.

In the second picture, "Her Temporary Husband," the heroine, forced to marry within twenty-four hours to win a legacy, weds a man she thinks will live scarcely long enough to see the marriage ceremony through.

These bright plots are the basis of two of the most amusing mirth-provokers to be screened for many months.

After two years in England, Director Donald Crisp has returned to Los Angeles, where he will remain until about the middle of May. He has signed a new contract with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and will be back in New York in June to direct Elsie Ferguson in "Inclasse," the recent stage success which will be made into a lavish Paramount picture at the Long Island studio.

At the London studio of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation which has now been closed, he directed "The Bonnie Brier Bush," "Appearances," and "The Princess of New York."

Mr. Crisp enjoys the enviable distinction of being present at Buckingham Palace for the private showing to the royal family of his picture "The Bonnie Brier Bush," the exteriors of which were filmed in the beautiful Scottish countryside.

Gilda Gray, one of Broadway's most famous dancers, who performs nightly in the Ziegfeld Folies and early every morning at the Rendez-vous, will be seen in her South Sea dance in Allen Dwan's production of "Lawful Larceny," which he is now producing at the Paramount Long Island Studio with Nita Naldi, Hope Hampton, Lew Cody and Conrad Nagel in the principal roles.

The interior of the Rendez-vous cabaret, which is one of New York's celebrated dance clubs, was reproduced in the studio as a background for Miss Gray's dance.
"Shooting" in Pasadena

Director James H. Horne has taken his company, which is filming "Blow Your Own Horn," to Pasadena for exteriors and a new seven-room house, which is being built for the company. It will be used as a private residence for the cast and crew. The house will be completed in time for the next scene to be filmed. The cast includes Eileen Shannon and Rockliffe Peters.

"Lights Out" Progresses

"Lights Out," a Rex Taylor production, is being filmed at the Powers studios under the direction of Al Sabin. Miss Alice Faye is being filmed in an all-star cast including Ruth Stonehouse, Walter McGrail, Marie Antinie, Theodore von Eitz and Marie Van Buren.

FATHER DODD TO STAGE EVENT

From every indication the Hollywood Woman's Club Auditorium will be filled to capacity on the nights of May 10th and 11th when A Night in Dreamland, a musical extravaganza, will be presented by Rev. Neal Dodd for the purpose of raising funds with which to construct a new church for the motion picture people, to be known as "The Little Church Around the Corner." In amateur efforts are being staged in behalf of members of the motion picture industry, actors, and artistic friends, and others from the local film colony. Some of the speakers and others who will present their support are the following: Grace Kelly, Joan Crawford, Joan Blondell, and others.

It is estimated that he has trained more than fifty thousand persons for his latest show, which is to be presented with a local cast of seven hundred adults and children.

Hundreds of persons are being attracted each evening to the rehearsals, which are being held in the auto sales rooms of the Wright Auto Service Company at 6250 Hollywood Boulevard. Mr. Wellinig has extended a cordial invitation to the readers of "Camera!" to attend these rehearsals.

It is estimated that the first night audience will be composed entirely of motion picture people. Many of the stars have purchased a generous number of tickets to the show, which have been priced at from one to two dollars. A handsome souvenir program has been prepared, in the center of which has been reserved a motion picture people's pictorial section. Space in this section has been purchased liberally by many of the most prominent persons of the community, including Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, allowing them to express in a fitting manner their interest in the church venture.

Nearly thirteen years ago Director Wilcox began his initial bow professionally as leading man in Jennie Thompson's Production entitled "Our New Minister."
Sadie Campbell is playing an important hit in a current Universal-Jewel, as yet unnamed. Miss Campbell is a favorite protégé of Gus Edwards.

Tommy Wonder, five-year-old dance wizard, appeared at the Elgin’s in Chicago. He repeated his captivating dance which he gave at the Wampus Frolic.

Neva Lynn, the beautiful show girl from New York, who is creating a sensation by her work in Gorham Polices, surprised the Little Brothers party recently by dropping in on the 260 boys and giving a dance.

Edward Martindel is nearing the completion of his contract at the William Fox studios, where he has been playing the leading character role in "The Eleventh Hour." The picture has been Dolores Del Rio in the making and is declared to be one of the screen’s most auspicious presentations of the year.

Miss Winifred Greenwood, well-known actress American Film fame, is to return to the screen after a two years’ engagement on the stage. Miss Greenwood will be seen in Zane Grey’s "To the Last Man," to be produced by Lasky.

Jack Cunningham, who adapted Emerson Hough’s "The Covered Wagon" for the screen, has started work on the adaptation of Peter B. Kyne’s novel, "The Light to Leward," which will be Thomas Meighan’s next Paramount picture. Irvin Willat, who has just completed "Fog Bound," a Paramount picture starring Dorothy Dalton, will direct Mr. Meighan in the new picture which will be titled "Homeward Bound."

Hope Hampton has been engaged by the Warner Brothers to play the leading role in the screen version of the David Belasco play, "The Gold Diggers," which will be directed by Harry Beaumont. Miss Hampton is expected to arrive early next month for the Warner studios in Los Angeles following the completion of her role in "Lawful Larceny."

Perry N. Yekoff, one of the keenest motion picture authors and directors in the motion picture industry, has been engaged by Associated First National Pictures, Inc., to write a film version of "The Lord of the Flying Galleon," a Sydney Hershel Small film novel dealing with the romance of American and Japanese life.

Marie Prevost will, in all probability, be starred in "Broadway After Dark," to be made by the Warner Brothers.

Irene Rich will be the featured player in the Warner Brothers' picturization of Kaufman Norris novel, "Love in New York." The production will be made by Harry Rapf, the producer of "Braun."

The direction of "Little Johnny Jones," the screen adaptation of the popular stage play, starring Johnny Hines, has been assigned to Arthur Rossion. Hines is at present on the west coast and the entire cast is being assembled at the Warner Brothers studios.

Edward Connelly, character actor who has attracted considerable attention for his interpretations in Rex Ingram's productions, has been engaged by Director George D. Baker for the part of the Antiquary in The Magic Skin," which is to be produced by Achievement Film Corporation. The casting of the screen version of Miss Beaumont’s "re-erb" on the screen as she has been playing them, years to her stage career and has only recently come to Hollywood to resume picture activities. Among devotees to the spoken drama she is known as the champion mother of the stage, her forte being the enactment of maternal roles.

George O’Hara expects to complete next week Judy’s Punch," twelfth of the Witwer "Fighting Blood" series in which he is starring. Mr. O’Hara’s contract on this vehicle encounters many vicissitudes, and also dons the gloves for a thrilling fight with Larry McCarthy, who has acted as referee in most of the pictures. Judy’s Punch" finishes the first series of the "Fighting Blood."

In order that every detail of the official professional boxing might be absolutely correct, Erich von Stoehr, added Dr. Harry Smulsen, well-known San Francisco dentist, to his staff as technical advisor in the filming of "Greed," the Goldwyn adaptation of Frank Norris’ novel, of American literature, "McTeague."" Mike Donlin, famous baseball player and vaudeville star, has been assigned by Fred Datus Universal casting director, to a role in "Thicker Than Water," Herbert Rawlinson’s next starring vehicle. "Thicker Than Water" is a screen adaptation of Margaret Bryant’s novel, "Richard," and is being filmed under the direction of Edmund Mortimer.

The London Quartet, famous musical organization from England, are now on a United States concert tour, visited Universal City during their stay in Los Angeles, and inspected the filming of "The Huckaback of Notre Dame. Members of the party were H. Waldo Mann, Thomas, Pietri, Warrick Evans and Arthur Beckwith. Their visit to California was the last lap of their tour of the States. They will also visit Australia.

George O’Hara is training daily with prize-fighters at the Robertson-Cole studios for his latest picture, "Judy Punch."

Carl Miller cannot get away from the make-up box. In addition to the leading male role he is also playing Miss Cline’s "Public Opinion" Mr. Miller has begun rehearsals for the lead in a topical serial entitled "Stills Again," which will be given at the Hollywood Woman’s Club, May 17th.

For the first time in his brilliant screen career, Lloyd Hughes has a most artistic toe dancer for a leading lady. She is Gene Feiner who is playing opposite to him in the Universal special which is tentatively titled "Grandpop." Prior to making her debut into the film world Miss Feiner was a highly successful toe dancer but she has developed an unusual natural talent for film in Japan, and will hereafter probably concentrate all of her professional energies on this line of work in preference to tchisschorepen.

Production work on the Victor Fisher picture entitled "Youth Triumphant," is rapidly progressing at the Universal Hollywood Studios. Lucy Beaumont who has one of the principal roles in this picture, expects to finish within the next two weeks or in time to begin another picture for which she is assigned to play "The Wild Animal." "Youth Triumphant" will serve as a picture, which is taken from Pulitzer’s "A" book of the "Wild Animal."" is progressing rapidly. Others already in leading roles are George Walsh, Carmel Myers and Bessie Love.

"This make-believe life is surely the most paradoxical life possible," remarks Frances Raymond, the popular screen artist. "Here I find the meanest man in the world is one of the best men I ever knew." Miss Raymond has reference to Bert Lytell, playing the title role in the picture version of George M. Cohan’s stage success, "The Meanest Man in the World." She is particularly the mother of her character in the picture and has had exceedingly close-up views of his acting in this particular part. Likewise, the artistic and social affiliations of the engagement has afforded her an opportunity to be acquainted with Mr. Lytell’s genial personality and highly polished manners. "I have been an actress for many years I cannot understand yet how such a nice gentleman can exist in such an even make-believe," she adds.
LOGUE WILL WRITE FILM CONTINUITY FOR "PONJOLA"

Charles A. Logue, noted screen author and director, has been engaged to write the film continuity of Cynthia Stockley’s "Ponjola," which is to be the successor to the Rhodesian gold fields, declares "Ponjola," to be the most powerful dramatic story of its type that has ever been written.

"In my many years as a scenario writer and director I have handled many dramas, but none that has as much historical interest as "Ponjola." Those who take the trouble to read the story, which describes the adventures of a pioneer woman among the cannibal tribes of the wilds of Africa, will be interested in the character development of the heroines and the romantic atmosphere of the story, which is set in a region where the adventures of the heroine are full of danger and excitement.

"I am not the author of the story, for that is entirely different from anything ever written before, but since it is being produced in Africa by the famous director, Mr. Logue, I will do the screen adaptation." Logue is especially fitted to handle the adaptation of this celebrated African story. He has made a deep study of the life and customs of that country and he can be depended upon to produce a screen play which will find many of the best of the year.

He has written more than 25 original motion picture stories, and has directed more than a score of famous book and stage successes. He also won fame as a director. Two of his most notable plays in which he handled the director role were "The Ten Commandments," and "The Woman Who Fooled Herself."

BACK TO THE STAGE THE HOLUBARS MAY GO

Allen Holubar and Dorothy Phillips Holubar, screenwriter and star respectively, who in private life are Mr. and Mrs. Holubar, are considering returning to the legitimate stage following the termination of their present motion picture contracts.

Holubar is contemplating the building of a magnificent theatre in Hollywood—the initial "speakeasy" playhouse in the film capital—and if his present plans materialize both he and his charming wife will take part in at least one of the plays to be produced in the proposed theater.

At the present time the Holubars are vacationing in the Californian mountains. Shortly they will return to their Hollywood home to resume the grind of the work-a-day world.

Carmel Myers is in her last scenes of Earle's "King Tut-Ankh-Amen," which will be followed by her appearance in the coquette role of Baker's version of Balzac's "The Magic Skin."

HIS LIFE IS JUST ONE ROLE AFTER ANOTHER

There are lots and lots of actors in Hollywood who have none of that "between-pictures" a little moment from which other youths suffer, every once in a while.

One of these is Paul Weigel, character actor. No sooner does Mr. Weigel finish in one production, Hollywood, than he is cast immediately for an important role in some other picture.

For instance, Mr. Weigel was engaged, several days ago, in portraying the part of Gloria Swanson's father, in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," which Samuel Wood directed for Famous Players-Lasky.

He had not finished with that part before William F. & E. Earle had signed him for an important role in "Tut-ankh-amen," now nearing completion at the Hollywood Studios.

Mr. Weigel quit work in his part at Lasky's one evening, and the following morning had donned his make-up and appeared for duty with Mr. Earle's organization. He has just finished work in this part also.

BABY DOUBLES FOR HIS BROTHER IN CAREY'S PLAY

One of the oddest incidents which has occurred in motion picture making happened during the filming of Harry Carey's latest F. B. O. production, "The Miracle Baby."

As the story suggests, a baby plays an important role in the picture. It happens that the child playing this part is one of a pair of twins. With his nurse he journeyed to Truckee where exteriors of the production were filmed. On the return to Hollywood with the company, the baby became ill, threatening to delay the completion of the picture.

There was consternation on the lot until it was suggested that the twin brother be substituted for him in the interior scenes which were taken on the studio stage.

This is the first time that an actor's brother has been used as his double in a motion picture, and it is an incident that will probably not be repeated at an early date.

Priceless Books Stolen

Pierre Collings, who is photographing "Blow Your Own Horn," found on his return to his residence that he had been visited by a burglar. Many priceless books of photographic nature were among the victims that they cannot be replaced in this country as they are all rare and unique, and beyond the value they held in Germany and France when he made his tour of the world.

Does it pay to be popular as a character actor? Just ask Mr. Weigel!

JACKIE LOSES PRIZED DOG; REWARD OFFERED

The town will be resounding this morning to cries of "Here, Butzie, Butzie!" if there is any petency in the lost and found columns of the daily papers, for this crier is not a part of a new game that the kids will be playing; it is the result of an advertisement inserted by Jack Coogan, Sr., to the effect that his son's police dog has wandered away from the dog run behind the Coogan domicile on South Oxford Avenue.

According to the advertisement, Butzie's right hind leg is bandaged, which should make him easy to identify. He is a full blooded police dog and very friendly, so that he will respond to his name when it is called by anyone. Here's a chance not only to secure a reward from Jacky's father, but also to win the youngster's affection and thanks.

Tourneur on Vacation

Maurice Tourneur concluded the production of his newest picture treatment for M. C. Levee, "The Brass Bottle," and left this week for northern California where he will take a week's vacation. Immediately after the final "shot" was photographed, the director lost no time but snatched up his bags and departed for the north, leaving no forwarding address. He will return in time to supervise the final cutting and editing of the picture.

HENRY McCARTY FORMS OWN PRODUCTION ORGANIZATION

Henry McCarty, who wrote and directed the entire series of Lester Cuneo westerns, produced during the years 1921, is to serve in a similar capacity for Charles Mack Productions, which company has recently been organized with Charles Mack, formerly general manager for Dobleday Productions, as president and general manager.

According to the plans of the company, twelve stories of feature-length will be produced during the ensuing year with distribution through one of the largest releasing concerns. The stories will be presented with an all-star cast in which will appear some of the screen's best known artists.

Actual filming of the company's project, the title and details of which have not yet been announced, will start at the Fine Arts studios within the next two weeks.

Henry McCarty made his debut in motion pictures as a clay modeler for the Selig production, "Judgment of the Storm," at Los Angeles in 1917. He is one of a very few men in the motion picture industry who have proved to be capable of writing and directing their own stories.

WHEN A HAT IS NOT A CUSPIDOR AT ALL

Del Andrews, who directed Lloyd Hughes, Lucille Ricksen and other members of an all-star cast in the recent Selig play Corporation production, "Judgment of the Storm," at Los Angeles, has charged this one upon his co-workers one day between bites at a sandwich:

"In the early days of our industry there was a certain temporal director who always wore a rather large felt hat. One day while filming scenes in a "set" representing the boudoir of a French monarch's lady love, he misplaced the hat, and fretted all one morning over its loss. At noon "props" brought it to him with the word that it had been found right on the set. "When the picture was finished, a noted expert in period architecture and furnishings was invited to give the "set" a preview. He found only one slight technical flaw, but the film was shown again, that he might point it out to the director. "That cuspidor by the foot of the big mirror is what I object to;" declared the expert, "it is entirely foreign to the period, and—" Cuspidor! shouted the director. "That's my missing hat!"
Mundy's Novel Serialized

Bradley King, continuity writer for Thomas H. Ince, has completed an adaptation of Talbot Mundy's latest sensation for an Ince screen special. Miss King has been collaborating on Mundy's story, which is the first tale of American life ever written by the British novelist. Mundy's adventure tales of India and Africa have won such a tremendous following that the Bobbs-Merrill Publishing Co., has contracted for six novels, two of which have been bought by Thomas H. Ince for screen specials.

Gesting "Temporary Husband"

Associated First National Pictures, Inc., is engaged in assembling a cast to interpret the story, "Temporary Husband," Edward Buttenon's farcical stage play, which is to be given by John W. Meicenmore with Sidney Chaplin in the leading comedy role. As a stage play "Temporary Husband" was local thrill vehicle for William Conrray who is still playing in this ludicrous comedy in "Ballyhoo." It is essentially a lunxh-provoker and a type of play which will show Charley's inimitable brother at his best.

MORLEY HAS HARD TIME DECIDING ON OFFERS

Reggie Morley finds it easy enough to get engagements, but it is difficult to arrive at a decision which one is the best to select. For the last week he has been touring the land's greatest studio. Considering an offer to go to Santa Cruz to enact the starring role in a feature production about to be filmed there, but something told him - it may have been a hunch - that he should not shake the dust of Hollywood from his shoes so soon after just having returned from his long professional sojourn in San Francisco. Hence, he rejected the starring offer on the sole ground that it would take him away from Hollywood's capital. Now he is confronted with deciding between two other offers in two local studios.

Mr. Morley is one of the established photoplayers, and since the days when he was casting director at the William Fox Studios, he has enacted many thrilling roles that he is unable to forget. He made his debut in pictures in the famous old Key Street studios, and he is at it ever since.

One of his most notable screen performances was given in support of Dustin Farnum in the picture success entitled "Starvation.'

What "Butting" Does for You

Fred Esmelton states that the portrayal of the role of a butler as a rather grimy occasion is good for any actor. "Many of us attendees are inclined to look on you as too self-satisfied and entirely too selfish in our view of life," Esmelton says.

"But after playing the part of a better day after day and passing out the soup and victuals, you get so that you feel inclined to do something in the other fellow's welfare."

John Ralesco Signed

J. Travers Montgomery, father of Baby Peggy, has signed John Ralesco to appear in Baby Peggy's full-length feature which will be made shortly at Universal City. Montgomery has several other actors of note in mind, but has signed Ralesco due to his excellent work in Century Comedies with Baby Peggy. Ralesco is now studying advanced feminine while waiting for his call.

MAY MURRAY WILL MAKE ALL FILMS HERE IN FUTURE

Three important announcements concerning Mae Murray and her director-husband, Robert S. Leonard, were made by Miss Murray and by the executive of the New York office of the company. Miss Murray has been in the business for over twenty-five years, and has starred in hundreds of pictures. She is a well-known name on Broadway, and has been called "the Queen of the Screen." She has been engaged by Metro to appear in a new picture, "The French Doll," which is to be produced by Robert S. Leonard. The picture is to be made in Hollywood, and is to be released by Metro Pictures. Miss Murray will also appear in "The Eagle's Feather," which is to be produced by the company in New York. The picture is to be released by Metro Pictures.

GLAND BENEFICIARY SEEKS IMPORTANT ROLE

Since the announcement was made a week ago that First National is to picture Gertrude Atherton's widely-discussed novel of rejuvenation, "Black Oxen," the studio offices of that company at the United States, have been besieged daily by film actresses who seek an opportunity to play the featured role. Among those who are eager to play the part of Madame Zatti, the heroine of 50 who virtually overnight has grown into one of the most desirable figures of the film world.

But so far no one has been satisfactory to the requirements needed to portray this most unusual character and actress, even though, as Miss Murray has observed, it is not improbable that they will be forced to go outside of film circles to find the "type" for which they are looking to play this most difficult part.
HUMS MOURNFUL TUNE AS CAMERAS CLICK

Bert Roach brushed idly at his painted mustache and hummed an old-time ballad. He spoke no words, just hummed the sweet refrain.

The funny Universal studio laugh promoter was the picture of detection. But still he hummed the air of the song of yesterday.

Nearby, on the same set at Universal City, William Watson, Bert's director, listened, puzzled.

"Pretty Tune, Bert" sounds familiar. I'd heard it before, but I like reded it. They always have so much meaning. What did you say it was, Bert?"

Bert paused for just a second.

"Don't interrupt me now. I'm only on the twenty-fifth verse. Got twenty-four more to go. Great atmospheric song for this thing we're doing!"

He resumed his humming without even losing the tempo.

Watson turned and glanced along the set, a light of understanding standing in his eyes. Rows and rows of bottles were standing along first line of bottles.

And he, too, began to hum the old refrain, "Forty-nine Blue Bottles." Roach has just begun his latest comedy, "Empty Bottles," a satire on the great American justice of olden days, "getting rich of the empty bottles!"

"Empty Bottles," is the third of Roach's present series of the reel comedies in which he is being starred, under William Watson's direction.

It is understood, also, that he will be assigned to a part in "A Lady of Quality," now in production on the "U" lot.

HE'S HATED AND HISSED—BUT HE LIKES IT

What would a serial be without a villain?

Of course, there must be stars—the lovely lady who goes through all sorts of perilous adventures, and the handsome hero who always seems just on the verge of going under, but finally triumphs, in the final fadeout, and gets the girl.

Also, there must be supporting actors and actresses; those who carry out the subsidiary action and serve as foils, or background, to the leading characters.

But by all means there must be a villain.

He's hissed promiscuously; sometimes, excited fans curse him, and heave anathema at his screen shadow. That's what villains are meant for, though—to be hated—and that's one reason for Edwin (Buck) Moulton's success in pictures—his hateability.

Mr. Moulton has the heavy role in "The Eagle's Talons," which is being filmed, with Ann Little and Fred Thomson co-starring.

CREIGHTON HALE'S CURIOSITY DROVE HIM INTO FILMS

The self same curiosity that killed the proverbial cat brought to the screen one of its favorite juveniles.

This is Creighton Hale, who plays the part of "Little Billie," "Triby" to the fiendish villain in the Machin-Maurier classic now being filmed at the United Studios by Richard and William Tully for First National release.

Asked a few days ago how he happened to come into filmmland, Hale declared: "I was curious. I wanted to see what it was all about and so I got a job as an extra."

But from this it must not be taken that the famed juvenile was inexperienced when he applied for his first screen bit. Far from it. He had been a well-known stage actor in England for years before. In fact, he was born into the acting profession. His father was an actor-manager and his mother also was a renowned stage favorite.

It was while he was in New York, playing with an English company, that he learned his way to the films was arduous. He waited until his stage engagements were finished and then applied for his initial bit. It was the part of an office boy.

He showed such remarkable talent in this small part that he was immediately engaged to play a much more important role and from then on he has had a sure and steady climb to the top.

Clovers and Luck

Who said four-leaf clovers were lucky? That's what Peggy O'Day, featured player in "The Fighting Skipper," would like to know. The other morning as she started for the studio she found a four-leaf clover on her lawn. Congratulating herself on her good luck, she put it in her purse in exultant anticipation of all the good things to come. As she drove out the garage door she took it in her glove compartment. It dropped to the floor and the driver had to go after it. Good fortune may be luck, chirps Peggy, but there are two kinds of luck."
SUCCESS CHANGES FOLKS’ ATTITUDE TOWARD FILMS

Running away from her home in Virginia two years ago to seek fame in motion pictures caused Dorothy Dunlap to become an object of nation-wide search by the police.

In his high school Miss Dunlap took part in virtually every entertainment and play that was staged by her classmates. She became so interested in dramatic acting that she longed for the day when she would have a chance to display her talent on the motion picture screen. Feeling that if she was given a chance before the camera she would "make good."

At the end of the high school year, when she had saved and without saying a word to her parents about her plans, Minnie Dunlap, who had other plans for her future, boarded a train for California. Her folks immediately notified the police of her disappearance and a description of her was flashed to the police throughout the country.

A few weeks later she was located in Hollywood, playing small parts at one of the film studios. Her family requested that she be brought back to Virginia, but Miss Dunlap replied, stating that she was enjoying her work in pictures immensely, and that if allowed to remain, she would soon be playing major important roles. After considerable persuasion, her parents finally consented to let her stay in Hollywood, thinking she would perhaps soon tire of her work in pictures and would return home for good.

Miss Dunlap continued playing small parts in pictures and she completed her high school education by going to night school.

Her desire to play leading roles is now about to be fulfilled, having been placed under contract by James Cuny to play the leading feminine role in his latest production, "Why Do We Live?" which is to enter filming with only a few days at the Cosmopolitan studios.

Miss Dunlap’s parents visited her in Hollywood a few weeks ago and are now willing that she should continue her work in pictures. They are making preparations to shortly establish a permanent residence in this city.

Sadie-Campbell, noted protege of Gus Edwards, made a hurried trip to Florida some days ago in order to appear in connection with one of her Century Comedies. She is known as Bobby Messenger's leading lady, and is eleven years of age.

Jack White, producer-director of Educational-Mermaid Comedies, is in New York conferring with Philip Hammon, president of Educational Film Exchange, Inc., regarding production and distribution plans for his 1923-24 feature. White has just returned from his trip East by E. H. Allen, general manager of the Cinescope plays now in production at the Russell studio. This comedy unit will produce two-reelers of the situation type, and will be directed by Willburn Morante. Tom Gibson will direct, while E. L. MacManus will turn camera.

HOLBROOK BLINN TO PLAY "BAD MAN" IN PICTURES

First National has completed arrangements for filming "The Bad Man," Porter Emerson Story, as a one-reeler, in pictures produced by Columbia pictures at a total cost of $75,000. Miss Morante's picture, which is now being presented at the Majestic Theatre.

Hobbrook Blinn, creator of the tiny-tot type of stunt man and world travelers, will colorize the local stage production, will portray the same role in the motion picture. Blinn is the only member of the supporting cast that has been definitely disclosed. He has already been signed and will be given all star support.

Eddie Carew will direct. Carew is now in New York City arranging some minor details of the production and will return here shortly after the first of the month. He may bring one of two supporting members of the cast from New York with him, production is expected to start shortly after July 1. By this time the current run of the picture is expected to be completed and Blinn expects to be finished with the part he is playing in Mary Pickford's latest production.

Because of his stage composure, the Pickford picture engagement and the filming of "The Bad Man,"Carew has been forced to turn down a contract to portray the leading role in a new production. The part will be taken from one of the largest film companies.

JACK AND CLAUDE ARE SOME MISFIT BROTHERS

Jack Mulhall, the fastidious, and Claude Gillem, the greasy, have landed in film and theatrical circles almost as much for his height as his dramatic powers, a contrast to the "little brothers" at the United States. In one sequence of the first production, Mr. and Mrs. Carew have been forced to turn down a contract to portray the leading role in a new production. The part will be taken from one of the largest film companies.

Jack Mulhall, the fastidious, and Claude Gillem, the greasy, have landed in film and theatrical circles almost as much for his height as his dramatic powers, a contrast to the "little brothers" at the United States. In one sequence of the first production, Mr. and Mrs. Carew have been forced to turn down a contract to portray the leading role in a new production. The part will be taken from one of the largest film companies.

MORANTE COMEDIES SOON

J. E. Logan and Jack B. Bayham lately identified with the production of "The Marriage Clause" and "The Law" for the American Re-ecasing Corporation will be associated with Morante's comedies now in production at the Russell studio. This comedy unit will produce two-reelers of the situation type, and will be directed by Willburn Morante. Tom Gibson will direct, while E. L. MacManus will turn camera.

GOLDWYN PLANS TO MAKE "BEN HUR" FEATURE HERE

F. J. Godsol, president of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, while in Los Angeles last week, made several important announcements.

He has paired with him complete data gathered by Edward Bowes during an extensive tour of Europe regarding the advantages and disadvantages of making "Ben Hur" abroad. This information was placed in the hands of Abraham Lehr, who is in charge of production. During Mr. Godsol's stay decision will be made as to whether the speculation will be filmed at the Culver City studios. Selection of the cast will also be held up pending a decision.

The film executive made pubic for the first time that the completion of "Ben Hur" pictures this year, the greatest in its history. The Goldwyn studio and the various divisions of these, Goldwyn will contribute fifteen, and the Distinctive Corporation will supply fifteen. Jerome Chayanov's production of "The Spoilers" and the Achievement Film Company's "The Magic Skin," directed by George E. Boker, will complete the program.

Mr. Godsol said the big production schedule inaugurated by Goldwyn would be continued. He adds, however, that he has contracted with famous directors and actors have placed the company in a new and exciting position, now that the boom in the industry has set all the producers scurrying for talent.

If friends of Edward Gribbon want to get his "great" feature in motion pictures, he wants to have a little actor to have a piece of pie. After being "fed up" on this kind of pastru in three consecutively picture's Gribbon does that all good things he ever thought about pies were hopelessly wrecked when in "Why Merry for Money," a Sal Lesser production, in which he plays one of the principal supporting roles, he was again given a "pie scene" to act.

As for the worst of it! Some time ago the actor decided he would try to reduce weight. In his last four pictures, however, he has acquired such a great quantity of pie that he has gained twelve pounds.

"Judy Punch," the twelfth story of H. C. Wilwer's "Fighting Flood" series, has been put in production at the Powers Studios under the direction of Malcolm S. Clay. George O'Hara and Clara Horton are the featured players.
TEACHER SAYS ARIEL SAWYER MUST HAVE TUTOR

Ariel Sawyer, juvenile actor who is bringing fame to his boy and bellovy portrayals, tells of an amusing incident that occurred at the studio the other day. The studio teacher was interviewing a group of children who were taking part in one of the film's in process. This group, which is 13 years of age, and the following conversation ensued:

Teacher: "Don't you know that I have YOUR name, young man?"

Sawyer: "Oh, you really don't need my name."

Teacher: "And why not?"

Sawyer: "Because I don't go to school."

Teacher: "Don't you know it's compulsory for every child under 16 years of age to go to school?"

Sawyer: "Yes, I understand that."

Teacher: "Well, this sounds queer. What's your name, and where do you live?"

This chattering continued at a rapid pace, and before Ariel had finished his film was almost completed to call for his birth certificate to establish his age. As it was, it fully satisfied the teacher's curiosity, he had to refer her to a friend who assumed the part of the teacher of the studio and had long since passed the school age.

Incidents of this nature are not unusual to Sawyer, who has the physical appearance of a boy about fourteen years of age. This, coupled with a keen sense of dramatic values, enables him to play his parts to perfection.

His first film work was in "Welsh Rarebit and Pickles," a production made in the north-western part of the state by W. Ferguson, a brother of Efie Ferguson, the stage star. Later he was manager, for several seasons, of amusement concessions on the beach at Santa Cruz.

MOVIE STAR LIFE'S NOT SO EASY AS MANY THINK

What an easy life these movie stars lead:

At the leisurely hour of 2 a.m. on one cold morning this week, only six distinguished companies of film celebrities gathered together for a picture that would have to be a re-make of one of the latest thrillers. The film was "The Vengeance." It was shot at various points around the city, and the stars, led by Douglas Fairbanks, left for the States. The film was to have been at the studio for a week, but the weather forced them to move to a more temperate climate.

The party that set out in the shivery hours before dawn had all the appearance of an exploring expedition. Eighteen trucks, loaded with equipment, several loads of horses, a field cooking outfit manned by a cook and two helpers, were part of the accessories.

Heading the motor caravan were Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Miss Talmadge, Conway Tearle, Compton Fischer, and a number of the biggest stars of the city. The party was to have followed the route of the studio for a week, but the weather forced them to move to a more temperate climate.

The party that set out in the shivery hours before dawn had all the appearance of an exploring expedition. Eighteen trucks, loaded with equipment, several loads of horses, a field cooking outfit manned by a cook and two helpers, were part of the accessories.

Heading the motor caravan were Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Miss Talmadge, Conway Tearle, Compton Fischer, and a number of the biggest stars of the city. The party was to have followed the route of the studio for a week, but the weather forced them to move to a more temperate climate.

The party that set out in the shivery hours before dawn had all the appearance of an exploring expedition. Eighteen trucks, loaded with equipment, several loads of horses, a field cooking outfit manned by a cook and two helpers, were part of the accessories.

Heading the motor caravan were Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Miss Talmadge, Conway Tearle, Compton Fischer, and a number of the biggest stars of the city. The party was to have followed the route of the studio for a week, but the weather forced them to move to a more temperate climate.
SAM DE GRASSE IS POPULAR FILM MONARCH

"Hearty like the crown on the kingly brow."

If there is anyone in pictures today who knows the truth of this old saying it is Sam de Grasse, well-known film character actor, whose specialty lately seems to be filling the roles of some of the most famous kings and royal personages of history.

Just at present he is two kings at the same time. He was dealt his first knockdown by Thomas H. Ince, who is the King, which is being produced by Goldwyn. Then he called for, and Mr. Ince promptly was dealt him. This time the part of King Solomon, in "The Brass Bottle," which Maur- ce H. Serpollet is directing for the United Studios for First National.

De Grasse's whole screen career has been one royal flush after the other. One of his most recent performances was in a newserial of a very person of royal blood as "Prince John" in Robin Hood. Another similar part, to follow his "agreed" role in "The Brass Bottle," is to be the role of "The Duke," in "John of the Woods," a picture in which his majesty, Denby the 10-year-old star, is to be fea- tured.

Alabamans Know Their Alabama

To test the fidelity of the film- ings of typical Alabama scenes in a new serial, "Sears of Jealousy," soon to be released, the producer recently gave a special showing of the film of a group of native Alabamans, who were used in the making of the scenes. The picture depicts scenes on the broad plantation lands, and the hill country of Alabama as they are today. Mr. Ince prided himself on the accuracy with which the "atmosphere" had been transplanted to the film.

The visitors liked the picture immensely, but one of them suggested a slight change in the big lynching scene that provides one of the thrills. The change suggested strengthened the plot of the story, and the company, already having arranged for the story to be sent out in the week. This is one of the strongest screen dramas of the year. Lloyd Hughes is the featured player in this production.

Jack Mower is being featured as the star in a new serial, that is to be named after "Daniel Boone." At the same time Jack has organized his own producing club. The only trouble with this club is that every fisherman, as he pulls in every fish, must have a witness to ensure that it is a fish of the fish that he has referred to previously. In other words, they trust each other not.

LASKY SIGNS MONTAQUE TO "NORTH OF 36"

Edward J. Montaqué, noted scenarist and playwright, who is adapting the First National production of "Swamp Water," to the screen and who recently signed to do a series of productions for that company, has just been engaged by Jack Lasky for the important task of adapting to the screen the Emerson Boulevard novel "North of 36," which the Lasky company hopes to make into one of the big films of 1918.

"North of 36," is from the same pen that wrote "The Covered Wagon," now scoring so heavily at Grauman's Hollywood Egyptian Theatre, is another story of the old frontier days and the wonderful characters to be made to bring it up to the standard of its predecessor. George Melford will direct the picture, and Ernest Torrence will have one of the leading roles. Many scen- arists were considered for the picture as one of the most famous authors but Montaqué was finally given the celluloid rights, which was a forlorn hope, but to the foregroup of late also wrote the screen version of "The Report of Houdini" and "The Common Law for Selznick.

NEW FINE ARTS PLANT TO BE READY SOON

With the approimation of $25,000, having been set aside by the Fine Arts studios for important changes and improvements to the plant, announcement was made this week by Nat Deverich, president, and John Rikkleman, secretary and treasurer of the studio, that the reconstruction work is progressing with the greatest possible speed and that plans have been approved that the buildings will be ready for occupancy by independent produc- ers by the opening of the summer season.

In place of the old wooden buildings which were construct- ed by D. W. Griffith, and which were used by that produc- er during the filming of "In- tolterence," "The Chansman" and his other immortal plays for the screen, the studio management is constructing stone buildings of the latest design in every modern improvement. When completed the plant, it is stated, will be one of the largest in the world. With its new date of its kind on the west coast and will offer producers the most modern facilities for the suc- cessful and economical film ing of their stories.

"YOUTH TRiumPHANT" LOOKS TRIUMPHANT

With the recovery of Virginia Lee Corbin, child actress, work on the last scenes of "Youth Triumphant," has been completed at the Hollywood Studios by Fisher Productions, the new unit in the field of the more im- portant independents.

Anna Q. Nilsson shares honors with little Miss Corbin in the story, but "Patsy" about whom the story revolves, after "Patsy" has shown upon the screen by the aforesaid conventional—almost Little Miss Corbin is playing "Patsy" as a wavy of the slums, a thing of great versa- tile Olive Twist.

The picture follows closely the novel of the same name by George Gibbs, follows it so closely that Lillian Ducy and Jack Yokehl, who are associated in its excution, have asked mem- bers of the cast to read their parts from the book rather than from the script. With the eternal struggles of youth for happiness—and its triumph. It centers about a little girl named Patsy, her sex hidden beneath the ragged pants and shirt of a New York newsboy, for a living on the streets. Leading the cast are: \\ Ma Slavin (Eugenie Beaucage) is not really her name, but is famous as the online in which she hides car- rier her to a Westchester es- tate where an accident when she attempts to escape, inspir- ions her to the hearts of two old maids, portrayed by Claire Mc Leod and Lucy Beaumont, who live there. David Van Lear (Joseph Dowling), a wealthy recluse, cousin to the twin old maids, first oppo- sers the harboring of the re- fuse, then violently espouses her. John Lear, his son, crippled, an enemy of all mankind, finds in her a kindred spirit and fights her battles with his keen mind. Phl Conway (Ward Crane) brother to a girl she meets at a fashionable Boarding House, the evil influence in her new life. Sidney Francis (William Boyd) young and high-minded, is first chum and then lover.

Others in the cast include: Mary Anderson, as Josie Con- way, sister to the latter; Eliza- man as Pa Slavin, an ex-pup who hides Patsy in his home in her babylhood and conceals from her her true parentage; Boyd Irwin as Pandrick, the attorney who keeps the Slavins on his payroll through all of Patsy's make- Kate Price as Mrs. McGuire, a neighbor of the Slavins who chooses Patsy from her beat- ings.

The picture is replete with laughter, tears, excitement, mystery and adventure, with all the elements of audi- ence appeal. As the first of the three-year program made by Fisher Productions, great care is being take in its filming. The shooting arrangements have yet to be announced later this month, soon after the comple- tion of the picture.

At The Exposition

The principal buildings will probably be completed. This will pass through a cir- cular plaza, 390 feet in diameter, called the Court of the Americas.

CAMERA

YOUNGSTER AT TEN IS A VETERAN AT ACTING ART

Ten years old and an actor be- fore the camera for the past nine years! This is the brilliant record held by Coy Watson, Jr., one of the screen's cleverest juvenile players who has an important role in Earl Williams' latest release, "You Never Know."

The youngster was born on the only lot in his block which was not owned by Mack-Sennett—at the corner of Alvarado and Berkeley Streets, Los Angeles. He actually made his debut in pictures at the age of nine months. This was in a photoplay made by the Selig Studios. At the age of eighteen months he was working regularly in Key- stone comedies. The youngster is one artist who was born and bred in the heart of filmland.

Coy Watson has received the Edgar Lewis production, "The Right of the Strongest," one of his current releases in which he receives the part of the national feature, "No Luck," starring Lloyd "Ham" Hamilton. Critics see and appreciate the youngster's remarkable dramatic ability in especially the Vita- graf picture, "You Never Know."

Although extremely dramatic, Coy is sufficiently versatile to be character to a first-class juvenile as well as dramatic actor. In reviewing "You Never Know," one of the country's well-known trade publications recently de- clared that young Watson is a second Jackie Coogan.

Issue Unique Booklet

A strikingly attractive souven- 7 of the virtues of the current En- core feature, Florence Vidor in "Alice Adams," is being distri- buted by Associated Exhibitors, its appearance being"synony- mous with the official release of the feature to the trade. The booklet, which is unique in arrangement and replete with artistic appeal, was the work of J. Irving Greene, Associated's director of advertising and public- ity.

Myers With Stahl

Amos Myers, formerly art di- rector at both the Metro and Lasky studios, has joined the Louis B. Mayer studios where he is supervising the construction of sets for John M. Stahl's next First National attraction, "The Wanters," which has just gone into production. A small for- tune has already been invested in scene "atmosphere" for this picture which will be staged on every movie stage possible than Mr. Stahl's latest success, "The Dangerous Age."

Sadie Steps Up

Sadie Campbell, most promis- ing of all proteges of Gus En- wards, has entered the movies.
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, May 7

Camera! intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-369

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BERWILLA STUDIO</td>
<td>5821 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>Ashton Dearholt, Pro. Mgr.</td>
<td>Holly 3130</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eddie Lyons Productions (Arrow release)</td>
<td>Eddie Lyons</td>
<td>McGill</td>
<td>Cooke</td>
<td>Ditta</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eugene De Rue</td>
<td>Bobby Dunn</td>
<td>McGill</td>
<td>Cooke</td>
<td>Ditta</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ben Wilson Productions (Federated release)</td>
<td>Ben Wilson All-Star</td>
<td>Eddie Linden</td>
<td>Earl Turner</td>
<td>Evelyn Campbell</td>
<td>&quot;Mine to Keep&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

BOYLE STUDIO.

Phone Boyle 6368

BRENTWOOD STUDIO. 4811 Fountain Ave.

598-146

BRONX STUDIO. 1745-51 Glendale Blvd. Kenneth Bishop, General Mgr.

Wilshire 4275

H. and B. Productions

Kelpine Productions

BURLINGTON STUDIO. Burbank, Calif.

CENTURY STUDIO. 6100 Sunset Blvd. Hollywood 96

Century Comedies (Universal release).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Al Herman</td>
<td>Marcelle Earle</td>
<td>Wm. Hyer</td>
<td>M. Sandrich</td>
<td>&quot;Hold On&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Edwards</td>
<td>Fred Spencer</td>
<td>Billy Williams</td>
<td>Harry Edwards</td>
<td>&quot;Spring Fever&quot;</td>
<td>Lighting</td>
<td>Lighting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Archie Mayo</td>
<td>Marcelle-Booper</td>
<td>Jerry Ash</td>
<td>Leslie Goodwin</td>
<td>&quot;First Love&quot;</td>
<td>Comedy</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Al Herman</td>
<td>Early Eagle</td>
<td>William Hyer</td>
<td>M. Sandrich</td>
<td>&quot;Hit's Master&quot;</td>
<td>Comedy</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Noel Smith</td>
<td>&quot;Tail&quot; H. Murdock</td>
<td>Francis Corby</td>
<td>Noel Smith</td>
<td>Baseball Story</td>
<td>Comedy</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Noel Smith</td>
<td>Johnny Meawenger</td>
<td>Francis Corby</td>
<td>Noel Smith</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>&quot;What Women Want&quot;</td>
<td>23rd Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CHAPLIN STUDIO. Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr. 1416 La Brea Ave.

Hollywood 4070

Regent Film Company. (United Artists release).

Century Productions

GOLDSTONE STUDIO. 6050 Sunset Blvd.

Phil Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release).

W. S. Howard Wm. Fairbanks Staff "What Women Want" 23rd Week

CHOICE STUDIO. 6044 Sunset Blvd.

439-764

Choice Productions

Hollywood 3100

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Al Christie</td>
<td>Neal Burns</td>
<td>Nagy</td>
<td>Hagerman</td>
<td>Walter Graham</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedy</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harold Bobo</td>
<td>Dorothy Devore</td>
<td>Nagy</td>
<td></td>
<td>2-Reel Comedy</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Paul Hurst</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Joe Walker</td>
<td>Irving</td>
<td>&quot;Blood Barrier&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Shaver Productions</td>
<td>Johnny Harron</td>
<td>Joe Murphy</td>
<td>Walter McNamara</td>
<td>&quot;Supreme Test&quot;</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hull Smith, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>Johnny Harron</td>
<td>Joe Murphy</td>
<td>Walter McNamara</td>
<td>&quot;Supreme Test&quot;</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R. Harrison</td>
<td>Kermit Wood</td>
<td>A. Olsen</td>
<td>Hattie Carson</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Carillo</td>
<td>G. E. Kline</td>
<td>Thayre Roberts</td>
<td>Ben D. Meadors</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sherwood MacDonald-Aaron Productions</td>
<td>Backsway</td>
<td>Eddie Saunders</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Swickard Productions</td>
<td>Jurek Swickard</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Down of Love&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Better Picture Association</td>
<td>E. A. Martin</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Superior Productions

West Coast Productions.

Rogert Myles All-Star Al Breakean Glen Lambert Staff "Why Do We Live" 1st Week

FINE ARTS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 4500 Sunset Blvd.

Mission Film Co. Norman Walker, Business Mgr.

David Kirkland All-Star David Abel Chas. Hamm Wallace Clifton "The Barefoot Boy" 1st Week

Fred Caldwell Productions.

Clas. Mack Productions. (Western Pictures Exploitation).

Fred Jackman All-Star Clas. Mack "Beyond the Horizon" Preparing

Jessa Robins Productions. (Vitaphone release)

Halperin Productions.

Hugh Deiker Productions. (American release)

Sacramento Pictures Corp. Forrest White, Vice-Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

Clifford S. Effert Productions.

FINN Fox Productions.

FOX STUDIO. Arthur Forde, Casting. 1401 N. Western Ave.

Hollywood 3000

Metro Release.

Thomas Hefron Harry Carson Clara K. Young Charles Richardson Jack Roland Frank Lasera Coffee "Havoc" 2nd Week

Buckingham

Al St. John

Al St. John

Ernest B. Depew

Benny Stolte

Staff

Comedies

Schedule

Rim Summerville

Tom Mix

Jay Turner

Arthur Cohn

Comedies

Schedule

Jack Blaystone

Clyde Cook

Dan Clark

Eugene Foree

Schedule

Don Short

Wendy Winswan

Dustin Farman

Joe August

Don Short

Walla Walla

Evelyn Campbell

E. Adamson

"The Man Who Won"

Flying Postman

Hefron

Blythe

Kawin

"Time Hath Changed"

Hefron

Glendale Blvd.

1845 Glendale Blvd.

Wilshire 51

Sharon Productions.

Metro

Clas. Mack Productions. (Western Pictures Exploitation).

Fred Jackman All-Star Clas. Mack "Beyond the Horizon" Preparing

Howe Productions.
CAMEL

GOLDWYN STUDIO.  R. B. McIntyre, Casting.  Culver City.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>King Vidor</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Three Wise Fools&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clarence Langer</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Tied Lights&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marshall Nolan</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Eternal Three&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John V. Stuart</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot; Creed&quot;</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charles Halem</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Six Days&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Ford</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Servant of the Devil&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thomas Hulce</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Magic-Skin&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Ford</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Master of Man&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>George Stevens</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;In the Palace of the King&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

GRAND STUDIO.  1438 Gower St.

Cosmopolitan Productions.  8th.  Mason Hopkins  George V. Hill  All-Star

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Lero O'Connell</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Daughter of Mother McGee&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Monte Banks Productions, Inc.  3520 W. Columbus

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bill Williams</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2-Reel Comedy</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sid Smith Productions, Inc.  1467 S. Robertson

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ken. MacLean</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2-Reel Comedy</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Joe Ran-phase Productions, Inc.  1234 Sunset

HORSLEY STUDIO.  6050 Sunset Blvd.

HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bob Horner</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Virginian Outcast&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Chas. R. Seelings Productions.  (Ayward release).  1442 Beachwood Drive.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>John Hobinson</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Western Social</td>
<td>Casting</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS.  6042 Santa Monica Blvd  J. Jasper, Mgr.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Richard Thomas Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richard Thomas All-Star</td>
<td>Jack Paqua</td>
<td>Nerval MacGregor</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Drama</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lloyd Iglesias</td>
<td>Douglas MacLean</td>
<td>Geo. Crane</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Irving Cummings Productions.  Charles Woolstool, Production Manager.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J. K. McDonald Productions.  Wm. Beaudine</td>
<td>Glen McWilliams</td>
<td>Theodore Joos</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J. Griffith Wray</td>
<td>Mrs. Beld</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>掌-Trimble-Murfin Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Suprem Art Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Associated Authors, Inc.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Joe Walker</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Claude Mitchell</td>
<td>Frank Wood</td>
<td>&quot;Richard, the Lion Hearted&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bob Horner</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Forty Niner&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Cornell Productions

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Joe Walker</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clara Mitchell</td>
<td>Frank Good</td>
<td>&quot;To the Ladies&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

MRS. WALLACE REID PRODUCTIONS.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sharp Lederman</td>
<td>C. Gardner Sullivan</td>
<td>&quot;Human Wreckage&quot;</td>
<td>9th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

TRIMBLE-MURFIN PRODUCTIONS.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>King Grey</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lucie Mannell</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Sign&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

LASKY STUDIOS.  L. M. Goodstadt, Casting.  1520 Vine St.  Fred Kley, Studio Mgr.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Joe Walker</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Claire Mitchell</td>
<td>Frank Wood</td>
<td>&quot;To the Ladies&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PARAMOUNT PICTURES.  (Famous Players-Lasky Release).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jack Bowl</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;To the Ladies&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joan Blondell</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;To the Ladies&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maxine Sullivan</td>
<td>Frank Good</td>
<td>&quot;To the Ladies&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

MAYER-SCHULZEBERG STUDIO.  3800 Mission Rd.  Individual Casting.  Lincoln 2120

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Louis B. Mayer Productions.  (Metro release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Redfield Parker</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Master of Women&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Neill Hamilton</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Master of Women&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Harry Potter</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Broken Wing&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>George O'Hara</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Daughters of the Rich&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

MAYAN STUDIO.  Romaine and Cahuenga Ave.  Harry Kerr, Casting.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Frank Good</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FIDCO-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS.  Individual Casting.  7100 Santa Monica Blvd.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Frank Good</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mary Hob.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

R.C. STUDIO.  780 W. Cahuenga

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>R.C. STUDIO.  780 W. Cahuenga</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

RUC STUDIO.  Albert A. Kidder, Jr.  Gen'l Mgr.  1425 Fleming St.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Albert A. Kidder, Jr.  Gen'l Mgr.  1425 Fleming St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry" Page Nineteen

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst. Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ROACH STUDIO.</td>
<td>Culver City.</td>
<td>Warren Doane, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>761-721</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hal Roach Comedies (Pathé release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Newmeyer-Taylor</td>
<td>Harold Lloyd</td>
<td>Walter Lundin</td>
<td>Robert Golden</td>
<td>5-Reel Comedy</td>
<td>Editing</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rosson-Fay</td>
<td>Jack Oakie</td>
<td>Rochester</td>
<td>Hatchinson</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedy</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Howe-Parrett</td>
<td>Paul Parrott</td>
<td>Frank Young</td>
<td>Necepska-Brandale</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedy</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McIntyre-McGowen</td>
<td>Morgan Jones</td>
<td>Len Powers</td>
<td>C. Marchese</td>
<td>Hal Conklin</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jakes-Pembroke</td>
<td>Stan Laurel</td>
<td>Bob Murphy</td>
<td>Hurst</td>
<td>Frank How. Clark</td>
<td>“What Should a Girl Do?”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RUSSELL STUDIO.</td>
<td>B. B. Russell, Mgr.</td>
<td>1439 Beachwood Dr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 7945-6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maloof Productions.</td>
<td>Maloof</td>
<td>B. Russell</td>
<td>Geo. Larkin</td>
<td>Fred Allen</td>
<td>Hively</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Warner-Brothers Productions.</td>
<td>Maloof</td>
<td>B. Russell</td>
<td>Bob Maloney</td>
<td>V. Walker</td>
<td>Bebee</td>
<td>2-Reel Western</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>“Sky-Harshku”</td>
<td>9th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>“Pitfalls of a Big City”</td>
<td>“My Man in the War”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Last Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SENNIT STUDIO.</td>
<td>1712 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Wils. 1550</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mack Sennett Comedies.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. Feeney</td>
<td>Mabel Luhn</td>
<td>Al Mohr</td>
<td>Fred Allen</td>
<td>Hively</td>
<td>Feature</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frank Borzage Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frank Borzage</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Chet Lyons</td>
<td>Bunny Dunne</td>
<td>Johnstone-Dazeen</td>
<td>“Children of Dust”</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edwin Carewe Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edwin Carewe</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Wallace Fox</td>
<td>Adelle Helburn</td>
<td>“Girl of Golden West”</td>
<td>Editing</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joseph S. Schenck Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frank Lloyd</td>
<td>Norma Talmadge</td>
<td>Tony Gould</td>
<td>Harry Whyte</td>
<td>Frances Marion</td>
<td>“Shades of Vengeance”</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sidney Franklin</td>
<td>Constance Talmadge-Norbert Breen</td>
<td>Millard Webb</td>
<td>George Moden</td>
<td>Emerson-Leo</td>
<td>“Dudley”</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James Young Productions (Associated First National release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>George T. Teague</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Maurice Tourneur Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tourneur</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Steady Beal</td>
<td>Tourneur</td>
<td>“Brass Bottle”</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Principal Pictures Corporation.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Norman Manning</td>
<td>“My Man in the War”</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UNIVERSAL STUDIO.</td>
<td>Fred Datig,</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>570-081</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Universal Film Manufacturing Co. (Universal Release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edmund Mortimer</td>
<td>Herb. Rawlison</td>
<td>Nat Ross</td>
<td>Charles Kenyon</td>
<td>“Thicker Than Water”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>George Marshall</td>
<td>Jack Hulse</td>
<td>Tom Regan</td>
<td>George Hively</td>
<td>“Where Is This West”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richard Stanton</td>
<td>Jack Hulse</td>
<td>Richard Stanton</td>
<td>Sam Brown</td>
<td>“One Man’s Justice”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. Parke</td>
<td>Jack Hulse</td>
<td>Richard Stanton</td>
<td>Sam Brown</td>
<td>“One Man’s Justice”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. Craft</td>
<td>Jack Hulse</td>
<td>Richard Stanton</td>
<td>Sam Brown</td>
<td>“One Man’s Justice”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Muller-McCoy</td>
<td>Maxie Moggs</td>
<td>Howard Oswald</td>
<td>Taylor</td>
<td>“The Man Hunter”</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Dillon</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Howard Oswald</td>
<td>Taylor</td>
<td>“The Man Hunter”</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duke Worne</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Howard Oswald</td>
<td>Taylor</td>
<td>“The Man Hunter”</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wallace Worsely</td>
<td>Len Chance</td>
<td>Wm. Nokes</td>
<td>Mccoy</td>
<td>“Self-Made Wife”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Pollard</td>
<td>Reginald Donn</td>
<td>Wm. Nokes</td>
<td>Mccoy</td>
<td>“Self-Made Wife”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Raymond</td>
<td>Tony Stewart</td>
<td>Wm. Nokes</td>
<td>Mccoy</td>
<td>“Self-Made Wife”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>King Black</td>
<td>Baby Peggy</td>
<td>Wm. Nokes</td>
<td>Mccoy</td>
<td>“Self-Made Wife”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Watson</td>
<td>Doneg</td>
<td>Wm. Nokes</td>
<td>Mccoy</td>
<td>“Self-Made Wife”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ROGERS STUDIO.</td>
<td>Dallas Fitzgerald</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>1550</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rollo Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louis Wm. Chase</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Ros Fisher</td>
<td>James Kilgallen</td>
<td>“After the Ball”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VITAGRAPH STUDIOS.</td>
<td>1708 Talmadge.</td>
<td>W. S. Smith, Gen Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>598131</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WARNER BROS. STUDIOS.</td>
<td>585 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 4181</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WARNER BROTHERS PRODUCTIONS.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arthur Rosson</td>
<td>Johnny Hines</td>
<td>Earl Brauns</td>
<td>Clayton</td>
<td>“Talk of the Town”</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. Beaudine</td>
<td>Wesley Barry</td>
<td>Harry Beaumont</td>
<td>Hope Hampton</td>
<td>“Waitin’ for a Kiss”</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Robert Henley</td>
<td>Virginia Voli</td>
<td>Sidney Franklin</td>
<td>Lenore Uri</td>
<td>“One Man’s Justice”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Raff Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>“One Man’s Justice”</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WILNAT STUDIO.</td>
<td>6070 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 7940</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. W. I. Schuster</td>
<td>303 Togardus Bldg.</td>
<td>Sunset at Western</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>YRE SHOPPE.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PROFESIONAL HAIR DRESSING.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>621 West 8th St.</td>
<td>Pico 1566</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SEE LENZ FOR LENS
Protect your eyes!
CROOKES LENSES FOR KLEIG EYES
Oculists' prescriptions accurately
$85 Stone Martins,
Perfect condition .............. $39
$25 black-and-red shoes, size 4B, worn once .......... $7.50 $300 Paquin black-and-silver afternoon gown ................ $49
$65 sport dress ................ $15
Also 3 beautiful evening coats.
We specialize in $29 and $35 dresses

Screen Stars Wardrobe Exchange
2006 Ivar Avenue
(in the brown residence on the corner)

Reed Heustis
and Sherley Hunter
in collaboration
Comedy-Drama
TITLES and Continuities
$16 Detwiler Bldg.
Phone 665-09

Minor Blythe
Attorney-at-Law
Suite 620 Pacific Finance Bldg.
Los Angeles
Telephone 134-88

DORIS BAKER
INGENUINE
822-741

HOOVER STUDIOS
6311 Hollywood Boulevard
Telephone Holly 9161
Only the Finest Types of Professional Photography
All Sittings Made by Appointment

Reproductions
Publicity
Still Finishing
Photography
LITTLE
Commercial Photographer
Phone 437902
5874 Hollywood Blvd. Corner Bronson

Animated Cartoons—Original Title Ideas—
Clay Animation—Miniature Sets and Animated Figures
Cinema Arts Studio
ELMER H. YOUNG, Mgr.
612 Lissner Bldg. Phone 644-42

YOU want him to be successful, of course. Are you educating him in one of the most important subjects—the care and use of money?
A Savings Account for him here, growing as he grows, will help to teach him to save and it will furnish capital for education or a start in business. Also, it will begin a business re-

Sixteen Branches including—
Los Angeles
San Pedro
Vernon

Los Angeles
Huntington Park
Bell
Riverside
Redlands

Commercial Trust Savings
SIXTH AND MAIN

Quick Money Release!
Producers—Active or Prospective—Get in Touch with a LIVE One
H. and B. Film Company
Distributors—Producers
Bronx Studio, 1745 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles.
Wilshire 4275

Fur Rugs, Fur Robes, Fur Storage and RENOVATING
Mountings of All Descriptions
COLBURNS TAXIDERMY STUDIO
933-935 South Broadway ..... Telephone 643-13

Touring Cars $2 per Hour. Limousines $2.50 per Hour.
Special Rates on Studio Trips and Touring.
SUNSET TAXI
577-994 578-280

MOTION PICTURE STUDIO FOR RENT
Open Stage, 100' x 100'; Open Stage, 60' x 100'; Dark Stage, 125' Long; 26
Dressing Rooms; Carpenter Shop; Paint Shop; Projection Room; Dark Room; Modern
Office Building; Flats; Props. Can divide. Corner Venice Boulevard and Durango, near Culver Junction, Culver City. Open for inspection.
FRED L. HUNT, Owner
333 Title Insurance Bldg. Broadway 695
For permanent tenant $750 per month
WORLD-WIDE SURVEYS
(Continued from Page 5)
characteristics, certain symbols, that the public associates with a broken-down nobility. Whether they are true doesn't matter so much as that they are universally recognized. Hence, in this part I have succeeded in talking a language that everybody understands."

One by one the big picture producers are casting their vote for Southern California as the ideal spot for film making. A year ago, when Mae Murray first signed a Metro contract, it was said that the agreement hung for days because of Miss Murray's objection to working in California.

The other day it was announced that Miss Murray had agreed to film all of her future productions here, that she had purchased a five-acre tract of land for a building site and that she and her director-husband, Bob Leonard, would make their future home in Los Angeles.

"There is no place in the world where picture making conditions can compare with those in Los Angeles," said Leonard in announcing the reasons for abandoning New York as a center of production on the part of his wife and himself.

Rapid, efficient, thorough. National types of all kinds. A special department for children. The same care is given in the selection of supporting atmosphere as is given to the cast.

"Service to Producer and Justice to Performer"

The Service Bureau
1036 South Hill
Phone 821-071

YOUR PHONOGRAPH will reproduce in soft Mellow Tone without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a Deflexograph

Fits any Phonograph or Victrola
Using Changeable Needles
Play after hours - will not disturb. Deflexograph attaches to needle holder, filters sound oscillations, prevents scratch and surface noises entering sound box. No metallic noises.

Gold Plate $1.00
Nickel Plate $.50

(See Cut)

$1.00

VANTONE CO., Dept. 416
110 W. 15th St.
New York, N. Y.

Wax Figures For Rent

You can rent real lifelike wax figures modeled by our staff of skilled artists for a reasonable charge. You will find our service complete and in keeping with your needs.

The reproduction below portrays the character of our workmanship. Figures of this type are made on order.

You are invited to visit our studio

L. E. Oates
MAKER OF WAX FIGURES
Studio
105 EAST TENTH ST.
LOS ANGELES
PHONE 820-734
POLA AND HER THIRD
(Continued from Page 6)

tion of the well known writer of screen subjects, Rob Wagner. Walter Woods wrote and is production editor of this screaming laugh-getter—in which Constance Wilson, sister of Lois, is the leading woman.

Jack Holt has just started in his new star picture, "A Gentleman of Leisure" under direction of Joseph Henabery. This play was originally by John Stapleton and P. G. Wodehouse and was adapted by Anthony W. Coldway. Walter Woods is production editor. The leading woman is a beautiful Swedish actress—Sigrid Holmquist.

Director Gasnier, who yearns for a glimpse of his boyhood home in Paris, once more has been forced to postpone his European trip. His trans-Atlantic voyage, which was to have been taken this spring, will not materialize until he has completed four big productions upon which he will soon begin work—all to be released under his name.

"CAMERA!"

WANT-ADS

WANTED—Bell & Howell Outfit, 120 or 170 degree shutter. Must be bargain for cash. Give full information first letter. Box SL

WANTED—Bell & Howell camera, shutter. Full equipment, excellent condition. Phone 977-674.

FOR RENT—High-grade still outfits, $5.00 per week, Little The Big Photographer, 5874 Hollywood Boulevard. Phone 427-592.

FOR RENT—Bell & Howell camera outfit, 120 or 170 degree shutter. Full equipment, excellent condition. Phone 977-674.

WANTED—Bell & Howell outfit, 120 or 170 degree shutter. Must be bargain for cash. Give full information first letter. Box SL

FOR RENT—Bell & Howell cameras and shutters. Full equipment, excellent condition. Phone 977-674.

FOR RENT—High-grade still outfits, $5.00 per week, Little The Big Photographer, 5874 Hollywood Boulevard. Phone 427-592.

All Legal Matters
Attorney and Counselor at Law

JACK P. LEONARD

340 Douglas Bldg.
Los Angeles, Cal.
Telegraph Free

Consultation Free

659-42

Works of Art from China and Japan

Oriental Costume Co.

6221 Santa Monica Blvd.
Holly 5954

Raymond McKee

The Friars Club
New York City

The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"
A Chance to "Break In"

We Want

100 People

with or without experience in

MOTION PICTURES

to appear in Feature Film with all star cast headed by two of the most prominent stars in the Motion Picture world. We are looking for people with the sincere desire to "break in," and those who believe they have the talent and ability, but hitherto have found it difficult, if not impossible to obtain the chance to show what they can do.

THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY

We want to give you a chance to act in Feature pictures to be filmed in our own studios, and at the same time you will have an opportunity to become a shareholder in a large motion picture concern. It is an unusual and rare opportunity to become a shareholder in a company which produces and distributes their own pictures. An investment of $1000.00 is required which entitles you to receive dividends from our Co-operative Stock sharing plan, besides your salary and permanent contract.

ACT TODAY

Send recent photo, with full name, nationality, height, weight, color of hair and eyes, complexion, and state what motion picture experience you have had, if any, and type of work you believe you are best fitted for.

We have a bona fide proposition which will bear strictest investigation.

International Co-operative Motion Picture Corp.
Producers and Distributors

1329 Gordon Street       Holly 1918       Hollywood, Calif.
EIGHT WEEKS MORE

And Then the Gate Will Open at Exposition Park for

THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVUE

and

MOTION PICTURE EXPOSITION

Following Which There Will be THIRTY Days

July 2nd — August 31st

the Like of Which Los Angeles, the Great Southwest,
the Pacific Coast or the Entire United States
Have Never Seen Before

And How the People Are Going to Flock Here

From Far and Near, They're Coming to Help Celebrate the Hundredth Anniversary of America's Outstanding Pronouncement on Foreign Affairs and the Declaration That Insured the Freedom of the West Coast

Everyone Has His Eye on "THE LOCATION," which Will Be the UNIQUE Amusement Thoroughfare of All Expositions

As this will be the BIGGEST Show on the American Continent during the Summer of 1923, you don't want to miss it. To make sure not to miss a single feature, fill in this Blank and mail it to The Exposition Department, 800 N. Spring St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Patron's Application

THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVUE AND MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION

For the purpose of taking part in the First Annual American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Industrial Exposition to be held in the City of Los Angeles during the year 1923 in commemoration of the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine, I hereby make application for

Dated_________________192___ Signed_________________________________
Occupation_________________ Address______________________________

Make All Checks Payable to Motion Picture Exposition
Don Armando, Spanish nobleman actor, who will make American picture debut in "Why Do We Live?"
Authentic Details and Photographs of FOREIGN INTERIORS and EXTERIORS of EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Cafes Shops
Hotels Mansions
Theaters Bungalows
Steamships Streets
Cities Parks

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

INTERNATIONAL CINEMA RESEARCH
L.A.HOWLAND
Phone 438-761
300-301 HOLLYWOOD SECURITY BLDG.

MARTHA MARSHALL
LEADS INGENUES
SOCIETY PARTS
Telephone 439-801

'The Eternal Three'

here are quality, price and service. Rare and beautiful antique furniture, statues and works of art that were "In the Palace of the King" are now in our big shop IN HOLLYWOOD. It is "The Rendezvous" of discriminating value seekers, and is open "Six Days" of the week to serve you.

The Goldwyn company, which is producing these pictures, realizes the value of prompt, efficient service such as our superb facilities enable us to offer. We buy, sell, rent and exchange.

Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation
C. A. Willat, Manager
Hollywood 4470
1116 Lodi Street Hollywood, Calif.
Only Meant as Editorial Comment

A funny thing about that picture called "The Power of a Lie" is it shows how weak a lie is in reality.

It is predicted that all the water in the world will disappear in time. This WOULD BE carrying prohibition too far.

There is no place for grafters and crooks in the picture-producing business and the sooner the vacancy is made the better.

Too often a wave of prosperity is a breaker of the human sense of equilibrium. Verily, a lot of change sure does change some people.

While Los Angeles was having a spell of torrid weather, Chicago was having a blizzard and Europe was having her usual political storms.

The latest fad among photoplayers is to dabble in oil. It is still a good idea for photoplayers to dabble more exclusively in the photoplay art.

If you will only pause to ponder, the dope question is more of a terrible fact than it is a question. Incidentally, it is high time to stop the high-handed traffic.

Some call "The Covered Wagon" great and others call it ordinary, but whatever they may call it one thing is certain, it’s proving a great money-maker for some reason or other.

Any film publication which makes it a habit to "knock" film—people and film affairs should be denied the privilege of sailing along under the banner of films. A good way to deny is not to buy!

A theatre dedicated to finding the great American opera is proposed for Hollywood. And, if that theatre does find the said great American opera, the founder thereof will go down in history as a great finder.

Old screen favorites are coming back in veritable droves nowadays, which means the new faces are not to be given so much chance for a while. Between the new and old faces, just how much is there to choose?

Some unruly cuss is urging a revision of the marriage laws so as to make the women more amenable to complete control. For the sake of protecting that said cuss against a bombardment of rolling-pins we will not divulge his name.

Oriental picture fans are becoming so very partial to American-made films that Oriental picture producers are becoming as scarce as the proverbial hen-teeth all of which serves as more proof that America is the gem of the motion (picture.)

Eric Von Stroheim has two months of "shooting" ahead of him in San Francisco, where he is filming "McTeague" under the title of "Greed." Say, if some of those European countries had only two months of shooting ahead of them, they would be happy.

There is a reassuring dearth of scandals in filmdom, which no doubt means that publishers of some yellow newspapers are almost frantic. You can depend on it though, they will cook up something if it is only a trivial, uncalled-for "roast" of some kind (unkind) of someone.

The wise exhibitor is the one who not only exhibit good pictures, but who exhibits good showmanship in the manner in which he does the exhibiting. Showmanship is still the ship of state for all those theatre-owners who would travel to high estate of success.

Now that they have identified that woman in Honduras as Clara Phillips, and since it is reasonably sure she will land in San Juan in after all, here’s hoping they don’t trust the Los Angeles jail to hold her again even overnight. Also, let there be no moving pictures of her return even in the news weeklies.

According to inside information, rapid progress is being made on the plans for building that much discussed Amusement Center in Hollywood and if it is "set up" as proposed it will be one of the whole world’s greatest show-places. It would seem that all people loyal to Hollywood should get back of this promising enterprise since it seems so sure of making this community not only one of the most famous centers in the world, but in all history. Let us hear more of the plans and if everything is O. K., let’s support it with that zeal which will insure it of being a K. O.
HISTORICAL Lore Becomes a Need

French history seems suddenly to have assumed a tremendous interest for the producers and, there are so many Comtes, and Dues and Rois nowadays, that a director has to have the history of the Gallic nobleman at the tip of his tongue to know exactly who is who.

Two features that assume even greater importance, with entirely different periods are now in process of production. One of these is "Ashes of Vengeance," starring Norma Talmadge, which opens with the Bartholomew's Eve Massacre, and the other is "Scaramouche," which ends with the Fall of the Bastille and the spectacular beginning of the French revolution.

"Ashes of Vengeance," which is being produced by Joseph M. Schenck for distributed First National Pictures, Inc., is in a sense the more glamorous of the two, because the scenes now in the making are laid in the palaces and the chateaux of the aristocracy. "Scaramouche" offers a vivid contrast to this, in its sketching of the life of the people. Many courtly grandeur are to follow.

In the "Ashes of Vengeance" which is being directed by Frank Lloyd, Norma Talmadge will have one of the most brilliant roles of her career as Mile. Yooland de Bruyse. Conway Tearle has the principal role opposite her, that of Duper de Briaric. Their romance is the central interest of the story, which concerns a plan for revenge that comes to naught because its fire is swept away by a finer humanity.

Wallace Beery has one of his most important roles since he was seen in "Robin Hood," as the Duke de Tous. He is, of course, the villain of the story, while Josephine Crowell as Catherine de Medici is one of the chief intriguers.

DOFFS FIGHTING TRUNKS TO DON SWIMMING SUIT

Reginald Denny has doffed the fighting trunk suit and donned the swimming suit.

The star of the famous Universal "Leather Pushers" series recently completed his work in the latest picture of the new series and is vacating in the Fontainebleau Hotel. Production will start soon on another of the two-reeler comedy chases.

Harry Pollard, who directed the filming of the previous "Leather Pushers," will continue that job on this series.

Denny was supported in the picture by Diner Field, Hayden Stevenson, Gertrude Olmsted, Harry Carter.

HEARTBREAKS OF METROPOLIS IN THE FILM

Woven about the theme that New York takes those who seek its favors and breaks them on the wheel of its materialism are perils it permits them to achieve success, "Broken Hearts of Broadway," to be produced in Hollywood Studios by Irving Cummings, is a picturization of the struggles and heartbreaks which face those who want to make it in the great metropolises of the Western Hemisphere.

The photoplay, marking Cummings's entry into the ranks of the great independent producers, will be screened in a most elaborate and lavish way. An all-star cast has been engaged for its production and, with Cummings himself playing a small role, it is predicted that this historic talent assembled will be an added attraction.

"Heartbreaks of Broadway," adapted by Hope Loring and Louis Duryea Lighton from an old-time stage play that is a Broadway drama that features some of life's most necessary and useful lessons: It is also a picturization of one of the world's best known and most famous streets—a thoroughfare through which all passers-by catch every notable figure in the history of the United States.

The story throws into vivid relief the manner in which artists battle for success in the great city by the Hudson. It is based around the briskness of the Greenwich Village and soddened by the sordidness of human passions that float upon the turbid surface of a Chinatown cafe. The romance of Sunny Italy, land of vengeance and vendetta, tinged some of its strongest scenes with the like of that which typifies the wholesome strain of good, clean Americanism which adorns all our cities, with no surreptitious forces of evil or the powers of destruction.

The fascination of the newspaper is the ability of the entertainment for it is about the ambitions of a reporter that the story is built. It shows his poverty shrouded thinly in worn garments and it voices the bitterness of his soul when confronted by the ogre of despair that cannot be quelled. The sacrifice of self are also woven into the plot, while the keynote of a authentic love affair is acutely throughout the unfolding of the drama.

From the time when the soul-searing workshop of the newspaperman encounters his excably-fated night-hawk days, from whose hands fall the actual facts of the story, "Broken Heart of Broadway" carries the keen interest of attractiveness through scenes of love and hate, of comfort and companionship, of fear and courage, of the strain of the human soul—"till the final glorification of success won after the struggles beyond measure.

"Broadway is shown in all its alluring beauty, the warm-voiced siren gifted with some illustrious, intangible quality that makes it unique. It is hard streets, the glittering stage on which is enacted half of the country's drama of life. And in the production by Cummings, two great restaurants will be shown. The sets for these are the largest and of the kind ever built, for the action of the picture requires that the fashionable theatre, Broadway and the chop suey parlor known as the Shanghai must be elaborately displayed.

According announcement given out by Cummings' organization, the all-star cast for "Broken Hearts of Broadway" has been completed. The roster of players includes the names of many of the most famous artists of the industry and each member was selected because of his or her individual suitability for the various roles and none was engaged for the sake of filling up the cast. The name of one of them alone as is oftentimes the case in organizing an all-star cast.

In the recent press engagement by Cummings is Colleen Moore, who co-starred with James Woods Morrison in the Columbia production, "O'Hara" and is being considered for the part of a Miss "Ninth Commandment," Johnnie Walker, who enacted a principal role in "Goldwyn's The Bear Car," and who was formerly starred in his own pictures including "My Dad," "Captain By Night" and "The Fourth Musketeer," all R-C specials; Alice Lake, former Metro star and featured player in "I Am the Law," "Chicago Sal" and other independent productions; Tully Marshall, well known character lead and one of the leading players in "The Covered Wagon," Rate Price, former serial star who has never been known as a woman; Creighton Hale, who attained prominence through his work in "Way Down East," Arthur Hite, and William L. Hurl, who appeared with Gloria Swanson in "Prodigal Daughters" and other La-Cwik productions; and Freeman Wood, featured in the stage production of "The Man Who Came Back," "I Am the Law," and "Anthony Merito," former World Film player and more recently film executive who has now returned to acting.

"Broken Hearts of Broadway" will be personally taken to New York by the young producer when completed and will be given a big Broadway premier with several of the all-star cast appearing in person.

LETTERS AT CAMERA OFFICE

I'ho McCollough
Lawrence Morley
Forrest Stanley
Clair Winfield
Cune Wilbur
Niles Welsh
Chas. Hyland

CAMERA DONNED HIS SAILING TOGS FOR CAUSE

Don Armando, who has been selected to play an important role in the West Coast Production of "Greed," is in the course of production at the Cosmopolitan Studios, is said to be the first Spanish nobleman of this producing field in Hollywood without any unusual ado being made for the quietness with which he is making his debut as the man's own property, as he is extremely modest and presents having any fuss made over him. This is due to the fact that in Spain he has been much in public life, having been King Alfonso's Captain of Guards and much in the political limelight with the result that of the occasion of his every public appearance there he has been.

"I did not come to Hollywood to be received with acclaim even though I might distinguish myself," Mr. Armando says, "I came because I felt the call of a wider field. For several years of stage work in Spain became monotonous as I began to see more and more the limitations and restrictions imposed. Hence I came to American motion pictures for the same reason that others come for developing my dramatic ability.

Mr. Armando is a dashing young man of decided handsome appearance and he is considered by those who have become acquainted with him as the local type of juvenile leading man.

HISTORIC SPOTS FILMED FOR GOLDWYN FEATURE

San Francisco, animable and infallimate, is generously represented in the plot and production of "Greed," which the Goldwyn director produced in its entirety in this city.

Hundreds of local citizens are being pressed into service as "atmosphere" during the filming of this adaptation of Frank Norris' classic "McTeague" and many of the city's historic landmarks are being used as the backdrop for the action.

An entire two-story business block in the heart of San Francisco and the neighborhood surrounding it are the center of activities in producing "Greed," but other scenes are more show the Cliff House, famed from coast to coast; the Ferry Building, the Golden Gate, Seal Rocks, Telegraph Hill, and Francisco's instantly famous sky line, the Embarradero, the San Francisco Orpheum and many other nationally known portions of California's chief sea port are registered on celluloid as background for the action.

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"
Summer travel to California this year is certain to break all previous records. And judging from advance reports a large number of travelers expect to take in the Monroe Doctrine Centennial which will be held in Exposition Park, Los Angeles, July 2-August 4, inclusive, in connection with the Motion Picture Exposition. All transcontinental railroads report that they have never had so many inquiries about summer travel to Central and Southern California in particular.

The engagement of H. B. Burnside, for Los Angeles, the New York Hippodrome, to stage the mammoth spectacles in the new Los Angeles Coliseum, as a part of the Monroe Doctrine Centennial, is attracting nation-wide attention. Everyone who has gone to New York in the last decade has always made the Hippodrome one of the places visited, no matter how he may have been. Those who saw "Better Times" there this year were amazed at the entertainment offered.

The man responsible for it was H. B. Burnside, and he says he is going to surpass it in the production he will make for Los Angeles. He is already in Southern California with his personal staff of experts from the Hippodrome. One of the things that Mr. Burnside expects to take in American history which will tell in pageantry the story of our country from the coming of Columbus to the present. It will be done on such a scale as was never before attempted. Thousands of people will be used in the spectacle. The hundred motion pictures of the cast will be filmed at the disposal of Mr. Burnside, so that even the spectacle of Imre Kiralfy will be outdone. These pagodas of the New York Hippodrome will all be filmed for benefit of the future.

Dirt is flying in Exposition Park and the hammers are pounding as three shifts of builders have set themselves the problem of making a new construction record. Only eight weeks remain until the day for opening the Exposition Park, and in that time fifty bungalows of the pueblo Indian style of architecture must be completed. It is surprising how this miracle city is springing up. It is almost as if the Creator suggested a mirage on the Enchanted Mesa.

Ground was broken during the past week for the "Hollywood." The location of this structure will be the amusement thoroughfare of the Los Angeles exposition, differing in every respect from all other expositions. The Fox Film Corporation has taken the lead in getting its building started. Goldwyn, Famous Players-Lasky, Metro, First National and all of the other producers have interesting plans for being represented on the Location. The shows here will all be free, as the Monroe Doctrine Centennial has banned the idea of cheap displays and catch-penny devices for bilking the public.

The story of the Motion Picture Exposition was told via the air, on the evening of May 5th, between the hours of ten and eleven from Station "KFI." This was the first time in the history of the Monroe Doctrine Centennial that such an announcement had ever been broadcast. It means that countless thousands of persons who were not able to reach or hear of the Monroe Doctrine Centennial. Among those on the program were Hobart Bosworth, Carrrie Jacobs Bond, William Worthington and others.

There being forty-eight states in the Union and the duration of the forthcoming Monroe Doctrine Centennial is limited to forty-eight days, it is a problem how to provide each one of them with a special day at this big celebration. There are no more active organizations in Southern California than the various state societies, whose loyal sons and daughters lose no opportunity of getting together and singing the praises of their native habitat, even though they have left it.

Iowa, Indiana, Texas, Pennsylvania, Illinois, New York—in fact all of the forty-eight are represented here by unusually live groups which hold regular monthly meetings throughout the entire year, with a pic-nic or two thrown in for good measure. They have gone so far as to form a federation of these state societies with a central office and paid attendants. Here a register is kept, so that newcomers may be able to locate their old friends, no matter where they are in Southern California.

Realizing that many people will be coming to Los Angeles this summer from all parts of the country for the Motion Picture Exposition, which is to be held in connection with the Monroe Doctrine Centennial, the various state societies are eager to participate and they have made application for special days. These are to be assigned by President Walter J. Reynolds in the very near future, so as to give the different groups a chance to prepare their programs. With the heavy demand for time, there will probably be two assignments for certain days between July 2 and August 4.

Lloyd Ingram, one of the chief figures in the cast of "Scaramouche," Rex Ingram's newest Metro production, has had a colorful professional career.

Mr. Ingram was born in Rochelle, Illinois. His parents, circus people, died while he was an infant and he was brought up by his grandfather, David Navarro, associated with the P. T. Barnum circus. Mr. Navarro was recognized as the fastest ticket seller in the United States.

At 14 Mr. Ingram left school to become a trap drummer with the Robert Buchanan repertoire company. A year later he became a member of the cast, playing the role of Mother Fadet, a witch character, in "Fan- chon the Ticket." He became a leading man at 19 and remained in that position until he was 21.

Wearying of this work he entered musical comedy ranks, played in "Breezy Times," "Woody Willie Walker" and other productions. Then he went into stock work and for 12 years was recognized as one of the leading stock directors in the country, having charge of houses in San Francisco, Omaha and other cities.

In 1912 he directed his first motion picture at Niles, California, not far from San Francisco. It was "The Dance at Eagle Pass," written by himself. He made it in two days, and during the year that followed he made 56 more, all one reel in length.

In 1914 Mr. Ingram acted in and directed pictures with Robert Leonard for U. A. A year later he formed with D. W. Griffith for whom he directed Mae Marsh, Robert Harron, Dorothy Gish, Douglas Fairbanks and others. He directed Colleen Moore in her first picture, "An Old-fashioned Young Man," featuring Robert Harron. "Hoodoo Ann" and "The Little Apache" were two of the pictures he made starring Miss Gish.

Mr. Ingram has directed many of Douglas MacLean's recent starring pictures including "Going Up," "Mary's Ankle," "What's Your Husband Doing?" "Let's Be Fashionable" and "The Jailbird."

He is playing the role of M. de Kercadian in "Scaramouche" because Mr. Ingram made him understand that he could find no one else who fitted the role so well and because he himself felt a strong desire to play it. Upon the completion of this production Mr. Ingram will begin the direction of another Douglas MacLean feature.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Maurice Tourneur has been spending the last week in San Francisco taking a much needed rest after his hard work directing “The Brass Bottle”. Just finished. Besides rest Mr. Tourneur also caused north to get some new ideas before starting on his next picture.

Eric Von Stroheim has once more demonstrated his endless attention to detail by the addition a couple of weeks ago to the cast, on Tourneur’s request of a small black kitten. Von Stroheim decided that Miss Baker, the nice old maid of the story was the kind of a woman who would have a cat, so he went out himself, and bought a lively black kitten, promptly named by the crew, “Greed.” So now little Greed contentedly lives on the set, in company with two canary birds and a bowl of gold fish, and plays his bits in the scenes with all the calm of an old actor. Fanny Nye, who plays Miss Baker is his special friend and is promising him a happy home on her place at Glendale when the picture is finished.

Florence Mehan landed in San Francisco last Thursday, and the Orient, which had million dollars worth of props and costumes for the production of “The Ten Commandments.” It cost over seven thousand dollars in property to get this costume and the newest article in the lot is an Indian robe three hundred years old.

Mrs. Frank Hayes and Juno, the beautiful dog of comedy fame, arrived in San Francisco by motor on Wednesday to join Frank Hayes. They have taken an apartment and will remain in town until Mr. Hayes finishes his part in Eric Von Stroheim’s production of “Greed.”

A. C. Christie, C. H. Christie, Mrs. Mary Christie, Miss Ann Christie, Neil Burns, Ellen Jarvis, Vera Steadman and Charlotte Gordon, all of the Christie Comedies, returned to New York to finish a few days ago and are location work on a picture in and near town.

Monte Blue spent a couple of days in San Francisco the first of last week, having come up with some recut film of “Brass” for the exchange. Monte has just finished playing, with Irene Rich, the leading role in a picture made at Universal City, by The Reeltime Films, a local organization.

The Golden Gate Productions have moved their office from the Chronicle Building to the Blanche Laboratory Building at 221 Turk Street. They expect to be in active production in the very near future.

James McGee of the picture world of Los Angeles, sailed for the Orient from here on the President Cleveland on Friday last. He expects to visit China, Japan, the Philippine Islands and many other points on a combined business and pleasure trip.

Mrs. Thomas Ince and three little sons spent the week-end in San Francisco. Mrs. Ince arrived in town also in town. And Zasu Pitts, of the “Greed” cast, spent Sunday with her husband in the South.

San Francisco is to have one more beautiful picture theatre, as Carol A. Nathan, manager of the Universal Film Exchange announced last week that a fine new house to cost $400,000, will be built on the site of the present Frolic Theatre on Market Street which is to be torn down at once.

What Ho For the Rolling Main? On June 15th, the “Rambling steajah” will sail away through the Cariboo, with the Billie Burke, the leader of the tour around the world on a picture making expedition. The ship, which is one of the finest sailing yachts afloat, will be under the command of Captain Henry W. Lyons, Jr., and himself a graduate of Annapolis, is a veteran of the World War. The crew, said, from a few seasoned old tars, will consist of co-eds from the University of California and other colleges, besides a few doctors, lawyers, newspapermen, etc. and aside from their other duties and adventures they will form a picture making company, who hope to endo Burton Holmes at his best, in travelogues and pictures of adventure. Seymour Jelliff will direct, and the ship is being especially refitted and supplied with a complete studio and laboratory equipment, also a large projection room where picture shows can be given while in ports. The project is being put through under the management of the Intrepid company, with offices in the Liberty Bank Building, of whom Mr. McFadden is an active member.

Robert Warwick, now starring at the Fulton Theatre in Oakland, will bring his season there to a close, in time to permit him to play the role of “Hippolytus” in Margaret Anglia’s production of the tragedy, at the Greek Theatre at Berkeley, on May 19th.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Charles Murray declares that he is slowly pining away for California, and if his hopes materialize, he will within the new moon park himself at some favored spot along Hollywood Boule- vard. He’s living now directly across the hall at the Alpenquin from Conrad Nagel. As Charles leaves for his studio earlier than Conrad does, Charles sits at Nagel’s door each morning long enough to read the Los Angeles papers which lie at the latter’s door every morning. Sometimes there are a dozen Hollywoodites at a time gathered about the door to read the news from the old home town. Conrad must be working pretty hard, to sleep through it all.

May Collins, formerly of the studios, is now co-starriing with Louis Mann and George Sidney at the Forty-Ninth Street Theatre.

“If Winter Comes,” a play dramatized from the novel by A. S. M. Hutchinson and MacDonald Hastings, is at the Gaiety Theatre. Cyril Maude returns to the footlights as an appealing “Mark Sabre,” the kindly intentioned, philosophical man whose good looks have caused him to become the young suitor of an unsanctified baby, giving his unsympathetic wife a chance to think the worst of him and sue for divorce. The play is tenderly humorous and pathetic, and the ad- aptors have done the book and themselves credit.

The following plays, in the order of their openings, have enjoyed record runs and are still running on Broadway, some of them nearing the end of their second year: “Kiki,” with Lenore Ulric, “Chauve Souris,” Russian Life; “Abe’s Irish Rose,” a Jewish and Hibernian comedy; “Ziegfeld Follies,” with Will Rogers; “Whispering Wives,” nith no excuse for murders over the wire; “The Old Soak,” who never surrenders to prohibition; “The Gingham Girl,” lots of fresh air and doughnuts; “So This Is Lon- don,” American squibs and British snobs.

Richard Barthelmess has purchased the rights to Rex Beach’s new story, “Big Brother,” which will run serially in Hearst’s International.

Charles Hunt and Clarence Badger are engaging talent for “Potash and Perlmutter,” the Jewish comedy which is to be done in pictures by Samuel Goldwyn, at the Fort Lee Studios.

Bryant Washburn and Elliott Dexter have formed their own companies in Boston. Each has a capital of $50,000.

Herbert Brenon is in town.

Ernest Truesd has signed on the dotted line with Fox to star in his stage success “Six Cylinder Love.” Elliott Carter will direct.

Betty Compson has sailed for London— and $50,000. That’s the sum she will receive from an English firm for one picture.

Bob Vignola has returned from his trip around the world, and is preparing his new script, which, of course, will star Marion Davies.

Mrs. Fiske will be seen shortly under Belasco’s management in St. John Ervine’s light comedy, “Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary.”

R. H. Burnside, who stages all of the Hip- podrome shows, has left for Los Angeles, to superintend the staging of the historical pageant there, beginning July 2.

We understand that Eddie Cline hereafter will confine his putes and megaphone to serious pictures. Eddie is always handing someone a laugh. Go to it, Eddie! Good luck.

Max Linder has eloped with a prominent French society girl. A request has been sent to the New York police to arrest them, in order that they may be taken back to France to relatives. The couple are believed to be aboard an Atlantic liner, bound for America.

Alan Crosland, director of Cosmopolitian’s “Enamored of Women,” will direct “The Unknown,” a real adventure, to be produced by the T. S. film. The cast will include Robert Mantell, John Charles Thumas, Alna Rubens, Gene- vieve Tobin, George Grossmith, and Rose Coughlan. The “Follies” beauties also will take part.
Physical Trainers and Good News

By RAY LEEK

To the already long list of studio experts who have to do with the making of a motion picture one more specialist has been added. "Physical trainer" is a title that may be seen on the doors of offices in many of the big studios, while gymnasiums are given as important a place in the construction of the new picture plants as are wardrobes, electrical departments or plaster shops.

At the Schulberg Studios, "Dannny" Goodman, a star of the squared ring whose name is known wherever fight talk is heard, has been installed as trainer of not only the male, but feminine players as well. Daily workouts with gloves, weights and punching bag are a part of studio routine for all of the permanent members of the Schulberg playing staff, directors and even writers.

An early morning glimpse behind the doors of "Dannny’s" improvised conditioning shop on the Schulberg lot would serve to dispel any illusions concerning the "soft" existence of players. Gaston Glass usually is devoting himself to the gloves to the discomfiture of his luckless opponent. Tom Porman is the only member of the directorial staff who questions Gaston’s supremacy as a boxer. Sam Jaffe, production manager, finds that the pet personal trainer with his aides whenever differences arise.

Directors Gasnier and Schertzinger each spend an hour daily with "Dannny’s" gymnasium tools, while the blonde Olga Printz, who abandoned her typewriter long enough to skip the rope and participate in the more feminine diversions that have been provided for her and the diminutive Ethel Shannon. That Schulberg himself has faith in the daily routine he has mapped out for his players is proved by the fact that the most important of conferences never interferes with his own hour with Goodman.

Al Lichtman, returning from a tour of Europe capitals, brings news that ought to cheer American picture producers. Not only does he say that supremacy of the American film is being maintained, but American methods of handling and exhibiting our productions are being adopted. For instance, the old system of buying the product of various companies for a year in advance has been abandoned and productions now are sold on their merits alone. The result is that pictures are shown in the British Isles almost as soon as they are seen here. "Shadows," which now is running in American "key" cities, is being shown simultaneously in London theatres, according to the head of the Lichtman Corporation.

When in doubt take out an insurance policy. This slogan of the life insurance solicitor appears to have taken a firm hold on picture producers who are daily adding to the unique policies being written by companies willing to take unusual risks.

With Ben Turpin’s eyes insured against normalcy, Charlie Chaplin’s feet against the slightest sprain and Gloria Swanson’s lower extremities eloquently described in a policy, it is said that Bull Montana’s pride—his cauliflower ears—are about to undergo a similar protective ordeal.

But, while unusual talents and physical perfections and imperfections are the subject of big policies, hazards to life and limb appear to escape attention of the underwriters. Kenneth Harlan piloted an aeroplane from the clouds in a dizzy nose dive that wrecked the roof of a house the other day in the interests of Tom Forman’s production, "The Broken Wing," with no insurance other than the generous policy that covers his every day activities.

Gaston Glass was forced to make two hazardous plunges through the flames of a burning building in the filming of "The Hero" some time ago without special insurance protection. And, although he was so severely burned that he was forced to go into a hospital for treatment, he collected no compensation on his policy.

Orville Caldwell, however, was more heavily insured while romping through the leading male role in Mae Murray’s latest production, "The French Doll," involving no physical hazards, than any "stunt" man of the screen. The insurance, however, was to prevent possible loss to the costly production through illness or accident to the athletic Caldwell.

Interest in Theda Bara’s proposed return to the screen is accepted as another evidence of the growing popularity of the modified vamp. Like Barbara La Marr, Nita Naldi, Ethel Shannon and others who enact the old-fashioned villainesses roles with a new-fashioned display of humaness, Theda expects to become a new personality. While her future plans have not been announced at this writing, it is expected that her first picture will show a very much reformed Theda.
FILM TROUPE RETURNS FROM LONG STAY IN WILD

After more than four months spent in the wilderness of the Canadian Rocky Mountains, and living the capsule life of a desirable police dog, malamutes and huskies with them, the Trimble-Murfin gang have been making the next two Strongheart starring vehicles under Lawrence Trimble's direction, both of them westerns.

Owing to a few shots to be made at Pincher Creek, on the Canada-United States line, Trimble, Strongheart, Lady Jule and the leading man and woman, Harold Austin and Lillian Rich, will be another week in arriving, and when they do, work will start immediately on the interiors of "The Phantom Pack" and "White Fang."

Trimble will work at the Ince Studios, where Jane Murfin is filming another Trimble-Murfin picture, "The Sign."

Although those who have returned are, H. Huty, business manager, Walter, Jack J. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Barrell, Janet Trimble and her husband, and his wife, and Mrs. C. B. Dreyer, Mr. and Mrs. John Burch, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Trimble and infant daughter born on location, Cyril Gardner and Ray Connell.

EUGENIE BESSERER IN NEW NIILAN FEATURE

Marshall Neilan announces the signing of Eugenie Besserer, noted character actress, to portray a peasant woman in his production, "The Rendezvous."

Although Miss Besserer has portrayed practically every type of character from a peasant woman to the grande dame, she says, "I much prefer the peasant character; it is the life I knew in childhood. And what a child gains by observation can never be duplicated by a grown-up."

This marks Miss Besserer's second appearance with Neilan since he has been producing for Goldwyn. She portrayed the mother of Eleanor Boardman in "An American Coquette," and before that, she was with Neilan as Wesley Barry's grandmother in "Perfidy."

"Rendezvous" is co-producer just finished a very fine characterization of the old role in "Youth Triumphant," and before that she became his for her services before Neilan and signed for "The Rendezvous."

KING OF SPAIN ENJOYS CALDWELL PRODUCTION

Fred Caldwell, author and director, "Night Life in Hollywood," revealed in New York stating that King Alfonso of Spain has made a request to Caldwell for "Night Life in Hollywood," which request was readily granted, and the picture was run for him and his royal family at the Palace Theatre in Madrid, Spain, on May 1.

"MICKEY" NEILAN WINS THE ICED FRIED EGG

"Is it warm enough for you today?"

How many times were you asked this question this week? Perhaps people are beginning them if they are comfortable while hanging from a chandelier by their toes.

But this Sweet, wearing a forty-pound costume in "In the Palace of the King," while the mercury was bursting thermometer to right and left, asked the "snappy" question forty-two times within an hour after she appeared on the set.

"If some person comes along and is not as well off as you," I'll give them a diamond bracelet, a yacht, an expensive car, or any gift they select," confided Miss Sweet to her maid.

"But I must point out," her husband, "Mickey" Neilan, interposed: "Hello, dear, how would you like some hot soup?"

She won in a walk.

ROYAL RUSSIAN EXILE COMES TO FILMLAND

Another royal Russian exile is coming to Los Angeles.

His title indicates a rank of no less distinction than baron, as he is of the Von Bobrikoff family. Born in Von Bobrikoff to be exact. He was a prominent figure in the court of the Czar but was forced to flee when the royal and the murder of the monarch he was forced to flee the wrath of the Bolsheviks. Russia has been his home.

Boyarin's arrival should cause a flutter in blue-blooded circles. Or, perhaps, kennels is the precise word. For Boyarin, a dog. Among dogs, however, particularly Russian dogs, he is an aristocrat of purest strain.

Boyarin is to be brought here for Evelyn Graham, formerly a leading character, of Shakespearean roles in Sweden, now a member of the cast of "Ashes of Vengeance," the great historic romance of Sweden starring Norma Talmadge which Joseph M. Schenck Productions are making for First National release.

GRASSBY CLAIMS LIGHT-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

Norman Kerry first claimed a ranking for the boxing world in Los Angeles with an out which weighed 45 pounds, next came Lewis Stone with one weighing 59, and finally Niles Welch claimed the record with an outfit totalling 75 pounds.

Let those actors argue out the matter of lightweight costumes, says Bertram Thomas Grassby, but no one can dispute his claim to the lightest lightweight garments on record. Grassby, who is playing the part of Tut-Ankh-Amen in the William P.S. Earle production of that name, says if some of the garments he wears for the part were any lighter there wouldn't be any costumes left. With that as a point of departure, upon portraying King Tut with such realism that Grassby claims three of his costumes together would make a picture a good muffler on a cold day. Bert has contracted three colds to date, as while he was wearing the scanty Egyptian attire and his finally to come to the conclusion that King Tut was neither poison nor asphyxiated, but died of pneumonia.

MEN AND WOMEN WEARING HIGH LEATHER BOOTS, CHANGE PANTS, OTHER REGALIA WHICH TYPIFIES THE WESTERN RANCH PEOPLE ARE AROUND THE METRO STUDIOS.

The new all-star production is being dressed in true wild Western style.

CAMERA

COMPLETES FILMING OF "THE SELF-MADE WIFE"

Production has just been completed at Universal City on "The Self-Made Wife," which was plun-dged with an all-star cast and under the direction of George Archainbaud.

The film was adapted from Elizabeth Alexander novel, pt. titled "Rocky Mountain Rendezvous." The Saturday Evening Post. Edward Lowe made a screen adaptation and Charles Kenyon wrote the scenario.

"The Self-Made Wife" is a dramatic story of the experience of a young woman whose domestic happiness was destroyed by the marriage because the wife was unable to "keep pace" with her husband. Their tastes and desires were in variance and their care while they were poor at living in a small town. In after their oil well came in the couple became a "big town" young while his wife failed to progress more quickly.

The cast includes such well known players as Ethel Greer Terry, Virginia Adair, Crad Wills, Robert Young, Raymond Smalley and Dorothy Cummings.

Jack Gilford, who directed the picture, did some outstanding screen successes, including "Sud," with Mary Pickford.

JOHN BOWERS SIGNS LONG-TERM LESSER CONTRACT

Not having with the best stars of the feminine form Principal Pictures Corporation announce this week the signing of John Bowers for a long-term contract.

Bowers will begin his new screen activities in the lead from male role of "The Winning of Barbara Worth," Harold Del scripted popular story, which I soon to see the silver sheet.

The noted player who will opposite Bowers not less than Florence Vidor who has been cast to the role of Barbara in the desert story.

Bowers will appear as one of the most popular of male leading men and his entry under Principal Pictures' banner has met with wide approval. "The Winning of Barbara Worth" will start immediately upon the return to Los Angeles of Edward F. Cline, the director, now in Arizona seeking suitable locations.

JACKIE COOGAN'S "TOBY" CHANGED TO "BUSTER"

The title of Jackie Coogan's latest production for First National has been changed from "Toby Tyler" to "Circus Day."

With the traveling one-ring circus as a background, with all its spectacular and colorful appearances, the picture promises to show the diminutive star in the greatest role of his screen career.

The story is one that will find a ready response from everyone who ever enjoyed a visit to a circus—and that includes about every one of us.
ANOTHER FILM PROJECT IS LAUNCHED

Hollywood became the headquarters of a new production unit this week, when the Willie Hopkins Productions began the making of "Little Journeys to the Homes and Haunts of Eminent Poets and Authors."

At the offices of the new company, 1568 Winton Boulevard, it was made public that the "Little Journeys" will embrace twenty-six short features, each depicting the native surroundings of a famous poet, author or composer.

Ten countries were visited, many months and many thousands of dollars expended by Mr. Hopkins and his assistant staff yielded the backdrops of Robert Burns, Sir Walter Scott and Harry Lauder; in England, Charles Dickens, Shakespeare, and Tennyson; in Spain, Cervantes and Ibanez in Germany, Wagner and Schiller; in France, Dumas and Victor Hugo; in Norway and Denmark, Hans Andersen and Hans Christian, Byron; in Italy, Dante, and in the United States, Washington Irving, James Whitcomb Riley and Mark Twain.

The producers of this fresh and novel series—which now is being assembled at the Standard Film Laboratories by Mr. Hopkins and his assistant and cinematographer, James T. Gibney—have found themselves ever since first rumor of their enterprise began to spread, in a dilemma. The demand for short subjects of the merit of "Little Journeys to the Homes and Haunts of Famous Poets and Authors" is so persistent that attempts have been made to persuade the Willie Hopkins Productions to release their output as soon as the few first units are assembled. The makers of the series feel, however, that to follow this suggestion would work against the unity of the whole, and so have had to take the stand of denial of immediate bookings of any one of the features, in the interest of preparing the full number of twenty-six in the finished manner in which the standard of the company insists upon.

JOSEPH GIRARD CAST IN WESTERN AT UNIVERSAL

Joseph Girard, veteran character actor who has played in countless feature and serials for Universal and other producing companies, is portraying a supporting role in the spectacular "Where Is This West?" at Universal City. Directed by George Marshall, the story by George Davis, "Negroes in the Desert," will be produced for the world's largest film company in a spectacular manner, which will greatly add to the interest of the production for its premiere. Girard will be featured in the film as a trainer of human and animal talent, and his role is one of the most important in the picture.

Mr. Girard, who has been a leading supporting player for Universal for a number of years, has appeared in many of the studio's recent productions, and his work in the picture will be a welcome addition to the cast.

DULL IS ALLOWING NO DULLNESS AROUND HIM

Bunny Dull, newly appointed production manager for Arthur H. Jacobs, producer of Frank Borzage productions for Associated First National, has started things humming at the United States office for Borzage's next picture which will go into camera work next week.

Already two stars have been signed. They are Virginia Pearson and Barbara Bedford. The rest of the all-star cast will be selected while Borzage is conferring with Mary O'Hara on the adaptation of the story which is to be put into continuity at once. Settings have been started and Dull will have everything in readiness for the director to commence work with Chester Lencs at the camera.

McREA FILMS A TRIUMPH IN SIAN

The rites of the Temple of Fo-Wanu, which until now, was an oriental and sacred tradition, have been filmed by Mr. McRea, whose aim is to picture in true colors and costume the beating-heart parts of the Far East. The picture had to wait in Bangkok, in Siam, thirty-two days to a royal audience before he so much as asked to broach the matter of setting a tripod within the sacred walls of Fo-Wanu.

This temple, lying far to the north of the Siamese capital, in the great tank forests, is one of the few in the Mongolian countries to offer up human sacrifices. Worship in it is restricted to members of the two highest castes of Siamese.

Partly to disabuse the world outside Siam of belief in this grim legend, dispensation was granted Mr. McRea by the throne to photograph the ceremonies. This, he has written to his agents in Hollywood, are particularly impressive and weird. The priests, numbering seventeen, perform the entire ceremony in long gowns of pale green silk: they are masked and the darkness is dispelled by the fact that throughout no word is spoken, the offering to the god Fo-Wanu being subsilent, a thrilling eloquence of gesture to indicate worship.

SET BUILDING SETS A PACE AMAZING

Big. Bigger. Biggest. That's the way the Hollywood photoplay makers are building their sets these days. D. W. Griffith built the great banquet hall for "Intolerance." None of those who saw it will ever forget it. Douglas Fairbanks rivalled it in "Vengeance." Still, that was with a castle tented hall in "Robin Hood." Maurice Tourneur and Richard Walton Tully showed us the interior of Westminster Abbey. And in "Rupert of Hentzau" and "Earthbound" church interiors of vast spaciousness were featured.

Now comes Norma Talmadge with what is said to be the greatest interior set ever built. Norma's set was erected for "Ashes of Vengeance" which is now being made in Hollywood for First National release. This set shows the interior of the Louvre ballroom in Paris as it was in 1572 on the eve of the Huguenot massacre.

Stephen Goossen, graduate of the Ecole des Beaux Arts of Paris, who constructed the "Eternal Flame" sets is also doing the architectural backgrounds for "Ashes of Vengeance." Mr. Goossen, who is conceded the greatest motion picture architect in the industry, has constructed at the United Studios a complete quarter of the Paris of the time of Charles the Ninth, ready on the plans for three French chateaux which soon will be erected.

SILVIA SIGNS LONG TERM CONTRACT

Sylvia Breamer, famed Australian actress whose recent work on the screen has won for her considerable favorable comment in the picture industry, has signed a long-term contract to appear in forthcoming associated First National pictures.

Miss Breamer was signed almost directly after the completion of her last picture, "The Girl of the Golden West," in which she appeared opposite J. Warren Kerrigan, in the title role.

It was her starring work in this famous Belasco play, that virtually won her for the First National company.

Her first appearance in an all-First National picture will be in the leading feminine role in "The Lord of Thundergate," Hershal Small's celebrated Japanese-American novel. In this play she will be seen as a white girl, who, brought up as Chinese, is sold into the household of a Japanese lord as a slave-wife.

The signing of Miss Breamer follows the announced intention of First National to contract only with players whose work has been of the highest order. She is the fourth famed young actress to come under the First National banner within the past few weeks. The first was Colleen Moore, one of the daintiest and most promising personalities acting for film, who has been under contract for a little over a year and a half.

Miss Breamer, who has had a wide experience on the stage in Australia, England and this country before coming into pictures five years ago, has played in many of the biggest recent film productions.

Her stage career included feminine leads in these plays: "Bought and Paid For," "Within the Law," "The Argyle Case," "Under Cover," and Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara."

Finishes "Supreme Test"

Eugene Beaudino, formerly known as Eugene Borden, has just finished playing a leading role in "The Supreme Test," directed by Harry Reiter at the Compton Studios. Mr. Beaudino has been on the west coast only a month.
RISE FROM ACTOR TO PRODUCTION CHIEF RAPID

To promote one's self from actor to director is quite common. In fact, almost every actor aspires to sometime become a famous director.

But what is the position and are there individuals that one that isn't often spanned. Therefore, Ashton Dearholt, production manager for the Ben Wilson Productions, deserves a bit of credit.

Mr. Dearholt has held his present position the past four years, but prior to that time, he will be remembered as a popular featured player in Universal, Goldwyn and American Films. A few years ago, shortly before he turned to the work behind the camera he was the victim of an unfortunate accident. A large shot of flash powder exploded, causing the actor's hands to be disfigured and discolored.

At the present time, Mr. Dearholt is supervising production of the Wilson feature, "Mine to Keep," with an all-star cast including Bryant Washburn, Mrs. Bryant Washburn, Will Rogers, Charlotte Stevens, Kate Lester, Harry Dunkinson, Patty and Mickey Moore and Peaches Jackson.

TWO OF "ROBIN HOOD" CAST IN "BRASS BOTTLE"

Maurice Tourneur has drawn from the casts of the season's two most pretentious productions for players to enact the leading parts in his newest production for M. C. Levee, "The Brass Bottle."

From the cast of "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," Tourneur selected Sam De Grasse, who plays the part of Robin and Roy Corliss, whose portrayal of the jester attracted much favorable comment in "The Brass Bottle." De Grasse again appears as a King—King Solomon—and Corliss as "The Evil Eye," an evil creature of the spirit world.

Ernest Torrence and Tully Marshall, who are two other actors in a recent screen triumph, who appear in the Tourneur picture—Torrence as the eccentric scout and Marshall as the drunken trapper in "The Covered Wagon" will long be remembered. In "The Brass Bottle" they have characters that are expected to prove fully as distinctive as their respective portrayals in the big Westerns.

Started as Trap Drummer

Lloyd Ingraham, one of the screen's eccentric comedians, Reg'inx Ingram's newest Metro production, was the trap drummer in the Robert Buchanan repertory company at 15 and the leading man at 19.

CLEAN PICTURES IS SLOGAN OF NEW COMPANY

If there is any truth in the report that sex pictures have had their day and that exhibitors and the theatergoing public are now demanding clean, wholesome productions, then the Mission Film Company will undoubtedly score a decided hit with their latest production, "The Daredon Bride." which is a virile drama of rural life, absolutely devoid of vulgarity or any other thing that might make it objectionable. Members of the motion picture industry in general, declares Leon Rice, president of the company, "believe that every man, woman and child in the country is a movie 'fan.' However, I have found upon investigation that less than one-half of the population are attending motion picture theaters at the present time. This is on the premise that for this falling off in attendance is because the sex picture is not their idea of entertainment.

"When parents take their children to view a picture of this kind, they are merely exposing them to the show is over to face a barrage of questions from the youngsters as to this, this, and the other thing concerning the picture. Therefore, rather than shock the morality of the children, they stay away from the theater and seek entertainment elsewhere."

Mr. Rice believes that the box-office receipts of the theater will be magnified and increased if clean stories are provided for the public's entertainment and that the growth of the "dressed up motion picture fans" will again become boosters of the silent drama.

"The Barefoot Boy" is being directed by David Kirkland, who has to his credit such well known pictures as "Reported Missing," "The Virginian," "Vamp," and other pictures made under the banner of Selznick.

A notable cast has been engaged for the principal roles in the story and include such favorites as John Bowers, Marjorie Daw, Tully Marshall, Raymond Hatten, Sylvia Breyer, Frankie Lee, Otis Harlan, Harry Todd, Virginia True Boardman and many others.

The Mission Film Company has recently been reorganized and besides Mr. Rice the new officers are: D. W. Lynch, president; D. G. Havermale, secretary and treasurer; Norman Walker, business manager, and Betty Hagar, production manager.

"The Barefoot Boy" is now in production at the Fine Arts studios. David Abel is cinematographer and Charlesham is assistant to Director Kirkland.

MOST OF ACTOR'S FAN MAIL FROM OLDER WOMEN

One would think the fan-mail to a dashing young star like Johnnie Walker would consist mostly of a deluge of mash-notes from movie-stricken girls.

Contrary to that belief, he receives seventy-five per cent of his "fan" letters from mothers; some young, some middle-aged, but mostly from old gray-haired mothers.

And there's a reason!

The photoplay in which Johnnie Walker underrated scored his greatest success was "Over the Hill," in which he portrayed a most sympathetic role,—that of the younger brother who stirred the hearts of every feminine theatergoer by the manner in which he bestowed such loving attention upon his neglected mother.

Since the release of "Over the Hill," Mr. Walker has received hundreds of letters each week from mothers who viewed that picture; letters that bespeak a similar occurrence in the lives of the authors; bits of missives that tell of a son who didn't the never-to-be-forgotten kiss, and who will never return.

GLADYS WALTON'S NEXT FEATURE DECIDED ON

Gladys Walton's next starring vehicle for Universal will be a screen adaptation of the popular novel, "The White Cat," by Gelett Burgess.

Production is due to start soon on the picture, which is being released under the title, "The Untamable." Herbert Blache, who recently finished the direction of Herbert Rawlinson in "Fools and Riches," will direct the production.

The story centers around a girl with a dual personality, which amounts virtually to a different identity. One personality in that of a sweet, charming and lovable girl. The other presents a character vicious and cruel.

Filing of the play will start as soon as Fred Datig, casting director, completes the casting and supporting parts for the production. Noted Art Director Engaged

E. R. Hickson, one of filmland's most noted men, declares the current Ben Wilson production, "Mine to Keep," now in the course of filing, will cause much comment upon its general release. An unlimited amount of care is being taken in an effort to display many new phases of art work in this production.

CONSTANCE WANTS TO PLAY STRONG EMOTIONS

What's Constance Talmadge doing these days? Well, Constance is feeling sort of blue, tell the truth.

She has several reasons. For one thing they are making her play a "dulcy" in her latest picture.

You don't know what a "dulcy" is? Well, a dulcy is Hollywood slang for "dumbell." "I don't want to be a dulcy," says Constance. "I want to play what they call strong, emotional roles. You know: I want to be a tiger woman with a long stiletto, who meets a sheik out in the desert under the Egyptian moon. But, no, I must always be a comedienne. What a life!"

Constance's latest comedy is "I Wonder Who's Going to Wed Me?" and Jean Schenck stars the role of a wife who insists on meddling in her husband's affairs to help him but who instead presents hubby with a peck basket full of trouble. Sidney Franklin is directing "Dulcy" for Associated First National release.

Constance also is bemoaning the fact that her birthday present ordered for her hasn't arrived—probably won't arrive for many months yet. The present is a big silver scale selected for her by Joseph M. Schenck. The factory was so busy it couldn't fill the order in time for Constance's birthday which came on April 19th.

Connie, that reason for feeling blue is that she must work steadily all during the month of May on one set at the Schenck studios in Hollywood. No more traveling about all over the state of California for Connie. From now on, she will be shooting her pictures under the sign, "The Schenck Studio, Inc., 1 p.m. each day. Even the stars must conform to these hateful orders from the "chief" to "cut those production costs."

Schlank to Travel

For the second time during the current year President Morris R. Schlank of the Associated Distributors, Inc., will head eastward about June first from his Hollywood headquarters to visit practically every exchange center in the country. One of Mr. Schlank's main objects for making the trip, he says, is to introduce the first production filmed by the Rocky Mountain Productions, Inc., "The Danger Man," an 18-chapter outdoor mystery story featuring Irene Rich, Noah Beery and Tully Marshall.

George Rizard is photographing the Metro all-star production that is now closed in Hollywood for Metro. Mr. Rizard was formerly cameraman for Charles Ray.
CAMERA Weekly Wake-Up—CAMERA's News Section Page Eleven

WHEREIN BIRTHDAY CAKE IS A "POOL"

All for one. One for all.

The three Talmadge sisters are practising the D'Artagnan motto this week at the Joseph M. Schenck office on the United lot in Hollywood.

November 29 of the Talmadge sisters had birthdays during the past three weeks. First, on April 19th, came Constance's anniversary. On April 29th Natalie Talmadge (Mrs. Buster Keaton) celebrated and on May 2nd Norma Talmadge gave a party on the set where she is now making "Ashe's of Vengeance."

Norma's birthday party was intended to serve as a joint celebration for all three sisters.

"When I was a very little girl," said Norma, "we three girls had so many squabbles with each other over our three separate birthday parties which came together within a fortnight that mother finally decided to give us one birthday party on my anniversary, I being the oldest by a year's margin.

"At this big party we three sisters all took little Brooklyn playmates and cut a monster cake. We have kept that custom of one cake for all and all for one cake ever since. And like in the old days we always pool our candles and put them all on one cake.

"We have seen the total of those candles growing with startling rapidity. Don't tell anyone, but on this year's cake there were 65 candles! Just how many belong to Natalie, how many to me, and how many to you—well, you'll have to guess. We used to fight in the old days over our cakes but now none of us will admit to saving more than sixteen."

EXPOSITION OPENS AN OFFICE IN NEW YORK

New York offices for the Mon-roe Doctrine Centennial have been opened with Frederick H. Elliott in charge. Until recently, Mr. Elliott was executive secretary of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, when the organization presided over by Will H. Hays took over his work. Mr. Elliott will serve as Eastern representative of the Motion Picture Exhibitors in which their is steadily increasing interest because of its novelty. Many industries of the Atlantic Coast are now making exhibits because of the plan to make displays on motor-trucks. Great emphasis is put on the fact that will be filmed and shown all over the world, at the close of the exposition.

FILM STARLET PLANNING TO BUILD NUT FACTORY

Coy Watson, ten-year-old film artist who is one of filmland's busiest youngsters and who scored a decided hit with his brilliant performance in Earle Williams' recent release, "You Never Know," and equal success for his interpretation of a difficult role in Lloyd "Ham" Hamilton's "No Luck," is spending the money he earns in motion pictures in a very wise manner.

The youngster, like many of his older screen brothers and sisters, has got the "real estate bug" and is putting all available cash into the purchase of land in Hollywood. His latest investment is in a lot near Universal City.

Asked what he planned to do with this piece of property, young Watson replied, "I'm going to build a nut factory. It has three walnut trees on it."

GLORIA FINISHES AND RUSHES TO NEW YORK

After more than two months actual labor, "Blonde's Eighth Wife," the Sam Wood-Paramount production starring Gloria Swanson, has come to an end. Miss Swanson and director Wood in the cutting room, where it is being cut down to feature length.

This is declared to be Miss Swanson's most elaborate picture since she joined Paramount Pictures several years ago. It contains as features a vision sequence that brings to the screen the fairy tale of "Bluebeard." This is an almost uncanny series of colorful scenes. An Egyptian garden party, in which Miss Swanson jouets with the ladies and dance, is another feature. She is wrapped in hundreds of feet of silk ribbon and is brought into the center of the party in a munmy case, carried by Nubian slaves. Lifted from the case, she stands while dancing girls, seeking ends of the ribbon, lightly circle her and remove the tight binding, leaving Miss Swanson clad in a wonderful costume of the time of Cleopatra.

Miss Swanson left Friday for New York City, where she will make "Zaza" under the direction of Allan Dwan, at the Famous Players-Lasky Long Island studio. Later Director Wood will also go to New York, where he will produce "His Children's Children" for Paramount with a cast yet to be chosen.

Martha Mattox, the well-known character actress, who is seen in the Universal-Jewel, "Him," as the courageous Austrian woman, is enjoying a short period of rest between engagements.

COY WATSON

GRAF TO MAKE 2 MORE PICTURES FOR METRO

Max Graf, supervising director of the Max Graf Productions for Metro, is one of the busiest forces in the motion picture industry. Contrary to rumor that has nearly completed the cutting of "The Fog," produced at the San Mateo Studios and is now engaged with Tom Hopkins in titling the film. In addition to this he is adapting and putting into continuity his next production, David Graham Phillips' "The Grain of Dust" starring Mildred Harris, shooting to commence June 15th. This will be followed by "The Soul Thief," an original by Max Graf.

His production plans include two units, with three specials for each, for he announces that he will make some program pictures, but super specials on the same scale as "The Fog" which ran into big expenditure, with all star cast.

While Mr. Graf has settled definitely on having one unit at San Mateo, from present indications the second unit will be operated at the Metro Studios, although not yet in definite terms. The producer is leaving in a few days for New York where he will look over new productions and will purchase the scenario rights to enough famous books to keep his cameras busy for the next two years.

FRENCH AVIATRIX FLIES WITH RECORD-BREAKERS

Probably the first person to welcome Lieutenants Kelly and McReady, the coast-to-coast army fliers, to the West Coast of the country was Mlle. Andree Peyre, the French aviatrix, now in Hollywood to fulfill motion picture contracts. Mlle. Peyre, it became known this week, flew from Hollywood over the desert to Barstow, when she learned by bulletin of the advent of the T.2, and there circled about until the giant army monoplane came out of the sky from the east. From Barstow to Los Angeles, Mlle. Peyre flew with the record-breakers, ready to act as pilot should Kelly and McReady, then so near their goal, make a mistake and vary from the course at the last.

Rarely has a more striking example of sportmanship been found than in this case, for it had been her aim, until the Government aviators turned the trick, to make the coast-to-coast non-stop flight and she had been ready for some time, and had delayed her attempt—which was for her to be made in a specially constructed Farman—in deference to the official trial.
FINANCED by a group of Cheyenne, Wyoming, capitalists, the Rocky Mountain Productions, Inc., is the latest film producing concern to enter the independent field. The Rocky Mountain concern will center all its producing activities in Hollywood.

The company will be via the states right market through the Anchor Film Distributors, Hollywood, and in conjunction with Morris R. Schlank is president.

The Rocky Mountain firm has already finished its first production, "The Dangerous Trail," a six-part "special" with an all-star cast, including Irene Rich, Noah Beery, Tully Marshall, William Lowry, Jack Curtis, Jane Tallett and Fred Hank.

In addition to the above production the Rocky Mountain productions will film a series of eight pictures featuring Bill Paton, the well-known "long star. The first two of this series are now in production under the supervision of Alvin J. Neitz, who has been appointed director-general of the new organization.

F. W. Raymond, secretary-treasurer of the Rocky Mountain productions, will have charge of the local plant.

ENGLISH LORD HERE FOR PICTURE CAREER

Lord Pat Glerawly, son of the Earl and Lady of Annesley of London, has arrived in Hollywood with a motion picture career in view.

Lord Glerawly is 6 feet high, blonde, very handsome, and the possessor of the Victoria Cross and several other medals which he won at the war. He was a lieutenant in the British army and was wounded at the famous battle of Jutland.

Lord Glerawly's mother, Lady Annesley, was called "the most beautiful titled woman in the world." She was particularly well known in English social circles and at one time played the lead in amateur theatricals. It is from her, Lord Glerawly says, that he inherited his love for theatricals.

Lord Glerawly is playing a small part in "Five Days" at the Goldwyn Studios. It was written by Emmer Glyn, the Englishwoman, and is being directed by Charles Brabin, an Englishman.

Dobby Vernon is preparing to film the initial comedy under his new contract with Christie Comedies, with whom he has been affiliated for several years.

Dorothy Manners is said to have been chosen for a willow triumphed for the manner in which she portrayed the leading feminine role in Charles (Dex) Jones' latest William Fox feature, "Snowdrift."

BREAKING INTO MOVIES AN EASY JOB FOR DELL

Dell Boone, in private life Mrs. Niles Welch, who is playing one of the leading roles in the Robin Hood series, made her first appearance with "Your Own Horn," being directed by James Horne Jr another one of those Southern belles who have won success upon the screen. Miss Boone hails from Springfield, Mo., and contrary to reports, Miss Welch did not have any trouble at all in breaking into the film. After two years of stage experience she one day found herself in New York, and at the first studio at which she applied was given a part in a production being made by William P. Earle, a director noted for his willingness to give new-comers a chance upon the screen. Dell made good and in a short time was advanced to leading roles. In "Blow Your Own Horn," she has one of the best parts of her career.

HUNTERS TAKE THEIR OWN GAME WITH THEM

When the Charles J. Brabin party went shooting at Sheyward Forest, near Lake Pontchartrain, they took their own game with them.

There were four pheasants, a fox, two partridges, and the nucleus of a rabbit farm.

With the exception of one pheasant that dropped dead with fright, the rest were brought home when the guns were first fired, there were no casualties.

Thirteen pheasants and most of the pigeons were brought back to Goldwyn studio. The pigeons are still flying about Sheyward Forest.

The scenes were being made for Elinor Glyn's story, "Six Days," with Marie D'aming as the star. Wash Hall and Claude King were the principal members of the shooting party.

WORLD CONDENSED INTO NARROW STUDIO SPACE

Goldwyn studios' newest stage, and incidentally the largest one in the world, is housing a section of mediaeval Spain, a corner of frozen Russia and scenes in sunny France just now.

In one corner Emmett Flynn is directing scenes in the palace of King Philip II, of Spain, and in another spot, Horace North and Pauline Starke are garbed in sixteenth-century Spanish costumes.

Just a few steps away Marshall Neilan is directing "The Rendezvous," a story of Russia, and Conrad Nagel, Lucille Ricks, Elmo Lincoln, Emmett Corrigan and Sydney Chaplin are starring as the Siberian peasants.

Down in the corner of the vast building, Corinne Griffith, Frank Mac murray and Myrtle Stedman are in the midst of scenes laid in modern-day France. The picture is "The 14 Days," being directed from the Elinor Glyn story by Charles Brabin.

HERE'S LATEST DOPE ON WOMEN'S FASHIONS

Dame Fashion has lifted her attention from flesh colored stockings and short skirt problems, and has now turned her vision to bring into vogue flaring collars and fanciful neckwear.

This is according to Sophie Warren, who wrote the costumes for Goldwyn pictures.

Deep V-cut backs and present decade modes will vanish from the catalogues of new season's fashionably gowned women, she says. Women with beautiful shoulders, rather than those with pretty ankles, will be the belles.

Miss Wachner says that the style change is due entirely to the influence of the screen, which recently has offered so many beautifully dressed stories of the harrowing periods of Europe a few centuries ago.

There will be no return to the homely necklace and high collar, but "lady's" "sleeve" period, Miss Wachner adds. She says next season's styles will merely resemble the most beautiful bits of fancy were worn in the sixteenth century, with a few modern changes.

WALTER LONG WILL BE A BROKEN-DOWN PUGILIST

Walter Long, one of the screen's foremost character actors, has been engaged by Associated First National Pictures, Inc., to play a prominent part in "The Huntress," a picturization of Hubert Footner's famous story, production of which will begin at the United Studios during the coming week.

It has been hinted to enact the role of a broken-down prize-fighter.

Nothing will mar the dramatic action of the play devolves on this well-known player. In one of the principal scenes in the picture he engages in a rough and tumble fight, which from every indication promises to be epoch-making for realism and intensity.

Long's screen career as a "heavy" covers more than fourteen years, during which time he has appeared in some of the film's most notable successes. He has played almost every characterization imaginable.

His most recent part was in Mack Sennett's "Three Ship's. As a real capita will be to the role of a "gus" in "The Birth of a Nation" and played similarly heavy parts in "Inheritance." "Joan the Woman," "The Shekinah," "Good and Sand," and "The Dictator." Long is a native of Nashua, N. H., and before going to pictures had an extensive career on the stage.

Other films have been engaged for parts in "The Huntress," are Colleen Moore and Lloyd Hughes in the leading roles, William Beaudine and Snitz Edwards.

CADDY GETS BIG MILLION-DOLLAR RELEASING CONTRACT

After finishing two pictures for the American Releasing Corporation, "The Sheik of Hollywood," and "The Sheik of Hollywood," The Fred Caldwell Company has secured a releasing contract for a million dollars is involved. The contract in which a million dollars is involved is an agreement between Fred Caldwell and the American Releasing Corporation. The contract has been made public, calls for ten pictures to be made independently, and distributed through the latter organization.

The productions will be created from original stories dealing with Hollywood on an elaborate scale. The continuities will be written by J. Stewart Park, and the casts will be drawn as on the west coast. The pictures will be distributed under the trade banner of L. K. C. Productions, and the company will be given its complete time or elaboration on his subject.

Actor-filmmaker Caldwell will be remembered for his "Night Life In Hollywood."

LEE SELIETS STORY FOR HIS NEW FOX SERIES

First of the new series of Rowland Lee productions for Fox will be a photoplay based upon Governor Morris' celebrated short story "You Can't Get Away With It." This was announced this week by the director himself.

Production of the picture will begin in about a month or as soon as the scenario, now being written by Robert N. Lee, is completed, and the cast assembled.

The title is a quotation of the dictum of one of the principal characters in the tale of the die-axed man who—— when he made an unconventionally bold play for a girl—warned her that an arrangement outside the moral code of man cannot be happy. Despite the frank admonition, "You can't get away with it," the girl takes the chance. The question of whether the man is right in his prophesy or not constitutes the photodrama.

The same care in casting as marked Mr. Lee's previous big picture, "Alice Adams"—a visualization of Booth Tarkington's prize novel—will be the selection of players for "You Can't Get Away With It."

Harron Supports Connie

John Harron, brother of the late Robert Harron, has an important part in Charles (Dex) Jones' latest comedy, "Duley," now being filmed under the direction of Sidney Franklin for the Associated First National Pictures. The film was previewed recently in "The Supreme Test" and also had important roles in " isn't He Good" and the "Hand Me Down," and "Through the Back Door."
TWO MOVIE ROLES
MAKE BIG JUMP FOR ACTRESS

From fifteenth century under-world Paris to modern New York is the change of atmosphere made in one day by Gladys Brockwell at Universal City.

Miss Brockwell plays a principal character role as the mother of Esmeralda—Patsy Kelly in the musical, "The Hunch-back of Notre Dame," the spectacle starring Lon Chaney, and was put before the camera immediately in Baby Peggy's first Universal-Jewel starrer. "Wanted, A Home," which King Daggs is directing. "The New York Stock Perry picture doesn't begin for two or three weeks, "Fred Da-rig, calling in the Gold old her, "but there is one scene that should be made right away to keep from holding up the first picture scenes. Then you can rest for two weeks.

So she finished playing the Hugo character at noon and two o'clock in the afternoon she was standing on a "New York Stock" at Universal City. She is the star that has been resting for a time until the Daggs opus gets further along in production.

LOUISE ENGAGED FOR 3RD TIME BY WARNERS

Louise Fazenda, comedy queen, has signed on the dotted line for one of the leading roles in "The Gold Diggers," a Warner Brothers production which Harry Cohn will direct. Miss Fazenda is cast as "Mabel," most active of the "gold diggers," the sneering stage piece by Jobyna Howland. Search throughout the East revealed no one who could negotiate the part, then the chorus of Warner brothers and Harry Cohn was answered. "Mabel" is the only person who can play 'Mabel.'

Miss Fazenda will wear marvelous gowns, which she is already selecting. "The Gold Diggers" will make her third appearance in a Warner Brothers production following close upon her work in "Main Street" and "The Beautiful and Damned."

Highby Keeps Busy

As soon as Wilbur Highby had finished work on the Associated Authors production, "Richard The Lion Hearted," in the role of De Vaux he was signed by the Richard Highby Productions. Mr. Highby having had thirty years of stage experience is considered to be a very heavy character parts. His ability has been recognized by many prominent directors in casting for those types and he has developed intimate knowledge and understanding of dramatic acting.

POLA TO FOLLOW "THE CHEAT" WITH "THE SPANISH DANCER"

With "The Cheat" practically completed, save for a few minor shots and the cutting and assembling, it is possible to form an estimate of its quality and those at the studio who have seen the rough version of the Pola Negri picture are lavishing in praise. It is declared to be the most vivid characterization that the Polish star has as yet offered the public. Paramount has put aside setting in surrounding her with the most effective, settings, a powerful cast and costume effects that are both novel and beautiful.

The fact that Hector Turnbull's striking drama was once before produced, years ago, and has ever since been pointed out as a model for ambitious scenario writers and directors, indicates the dramatic strength of the story.

The production on this ocasion is by George Fitzmaurice and Oluida Bergere is responsible for the scenario. The many fine achievements of these two film experts in their respective fields, is another evidence of the quality which may be expected in "The Cheat."

Then Jack Holt, full fledged and immensely popular Paramount star, was chosen to play the featured role of husband in the picture.

Charles DeRoche, the young French actor, is in the support as the villan, an East Indian prince instead of a Japanese as in the older version.

Two of the greatest dramatic situations ever employed on the screen are to be found in the picture—that when Pola Negri as the wife is branded by de-

Roche as the villain to indicate that she is his property, and in the courtroom scene, where in order to save her husband from prison the shooting of the Hindu prince, which she herself did, the star bares her shoulder and displays the scar—

the brand of the Hindu. Immediately a rict enmues but the verdict is set aside.

The beauty of gowns is exem-ified in a marked degree. The episodes where Miss Negri selects her trousseau afford opportunity for a notable pageant of fashion. Her gowns designed by Howard Greer, are nothing short of exquisite—daring, unconventional and of the most super materials.

But it is in the acting of her difficult role that Pola Negri will again prove the possession of that fire, verve, power and magnetism which have made her name a household word abroad and at home. To see her in the courtroom scene where she makes her confession, involving shame, guilt and despair, is to see a form of dramatic expression that takes part of its greatness from the European school and is tempered sufficiently to our standards to be thoroughly understandable by any class of audience.

In gentler moments, she exbhibits rare restraint in direct contrast to the vivdness of the emotional scenes. Versatile to a degree she has accomplished a fine piece of work that critics are certain to approve.

A well earned rest is now being enjoyed by the star who will then embark on another lus-tuous production—"The Spanish Dancer"—with a cast, costumes and sets heretofore unparalleled in magnificence. This will be a Herbert Brenon production and the adaptation of the story of "Don Carlos deBazan" is by June Mathis and Beulah Marie Dix.

Arthur Edmund Carew as Svengali in "Trilby." Mr. Carew's characterization in this picture, and also his make-up is considered superb

NEW 'U' FEATURE
BASED ON NOVEL ANGLE OF LAW

What would be the legal status of a man who died by the state's will and after the coroner's verdict was signed, was brought back to life by a miracle? "Would he be legally dead or alive?"

That is exactly the question considered in "Legally Dead," the new Universal play which is being made at Universal City with Milton Sills in the leading male role and Claire Adams. Directors are William Wellman and Constance Bean directing.

Charles Purtman wrote the story, which promises to be a sensation in the novelty story class because of the remarkable importance of the subject. A new wonder, adrenaline, by the use of which dead people are brought back to life, has arrived today is robbing the graves, and such an awesome discovery must needs present a motion picture with unusual dramatic possibilities.

TWO MOVIE ROLES

GORE TO BUILD NEW 1000-SEAT THEATRE HERE

Upon his return from New York, Michael Gore, president of West Coast Theatre, who closed a deal with J. C. Baddeley, Los Angeles realter, for the immediate construction of a new theater to be situated on York Boulevard between 51st and 52nd streets.

The investment of the enterprise will be in excess of $160,000, building ground and theater construction estimated at $100,000-

000, and the contract to spend over $60,000 in the furnishing and decorating.

Ground was broken this week, and the theater, of 1000 seat capacity, is expected ready for opeing towards the end of the season. Architectural design is to be Egyptian, and Michael Gore states the new house will be the most magnificent neighborhood theater in the state. A $20,000 pipe organ is to be a feature of the installations. 500 Morris chairs will form the ledge circle.

The new theater will be called the "Jolene" in honor of the litle 3-year-old daughter of J. C. Baddeley.

Spier is Engaged

Richard Spier has been engaged by officers of the West Coast Theatre, for an executive position, to take charge of the publicity and advertising department of this vast string of houses, now stretching from San Diego north above San Francisco. Spier was formerly with the West Coast Theatre, for the first acquisition of theaters and formation of the circuit.

News and Gossip About the Moving Throngs of Movieland

A. L. Gore Vacating
A. L. Gore, Secretary of West Coast Theaters, Inc., is vacating at Marietta Holm's apartment in Highland Park, Los Angeles, where he is going to reside. Mr. Gore's duties included the huge business of the circuit during the absence of his husband, Mrs. Gore, and Vice President Sol Lesser in New York City.

Completes New Home
The new 1800 room hotel being built by West Theaters Inc., in San Pedro, Calif., is nearing completion. It stands as a monument to architectural inventive-ness, having two entrances co-joining directly into the foyer. The theater will have a huge stage for accommodation of road shows and vaudeville acts. "First National" pictures will be presented.

Norma is Back
Norma Talmadge has returned to Los Angeles from the Math-ewson ranch fifty miles out of the city, where the Battle of Jarnac was filmed for her latest production, "Ashes of Vengeance." The company of over 2000 horses and the cast of the screen were "Every man for himself," shouted Sidney Franklin, Con-stance's director, when Mr. Burns appeared on the set. After watching the filming of some scenes from "Dulcy," Con-stance's latest comedy, Mr. Burns attended a preview of "Within the Law," the famous stage play which has been finished for the screen with Norma Tal-madge in the principal role.

In a Blaze of Generosity
Carmelita Geraghty believes in leaving a favorable last impression. She rose to great heights as an obliging friend Saturday in the Cosmopolitan film, "The Daughter of Mother McGinn," while she holds cast ast helness, when she conducted Colleen Moore, star of the production through the various levels of her mansion, thus giving her a fine idea of easy entrances and exits for a midnight robbery later! With the aid of Mr. and Mrs. Geraghty, Miss Geraghty completed her work in the picture. From the Good Will mission she immediately went to Lasky's where she has been working in "Hollywood."

Bureaus Consolidate
Harry St. Alwyn, manager of the Service Bureau, and Dave变革 Talent, have consolidated their bureaus and their two talent-supplying agen-cies are now being operated as one bureau, known as "New Talent." This was entered into last Monday, and thus early it is said to be successful.

Chaplin In Comedy Role
The only humorous note in Marshall Neilan's intense drama, "The Rendezvous," now being produced at the Goldwyn studio, will be supplied by Sydney Chalwyn's brother of the illus-trious Charley. In the part of an English "Tommy" stationed in Russia, Syd is in his element as a non-Nellian's direction, is expected to add new laurels to the name of Chaplin.

Comedy Route is Sure
Add to the list of girls who have received their start up the movie ladder through the one-reel comedy the name of Peggy O'Day, now being featured in the serial, "The Fighting Skipper." Betty Compson, Bebe Daniels, Louise Fazenda, Mabel Nor-mand, Mary Thurman and many other girls who broke into the film via comics and are now making names for themselves in feature production.

Mystery of Noted Family
Harry Mestayer is the only living member of the oldest the-arical family on the American stage. His father was Charles H. Mestayer, his uncle W. W. Mestayer and his aunt, Emily Mestayer. These played with the most famous stars of their day—Booth, Davenport, Forrest and Fanny Davenport. Mestayer is taking the part of Charles Big-low, the newEntered business in the Trimble-Murfin Produc-tion, "The Sign," directed by Jane Murfin and Justin H. McCloskey.

Warning to Actors
Warning notice to actors, if you wish to go to the Goldwyn cast-offices, and Robert B. McIn-tyre, with a faraway look in his eye says: "What team did you play on last year, and what was your batting average?" don't think the casting chief has gone "cooey."

You see, "Bob" was for sev-eral years obviously the assistant manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, be-tween his seasons as manager of the Walnut Street Theatre, and along about this time each year the old yearning comes on, for the days when he was casting players and scoring roses, instead of leads, inreuses and "heavies."

Wagner Finishes One
Director Rob Wagner an-nounces the completion of the Paramount comedy-drama, "Fair Week," starring Walter Hiers. The jovial comedian is highly interested in the tale, and his sympatetic role he has termi-nated, and wishes to assure the public that his latest vehicle will be a riot of fun throughout.

Elion Fair at Metro
Elion Fair has signed to play Marthe in Metro's allstar pro-duction, "The Eagle's Feather." With Miss Fair in the cast are: James Kirkwood, Johnny Lester Cuneo, George Seigman and Barbara La Marr. Miss Fair is just recently returned from New York where she made "Driven," the sensational photo-play which played here recently.

Uses Vanilla for Perfume
"Bull" Montana read the paper the other day that during the past year the people of the United States spent more than $50,000,000 on cosmetics and per-fume alone. Of the rough-lew Metro comedy star has been saturating his clothes with vanilla extract instead of his usual favorite mildly scented oriental brand. Only "Bulls"-spartan-like public spirit caused him to make the change.

Prize Beauty Scores
Hazel Keener, who was award-ed, by a jury of artists selected by the Tribune, actor, a prize of $1,000 as the most beautiful woman in the state of Ohio, has been chosen by Maurice Prentiss, a worthy one for forthcoming production, "The Brass Bottle." As an Oriental princess of Solomon's day, Miss Keener has a magnificent oppor-tunity to display the beauty which won her the Tribune prize by later the first prize at the International Photographic Fair in London.

Day and Night
Shannon Day returned this week to Hollywood from New York where she had gone re-cently to play a part in a new William Nigh production, pro-duced at Metro's eastern studios. "Bumpy street" for all that she had hoped, while in the east, to have time between calls to the set to see all of the new plays on Broadway and to ac-quire all the new zorns on Fifth avenue, engagements in Holly-wood. "Well, it's over now," said Miss Day back to the west coast with these unprofessional aspirations but partly fulfilled. "I'm just not up to that kind of mind," said Miss Day, "because the part the direc-tor had for me was so inter-esting they wish it pos-sible to think of anything else while I was playing it."

Edward Knoblock, playwright, and Hugh Walpole, English novelist and lecturer, were the guests of Mr. Ingram at the Metro studio one afternoon re-cently during the filming of one of the scenes in his present endeavor, "Searaouche."

This is Supposed to be Funny
The services of four men are required to operate flint-lock pis-tols such as are being used in "Searaouche." Rex Ingram's newest production for Metro, the period of which is Paris in 1789—389—where the French Revolution, According to Mr. Ingram, one man is required to hold the pis-tol, another to see that the flint is always in the correct spot, a third to hold the victim while the preparations for shoot-ing are taking place and a fourth to hold the victim's head in the proper position and book him in the very possible event that the bullet fails to egress from the proper end of the fire-arm.

Some Auction Sale
A unique auction sale of beautiful women took place in Holly-wood this week. Carmel Myers was sold to Bertram Thomas for the equivalent of $15 in American money and Bert-ram proceeded forthwith to take the fair Carmel off to his Harem. William P. S. Earle served as master of ceremonies and it all happened at the Hollywood studios where Director Earle is making the film production "Tut-ankhamen." Grassby is playing the part of King Tut Himseld, while Carmel Myers is portray-ing the role of a slave girl. Also in the cast are Malcolm Mc Gregor, Anthony Merio Sam, Jack Grasse, Iris Ashone and John Elvidge.

Jackie an Earnest Pupil
It is not often that a child of the silent drama is a brilliant scholar in school tasks as well. However, this holds true insofar as Jackie Coogan is concerned. Jackie has a private tutor who is on the "set" with him at all times. Whenever the starlet completes a scene, his feet fly back to his little desk and books. It is not an effort to make Jackie Coogan concentrate on his studies. He is a delightful student, always desiring to accomplish his work in educational lines with the same spirit and eager-ness with which he handles camera duties. At the age of eight, Jackie Coogan is in the fourth grade and is making fast strides. Jackie's next First National attraction will be "Circus Days," adapted from a famous story by "Toby Tyler" or 10 Weeks with a Cir-cus."
WRIGHT CONSIDERS MISS VIDO AN IDEAL

Florence Vidor is to enact the role of Barbara Worth in the screen version of Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel. And to Miss Vidor goes the honor of being highly congratulated for her success of having none less personable than the author himself.

Harold Bell Wright paid Los Angeles a brief visit, chiefly the purpose of which was to confer with Sol Lesser and Michael Rosenberg of Principal Pictures Corporation, who have purchased the screen rights to all of the writer's novels.

"I feel that Florence Vidor is ideal for this part of Barbara," said Wright to Lesser. "I seem to see her when I wrote the story. She fits every requirement and I assure her of greater success in her career than I ever expected for her..."

Miss Vidor is the first to be selected for the cast of "Barbara Worth," which will be the initial novel filmed in the Harold Bell Wright series. The production is to be put upon the silver screen in a big way from beginning to end. The entire company plan to leave for the desert with a few weeks and under the direction of Edward F. Clune, will film all exteriors for one of the largest photo-productions of the coming year.

The principal Pictures Corporation officials have given careful orders to follow the book in every detail. Countless thousands of people have read this Wright novel and the film company plans to keep every bit of action and all episodes true to the pages that form this popular western. The locations will be identical to those pictured by Harold Bell Wright and the film folk will even go so far as to use all available "characters" that are still alive and whom Wright used in writing his story.

Actual filming is scheduled to begin the end of this month.

Kinema Theater Bookings

The Kinema Theater in Los Angeles, first run house of the West Coast Theaters, Inc., anticipates a season of box office booming with its lineup of "First National" pictures. Norma Talmadge in "Within The Law," has opened, to be followed by Jackie Coogan in "Daddy." Richard Dix, the hollowness and Dorothy Gish in "The Bright Shawl" and Edwin Carew's production of M. Scott's production "Daughters of the Rich;" Constance Talmadge in "Dulcy;" and Dorothy Phillips in Allen Holubar's production "Slender The Woman." The week's exhibits is "River Nile Comes to San Pedro," the famous river Nile is being built in replica down to the finest detail, in the William P. D. Earle production "Tutankhamen." Rarities of the type of over thirty centuries ago are being viewed with interest by the natives of Los Angeles harbor city. Playing in these scenes are Bertram Thomas Grasby who portrays the title role; Carrol Myers, Malcolm McGregor and a host of extras.

WHEREIN DAD'S FOOTSTEPS WOULDN'T DO

It was all mapped out that Lloyd Hughes "would follow in father's footsteps" and be a civil engineer, but the youngster—for that was all he was at that time—had different ideas as to his future.

Lloyd had an ambition to be an actor. Not a screen actor but a stage tragedian.

"I wanted to play dramatic stage parts where I could thrill my audiences and overcome the coldness of my voice," the male lead in First National's "The Hunchback" declared. "I wanted to portray villainous characters that strangled the hero or turned the old couple from their home into a swamp. But because they could not pay their rent.

"And so I went to dramatic school to learn the art of being a deep-dyed villain. Then, when I thought I had mastered the profession I began to look around to find an opportunity to make my stage debut. But the opportunity was slow in coming."

"I would get, I thought, a movie extra, and then would watch for my chance to get a real stage part. But I lost my desire for the stage as soon as I mixed myself up in the running of the camera. Right then and there I decided to stick to film acting."

He continued for a year in "bit" parts, he explained, until King Vidor singled him out for a more important part. From then on it was clear sailing for the talented young player.

Hughes was played the male lead in some of the screen's most notable successes. His most recent pictures were "The Trench in the Desert," "The Home-coming," "Hail the Woman," "Scars of Jealousy," "Tess of the Storm Country," "Are You a Failure?" and "Children of Dust," the last a Frank Borzage-First National picture, which has not yet been released.

It was his excellent work in this First National picture that won him his contract to play in "The Hunchback," which is also to be released by this company. He will play opposite Colleen Moore.

Actors Justify Title

When the taxi-cab in which Harry S. Northrup and George Hackathorne have been dashing frantically through Los Angeles streets during the past three weeks, ran head-on into a Santa Fe train last Sunday, the final scene in their first play "Thos. H. Ince's anti-narcotic picture was completed.

The appearance of Northrup and Hackathorne after this scene fully justifies the title "Human Wreckage."

HOLLYWOOD FULL OF ACTORS WITH ROYAL TITLES

French history seems suddenly to have assumed a tremendous interest for the producer of films, and Crofts are many. Comtes, and Ducs and Rois nowadays, that a director has to have the history of the Gallic monarchs as well as a map to know exactly who is who.

Two features that assume especial prominence dealing with entirely different periods are now in process of production. One of these is "Ashes of Vengeance," starring Norma Talmadge, which opens with the Barlahome's Eve Masacre, and the other in "Scaramouche," which ends with the Fall of the Bastille and the spectacular beginning of the French revolution.

"Ashes of Vengeance," which is being produced by Joseph M. Schenck of The New Line National Pictures, Inc., is in a sense the more glamorous of the two, because the scenes now in the making are laid in the palaces and the chateaux of the aristocracy. "Scaramouche" offers a vivid contrast just now in its sketching of the life of the people. Many county grandees are to follow.

In "Ashes of Vengeance," which is being directed by Frank Lloyd, Norma Talmadge will have one of the most brilliant roles of her career as Mlle. Yolande de Brueux. Conway Tearle has the principal role opposite her, that of Rupert de Briac. Their romance is the central interest of the story, which concerns a plan for revenge that comes to naught because its fire is swept away by y a finer humanism.

Wallace Beery has one of his most important roles since he was seen in "Robin Hood," as the D'cou de Tours. He is, of course, the villain of the story, while Josephine Crowell as Catherine de Medici is one of the chief intriguers.

Geldert Recovers

While riding a horse in a scene of "Richard The Lion Hearted," Clarence H. Geldert suffered internal injuries which necessitated an operation. The many friends of Mr. Geldert were happy to hear of the success of the accident. He is, of course, the villain of the story, while Josephine Crowell as Catherine de Medici is one of the chief intriguers.

While riding a horse in a scene of "Richard The Lion Hearted," Clarence H. Geldert suffered internal injuries which necessitated an operation. The many friends of Mr. Geldert were happy to hear of the success of the accident. He is, of course, the villain of the story, while Josephine Crowell as Catherine de Medici is one of the chief intriguers.
Who's Who and What's What in Filmland This Week

Harry Myers, Margaret Seddon and Wyndham Standing have been engaged by the Warner Brothers to support Johnny Hines in "Little Johnny Jones."

Mary Jane Sanderson, who played "Blow Your Own Horn," has purchased a new bungalow in the Hollywood hills.

David Belasco and Lenore Ulric, the Belasco star, have planned to arrive at the Warner Brothers studios in Los Angeles on June 4 to begin the filming of "The Roxy," of which Miss Ulric will be starred.

Charlie Chauvel, the young Australian actor-journalist, is at present on the Fred Niblo lot as an understudy to the production work during the filming of "The Roxy." Charlie says it is the most interesting time he has had since crossing the big pond twelve months ago.

Ethel Clayton is busy perusing manuscripts and stories for possible future productions. Miss Clayton spends part of every day in her library, which has taken the aspect of a correspondence school. She will shortly begin work on her next B. O. starring vehicle.

Rockliffe Fellows, popular leading man who scored so heavily in Marshall Neilan's "Stirrings of'Spuntet," has returned from a flying trip to New York City and his home in Canada, and is at work in the Thomas-Murfin Production. "The Siren," which is being made with an all-star cast under the direction of Jane Murfin and Justin H. McCloskey.

Here is a real one for a cameraman. In 1915 King Gray, who is photographing Jane Murfin and Jane Cowl's play, "The Siren," was secured by film Carter de Haven's first picture. When work started, Gray found his star had one brown eye and one blue one. It took some work to figure out the lighting but Gray got away with it and made them both register brown.

The only woman producer-author-continent writer-director in the industry, Jane Murfin is now being hailed in Hollywood where, with Justin H. McCloskey, she is filming "The Siren," a play by Mrs. Murfin and Jane Cowl. The all-star cast includes such names as May Adra, Rockliffe Fellows, Harry Mestayer and Edward Everett Horton. Eddie Phillips, Tommy O'Brien and Vern Reynolds have also been signed for important parts.

Frances Raymond is nearing the end of her engagement in "The Mooney Man in the House" in which she plays the mother of Bert Lytell, one of the featured players.

Coy Watson, well-known child artist, whose latest hit is scored in "Ham" Hamilton's comedy, "No Luck," has just recovered from a severe case of tonsillitis and will resume his studio activities this week.

The fan mail of Lloyd Hughes has been more than tripled since the general release of "The Roxy" and "Storm Country," in which he played the leading male role opposite America's sweetheart.

Another child screen artist may be presented with a contract for his histronic efforts in "The Roxy." Charlie Chaplin is said to be the most interesting time he has had since crossing the big pond twelve months ago.

Ethel Clayton is busy perusing manuscripts and stories for possible future productions. Miss Clayton spends part of every day in her library, which has taken the aspect of a correspondence school. She will shortly begin work on her next B. O. starring vehicle.

Pierre Collings and Joseph Du Bray are nearing the completion of the Robertson-Cole production of "Blow Your Own Horn" under the direction of Jas. W. Horne. Warner Baxter, Dereklyl Ferruse and Ralph Press lead the cast. Some marvelous photography is promised when the production is completed.

"Lights Out," adapted to the screen by Rex Taylor from the stage play by Paul Dickey and Attenbook, has gone into production at the Powers studios under the direction of James W. Horne with an all-star cast including Ruth Stonehouse, Walter McSail, Theodore von Eltz and Marie Astaire and many others.

Alan Hale, who is now in the headlines as a result of his re-markable performances in "Robin Hood" and "The Covered-Wagon," and who is now supporting Jackie Coogan in "Long Live the King," will vacation three weeks, immediately upon the completion of his present contract. This will be the first rest Mr. Hale has enjoyed in three years.

It takes Arthur Edmond Car-ew, who is playing the difficult supporting role of the master of the forthcoming "Tribly," four hours to apply his "make-up" each morning before appearing before the camera. This production care’s initial attempt to portray a character role, having sketches of the stories as a basis for his presentation.

Mary Alden, who has the leading feminine role in Metro’s all-star picturization of "The Eagle's Feather," was warned by the writer before she began her screen career.

Gertrude Astor, former stage beauty, who made her screen debut as Mary Pickford’s mother in "Through the Back Door," has been engaged to play an important role in a new John M. Stahl production, "The Wantons."

William Orlamond, "TheFrank Bacon of the Screen," is a veteran of the Spanish-American War. He is now appearing in a comedy characterization in Metro’s all-star production of "The Brothers.

The final scenes for "The Brothers," directed by one of the super-normal, are now being filmed under the direction of Duke Worne. Ann Little, who is an excellent horsewoman and has successfully demonstrated her ability to interpret difficult roles, is to be found in the serial with Fred Thoms-son.

Helen Keeler, who has acted as leading woman for many of the screen’s best-known comedians, and who recently completed a full year’s engagement as leading woman for Jimmy Aubrey, has been signed for the feminine role in a new series of two-reel comedies starring Milburn Moranti, the former girl, which has been titled "Cakes."

Johnny Walker, whose immense performance in "Over the Hill" has endeared him in the hearts of thousands of screen-lovers, is to appear in one more picture before resuming the production of his own films at the Robertson-Cole studios. The picture which is to mark his last appearance as a free-lance artist is "Broken Hearts of Broadway," which Irving Cummings is directing and producing. Johnny Walker has the juvenile lead in this picture.

Barbara leMarr, Montague Love and a number of other prominent screen personalities, will leave New York May 25 for Rome to play in a film adapta- tion of Hall Caine’s "Eternal City," which George B. Seitz is to make for Sam Goldwyn—First National Release. The scenes of this famous Hall Caine masterpiece will be taken in and about the Italian capital. Some of the most important will be among the ruins of the colli- seum.

A touch of unusual realism is provided in the interior castle settings for Rex Ingram’s pro- duction of "A Woman's Passion," that the floors are actually inlaid hardwood, highly varnished and polished.

Actual filming has been started on Cecil B. DeMille’s latest super-production for Paramount, entitled "The Ten Commandments." Loretta Jost, star in "Java Head," and who won high praise in "Manslaughter," is sharing stel- lar honors with Owen Moore.

Peggy Browne, late Poli- dancer who scored a decided hit with her terpsichorean specialties while a member of Ziegfeld’s New York troupe, has broken all speed records for reaching stellar honors in mo- tion pictures. Peggy Browne’s latest movie debut in motion pic- tures a few months ago and is now one of the leading artists in the ranks of leading women. Her latest engagement is with Uni- versal in whose picture, "McQuire of the Mounted," she has the feminine lead opposite William Desmond.

John Henry, scion of one of Boston’s wealthiest families who made a trip to Hollywood spe- cially for the purpose of breaking into pictures, portrayed in Defense of the poor down-trod- den flapper. At least, young Henry disagrees with a garment manufacturer who recently de- clared in the press that flappers are poor workers. He says he was only a tickle girl and that she worked him for a big feed, the swellest show in town, a dinner after the show and that then she deserted him for another man’s company.

"Why De We Live?" a story vividly exposing the evils of capital punishment, and a sequel to "The Greatest Menace," a story based on the narcotic traffic, is creating considerable attention in Hollywood film circles. The picture is being produced by James Calnay who has assigned the leading role in the play to Don Armando, a native of Spain, who for several years was a well known figure on the legitimate stage in Madrid. Among others in the cast are Dorothy Dunlap, Martha Marshall and little Philippo De Lacy.

Edward Gibbon has one of the most important roles of his career "After the Ball," a story dealing with society life, which is being produced at the Univer- sal studios by the Renzo Film Company. Gibbon is being seriously considered for the title role in "Ben Hur."
“Pulse of the Studios”

Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, May 14

Cameral! intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-869

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Eddie Lyons</td>
<td>Eugene De Rue</td>
<td>Bobby Dunn</td>
<td>Ben Wilson Productions (Federated release)</td>
<td>Ben Wilson</td>
<td>Earl Turner</td>
<td>Evelyn Campbell</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Regent Film Company.</td>
<td>(United Artists release).</td>
<td>Charles Chaplin</td>
<td>Edna Purviance</td>
<td>Rollin Totheroh</td>
<td>Eddie Sutherland</td>
<td>Monta Bell</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHAPLIN STUDIO.</td>
<td>Alfred Reaves, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>1416 La Brea Ave.</td>
<td>Holly 4070</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHOOSE STUDIO. 6044 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>Holly 439-764</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Revere Productions.</td>
<td>Harry Revere</td>
<td>Doris Reyer</td>
<td>Stilwell</td>
<td>Joe Murphy</td>
<td>Walter McNamara</td>
<td>“Supreme Test”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Carlisle Productions.</td>
<td>Jack Carlisle</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>G. E. Rine</td>
<td>Thayer Roberts</td>
<td>Ben D. Maders</td>
<td>Staff</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sherwood MacDonald Productions.</td>
<td>Sherwood MacDonald</td>
<td>Alberta Joy</td>
<td>Beckway</td>
<td>Eddie Saunders</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Swickard Productions.</td>
<td>Charles Swickard</td>
<td>Joel Swickard</td>
<td>Better Picture Association</td>
<td>Superior Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Natasha Navarro Productions</td>
<td>Better Picture Association</td>
<td>Superior Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>West Coast Productions.</td>
<td>Norbert Myres</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Al Breaux</td>
<td>Glen Lambert</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>“Why Do We Live”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FINE ARTS STUDIOS.</td>
<td>Individual Casting.</td>
<td>4500 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>598-165</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mission Film Co.</td>
<td>Norman Walker, Business Mgr.</td>
<td>David Kirkland</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>David Abel</td>
<td>Chas. Hamm</td>
<td>Wallace Clifton</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fred Caldwell Productions.</td>
<td>Fred Caldwell Productions.</td>
<td>(Western Pictures Exploitation).</td>
<td>Henry McCarthy</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Floyd Jackman</td>
<td>Chas. Mack</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sacramento Pictures Corp.</td>
<td>Forrest White, Vice-Pres. &amp; Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Finis Fox Productions</td>
<td>Finis Fox Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sunset Productions.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Hollywood, A. Bradbury, All-Star</th>
<th>1401 N. Western Ave.</th>
<th>Fred Kley, Studio Mgr.</th>
<th>Hollywood 3000</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Buckingham</td>
<td>Stock</td>
<td>Ernest S. Depew</td>
<td>Staff</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Al John</td>
<td>Al St. John</td>
<td>Jay Turner</td>
<td>Benno Stoeloff</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nim Summerville</td>
<td>Clyde Cook</td>
<td>Tom Mix</td>
<td>Don Clark</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Bistone</td>
<td>Bernard Dunning</td>
<td>Dill Jones</td>
<td>Eugene Forde</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ben Paper</td>
<td>Lowery</td>
<td>Wm. Russell</td>
<td>Ed Berndt</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Gilbert</td>
<td>Jack Ford</td>
<td>Joe August</td>
<td>Wm. Parnam</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GARSON STUDIOS. 1845 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td>Wilshire 81</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

For Week Starting Monday, May 14
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>B. McIntyre</td>
<td>Casting</td>
<td>Culver City</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDWYN STUDIO</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Von Stroheim</td>
<td>Ben Reynolds</td>
<td>Eddie Sautner</td>
<td>Mathis Von Stroheim</td>
<td>“Greed”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R. B. McIntyre</td>
<td>Casting</td>
<td>Charles P. Brahm</td>
<td>John Morrell</td>
<td>A. I. Halsey</td>
<td>Ida Rase</td>
<td>“Six Days”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monte Banks Productions, Inc.</td>
<td>Joe Fox</td>
<td>Marshall Novak</td>
<td>David J. Weid</td>
<td>Thomas Hold</td>
<td>Frank Scritta</td>
<td>“The Rendezvous”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sid Smith Productions, Inc.</td>
<td>Joe Bock</td>
<td>Tod Browning</td>
<td>Nino Mietta</td>
<td>Ennio Taggart</td>
<td>Kaye Kavanagh</td>
<td>“The Pay of Fame”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cosmopolitan Productions</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Edward G. Robinson</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>“Master of Men”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG.</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John D. Daw</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>“In the Shadow of the King”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS</td>
<td>J. Jasper</td>
<td>Richard Thomas Productions</td>
<td>Jack Puims</td>
<td>Nerval MacGregor</td>
<td>Burton-Misley</td>
<td>Drama</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Special Efforts</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Lloyd Burnham</td>
<td>Douglas M. Leach</td>
<td>Geo. Crane</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Irving Cummings Productions</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Charles Woollstenhulme, Production Manager</td>
<td>Jack Diamond</td>
<td>Woollstenhulme</td>
<td>Hope Loring</td>
<td>“Broken Hearts of Broadway”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Victor B. Fisher Productions</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Glen McWilliam</td>
<td>Theodore Joos</td>
<td>“Youth Triumphant”</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supremi Art Productions</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Horace Williams, Casting</td>
<td>Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>Culver City</td>
<td>761731</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INCE STUDIO</td>
<td>J. Hall</td>
<td>Associated Authors, Inc.</td>
<td>Joe Walker</td>
<td>Claude Mitchell</td>
<td>Frank Woods</td>
<td>“Richard, the Lion Hearted”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount Productions</td>
<td>Palmer Photeplay Productions</td>
<td>Chester Withey, All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cortland Productions</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>J. Griffith Wray, Mrs. Reid</td>
<td>Henry Sharp</td>
<td>J. Gary Eberhardt</td>
<td>C. Gardner Sullivan</td>
<td>“Human Wreckage”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tramble-Murfin Productions</td>
<td>Strongheart</td>
<td>Laurence Trimble</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>King Gray</td>
<td>C. B. Dreyer</td>
<td>“The Sign”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LASKY STUDIOS</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Charlie Chaplin</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Lloyd Ingham</td>
<td>Douglas M. Leach</td>
<td>“Phantom Park”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount Pictures</td>
<td>Paramount Pictures</td>
<td>Jack Biondo</td>
<td>Wells Hastings</td>
<td>“To the Ladies”</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(Famous Players-Lasky Release.)</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Jack E. Hulbert</td>
<td>Frank Brandon</td>
<td>“Children of Jazz”</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All-Stars</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Paul Tinsley</td>
<td>Vernon Keyes</td>
<td>“Hollywood”</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Ben Turpin</td>
<td>Stella Mabel</td>
<td>Wilder and Young</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cosmo</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Charles B. Langhorn</td>
<td>Nellie Stewart</td>
<td>“Salome”</td>
<td>“Salome”</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tramble-Murfin Productions</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Jack E. B. Johnson</td>
<td>Bert Bridge</td>
<td>Baden Caron</td>
<td>“Scarecrow”</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supremi Art Productions</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>J. B. Seaton</td>
<td>Leo Tiersen</td>
<td>Bates Schroeder</td>
<td>“Fair Week”</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LASKY STUDIOS</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>George Melford</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Bert Baldridge</td>
<td>Joe Mowry</td>
<td>“To the Last Man”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAYER-SCHULBERG STUDIO</td>
<td>1520 Vine St.</td>
<td>Louis B. Mayer Productions</td>
<td>“Metro release.”</td>
<td>“Metro release.”</td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 2400</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metro Pictures</td>
<td>Metro Pictures</td>
<td>Reginald Park</td>
<td>Percy Hibbun</td>
<td>Harry Schenck</td>
<td>Monte Katterjohn</td>
<td>“The Master of Women”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Preferred Pictures Corp.</td>
<td>B. P. Schulberg, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>“The Master of Women”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(Al Lichtman Release.)</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Tom Forman</td>
<td>Harry Perry</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>“The Master of Women”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Lonza Ganser</td>
<td>Carl Strass</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>“The Master of Women”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Violette Scherzinger</td>
<td>Willliam Bruce</td>
<td>Frank Good</td>
<td>Mary Ada Eichler</td>
<td>“Long Live the King”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MANSFIELD STUDIO</td>
<td>Romaine and Chauvina Ave.</td>
<td>Harry Kerr, Casting</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>METRO STUDIO</td>
<td>Holly 4483</td>
<td>Harold Shaw</td>
<td>Charles D'Amato</td>
<td>John Arnold</td>
<td>Frank Strayer</td>
<td>“Rouged Lips”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rex Ingram Productions</td>
<td>Metro release.</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Percy Hibbun</td>
<td>Harry Schenck</td>
<td>Monte Katterjohn</td>
<td>“The Master of Women”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt Stromberg Productions</td>
<td>Metro Release.</td>
<td>“Metro release.”</td>
<td>John Soltz</td>
<td>Curt Reifeld</td>
<td>Willis Goldbeck</td>
<td>“Scarecrow”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edward Soman Productions</td>
<td>Edward Soman Productions</td>
<td>“Metro release.”</td>
<td>“Metro release.”</td>
<td>Curt Reifeld</td>
<td>Willis Goldbeck</td>
<td>“Scarecrow”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc.</td>
<td>Jackie Coogan</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>“Metro release.”</td>
<td>John Soltz</td>
<td>Curt Reifeld</td>
<td>“Scarecrow”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Victor Scherzinger</td>
<td>Metro Pictures</td>
<td>Jackie Coogan</td>
<td>“Metro release.”</td>
<td>John Soltz</td>
<td>Curt Reifeld</td>
<td>“Scarecrow”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NATIONAL STUDIO</td>
<td>1116 Lodi St.</td>
<td>Technicolor M. P. Corp.</td>
<td>C. A. Willat, Mgr.</td>
<td>“Metro release.”</td>
<td>Metro Pictures</td>
<td>Color Photography</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PICKFORD FAIRBANKS STUDIOS</td>
<td>Individual Casting</td>
<td>Mary Hannah</td>
<td>G. C. Wake</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists Release</td>
<td>7100 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>Holley 7901</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R-C STUDIO</td>
<td>780 Gower St.</td>
<td>Helene Hubert</td>
<td>Mary Pickford</td>
<td>Charles Rosher</td>
<td>Jim Townsend</td>
<td>Ed. Knoblock</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>EDSTUDIO</td>
<td>780 Gower St.</td>
<td>Harold Goodwin</td>
<td>Harold Goodwin</td>
<td>Harold Goodwin</td>
<td>Harold Goodwin</td>
<td>Harold Goodwin</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RAY STUDIO</td>
<td>Albert A. Kidder, Jr., Gen’l Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Sensational Bargains
At Filmland's Wardrobe Shop

$35 Pink Taffeta Evening Dress, Pearl Trimmed, size 36, only $29.00
Tan-and-Brown Silk Dress.......... $10.50
Beautiful Blue Tricotine Suit, Small 36 $19.00

Screen Stars Wardrobe Exchange
2006 Ivar Avenue
(in the brown residence on the corner)

All Legal Matters
Attorney and Counselor at Law
JACK P. LEONARD
340 Douglas Bldg. Consultation Free
Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone 659-42

Works of Art from China and Japan
Oriental Costume Co.
6223 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 5954

Minor Blythe
Attorney-at-Law
Suite 620 Pacific Finance Bldg.
Los Angeles
Telephone 134-88

HOOVER STUDIOS
6321 Hollywood Boulevard
Telephone Holly 9161
Only the Finest Types of Professional Photography
All Sittings Made by Appointment

Reproductions
Publicity
Still Finishing
Photography
LITTLE
Commercial Photographer
Phone 437902
5874 Hollywood Blvd. Corner Bronson

Animated Cartoons—Original Title Ideas—
Clay Animation—Miniaure Sets and Animated Figures
Cinema Arts Studio
ELMER H. YOUNG, Mgr.
612 Lissner Bldg. Phone 644-42

Jack Mulhall who is Constance Talmadge's leading man in "Dulcy," now being filmed for First National, told a story this week of his early struggles to reach the top of the theatrical ladder.

"In 1911," says Jack, "the stock company in which I was leading man stranded at Es-canada, Michigan. None of the company had any money and I was flat broke. I went down to the docks where dockhands on a Lake Michigan freighter gave me a good meal after I sang 'Dearie,' 'I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now' and a few other popular songs.

"I was a husky kid and they finally gave me a job shoveling coal on the freighter.
When the boat arrived in Chicago I was a fearful looking sight. I took a bath and put on my best clothes and went around the Blackstone Theatre where James K. Hackett was appearing in "The Grain of Salt." Hackett looked at my eyes still fringed with a black border of coal dust which I hadn't succeeded in removing.

"I see you've come all nude up and ready to go on," he said. "Well I have a part which you will fit into, as the juvenile is still.
You're make up is fine but you need a little more rouage on your cheeks. You're rather pale; haven't you been eating regularly?"

Marion Warde
Acting and Make-Up for Stage and Motion Pictures. A Legitimate, Practical School of Results. Classical, Character, Ballet, and Step-Dacin.
423-4 Music Arts Bldg. Telephone 231-181
233 So. Broadway

C A M E R A

"Make-up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry"

In addition to our make-up and hair goods we carry a complete line of the highest grade toilet preparations from recognized manufacturers the world over. This is additional evidence of the unsurpassed service we can render professional people.

819 South Hill Street
Telephone Pico 498

QUICK MONEY RELEASE!
Producers—Active or Prospective—Get in Touch with a LIVE One
H. and B. Film Company

FUR RUGS. FUR ROBES. FUR STORAGE AND RENOVATING
MOUNTINGS OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS

COLBURNS TAXIDERMY STUDIO
933-935 South Broadway
Telephone 643-13

S U N S E T T A X I
577-994 578-280

MOTION PICTURE STUDIO FOR RENT
Open Stage, 100' x 100'; Open Stage, 60' x 100'; Dark Stage, 125' long; 26
Dressing Rooms; Carpenter Shop; Paint Shop; Projection Room; Dark Room; Modern
Cinema Building; Flats; Props; Can divide. Corner Venice Boulevard and Durango, next to Fulmer Junction, Culver City. Open for inspection.
FRED L. HUNT, Owner
333 Title Insurance Bldg.
For permanent tenant $750 per month

BROADWAY 695

WANTED—4 room house, unfurnished, centrally located in Hollywood. Must be reasonable rent. References exchanged. Los Angeles.
Phone Boyle 5571

For Rent or Sale, Moving Picture Studio, fully equipped, particularly adapted to comedy work. A real small, reasonable rent, or will sell cheap. Phone Washington 360.

BELL AND HOWELL CAMERA FOR RENT.
179-48 SHUTTER. TELEPHONE 259-164.

LOST OR STOLEN—From Metro Studio, one
burnt tinfoil head, looks like a standard Bell and Howell head, only larger. Of no value to anyone except the owner. REWARD.
Technicolor Motion Picture Corp. Hollywood
4711.

AVAILABLE NOW. BELL & HOWELL WITH COMPLETE, STUDIO EQUIPMENT, BLAINE WALKER, 914 SOUTH OLIVE STREET, TELEPHONE MAIN 3746.

FOR RENT—Bell & Howell camera, 120
shutter, full equipment, excellent condition.
Phone 577-874.

FOR RENT—High-grade still outfit, $5.00 per week. Little, The Big Photographer, 8574
Hollywood Boulevard. Phone 437-802.

MOTION PICTURE STUDIO FOR RENT
Open Stage, 100' x 100'; Open Stage, 60' x 100'; Dark Stage, 125' long; 26
Dressing Rooms; Carpenter Shop; Paint Shop; Projection Room; Dark Room; Modern Cinema Building; Flats; Props. Can divide. Corner Venice Boulevard and Durango, near Culver Junction, Culver City. Open for inspection.
FRED L. HUNT, Owner
333 Title Insurance Bldg.
For permanent tenant $750 per month

BROADWAY 695

WANTED—4 room house, unfurnished, centrally located in Hollywood. Must be reasonable rent. References exchanged. Los Angeles.
Phone Boyle 5571

For Rent or Sale, Moving Picture Studio, fully equipped, particularly adapted to comedy work. A real small, reasonable rent, or will sell cheap. Phone Washington 360.

BELL AND HOWELL CAMERA FOR RENT.
179-48 SHUTTER. TELEPHONE 259-164.

LOST OR STOLEN—From Metro Studio, one
burnt tinfoil head, looks like a standard Bell and Howell head, only larger. Of no value
to anyone except the owner. REWARD.
Technicolor Motion Picture Corp. Hollywood
4711.

AVAILABLE NOW. BELL & HOWELL WITH COMPLETE, STUDIO EQUIPMENT, BLAINE WALKER, 914 SOUTH OLIVE STREET, TELEPHONE MAIN 3746.

FOR RENT—Bell & Howell camera, 120
shutter, full equipment, excellent condition.
Phone 577-874.

FOR RENT—High-grade still outfit, $5.00 per week. Little, The Big Photographer, 8574
Hollywood Boulevard. Phone 437-802.

MOTION PICTURE STUDIO FOR RENT
Open Stage, 100' x 100'; Open Stage, 60' x 100'; Dark Stage, 125' long; 26
Dressing Rooms; Carpenter Shop; Paint Shop; Projection Room; Dark Room; Modern Cinema Building; Flats; Props. Can divide. Corner Venice Boulevard and Durango, near Culver Junction, Culver City. Open for inspection.
FRED L. HUNT, Owner
333 Title Insurance Bldg.
For permanent tenant $750 per month

BROADWAY 695
The Golden Butterfly
Where Santa Monica Canyon
Meets the Sea
Chicken Dinner
- $2.00
Steak of Halt, Virginia Ham
- 1.50
Catering in Social Affairs a Specialty
Telephone 21741

Night and Day
Phones 573-08
H. W. WALL, M.D.
Physician and Surgeon
Highest Credentials and Practice
Post-graduate of Chicago and New York
Hours 2 to 5 and 6 to 8 Hollywood Blvd, by appointment Hollywood - Calif.

Reed Heustis and Sherley Hunter
in collaboration
Comedy-Drama
TITLES and Continuities
$16 Detwiler Bldg.
Phone 665-89

Rapid, efficient, thorough. National types of all kinds. A special department for children. The same care is given in the selection of supporting atmosphere as is given to the cast.

"Service to Producer and Justice to Performer"
The Service Bureau
1036 South Hill
Phone 821-071

YOUR PHONOGRAPH
will reproduce in soft Mellow Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a Deflexograph
Fits any Phonograph or Victrola
Using Changeable Needles
Play after hours — will not disturb.
Deflexograph attaches to needle holder, filters sound oscillations, prevents scratch and surface noises entering sound box. No metallic noises.

Gold Plate
Post paid
$1.56
(See Cut)
Nickel Plate
$1.00
VANTONE CO, Dept. 416
110 W. 15th St.
New York, N. Y.

Casts of the Week

BEN WILSON PRODUCTIONS presents the following cast and organization for "MINE TO KEEP"
A feature production scenarized by Evelyn Campbell
Director, Ben Wilson
Assistant Director, Earl Turner
Production Manager, Ashton Dearholt
Art Director, R. E. Hickson
Cameraman, Eddie Lindon
CAST
Bryant Washburn
Mrs. Bryant Washburn
Wheeler Oakman
Charlotte Stevens
Kate Lester
Harry Dunkinson
Patty Moore
Mickey Moore
"Peaches" Jackson

West Coast Production
"WHY DO WE LIVE?"
Produced by James Calnay
Directed by Norbert Myles Supervised by Lewis King
THE CAST
Edith Chapman
Marguerite La Mon
Niles Welch
Ben Armando
Doris May
Kate Price
Wallace McDonald
Jimmie Thompson
Joseph Dowling
Philippe deLacy
Madge Holmes
Frances Cole
Charles Clarey
Bill Lowry

WHAT IS SUCCESS?
By Eric Mayne
We must not confuse Success with Popularity; much less with Notoriety. Popularity is easily distinguished. Notoriety has features all its own, but Success—well, Success is different.
In these days of extensive Publicity many are Publicized, but few are Successful.
Many live beyond their means and some live beyond their success. He is a wise man who knows when to retire.
There are men who lived in the high lights of Success. The world waited for their briefest telegram. Today if they were made the subject of the greatest headline the world would not be interested.
The road to Success is an open road—open to all. It is crowded with obstacles. The greatest obstacles are usually within ourselves. If we overcome these the others will be easy.
We must make up our mind to like our work before we can make a success at it.
If we can’t make up our minds to like it, we can make up our minds to leave it. The great thing is that we make up our mind—it will be better for us and better for our work.
If we are not a Success in motion pictures, we should not blame the pictures. There are other kinds of employment.
If we are not a Success in California there are other States. Why not try one of them?
If we think America is to blame for our lack of Success we can try another country, We may gain something. The other country may also gain something. One never knows.
The man who accumulates money is not always a Successful man.
There can be no doubt that money talks, but it is not always worth listening to nowadays.
A man’s life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions.
If we are working we are succeeding. Work is Success. We may not always see the success. Our working may not be perfect—it may not even be good, but we can only learn by work. Our Salvation is work. Truth makes us free and Work makes us Strong.

The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"
Page Twenty-one

Wax figures for rent
We have wax figures of men, women and children for rent, modeled by skilled artists.
If you have special requirements calling for character figures or reproductions from life, we are prepared to serve you.

L. E. Oates
Makers of Wax Figures
Studio
105 East Tenth Street
Los Angeles
Phone 820734

Motion Picture Tests
$10.00
For Appointment Phone
NATE SALMON
134-78 - Room 4
The first Paramount Zane Grey production, "To the Last Man," directed by Victor Fleming, is now under way in the Tonto Basin of Arizona, where the company will remain for the greater part of the picture. Richard Dix, Lois Wilson, Noah Beery, Robert Edeson and Frank Campeau are featured in this feud story which was adapted by Doris Schroeder. Lucien Hubbard is production editor. The country where the company is now at work is one of the wildest in the world and great pictorial results are naturally expected.

Maurice Tourneur has joined the ranks of the directors who have cast aside their megaphones to appear before the camera. The transition was a brief one, however. During the filming of his production of "The Brass Bottle" an actor failed to appear at the appointed hour for work and Director Tourneur decided to avoid loss of time by enacting the part himself. The result was that the French director became an English actor for one week.

Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of Famous Players Lasky Corporation, left this week for New York to attend the convention of the Sales Department which will start in New York and make flying visits to Chicago, New Orleans and Los Angeles.

Mr. Lasky will return with the Convention delegation for the fourth and last session arriving here about May 19th—the meetings being held May 21st and 22nd.

HARDEE KIRKLAND RETURNS

After a three months' tour of the Orpheum and Interstate circuit, Hardee Kirkland, who played in Theodore Roberts' vaudeville headline sketch, "The Man Higher Up" by William de Mille, Paramount producer, returned this week with Mr. Roberts, and both gentlemen will resume their work.

Hardee Kirkland received much critical praise for his able handling of what might be called the title role in the sketch of which Roberts was the star. Kirkland is a character actor of long stage and screen experience and recently appeared in the Schubert production, "Are You a Failure?" in an important role. He will remain in Hollywood for the present for further picture engagements. Mr. Roberts will resume Paramount activities.

TOURNEUR DISCUSSES LOVE

Motion picture patrons of the United States may never expect to see genuine love depicted on its screens, according to Maurice Tourneur, producer of "The Brass Bottle" and other well-known successes.

Puppy love is as far as the screens of this country may go in portraying the grand passion, asserts the noted First National director.

"The full, beautiful, terrible splendor of love is not ignoble, but we are afraid of it as of something shameful."

"There is much love making among boys and girls. We hide and forbid these impulses so that they become twisted and unhealthy."

"Our films are forced to repress realities with glamorous fairy tales."

"Repressed things always come to the surface distorted."

"Love isn't the green sentimentality of a boy and girl walking through an apple orchard. It's more apt to be an agony, as most elemental things are."

"The mating love has been given a shameful significance because it seeks seclusion."

"When we are up against our hardest problems—and love is an ordeal—we try to hide from ourselves, behind social conventions or lofty shelter, in opiums or illusions."

"Censorship and those who support censorship for the screen clearly indicate that anything beyond mawkish puppy love is unclean and unfit to be seen or thought about, no matter how insistently life projects it to the confusion of the fable-fed."

"True love, the actual love of life, beautiful and matured can never be portrayed, while censors and persons who think in harmony with censors, sit in judgment of this new and wonderful screen art."

Charles Maigne is making good progress with "The Silent Partner," in which Letarcie Joy, Owen Moore and Robert Edeson are featured. This Paramount picture, adapted by Sada Cowan from Maximillian Foster's story, will be edited by Ralph Block. The quotation board in a stock broker's office has been the background for considerable dramatic action, when Owen Moore in the character of a young speculator, sees his fortune wiped out and Letarcie Joy in the role of his wife begins to realize that his former employer is responsible for the financial downfall. Bert Woodruff has been engaged to play an important role in this cast.

Hugh Hoffman
Screenor and Production Supervisor

Professional Photographs
It Costs No More for Quality Photographs at "Los Angeles’ Finest Theatrical Studio"

"The One Bright Spot Friday Nights"

American Legion Stadium
Hollywood at El Centro
Holly 100 for reservations

SEE BRUNO

For Your Casting Director Photos
6412 Hollywood Boulevard

Apartment Shop Specials

Exclusive gowns worn once. Orange dinner gown, combined pearls and rhinestones, King Ilmai solid sequin gown, three black sequin gowns, American Beauty gold evening gown, three Lucille dancing frocks, six imported afternoon gowns, two three-piece silk suits, Caracul Jacket and many others.

MRS. CRAIG MAIN 257
1310 Lilac Terrace

Walter Frederick Seely
Shadow C Photography
1448 North Wilcox
(One-half block west of Cahuenga at Sunset)
Telephone 439-274
John Henry

Playing Juvenile Leads and Heavies
(Formerly with Shusterman Stock Company, Boston)

Phone Holly 6513

---

ANNOUNCING THE

Hillview Grill

Hillview Apartments Bldg.
Hollywood at Hudson

Entrance on Hudson Ave.

Especially for Motion Picture People

Under the Management of Mrs. Ella H. Klumb

Sunday 12 noon to 8 in the evening

Hollywood 7980 Hollywood 6626

---

THE

Edward Small Co.

Under the Management of Hugh Jeffrey

Have Opened Offices at

6047½ HOLLYWOOD BLVD.

We Are Prepared to Establish the Same

Service, Plus Integrity Plus Extra Effort

That We Have Started and Maintained in New York

Telephone 439-231
Artists Are Invited to Register

PARIS VIENNA BERLIN

---

Art Braxton

CHARACTER HEAVIES JUVENILES

West 1049
Absolutely! Positively!

The Biggest Summer Show Los Angeles, the Pacific Coast or Any Other Place Has Ever Had

JULY 2nd to AUGUST 4th

THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVUE and MOTION PICTURE EXPOSITION

Fifty Novel Bungalows of Pueblo Indian Architecture Now Building in Exposition Park to House the Exhibits Coming From Far and Near

DRIVE OUT AND SEE FOR YOURSELF!

Spectacles the Like of Which You Have Never Seen Will Be Staged in the 80,000 Seat Coliseum That Is to Be Formally Opened to the Public in Connection with the MONROE DOCTRINE CENTENNIAL

Railroads predict the heaviest travel to the Southwest on record, this summer. They’re coming for The Big Show. To be sure that you will have your tickets make application on this blank and mail it in to The Exposition Dept., 800 N. Spring Street, Los Angeles, California.

Patron’s Application

THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVUE AND MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION

For the purpose of taking part in the First Annual American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Industrial Exposition to be held in the City of Los Angeles during the year 1923 in commemoration of the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine. I hereby make application for ______________Patron’s Coupon Book___. Admission Tickets to the Revue and Exposition, for which I agree to pay the sum of ten dollars each, payments to be made as follows:

Dated..................192.... Signed__________________________

Occupation________________ Address____________________

Make All Checks Payable to Motion Picture Exposition
BABY MURIEL MacCORMAC, NOW APPEARING IN "POOR MEN'S WIVES" AT TALLY'S
UNO

Authentic Details and Photographs of FOREIGN INTERIORS and EXTERIORS of EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Cafes
Hotels Theaters
Steamships
Cities Villages

Shops Mansions
Bungalows
Streets
Parks

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

INTERNATIONAL CINEMA RESEARCH
L.A. HOWLAND
Phone 438-761
300-301 HOLLYWOOD SECURITY BLDG.

Reel Service

and thorough co-operation coupled with a genuine interest in your problems are yours here AT ALL TIMES. We back promise with performance, that's why we're serving the foremost producers.

A very choice stock of antique furniture, works of art, statues, and bric-a-bric is now in our big shop, ready for your inspection. We buy, sell, rent and exchange. We're IN HOLLYWOOD to save you time as well as money.

TECHNICOLOR
Motion Pictures in Color

Now Available to the Producer
No Limitation on Action or Type of Sets

Technicolor Motion Picture Corporation
C. A. Willat, Manager
Hollywood 4470
1116 Lodi Street Hollywood, Calif.

MARTHA MARSHALL
LEADS INGENUES
SOCIETY PARTS

Telephone 439-801

Foster's ANTIQUE SHOP
4534 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 598-030
The Editor Essays Some Elucidation

According to well-founded reports, great strides forward will be taken by Hollywood interests next week to make possible the founding of a truly great Amusement Center in that incomparable center of cinema and other fine arts. Camera has been watching this situation with the interest for the sake of film journalism. It can be stated for certain that it is feasible, and if it is, this enterprise will serve to make Hollywood the most popular and most famous center of artistic culture in the whole world and possibly in all history. What could sound more exceedingly promising? What objective could any citizenry strive for with more grace? Verily, this is a proposition challenging the undivided thought of every man and woman loyal to the welfare and future of Hollywood.

Now comes to the foreground of screendom the name of Arthur Edmund Carew because of his masterly performance in Richard L. Talbot's "The Kabuli," and the role he portrays the character of Svenagul. The interesting part of Mr. Carew's artistic triumph is, always heretofore he has been a leading man and yet he achieves his greatest purpose as a character man, all of which is mentioned to show that the trend of the film times continues to be in the general direction of the surprising productivity to the photoplayers of a man who will grow beards and be totally unlike their own selves. The day was, and very recently, when the dashing juvenile "lead" won and maintained his high place in the public esteem because of his own personality which he never submerged for the sake of a character created by the fiction writer. Ernest Torrence deserves much of the credit for lifting the character man out of the slough of unimportance, and, his unassuming brother, David Torrence, did yeoman service in this work, too. Now Mr. Carew comes forward to give fresh impetus to the pre-eminence of character delineation extraordinary.

Whither are the screen comedians heading? The majority of them seem prone to vie with each other to achieve three distinct purposes. One is to get into the full-length field to the abolition of the two-reeler; the second is to interpolate real dramatic situations into their comedies for the sake of contrast, and the third is to own their own studios. Larry Semon is about to carry out new plans which, it is said, will encompass all of these new inclinations of his comedy fellows, and, Dame Rumor has it that Ben Turpin is casting his eye in the same direction. Meanwhile, Warner, nearly back from his foreign trips, has already accomplished two-thirds of this tendency by getting settled in his own studio and starting a new series of comedies in which dramatic situations will count prodigiously in "getting the laughs" when comes the comedy angles having to do with those situations. He announces he will realize the third of his ambition within a few months, when he expects to make his first full-length comedy. Will it all eventuate itself into the comedy stars launching themselves into the field of screen spectacle a la Griffith?

Approximately twenty million dollars are being spent in Hollywood right now on improvements and expansions of studio facilties. In fact, the greatest permanent building boom in the history of the motion picture industry is under way at this time, and when the various construction crews complete their work, not only will there be a greater capacity for the production of photoplays of all classes, but there will be much architectural beauty added to this unique center of Southern California. The Warner Brothers are putting the finishing touches on their new stage, one of the largest in the world, after spending a half million dollars on it, and now William Fox is spending the expenditure of two million dollars on new quarters on the outskirts of Hollywood as a result of a decision to vacate the too valuable land they now occupy in the heart of the city. John Rikeleman is directing the big task of reconstructing the old Griffith studios, now known as the Fine Arts Studios, and when he has finished he will have spent $250,000, but he will have one of the greatest of ultra-modern plants. Jesse L. Lasky is spending some money on the studios in which Paramount pictures are made, and M. C. Levee is putting a lot of money into circulation in his continuance of building activities at the United Studios. All this surely is sufficient answer to calamity-howers wherever they may show their heads. The country at large cannot be going to the bow-wows so long as Hollywood can spend twenty million dollars on studio expansion at a single session.

The American screen is indebted to two countries in particular for the supplying of many of its greatest artists. These two countries are England and France, now so much at loggerheads unfortunately. Among the almost countless Britshers who have enriched cinema endeavors it is proper to mention Charlie Chaplin, first, of course, and his brother, Syd, but there are others of exceptional historic brilliance, such as Creighton Hale and Eric Mayne, two of the screen's foremost masters of dramatic finesse. Then among the Frenchmen who have become picture luminaries due to their efforts in this country, there is a grand array, including such masters of the craft as Max Linder, Charles de Roche, Rod La Roque, Leon Bary and, now in the ascendency, Maurice Canonge. Meanwhile Italy, with its Valentino and Spain with its Antonio Moreno, are not far behind in the matter of furnishing true screen genius. The whole point involved in this reminding of the presence of so many leaders from foreign climes is that what we are proud to call the American screen is a most cosmopolitan one just as any American city is cosmopolitan, that the melting-pot idea is all encompassing in this domain ruled so much by Charles Dickens and Sam. The reassuring phrase of it is that out of the polyglot of it all is arising, with sound certainty, a distinctively American art within the moving picture, typical of most all of our outstanding national traits in its moving; its activity; its energy, and, it is patent now, that Americans will be able in time to give expression to their dramatic feelings through the medium of the cinema better than they can with pen or brush. Viewed from every angle, the future of the photoplay art is one replete with unlimited possibilities for American triumphs in culture, and therefore it is an art deserving of something better than the detrimontal squawking of censorship-mad reformers. Instead it richly deserves the unstinted co-operation of every force having the greater interests of America at heart.
Three Praised—Three Protested

RECENTLY six lovers of good photoplays witnessed an elaborate and well directed screen version of a widely read novel.

Three of them had read the story before seeing the picture. The others had not.

The latter were unanimous in its praise. They enjoyed the picture and gave producer and exhibitor the benefit of their enthusiastic recommendation.

The three who had read the story were just as strong in condemning the picture. They declared that the director had ruined the story by making certain adaptations required by the very nature of the screen.

That is a natural reaction.

Yet, on the other hand, had the director followed the story literally—assuming that such was possible—the three critics would have watched the entire picture without the slightest emotion.

They would have known exactly what was coming—the suspense would have been destroyed. Unsatisfactory either way.

Of course, there are stories which can be screened without adaptation. Every motion picture executive, however, knows how few they are.

Then, too, there are stories which, when reproduced upon the screen, hold the deep attention and interest of people who have read them.

They are classics which permit of repetition because of rare excellence. A hasty review of the number of classics which past centuries have produced proves conclusively the infrequency of their conception.

Then to reduce the number of classics in literature to those which can be faithfully reproduced upon the screen almost eliminates this source as a supply of photoplay material.

Some great pictures have been produced from the classics, but they are few, very few.

What, then, follows? The suitable classics of fiction are entirely inadequate. Current fiction reproduced upon the screen is unsatisfactory to those who have read the stories—the very people whom the title is intended to attract. That inevitably means the loss of good-will, a priceless asset.

This is all entirely logical. You would not read a book of current fiction if you knew, before reading it, the essential details of the plot, situations, characterizations, and climaxes.

You know that a story loses its main interest if someone tells you even briefly the thread of it in advance.

These are commonplaces in the publishing business. No publisher would expect to succeed if he republished novels and short stories. Even classics lack the fresh interest which our periodicals require.

Why then can the motion picture producer expect to succeed by producing stories that are "old stuff"—rehashes that lose the spark of interest in the "making over" process? It is at best a futile effort to postpone failure. That is all it does, although it makes the failure more certain.

What is going on among motion picture theatre-goers? They are more and more selecting an evening's entertainment because they believe that the comedy, the news reel or the music will be entertaining. Amazing accusation—but true.

A few years ago producers would have scoffed at the idea that these details would become the main attraction. But such is the fact, today.

Strong, dramatic stories written for the screen are the sound foundation for strong pictures. Adaptations are make-shift.

There are such stories and the supply will increase as the need for them is more generally recognized. Some of the foremost producers have taken the lead. They will profit by a public recognition and popular favor which lavish expenditure of money can not buy.
Churchmen Will Pass First Judgment This Time

Creating a precedent in film history, a new super-production is probably to have its first public showing before a great religious convention.

The precedent is to be set by Charles Ray's latest Moving Picture of Longfellow's poem, "The Courtship of Myles Standish," which the producer-star is now editing after more than six months' work on the dramatic incidents of America's first love story and its incidental history of the Pilgrim Fathers.

The distinguished premiere audience will be the delegates at the National Council of Congregational Churches, Springfield, Mass., in October, including nearly a thousand leading clergymen and laymen of the denomination from all parts of the country.

Congregationalism had its taproots in the great adventure of the pioneer Separatists who fled from Europe to establish the first free church in a new land. Since Mr. Ray began the filming of the Longfellow epic, the members of the denomination in Southern California have followed the work with intense interest.

The idea of showing it first to the National Council originated with Rev. Frank Dyer, D.D., minister of the Plymouth Congregational Church in this city, and it has met with such enthusiastic endorsement that Ray has consented that unless something unforeseen occurs to prevent, the plan will be carried out.

Many weeks still have to be spent on the cutting of "The Courtship of Myles Standish," which is to be one of the "big" films of 1925, running ten reels or more. Eight cameras shot more than 200,000 feet of negative for the story, and the labor of elimination to get this mass down to the necessary commercial length is an arduous one.

In its present rough state it is down to about 25,000 feet, but it is already apparent that the picture will be one of the most brilliant and inspiring ever made, dealing as it does with actual characters of history and the pretty romantic legends from the pen of the New England poet.

Scenes showing the Atlantic storms which nearly destroyed the Mayflower are said to exceed in graphic and thrilling realism anything ever before done in marine photography. The cost of "The Courtship of Myles Standish" exceeded $600,000.

It is said that the American scenes which it will picture are the birth of political democracy, the first free church worship, the first romance and marriage, the first marriage proposal by a woman, the first Thanksgiving feast, the first communist experiment, the first conflicts with Indians, the first treaty with the natives, the first baby born in New England, the first after-dinner speeches, and the first commissaries—for the Pilgrims lived a considerate time on their work of planting a colony on the new shore.

Being Fair of Face and Figure, How'll She Fare?

"Wait until they see this one." This one happens to be a well-known and much-used phrase in picture-producing circles and it generally is an allusion to a forthcoming production.

But, in this instance wiseacres around the Cosmopolitan Studios are making it applicable to a certain new face (and figure) about to be introduced to the photographic-loving public in James A. Bowen's latest feature film, temporarily entitled "The Supreme Test." That face (and figure) belong to Dorothy Revier, who is making her debut on the screen after a brilliant career as a dancing beauty on the stage.

According to high Cosmopolitan officials just enthusing over her, she defies classification because her various traits and personal charms are a composite of several of the "leading lady luminaries" of the current silver-sheets. As the veteran cameraman, who photographed her in this picture, expresses it; she is beautiful like Katherine Macdonald, she does dancing scenes like Mae Murray and she displays a dramatic ability similar to that of Pauline Frederick, and, it is added, yet she is distinctly a personality quite unlike all other popular favorites in her field encountered.

At any rate, her performance in the principal role in "The Supreme Test" was such that Mr. Bowen immediately signed her to a contract to play the stellar part in his next production, "Sunken Gardens," which will be under way in about three weeks.

"If Miss Revier makes half the impression on the public she has made around this studio during the filming of her first picture, she will break some records," says Mr. Bowen, who is regarded as an ultra-conservative when it comes to conjuring up the possibilities of a new artist.

Although Miss Revier was born and reared in Oakland, California, she has spent much of her life abroad, especially in Italy, where her dancing won high praise from such men as D'Annunzio and Ambrosio, the producer of the memorable "Cabiria" and "Theodora." She scored her greatest terpsichorean triumphs in Venice and Rome, and in Paris is the recipient of a number of scriptural interpretations. However, she has also earned a nation-wide reputation for her ability to execute the more modern dances in America.

"I really don't know why I have wandered into filmmland, because my love for dancing is supreme," Miss Revier says. "However, judging from present prospects, I am in to stay for a while whether I want to or not. Of course I like picture work immensely and I may learn to love it more than I do dancing."

As soon as "The Supreme Test" is cut and edited, the master print will be shipped to New York with the idea of arranging for its release during the early summer with "Sunken Gardens," following in the early autumn. Supporting Miss Revier is Johnny Harron, brother of the lamented Bobby Harron, Eugene Beaudino and Ernest Sheldon.

And, if Miss Revier emerges from the scrutinizing criticisms of the big-time reviewers unscathed, or, even does better than that by being received with acclaim as another champion beauty and another dominating dramatic star, she announces she will continue to keep her dancing togs handy just the same.

"I've been warned that the picture-going public is very fickle, you know," she says.

MANY THINGS ARE "MOST NECESSARY" IN PICTURES

"What do you consider the most necessary asset for success in a moving picture career?"

"The question was recently asked Colleen Moore, First National star, in a letter from an admiring fan.

"The winsome young lady who is to play the leading feminine part in "The Hunters," initial First National picture under a recently signed long-term contract, admitted to her correspondent that each year she answers the question differently.

"I have learned by experience," Miss Moore wrote, "that what I previously thought were the most important assets now seem to me to be only of minor importance.

As so many girls scattered over the country are praying for an opportunity to make a name for themselves on the screen, it may be of interest to them to hear the latest answers given by Miss Moore to this vital question.

"Beauty is an intangible thing," declares the vivacious young actress.

A girl may have it in many of its qualities and yet not photograph well, hence she hopes to make good in pictures.

"Beauty that photographs may be an open sesame to the studios, but it must be bolstered up with many other qualifications."

"The ability to wear clothes, to dance, to
Flashes from Frisco

By AGNES KERR CRAWFORD

San Francisco, Calif., May 16.—The cutting and titling of "A Pair of Helions," first picture made by the Stereoscopic Productions, was finished last week and Walter W. Bell, director, took the film to Los Angeles, where it will be previewed previously to its release through the American Releasing Corporation. While in the south, Mr. Bell will be on the lookout for good stories for future use, and will engage his cast for the next picture of the company to be started at once. Joseph Gonyea, lately of the "Plum Center" forces, will assist Bell on the next picture. Rancho Bill Miller and Patricia Palmer will again co-star, and they all hope and expect to make each picture made by the organization bigger and better than the last.

Dale Hanshaw, of the Second National Pictures Corporation of California, says he does not see why anyone should want to live in New York, if they can live in San Francisco. Mr. Hanshaw was in town most of last week as part of an extended trip through the south and west on business for Second National.

Chester Conklin arrived in San Francisco Saturday to begin his work in an outstanding role in "The Women on Puff," and to go over with Eric Von Stroheim some slight changes in the script. Miss Mathis is more than pleased with the results being obtained in the part of the picture already filmed, and says she thinks Frank Norris' great American masterpiece could never have been given to the world with such small one-er and color as are being obtained by the actual making of the picture in the scenes where the story was laid.

A $7,500,000 deal was completed last week when Loew's theatres in California and the western United States were affiliated with the West Coast Theatres, Inc., one of the big theatrical chains of the country. The Warfield Theatre in this city and the Loew's State Theatre in Los Angeles are included in the combination. The West Coast Theatres recently acquired a controlling interest in the Turner and Danken circuit. As a result of the new affiliation the Loew theatres will control service of Metro and Associated First National productions.

San Francisco saw one more glad reunion the other night when Leverone man and a very small shaking hands and slapping each other on the back, while a clown dog barked round their feet, all in an Orpheum dressing room. Old time man was Gigson Gowland, now playing McGeutte in Eric Von Stroheim's production of "Greed," and was Miss Mathis, who was one of Leverone famous clown, and last week's headliner at the Orpheum. Their friendship dates back to the days when Toto was making pictures in the California theatres. Gigson Gowland lived next door to each other at Long Beach, and as they hadn't met in five years it was certain they would meet this way, and the way the will, will play Los Angeles in a couple of weeks, and is looking forward to seeing a lot more friends of his moving picture making days.

Casts of the Week

Metro Pictures Corporation presents

"THE EAGLE'S FEATHER"

KATHERINE NEWLIN BUIK Adaptation and Continuity by WINTFRED DUNN Directed by EDWARD SLOMAN Photographed by GEORG DES RIZARD Art Director: J. J. HUGHES THE CAST

Delith Jameison.................Mary Alden
John Trent......................James Kirkwood
Mrs. Trent......................Lester Cuno
Martha.........................Elmer Viner
Van Brewen.....................George Seigman
Count de Longe.................Adolph Menjou
Parson Winger .................John Elliott
The Irishman..................Charles Melough
The Swede......................William Orlond Wing Ling......................Jim Wad

"SANTA FE TRAIL"

A Neva Gerber Production Brentwood Studio Bob Dillon, Director Wilbur McLaugh, Assistant Director CAST

Neva Gerber.................Jack Perrin
Wilbur McLaugh..............Jim Welsh
Ellas Bullock

E. H. Martin Productions presents

"SHELL SHOCKED SAMMY"

A feature production from the story by Frank S. Mattison

Director, Horace B. Carpenter
Assistant Director, W. H. Patton
Production Manager, Joe P. Osborne
Director of Photography: John Matson Cameramen, Jack Ramsey
CAST

Vivian Rich
"Matty" Mattison
Theodore Lorch
Oroville Travers
Harry O'Connor
Gordana Benette

Goldwyn Pictures Corporation presents

"IN THE PALACE OF THE KING"

The Spectacular Photographed by "BAREFOOT BOY"

Director, David Selick
Cinematographer, David Abel
Author, Wallace Clifton
Production Manager, Dave Klink
CAST

John Bowers......................Sylvia Brerom
Marjorie Daw.....................Raymond Hatton
Tully Marshall..................George MacDaniel
Frankie Lee......................His Harlan
Harry Todd......................George Periolat
Brinley Shaw...................Virginia True Boardman
Gertrude Messenger...........Lottie Williams
Jean O'Rourke.................True Boardman

News from New York

Alfred Lunt, whom New Yorkers remember for his unique performance in "Clarence," made his screen debut at the Capitol this week in the leading role of "Backbone," the story by Clarence Budington Kelland which was published serially in the Saturday Evening Post some time ago. Lunt is a capable actor on the stage, but has a lot to learn about pictures. Edith Roberts played the girl.

Will Rogers will remain with the "Follies" as long as Mr. Ziegfeld desires him to hold his word. In previous years the "Follies" were only produced about June 1st and ran about 14 weeks. This year owing to the enormous success, over 40 weeks to capacity, the usual conditions are changed and the "Follies" will remain in New York until the week she is to remain. The company is trying every possible subterfuge to break a written contract so as to exact a few more dollars. Evidently Rogers' word is better than that of the Pathé lot and the law is against the law, of course, helped him to attain the enviable success and prominence in the theatre.

A judgment for $102,929.40 against the Triangle Film Corp. of Virginia and New York, was awarded Adam and Chas. Kessel, film producers, this week in the Appellate division of the New York Supreme Court. The judgment represented film suits which the Kessels sold to the Triangle two years ago. The claim was made payable in New York.

(Continued on Page 22)
In Behalf of Mother-in-Law and Other Halves

By RAY H. LEEK

Don mourning for a life-long friend. The tried and true mother-in-law joke, declared by George Ade to have had its origin in the paleolithic age, is no more.

Screen writers and picture experts witnessed the demise of the ancient joke, from which all others are said to have been patterned, the other evening in a little projection room at the Schulberg studios.

When the company had witnessed the tremendous story flashed upon the screen by Director Gasnier under the title, “Mother-in-Law,” everybody forgot to laugh at the subject suggested by those words. The swiftly moving story of the principals in the average American home, involving what is declared to be the only true portrait of the ideal mother-in-law ever painted, fairly lifted members of the audience from their seats.

Olga Prinlzla, who adapted this story to the screen and witnessed this initial showing of the film, was moved to prophecy.

“This means the end of the mother-in-law joke,” said she. “I predict that the phrase will never provoke a smile where this picture has been seen.” The most maligned figure in the world’s history has come into her own—and she has come to stay.

A hint of the unusual story unfolded on the screen would spoil too many thrilling evenings to make such a hazard possible here. Enough to say that it indicates that Frank Furay and Agnes Christine Johnson, the youthful writers who wrote the story while on their honeymoon, know the real mother-in-law as only newlyweds can. It was prepared for the screen by an equally youthful mother, Olga Prinlzla, and produced by that master of screen drama, Gasnier.

For the benefit of those who follow the fortunes of the players it may be added that Gaston Glass has a role in which he has been given and made full use of all the opportunities which were his as the young violinist in “Humoresque” and in his latest success, “The Hero.” Edith Yorke, the lovable mother of so many screen stories, has advanced a step over all previous performances to become the strong minded but equally lovable mother-in-law.

Of course, it would not be a Gasnier picture without startling flashes of beauty, both in settings and feminine form. This time, in addition to the charms of Ruth Clifford and Vola Vale, he has provided two widely diversified types of beautiful bathing girls—Marie Curtis, American girl swimming champion, and Doris Stone, English beauty prize winner and a swimmer of international reputation. Both have been given roles in which, to put it conservatively, they have proved eye-filling.

“Popularity,” says the diminutive Ethel Shannon, “is a great thing—in cool weather only.”

For the new starlet has just discovered that success carries with it responsibilities which cannot be shirked even when the California sunshine begins to wilt verdure and ambition.

On completing her role in “Daughters of the Rich” a week ago, Miss Shannon was looking forward to one of those “between-picture” rests so popular in the summer months.

But the girl who was first picked for stellar honors this year by the Wampas experts found that three directors were bidding for her leisure hours. Ethel hesitated, but finally succumbed when it was found that the schedule for Reginald Denny’s latest “Leather Pushers” story fits perfectly into her own “rest” period. So she played the leading feminine role with Denny and pig-echoed her proposed vacation until some future time. For Miss Shannon will play featured roles in at least three big productions in rapid succession, according to plans outlined for her.

It’s a clever producer who can pry Victor Schertzinger away from his beloved violin. When Schertzinger was persuaded, some years ago, to abandon musical composition and direction of musical comedies to act in a directorial capacity for the screen it was generally supposed that his music would suffer.

But Schertzinger has found it possible to keep his violin where other directors usually swing their megaphone. He directs by music and works out his big scenes—a duty that usually consumes his evenings while improvising on the piano.

Now it is found that one of the biggest scenes in the Jackie Coogan picture which he is directing, will occur in the Royal Opera House in the mythical kingdom of Luvonia.

“Great,” said Schertzinger, as he watched

(Continued on Page 22)
He Came For Learning, Then Came a Yearning

When his fond parents incurred the heavy expense of sending him all the way from Paris, France, to an American college at Williamstown, Mass., Eugene Beaudino, formerly known as Eugene Borden, had only one idea and that was to acquire a big supply of learning and return to his beloved parental domicile. But one night early in his career as a student, he attended a motion picture show and immediately his thoughts of learning were crowded out by a yearning—a yearning to get into pictures. He had achieved considerable success as an actor on the Parisian speaking stage and experienced little difficulty in securing an engagement with William Christy Cabanne, then with Metro, and he made his screen debut in "The Shaker," in which Emily Stevens was starred back in those stirring days of 1914. So compatible were Beaudino and Cabanne that they remained affiliated for eight years.

Then there came the call of the four lights again and in the interim, Beaudino enhanced his reputation many per cent by his brilliant work, especially in support of Irene Bordoni in "The French Doll," from which cast he retired less than three months ago. He also distinguished himself in "The Better 'Ole" and in support of Madam Fiske in "Sealy of New Orleans."

Now Beaudino is in Hollywood and is back in pictures, Harry Revier's production of "The Supreme Test," just completed at the Cosmosart studios, serving as the vehicle for his return. In this feature he plays one of the leading roles, sharing honors with Johnny Harron, Dorothy Revier and Ernest Shields.

Beaudino is among the best of dancers. In his earlier youth he was one of the best of acrobats. Nature has blessed him with those physical endowments which entitle him to classification as one of the handsomest of young men. Now he is recognized as one of the most capable of screen leading men, having portrayed such roles opposite Mabel Taliaferro, Virginia Pearson, Viola Dana and Alice Brady. Hence it may be aptly stated that his life is running in superlatives—explicitly, to the end that he excels in whatever he undertakes.

"America and the American spirit have combined to make everything possible for me," he says. "In my early youth I was always confronted by the bothersome idea that I was aspiring too high and trying to do too much, but that was in France. Since coming to America and becoming imbued with the American idea of doing things despite any obstacles, I have acquired that determination which has made this the greatest nation probably in all history."

All of which is talk of the variety certain to ingratiate this young artist with the legions of photoplay fans dwelling within Uncle Sam's mighty domain.

David Torrence is in a quandry. He doesn't know whether to dodge or not to dodge. His family name is fairly deluged with high honors due to the remarkable cinema triumphs of his remarkable brother, Ernest Torrence, and, although David is plenty famous himself as a star exponent of both the silent and spoken dramatic arts, wherever he goes, he is pointed out as "that other Torrence." Inasmuch as David is a big, upstanding man, well able to face the problem of life on his own feet without assistance from any source, and, also being an exceedingly modest man, he is reluctant to accept any of the reflected glory. Yet, he cannot dodge it successfully, because brother Ernest is such a tremendously big drawing card in motion pictures nowadays that he is just about the most-discussed man in the whole realm. It would seem that the only way in which David can circumvent the fates which persist in forcing him to share in the honors Ernest is winning might be to go after a fame surpassing that already bestowed upon the family.

"It's a peculiar position to be in and one does not always know just how to conduct himself," David declares.

Those not having a world-famous figure in their family may not be able to appreciate this statement, but upon contemplating the fact that in this case David is in the same profession as his brother and is regarded as one of the finest of actors, it becomes apparent that having such keen competition right in one's own family presents quite a skew of complications and embarrassments.

David has been scoring triumphs upon the screen ever since he gave to the world his unusual performance in Mary Pickford's new "Tess of the Storm Country." Among his more recent successes were recorded "The Power of a Lie," one of the best Universal pictures of the year and "Trimmed in Scarlet," in which Kathryn Williams is the star. He has just finished the portrayal of an exceptional role in support of Herbert Rawlinson in a feature called "Richard," and one of his best characterizations will be seen when "The Man Next Door" is released.

Gloria Hope, who will be absent from the screen for a brief time, but who, upon returning to her cinema endeavors, will be starred, according to a well-founded report.
PACIFIC COAST HEADS OF PARAMOUNT GATHER HERE FOR A VITAL CONVENTION

From every state of the Pacific Coast, executives and salesmen of the Paramount Picture distribution exchanges are arriving in Los Angeles today to attend the semi-annual convention of the department of distribution of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, which opens Monday and continues for two days.

If the seventy-five expected to take part, fully half of that number are already in this city. They are located at the Hotel Ambassador, headquarters of the convention. Among those who have arrived in Los Angeles will be S. R. Kent, general manager of distribution, who will preside here; Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president in charge of production; Eugene Debrille, D. O. Bavel, divisional sales manager, who will assist Mr. Kent in conducting the convention here; Mel Shauer, E. E. Shauer, Claud Saunders, Charles E. McCarthey, A. M. Botsford, G. B. J. Frawley, G. M. Spiddell and William R. Hogan.

For the first time in the history of the organization, the semi-annual convention is being split into four separate and distinct sessions, three of which have already taken place in other sections of the United States. The first of these occurred in New York City on May 13 and 14, attended by employees of the eastern distribution branches. The second convention took place in Chicago on May 12 and 13 and members of the Paramount sales force in the central western states were present. The third happened in New Orleans on May 14 and 15, for the benefit of the southern states. The local convention will be the final one.

Many features will be taken care of during the two-day session. Chief among these will be the discussion of sales policies for the distribution of Paramount Pictures for ensuing seasons. In addition, exploiters, salesmen, accessory managers and booking managers will have the opportunity of hearing the further and complete discussion of the new exploitation and advertising features from high executives of the home office in New York, thereby giving them first hand information from our enthusiasm on the problems they confront daily.

A second interesting feature will be Mr. Lasky’s first announcement of the pictures to be released for the three months beginning August 1. A tour of the studio and careful examination into the technical details of the production of the photoplays they distribute will be another valuable experience accorded the convening members.

Those who are to be present in Los Angeles for the two days of the convention are the following:

Doug Moves to Bagdad to Essay Eclipsing His Merrie Old England Film

There is every indication that Douglas Fairbanks will not be stopped in his onward march to spectacular supremacy. In fact, he has completed all plans to essay eclipsing his own "Robin Hood" in point of gorgeous and bigness. But, he will pursue his hobby in a field as diametrically opposite to Merrrie Old England as it is possible to imagine, for now he will give expression to his dramatic feelings in the midst of Bagdad environments. The tentative title for the new picture spectacle is "Thief of Bagdad" and plenty of ideas as to what to expect of the irrepressible Doug are afforded by his title.

Where Robin Hood left off, the Thief of Bagdad will begin. That is the slogan being pasted in the hats of those who will be closely associated with this picture.

On the ten acres recently added to the back of the Pickford-Fairbanks studios, sets of gigantic proportions are already under way. The usual process for the erection of picture structures has been reversed in preparing for the construction work in connection with the new film. As a rule drawings are made, from which models are built, lathing which the sets are put up. In this instance, models were made first, then floor, walls, ceilings, and finally the sets. This made it possible to get greater latitude in all construction work, and also to express more truthfully the spirit of the artist’s designs.

After several months’ work, William Cameron Menzes and Irvin J. Martin, especially engaged by Doug to create something wholly different in the way of scenery, have worked out their plans and are now doing the bodies of settings, have produced what it is believed will bring forth a startling innovation in picture edifices.

It is not possible to set forth all the sections of the cast which are striving for in this mammoth production, but there can be no doubt that the new Fairbanks offering will breathe a new vitality and a beauty so startling that motion picture art as a whole will be pushed to a new pinnacle through the efforts of these pioneers in the field of fantasy.

All the magic which has made the Arabian Nights live for centuries will be incorporated in "The Thief of Bagdad." There will be the magic carpet, transporting people through the air; the wondrous crystal will disclose realms pictured in our fairyland. But the method by which it is to be done is a secret being carefully guarded.

Although no names have been definitely announced for the cast, the studio teems with types which are the living image of the pictures which have stamped such stories as "All Baba and the Forty Thieves," and "Sinbad the Sailor," indelibly in our memory.

Our plan, says Doug, "is to choose players who are the living counterpart of the illustrations of the Arabian Nights. Thus will we carry conviction in our story. While we might achieve this effect with make-up, it would be less effective. It would satisfy the eye, but it would not satisfy the soul."

One of the unusual sets will have for its base a concrete floor which covers an acre and a half. This work, it is said, will cost $20,000. Around the edge of this floor, which acts as a sort of patio or plaza, will be built the bazaars of Bagdad. Other sets, the foundations for which are now being laid, will tower above the Robin Hood castle, dwarfing it to what will appear to be quite ordinary proportions.

More players will be used in the filming of "The Thief of Bagdad" than appeared in Robin Hood, according to Robert Fairbanks, production manager. Ragtime will appear.

Despite the magnitude of the production, however, it is hoped to have it ready for fall release.
Demonstrates Versatility
Martha Mattox, the well-known character actress, has given an unusual demonstration of versatility in three of her current pictures. In the Gashler production of "The Zero," she plays the part of a sweet old mother, while in "Hearts Across," she registers pathetic comedy as a wife who would not speak to her own husband, and in "Balsa Wood," she is seen in the roles of all Bolsheviks. This is what may be aptly termed running the gauntlet of varieties in dramatic impulses.

His Knowledge of Indians Won Him His First Job

Fred Kennedy Myton, original story and continuity writer, who is adapted to the screen much as well-known film plays are adapted to the stage, by Katharine Newlin Burt, is the first of the Metro all-stars. It is being directed by Edward Sloman.

"To Whom It May Concern" will be Viola Dana's second starring feature for the coming season. It is a mystery drama and the continuity is being prepared by Ray Taylor. Miss Dana is at the present time working on "Rouged Lips," which is also a story by Rita Warner. It is being directed by Harold Shaw.

"The Spirit of the Road" will be Harold Lloyd's third starring vehicle. Winifred Dunn will prepare the continuity for this Kate Jordan story, which centers about an American party in France.

Stork Brings Twins to Press Age’s Home

Among recent visitors to the Flinders are Jacques Drayton, who was the stork, who first of all left a baby girl weighing eight pounds for Charles Warrington publicly photographer for Douglas Fairbanks. Not content with this, however, the stork flapped his wings and flew away, to return again in a few days with twin boys for Mark Larkin, publicity director for MGM and Doud. The Larkin twins weighed seven and six pounds, respectively, and, like Mike, they look alike—so much so, in fact, that the doctor tied a string around number one and almost distinguished him from number two.

Both Mrs. Warrington and Mrs. Larkin are doing nicely, says the stork.

Frances Marion, credited with being responsible for almost all the well-made known scenarios in the picture industry, has been assigned the task of adapting the stage play, "Burrnham," in which the Warner Brothers will feature John Barrymore.

Black Felines Are Barred by Actress

Mary Alden is not superstitious, but there is a limit to her credulity. And she has positively refused to appear in any future pictures in black cats' figures in the action. It is too much of a strain on her nerves.

In Metro's all-star production of "The Eagle's Feather," in which Miss Alden has a leading feminine role, several scenes require the use of a dozen coal-black cats. At the end of the first day's work, the property man could only count eleven of the original dozen. When Miss Alden returned to her dressing room she found the wandering puss calmly asleep on the bottom step.

At the end of the second day another of the midnight meowings was reported missing. This time Miss Alden discovered that the feline had slipped inside her dressing room and was contentedly dozing in her cushioned rocking chair.

At the end of the third day still another of the ebony-hued felines could not be located. When Miss Alden approached her dressing room with some trepidation, much to her relief, a search gave no trace of the missing cat. On stepping into her automobile, there was tabby curled up on the front seat.

The discovery was reported the following day when a trio of the ill-omened insisted on following her to lunch.

And After Years

Helen Ferguson is to realize one of her ambitions: she is to appear on the screen in a leading role opposite Henry B. Walthall, in whose company she played her first picture at the Essanay several years ago. Miss Ferguson and Mr. Walthall started their preliminary of the leading roles in "The Unknown Purple" at the Goldwyn studios and the pictures will be completed for release in time for the coming fall season under the Truant banner.

"Richard" Is Finished

Herbert Rawlinson has finished another of her best-preserved projects. The title of the latest is "Richard" at present, but a more enlightening title probably will be selected. In "Richard" David Torrence plays the leading role in support of the star, the part of King in A. Saxon English Justice, and it is said his performance is one of the high lights of this event. It is especially cast by the famous Ernest Torrence, who is just now one of the biggest names on the screen.

Warners Get New Executive Aid from East

Activities at the Warner Brothers are moving into the stage where it becomes necessary to relieve Jack and Sam Warner of much of their producing duties with the result that the new Warner studios are to be placed under a general manager. A. Alperstein, pioneer motion picture producer, is the man chosen for the important position. He is due at the studios from New York this week and will commence his duties at once.

The New York office of the Warner Brothers is cared for by A. and H. M. Warner, while J. L. and S. L. are permanently located there. A. Alperstein has been at the studios for several weeks and will remain for another month or so until every detail for the coming classics of the screen has received action.

Duties of Alperstein will include the laboratory supervision with which he has been identified for many years. During his tenure there he was a producer, distributor, exhibitor and laboratory executive. At one time he was head of a national advertising syndicate of much importance.

Two Child Veterans of Mary's Films Together

When the West Coast production of "Why Do We Live?" is released, the public is destined to enjoy a treat in the way of juvenile super-producers, no less than Philippe deLacy, the famous French lad who was rescued at the time of the war by the French government during the World War, and Lynwood Crandall, called by many the mastermind of the child, on the screen, and who will be remembered long for her portrayal of the important child part in Mary Pickford's Pollyanna," are the two outstanding luminaries in this picture and around them the whole plot revolves. It is interesting to note that little Philippe had just finished playing an important role in Mary Pickford's newest picture when he stated in "Why Do We Live?" and hence both of them are in the unusual position of claim to tutelage under the personal direction of the incomparable Mary.

Sealing Starts Another

Charles R. Seeling started production on his thirteenth picture in which "Big Boy" Williams is the star. This is a Western. It is another of the "The Riders of Devil's Hoof" and is a western story. The twelfth of these series, just completed, has been given the title of "The Rider of Devil's Hoof" and it will be released late during the mid-summer season.
SON OF RICH MAN MAKES SPEED IN FILMS

John Henry, son of a multi-millionaire Boston family, who recently wended his footsteps Hollywood-way to seek fame in motion pictures, has created a stir in film circles for the speed in which he has obtained his first offers to appear in stellar roles. Less than four years ago young Henry resigned as vice-president of one of the largest shoe manufacturing concerns in New England, owned by his father, and came to Los Angeles to join the ranks of motion picture players. When it became known that the young aristocrat was in town he was besieged with invitations to social affairs, entertainments and house parties, and he soon became a popular figure in Hollywood.

While being entertained by the social set in the film city young Henry made the acquaintance of a well known film producer who, impressed with his magnetic personality, gave him a tryout in his current production. The young Bostonian photographed remarkably and convinced the producer of his ability to interpret difficult roles, all of which has led to the signing of a contract between young Henry and the producer whereby the former is shortly to appear as a featured player in a series of stories dealing with a jolly type.

Ballins Go To New York

Hugo and Mabel Ballin, respectively director and star of Goldwyn's "Vanity Fair," have left for New York. Final its negotiations on several production offers which they are considering require their presence in the east, from which they have been absent nearly a year.

ENTERTAINS JONATHAN CLUB

Gene Metcalfe, the much talked of impresario who closed here as a headliner in vaudeville, entertained at the Jonathan Club under direction of Miss Dye on the night of May 15. Metcalfe will appear in Fred Caldwell's forthcoming "Hogan in Hollywood," in two separate and distinct roles, both as male and female heavies.

No Vote for Her

Andree Lafayette, the charming Norman girl who is playing the name part in Richard Walton Tully's screen production of du Maurier's "Trilby," has received a flattering offer from a prominent vaudeville agency for a tour after the completion of "Trilby," but inasmuch as she is under a long-term contract for First National Pictures, she is unable to give the proposition consideration at this time.

DOUG AND MARY TO KEEP BUSY

The Pickford-Fairbanks studios will be a place of perpetual activity during all of the present year, according to production plans which have just been announced.

Even though Mary Pickford plans to finish "The Street Singer," her new picture, by the end of May, there will be no let-down, as it is expected that Doug's newest contribution, "The Thief of Bagdad," will be in full swing by that time.

Gigantic sets for this spectacular production are now rising with almost the same magic as self, with its magical carpets, will be expressed in the genius, fantastic adventures and Arabian Nights flavor.

One of the features of the new Fairbanks picture will be the acre and a half of concrete plaza, around which will be erected the buildings of Bagdad. Miss Pickford will plunge immediately into a new picture—either "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall" or "Paua," both of which she has scenarios for, as soon as she completes her current film. This will be in accordance with her plans as announced early in the season—to do two pictures while her husband is busy with the production of the new Fairbanks picture.

It is also expected that Jack Pickford will soon start production on his own film play. At present he is supervising the preparation of a story of the Kentucky mountains somewhat similar to previous films which have proved excellent vehicles for him.

Maurice is a Modest Man to Manage This

Many friends of Maurice Cannon, a native Frenchman, who is portraying the role of "Zouzou" in "Trilby," have been attracted to an unusually large gold set ring which the actor wears. Not unlike the other day, however, would Canon disclose its origin and significance. But now that his friends have learned the history of the ring they have bestowed upon the Frenchman, the perfectly modest actor. It seems Canon was formerly a count in France, and that the ring was the family seal. For the present, however, the company, in Bagdad, for three months in America, who had hesitated about telling anyone of his fondest wish to which he is actually entitled.
PICTURE THEATRES MAY VANISH IN TEN YEARS

Can you imagine this country with no screen theatres in ten years? No—but this is the opinion of one who knows! And there will be no pictures in ten years unless the public is educated up to them," is the startling statement of Wallace Worsley, directing "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" at Universal City, the biggest picture drama of the season, with Lon Chaney and twenty big stars. It will take over four months to produce, and will be ready for showings until fall.

"We must enlighten the public, then retain their confidence," states Mr. Worsley, a student of the films and life in general.

"Many people have not been in a picture theatre in over a year. This means they have missed many inspiring plays. They are dwellers in the past; holders of ancient aversions to the nickelodeon and trashy theaters, before the advent of the modern photoplays."

"It is surprising how the progress of pictures must be brought back to the celluloid stage. As soon as we are putting more money and effort into our productions each year. "When Belasco gave his audience a real door instead of the old shaky canvas affair, they gasped and went away to talk about it. But he educated them, gave them more for their money, and put the stage on a more solid foundation. That has followed in a general way on the screen. But we are now in a condition of change and improvement. Instead of films settings we are turning back to the great stone, cement and wood. We exert every possible ounce of energy to make the picture a living reality—for the amusement and education of the public. Now we must go out and tell them about it.

Wilson Finishing Picture

Ben White has a picture nearing the finish line on his latest feature production, "Mine to Keep," according to Ashton Deearth, production manager. Deearth declares this latest picture will surpass any effort heretofore made by the company. It will include such celebrities in its cast as Bryant Washburn, Mrs. Bryant Washburn, Wheeler Oakman, Charlotte Stevens and Kate Lester.

BOY DOUBLES FOR GIRL

DOUG AND MARY ADD TEN ACRES TO STUDIO

The additional ten acres which Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford purchased by joining their already extensive studio holdings now appears in the production for the forthcoming productions, "The Thief of Baghdad," and "The Street of Sin." The first structure for Doug's picture is well under way and gives the Street of Sin a look built on a triangular and partly on a hexagonal ground floor. The set will be made up to offer a street scene of Old Baghdad, carried out on an elaborate scale. It is a scene with richly designed replicas from actual photographs of the picturesque city in Persia. The proposition which Doug is now confronting with is how many more acres will he have to acquire in order to construct the balance of sets being designed.

Miss Pickford hopes to complete this project by the end of May, which will leave the Fairbanks company as the only unit producing on the lot.

Clairy Advising King

Clairy Advising King

Clairy, senior and most dangerous villain of the screen, is cultivating a moustache for his part in Emmett Flynn's "In the Palace of the King." Incidentally, Clairy does not have a villainous role in the sixteenth-century spectacle Flynn is making for the Goldwyn studios. He will play the role of leading advisor to King Philip I of

USES STEER HORN FOR COWBOY HAT BACK

Back in the days when Jack Hoxie, Universal Western star, was a "forty a month" cow puncher in Oklahoma, he used to indulge in rodeo sports and most dangerous of all rodeo sports, "bull dogging." And he was an expert at a sport in the southwest that could stand up against the husky youth when Jack got his hands on his horns. That he was an expert at his particular type of death-risking enjoyment he proved to the west's satisfaction in 1910 by establishing a new time record which the boys are still shooting at. He bulldogged a steer in ten seconds flat and this still stands as the world's record in this particular event.

Now that he is a motion picture star, such pastimes no longer form a tangible part of his bread-winning endeavor. However, he enjoyed the excitement by tramping down dressing room row with a pair of steer horns that he had to carry side-ways to keep from losing out the windows on each side. They were more than five feet long.

The horns were souvenirs from Jack's victory over one of the most vicious steers in the southwest, which won for him the championship title at Bakersfield, Calif., in 1910. The steer had killed three men. So in honor of Jack's victory the managers of the rodeo had their two children present Jack with the horns.

Until a few days ago the horns had been decorating one corner of the Universal City office. Now the cowboys in his outfit at Universal City hang their sombreros on the horns when they visit Jack in his dressing room.

JEWELER IS ADDED TO

GOLDWYN'S BIG STAFF

Now comes the jeweler and his tools and torches to join the group of artisans who make Goldwyn pictures. P. A. matting, diamond setter and platinum worker of note, who for two years headed the Southwest School of Industrial Art, training disabled soldiers for the government, is the jeweler. Matting is more accustomed than most to the carving and figured ornaments of gold and silver for use in Emmett Flynn's "In the Palace of the King." He is "Saldan's" "The Rendezvous." Because of the periods and districts in which the stories are laid, many of the articles being made would be impossible to obtain in the shops.
MEDICINE SCIENCE AIDS FILM REALISM

Several of the most noted medical and chemical experts in the United States acted as technical advisers with William C. Frolich, director, and Milton Sills, star at Universal City, during the filming of the final scenes of "Legally Dead," the new mystery play, which has just been completed. The experts supervise the scenes showing life being restored by the use of adrenalin, the strange chemical whose properties, just discovered, have upset the entire medical world.

The play is based on the bringing of a man, killed by hanging, back to life by use of the uncanny drug. It has been one of real life-news dashes are few of it daily—and Charles Furthmann's play, written ten years ago and then discarded, is now a play based on today.

The actual details of the operation were supervised by Dr. George C. Frolich of Boston, sales manager of the drug, and chemical division of the United Drug Company, an international organization. Frolich, twenty years ago, put the first drug on the market in America when a member of the research staff of the firm of Davis and Company, and since then has been internationally known as an expert on the drug. With him were H. S. Skoog, vice-president of the firm; George A. Wilson, research expert, and his son, R. J. Wilson, and C. P. Pratten, general manager of the Owl Drug Company.

Maurice Murphy, convicted and executed convict in the play, underwent the operation in mimic several times while the experts checked and approved. Several Sicilian doctors also were on hand to criticize and suggest.

The play stars Milton Sills supported by Claire Adams and a large cast. It was filmed behind closed doors and practically completely before the idea was allowed to be made public, lest other producers seize on the idea.

Hines is Hurt

Johnny Hines, star of "Little Johnny Jones," now in production by Warner Brothers, is taking a forced rest as the result of an injury received last week while on location. He received a deep cut about the hand when some thick glass he was working on was accidentally dropped. Hines is expected to be back in a few days. Director Rosson rendered temporary aid until Johnny was able to open the band-aid box and sew up the wound. He was rushed to the hospital by W. W. Martin of Los Angeles, who was stationed there as an ambulance driver, and was later taken home by Dr. Harry W. Martin of San Pedro harbor.

POLA'S RIVAL NOW HERE TO WIN FAME

Pola Negri has a screen rival. Sylva Nadin has arrived in Hollywood, fresh from Poland, the land where the famous Pola hails from, and she has journeyed these thousands of miles to California's famous film colony to make her name in the American movies.

In Poland, Sylva Nadina is noted for her beauty and talents. She has been in theatricals since her childhood and appeared before the footlights in both dramatic offering and light opera. She has toured Europe with various noted repertoire companies, playing Paris, Berlin, Moscow, London and practically all of the European capitals.

She has also appeared in several foreign films and her successes in these has brought her to America in search of a better field.

Miss Nadin is somewhat on the Negri image. She has dark hair and eyes and is a little over five feet six in height. She speaks English fluently but with a Polish accent.

She says that she is not a Pola Negri imitator and will not attempt to emulate her famous countrywoman, but will try to express her own personality.

Miss Nadin is stopping at the Hollywood hotel, but will soon move to a bungalow in the Hollywood hills which has been rented for her by her manager.

She has several offers from film producers under consideration and her first American screen appearance will probably be in a leading role in a new production to be made by William P. Adron. Adron is the film producer, who is just completing the film spectacle, "Tutankhamen."

BAGGOT DENIES HE HAS PLANS TO ACT AGAIN

King Baggot has issued an emphatic denial of the report that he is to return to the screen as an actor.

The Universal director, who used to star in the early days branded as false the report published in a New York paper that a syndicate of business men were organizing a company to star him in big productions.

"I have just signed a new contract to direct for Carl Laemmle, and I have no intention of letting in any of Laemmle's affairs, I have just entrusted me with a big Jewel production starring a new actor, and our relations are extremely cordial."
News and Gossip About the Moving Throng of Movieland

Lewis Gets London Offer

Ralph Lewis has just received an offer from the London Film Company in England to go there and direct a picture in a big screen drama based on the life of the famous Dr. Samuel Johnson. According to the offer, Lewis's splendid characterization of the niser in "The Conquering Power" was responsible for him getting the offer to portray the role of one of the greatest and most unique figures in English literature. Husky Ralph will be unable to accept the offer, owing to his newly signed long-time contract.

When N. G. is N. G.

Muriel Frances Dana gave her friends a laugh the other day at the Metropolitan Theatre, when she went into the filming of scenes for "Desire." Muriel's mother was speaking to merrily of the theater trip that the company was to make for locations. She mentioned Muriel's school lessons, and said that Muriel would have to continue them during the trip.

"But, mother," spoke up the tiny starlet, "can't we N. G. the lessons for a while?"

Devan to Vacation

His contract with Mack Sennett being all but completed, Billy Devan who has been appearing in tworeelers at the Edendale studio, is making plans for a vacation which will last several months. He is considering several propositions, and has decided to remain on the screen. Devan is an Australian by birth, and was formerly a member of the Pollard Opera Company. His first engagement was at the Moro stock company theatre, and shortly thereafter he was signed up for the comedies.

Mrs. Webb Seriously Ill

Millard Webb, production manager for Warner Brothers, left Hollywood this week for his father-in-law's home in Chicago, where his wife is seriously ill. Mrs. Webb is the daughter of C. E. Stocking, president of the American Canners' Association, and has been confined to a sick bed since January of this year. Failure to respond to medical treatment has resulted in a serious condition. At the time of his departure, Webb, with Jack Warner, was making preliminary preparations for the "Tiger Rose," production, which Sidney Franklin is to supervise for the Warners.

E. R. Hickson, art director for the Ben Wilson productions, operating at the Blevilla studio, is working on the complete building of one of the very few technical experts about a studio who has received fan letters. A letter reached Los Angeles last week from Honolulu, written by a woman, who will negotiate on over Mr. Hickson's work in the last Ben Wilson production to be released. Miss Johnson is asking Mr. Hickson, the director to Mr. Wilson for the last two years.

Takes Typewriter in Hand

Louise Fazenda has been hitting the keys of the typewriter she received last Christmas until 1 a.m. this week and has now completed and sent to an eastern fan magazine an installment of "Screen Impressions," in which she has characterized ten notables of filmland. About a year ago Miss Fazenda had a frightfully bad cold in connection with her impressions which made such a hit that she has been assigned to a second series. The comedian plans to have more installments ready before she commences the role of a "Mabel," which she will negotiate in "The Day of Faith," wanted Harold Charles Brabin wanted him for "The Snow of Tsingtao," and Emmett Flynn, who is directing the "Two-Footed King," also wants the make-up expert for a part in his picture.

Vidor Seeks New Story

The days are not long enough for King Vidor. Here he is spending an average working day editing "Three Wise Fools," which he has just finished directing for Goldwyn, and then he turns around and is back in the studio for another eight-hour shift when he attempts to read all the manuscripts, novels, plays and synopses which are stacked up in his office waiting his decision.

In a Quandary

Architects, contractors and accountants are busily engaged with Allen Holubar in estimating whether it will be cheaper for the young Metro producer to build a company plant in Hollywood to make "East of Suez" from Lloyd Sheldon's stage play, or whether money can be saved by building the Oriental streets and structures required in the production in Hollywood. "East of Suez" will be Holubar's second picture under his new million-dollar contract with Metro. The production will be made on a lavish scale with an all-star cast.

Hazel Deane Recovering

Hazel Deane, Christie leading woman, who has been seriously ill in the hospital for seven weeks, is on the road to recovery, and has been able to return to her home. Miss Deane was stricken with peritonitis and for four weeks lay at the point of death, when with four doctors in consultation an operation was decided upon. She won on the bare chance of recovery and is now rapidly regaining her strength. It will be several weeks, however, before she will be able to resume her film work.

Woodsmen Washed Up

"Back to the Woods," the Christie led picture, filmed in the main near Mount Lassen in Northern California, has been completed under director Sidney's direction, and is scheduled for release in June. This comedy, preceded by "Plumb Crazy," has completed a long series of pictures, twenty in all. Neal Burna is starred in "Back to the Woods," while Bobby Vernon is the comedy star in "Plumb Crazy."

Mrs. Corrigan's Husband

Mrs. Emmett Corrigan, lovely Irish girl on the stage of not so long ago, has arrived in Los Angeles from New York to be with her husb. Wesley, who is playing a prominent part with Marshall Neilan in his Russian drama, "The Rendezvous." As Mr. Corrigan was in the costume of a Russian colonel and under a heavy coat of grease paint at the time of the arrival of Mrs. Corrigan's train, William Farnum, Corri- gan's fellow "Ben Hur," did the completed second Ben Turpin to screenland. She will remain until her husband completes his picture work here.

Aquilaut Script Ready

Jules Purnahan, whose scenar- ios have included such special productions as "The Queen of Sheba" and "Victory," has written the script of "Aquilaut," the continuity of "The Aquilaut," which is Priscilla Dean's next Universal-Jewel starring picture, which was opened to an appreciative public in London. Clarence L. Brown will direct the vehicle with a cast of importance in support of Miss Dean.

Turpin On His Feet Again

Under the supervision of Mack Sennett, Herman Raymaker has been a special, for Pathe release, titled Pittfalls of a Big City." The zigg- zaz comedy star claims to be the only one in the race, and almost any other, that his picture is finished, because as he says himself, he can be able to stay in an upright position for a while. The last few days I worked in "Pittfalls" I was on my head most of the time."

CREIGHTON, BEING LATE ONE, IS "HELD UP"

In order to complete his screen version of "Trilby" on schedule time, Richard Walton Tully's company has been doing much night work recently. Several nights last week's troupe worked until morning, and frequently during that time were back on the job at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Creighton Hale, the "little Bil- lee" of the play, insists that upon his arrival home in the cool of the morning, his face was mistaken for an intruder and assaulted by his two sons, who had grown up and forgot- ten the past. When they were Colougl, the Taffy in Trilby, tells in all sincerity of having pulled out his own dog upon his return home, after an all night session.
The millions of Harold Bell Wright readers who have been awaiting the filming of "The Barbaras Worth" by Principal Pictures Corporation, will have to wait a few months longer. The announcement of the organization, announces that due to the huge amount of research work necessary to prepare the cast and crew to the many important details necessary before starting, it is impossible to position actual filming on the story until early in September.

However, the Wright fans will not be utterly disappointed, for with this announcement from Lesser, comes word that another Harold Bell Wright story will take "Barbara's" place. This is "When a Man's a Man," a story which is an entry that the amusement paper of book sales throughout the world.

Strange to say, the characters cast were for "Barbara Worth" are ideally suited to "When a Man's a Man." Consequently, the starring roles will have the principal roles and a strong supporting cast is nothing being assembled.

Work is being rushed at top speed on the script and the company will shortly leave for Maine. It is hoped that in this area practically all of the famous author's works.

Meanwhile research workers will keep busy preparing full data for "Barbara Worth," so that when September appears on the calendar, the Principal Pictures Corporation will be fully prepared to film this great story.

Harold Bell Wright has telegraphed Mr. Lesser to the effect he will be prepared to assist in the selection of stars on the film. It's his "When a Man's a Man" and that he is already making preparations to journey from his Tuscany home to Prescott, Arizona, where most of the episodes will be given to the screen.

The policy of our organization to start a story un until every detail pertaining to its filming is in readiness," said Sol Lesser, in speaking of the postpoment of "Barbara Worth."

"We found," continued the film official, "that there was still much preparation to complete before we could proceed very much. Consequently it was decided to wait until every detail irrespective of its importance, be arranged.

"I have every reason to feel that 'When a Man's a Man' will be an equally popular story and as such it is not as much advance preparation necessary. Edward F. Cline who was contracted for the direct 'Barbara Worth,' will act in a like capacity for the new Wright story and I am convinced we will be able to obtain a truly remarkable photo-play—one that will be as appealing and exciting as the Harold Bell Wright readers and all the picture fans will relish viewing."

FOR THOSE WHO MAY INQUIRE FOR MISS McGUIRE

Kathryn McGuire is a very busy girl nowadays who is amply justifying the Wampas' inclusion of her among the 1922 series of the Stars of Tomorrow. She has just finished playing the heroine in two independent productions, and has signed with Thomas at the Hollywood studios and entitled "The Silent Accuser" and "Other Men's Money." Today she starts at Warner Brothers' studio, creating the role of Vivian Gates in the Julien Josephson story of newspaper life in a small town. Its present title is "The Printer's Devil"; Wesley Barry has the name part and Harry Meyers will also be featured in the cast, which is being directed by William A. Wellman.

In the short space of eighteen months, since she played in Mayer, Kathryn McGuire has worked in eight dramatic productions and one feature length comedy. These include, "The Silent Accuser," "The Crossroads of New York," "Buckin' the Line," "Playing With Fire," "The Woman in Bronze," "The Flame of Life," the two Thomas productions, and "The Shirke of Araby." Recently she was in "Great Day," which was produced by United Artists and directed by Richard Bennett. She chose this as the American beauty so eminent a group of connoisseurs as James Montgomery Flagg, Clarence Underwood, Eugene V. Brewer and others.

Richard Bennett has been engaged by Sam Goldwyn to create the role of "Brano," in his forthcoming production, "The Eternal City," which will be produced by United Artists, under the direction of Mr. George Fitzmaurice.

WONDER CHILD OF STAGE RETURNS TO SCREEN

Following a tour of the Pan- age's circuit in a special dancing act, Lynwood Crystal Rapp, six-year-old child artist, has resumed her work in motion pictures, having been engaged this week by James Calnay to play the title role in "Little Philippe DeLaCey in 'Why So We Live?'" a story exposing the evils of capital punishment.

LESHER CHANGES PLANS, BUT NOT AUTHORS

FINIS FOX GETS A NEW RELEASE CONTRACT

After one of the quickest trips on record, Finis Fox, author, director and independent film producer, returned last week from New York, where he closed a releasing contract with Associated Exhibitors of New York. Under the terms of the contract, "The Man Between," a drama of modern life in the quaint old city of Quebec.

Mr. Fox cut and titled his picture while en route east and notwithstanding the fact that he was offered several releasing contracts by other companies, he signed with Associated Exhibitors three days after his arrival in the eastern metropolis.

"The Man Between" was written and directed by Finis Fox and adapted as a screenplay by Lois Zellner. Sam Landers, who has to his credit such successful pictures as "The Chimes of Nelson," "The River's End," and others, was in charge of the photography.

Included in the cast are such well-known artists as Alan Forrest, Volta Vale, Edna Murphy, Kittie Bradbury, Philo McCallopin, Little Gentile, Edward DeLacy and others.

Mr. Fox will resume production activities at once at the Fine Art studios. His next picture will be a comedy drama written by himself in collaboration with Miss Zellner, entitled "Bag and Burgeon." Practically his same production staff will be re-engaged and a cast of excep- tional talent will portray the principal roles in the story.

BOLAND IS SUPPORTING JACKIE COOGAN AGAIN

Eddie Boland is playing with Jackie Coogan again. This time he's the personal bodyguard to the Crown Prince Ferdinand William Otto, which is the role being created by Jackie in the picturization of Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Long Live the King," now being filmed at the Metro studios under the direction of Victor Schertzinger and the personal supervision of Jack Coogan.

Eddie Boland is an oldtime favorite on the coast, who started in child parts with the Grand Opera House stock company in San Francisco and later became treasurer of this theatre. Only return behind the footlights after he achieved long trousers and a bass voice.

Boland played the role of Toby Craddock in the Jackie Coogan picturization of "Oliver Twist."
Bob Dillon is directing the "Santa Fe Trail," a Neva Ger- ber production, at the Brentwood studios.

Royce Combe is in Miami working on the finishing scenes of "The Hars of Hunter's production, "Wild Love."

In real life Claude King and Evelyn Walsh Hall are husband and wife. In Charles J. Brabin's production of "Six Days they are brother and sister.

Mary Jane Snyder, who plays one of the leading roles in "Blow Your Own Horn," Robertson-Cole, has purchased a bungalow in the Hollywood Hills.

Ben Lyon will leave the cast of "Mary the Third," having left the executives of the film leading roles in Sam Goldwyn's screen version of "Potash and Perlmutter."

Elias Bullock, popular Russian actor, late of the Khanjoff-Koff Company, Moscow, has been engaged to play Arthur Rand in the "Santa Fe Trail," a Neva Gerber production.

Wyndham Standing is now playing one of the leading roles in "Little Johnnie Jones," the George M. Cohan stage play being produced by Author Rosson for Warner Brothers.

Warner Baxter, who plays one of the leading roles in "Blow Your Own Horn," has gotten the monoplane fever and has purchased several lots in the vicinity of the Power Studios.

Pierre Collings has completed shooting "Blow Your Own Horn" for F. B. O. and will shortly begin work on "Alimony" under the direction of Emile Chautard for the same organization.

"Tiny" Sanford, who just finished playing the "heavy" with the Andy Gump Company at Universal City, is now supporting Milbourne Moranti in a new comedy being filmed at the Russel studios.

Dorothy Phillips, star of "Slender the Woman," an Allen Holubar production and other notable screen successes of recent years, has been presented with a fast sailing boat with an auxiliary engine by her famous husband, Allen Holubar, producer and director. The gift was in the nature of a wedding anniversary present and it is one of the trimmest and speediest craft of its kind registered at the San Pedro Marine-City, of which Miss Phillips is a member.

George Hackathorne has completed his role in "Human Wreckage," Mrs. Wallace Reid's anti-society film. His portrayal of a down-trodden addict of drugs is said by critics to be most impressive.

Lucille Ricksen, youngest leading lady in films, now enacting the leading feminine role in Marshall Neilan's "The Ren dezvous;" can boast of a line of Danish ancestors dating back to the courageous vikings.

After nearly three months in the leading character role of "The Seventh Veil," Harry F. O. special, Edward Mar tindell has been cast in a similar part in Tod Browning's production of "Goldwyn's "The Pay of Faith," which has just gotten under way.

Charles Whittaker, who adapted Balzac's "The Magic Skin," has many screen successes to his credit and has adapted scripts for such stars as Mary Pickford, Nazimova, Leatrice Joy, or Jeanne Claire Kimball Young and Pauline Frederick.

Blanche Sweet made her stage début at the age of one year when she was carried on as "the babe in arms," and her little blonde curls were braided into tiny pigtails to denote the pov erty of the mother, who unknowingly held a future screen star in her arms.

Wally Van, who plays the role of Rastignae in "The Magic Skin," which George D. Baker is directing at Goldwyn's, was one of the first screen comedians. He played with John Bunny in the old Vitagraph days and later directed him in several pictures.

Charles Conklin, known from Tasmania to Siberia as the mous tached comedian in Mack Sennett comedies, has been signed by the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation to interpret his first dramatic role, that of Young Darby in "The Day of Faith," the Arthur Somers Roche story that Tod Browning will direct.

Dorothy Phillips, star of "Slender the Woman," an Allen Holubar production and other notable screen successes of recent years, has been presented with a fast sailing boat with an auxiliary engine by her famous husband, Allen Holubar, producer and director. The gift was in the nature of a wedding anniversary present and it is one of the trimmest and speediest craft of its kind registered at the San Pedro Marine City, of which Miss Phillips is a member.

Ralph Lewis will shortly begin work on Emory Johnson's latest F. B. O. Production, the title of which is as yet unde cided. The story is from the pen of Mrs. Emilie Johnson, the producer's mother, and narrates the romance and home life of a mall man.

Marrie Astaire, who is making her début in feature productions in "Lights Out," the F. B. O. Production under the direction of Al Santol, is an eccentric dancer of note. She is the proud possessor of a series of Benda Masks, which typify the spirit of one of her most popular num bers.

Molly Malone has been engaged to play the feminine lead opposite Johnny Hines in the Warner Brothers' film version of George M. Cohan's stage hit, "Little Johnny Jones." Harry Myers has also been added to the cast, and Arthur Rosson is direc ting the picture.

Little Billy Windsor, who plays Indian at home, met his Waterloo when attending "The Convict Wagon. His pretty mother, who is Clara Blandick, who you know, wanted him to go up on the stage and meet the Indians who take part in the prologue "No," little Billy voiced in protest, "I'm afraid— because they're real."

Maurice Murphy, son of John F. Murphy, noted attorney of Seattle, Wash., and a child prodigy both as a photoplayer and a pianist, has just completed an engagement in the Universal production of "The Self-Made Wife," in which he plays the part of Tim, Jr., sharing the screen honors with Ethel Grey Terry.

Irving Cummings has completed casting for his mammoth independent production, "Broken Hearts of Broadway," which he is now filming at the Hollywood studios. Among the prominent screen players appearing in the heartfelt romance of the world's most famous street are Colleen Moore, Johnnie Walker, Alice Lake, Kate Price, Creigh Halle and others. The picture is being produced on a lavish scale and upon its comple tion will be turned to New York by the young producer personally and it will be given its premier at a large Broadway theatre.

Allen Holubar is preparing to "shovel" the last piece of decora tion under the Metro banner and he will begin casting some time this week. He has purchased the old downtown lot of the sensational New York stage suc cess, which will be filmed as his second Metro release. The fa mous producer-director has been assigned Joseph Schenck's old office in this building and the main trination of his company's Hollywood studios.

Two brand new McFarland motor cars have been added to the Al St. John string of "speed buggies." Last week the young Fox comedian visited the motor sales rooms of Los Angeles, and before he completed the rounds of auto row he ordered the two cars—one a handsome touring model and the other a striking sedan—wrapped up and delivered to his palatial Hollywood home. Evidently throwing cus tomers and making monkeys of big! St. John now owns nine motors and one aero plane.

Eulalie Jensen, celebrated feature player of the screen, is acting as guardian over a school of young British Laird Bairn, during the absence of the charming young artist from Hollywood. Recently Miss Jensen, who will be shortly seen in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," attempted to change the water in the bowl over the heads of the golden-hued members of the finny tribe and while doing so she caused the sudden demise of one of the fish colony by pinching it while attempting to catch the slippery little fel low. The pinch proved fatal, and Miss Jensen has been sorrowing over the loss ever since.

Dr. H. W. Half, physician and surgeon who was formerly associated with Bellevue and New York postgraduate hospitals in New York City, where he was engaged in special surgery and gynecological research, has been placed in 6702 Hollywood Boulevard, where he will cater to professional patronage.

Ed Yeager, formerly manager for the Reliable Photoplay Players Association, has severed his con nection with that organization. He is succeeded by Miss Betty Jean, who is receiving the cooperation of Merwin Gouldthrite as studio representative.

Ruth Stonehouse, now appearing in the role of "Hairpin Annie" in "Lights Out," the Paul Dickey-Mann Page stage play, just received an old still picture from Turriton that was in production when she was playing in Triangle productions. The still was still a photograph of herself still— Story No. 567—Ruth Stonehouse and Jack Gilbert—Director Jack Conway. The still was a present from an old friend who has often worked with Miss Stonehouse.
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, May 21

Camera! intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 499-360

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BERWILLA STUDIO. 5821 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>Ashton Dearheart, Pro. Mgr.</td>
<td>(Arrow release).</td>
<td>(Federated release).</td>
<td>(Editing).</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eddie Lyons Productions</td>
<td>Eddie Lyons, Eddie Lyons</td>
<td>McMillin, McMillin</td>
<td>Ditz, Ditz</td>
<td>Wilkie, Wilkie</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eugene De Rose Productions</td>
<td>Bobby Dunn, Bobby Dunn</td>
<td>McCullough, McCullough</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ben Wilkenson-Flynn Productions</td>
<td>Ben Wilkenson, All-Star</td>
<td>Edmund Milen, Earl Turner</td>
<td>Evelyn Campbell</td>
<td>“Mine to Keep”</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BREATZOOD STUDIO. 4811 Fountain Ave.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>598-146</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHAPLIN STUDIO. Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>1416 La Brea Ave.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Regent Film Company. (United Artists release)</td>
<td>Charles Chaplin, Bus Parvinell, Holly Totheroh</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>439-764</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C. E. TREI Production STUDIO. 6044 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHRISTIE STUDIO.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>439-764</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Revere Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shell Craft Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sheriff MacDonald Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SWICKARD PRODUCTIONS.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Better Picture Association</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>598-165</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>West Coast Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CRESCENT PRODUCTIONS.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FINE ARTS STUDIOS</td>
<td>Individual Casting. 4500 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mission Film Co.</td>
<td>Norman Walker, Business Mgr.</td>
<td>David Kirkland, All-Star</td>
<td>David Abei, All-Star</td>
<td>Wallace Clifton</td>
<td>“The Rarefoot Roy”</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fred Caldwell Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jonas McCarthy Productions. (Western Pictures Exploitation)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jess Robbins Productions. (Vitagraph release)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sunset Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FOX STUDIO.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arthur Forde, Casting. 1401 N. Western Ave.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FRANCIS FORD STUDIO.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rocky M. Productions Co.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GARSON STUDIOS. 1845 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metro Release.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDSTONE STUDIO. 6050 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phil Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDFWIN STUDIO. R. B. Melntyre, Casting. Culver City.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Van Strahlern, All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charles Babin, All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jean Rhys, All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edith MacGowen, All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metro pictures.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comosat Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

“Pulse of the Studios”

Page Seventeen
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>GRAND STUDIO.</td>
<td>Ben Verschleiser, General Manager.</td>
<td>Holly 162</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monte Banks Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sid Smith Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe Rock Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chas. R. Seiling Productions. (Aywon release). 1442 Beachwood Drive.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOLLWOOD STUDIOS. 6642 Santa Monica Blvd. J. Jasper. Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 1431</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richard Thomas Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Irving Cummings Productions. Charles Woolstenhulme, Production Manager.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INCE STUDIO. Horace Williams, Casting. Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr. Culver City.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>761731</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palmer Photoplay Productions. Cortland Productions. Mrs. Wallace Reid Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TRIMBLE-MURFIN PRODUCTIONS.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supreme Art Productions. Chas. J. Hall</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LASKY STUDIOS. L. M. Goodstadt, Casting. 1520 Vine St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 2400</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount Pictures. (Famous Players-Lasky Release.)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LASKY STUDIOS. 3800 Mission Rd. Individual Casting. Lincoln 2120</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mayer-Schulberg Studio.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>METRO STUDIO. Romane and Cahenga Ave. Harry Kerr, Casting.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 4485</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 4470</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists Release.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rex Ingram Productions. (Metro release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt Stromberg Productions. (Metro Release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edward Sloman Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 4470</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor M. P. Corp. C. A. Willat, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PICK-FORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 7100 Santa Monica Blvd. Hollywood.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 7901</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists Release.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rex Ingram Productions. (Metro release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt Stromberg Productions. (Metro Release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edward Sloman Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 4470</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor M. P. Corp. C. A. Willat, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 7901</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UNITED ARTISTS RELEASE.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rex Ingram Productions. (Metro release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt Stromberg Productions. (Metro Release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edward Sloman Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 4470</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor M. P. Corp. C. A. Willat, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 7901</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Sensational Bargains
At Filmland's Wardrobe Shop
Gowns, Hats, Shoes
a complete wardrobe at absurdly low cost. Must be seen to be appreciated.
Come in Today!
Screen Stars Wardrobe Exchange
2006 Ivar Avenue
(in the brown residence on the corner)

All Legal Matters
Attorney and Counselor at Law
JACK P. LEONARD
340 Douglas Bldg. Consultation Free
Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone 659-42

Works of Art from China and Japan
Oriental Costume Co.
6225 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 5954

Raymond McKee
The Friars Club
New York City

Minor Blythe
Attorney-at-Law
Suite 620 Pacific Finance Bldg.
Los Angeles
Telephone 134-88

HOOVER STUDIOS
6321 Hollywood Boulevard
Telephone Holly 9161
Only the Finest Types of Professional Photography
All Sittings Made by Appointment

Reproductions
Still Finishing
LITTLE
Commercial Photographer
Phone 417902
5074 Hollywood Blvd. Corner Bronson

Animated Cartoons—Original Title Ideas—
Clay Animation—Miniature Sets and Animated Figures
Cinema Arts Studio
ELMER H. YOUNG, Mrr.
612 Liassner Bldg. Phone 644-42

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"

MANY THINGS NECESSARY
(Continued from Page 5)

swim, to ride horseback, play golf, tennis, bridge—these are all necessary things if one is to win—but they may all be learned with study.
"Acting—here is the most important point of all—and I honestly believe it is the most essential thing for a screen success—this is today the prime requisite.
"By acting, I do not mean ranting all over the place or following any of the old rules, but the ability to put a point on the screen with conviction, naturalness and sincerity.
"Times have changed in the moving picture industry as well as elsewhere.
"It is not customary now to refer to a moving picture actress as the beautiful Miss Standish, but as the girl who did such narrowingly interesting work in such and such a picture.
"Screen acting is something much more subtle than making faces or expressive features—it is the capacity for making a character live without words to help.
"Personality is as important as beauty, and there are still two other attributes of vast importance—common sense and a good disposition.
"If a girl possesses all these qualifications, she must still remember that she has something like ten or fifteen thousand competitors who are professionals and already soldly entrenched in the various studios.
Miss Moore is one of the youngest of the stars, but she started work before the camera at the age of sixteen and has been constantly on the screen ever since.

WANTED—Bel-Howell Tripod. 659-46.

WANTED—A first-class film cutter. Apply at once. Phil Goldenstein Productions, 605 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood.

VICTOR HOTEL HAS SOME MORE OF THOSE WONDERFUL COLLEGE PADS FOR YOU. THEY'RE FROM CHAMPIONSHIP
STOCK AND SURE ARE BETTER.
LOOK 'EM OVER: PHONE HOLLY 2881.

For Sale—Pathe Camera, Complete Outfit; dissolving shutter; 10 magazines. Price $300.00.
Phone Wil. 3009.

AVAILABLE NOW, BEL & HOWELL WITH COMPLETE STUDIO EQUIPMENT.
BLAINE WALKER, 914 SOUTH OLIVE STREET, TELEPHONE MAIN 2746.

FOR RENT—Bel & Howell Camera, 120 shutter, full equipment, excellent condition.
Phone 377-674.

FOR RENT—High-grade still outfits, $5.00 per week, Little, The Big Photographer, 5874

MOTION PICTURE PRODUCERS' ASSOCIATION,
1003 Hollingsworth Bldg. Main 1072

Jerry Marx, Inc.
Chester Bennett Productions
Canyon Comedies
Charlton Studio
City Film Corporation
C. E. Chester Productions
Cinema Comedies
Cinema Film Supply
Clayton Films
CMC Productions
Colin Berry Productions
Colli Productions
Douglas Pathiesen Picture Corporation
Rose Film Co.

Famous Players-Lasky Corporation
Roberts-Clark Studio, Inc.

Marion Ware
Acting and Make-Up for Stage and Motion Pictures.
A Legitimate, Practical School of Results. Classical, Character, Ballet, and Step-Dancing.
421-4 Music Arts Bldg. Telephone 821-181

QUICK MONEY RELEASE!
Producers—Active or Prospective—Get in Touch with a LIVEL One
H. and B. Film Company
Distributor—Producers
Bronx Studio, 1745 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles.

FUR RUGS. FUR ROBES. FUR STORAGE AND RENOVATING
MOUNTINGS OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS

COLBURNS TAXIDERMY STUDIO
933-935 South Broadway . . . . Telephone 643-13

Touring Cars $2 per Hour. Limousines $2.50 per Hour.
Special Rates on Studio Trips and Touring.

S U N S E T T A X I
577-994
578-280

MOTION PICTURE STUDIO FOR RENT
Open Stage, 100' x 100'; Open Stage, 60' x 100'; Dark Stage, 125' long; 26
Dressing Rooms; Carpenter Shop; Paint Shop; Projection Room; Dark Room; Modern
Office Building; Flats; Props. Can divide. Corner Venice Boulevard and Durango, near Culver Junction, Culver City. Open for inspection.

FRED L. HUNT, Owner
333 Title Insurance Bldg.
For permanent tenant $750 per month

812 Madison Bldg.
"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"

FROM U TO YOU

Work has started at Universal City on "Lonesome Luck," a new western story. It will be followed by similar offerings. William Craft is directing. Jack Daugherty stars. Margaret Morris plays opposite him.

From Los Angeles to San Francisco by steamer, a few hours' wait and back on the next boat, was the queer trip taken by King Baggot, director; Baby Peggy, diminutive film star, and a big camera. Universal City engaged in the filming of the new Baby Peggy play, a full-sized feature in which she is supported by a big cast of grown-ups.

The Baby Peggy play, "Wanted, a Home," was written by King Baggot and Raymond L. Schrock. In the big cast surrounding the tiny actress are Fred Emiletton, Sheldon Lewis, William Conklin, Dave Lawrence, Betty Francesca and others. The picture deals with the adventures of a small emigrant whose mother dies on shipboard, and how she finally wins a new home in America. It is a dramatic story, but rich in heart interest.

Production has just been completed at Universal City on "The Self-Made Wife," which was produced with an all-star cast under the direction of Jack Dillon.

The film play was adapted from the Elizabeth Alexander novel, published first as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post. Edward T. Lowe made the screen adaptation and Charles Kenyon wrote the scenario. The cast includes such well-known players as Ethel Grey Terry, Virginia Ainsworth, Crawford Kent, Phillips Smalley and Dorothy Cummings. Jack Dillon, who directed the play, has directed many outstanding screen successes, including "Suds," with Mary Pickford.

Perley Poore Sheehan, who adapted "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" from Hugo's classic, is taking up magazine writing again. He recently completed several stories. Before coming to the films, Sheehan's work was well known in Munsey's, Century, and other magazines.

Edmund Mortimer, directing Herbert Rawlinson in "Thicker Than Water" at Universal City, might have been an engineer if he hadn't become a film director. He graduated from a noted technical college, and today loves to delve into mechanical problems as a recreation after his film work.

Mike Doulin, famous baseball player of a few years ago, is a member of the cast of "Railroaded," just completed at Universal City with Herbert Rawlinson as the star.

Laura La Plante, playing opposite Hoot Gibson in "Out of Luck," has become an airplane fan. Al Wilson, the Universal City stunt aviator, started it—he took her for a flight. Now she's so indignant because Wilson won't teach her how to operate a plane. "And he says himself it's safer than driving an auto," she complains. "Men are the peculiar sex, all right."!

Cesar Gravina, who has returned to Universal City following a visit to San Francisco, has the unique distinction of being an airborne actor as well as a film director. He graduated from a noted technical college, and upon his arrival he received the news that a story he recently wrote has been accepted by a large South American magazine. He has written considerable fiction in Spanish which has appeared in Madrid and South American publications. His home is in Brazil.

Men in All Walks of Life Enjoy the Many Advantages Offered by this Bank

Strength, adequate resources, progressiveness—these are the qualities which make banking pleasant for the customer and profitable for the bank.

All these qualities combined have made the past years very fortunate for this firm which has been founded on the good will of its customers.

Resources 60 Million Dollars

WE MOVE THE MOVIES AND SHINE ON SERVICE

Mary Philbin, who displays unusual emotional dramatic ability as the little hand organ girl in "Merry-Go-Round," the Universal-spectacle of Viennese life, soon to be released as a Universal-Jewel production, has been cast for the leading role in "Where Is This West?" in which Jack Hoxie is starred. It will be Miss Philbin's first appearance in a western drama. A dozen cowboys in the Hoxie production at Universal City have volunteered to work overtime to teach the little Chicago beauty to ride horseback.

Her work in "Merry-Go-Round" afforded one of the distinct surprises of the year at Universal City and is predicted by Rupert Julian, who directed the picture, to make her one of the outstanding emotional successes of the screen.

"Where Is This West?" is a comedy drama written by George C. Hull of the Universal scenario staff and is being filmed under the direction of George E. Marshall, who directed Hoxie in his last feature, "Don Quickshot of the Rio Grande."
NEWS FROM NEW YORK
(Continued from Page 6)

R. William Neill, director, Lucy Fox, star, and W. R. Woolbridge, production manager, arrived in New York last week from Naples after a seven months' stay in Italy, during which "Toilers of the Sea," was made. Holmes Herbert and Lucius Henderson are also in the cast.

Margaret Anglin will present "The Hippolytus of Euripides," in the Greek Theatre at Berkeley, Calif., on May 21st at the invitation of the U. or C. extended through its president.

There was a great rush for seats for the mammoth benefit performance of the N. Y. A. It was a triple affair and was given simultaneously on Sunday evening, May 13, at the Metropolitan Opera House, Hippodrome and at the Manhattan Opera House. These are Gotham's greatest playhouses and the list of artists who appeared on the bill included the names of every vaudeville headliner within travel of New York on Sunday.

Frank Lloyd has been placed under contract to make a series of Frank Lloyd Productions for First National.

Lynn Reynolds, for nine years a director of features, has joined the forces of the First National Pictures, Inc., at the United Studios. His first picture will be "The Huntress," and will be made on location in the high Sierras.

Joseph Schenck has arrived from the coast to attend the First National conventions at Atlantic City and New York and to make arrangements for renting a Broadway theatre next September in which to present "Ashes of Vengeance," Norma Talmadge's new feature. This is the first time Schenck has rented a theatre for picture purposes. His plan is to give two performances a day charging two dollars to two-fifty top.

Marguerite Courtet (Mrs. Raymond McKee) has signed to do "Rainbow," a special for Distinctive Pictures, which will be filmed in Virginia.

IN BEHALF OF MOTHER'S LAW
(Continued from Page 7)

the rearing of the walls of the big setting, "It will take a lot of music to fill that place, but we'll have it.”

Whereupon he moved his own piano and violin to the studio and organized an orchestra of his former co-workers which are providing the music for the scenes—music which, by the way, is of Schertzinger's own composing.

"Tourists who acquired rheumatic necks watching the rearing of Doug Fairbanks’

---DIAMONDS--- High Five Cash Price Paid for Two dated S. D. COHN
208 Bank of Italy Bldg.
C. Seventh and Olive Sts.

Wanted -— DIAMONDS
Higher Cash Price Paid for Two

S. D. COHN
208 Bank of Italy Bldg.
C. Seventh and Olive Sts.

Location Lunches on Short Notice
KWI LUNCH
Holly 7660
1626 Cahuenga Ave.
1714 Highland Ave. 7660 Sunset Blvd.

“The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry”

Motion Picture Cameras for Rent
Late Model B & H Still and Graflex Cameras rented by day or week. Ultra-Speed Slow Motion and Akeley Cameras rented with operators.

For Information Call
Ricco Bros.
PHOTOGRAPHERS
6035 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 4338

Hugh Hoffman
Scenarist and Production Supervisor
Gladys Walton unit. Universal
Current production, “The Unstoppable”
Herbert Blaché, Directing

Professional Photographs
It Costs No More for Quality Photographs at "Los Angeles' Forest Theatrical Studio"

Evans Studio
We are professional photographers and have the best equipment for making Portraits—Publicity Photographs Special Studios—Commercial work and Enlargements.
6039 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 2560

“The One Bright Spot Friday Nights”

American Legion Stadium
Hollywood at El Centro
Holly 100 for reservations

SEE BRUNO
For Your Casting Director Photos
6412 Hollywood Boulevard

Apartment Shop Specials
Raccoon coat; several Foxes—15 Wonderful Sequin Dresses, Flame-over-Gold Dinner Gown, King Blue and Purple Velvet Wraps, Wonderful Sport Clothes, Shoes, Hats, Furs. A trial will convince. I carry only the Best.

Apartment 3
1310 Lilac Terrace
(near 1400 Sunset)
Telephone Main 257
Millions Will Remember

Yale Boss POPULAR "KID" STAR FOR
Biograph — Edison — Thanhouser

Light Comedy and Straight Comedy
Phone 821-746

John Henry
Playing Juvenile Leads and Heavies
(Formerly with Shusterman Stock Company, Boston)
Phone Holly 6513

DORIS BAKER
INGENUE

Formerly one of the best known child actresses on the screen. Again in pictures after a long and successful vaudeville engagement. In Charles Ray's "The Courtship of Myles Standish"

Phone 822-741

ZAN MAKE-UP SHOP
819 South Hill ..... Pico 498

"Make-Up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry"

It is to those professional people who desire the ultimate in make-up and hair goods that this shop has an especial appeal. For many years it has catered to, and enjoyed the patronage of, the foremost artists in the cinema field. That their confidence has not been misplaced is evidenced in the manner in which they bespeak their approval of our merchandise and methods.
July 2nd to August 4th

THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVUE

and

MOTION PICTURE EXPOSITION

The Biggest Summer Show Los Angeles, the Pacific Coast or Any Other Place Has Ever Had

Fifty Novel Bungalows of Pueblo Indian Architecture Now Building in Exposition Park to House the Exhibits Coming From Far and Near

DRIVE OUT AND SEE FOR YOURSELF

Spectacles the Like of Which You Have Never Seen Will Be Staged in the 80,000 Seat Coliseum That Is to Be Formally Opened to the Public in Connection with the

MONROE DOCTRINE CENTENNIAL

Railroads predict the heaviest travel to the Southwest on record, this summer. They're coming for The Big Show. To be sure that you will have your tickets make application on this blank and mail it in to The Exposition Dept., 800 N. Spring Street, Los Angeles, California.

Patron's Application

THE AMERICAN HISTORICAL REVUE AND MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION

For the purpose of taking part in the First Annual American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Industrial Exposition to be held in the City of Los Angeles during the year 1923 in commemoration of the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine. I hereby make application for Patron's Coupon Book... of Admission Tickets to the Revue and Exposition, for which I agree to pay the sum of ten dollars each, payments to be made as follows:

Dated... 192... Signed...

Occupation... Address...

Make All Checks Payable to Motion Picture Exposition
FREDERICK HANK, NEWEST OUTDOOR STAR TO CROSS THE MOTION PICTURE HORIZON
A Good Situation

is that of our big shop IN HOLLYWOOD, convenient to you at all times. If you're looking for genuine antique furniture or certain works of art that will add artistic and noteworthy touches to your sets come in and see us. Bill Carr is now managing our rental department and he's at your service at all times. He knows what you want, and he'll get it for you.

You'll agree our location IN HOLLYWOOD is unrivalled, but after you've priced our stock you'll be convinced that there's no other establishment that can serve you half as well. Come in and meet us!

—

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

MARTHA MARSHALL
LEADS INGENUES
SOCIETY PARTS
Telephone 439-801

ZAN MAKE-UP SHOP
819 South Hill...... Pico 498

ZO

Make-Up Shop

4534 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 598-030
Proof of the claim that the public wants to laugh is furnished in the fact that comedy features are drawing at least fifty per cent more than ever before in the history of the screen. The habit of fans to make known their demands for laugh-producing film fare is obviously influencing producers extensively.

Here and there even now in this advanced age in free America, there crops out a desire on the part of the occasional extremist to foist an unsavory dictatorship onto the public. Generally this sort of preposterous presumption is aimed at the photoplay art for no other reason than any amusement is in the reformer's category of assailable objects.

When will the American people awaken to a realization of the fact that two-thirds of the political speeches of modern times consist of simon-pure, unadulterated hocus-pocus? Moral: always try to determine why any man seeking political preference is for or against the paramount issues of the day. Don't be content to simply admire a good argument; make it your business to learn why that good argument is made. Let us not forget there is sometimes more shimmer than steady enlightenment in much of our silver-tongued oratory.

Ambition is a sparkling beverage whose principal ingredients are optimism, stick-to-itiveness and ginger in about equal proportions. It has been the inspiring stimulus behind every worthy industry known to the world, and dates back to Adam, poor fellow. Eve spiced his.

Mixing drinks is a risky proposition, hence ambition should be taken straight.

The Kaiser mixed greed with his and got on a pamboree that precipitated the war world.

William J. Bryan mixed free silver and grape juice with his and not only missed the presidency, but was hooked off the stage and forced to direct his conversation to himself.

Some people mix love with their ambition. This does not necessarily impair its quality, but renders it exceedingly gooey.

Ambition will prompt a man to get up at five o'clock in the morning when he would much rather sleep until eight. A great many people mix inertia with theirs and never do wake up.

Ambition often works both coming and going. For instance, most women are ambitious to obtain husbands. Then, in many instances at least, they become ambitious to get rid of them. An extreme case is that of the Oklahoma woman who killed her husband after three days of wedded bliss. Even the most radical must concede that this was entirely too soon. It is just possible, though, that this blushing bride believed in signs and killed her newly acquired spouse in the dark of the house.

While ambition is a dangerous concoction when mixed with virulent ingredients, devoid of these it is the chief impetus to progress and development, and the person who never tastes it is as useless as a vermiculous appendix.

Now the point we desire to impress on this score is, these veiled and insidious newspaper attacks being made spasmodically upon certain motion picture people who happen to be openly ambitious to serve more exalted purposes than mere mercenary ones, are far more ridiculous than those they seek to ridicule for aspiring. Evidently the writers of those nasty, little "digs" have their ambitions mixed with sheer idiocy.

There is not the slightest cause for any apprehension as to the final outcome of the present Old World condition. Civilization is going to score its greatest victory and the uplift of all the heterogeneous races dwelling upon this mundane sphere is assured. Religious fanatics who interpret the passages of the Bible as if it were an opera-bouffe are proclaiming the near-arrival of the end of the world, citing the stirring and tragic events of the recent past as "proof." However, you can always discount the hallucinations of a deluded wildman one hundred per cent and remain within the bounds of perfect security. Meanwhile, every principle of sound logic and every current trend in all this raging political conflict certainly indicate a glorious fruition of the plans of the United States of America for making every nook and corner of the earth safe for democracy, which means there will be a revived splendor in the perpetuity of this orb's revolutions instead of any abrupt discontinuance so contrary to all rules of Provalient sciences.

When the German people meekly submitted to the dictation of the ex-Kaiser and his conspirators to undertake the crushing of all opposing races for the purpose of establishing a Teuton world dominion, they brought upon themselves a curse which centuries of retribution and penitence may not remove. The moment they resorted to rapine in Belgium back in 1914, they sealed their own fate so far as conquering all mankind, because mankind will never permit beasts of lower mentality to get the upper hand. Practically all German leaders of that time gave themselves to be simply beasts of lower mentality, and, to this fact can be attributed the plain reason why the United States entered the war on the side of Right as positively against Might. And this is therefore the very apparent reason for feeling completely assured that despicable militarism cannot prevail. In this connection, just remember, America never has lost a war and she never will, because she is governed by a wholesome people of superior morality, who will never condone the slightest unfair aggression either for their country or for other nations. Moreover, America will never allow royal families to convert the business of war into an auraerific traffic.

As must be unmistakably obvious to even the most stupid citizen, there is but one radiant star on the horizon, and that is the star of humanity that is going to hasten the inevitable forthcoming triumph of civilization. No foul plutocrat or no hare-brained idiot or no gluttonous hog or no weaking puppet or any other like craven creatures will ever be able to cast this world's peoples down in ashes of gloomy, helpless submission to their imbecile minds. Upon this you can rely, and therefore you can count on your effort in behalf of maintaining peace being richly fruitful of gratifying results.
Producers-Designer Maurice Tourneur and Producer-Director James Young disagree.

Young says that music is an aid to motion picture making. Tourneur says it isn't. The verbal battle waxes warm.

Young, who has just completed the direction of "Trilby," for First National and is about to begin too long in the same company, claims that he was the originator of the idea of having musicians play while movie actors do their stuff.

"It stimulates the emotions," he says, "and gives inspiration for the players. They can enact their parts far better if appropriate music is played during the taking of a scene." Now comes Tourneur, who says, music is the "bank.

The producer of "The Isle of Lost Ships," and "The Brass Bottle," never has had music on his sets, he says. "They say music stimulates the emotions," he declared. "Ha! Ha! Funky music for a comedy? Frightful music for a scene where the actor shows fright? Nonsense!"

"Music is an ornament to a good actor's art, not an aid. He thinks he looks sad, his director thinks he feels sad in a funeral scene, because they hear sad music. A scene looks lively when there is jazz music or liveliness the director when really it may be dragging. Music destroys the sense of value in both actors and audience. An accomplished actor is able to display the emotions at will, to exhibit anger or fear or sorrow without artificial stimulation. If he can't, he is not an actor and I don't want him working on my picture."

But he can't convince Jimmie Young—neither can he convince the members of the Musicians union. So that's that!

Sid Grauman Takes Trip

Sid Grauman, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. D. J. Grauman, took the East-bound train out for New York last Tuesday. The busy managing director of Grauman's four Los Angeles theatres has been watching and waiting his opportunities to take a few days off, several months, and at last is bidding au revoir to his arduous duties, for a restful visit east and west. Grauman expects to return in about ten days or two weeks, when he will be able to see all the new motion picture palaces in the East. A trip to New York doesn't mean so much to the average motion picture star or producer, but to a busy theatre exhibitor it is something of an event.

Great Swedish Director Frees American Actor

DeWitt C. Jennings is to be emancipated from his fate of playing policeman by no other than Victor Searstrom, the noted Scandinavian director preparing his first American picture. Searstrom has assigned to Jennings an important role in "The Master of Man," by Sir Hall Caine.

The role of Dan Collister is a new screen type for DeWitt Jennings. The actor made a hit playing police inspectors and ever since then directors always wanted him to be an officer of the law. Jennings spent nine years in whiskers on the stage, but he has now worn them for motion pictures. He is now cultivating a set of "mutton chops." Among stage parts, Jennings considers his best work was done in the original production of "Within the Law," as the inspector in "The Woman in Room 13," in "The Thirteenth Chair," "Three Unknown Purple," and "The Blue Flames."

Baby Muriel Has Sartorial Prospects

"The best dressed kid in pictures." This is the proud distinction which Baby Muriel MacCormac, clever child actress, may win should her mother decide to take advantage of an unusual offer which has recently been made to her by one of the country's largest manufacturers of children's clothes.

According to the manufacturer, Baby Muriel was selected as a model by her concern as a result of a contest staged some time ago. Judges were selected from different departments of the business and for more than two months the closest attention was given to the appearance and mannerism of several children in the selection. It was finally announced that Muriel MacCormac was the choice of the judges, her delightful personality and perfect demeanor attracting a favorable impression with them. The offer specifies that should Mrs. MacCormac agree to allow Baby Muriel to act as their model the younger will be supplied free of charge with samples of all clothes and hats which they manufacture for children's wear. They only ask that she wear this wardrobe exclusively in her work at the studios and in private life. Choosing a film younger to act as their model is explained by manufacturers as simply an advertising proposition with them and that the expense of the garments will be charged to such account.

The view of the fact that acting as a model will not interfere with her studio activities it is more than that. It is more that the offer and will no doubt soon be displaying many new and stunning hats and gowns, attracting a favorable attention because of their charm and individuality.

A Lottery-named Babe

Director Fred Caldwell, whose picture, "Night Life in Hollywood," has just completed a successful two-weeks run at the Symphony Theatre, has just named his baby in probably the most unique fashion ever adopted for labeling a newborn. Following announcement of the sort, Mr. Caldwell was besieged by dozens of letters from friends all suggesting various names for the baby. The director was confronted with the possibility of disappointing his friends and decided to assume the responsibility. So he hit upon the scheme of putting all the names down and holding a lottery drawing. The result was that the boy has been named Cecil Fred Caldwell.

Dorothy Dunlap, who will abandon the comedy field to embrace opportunities in dramatic pictures.

Roumanian Actor Gets His First Part Here

Georges Calliza, the young Roumanian actor signed by Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, made his first screen appearance in America in "Six Days."

Calliza appeared before the motion picture camera early this week with Charles J. Brabin's direction this week in scenes with Corinne Griffith and Myrtle Stedman for the Elionor Glynn story. Calliza was a boy soldier in the Roumanian forces on the Bolshevik front, was wounded, and after the war studied in Paris, where a French Cinema producer "discovered" him.

His family sent him to London to study to get him out of the "clutches" of motion pictures, and he arranged his university lectures for the evenings, and played in pictures in the daytime.

Last Christmas he came to New York and officials of the Goldwyn company signed him up and sent him to Culver City. This picture will show the open champion of the United States and illustrates every phase of his mastery of the game. To see Sarazen in action is to have a golfing lesson of unsurpassed value for one who is either taking up the sport or who is seeking to improve his own game. To see others who have wondered what clubs to choose and "wedge," "mid-iron" or "mashie" are will do no harm, for that a "stymie" is something that happens to the eye, the picture will prove just as interesting.

Every stroke known to golf is demonstrated here before the camera and his actions are duly recorded, first at noon and then in slow motion that shows every movement of the master golfer.

It is now admitted that the slow-motion picture portrays the greatest of all teachers of athletic form, and it is particularly adapted to the peculiarly complicated combination of things to do and things not to do that constitute a golf stroke. By slowing the action still more the normal speed it is possible to show the proper amount of leverage, the condition of the position of legs, arms, head and body at the moment of impact, and clearly than is possible for any professional by word of mouth or by actually making the stroke in the dark.

Further interest is added to the picture, and its value as an instructional medium is greatly increased by the statement that Sarazen himself assisted in editing and filling the finished product.

Wins in South America

In a motion picture popularity contest held in Buenos Ayres recently, Alma Rubens was adjudged most popular star, and Miss Arina and Lezzi, who represented Miss Rubens, was awarded a silver loving cup.

Besides being a famous South American beauty the Senorita is the daughter of a wealthy Argentine ranch owner. Yesterday Miss Rubens received a wire from Miss Gonzalos saying that she was coming to New York. She has been charged with the pleasure of meeting Miss Rubens. Miss Rubens not only readily agreed to meet Miss Gonzalos that she would give her a part in her next production.
"There are great truths that can only be expressed by silence," said St. Martin a long time ago. It was this thought in its relationship to the new way of telling a story that led me into motion pictures. The motion pictures have come to stay. It has possibilities of amazing delicacy and power and they have come into a consciousness of their purpose. I believe this may be paid for by the stage between the screen and the stage. They each have endless possibilities for expressing their story of the human soul and they can each do it from totally different angles. Every artist wishes to tell his or her story to the greatest number of people. That, I suppose, is the humanitarian motive back of all art. What possibilities the pictures give for that! How wonderful it would be if only we had a screen record of the greatest and most glorious actresses—Sarah Bernhardt, during the early part of her career. Bernhardt as she was in Paris when she first played "Camille." It was real belief in the Warner Brothers sincerity of purpose that made me enthusiastic about having Miss Lenore Ulric do "Tiger Rose" for the screen. "Tiger Rose" carries a great message and Lenore Ulric with that intense sincerity that is part of her character will be able I am sure to tell the story, in pictures, of that little French Canadian girl, who through love found her spiritual outlook on life. Any belief that exists in the mind writes itself in the eyes, in fact on the entire body. Moving pictures can, and do show, the inner spirit. They can create the life of the human soul.

The stories I think will change, even now they are changing. Audiences today are more analytical. Therefore they seek logic back of the emotions. The trend of the new plays, and photoplays, will be to represent normal human beings as they are, whose actions spring from their characters, rather than from the old idea of serving the plot.

Shakespeare's observation about "The tide in the affairs of men, which at its flood, leads on to fortunes" can be understood in more senses than one but in connection with pictures I think it applies to the Warner Brothers. They have shown wisdom and courage in the selection of their stories and an American intuition in grasping opportunities.

THE FIRST MOTION PICTURE MACHINE

The first motion picture machine ever made was a half penny toy which appeared in England in 1825, the invention of which has been variously credited to a Dr. Paris and to Leigh Hunt, and Sir John Herschel, the famous scientist.

This little trick was simply a disc of cardboard with a string running through it. As you twirled the disc, pictures were printed certain pictures. On one side, for instance, might be a bird, and on the other side a cat; by twirling the disc the bird would at once appear to be in the cage. Or on one side might be a picture of your favorite star and on the other side a frame so that by twirling the disc the picture would appear as though framed.

In this way one may make a boy roll a hoop or a girl jump a rope or make any of scores of combinations showing action. It all depends upon one's ingenuity. This clever little contrivance was the very first apparatus made to demonstrate the principle of the persistence of vision, the basic principle of the motion picture.

The Rockett-Lincoln Film Company, producing "The Dramatic Life of Abraham Lincoln," have seized upon this old idea and have utilized it in an ingenious manner in the exploitation of their picture. On one side of the Thaumatrope disc is a picture of the young Abraham Lincoln as a railway splitter, a sapling between his feet and his axe swung high preparatory to hitting a mighty blow. On the other side the same figure is bending over the sapling, having struck the blow, the axe being stuck tight in the wood. By twirling the disc toward one the young Lincoln appears to split rails just as he did it in the Sangamon River bottoms ninety-two years ago.

MELODIC TECHNIQUE AIDS FILMING

The interrelation of the various arts has just been proven again.

Victor Schertzinger, who is now directing Jackie Coogan in "Long Live the King," his first Metro production, is also a well-known musical composer. Jackie Coogan, Senior, who is supervising his son's productions, was also a composer of popular songs while he was in vaudeville and musical comedy, before entering pictures. It is natural, therefore, that when they collaborate on a production, the element of music should enter into it.

Coogan and Schertzinger have introduced the "leitmotif" into the making of motion pictures. This is a technical factor in the writing of music perfected in the operas of Richard Wagner. It consists of a theme or melodic strain, which serves to introduce the principal characters as they come on the stage from time to time, or to preface recurring bits of important action. In short, the "leitmotif" is a musically characteristic background for the players and the action.

In the settings for "Long Live the King," the "leitmotif" idea is carried out to this extent: The architectural lines and interior decorations are not only beautiful and correctly expressive of the national character (Continued on Page 20)
San Francisco, Cal., May 21—Max Graf, of the Graf Productions, returned from Los Angeles on Tuesday and left for New York on Thursday morning. "The Fog," the latest picture made by the organization, has recently been released through Metro. While in the East, Graf will attend the Metro Sales Convention in New York, and complete arrangements for the other pictures to be made this year. The story for "The Grain of Dust," the next picture of the company, has already been begun, and the actual shooting will begin July first at the Pacific Studios at San Mateo. The following picture will be a big sea story, the title not yet announced, but the theme is both interesting and unusual.

Merlof Berge, general manager of the Gerson Picture Corporation, returned from New York last week, after having arranged for the release through American Releasing Corporation of their picture, "The Cricket on the Hearth,", and the future handling of their other films. The organization will begin production again in the immediate future on a large program of pictures.

Joan Standing, daughter and little sister of the famous Standing family that has given so many stars to the silver-screen, and herself well known to the cinema world, arrived in San Francisco last Thursday to begin work on her part as "Selma" in Eric Von Stroheim's production of "Greed."

"Smil" Pollard, famous comedian, and his wife Betty, landed in San Francisco last Tuesday on the steamer Ventura, after an extended trip to Australia.

The company making "The Rendezvous" for Goldwyn arrived in San Francisco this morning, and will be here for two or three days shooting some scenes of embarkation on the United States Army Docks. The outfit includes Marshall Neilan, Director, and Frank Urson who is co-directing, Conrad Nagel, leading man, Sidney Chapman, Kate Lester, Lucile Ricksen, and twenty others of the cast and staff. Leeds Baxter, location man for Goldwyn, has been in town for a week making arrangements for their work.

Madge Bellamy was a guest at the Palace Hotel for several days last week.

"Brass" was given a private showing here this week on quite an elaborate scale. George A. Oppenheimen, Inc., was the host at a banquet given in the Colonial ballroom of the Hotel St. Francis to exhibitors, newspaper men and motion picture dignitaries, followed by the showing of the picture made from Charles G. Norris' novel on marriage made by Warner Brothers. Norris was the guest of honor, coming from Los Angeles for the occasion as did Sidney Franklin, who directed the picture, Monte Blue, Marie Prevost, Irene Rich and Harry Myers, who played in it.

William H. Crane, grand old man of the screen, was in San Francisco several days of last week.

Eric Von Stroheim's production of "Greed" is making rapid and satisfactory progress, a large part of the work on the interiors on the set of Hayes and Laguna Streets being completed. On Sunday Von Stroheim took the principals of his cast to Shell Mound Park in Oakland, to make the first of the trans-bay sequences in "Gren's" masterpiece. The little Oakland cottage which is one of the sets on that side of the bay is all ready for use, and looking very homelike. With the recent arrival of the three children of the story, little Austin Jewell, who plays "August," and Otto and Oscar Gottel, the twins, the cast is entirely complete, with the exception of one or two characters who are only in the sequences to be shot at Colfax.

Robert Warwick, matinee idol and screen star, will not appear in Margaret Anglin's production of "Hippolytus," at the Greek Theatre in Berkeley on May 29th as announced. The cancellation is the result of Mr. Warwick deciding he had not received the proper amount of publicity in advertising for the production. Who will take his place has not yet been announced. Warwick is now playing a starring engagement in "The Dover Road" at the Fulton Theatre in Oakland.

The Friars Club has opened a campaign for membership. The initiation fee has been lifted for a short time and prospective members are swamping the club with applications. If you would like to become a member of one of New York City's leading clubs, send in your name to Raymond Mckee at that address and he will gladly take your name to the investigating committee.

Mrs. S. J. Goldstein, mother of E. H. Goldstein, treasurer of Universal, died last week in her home, 250 West 98th street. Her husband survives her.

Ernest Shipman announces the launching of his latest enterprise, an organization to be known as the Long Island Cinema Corporation for the making of big features on Long Island. The company has been incorporated at Albany with an authorized capital of $500,000 preferred and 10,000 shares common of no par value.

The old home of First National,6 and 8 West 4th street, is now abandoned. The new home will be 333 Madison avenue at the corner of 46th street. The organization will occupy an entire floor one block perfectly appointed projecting rooms will be a new feature of the Madison avenue offices. The phone number is Vanderbilt 6660.

Sol Lesser and Mike Gore are taking in the sights.

Ruth Roland arrived here the other day via steamer from New Orleans. Ruth, like Madge Bellamy, is here in the interests of the convention.

Constance Binney and Raymond Mckee will do a series of four features for C. C. Burr at his Glendale Studio. Pathe will release them.

Elmer Clifton's picture, "Down to the Sea in Ships," and termed "the gem of the season," for playing in 50 New York theatres this week. A record.

One hundred and eighteen actors joined the A. E. Association last week. Just in time to escape the raise in dues. From now on the fee is $25.00.

Minta Durfee (Mrs. Roscoe Arbuckle) will shortly be seen in a new comedy by Roy Briant. This will be Miss Durfee's first appearance around New York in several years.

John Barrymore, upon his return from abroad, will go on tour presenting a series of plays under the management of Arthur Hopkins.

A lion-tamer, Taree Jacobs, was fined yesterday for being too rough with his wild lion. Humane Society officers fined him $10.

Theatrical Broadway is awaiting to hear today whether Wilton Lackaye will accept Henry Dixey's challenge issued to him yesterday to fight. Dixey sent the challenge to Lackaye for $100 a decision. If Lackaye should not accept. They are old enemies having been at sword's points for years. Dixey is 61, Lackaye 64.

Coney Island and Luna Park are open. The world's greatest playground all anew in color and brilliancy with a new board walk will rival Atlantic City, with its hundreds of free acts and many band concerts.

(Continued on the next page)
From U to You

By BEN WESTLAND

Edward Laemmle, director of some of the most popular of the Universal historical and historical plays, received a hero's welcome when the play was directed as a wedding present on his return from Chicago with his bride. He has been assigned to direct "Two Bells for Pegasus," one of Gerald Beaumont's short story successes. He recently married Miss Peppi Heller of Chicago.

Ruth Royce, appearing with Jack Mower and Eileen Sedgwick in "Daniel Boone," is the latest aspirant for fame as a flyer. She was asked Al. Wilson, the Universal City stunt aviator, to give her lessons. Miss Royce is an expert and daring motorist, and hopes to find new thrills in the air.

Albert Conti, steeplechase rider and actor at Universal City, has perhaps had more adventures than any man on the big lot. Educated in an Australian Military Aviation, he was a captain in the Austrian Army, later in the air; came to America as a laborer, and now has risen to film fame.

Hydraulic engineers are interested in a fact performed at Universal City that is not big in scope but is out of the ordinary. The Los Angeles river skirts the film city, and across the river and a mile north are two wells owned by the Universal Pictures corporation which supplies the immense amount of water required.

At first the main carrying the water was built above the river, in the air on a bridge. It was found that this was impractical and that in high water the trestle was almost wrenched by floating timbers and the water suffered from leakage into the main from the river.

The river was treated rather roughly in dry weather, a dam being built in sections. The main crossing was laid several feet under the bed of the river. Now there is no trouble—in spite of numerous predictions that there would be.

Clarence L. Brown's "shingle" is out on director's row at Universal City. The celebrated director is engaging his staff and making final preparations for the Universal-Jewel filming of "The Acquittal," the first production to which he was assigned under his new contract with Universal.

"The Acquittal" is Rita Weiman's successful stage play, and the star of the motion picture version will be Priscilla Dean, whose past successes include "Outside the Law," "The Flame of Life," "Under Two Flags" and "White Tiger." "Drifting," John Colton's play, was her last completed production. Jules Furthmann's "scenarist of "The Queen of Sheba," "Victory" and other notable screen attractions, is finishing the continuity of "The Acquittal.

Following "The Acquittal" Mr. Brown will probably direct several other features for Universal—but that is one way in the future since "The Acquittal" will require months of elaborate effort.

Several of the most noted chemical and medical advisers to the United States acted as technical advisers with William Parke, film director, and Milton Sills, star, at Universal City, during the filming of the final scenes of "Legally Dead," a new mystery play, which has just been completed. The experts supervised the details of the scenes showing life being restored by the use of Adrenalin, the strange chemical whose properties, just discovered, have upset the entire medical world.

The play is based on the bringing of a man, killed by hanging, back to life by the use of the uncanny drug. It has been done in real life—news dispatches are full of it daily—and Charles Furthmann's play, written three years ago and then termed a "dream," today is a play based on reality.

The actual details of the operation, as portrayed on the film, were supervised by Geo. C. Frolch of Boston, Sales manager of the drug and chemical division of the United Drug Company, an international organization. Frolch, twenty years ago, put the first adrenalin on the market in America, when a member of the research staff of the Parke Davis laboratories, and since then has been internationally known as an expert on the drug. With him were H. L. Simpson, vice-president of the firm, Geo. A. Wilson, research expert, and his son, Russel Simpson, and G. F. Pfaffenberger, general manager of the Owl Drug Company.

Milton Sills, as the executed convict in the play, underwent the operation in mimic version, made up to look like every move. Several physicians also were on hand to criticize and suggest.

The play stars Milton Sills, supported by Clarence Adams and a large cast. It was filmed behind closed doors and practically completed before the idea was allowed to be made public, lest other producers seize on the idea.

The William Desmond Company is back at Universal City after two weeks' sojourn in the Feather River country in Northern California.

The unit has been working on exterior shots of Desmond's latest starring vehicle, "The Skyline of Spruce," which is being filmed under the direction of Robert Hill. The story is of placer mining and claim jumping in Northwestern Canada, written by Edison Marshal and adapted to the screen by Paul Scheckoff. Filming of the interior scenes of the play is now under way at Universal studios.

The play presents Desmond in his second feature production under his new starring contract with Universal. He recently finished the title role in "McGurn of the Mounted," produced under Richard Stanton's direction.

The play also represents Hill's first feature for Universal. He was one of the most popular directors of chapter plays before he was transferred to feature productions. Among the notable successes which Hill directed are "Round the World in Eighteen Days," and "The Phantom Fortune." Desmond was starred in both productions.

Virginia Brown Faire, the clever actress who scored such a dramatic triumph in "Without Benefit of Clergy" and "Omar the Tentmaker" plays the feminine lead in the play.

Others in the cast include William Welsh, well known character player, Albert Hart and Fred Kohler.

An important part in the picture is taken by the famous police dog of the screen, Rin Tin Tin.

With beams from a hundred searchlights cutting the blackness of night, flood lights casting a glow over the nearby hills, and an army of grotesque silhouettes wandering in the vast courtyard, the sets of the "Hunchback of Notre Dame" at Universal City presented a ghostly aspect during the night scenes photographed during the past week.

An entire week's work on the giant set was practically all done at night, the action of the play calling for midnight registering, adventures by moonlight, and several dramatic fights and other action of the Hugo Classic.

Lou chasey as "Quasimodo" and Patsy Ruth Miller as "Esmeralda" appear in practically all of the "night shots" taken. Hundreds of arc lights and Kleig units were used. A special power plant had to be assembled to supply current for the vast blaze of light used in the filming of the night scenes, and practically all available lamps in other studios were rented for the picture.

Fully nine acres of courtyard and building were filled with the "night shots" taken during the week of night photos the big picture. Less than two months according to the present schedule will be the completion of photography, after which will

(Continued on Page 21)
REAL REEL VETERAN

No list of the pioneer players of the screen would be complete without the mention of William Orlondom, who has been cast for a comedy character role in Metro's all-star picturization of "The Eagle's Feather."

Nearly twelve years ago, Mr. Orlondom returned to his home in Philadelphia, after completing a tour with a road attraction, to find that his wife was working with the new historic Lubin company. Not to be outdone, he joined the company and appeared in many pictures with the late Arthur Johnon. He later appeared with the old Alliance and Gaumont companies and managed a studio at Jacksonville, Florida. Kathryn Williams, making animal thrilling there, was considered the most fearless actress on the screen.

William Orlondom was born and educated in Copenhagen, and came to this country in 1882 to portray the title role in "Rip Van Winkle," upon the retirement of Joseph Jefferson from the role. He appeared on the stage in this country for 29 years prior to his screen career.

Mr. Orlondom has been termed "The Frank Bacon of the Screen" because of the quaint comedy characters he invariably portrays. His versatility, however, is remarkable, for it would be hard to imagine a greater contrast in characterization than his comedy interpretation of the ship's carpenter in "All the Brothers Were Valiant" and the tragic role he has recently finished in Allen Holubar's "Slander the Woman." On the screen he has also scored individually in "The Sin Flood," "Broken Chains," "Doubting for Romeo" and with Nazimova in "Camille" and "Madame Peacock."

Other members of the cast for "The Eagle's Feather" are Mary Alden, James Kirkwood, Ellinor Fair, George Seligan, Barbara La Marr, Lester Cuneo and Adolph Menjou.

De Mille Signs Cloninger

Ralph Cloninger has just been signed for an important role in Cecil B. de Mille's "The Ten Commandments," now in preparation at the Lasky studios. At the same time he received a sym pathetic portrait in support of Dustin Farnum in "The Man Who Won."

CASTS OF THE WEEK

"JOHN OF THE WOODS"

By Abbie Farwell Brown
Adapted to the Screen by Douglass Day
Directed by Albert Austin
A Cast of the Week Production

Dinkie Dean

DINKY DEAN

Duchess of Corse

Count Calmar

Shark

Court Physician

The Hermit

CAST

GIGLI

DINKY DEAN

Duchess of Corse

Count Calmar

Shark

Court Physician

A Cast of the Week Production

CHARLES R. SEELING PRESENTS

RIDER OF DEVIL HOOF"

Written by Ethel Allen
Directed by Charles R. Seeling
Produced by Marcel LePicard
Cameraman

Big Boy

Kathleen Collins

Bill Paton

Ethel Allen

Carl Solven

Jack Riple

Tom Rutland

YOUTH INVINCIBLE FORCE IN SCREEN WORK AS IN LIFE IN GENERAL

"Youth is an invincible force that helps to move the world. Youth, with its hopes and its aspirations, is a potential factor in the swift development of the motion picture industry. And it will ever continue to be a vital power."

Thus, briefly, does Beatrice Van, scenarist, sum up the reasons for her own success and for the achievements of many young men and women who, not far beyond twenty, have already won incomes extended to five figures. Having won distinction as a result of her unusually strong mind of the H. C. Witwer "Fighting Blood" stories, now being shown at Grauman's Metropolis Weekly, Miss Van reveals how, by keeping the spirit of youth always dominant, she protected these stories on the screen with a degree of realism that has made them popular the country over. Moreover Miss Van has established her self- overnigh, as the only woman writing for the screen who has ever been able to catch accurately the real spirit of the prize ring. Her screen adaptions, now alternately setting audiences shrill and agog, have been compared by critics to the newspaper reports of trained boxing writers in their unfailing fidelity to detail and the colorful atmosphere of the prize ring.

Notwithstanding the fact that "The Eagle's Feather" is a story of the West, this Metro all-star special has neither two-gun men nor Indians in it.

Several hundred pounds of antique silverware has recently been received at the Metro studio from Paris for use in Ruy Ingram's production of "Scaramouche."

Traffic on Los Angeles' Broadway was paralyzed when Viola Dana filmed some scenes for "Rouged Lips" in the very heart of the metropolis. This is the first time Miss Dana has ever appeared before the camera under such circumstances.

The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry

CAMEO

SPEED VERSUS CERTAINTY

It isn't always speed that counts! Astronomers will tell you that many of the most prominent stars have consumed millions of years before coming into range of the most powerful telescopes.

Swiftly moving stars are seldom permanent. Usually they are but meteors whose rapid rise dooms them to a fall even more rapid.

The North Star, the only permanent fixture of the firmament never moves at all. The same astronomical laws apply to cinematic stardom.

During the last four and one-half years the charming Colleen Moore has played the feminine lead or featured role in thirty-two big motion picture productions yet she has not been starred.

Girls who entered the picture field years after she did, have been starred—vanished and forgotten. Some have been stars for a few years, some for a few months and others for a few weeks but they were not prepared for stellar honors and the vast majority of them failed to make good.

Colleen's rise to fame has been slow and sure. She has built a permanent foundation which will never crumble. And now stardom is in sight. Associated First National Pictures, Inc., pursuing its policy of grooming its own stars by selecting the most versatile young players and signing them to long term contracts, has selected the winsome Colleen as the most potential starring material available.

Her name is now affixed to a contract with First National whereby she will appear under that organization's banner during the next three years.

Thereby Colleen is awarded two of the greatest roles of the year; the titular role of "The Huntress," production on which is to be started by First National's own producing unit within a week at the United Studio, and the role of the naive flapper in "Flaming Youth," which First National is also set to produce.

The former is to be directed by Lynn Reynolds and the latter by John Francis Dillon. Both will be his specials.

The mills of the gods grind slowly but they grind exceedingly fine. Colleen Moore has "arrived" and she is now a permanent cinema luminaries.

Baby Beatrice Marsh, one of the screen's promising child artists.
THEATER BUILDING PLANS
FOR 8 MONTHS OF 1923
WILL EXCEED $3,500,000

In their announcement of the huge theatre construction program for the first eight months of the 1923 season, officials of the West Coast Theatres, see prosperity ahead for every community which will benefit materially by an estimated total expense of $5,500,000 for the construction of new theatres.

It is contemplated that every one of the company's houses will be ready by September 1st, 1923, and all forms of labor are to receive a bonus in the construction program which will fund flow.

Seven new theatres are being built in various parts of Southern California.

The theatre at 1500 seat house in San Pedro, which will be ready for opening within five weeks. This theatre will represent investment of $500,000. The building is a solid block, with stores, offices, and basement The stage of the theatre has facilities to house road shows and vaudeville. Officials of the West Coast Theatres, Inc. attribute much of the progress of this theatre's construction to the development of Los Angeles Harbor District.

In Pomona, California, a 1500 seat house is being built by the Gore Bros., Ransh and Sol Lesser interests by the Milwaukee Building Company in the heart of the city. This house will be ready for opening about August of this year and required an investment of $500,000.

At Hermosa Beach, California, one of the most prominent citizens there, Mr. Matheson is constructing a huge block into which are incorporated a bank building, a theatre, stores and offices. On this front, however, the money is being spared to make it the most beautiful in the entire city of Hermosa. The Chamber of Commerce is solidly and most energetically backing this project front of the building will be faced in tile and the theatre will have 1,000 seats. When West Coast Theatres, Inc. will announce the opening of this theatre the entire bay city will hold a special celebration in honor of the event, according to announcement by the Venice Investment Company, partners in the undertaking. $200,000 is the appropriation represented for this construction work.

At Santa Monica, California, at 3rd and Arizona Sts, a high-class theatre, is being constructed by West Coast Theatres, Inc. on a syndicate property, which is 150x206 feet on a corner. The investment is in excess of $400,000. The theatre will be 1,700 seats capacity equipped with all modern facilities.

In Hollywood the Hollywood Theatre, near Highland, will be entirely remodeled at an expense of $75,000. The theatre is to be beautified and redecorated with many new chairs added to make it a 1,000 seat capacity house. During the remodeling the back wall of the theatre will be torn out and 75 feet added to the rear end in order to provide the increased capacity.

On Western Avenue, at 54th Street, on the southwest corner, a Class A theatre seating 1,500, fully equipped, with stores and offices is being built by R. F. Dwight for West Coast Theatres, Inc. The cost of this theatre is estimated to be $250,000.

On the corner of Washington, Vermont and New Hampshire, a Los Angeles key corner fronting on two main boulevards accessible from all parts of the city, will arise a magnificent 2,500 seat theatre of Class A construction. Plans for this theatre are now being prepared and its construction can begin at an early date. The property on Washington from the Northwest corner of Vermont is 192 feet, while the depth is 161 feet. The total investment of the building alone, not including real estate will be in excess of $275,000. The theatre itself will be as magnificent as any in Los Angeles. It will be the largest neighborhood theatre in the West, and, officials of the West Coast Theatres, Inc., state, operated on a magnificent scale.

On York Boulevard, between 51st and 52nd Streets, J. A. Badley is erecting a theatre which will be of an Egyptian decorative and design. Construction and real estate estimated at $150,000.

For all of these houses Messrs. Gore Bros., Ransh, and Sol Lesser, are awarding contracts for organs, marquetry, carpets, decorating, and stage roof, labor, the sum total of these contracts being estimated to keep thousands of workmen busy for an entire year. The total cost of Class A organs, which will be installed in these various theatres, is in excess of $250,000, and not included in the construction appropriations.

These more deals are now pending for theatres contemplated and in stage negotiation ready for announcement at a very early date. All of them will be situated in Los Angeles at a total investment of $750,000.

West Coast Theatres, Inc., also announce that their associate, Mr. Claude Langley, has closed negotiations in conjunction with them for a new theatre which will be announced soon. The investment in this instance will be $400,000. Mr. Langley has just recently remodelled and re-equipped the DeLuxe Theatre on Alvarado Street, the Pasadena Theatre at Pasadena, and the Hippodrome Theatre at Taft, California, at an expense of $500,000.

Taking into consideration that several new theatre deals are now pending and that during the winter months of this year, officials of the West Coast Theatres, Inc. expect to add more houses to their circuit as certain communities develop in various parts of Southern California, it will be an unwarranted assumption with the beginning of 1924 at least twenty new houses have been added to their chain.

DOUG ANNOUNCES FIRST NAME FOR "BAGDAD" CAST

To Julianne Johnson, one of the most promising young players in filmdom, has come a new honor, according to an announcement today from the Douglas Fairbanks company. She was the first person to be chosen for the cast in Doug's new picture, "The Thief of Bagdad," a play which it is reported will outdo "Robin Hood" both for splendor and in point of story value.

Miss Johnson's knowledge of Teppichkorean art has considered bearing, it is said, in influence Doug to assign one of the most roles in the new film to her. Her work as a classical dancer, coupled with her acting ability, formed a new combination which especially fitted Miss Johnson for the part of an Oriental whose adventures play conspicuously through the story.

Sets are now under construction in the studio and it is expected that actual filming will commence within the next two weeks. Douglas Fairbanks will direct and Arthur Edeson, who photographed "Robin Hood," will be behind the camera.

HARDING TO GET UNIQUE GIFT HERE

When President Harding visits Los Angeles in August, he will be the recipient of many presents, all more or less typical of California and motion pictures, but the outstanding token which he will carry back to the White House with him is a solid silver copy of Elia Buchan's "Young Lincoln," a statuette twenty-two inches high, now in process of casting by Gorham, Providence, R. I.

The donors will be Al and Ray Rockweller, owners of the Rockwell Film Company of Hollywood, now producing "The Dramatic Life of Abraham Lincoln," which work is inspired by Miss Buchanan to create this new study of the Great Emancipator and, by her. The present artist, "The Young Lincoln" will be used in the exploitation of the picture, and a special copy of "Young Lincoln" will be the first to be done in metal. It will be enclosed in a case of California hardwoods.

In Miss Buchanan's work, Lincoln, the youth, stands at the stump of a tree. In his right hand he holds his axe, his fingers gripping it close up to the bit. The caunt figure is clad in hickory shirt open at the throat, pants, baggy at the knees and the heavy boots of pioneer days. His thick, windblown hair is piled above his noble brow, and his broad shoulders thrust forward toward the stump, wherein is perched a baby squirrel, overviewing the Friendly woodsman. The poise of the body is that of a workman weary with his task, pausing to snatch a moment's breathing space, while upon the loay, humorously there is an expression of tenderness and compassion that almost moves the beholder to tears.

"Mearest Man" Leaves

Evert Lytell, who has just completed the leading male role in "The Man From the Missouri, the World," departed this week for New York, where he will take a steamer for Rome, Italy. Lytell will join George Fred interesting in Europe and will take the leading role in the production of "The Eternal City." According to present plans, the star will personally attend the world première of "The Mearest Man in the World" at the George M. Cohan Theatre, New York City early in September.
BARRYMORE SIGNS FOR "ETERNAL CITY"
Lionel Barrymore, stage and screen star, and a member of America's foremost theatrical family, will play one of the important roles in Hal Caine's "The ETERNAL CITY" which George Fitzmaurice will produce in Rome for Samuel Goldwyn as a first World Color talkie.

Probably no figure in the theatrical world is more universally known or better thought of than Lionel Barrymore, brother of Ethel and John, and one of the acknowledged leaders of the theatrical art in America. Trained in the fine arts and successful as an etcher in bronze, he turned to the stage profession in which the Barrymore-Drew-Rankin family has always excelled. Costarring with his brother John, the new First National player toured the country after a long run in New York in "The Good Doctor," in which he played the irascible remesde, Col. Ibsen. A similar success was with which he was registered in "The Jest," and Lionel, startling alone, enjoyed a tremendous personal triumph in T. S. Eliot's "The Hymn of Youth" which was later transferred to the screen with the same star.

Recent and notable is his work in "The Copperhead" as a star equally effective on the screen as on the stage, Lionel Barrymore was signed to star in a series of pictures, produced by Whitman Bennett, which were distributed through Associated First National. These included "The Master Mind," "The Devil's Courier," "The Great Adventure," and "Jim, the Peaun." The latest screen production of the popular player is "Enemies of Women." In securing the services of Lionel Barrymore, Samuel Goldwyn is bringing up his plan to make his re-entry into the ranks of motion picture producer an auspicious story, director and cast will be able to make the same thorough search of the industry cobalt meh sea, states Mr. Goldwyn, and in sending the entire company to Rome in order to film the exact locations of the story, he expects to be able to offer one of the forthcoming season's biggest successes.

Moranti Adds Star
The Millburn Moranti Company was starting this week on their fourth and final situation comedy of the Irish Series of eighteen to be released by the American Museum. Every comedy brings a more complete all-star cast. The cast supporting Millburn Moranti in these series included Ed Barry, Helen Kesler, Billy Franey, Violet Schran, Russell Tizzi (playing Jerry), Sanford, Olga Gordon and Harry Belmore.

CAMERAMAN COMPLETES REVOLUTIONARY INVENTION
Antonio Gaudio, veteran cinematographer, forwarded to the U. S. Patent Office this week an invention which will be of vast service in the motion picture industry. The invention is known as a magnification focusing telescope for camera attachment. Gaudio is perhaps the best known cinematographer in motion pictures. His new contract with the Joseph M. Schenck Enterprises for salary said to be the largest ever paid in that branch of studio work.

For some years cameramen and directors have been handicapped because the available methods of focusing were not covering the desired requirements. The cameraman had difficulty in seeing the entire field of the picture through their focusing lenses and at close-up range to work comfortably. Evidence on double-exposures, matting, etc., without making correct tests, capacity of the commonly used gauze mats. Working independently, Gaudio began solving the problem that he has invented a magnification focusing telescope. This telescope gives a clearer view of the entire field on the ground glass with a five-inch focusing lens. Utilizing focusing lever, which changes the optical system, a twelve-inches focusing lever, changing the entire field also can be obtained. In both the five-inches and twelve-inches magnifications, correct and normal image is obtained with the Gaudio invention.

This eye-piece is especially large, permitting a clear view of the field. By this invention all difficulties in which the camera can be lined up with positive assurance by reason of the large magnification and the fact that the lens is not disturbed between the focusing and photographing periods.

Gaudio also added: "Tony" Gaudio was born in Italy and educated in the University of Rome. He is now running the George Talmadge in "Asheville of Vengeance," under the direction of Frank Lloyd. In the tests, capacity of the commonly used gauze mats.

Working independently, Gaudio began solving the problem that he has invented a magnification focusing telescope. This telescope gives a clearer view of the entire field on the ground glass with a five-inch focusing lens. Utilizing focusing lever, which changes the optical system, a twelve-inches focusing lever, changing the entire field also can be obtained. In both the five-inches and twelve-inches magnifications, correct and normal image is obtained with the Gaudio invention.

This eye-piece is especially large, permitting a clear view of the field. By this invention all difficulties in which the camera can be lined up with positive assurance by reason of the large magnification and the fact that the lens is not disturbed between the focusing and photographing periods.

CARL WANTED TO LOOK PART OF "DEAD MAN"
"Why in thunder are you putting on lighter makeup?" im- plored Charlie Chaplin of Carl Miller, make-up in the comedian's "Public Opinion."

Mr. Miller, only two minutes before had died on the Chaplin set, but when the above question was put to him he was all energy with his makeup box.

"When death excuses," said Mr. Miller, patiently, "and immediately the body and a pallor steals over and re- mains on the countenance. For the first five hours it is a waste of the language," explains Miss Geraghty, who has charge of the production of the club.

The personnel of the club in addition to Miss Geraghty in- cludes Colleen Moore, Julianne Johnston, Jean Haddad, Cath- erine Key, Gertrude Omland and Constance Wilson.

D'auray Recovering
Jacques D'auray, well-known technical director and portrait painter on several picture film parts, is on his way to health again. Though the burns on the face of the exposed film parts are many and painful, the verdict of his physicians is that his recovery will be smooth and in due time Mr. D'auray will be able to resume his camera work. Mr. D'auray takes the opportunity through the means of "Camera!" to thank his friends and colleagues for the many cards of sympathy he has received since his accident.

APFEL IS SIGNED TO DIRECT VIOLA
Oscar Apfel, a leading motion picture director for the past twelve years, has been signed by Metro to direct Viola Dana in "To Whom It May Concern," the little Metro star's second starring picture for the coming season.

"To Whom It May Concern," is a mystery story by Rita Weissman which has been adapted for the screen by Rex Taylor. Actual production is to be started at the Metro studios about June lst.

Mr. Apfel has only recently returned to Hollywood from a trip overseas where he directed "Bulldog Drummond" for a Dutch producing company. Carl Kolb, who directed the film, accompanied Mr. Apfel and enacted the leading roles in this picture.

Previous to going abroad Mr. Apfel was with Edision, Famous-Players and Fox for a number of years. His recent successes for Famous Players was "The Squaw Man," in which he directed Warren William and Greta Garbo.

While with Fox, Mr. Apfel directed William Farnum for more than a year and among some of the pictures he directed were "Soldier's Oath," "The Battle of Hearts," "Fighting Blood," and many others.

Miss Dana has just completed her work in "Rouged Lips," another story by Rita Weissman, which will be her first release for the coming season. "Rouged Lips" was directed by Harold Shaw.

HUGHES RUNS AWAY
TRUE TO USUAL FORM

Lloyd Hughes is always running away from home—that is, in pictures.

Every character which this popular motion picture juvenile has enacted has been that of a young chap who either runs away from home, is kicked out, or, for some other reason, skips the parental house to seek romance and adventure elsewhere.

And now comes "The Hunt" from a First National picture, in which he is playing opposite winsome Colleen Moore.

True to form he is playing the part of a young man of wealthy family who quarrels with his relatives and goes into the wilds to meet romance in the American country.

STARS ORGANIZE CLUB TO ENCOURAGE YOUTH

Colin Geraghty, who speaks Spanish as readily as English, has organized a Spanish club among some of the stars. As the name of the club is "Habanio Espanol," when the girls converse, speaking Spanish is compulsory, for back of some of the social aspects of the club and cultural advantages is a plan to keep abreast of the linguistic demands in motion pic- tures.

"There are so many French stories it is getting common to give the lines to the actors in French, we anticipate the same will happen to all Hollywood productions which are so popu- lar now, and we decided to be among a few who can speak the language," explains Miss Geraghty, who has charge of the club.

The personnel of the club in addition to Miss Geraghty in- cludes Colleen Moore, Julianne Johnston, Jean Haddad, Cath- erine Key, Gertrude Omland and Constance Wilson.

D'AURAY RECOVERING
Jacques D'Auray, well-known technical director and portrait painter on several picture film parts, is on his way to health again. Though the burns on the face of the exposed film parts are many and painful, the verdict of his physi- cians is that his recovery will be smooth and in due time Mr. D'Auray will be able to resume his camera work. Mr. D'Auray takes the opportunity through the means of "Camera!" to thank his friends and colleagues for the many cards of sympathy he has received since his accident.

"Alimony" Under Way
With production work actually begun on "Alimony," the drama of social life from the story by A. T. Locke, at the Povera Studios under the direction of Emile Charnoff, the studio is buzzing with activity. The production is being filmed with an all-star cast headed by Ruby Miller and With MacClure and Betty Compson, Jackie Saunders, Vole Vale, Clyde Fillmore and Lila Leslie. Robert Dura is the director and the Col- lages are at the camera.
LASKY ANNOUNCES BIG PROGRAM FOR YEAR

The dawn of a new era in motion picture history was heralded by delegates to the annual convention of the Department of Distribution of the Famous Players Lasky Corporation, which took place in Los Angeles this week. According to an announcement made by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production, fifty-two photoplays will be released by the Paramount organization during the season of 1923-24. Only special productions whose themes and stories of the highest artistic and commercial value, and with casts of the biggest stars of the film world will be offered.

"The day of the bigger and better picture is no longer a hope of the future," Mr. Lasky said. "It is here. The Covered Wagon is proving it. The new season is拟定 to each with the production standard of The Covered Wagon will continue to prove it. Never has it been truer that what the public wants is great stories superbly directed in great screen stories. Although executives of the Distribution Department of Paramount Pictures were executive, salesmen, agents, and other employees from all the West Coast Exchanges and executives from the home office in New York. Among the latter were S. R. Kent, General Manager of Distribution, who presided at the Convention; John D. Clark, Divisional Manager; Eugene Zukor, E. E. Shauer, Mel Shauer, Claud Saunders, and others. A. M. Botsford and G. M. Spiddell.

The session opened at the Hotel Ambassador, and lasted three days. Programs and sales policies for the coming season were discussed.

OWEN MOORE

Owen Moore, one of the screen's foremost comedy and dramatic players, has been engaged by First National to enact the principal male role in "Thundergates," a ten-dramatic picture of Sidney Herschel Shnall's novel, "The Lord of Thundergates." Few actors in pictures today have such a wide experience before the camera as Moore, and it was because of his extensive and versatile career, that he was chosen for the part in "Thundergates." In the First National picture Moore will portray a young engineer, whose resemblance to a Chippewa is only one of the many adventures, exciting and romantic situations and finally wins him a white wife, who was forced upon him, through circumstances, he was compelled to take place of the love of his life.

Other well known film celebrities who will have parts in this picture are Sylvia Breamer, Victor Varconi, Paulette Goddard and Robert McKim.

"Thundergates" promises to be the most colorful Chinese play since "East is West," a First National picture, which starring Constance Talmadge, proved the moral and historical story of oriental life that has so far been screened.

"Thundergates" will begin at the United Studios within the next two weeks. Joseph deGrasse will direct it.

UNIVERSAL ADDS A CHAMP ATHLETE TO ROSTER

Joe Bonomo, an all-around athlete and winner of a contest in which he proved his ability as the most perfectly built man whose features resembled closest those of Charles Atlas, has signed by Universal to a long-term contract and is now at the Universal studios in Universal City.

Out of 15,000 contestants Bonomo was adjudged winner of the contest and for the same reasons was given a contract with the Hope Hampton Productions in New York. Following a six week's service with that agency, during which time he gained wide recognition for his remarkable athletic ability, Bonomo was signed by Pathe to appear in pictures produced by them at their New York studios. He, therefore, goes to Universal with considerable training before the camera and he is being freely predicted that he will soon be heading his own company at the Universal studio.

Bonomo weighs 190 pounds and stands five feet, 11½ inches in height. He won his letters as a football and wrestling star at the New York Military Academy. Before coming to California he was looked upon as one of the best amateur boxers in New York. For some time he conducted a boxing and wrestling club there under his own name. He is the son of Albert Bonomo, a well-known manufacturer of New York.

Tote Finishes Another

Tote Du Crow has just finished the role of Punchinello, the hunchback clown in "John of the Woods," starring David M. Dean, child protegee of Charlie Chaplin, which was filmed at the Vitagraph studios. Upon completing this part Tote was signed to portray the role of Sun Man, an old Chinaman in "The Lord of Thundergates," which is to be made at the United studios under the direction of Joseph De Grasse.

"Trilby" is Completed

The Richard Walton Tully production of du Maurier's "Trilby" has been completed at the hands of the cutting department. No more will Arthur Edmonds, Philo McLean and Wilfred Lucas be forced to don the fantastic histrionic decorations with which they have been burdened with glorifying the gaudy sognomologies during the filming of this classic. And the temporary rows of members of McLean's manly locks has once more given way to the natural curl of his hair. Oona and Andree LaFayette has taken to wearing stockings again. "Oh, dear, where is thy sting?"

Sergeant Proves Quite Like Sargent

A short time ago Lewis Sar- gent, youthful comedy star who recently undergirded his acting with serious dramatic pictures, was on location with his company in a small Northern California town. The day following his arrival there he was arrested with a lease before the police for speeding and the next day sergeant who in this town served as the judge. "Have you got your license with you?" asked the presiding officer. Sergeant started tumbling through his pockets, knowing right well, however, that he had left his operator's license at the hotel in his other suit. "Do you mean my driver's license or my registration certifi- cate?" the actor inquired, stalling for time.

The sergeant, who is considered a "hard-boiled" man by those who are brought before him, glanced down at the actor rather suspiciously. "What do we do with people who drive automobiles in this town without a license, don't you? We put them in jail for a few days."

"I don't know which license I mean," the actor winced. "If you don't know which license I mean I'll show you mine."

As he put his hand in his inside coat pocket the stern ex- pression on his face turned to a smile. He also, it seems, had left his license in his other clothes. Without further bearing the actor's case was dismissed.

Editing Dupont Film

William C. Thompson, production manager, and Thomas Dixon, Jr., dramatic editor of Shadowland Productions, Inc. are just completing the editing of a new feature production starring Miss Du- pont and which will be released soon through the Shadowland circuit. This will be the first production featuring this star to ever be released on the inde- pendent market.

FINE ARTS' NEW STUDIO NEARLY FINISHED

The task of reconstructing the Fine Arts studios at Culver City came to its final stages of completion and according to John Rikkleman, secretary and treasurer of the playing, was not only ready shortly to offer accommodations to as many as fifteen producing companies.

One of the greatest jobs that the working crew was compelled to face was the moving of one of the largest stages from the corner of the lot to another, but now that it has been moved in place the remainder of the re-modelling work is progressing with the greatest speed.

With the old wooden buildings have been wrecked, plans were arranged by the management so that production activity at the plant will not be delayed by the reconstruction work. In place of the wood- en buildings the studio manage- ments, is so not stressed, on the buildings of the latest designs and with every modern improve- ment. As a part of the studio expansion plan twenty-six new dressing rooms and fourteen executive offices have been provided. Also one ready for occupancy. A new enclosed stage is rapidly nearing completion.

More than $15,000 is being spent by the studio for the recon- struction work, but when it is completed the plant will be one of the most up-to-date and best equipped studios on the West Coast.

Among the companies at present engaged in production at the Fine Arts studios is the Mis- sion Film Company, which com- pany is under the direction of David Kirkland; the Finis Fox Prod- uctions, under the direction of Bag- gage; the direction and supervision of Finis Fox; Fred Caldwell productions, making another "Hollywood" story, and the Jess Robbins Production.

New Illumination Angle

Another new angle in the illu- mination of moving picture sets has been developed. This time the inventor is E. R. Hick- son, art director of the Ben Wilson Production, at present filming an all-star feature enti- tled, "Million Dollar" the idea of using one large lamp, each big light is replaced by two of smaller power, which Hickson says will throw the lights of the eyes of the players facing the powerful starry area. Hickson has been one of the most original and efficient art directors in the business, and with his mind full of ideas and inventions which have served potentially in making motion picture work easier and of better quality.
DERIDED RABBIT'S FOOT RIDES TO TRIUMPH

This is the tale of a rabbit's foot and four brave minnows.

Director Frank Borzage and Producer Paul H. Jacobs went fishing after they finished shooting "Children of Dust," taking with them Cameramen Chet Lyons and Bunny Dull, production manager.

They wanted just a bit of a rest between pictures, a mountain trip and the limit of trout. Frank Borzage carries a rabbit's foot.

The others derived their superstition, but the rabbit's foot did its duty.

Upon their return the following was submitted by Borzage in favor of his talisman.

Jacobs lost his car in a smash-up in which another motorist ran into it while left at the curb. He caught only nine trout. Due to stepping on a curly tail and could not go into the water to fish. He caught three.

Lyons whipped the streams too hard and caught nothing. Borzage landed the limit and had no trouble of any sort.

Figure it out for yourself.

"MEANEST MAN" TO HAVE NOVEL
NEW YORK OPENING

"The Meanest Man in the World," adapted to the screen from George M. Cohan's famous stage success of the same name, has been completed by Principal Pictures Corporation and will have its world premiere in Mr. Cohan's theatre on Broadway at 100th Street.

The opening will take place early in the fall and Cohan personally will attend to many of the arrangements necessary to bring the production to Broadway in genuine George M. Cohan style.

Bert Lytell, who portrays the "meanest man" on the screen (Cohan having played the part on the stage) will also be in Gotham at this time and there is every reason to feel that Mr. Lytell will participate with Cohan on the presentation of the picture.

A cast of excellent artists besides Mr. Lytell are featured in this new offering. Chief among these are Bleeke Sweet, Bryant Washam, Betty Bronson, Reliance, Maryon Aye, Helen Lynch, Ward Crane, Frances Raymond, William Cardell, Victor Potel, Lincoln Sturdivant, Carl Stock, and others, of equal popularity.

The picture is in feature lengths to be one of the outstanding productions of the coming season.

BARKER LEAVES FOR 3RD LOCATION ON ONE FILM

With eight weeks of location work already to his credit in the making of "The Master of Vengeance" for Metro release, Rexual Barker has again started for the great outdoors to film exotic scenes for the production. Big Bear Lake is his destination this time, and while his stay will not be as long as his trip through Canada, and the Feather River country, it will be fully as exciting. Barker has achieved the spectacular thrill's prescribed by the scenario.

Stars accompanying Mr. Barker on the Big Bear expedition are Pat O'Malley, Earle Williams and Renee Adoree, who has sufficiently recovered from her severe attack of "Kleptomaniac eyes" to face the camera where artful Barker and his camera have used.

"The Master of Woman" an adaptation by Monte M. Katterjohn of G. B. Law's "The Law-Bringers." Among the other stars of the cast are: Barbara La Marr, Wallace Beery, Victor McLaglen, Paul McKeever, Anders Randolph, George Kuhn, Robert Anderson and Ed J. Brady.

CONFUSION IS CAUSED BY A TITLE CONTEST

Considerable confusion has been caused in the mind of the public of a misunderstanding regarding a title contest held with in the Mary Pickford organization recently.

Miss Pickford offered a prize of a jeweled wrist watch or two hundred dollars in cash to the member of her own organization who suggested the best title for her forthcoming production, "The Street Singer." It was won by Dennis F. O'Brien, attorney for Miss Pickford, who suggested "The Street Singer." This was the very first title offered, and seemed best suited to the picture.

Van Dyke is Signed

Associated Authors have signed with Allied Pictures. They said Van Dyke to direct "Harbor Bar," the Peter B. Kyne sea story which will be their second release. Van Dyke recently directed "Forget-Me-Not," a Melville title and also a number of Leach Baird specials. Thompson Biechlan, who will supervise the production with the assistance of his associates Frank Woods and Elmer Harris, has just completed the contract for Van Dyke, and the Camera work will begin as soon as the cast is signed up.

MONTY'S FAMILY MUSICAL BUT HE PLAYS FUNNY

Monty Banks, one of the three "toppers" who are making two-reel feature comedies at the Strand-Theater, as Monty says, although his entire family is musical, he can't play a note. Monty says, "My father was a musical director, my cousin was—and is—a tenor in opera; my sister was a soprano when they stayed home and practiced, I was out having a good time or achieving the revelation of my nature. Always to laugh. But I like also beautiful things such as women and children—literary books. I have just bought a new home in the foothills of Hollywood and I shall accumulate as many arts objects as I can to make it beautiful. I make foolishness all day in the pictures and perhaps, sooner or later, it will become different. Oh, yes, I love a good dinner—but though from 9:30 to 3 I do not care for spaghetti. No, sir. It does not suit my taste at all. Not all Italians like spaghetti. Not all Irishmen like potatoes, I suppose either."

THOUSAND ORIENTALS TO BE USED IN THIS FILM

Southern California is being equipped for Chinese and Japanese "types" to play in another "Thunderstruck," an elaborate and tense, dynamic story of Chinese American life, to be filmed by First National.

More than 1000 Orientals will be employed during the filming of the huge production, which will be made under the direction of Joseph De Gracia of the United Studios.

Prominent parts in the play will be filled by Mrs. Belva Fair, Sylvia Breamer and Robert McKim. "Beautee," which is a screen version of Sidney Her- schel Small's "Lord of Thunder," deals with the thrilling, courageous experiences of an American who, through a series of unusual circumstances becomes mistaken for a Chinese overlord; is forced to masquerade as such and is compelled to accept as a slave-wife, a beautiful white girl who had been kidnaped as a child and reared as Chinese.

Miss Fair will fill the role of the slave-wife. The part of the American has not yet been filled.

Gordon Returns to Mayer

Having completed his role as lead in "Gentle Henry," now picture, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," Huntly Gordon has returned to Mayer Studios as a prominent figure in the all-star cast of John M. Stahl's new First National production, "The Wrecker." Mr. Gordon was placed under a long-term contract by Mr. Mayer for the purposes of consideration. His first appearance in the picture was as Jeffrey Fair in Fred Niblo's "The Famous Mrs. Fair."

MILADY OF FRANCE LANDS MILADY OF L. A.

Los Angeles women are the most distinctively dressed in America, certainly this side of Fifth Avenue.

This is the judgment of Milca, under whose name several pictures with Miss Morgan, who recently has come to Hollywood to fulfill American motion picture contracts negotiated in Paris.

Mlle. Peyro, in voicing this view, takes into consideration even New York women, who have the advantage of representation in their city of internationally known French designers and first call upon all ideas in gowns which come from the fashion arbiters of Paris.

Commenting upon this point, Mlle. Peyro said, when seen at her home in Hollywood: "One might suppose that modes, like the sun, would have come and gone in the cast before they reach the west, but it is not so.

"From observation, I believe that in this part of the United States the new idea is accepted more readily in other cities, excepting, possibly, New York. They hesitate and modify, without doubt, many of the Paris fashions, whereas it seems that, if a new design is suitable to the American style of beauty, it is taken up quickly. That it is beautiful is enough; that it has never been done before is never considered. Distinction is bound to follow."

MR. AND MRS. WASHBURN WORKING IN SAME FILM

For the first time in several years, Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Washburn, a well known couple in the leading roles of the same photo play. This duo of screen cele- brities are playing the stellar roles in Ben Wilson's latest feature production, "Mine to Keep," which is now in the course of filming at the Beverlia Studios, with Ashton Dearholt, former screen star in his own right, serving as production manager.

Dearholt declares this new picture will boast an enviable cast, having in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Washburn, such well known favorites as Wheeler Oakman, Charlotte Stevens, Kate Lester and numerous others.

Ash With Rock

A British cameraman expert is now shooting the Joe Rock Productions at the Grand Studio. Jerry is a wizard with the lens and has a number of several glimpses for motion picture photography and in addition is a superb colorist to top off his work. It is a pretty good man to be two kinds of a wizard!
CAMERA I

WEEKLY WAKE-UP—CAMERA I'S NEWS SECTION

FISHER IS NORTH ON BIG FILM DEAL

Victor B. Fisher, producer of "Youth Triumphant," just completed at the Hollywood Studios, left here this week for San Francisco, where he will confer with his associates on a deal involving increased producing activities and the signing of several leading motion picture stars.

The result obtained in filming "Youth Triumphant," it is claimed, has made Fisher Productions a strong competitor in the motion picture field.

Among the most popular of Frank Borzage's "Children of Dust," which was filmed at the United Pictures. This little screen Goldilocks has interpreted all sorts and manners of characters, and in two Mack Sennett comedies was seen as a dainty young Miss of S, and a rough-and-tumble "Duster Tumbleweed," which were as different as night and day. Lloyd Hamilton was responsible for her initiation as a "boy" actor for it was in one of his farces that she first appeared in the regalia of a street urchin. At the present time she is playing the part of a tough and ragged youngster in Hugh F. Lambert's "Father," at the Studio, and it would be difficult to identify her as a demure young lady with ingenuous am-bitions.

In Borzage's picture she enact's the part of a girl three years older than herself, which is later carried on by Pauline Garon, and has proved that she is as genuine in dramatic parts as she is in comedy roles. Her inclusion in a cast including such well-known names as Pauline Garon, Johnnie Walker, Lloyd Hughes, Frankie Lee, and Bert Woodruff is an encouraging indication for her.

DANISH ACTOR MAKES NEW START IN NEW WORLD

Prominent among those character actors who have been in the limelight so much of late is Otto Matiesen, who recently finished the role of Philippe de Vilmorin in Rex Ingram's "Scaramouche" at the Metro studios. Although comparatively new to the silversheet he is by no means a novice in dramatic work for he has been on the stage all of his life, appearing with some of the world's most renowned artists. He is a Dane by birth and regarded by the countrymen as one of their foremost dramatic actors, especially after the interpretation of Shakespeare and Washington Irving in which roles he created a sensation on the Continent several years ago when he played before many of the crowned heads of Europe. London, Paris, Copenhagen, Berlin, Vienna . . . all know this young man and have accorded him tremendous applause upon his appearances there.

It was during a tour of America, giving performances in the art and little theatres of the country that he came to Southern California. His work aroused the interest of the Cronin brother, and he was immediately approached with cinema offers, of which he accepted. Matiesen, who is the personification of the European artist, embodying grace and dignity, is a true son of the stage, and it is expected that the director will rely upon his acting ability alone. The wide range of characters which parsley actors have handled, has given him the most skeptical that he has no parallel in his particular phase of work. Several

THE WARREN BROTHERS have completed one of the largest studios in Los Angeles at an approximate expenditure of $250,000. The new studio covers nine and one-half acres of ground, has all the latest lighting and stage equipment, 100 dressing rooms, thirty executive offices, library and other appliances in addition to the largest stage in the world, fully 300 feet in length.

HERE'S A CHANCE FOR SOULFUL DAMSEL

If you are eighteen, an old-fashioned girl, demure, with a soul, and with a sympathetic understanding, fairly pretty, and if you have ambition and want to work hard and diligently, then burn this paper. Director Frank Borzage, for there is an excellent opportunity, is looking to you to become a real motion picture player and perhaps eventually a star.

Mr. Borzage, who is preparing his next picture at the United Studios for Producer Arthur H. Emerson, is held up because in all films—and even on the stage—he is unable to find the exact type of girl to play the ingenue, a leading part in his film, "Collier," which is coming from New York to be in this all-star production. Emerson, the First National which will also have Virginia Pearson in the cast.

They want a real girl, with sweet personality and charming manner; an anti-flapper, yet a modern girl. "She does not have to be beautiful, but must have brains," says Director Borzage, "and it is a wonderful part and a great opportunity for an unknown girl to get a real start.

It will be remembered that Borzage, with his peculiar faculty for discovering unknown faces, has brought out a number of stars in his many pictures, perhaps the most notable case being Vera Gordon, who played the mother in his famous screen epic, "Honor- esque." Borzage saw her in a real actress with a soul, and so she was acclaimed a star almost overnight.

FORMER SLAVE, 194, IS NOW A PICTURE ACTOR

At the tender age of 104, John Currie, who is the oldest actor at the camera pictures, he is without doubt the oldest actor before the camera.

Currie, white haired and shaking with age, was born in Atlanta, Ga., in the summer of 1819. His parents were slaves owned by Major James Comer, a wealthy southern planter.

Currie grew up with the Major's son, James Comer, Jr., and became his personal body servant when the Civil War was declared Currie and his master fought side by side for the Confederacy.

Currie photographs excellently, according to Tod Browning, Goldwyn director, who has watched him. Isaac Hendricks, a slave, is "The Day of Faith," the Arthur Sommersplay's story that Browning is to direct.

Currie has eighteen great grand children, the youngest of which awed not only the world but the Medaille Militaire in the great war.
Claire Windsor Returns

Claire Windsor who, ever since she completed her role in Marshall Neilan's "The Eternal Three," has been sojourning in New York, returned to Los Angeles Thursday. Miss Windsor, during her short stay in the metropolis, was extensively courted by society. Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt and her sister, Mrs. John Converse, entertained her, as did Mrs. Bernard Baruch. Miss Windsor was also an honored guest at the Belmont Hunt, which is quite the social event of the season.

A Girl and Her Name

Dunne Thompson, the new leading lady with Christie Comedies, who makes her bow with Bobby Vernon in "Plumb Crazy," has had a lot of trouble with her name. Dunne Thompson happens to be her real name, but she used to be known in comedy pictures as Jo. The latter name was wished on her some time ago when she first featured in pictures, no one knowing who she was. Fay Wray wondered who thinks up some of the fancy names for movie people and Pullman cars. At any rate, Miss Thompson likes her own name and is ashamed of it, so she went back to her real name de novo as soon as she had the opportunity.

To Film "Paradise"

Richard Walton Tully is to produce for the screen his famous stage success, "The Bird of Paradise," in the Hawaiian islands, locale of the story. The producer, who will be a first National release, is said, will be anywhere from three months to a year in the making. The cast is now under consideration, but as yet no final selections have been made. "The Bird of Paradise," one of the most successful of foot-light attractions, played for twelve years on the stage. Among those elevated to stardom in the part of the Hawaiian princess were Laurette Taylor, Lenore Ulric, Carlotta Monterey, Besie Harrissle, Florence Rockwell and Muriel Siarr. Guy Bates Post played "Ten Thousand Dollars," Dean the beachcomber.

Grand Corners Directors

A galaxy of high-class comedy directors is to be found at the Grand Studio on Gower Street, Hollywood, where Monty Banks, Sid Grauman, Bessie Harrissle, Florence Rockwell, John Ford, R. C. Clark, and others are engaged in making two-reel fun films. Among them are Alf Goland, Paul Hurst, Arlette Mayo, Hugo Fary, Harry Edwards, Herman Raymaker and Oil Pratt.

Betsy Plans Party

Betsy Ann Hisle, five-year-old beauty contest winner, who is one of the fearsome little characters in Roach's "Our Gang" comedies, is going to have a birthday party at the Hollywood Hotel next Wednesday, May 30th, and has invited baby Muriel McDonald, Baby Peggy, Jeanne Dawson, Jackie Condron, Mickey McLain, Richard Beadrick, Jacki Parker, Walter Wilkinson, and several other screen kiddies to be her guests. As yet no estimates have been made as to how much ice cream and cake will be consumed, but a corps of caterers are being held in readiness for the onslaught.

Miss Wales in Two Films

Ethel Wales, well-known character actress who is scoring in "The Covered Wagon," has just signed two interesting contracts. Miss Wales started work Friday in "A Harbor Hunt," the Kyne story being made by Associated Artists at Ince's in which she is cast as "Penny," an old sailor. Following this she goes to the Lasky Studios to negotiate a leading character role in "The Faun," a William de Mille production. She recently completed character roles in "Glitz," a Dinky Dean Production and "The Fog," a Fox Production for Metro.

Carr on New Job

W. B. ("Bill") Carr, well-known art director, who was for many years with the Lois Weber Company, has assumed the management of the rental department of Miss Weber's American Film Corp. Carr entered film work with Universal eleven years ago, and was immediately associated with the Weber outfit, with which group he remained until 1921. Then he free-lanced, handling the art direction on "Constance Tal- madge's" "The Primitive Lover" and "East Is West;" Norma Tal- madge's "The Eternal Flame;" Jackie Coogan's "Oliver Twist;" B. P. Fineman's "Don't Marry for Money," and several other big productions. His association with Foster will place this establishment among the foremost in the southwest, for Carr has hosts of friends in the professional field, and a complete understanding of what is expected of him in his new position.

C. C. Burr has just finished putting the finishing touches on the next Earl Hurd-Dobby Bumps Cartoon Comedy, "Their Love Grew Cold," which will be released through Educational Film Exchanges, Inc.

After having been second assistant for the past three years, Lou Borge has been promoted to first assistant with Frank Borgez, who is starting his next picture for Arthur B. Jacobs to be released through First National.

Because "The Eleventh Hour," the title of Bernard Durning's latest Fox film creation, is symbolic of their ritual, many lodges of the Elks National organization will sponsor the premier showing of the picture in their respective communities. The screen production, which is an adaptation of Lewis J. Carter's sensational melodrama, was made by Durning in twelve weeks, and the film features character parts. Likewise is the eleventh picture "Berney" has filmed under the Fox banner.

Under the direction of Lynn Reynolds, production has started at the United Studios on a new First National picture, "The Hunneta," in which Lloyd Hughes has been given the featured role to portray. The production has recently received an important characterization in the Universal production of "Grandpop."

The Mission Film Company has assembled a notable list of artists for the principal roles in its latest virile drama of rural life, "The Barefoot Boy," which was written by Wallace Clifton and now in production with the Fine Arts studios. Among the players are John Bowers, Marjorie Daw, Tully Marshall, Sylvia Bromley, Raymond Hatton, George Meacham, Harry Todd, Otis Harlan, Frankie Lee, Virginia True Boardman and others. David Kirkland is directing the picture.

Helen Kreier, who has appeared opposite many of the screen's foremost comedians and who recently completed a year's engagement as leading woman for Jimmy Aubrey, Vitagraph comedian, has been signed by Milburn Morantz to act as his leading woman in a new series of two reel comedies which he is to produce for the Anchor Film Company.

More lumber has already been used in the building of the new sets for Ingram's production of "Sacramouche" than in any picture ever produced at the Metro studios, and the pictures is not yet one-fourth finished.

"Bull" Montana was not satisfied with the color of his new automobile, so is now having it repainted. When it comes out of the paint shop it will resemble something between a western sunset and a mechanical representation of Will Ireland's "Trimmed in Scarlet!"

The clever little Joys and Glooms of the cartoon page play an important part in "Bump Lips," Viola Dana's new Metro picture. Instead of being in animated form, however, they are portrayed by skilled actors.

Edward Sloan, who is directing Metro's all-star production of "The Eagle's Feather," started on his theatrical career at the age of 16 by portraying the role of Friar Laurence in "Romeo and Juliet" at the Par- viilion Theatre in London.

It is estimated that approximately 2000 dozen candles of all sizes are used in the "Bird of Paradise" the Rex Ingram's Metro production of "Sacramouche."

A real dentist was called upon to portray such a role, in order that the part in Viola Dana's "Bump Lips," would be enacted technically correct.

Hunt Stromberg, who produces, and often personally directs the "Bull" Montana comedies for Metro, is the youngest producer in motion pictures.

James Kirkwood, who is cast for the leading male role in Metro's all-star production of "The Eagle's Feather," was at one time leading man for Mary Pickford.

TRUESDELL IS ENGAGED FOR BORZAGE PICTURE

Arthur H. Jacobs has signed Frederick Truesdell, noted New York stage and screen actor, to appear in his new Frank Borzage production for First National, the temporary title of which is "Dust in the Doorway."

Mr. Truesdell is to play Malcolm Trask, husband of Virginia Pearson, who is one of the all-star cast which includes Joseph Swickard and others.

He just arrived from New York where his last stage work was in the long run of "The Gold Diggers," the Belasco success. For many years he was a member of the popular stars as Lilian Russell, Mary Manning, Lilly Langtry, Elsie Ferguson and many others. He was one of the original cast of "Ben Hur" and is today one of the only three living players who appeared in that memorable first presentation. The others are Wm. H. Hart and Emmett Corrigan.
CAMERA!

Weekly Wake-'Em-Up—CAMERA's News Section

HOME FOLKS ARE STRONG FOR HANK

When Hollywood beckons, doors drop their pens, carpenters lay down their hammers, cowboys sell their beloved mounts and business men dispose of their holdings. Many come to Hollywood, girls and boys, men and women, near the call, but few are chosen.

One of the chosen few is Frederick Hank, formerly of Cheyenne, Wyoming. Mr. Hank, who was born near Omaha, Neb., could ride a caper before he could walk. As the saying is, he was "born in a saddle." For a sojourner, the Haymarket Hotel, Hollywood, is the way to Hollywood, but not until he had broken every dirt track automobile and motorcycle racing record in the Rocky Mountain region. Those records will stand for a long time. Mr. Hank is known as a reckless driver in a state known for its trains.

Mr. Hank began his motion picture career playing a "heavy" in Eugene Manlove Rhodes' "Stooges," a role that called for hard-riding and considerable histrionic ability. Later Mr. Hank appeared in "Blood and Sand," "Man-slaughter" and "Robin Hood." When the "homo folks" in Cheyenne heard of Mr. Hank's progress in Hollywood a company was formed to further assist his fellow townsmen in their new occupation as an outdoor star. The new film concern is the Rocky Mountain Productions, formed in "The Dangerous Trail." Its first production, Mr. Hank has the juvenile role, playing opposite such stars as Noah Beery, Tully Marshall, Jack Curtis and William Lowell. The director-general of the Rocky Mountain Productions is Alvin J. Neitz, director and writer of outdoor stories. F. W. Raymond is general manager. The new concern will confine all its studio activities in Hollywood, couple with Mr. Neitz's preoccupation as an outdoor star. The new film firm will produce a series of eight outdoor pictures featuring Bill Patton, who will be supported by Peggy O'Day.

MAC BUSCH PRESENTS MASQUITO

During recent maneuvers conducted by the 163d Infantry at the Glendale rifle range, Mac Busch presented the regiment with its new mascot, "Hank," a four-months-old Belgian police dog. Colonel Walter P. Storey, commanding, accepted the mascot in behalf of the doughboys of the regiment.

STAHIL, WITH GREAT CARE, ESSENTIAL FOR GREATNESS

Approximately two months overdue, though in the selection of the cast which is composed entirely of stage and screen stars, the picture is being favorably received by the public. An absolute true portrayal of characters is a personal ideal with Mr. Stahl as well as being one of the reasons for his great success, each player was chosen for his or her particular adaptability for a certain role.

As Myra Hastings, a demure little maid who, overnight, is transformed into a society débutante, Marie Prevost not only has the greatest opportunity of her career, but also one of the most fascinating roles ever offered on the screen. Robert Ellis, who has just returned from the film studio after a trip around the world, will be seen as the lying, knavish, knighthood of a romantic, while Huntary Gordon and Gertrude Astor will provide an air of bored aristocracy, as well as considerable plot, in the characters of Mr. and Mrs. Van Pott.

Norma Shearer, a new star in the Mayer Studio fold, will make her West Coast debut as a beautiful but susceptible little lass in "The Wanners." This picture will mark Lincoln Stedman's second performance under John M. Stahl's direction, playing a much-refused, but ever hopeful romance part that is reminiscent of his role in "The Dangerous Age." Little Richard Hemick will enact Sonny, a precocious youngster who rattles the family skeletons at inoppor-tune moments.

Three comedy favorites of old, Louise Fazenda, Hank Mann and Lydia Yeanian's Titus, will add mirth to the picture, balancing well with the severe hauteur of Lillian Langdon in the part of Mrs. Worthington, a society leader with an important family tree. Other important roles are taken by Vernon Steebe, Eddie Griffin, and William Buckley.

J. G. Hawks and Paul Born wrote the scenario from the stage play, "Hetchells Bunting," and George Stahl G. Palmers is in charge of the photography.

NEW CONCERN HAS BOUGHT PACIFIC STUDIO

The Interstate Pictures Corporation, a newly formed $1,000,000 corporation, has just taken over the Pacific Studios at the corner of Venice Boulevard and Los Angeles Avenue City. The lease was signed this week between Fred L. Hunt, owner, and J. B. Stahl, head of the new organization.

A series of five to ten-reel dramas will be filmed at the studio, the first to start production in about sixty days.

All the stories are those of a famous novel, and at the present time it is undecided as to the name of the first story to be produced.

The American Releasing Corporation has the releasing rights for the first story. J. B. Calvert is directing and Frank F. Cameron will assist.

About $300,000 will be spent on the first Interstate production.

LEE IN CASTING

Rowland Y. Lee is covering parts for his first special production at the Fox Studios. The new picture is based upon Governor-near Morris' short story, "You Can't Get Away With It," and will bear the original title to the screen. It has been adapted for author of Rex Ingram's recent "Where the Pavement Ends," and the casting is being prepared by Robert N. Lee.

STAR WILL KIDNAP A MAN FOR HERSELF

If you were a white girl —

If you had been brought up as an Indian—

If you decided that you wanted a white husband—

How would you go about getting your man?

In "Huntress," Hubert Footer's novel, now being filmed at the United Studios by Associated First National, "Bela," played by Colleen Moore, the dainty and winsome young screen actress, is faced with that problem.

Bela wants a husband so much that she just goes out and takes one—kidnaps him in fact. And "then the fun begins."

The kidnapping of the white man forms the basic plot of this highly amusing picture play, which, replete with humor, is not without a good many of the tensely dramatic situations.

The "Huntress," which is the initial all-First National picture to be produced under the production chancery of Richard Walton Tully, promises to be one of the outstanding screen pictures of the year. The role of "Bela," the vivacious white child, is one which is especially adaptable to Miss Moore's versatile ability and is one that should add still more laurels to the already dazzling career of this most capable young woman.

"SCARAMOUSE" IS GAINING DAILY IN FEAST

It would seem that if Rex Ingram continues to increase the personnel of the cast he is assembling for the production of "Scaramouche," which is now in the course of filming at the Metro studios, he will have a safe money-making locomotive of new properties assembled in one group is concerned.

The latest well known name to be added to the list of those to whom important parts are entrusted in this promising screen classic is Truman Van Dyke, who was signed to enact the role of Leandre.

Mr. Van Dyke started his work in this picture last Monday and under the terms of his contract, he will be kept busy before the camera at the Ingram cameras for the next few weeks.

Mr. Van Dyke has been one of the foremost serial stars on the screen for the last several years but after completing a long engagement in the stellar role of the Selig production "Jungle Goddess," he decided to abandon that field and concentrate his attentions on feature production. If recently he has been among those active at Universal City.

Although he is among the younger generation and distinctly juvenile type, Mr. Van Dyke is one of the veterans of the screen, having been among the few to start his cinema career simultaneously with the establishing of the film industry in Southern California. He won his greatest fame for his ability to do two very important things exceedingly well. One of these was to fight manfully and the other was to love the heroine. Forsooth both as for a fighter and a romancer he is considered the ideal American type.

Lila Leslie Engaged

Lila Leslie, popular stage and screen actress, has been engaged by First National to play a prominent part in "The Huntress," which is being produced at the United Studios with Colleen Moore and Lloyd Hughes in the leading roles. Miss Leslie's stage career covers appearances not only in this country, but also in England and Australia. In London her name is as well known in musical comedy as it is with the patrons in this country. She also had a brilliant career in the Antipodes with Colleen Moore and played an important role in the original production of "Peg O'My Heart," "The Boomerang," "The China Coast," "All for the Ladies," and "The Fabulous Dick."
Weekly Wake’Em-Up—CAMERA’s News Section

Page Sixteen

CAMERA

Who’s Who and What’s What in Filmland This Week

Edward Clayton, juvenile dancer, has finished work in "Shipproof," directed by Scotty Dunlap for Fox.

Belle Stoddard is playing at present the part of the nurse to little Jean Capra in Norma Talmadge's "Ashes of Vengeance."

Malcolm McGregor, one of Metro's leading men has been loaned to Universal to appear in one picture with Gladys Walton.

Hope Hampton, who will be featured in the screen version of David Belasco's play, "The Gold Diggers," has arrived here from New York.

Oscar Apfel, who is to direct Viola Dana in "To Whom It May Concern," her next Metro starring vehicle, only recently returned from abroad where he produced "Bulldog Drummond" for a Dutch company.

Bowditch Turner, who is appearing in Rex Ingram's production of "Scaramouche" for Metro, enacted the role of Arnesola the servant of Julio in Mr. Ingram's Metro production of "The Falcon" of the Apache.

Clyde Fitch's "Beau Brummel," in which John Barrymore will be starred by the Warner Brothers, is being adapted for the screen by Frances Marion, one of the most prolific writers in the picture industry.

William Orlondam has a comedy character role in the Metro all-star production of "The Eagle's Feather." Mr. Orlondam scored a big hit with his comedy part in the ship's carpe in the Metro screen version of "All the Brothers Were Valiant," a recent release.

Shirley Mason, the sister of Viola Dana, is in the Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles recovering from an appendicitis operation. Miss Mason is occupying the same room in the hospital Miss Dana had when she was operated on several months ago and has the same doctor and nurse.

Frank Borzage, director for Arthur H. Jacobs who releases through First National, ten years ago was a leading man for Thomas H. Ince. Chester Lyons was a cameraman there. Borzage, recognizing his exceptional worth, remembered him, and several years ago when he became a director, secured Lyons as his own cameraman. He is to photograph his next production also, which will be commenced in a few days at the United Studios.

Leslie Austen, who appears nightly in the public in "The Wasp," is putting in his spare time acting before the camera.

E. H. Griffith, who returned last week from Canada, is busy filming the interiors for Cosmopolis' feature "Unseen Enemy," which was tentatively titled "Snowblind."

Daniel Carson Goodman, who has a neck for original titles, has tentatively named his forthcoming production "You Get What You Give."

Jane Thomas will play the dutiful daughter immediately upon the completion of "The Exciters," and will take a hurried trip to Chicago to visit her mother before starting work on her next special.

Virginia Pearson, absent from the screen for three years while headlining in vaudeville, returns to the films in a leading part in Frank Borzage's next production for First National release.

Arthur H. Jacobs and his director, Frank Borzage, bade themselves away to the high Sierra to fish for trout between pictures. Ever since he has been in pictures Borzage has made such a retreat when time permits.

Mollville Burke, who is at present directing a stock company in Cincinnati, is working on a plan whereby he intends to make a motion picture with the stock players as actors. If the venture is successful, it will be the first time a thing of this sort has been done.

William Collier, Jr., who has just been engaged by wire by Arthur H. Jacobs, is preparing to migrate from New York to Hollywood where he is to play a leading role in the next Frank Borzage production which is to be released through First National.

Gertrude Astor has returned to Los Angeles following the completion of her work as one of the principal players in Arthur H. Bracy's production of "The Ne'er Do Well" in New York and she is now appearing in the John M. Stahl production of "The Wanters."

Rudie Blue and Irene Rich will be the co-starred in the Brothers' picturization of Kath-leen Norris' novel, "Lariatta Leonard," which will be directed by Harry Rapf, the scenario having been completed by Sada Cowan.

Lloyd Hamilton is wintering in New York this spring.

Mae Murray has departed for New York for a month's stay. Upon her return to Hollywood she will start work on a possible film, "Rose Quest," her next production for Metro, which Robert Z. Leonard will direct.

Carry Odell, character actor of note and former Mack Sennett comedy star, has finished his interpretation of "Spoke Louis" in the new Richard Thomas production, "Scarlet Shadows," which is being made at the Hollywood studios.

John Henry, scion of a wealthy Boston family recently wended his footsteps Hollywood-way to seek fame in motion pictures, has just completed work as a ship's cabin boy in the production of "A Gentleman of Leisure" at the Lasky studios.

Fat Carr has replaced Harry Moe in the vaudeville and film title male lead in the Warner Brothers picture presentation of George M. Cohan's play "Little Johnny Jones," featuring Johnny Hines. Mr. Myers will costar in one of the new series of pictures to be made by the Warners this season.

Bert Woodruff, one of the stars of "Children of Dust," Frank Borzage's current First National picture, started the first theater in Revelonda, California, about seventeen years ago. It was in an abandoned railway station and was made light-proof with cheap calico. It rained, but the audience remained, putting up their umbrellas for protection.

Little Philippe deLacy, adopted French orphan and clever child actor, has completed an important child part in Mary Pickford's latest picture, "The Street Singer," and has been signed for one of the principal supporting roles in "Why Do We Live?" a picture exposing the evils of capital punishment, which is being made at the Cosmopolitan studios.

Dulcie Cooper, who has gained an enviable reputation the past few years as an ingenue, is taking such parts as Clara Kimball Young in "What No Man Knows," with Tom Mix in "Do and Dare," "The Desert Blossom" with William Russell, "Hands of Navar" with Lowell Sherman, and "Love's Wedding." Carbone Production, has been engaged to play the ingenue leads at the Strand Theatre, San Diego.

Miss Cooper has had several years on the speaking stage, has sung in a song with Virginia Brissac in San Francisco.

"Hold to Answer," a gripping story of today by Peter Clark MacFarlane, will be the second entry in the series of Metro's art special stars.

Dorothy Revier, former star of the legitimate stage, is looking for her initial bow in motion pictures as leading woman in the new James E. Bowen production, "The Supreme Test," being made at Cosmopolitan.

After experiencing some of the coldest days of the coldest spring New York City has suffered in many years, Jack White, producer-director of Educational-Mermaid Comedies, is back in the sunshine of Southern California.

"Broken Hearts of Broadway," a story dealing with the bright lights and glamour produced for the screen by Irving Cummings at the Hollywood studios. The leading male role in the picture is being portrayed by Johnnie Walker, popular actor, who has often been referred to as "the typical American boy of the screen." As soon as he completed his work in this picture Walker will resume production of his own series of pictures at the Robertson-Cole studios.

Creighton Hale, debonair leading man, is the first player to be signed by Victor Seastrom for one of the principal roles in his forthcoming production, "The Master Man," which is to be the outer filming processes at the Goldwyn studios on June 4th. Mr Hale recently completed his portrayal of "Old Biff," in the Richard Walton Tully production of "Firibby" following his work as co-star in a popular vaudeville stage play, which was presented at the Mason Opera House in Los Angeles a few weeks ago.

Coy Watson, Jr., ten-year-old film star, who has recently finished an important part in the latest Edna Lewis production of "The Right of the Strongest," was taken to a revival meeting the other night by his mother. A gospel role was being sung to the tune of "Old Black Joe" as the new arrivals seated themselves. The soloist started to sing the chorus when to the surprise of all present Coy sang out loud and native to "Here Comes the Morning—" apparently unaware of the fact that only he and the soloist were singing. His mother quickly touched his shoulder, whispering that the song was a religious song and a solo at that. Ah, reminds one of the younger, "You can't fool me That's Old Black Joe."
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, May 28

Camera's intend to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-860

BERWILLA STUDIO
5821 Santa Monica Blvd. Ashton Dearholt, Prom. Mgr.

- Director: Eddie Lyons Productions (Arrow release).
- Scenarist: Bill "Six" Ouida Conklin
- Star: McCarthy Productions, Don F. Osborne, Mgr.
- Asst Director: Horace B. Carpenter
- Cameraman: Eldridge McNair
- Assistant: Jack Ramsey
- Editing: W. H. Patton
- Type: 2-Reel Comedies
- Schedule: 6th Week

BRENTWOOD STUDIO
4811 Fountain Ave.

- Director: Ben Wilson Productions (Federated release).
- Scenarist: John R. All-Star
- Star: Ben Wilson
- Asst Director: Earl Turner
- Cameraman: Evelyn Campbell
- Editing: "Mine to Keep"
- Type: 4th Week

CENTURY STUDIO

- Director: Century Comedies (Universal release).
- Scenarist: Regent Productions.
- Star: Century Comedies (Universal release).
- Asst Director: Al Herman
- Cameraman: Buddy Mosstetter William Hyer
- Editing: "Buddy at the Bat"
- Type: 3rd Week

CHAPLIN STUDIO
1416 La Brea Ave.

- Director: Chaplin Productions.
- Scenarist: Chaplin Productions.
- Star: Chaplin Productions.
- Asst Director: Chaplin Productions.
- Cameraman: Chaplin Productions.
- Editing: Chaplin Productions.
- Type: 4th Week

CHRISTIE STUDIO

- Director: Christie Studios.
- Scenarist: Christie Studios.
- Star: Christie Studios.
- Asst Director: Christie Studios.
- Cameraman: Christie Studios.
- Editing: Christie Studios.
- Type: 2-Reel Comedy

COSMOS ART STUDIO

- Director: Irving Productions. (B. P. S. release).
- Scenarist: Irving Productions. (B. P. S. release).
- Star: Irving Productions. (B. P. S. release).
- Asst Director: Irving Productions. (B. P. S. release).
- Cameraman: Irving Productions. (B. P. S. release).
- Editing: Irving Productions. (B. P. S. release).
- Type: 4th Week

FINE ARTS STUDIO
4500 Sunset Blvd.

- Director: Fine Arts Studio.
- Scenarist: Fine Arts Studio.
- Star: Fine Arts Studio.
- Asst Director: Fine Arts Studio.
- Cameraman: Fine Arts Studio.
- Editing: Fine Arts Studio.
- Type: 2-Reel Comedy

FOX STUDIO
1401 N. Western Ave.

- Director: Arthur Forde, Casting.
- Scenarist: Arthur Forde, Casting.
- Star: Arthur Forde, Casting.
- Asst Director: Arthur Forde, Casting.
- Cameraman: Arthur Forde, Casting.
- Editing: Arthur Forde, Casting.
- Type: 2-Week

FRANCIS FORD STUDIO
6040 Sunset Blvd.

- Director: Francis Ford, Studio Mgr.
- Scenarist: Francis Ford, Studio Mgr.
- Star: Francis Ford, Studio Mgr.
- Asst Director: Francis Ford, Studio Mgr.
- Cameraman: Francis Ford, Studio Mgr.
- Editing: Francis Ford, Studio Mgr.
- Type: 2-Week

GARSON STUDIO
1845 Glendale Blvd.

- Director: Harry Garson
- Scenarist: Harry Garson
- Star: Harry Garson
- Asst Director: Harry Garson
- Cameraman: Harry Garson
- Editing: Harry Garson
- Type: 2-Week

GOLDSTON STUDIO
6050 Sunset Blvd.

- Director: Goldstone Productions (State Rights release).
- Scenarist: Goldstone Productions (State Rights release).
- Star: Goldstone Productions (State Rights release).
- Asst Director: Goldstone Productions (State Rights release).
- Cameraman: Goldstone Productions (State Rights release).
- Editing: Goldstone Productions (State Rights release).
- Type: 2-Week

GOLDWYN STUDIO
R. B. McIntyre, Casting. Culver City.

- Director: Goldwyn Studio.
- Scenarist: Goldwyn Studio.
- Star: Goldwyn Studio.
- Asst Director: Goldwyn Studio.
- Cameraman: Goldwyn Studio.
- Editing: Goldwyn Studio.
- Type: 2-Week

HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG. 1442 Beachwood Dr.

- Director: Horsley Office Building.
- Scenarist: Horsley Office Building.
- Star: Horsley Office Building.
- Asst Director: Horsley Office Building.
- Cameraman: Horsley Office Building.
- Editing: Horsley Office Building.
- Type: 2-Week

HORSLEY PRODUCTIONS (Independent release), 1442 Beachwood Drive.

- Director: Horsley Productions (Independent release).
- Scenarist: Horsley Productions (Independent release).
- Star: Horsley Productions (Independent release).
- Asst Director: Horsley Productions (Independent release).
- Cameraman: Horsley Productions (Independent release).
- Editing: Horsley Productions (Independent release).
- Type: 2-Week

WORLD EDUCATIONAL FILMS
3250 Sunset Blvd.

- Director: World Educational Films.
- Scenarist: World Educational Films.
- Star: World Educational Films.
- Asst Director: World Educational Films.
- Cameraman: World Educational Films.
- Editing: World Educational Films.
- Type: 2-Week

---

Notes:
- Details are subject to change.
- Please report any discrepancies to the Pulse Editor.
- All studios operate year-round, with specific details released weekly.
Do You Want Work?

Our Beautiful Clothes Will Win You Recognition
Exquisite Garments at a Fraction of Their Original Cost. Many of Them Never Worn.
Open Evenings. New Phone 435-677

Screen Stars Wardrobe Exchange
2006 Ivar Avenue
(in the brown residence on the corner)

All Legal Matters
Attorney and Counselor at Law
JACK P. LEONARD
340 Douglas Bldg. Consultation Free
Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone 659-42

ORIENTAL PROPERTIES
OF ALL TYPES
Oriental Costume Co.
6223 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 5954

Raymond McKee
The Friars Club
New York City

Minor Blythe
Attorney-at-Law
Suite 620 Pacific Finance Bldg.
Los Angeles
Telephone 134-88

EXPERT TYPING
Scripts and Stories
a Specialty
GRACE AINSLEE
Garvanza 3395

Reproductions Still Finishing Publicity
LITTLE
Commercial Photographer Photography
Phone 437902
5374 Hollywood Blvd. Corner Bronson

Animated Cartoons—Original Title Ideas—Clay Animation—Miniature Sets and Animated Figures
Cinema Arts Studio
ELMER H. YOUNG, Mgr.
612 Los Angeles Bldg. Phone 644-22

NEWS FROM NEW YORK
(Continued from Page 6)

Once upon a time, a man grew interested in a glowing film title, and when he saw the film, it really lived up to the press agentry promise. The surprise killed him.

Tyrone Power said yesterday that he would leave for the coast shortly to assume his role in "The Day of Faith."

Sidney Olcott is directing George Arliss in "Green Goddess," for Distinctive. Saul H. Harrison is assisting him.

Mary Roberts Rinehart is here to confer with Wagenhals and Kemper on her new play "The Breaking Point."

Famous Players gained a point in its court battle with Valentino when New York's Supreme Court Justice O'Malley ruled that certain defenses interposed by the "Sheik" should be stricken out. This allows said "Schreek" to file an amended answer.

Marjorie Rambeau apparently attempted to make a secret getaway from this country on the "Homeric," last Saturday. Her name was not among those present and the night before, her home, denied her departure. But the sleuth reporters cornered her. Still she would not talk. "Just leaving," she said. Guess she's tired. She left for London.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., arrived in New York, May 8th, on the Majestic. His mother, Mrs. James Evans, accompanied him. Young Douglas will go to Hollywood to follow in his father's footsteps as an actor.

Chas. Reed Jones, once publicity man for many of the beau monde of Hollywood, is now manager for W. E. A. F., which means New York City's big radio station.

If Thomas Meighan were as shy as his brother William J., he would not be a great movie star. William J., who lives in Washington, D. C., has been photographed only twice during his life. Yesterday the photographers called on Meighan, attempting to take his picture, but failed. William is in the automobile business and is single, and girls, he is just as, if not handsomer, than his brother. Address all mail to 4329 Seventh street North West.

MELODIC TECHNIQUE
(Continued from Page 5)

neristics and the period—they are also fitting backgrounds for the people that pass through them and the action that transpires in them. The straight lines and excessive orderliness of the playground of the Crown Prince (played by Jackie) bespoke the excessive zeal with which his daily life is ordered. Somber Gothic tones in the bedroom of the king (played by Robert Browne) are a fitting background for the grim warrior who is living in his last months on earth. Louis Quinze fittings decorate the room of the Countess Olga Loucheur (Rosemary Théby) appropriately, for the intrigue and plots hatched there.

"Long Live the King!" was adapted by Eve Unsell from Mary Roberts Rinehart's novel of the same name. Jackie Coogan's supporting cast includes Rosemary Théby, Ruth Renick, Vera Lewis, Alan Hale, Alan Forrest, Walt Whitman, Robert Browne and Don Franklin.

CAMERA!
WANT ADS

VICTOR HOTEL HAS SOME MORE OF THOSE WONDERFUL COLLIE PUPS FOR YOU. THEY'RE FROM CHAMPIONSHIP STOCK AND ARE BEAUTIES. LOOK 'EM OVER! PHONE HOLLY 2554.

MADAME M. H. CUPPEL—Advice on Life's Affairs. Call or send name in full, month date and year of birth. Teaches Numerology Course of Lessons $25. Analysis by appointment.

AVAILABLE NOW, BELL & HOWELL WITH COMPLETE STUDIO EQUIPMENT BLAINE WALKER, 214 SOUTH OLIVE STREET. TELEPHONE MAIN 3746.

FOR RENT—Bell & Howell camera, 120' shutter, Full equipment, excellent condition. Phone 577-474.

FOR RENT—High-grade still outfits, $5.00 per week. Little, The Big Photographer, 514 Hollywood Boulevard. Phone 437-902.

BELL AND HOWELL CAMERA FOR RENT 175' SHUTTER. PHONE 590-161.

Mary Phibbin, beautiful actress of "Merry Go-Round," and who is also an accomplished musician, is adding horsemanship to her list of gifts. She begged for a role with Jack Hoxie at Universal City to learn Western plays, and now is taking lessons in trick riding. II. These lessons at every angle of picture playing acting, is her explanation.

Georges Rizard, who is photographing "The Eagle's Feather" for Metro, is one cameraman who has never been known to wear the traditional reversed cap while filming a picture. He invariably wears a soft hat and is often mistaken by visitors for the leading man.

Brown, Caldwell & Ladd

Photo Engravings

317 South Hill St.
Phone 635-51
The Golden Butterfly
Where Santa Monica Canyon
Meets the Sea
Chicken Dinner $2.00
Steak or Baked Virginia Ham $1.50
Catering to Social Affairs a Specialty Telephone 21741

Walter Frederick Seely
Shadowed Photography
1448 North Wilcox
(One-half block west of Cabuenga at Sunset)
Telephone 439-774

Reed Heuist
and Sherley Hunter
in collaboration
Comedy-Drama
TITLES and Continuities
816 Detwiler Bldg.
Phone 665-99

"Service to Producer and Justice to Performer"

The Service Bureau
1036 South Hill
Phone 821-071

Hardee Kirkland
Hollywood 6298
(Fort Worth says about the sketch "The Man Higher Up," in which Mr. Kirkland appeared with Theodore Roberts).

"Usually, the movie star is the only thing to the play, but Hardee Kirkland, the second and only other member of the cast, rivals the distinguished 'father of the films' for top position honors."

YOUR PHONOGRAPH will reproduce in soft Mellow Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a Deflexograph

Fits any Phonograph or Victor.
Using Changeable Needles
Play after hours—will not disturb.
Deflexograph attaches to needle holder, filters sound oscillations, prevents scratch and surface noises entering sound box. No metallic noises.

Gold Plate $1.00
Nickel Plate $1.00
VANTONE CO., Dept. 416
110 W. 15th St.
New York, N. Y.

COMING NEXT MONTH

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

Noah and Wallace Beery are brothers?
Lacy Beaumont, one of the screen's best known delineators of mother roles, played the part of Mrs. Wiggs in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" several years ago on the legitimate stage?
Alberta Vaughn, who has recently been placed under contract by Mack Sennett, is a sister of Ada Mae Vaughn, leading woman for Charles Ray in his new picture, "The Courtship of Miles Standish"?
Creighton Hale and Alan Hale are not related to each other?
Garry Odell, character actor of note and former Mack Sennett contract star, is a nephew of John Fleming Wilson, the famous author?
Gloria Hope in private life is Mrs. Lloyd Hughes, wife of the debonair leading man of the screen?
David and Ernest Torrence are brothers? Leatrice Joy is married to Jack Gilbert, William Fox star?
Peggy Brown, who plays opposite William Desmond in "McGuire of the Mounted," was formerly a Ziegfeld Folies dancer?

Art Lee
SPECIALIST ON MAKE-UP
Will teach you how to make up correctly. Read my references.
1712 St. James Court
Hollywood at Western
Phone 598-207

Announcing the removal of the offices to new and more commodious quarters at 211 Hollywood Security Building.
Telephone Hollywood 8092

Adeline M. Alvord
Books Plays
Motion Picture Enterprises

"We teach your watch to tell the truth"

Special offer, watch crystals 25c
A complete line of high-grade and moderately priced jewelry. Shop is open evenings.

HOLLYWOOD WATCH AND CLOCK HOSPITAL
Sam Margolis, Prop. 6057 Hollywood Blvd.

Especially for Motion Picture People.

HILLVIEW GRILL
Hillview Apartments Bldg.
Hollywood at Hudson
Holly 7989

MERCHANTS LUNCH 11:30 to 2
DINNER 5:30 to 8
EXPERT CITES SOME HAIR HISTORY

Dr. Rudolph Martin, of Boston, one of America's leading specialists in the care and arrangement of the coiffure, has become greatly interested in the style of hairdressing recently brought to this country by Andree Lafayette, the girl who is portraying the title role in Richard Walton Tully's screen production of "Trilby."

"Attractive arrangement and adornment of milady's hair," he says, "is a custom dating back to the early Egyptians, and one which will undoubtedly go in to infinity. Even the casual observer of hair styles will note that certain arrangements reappear from time to time, again being pronounced the mode of the day.

"The bobbed hair, which has just ended one of its periodical terms of favor, was originally adopted by the Egyptians, and apparently was as much in vogue at that early date as it has been recently.

"The desire to dress the hair in a new and becoming fashion has led many to adopt the latest, known as the "Trilby Bang," popularized by Andree Lafayette, the Parisian motion picture actress, now playing in Richard Walton Tully's production of "Trilby," for First National. Her introduction of this style will undoubtedly be the forerunner of a period of favor for this method of arrangement. It will be remembered that bobbed hair was popularized to a great extent by Mrs. Vernon Castle. This and other instances serve to indicate that new styles often become popular through adoption by some prominent member of the social or theatrical world.

"The length of time such styles remain popular is usually governed by the number of women who can adopt them becomingly. The style which can be attractively taken up by the greatest number of women retains its popularity the longest."

Miss Lafayette rolls her golden locks under until they attain the ordinary length of bobbed hair, and when securely fastened with but two pins, the result gives all the appearance of bobbed hair. In fact, one nationally known photographer had been posing Miss Lafayette for an hour or two before he was astounded to discover that she really possessed long, luxuriant locks "of her very own."

FOREIGN STORIES TO PREDOMINATE IN THEATRES THE COMING YEAR

Photoplays with foreign stories will predominate in motion picture theatres the coming year.

Lillian Leighton, who offers one of her unique characterizations in "The Eternal Three"

A survey just completed by Marshall Neilan, prominent motion picture producer, involving a canvas of theatre managers as well as studio producing officials, shows that movie audiences throughout the country are keen for stories laid in foreign locales and that American producers are planning increased picturization of plots with foreign backgrounds to meet the situation.

An interesting angle to the situation as announced by Mr. Neilan is that despite the increased production of foreign stories, the trend of producers in Los Angeles is to make all pictures, regardless of locale, in Southern California rather than in the countries where the plots are laid.

As a result of the survey, Mr. Neilan announced yesterday, a policy of production which will involve the concentration exclusively upon foreign stories. It was this situation that prompted the producer to include in his Mexican sequence in "The Eternal Three," an American drama recently completed at the Goldwyn studio. "The Rendezvous," his next production, is a Russian drama, and this is to be followed by "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," an English story.

Verifying his contention, Mr. Neilan points out that the large majority of the super productions to come during the next months will offer foreign stories. This in a large measure, holds true of the smaller productions as well. Among the bigger film plays to come and which offer foreign locales are "Ben-Hur," Goldwyn's most ambitious film; Mary Pickford's story of Spain, "The Street Singer"; Douglas Fairbanks' Arabian tale, "The Thief of Bagdad"; "In the Palace of the King," a story of Spain; "The Magic Skin," a French play by Balzac; "The Spoilers," Alaska; "The Master of Man," England; "Six Days," England; "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," France; "Sera-noche," France; "Ruebeard's Eighth Wife," France, and "The Ten Commandments," Palestine.

Mr. Neilan's survey shows that nearly 40 per cent of the foreign stories to be produced within the next few months are laid in France, 50 per cent in England and 15 per cent in Spain. The percentage of stories laid in other countries is smaller.

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry" C A M E R A

Motion Picture Cameras for Rent
Late Model B & H Still and Graflex Cameras rented by day or week. Ultra-Speed Slow Motion and Akeley Cameras rented with operators.
For Information Call
Ries Bros.
PHOTOGRAPHERS
6035 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 4938

Wanted--DIAMONDS
Highest Cash Prices Paid for Yours
SIDNEY D. COHN
901 Bank of Italy Bldg.,
Cor. Seventh and Olive Sts.

Professional Photographs
It Costs No More for Quality Photographs at "Los Angeles' Finest Theatrical Studio!"

Evan's Studio
We are professional photographers and have the best equipment for making Portraits—Publicity Photographs
Special Stills. Commercial work and Enlargements.
6039 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 2560

THE FIGHTS
... eVerY fRiday niGHT, phone HolLy 100 for reEvRationS. D O N'T forget.................

AMERICAN LEGION STADIUM
Hollywood at El Centro
Holly 100 for reservations

S E E   BRUNO
For Your Casting Director Photos
4612 Hollywood Boulevard
PHONE HOLLY 3821

Movie Actors and Actresses Wanted to investigate wonderful values in exquisite clothes. M a n y eastern wardrobes new to Los Angeles and Filadom.

Evening Clothes—Sport Togs—Furs
—Hats—Shoes—Dresses — Wraps—
All Exclusive Styles.

1310 Lilac Terrace
(near 1400 Sunset)
Telephone Main 257
AGNES RAY
577-029

MARY RUBY
594-774

Marguerite LaMont
HEAVIES—LEADS
NINE YEARS LEGITIMATE
439-869

DULCIE COOPER
At Liberty June 15th
Address, care of Camera!
WANTED

10 MEN — NO MORE

This is the banner year for Independent Producers

I have under contract one of the biggest names in the picture business.

This project does not call for the outlay of a large sum of money.

I want ten men to invest an equal amount of money WITH MINE in the Greatest Proposition of the Year

THIS IS NOT A CO-OPERATIVE PLAN where positions can be obtained by investment

BUT

A Production to be Made by Competent Men
Along the Lines of Sound and Established Practice.

This opportunity will bear the closest investigation.

Further information will be furnished upon written request only.

Address

JOHN INGRAM, Care Camera!

6318 Hollywood Boulevard           Hollywood, California
STUART HOLMES AS DUKE MALAKOFF IN
"DAUGHTERS OF THE RICH," A MIDSUMMER RELEASE
Authentic Details and Photographs of Foreign Interiors and Exteriors of Every Description.

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

INTERNATIONAL CINEMA RESEARCH
L.A. HOWLAND
Phone 438-761
300-301 HOLLYWOOD SECURITY BLDG.

MARTHA MARSHALL LEADS INGENUES
SOCIETY PARTS
Telephone 439-801

Make Up

your mind to come in TODAY and inspect our superb collection of antiques. You’ll find all sorts and manners of them here; rare oil paintings, exquisite statues and bronzes, odds and ends of bric-a-brac from all parts of the world that will add a touch of beauty and distinctiveness to your sets.

Our service is complete. We buy, sell, rent, and exchange. In addition to studio work we are equipped to furnish homes. Our big shop IN HOLLYWOOD is headquarters for art lovers. We’d like to meet you TODAY!

Foster's
ANTIQUE SHOP

4534 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 598-030

ANY make-up shops, limited in their purchasing power and merchandising facilities, are forced to choose between two alternatives; either to sell high quality goods in small quantities at commensurately high prices, or sell inferior grades in larger quantities at lower prices. Fortunately we do not have to contend with this problem, for our tremendous buying strength and ever-complete stocks enable us to offer you the finest make-up at the lowest cost. In other words, you pay no more for quality here, and withal you avail yourself of the most prompt and efficient service.

ZAN MAKE-UP SHOP
819 South Hill ···· Pico 498
Editorial Views of the Gossip and News

The photoplay art is busy growing and it would be a fine thing if some of the ultra-mercenary and totally inartistic producers got busy going!

It's a great world of make-believe. "Kidding" the other fellow is perhaps the most popular indoor sport extant at present. Of course "kidding" oneself is not obsolete yet, either.

Life is a riddle to only those who are riddles themselves. Riddle any of them with searching inquiry and you'll find that when they use the word "life" they mean themselves personally.

Some eastern firm is announcing a picture entitled "Mules of Musherton." Sounds like one with a kick in it or else, perchance, there'll be some mighty "kicks" from those called upon to see it.

It would seem utterly foolish to give a lot of advice when everybody knows the donor of same needs a lot of it himself. However, if some people couldn't give advice, they'd be deprived of ever giving away anything.

Jimmy Aubrey announces he will not desert the two-reel comedy. Evidently Jimmie believes someone has got to stay with the ship. Most all the other comedy stars have stepped forward into the full-length field, you know.

Now, according to despatches from the east, there are fears of a shortage in labor. Well, anyway, we'd rather see a shortage in workers than a shortage in work. Give 'em time and they can build many a Rome over and over again.

If it is true that Henry Ford has a good chance to be elected president of the United States, there is reason to start trembling because it will be the first time in the history of the rat on that the White House has housed a flivver King. Somehow anyone having anything to do with flivvers of any variety simply does not belong in that White House.

If Hollywood got one-half of the fine new theatres promised from week to week, it would be the most theatre-infested city in the world within a few weeks. Meanwhile it does need several first-class theatres very much and much prosperity awaits the business groups wise enough to build them. Also meanwhile, many are tiring of so much promise and so little performance.

Very seldom do we complain about anything, but there is one thing we cannot overlook supinely or otherwise and that is, the smart bird who is spending much of his time running around and telling everybody about what he intends doing to (not for, mind you) somebody else. We consider the man a perfect jackass if he doesn't know enough not to brag about what he is going to do even if the thing he's bragging about is good and worthy. Unfortunately, there has been too much of this sort of thing within Filmland lately.

Judging from the speed with which they are building new studios and re-modeling old ones, there's going to be a place to make any and all pictures ere long. However, incidentally, "any and all pictures" cannot possibly be what the public wants. Indeed, it's just as patent as patent medicines are in a drug store that what the public craves year in and year out is, less of a series and more single, good pictures, which should not be construed to mean anything singular at all since it must be admitted we are living in an age of intensified civilization.

Sometimes it so happens that a truly great genius is left out in the cold of distress only because he lacks business acumen enough to "sell himself" to the world. Just think of what would happen if a successful business man was furnished by Fate for each great genius! It would be a world of far greater happiness than it is today, because, primarily, a genius contributes prodigiously to the joys of living in general. And, the queerest part of it is, most of us know of a genius in oblivion to whom we seem utterly incapable of giving any aid whatsoever. 'Tis something more to think about.

It begins to look as if we are going to have a right merry war between big and powerful factors within the film industry. It is understood one very potential multi-millionaire has announced his intention of "breaking" the biggest producing organization now in the field and meanwhile the United States government is taking a hand in affairs by stirring up some questions relative to breaking trust laws. Contrary to first impressions, the prospects for a little conflict between the bit leaders are most encouraging since they encourage independent production, which, after all, is the real life blood of the business. If you have been a keen observer, you have, of course, noticed that "here'er the independents were kept hours de combat by financial difficulties and a gutted market, there has been a panic, while, on the other hand, when they have been left free to follow their plans, prosperity has blessed all. Inevitably only a few giants can work with profit, the legions of lesser lights must suffer, and, if the latter do not happen to be called upon to suffer, no one suffers. Verily, the little fellow must be unrestrained to vie with the big fellow or else there shall be chaos in a world struggling for equality such as this! Let the big boy weigh this incontrovertible fact, too.
Motion pictures, great as is their present, are nearly all in the future.
Their yesterdays are few and almost insignificant, as compared with their all powerful tomorrows.

—WILL H. HAYS.

It's an old but true adage

Opportunity Knocks But Once

If you are interested in a small safe and sound investment that will net you a handsome profit

INVESTI\text{G}ATE THIS OFFER

Last week I wanted 10 men to place a small equal amount of money With Mine in the screen's best offering. I Secured Six.

I Want Four More

I am starting a production with one of the Biggest Names in the picture business.

This production is to be made by competent men, whose years of experience qualify them to put this undertaking into effect and are recognized and widely known in the production field.

They Have Box Office Names

Don't Delay But Write at Once for Full Information
Address

JOHN INGRAM, CARE CAMERA!

6318 Hollywood Boulevard Hollywood, California
Letting The King Live at $600,000 Per

Jackie Coogan's first production under his Metro contract, the picturization of Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Long Live the King," will undoubtedly be the biggest film of his career to date, surpassing all his earlier vehicles from every point of view. The slogan of the year, "bigger and better pictures," has been kept in mind by Jack Coogan, senior, who is supervising every detail of Jackie's films, and he interprets it to mean not only "bigger," but really "better" — gorgeous but not extravagant mounting, dramatic direction and capable characterization.

Careful estimates set the cost of production for "Long Live the King" at $600,000. And every cent of expenditure has been checked and double-checked by Coogan, his director Victor Schertzinger, his studio manager E. A. Bibly, his art director J. J. Hughes, his costumer Walter Israel, his cinematographers Frank Good and Robert Martin and the other members of his production staff.

One innovation which is keeping down the cost of production while it simultaneously aids the continuity of filming is the erection of the sets for "Long Live the King" in groups as they actually would appear in a house and according to plot sequence. Thus continuous action is made possible without the annoying and expensive processes of moving lights and players, changing shooting angles, or keeping sets stand-in ready which is not necessary.

The interior of the Opera House was built all together and will show the ground-floor foyer, the upper foyer, and the connecting stairs and several corridors. Similarly, the bedchamber of the old king, played by Robert Brower, has been built in conjunction with the long stone corridor leading to it and the great drawing room adjacent.

There are 26 groups of sets showing interiors; the most important of these and their construction cost are the opera house, $25,000; the King's bedchamber group, $85,000; the Crown Prince's bedchamber, $15,000; the boudoir of the Countess Olga Loseck (Rosemary Theby) $11,000; the Prince's schoolroom, $16,000; the boudoir of the Archduchess Annunciata (Vera Lewis) and the Princess Hedwig (Ruth Renick) $14,000; the huge throne room, $42,000. Then there is the group of interiors representing the Inn, consisting of entrance hall, Bobby's (Don Franklin) apartment, Black Humbert's (Sam Appel) chamber, the lodging of Old Adembert (Monti Collins), and the secret meeting place of the revolutionary committee of ten—all of which are being erected together at a cost of $225,000.

Much of the important action of the picture occurs in and around the square of the City of Lavonia; this is now being constructed to cover over 100,000 square feet of ground. It shows the intersection of two streets, lined with thirty-six buildings beside the castle, the Inn, the Cathedral, and the Opera House. A viaduct passes through the square, surmounted by a bridge, fountains play before the Opera House and the Cathedral, and a canal cuts the square in the course of its 250 feet of length.

The Opera House is modeled after the one in the Austrian exact replica of the Castle of Neuschwanstein in Bulgaria, and the Cathedral combines the characteristic attributes of the medieval Gothic structures. The palace will occupy almost a quarter of a million square feet of ground, and is being built up to a height of seventy feet from the ground, with spires twenty feet still higher. Its cost will exceed $50,000. The Cathedral is elevated from the center of a square over a ramp, or up hill street, which is being constructed, leading to thirty feet above level. Upon this hill the Cathedral will rise to a height of 60 feet, with spires that much higher again. The less important houses that line the square are being erected up to heights varying from 45 to 50 feet. In addition to the cost of the four important buildings, the square set will involve an expenditure of almost $60,000.

One of the biggest and most colorful scenes in "Long Live the King" is the carnival scene in the square, for which over 2,000 extras will be employed, most of them clad in typical Carnival costumes, while others wear the picturesque garb of the Middle European peasants. Walter Israel and his assistant, Larry Fisher, who are handling the costumes, have been rounding them up by telegraph from New York, Chicago, New Orleans, Minneapolis, and San Francisco. Two special wardrobe buildings are being constructed for the extras who will play in these scenes, in addition to Metro's present large dressing-room space. Sixty-five seamstresses are working day and night to complete these costumes and to fit them to the players. Four barges, each 20 feet long and 12 feet wide, will be drawn through the canal in the Carnival scene, in addition to numberless small boats that will ply over its waters. Fifty bags of confetti, 25 bags of paper streamers, 2000 masks—these are just part of the order of props for the Carnival scene, which promises to outdo all similar scenes ever filmed. Other exteriors include, the secret stair from the castle, the underground passage and escape, the roof of the palace, the "gate of the moon," the borderline frontier of Lavonia, and the Shrine of St. Cecelia, to which the Crown Prince makes a pilgrimage for his grandfather's recovery.

Production is nearing an end on "The Sky Line of Spruce." Edison Marshall's story in which William Desmond is being starred under Robert Hill's direction. The first part of the filming was done at Feather River, where remarkable scenic effects were achieved. Ten days have been spent on interiors and completion of the feature is in sight.

Virginia Browne Faire, William Welsh, Al Hart, Fred Kohler and other popular players support Desmond.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 29.—The Stereoscope Productions will begin work on their next picture the latter part of this week at Pacific Studios. The title of the picture will be "The Poppy Girl," Walter W. Bell will direct, with Joseph Conway as assistant director. Patricia Palmer and Ranger Bill Miller will co-star.

"Her Accidental Husband," first production of the Belasco Productions, is the feature picture at the California Theatre this week, and is meeting with a very warm reception from large audiences at all performances. Not only is it a mighty good picture, but it was made by a local organization, and part of the scenes were shot in our own Palace Hotel, although the larger part of the picture was made in the South.

Joe Brandt, Harry Cohn and Mrs. Phyllis Usban, all of the picture world, were among last week's guests at the Palace Hotel.

The film of "Youth Triumphant," recently made at the Hollywood Studios by the Fisher Pictures Corporation of this city, now being edited, will be brought to this city about June 1st, and previewed before the stockholders of the organization, after which Victor Fisher, head of the company, and David Chaplin, business manager, will leave for New York with the film to arrange a release.

Abraham Lehr, general manager of Goldwyn, spent the week-end in San Francisco looking over the progress of the filming of Eric Von Stroheim's production of "Greed." Thomas Ince was a guest at the St. Francis for several days the early part of last week.

Twenty-eight members of the cast and staff of the Belasco company engaged in the making of "The Rendezvous" for Goldwyn under the direction of Marshall Nellan, arrived in San Francisco by boat last Monday. They shot some scenes on the United States Army Docks, using real soldiers, and also some thirty or forty local extra people in addition to the company. They returned to Los Angeles also by sea, working on the boat enroute both ways.

Robert Warwick, beloved of the patrons of the silversheet, but at present devoting his time to the spoken drama, has closed his Oakland season.

A dinner, perfect in every detail, and a private showing of "Brass," lately filmed by Warner Brothers, was given last Tuesday night by George A. Oppenheim, Inc., Film Exchange to the "trade," and a few other guests. Some two hundred of the exhibitors of Northern California were present. At the honor table, besides the author, Charles G. Norris, and his wife, Kathleen Norris, were Irene Rich and Monte Blue, who play the leading roles in the picture, and H. M. Warner, senior member of the company and actual producer of the picture. "Brass" is the attraction at the Granada Theatre this week, and is very interesting to local audiences, partly because it is a story of San Francisco itself.

N. Dragomanchev, head of the West Coast Films, returned to San Francisco last Saturday after a ten days' stay in Los Angeles on business for the organization.

Eric Von Stroheim last week shot the wedding scene in the making of "Greed" from Frank Norris' great American classic, "McTeague." It was especially interesting as for the first time in the making of the picture practically all the principals, with the exception of the actual bridal, were working at once. Taken all together they form the most remarkable assortment of types ever filmed in one picture, everything from the good-natured bulk of Gibson Gowell, as "McTeague" to Zasu Pitts' appealing charm, and from huge Hughie Mack to little Chester Conklin, who by the way, is giving one of the outstanding performances of the picture. Last Thursday had the highest record of results, up-to-date, with thirty script scenes, and a number of added ones shot between nine a.m. and two the next morning.

Rumors of Mildred Harris' coming marriage to a Mr. Salling Baruch, Jr., have been sauntering up and down Broadway, but Mildred denies them. "We're just very dear friends that's all," she assures her acquaintances.

Lenore Ulric, the star of "Kiki," is recovering from a serious operation on her throat, to remove a tumor at the base of her tonsils. The operation was performed by Dr. Alex La Vigne at his sanitarium.

Lou Tellegen has been engaged to play the lead in "The Sheik," a play by Wilson Collinson, heretofore known as "Desert Sand."

For the first time in the history of the New York stage, two companies playing the same attraction under the same management are being presented in this city. The production is "Blossom Time," and plays on the same street in theatres directly opposite each other, namely the Shubert and the Forty-fourth Street theatres. One of the companies recently concluded a season of 29 weeks in Philadelphia, establishing a record for that city. One of these companies ran for 30 months at the Century Theatre, New York, for five hundred and thirty consecutive performances, establishing a record for operettas here.

Max Graf is at the Astor Hotel with "The Fox" under his arm. It will have its premiere here soon.

Strongheart, the canine film star, is the proud father of four children.

We hear that Douglas Fairbanks has changed his mind about Douglas Jr. entering the movies. Now Doug states he will help the kid along all that he possibly can. Doug made a wise decision, we think. The movies are not as bad as some other callings.

Chas. A. Bird, recently of the Fox West Coast studios, wishes it known that he is not going with Douglas Jr. for the reasons said to be cited above by Mr. Fairbanks. Mr. Bird has retired and will spend his summer days seeing California in his new Locomobile.

Hope Hampton is on her way to the coast to begin work on the screen version of David Belasco's great stage success "The Gold Diggers."

Al Liebman and J. G. Buchman have purchased from David Belasco the screen rights to "The Boummerang," a Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes stage success.

Flo Ziegfield and Mrs. Jack Pickford (Marilyn Miller) are now the best of pals, according to reports from Milwaukee, where "Sally" terminated its season last Saturday. The whole row was about Marilyn marrying Jack. It appears that Ziegfield's trip to Milwaukee was so timed, that Jack was nowhere in the vicinity, so now instead of Mrs. Pickford co-starring with her handsome husband, she is to sign another contract with "Zizzy" for a new fall production, in which she will be starred.

Daniel Frohman was re-elected president of the Actors' Fund of America at its 42nd annual meeting this week at the Hudson Theatre. The total receipts for the year just completed, from memberships, bequests and benefits were $157,803.59. The fund disbursed to charity was $103,768.26.

George Fitzmaurice sails today to discuss with Sir Halley Fane plans for the filming of "The Eternal City," the first production of the new Samuel Goldwyn Corporation, for distribution through First National. The director will proceed to Rome, where he will be joined by Lionel Barrymore, Barbara La Marr, Richard Bennett, Bert Lytell and Montague Love. Mr. Goldwyn gave a farewell dinner to Mr. Fitzmaurice at the Ritz Carlton.

A body of New York actors has applied to the Railroad Commission for a lease on the roof of the big station on Seventh Avenue, considering it an ideal place on which to lay out a nine-hole golf course. The railroad will think it over.

Benjamin Knobel, owner of a motion picture theatre in Bronx, is having it out in the courthouse with the Mayor's corporation. He thinks the motion picture "The Affairs of Anatol" a bad picture and not worth the $1,750 which he paid for it. The people of the Bronx were not interested in it and he lost considerable money playing it. Next Klobel told that he objected to the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation sending "clockers" to his theatre to ascertain how many persons entered his theatre.
Western Movie Due to Stage Come-Back

“The western photodrama is being rediscovered. Discouraged by motion picture producers as being too crude and inartistic to please the present-day public, the famous old wild west movie has fallen into disrepute.”

This was the argument this week of Noah Beery, who has just signed a three-year contract to play in Paramount pictures, and who says in his opinion the re-birth of these colorful dramas was rushed to the studio to become an epoch in the history of motion pictures.

“Modern camera technique and better screen stories and direction have brought the western picture on a par with the best made screen dramas of city life, as far as artists and dramatic qualities are concerned,” he added. “Modern producers are grasping this opportunity and are making western pictures so picturesque, quaint and human that they can no longer be compared with the old ‘wild and wooly’ cattle ranch movies.”

Mr. Beery himself is an example of one of the factors in the making of this new type of screen story—actors of wide stage and screen experience. After a successful career upon the stage, he has added to his experience ten years work in motion pictures.

Mr. Beery has played character roles in many notable pictures and in bringing this type of actor into this new type of western pictures to replace the old time rowdy cowboy, western photodramas are being revived in an entirely new light.

Mr. Beery is a lover of the out-of-doors and is as good a horseman as a ranch bred cowboy. In the filming of the Paramount picture “To the Last Man,” in which Mr. Beery is being featured, a cast of some of the best known players in Hollywood has been chosen and Victor Fleming, the director, is concentrating his effort on making this picture authentic and picturesque rather than a meaningless jumble of fast action.

Besides Mr. Beery, Richard Dix, Lois Wilson, Robert Edeson and Frank Capra are being featured. It is a Zane Grey production adapted from this noted author’s original story of the Pleasant Valley War. The identical sites in the Tonto Basin, Arizona, where the battles of this frontiersmen’s feud were fought, are being used as a background for the picture.

Mr. Beery took with him on location, his saddle horse “Bess” which won first prize at the recent horse show held in Los Angeles.

“When ‘To the Last Man’ is exhibited,” said Mr. Beery, “I feel certain that it will establish a precedent in the production of motion pictures and will elevate the powerful stories of the cattle country to their legitimate place beside the screen’s greatest achievements.”

And Now That Bill Hart is Vindicated-----

Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, this week added his voice to the chorus of congratulation which William S. Hart, famous film actor, has received all over the world upon the final clearing of his name from the blacklist. The charges brought against him by Elizabeth Macaulay. The fact that Mr. Lasky has persistently refused to credit the statements against Mr. Hart lends force to his expression of satisfaction when the slanderous nature of the attacks was finally proved.

Mr. Lasky said, “Following Mr. Hart’s retirement, which the whole photoplay loving world hoped was only temporary, we had arrived at a point where we expected to be able to announce his return to the screen. Then this trouble arose. I was firmly convinced of Mr. Hart’s integrity and of the public’s ability to reach just conclusions. Knowing him innocent, I repeatedly urged him to appear once more as a star in Paramount Pictures. Mr. Hart came to see me several times. I knew no one believed the charges against him and strove to convince him that this was so. But Mr. Hart, splendid man that he was, and super-sensitive, refused to return to the screen until there remained no shadow of doubt as to his innocence in the mind of a single person in the whole world. He possessed strong convictions upon the necessity for keeping faith with the public. He resolutely refused to return to the screen unless he could share his old time sense of comradeship with those he worked to entertain.

“Mr. Hart said to me, ‘I will never accept a dollar of the public’s money until I have convinced them that I am worthy to receive it. I want to be able to look out from the screen and meet every man, woman and child eye to eye. Until then I will remain outside the profession I love and to which I might have returned if it had not been for this terrible accusation.’

Mr. Hart faced me across his desk. He looked at me with the eyes which have carried conviction to hundreds of thousands who have returned their gaze from the (Continued on Page 21)
Adding to Stellar Possessions, a Tendency of the Times

George Larkin in dancing regalia.

The tendency to expand is becoming really rampant in the motion picture producing field. Still another example of the forward movement is that furnished in the case of Charles R. Seeling, one of the independent producers who has been minding his own knitting so assiduously for the last two years that today he looms as a bright possibility to develop into a power to consider seriously from all angles. Now after making a success of two series of western feature productions starring “Big Boy” Williams, he is branching out with a second unit at the head of which he is to be assisted by George Larkin, one of the brightest prospects on the film horizon at present.

The story selected for the initial Larkin starring vehicle is an original concerning the early Spanish days in Southern California, the working title of which is “The Gringo” and in which Mr. Larkin will be given ample opportunity to display his dramatic ability as well as his cleverness as a dancer. Actual filming on this feature will be started at the Horsley Studios next week and contracts have been signed for the release of this new series through the Ayron Film Corporation of New York.

Ollie Kirby, who shared in Mr. Larkin’s triumphs on his recent tour of the Orpheum vaudeville circuit as his dancing partner, will appear in unusual dance scenes with him in this picture and will play an important part in the story.

Mr. Larkin is already well established as a screen star, having recently completed a series of special productions among which were “Saved by Radio” and “The Larking Peril,” in which he starred to a distinct advantage.

Mr. Seeling has contracted to make six Larkin features and he will personally direct them all. Simultaneously he will pilot the “Big Boy” Williams series, starting another big western feature with this star within the next fortnight. This is the second annual series of Williams pictures Mr. Seeling has made and he has been unusually successful as one of the youngest producers in the independent field.

Casts of the Week

Earle Producing Company

Presents

“TUTANKHAMEN OF LUXOR”

Director, Wm., P. S., Earle

Author, Blanche Taylor Earle

Production Manager, Dick L/Estrange

CAST

Karnit..........................Malcolm McGregor
Aria.............................Carmel Myers
Princess.........................June Elvidge
“Tut”............................Bertram Grassby
Pachet..........................Sam de Grasse
Priest..........................Paul Wiegel
The Lecuch..........................Anthony Merle Mininiella..........................Iris Ashton
Ankhmaton..........................Howard Gaye
Hag................................Mother Anderson

Charles R. Seeling presents

“CROSSED TRAILS”

Directed by Charles Seeling

Charles DeLong, Assistant Director

Vernon Walker, Cameraman

Continuity by John Natterford

CAST

Jack Daly........................“Big Boy” Williams
Mrs. Daly........................Florence McKee
Ruth................................Vivian Rich
Joe Hadley........................Cart Silvera
Sheriff............................D. Hendrick
Jack Lee..........................“Hippy” Lieutenant John Doe..........................Jack Perry

Warner Brothers presents

“THE GOLD Diggers”

Harry Arras, Director

Entire production under the personal supervision of David Belasco

Story of Avery Hopwood

Screen adaptation by Grazia Carpenter

Hope Hampton.................Wynndam Standing
Louise Faenza..................Alice B. Francis Gertrude Short..................Anne Cornwall
Johnny Harrott..................Edna Tichener
Francis Ross....................Margaret Seddon
Joe Prouty

OPPORTUNITY

By Eric Mayne

Opportunity is an elusive and indefinable something inseparable from our lives.

That we never had an opportunity is a constant apology for our failures.

That we have had unique opportunities is the assertion of our friends in discouragement of our successes.

Some are born with opportunities—some make opportunities, and some have opportunities thrust upon them.

We seldom admit our failure to grasp an opportunity.

We must watch our opportunity as keenly as we watch our step, for the success of our step depends largely on the use we make of our opportunity.

We must seize opportunity by the forelock, because it is bald behind.

While we are regretting the opportunities

(Continued on Page 21)

PARAMOUNT NEWS

A flurry of activity now exists in the cutting rooms of the Famous Players-Lasky West Coast studio. Three pictures are at the last stages of completion. The first named three are James Cruze's production of "Hollywood," Sam Wood's production of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" with Gloria Swanson starring and Pola Negri's second starring vehicle in America, "The Cheat," a George Fitzmaurice production with Jack Holt and Charles deRoche. The three pictures nearing the finish mark are "Fair Week," Walter Hiers' starring picture for Paramount; Charles Maigne's "The Silent Partner," which features Leatrice Joy and Owen Moore; and "Salomy Jane," the George Melford production featuring Jacqueline Logan, George Fawcett and Maurice Flynn.

Monday, June 4th, has been set as the starting for Pola Negri's next starring vehicle for Paramount. It is to be "The Spanish Dancer," a Herbert Brenon production adapted by June Mathis and Beulah Marie Dix (from the book "Don Caesar de Bazan") by Miss Negri will return this week from Del Monte, California, where she has been resting between pictures. She will be fitted for a number of wonderful gowns which she will wear in her coming vehicle. The cast is now being chosen and will be given out in the near future, according to an announcement from the Famous Players-Lasky studio. Ralph Block is to be production editor.

Tonto Basin, Arizona, is being treated to a real touch of modernism—the first in its lengthy and uninteresting history. That bleak spot, two hundred miles from civilization, is the scene of exciting sequences now being taken by Director Fleming for the Zane Grey production for Paramount, "To the Last Man," featuring Richard Dix, Lois...
CAMERA'S WEEKLY WAKE-EM-UP
SPECIAL NEWS SECTION
SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1923

NO DANGER OF SLUMP THEY AGREE

"There will be no let-up in motion picture production during the coming winter season." This is the almost unanimous opinion of film chiefs in Hollywood, following persistent rumors that have been going around as to the effect that production activity at the different studios will be curtailed within the next few months.

If anything, production will increase at this season rather than decrease, they say. Thus little credence is given the report that the studios will again lay off their men and take on an appearance similar to a year ago when most members of the profession were finding it quite difficult to get employment owing to the production slump.

If there are any actors, actresses or other followers of the motion picture art now unemployed in Hollywood it is surely those who are not of the professional caliber. For practically every studio in filmland is filled to capacity. Never since pre-war days has there been evidenced the great era of prosperity that now prevails throughout the motion picture industry.

Particularly is it noticeable how many new faces have been brought into the professional spheres by the many new and vigorous producers. Since the studios hung out the "we need help" sign, men and women from virtually all walks of life have cast their lot in motion pictures. And yet, with this influx of new talent, there still remain ample opportunities for additional players.

VIDOR WILL DIRECT HERGESHEIMER NOVEL

The film version of Joseph Hergesheimer's popular novel, "Wild Oranges," will be directed by King Vidor, according to an announcement made this week at the Goldwyn studios.

Mr. Vidor has completed cutting and editing the final scenes of "Three Wise Fools," his first production to be made for the Goldwyn company. He will immediately start preparations on the production of the Hergesheimer novel.

Several producers bid for the film rights of "Wild Oranges," W. W. Warner, F. D. W. Griffith at one time owned the rights to the novel, and planned to film it in the original locale. The action of the story transpires in the wild orange groves that border the Georgia coast.

HIS "FOG" MAKES HIM POPULAR IN STUDIOS

Arthur L. Todd, cinematographer of the Maurice Tourneur Production, has been receiving requests from all over the world for instruction in the methods he used in obtaining that marvelous London fog pictures in "The Brass Bottle," the latest Tourneur picture.

To all he is making the same reply, "It's a trick. You can't take pictures in a fog."

Todd has been loaned to four other producers by Mr. Tourneur since making "The Brass Bottle," making fog pictures for them with the same trick he used in the Tourneur production.

M AR SHALL GETS A BIG ROLE IN "PONJOLA"

Tolly Marshall, whose remarkable character reading in recent big productions has won enviable praise among motion picture patrons and filmland moguls, has been engaged by Sam E. Rock to play an important role in the next James Young Production for First National, which is to be "Ponjola," a screen version of Cynthia Stockley's famous story of South African life.

Few screen character men are as well known to picture patrons as is Marshall, who has been acting for the films since 1916, when he transferred his talent from the stage to the screen.

His first entrance into the profession was back in 1883 when he played his first part in "Saracens," at the Winter Garden Theatre in San Francisco. He continues in legitimate until 1916 when he made his film debut as Modjeska, E. R. Sothern, Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett and other celebrated thespians. His most recent notable parts were in "The Covered Wagon," "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "The Tallisman," "The Beautiful and Damned," "A Temporary Marriage," and "The Law of the Lawless."

EASTERN FINANCER IS INTERESTED IN JACK

Jack Parker, clever child actor, who in looks and actions is "probably the closest of any screen juvenile artist, will soon be playing the little mother of the picture company if the plans of a well-known eastern capitalist materialize. Young Parker has had extensive training before the camera, having appeared in support of many of the screen's foremost stars, and his performance has been of such a brilliant nature as to bring him many re-engagements at the studios.

SCHOOL PROPHECY "COMES TRUE" THIS TIME

Whether it was the prophecy of her graduation class of the Minneapolis High School last year, or whether it was her personality and ability to look pretty and display exceptional talent before the camera, or whether it was simply Prince good-luck, that landed a movie contract for her, beautiful June Todd, an extremely 17-year-old Minnesota girl, knows not.

The important problem that is now solved is the landed, picture contract. June would like to think it due to reason number one because with that reason are many other memories of school days all too quickly vanished.

When June Marlowe graduated from high school, the class prophecy was to the effect she some day would become a movie actress. This prophecy was made stronger with the news that her father, a prominent banker of Minneapolis, had decided to make Los Angeles his home.

On the Marlowes' arrival in Hollywood, June set forth in search of a job in motion pictures. Her studio visits included the Principal Pictures Corporation where she met Sol Lesser, president of the company. A few camera "tests" were made of the Minnesota beauty with the result that a contract was drawn up between Principal Pictures Corporation and Miss Marlowe covering a three year period.

The beauty will begin work at once, enacting an important role in the forthcoming production of "Rendezvous." Mr. Lesser is making "Men's Work," "A Man's a Man." Others will follow, and in the meantime the wires are humming between cities Los Angeles and Minneapolis, imparting the glad tidings to dozens of anxious awaiting friends and class mates.

TURKISH NOTABLE GIVES TURKISH PARTY

Gerjes Bey, a recent arrival in Hollywood, entertained a select group of friends this week in true Turkish fashion. He received his guests wearing his fez and with shoes removed according to true Turkish etiquette. It was requested that the guests curl up on cushions scattered about the floor and Marshal the narghile (the pipe of peace), after that the host held his listeners spell-bound by graphic descriptions of intimate Turkish life details of the hareem, and the intricacies of Turkish politics.

Gerjes Bey is a writer well-known in the Turkish country, and recently a contributor to various American magazines, and one of the most widely traveled men of the Orient. His uncle was Asis Pasha, Minister of War under the Sultan Abdul Hamid, and Gerjes Bey was a frequent visitor at the Sultan's court.

Among the guests who enjoyed Bey's hospitality were: Wm. Jenner, West Coast representative of the American Releasing Corporation, Mrs. Jenner and her daughter, Miss Tisdale, J. Stewart Woodhouse, author, Charles Dale, Gene Metcalfe, the impersonator, Dr. Metcalf, Fred Caldwell, pictures, Mr. Todd, Pictures, and Diane Pascale.

Genuine Turkish coffee as well as meze, Paltava and other Turkish delicacies in the way of refreshments were the final touches which were served to transport the happy guests into a world as charming as it was strange.

NOTES

Peggy Brown, erstwhile Ziegfeld Polliettes' dancer, who is now a prominent member of the Hollywood film colony, has been engaged by Warner Brothers to play the leading feminine role in its forthcoming production of "The Gold Diggers," which Harry Beaumont is to direct. Actual filming of the picture is scheduled to start on June 4th.

Kate Lester in Russian Play

Kate Lester, of the white hair and sad-looking bearing, has been cast as Conrad Nagel's mother in Marshall Neilan's photoplay of Russia—"The Rendezvous." Mr. Neillan delayed casting the part until he could secure Miss Lester's services, because he desired just such striking resemblance between mother and son as Miss Lester and Mr. Nagel bear each other.
BLACkWELL WILL FILM VAGABOND IN LONDON

LONDON, May 15—The countless thousands of readers of that unforgettable epic of vagabondia, written with such searing clarity and originality by William J. Locke—"The Beloved Vagabond"—will be profoundly interested to know that they will be able to see this moving story and its fascinating characters visualized on the screen.

Carlyle Blackwell, the American film star, has just completed arrangements with the distinguished English novelist for a film faithfully dramatizing the story that has endeared Mr. Locke's masterwork to a wide circle of literati. The elaborate preparations are being made for this super-production, and the public is taking great interest. The first scenes will be made in about a fortnight.

The impressive screen dramatization of the story has been prepared, which Mr. Blackwell is expected to produce fully preserves the beauty and idyllic spirit of the novel, and provides abundant material for the high type of film that Blackwell has the right to expect when so widely popular a story is screened.

Berzelius Nichibbard Paragot, wayward artist and philosopher, a creature of erratic moods and astonishing vagaries, delightful vagabond, disciple of the poets, apostle of beauty and the touch of human spirit, is one of the outstanding characters created in modern literature. It is a part ideally suited to the talent and personality of Blackwell, who is one of the effective interpreters of picturesque roles among the screen artists of today.

"It has been my ambition for years to play Paragot," said Mr. Blackwell, "and I have never read a novel that I appreciated more than more than 'The Beloved Vagabond.' My great hope is that I shall be able to present this exquisite story on the screen as its beauty, dramatic power and elusive character-drawing should be expressed in the finest terms of screen art. I have had a long experience—this will be my 37th film—but I have never before undertaken anything so ambitious as this personal production of a literary masterpiece, and nothing I have ever attempted has filled me with so much arduous enthusiasm.

Mr. Blackwell has for some time been making active preparations for painting any picture of literary merit that he selected with great care scenes in England and France to be utilized in the production. The heart of the novel's archaic vagabondia in Covent Garden described in the novel, will be faithfully produced, as will those of the carefree bohemians in Lutetia, Paris, and the quaint quarter Latin Quarter.

There will also be ample opportunity for the beauty of the picturesque by of England and France.

B. E. Doxat-Pratt, who has a number of successful British film records to his credit, has associated with Mr. Blackwell in this production. The camera work will be in the charge of Mr. Walter Blakely, The Alliance Studio at St. Margaret's will be utilized.

Mr. Blackwell has arranged with Astra National for the distribution of "The Beloved Vagabond" in the United Kingdom.

CReIGHTON HALE GETS ROLE WITH SEASTROM

Announcement this week from the Goldwyn studios of the signing of Creighton Hale for the important role of Grant in Victor Seastrom's production of "The Master of Man" carries more interest to the British than usual news of an actor's engagement.

Mr. Hale, who is British by birth, met Sir Hall Caine, creator of the character Nick Geil, just once, not in his proper role as an actor, but as newspaper editor.

Between his early engagements on the London stage, Mr. Hale did newspaper dramatic assignments. It happened that while he was playing on the stage of Man, Sir Hall Caine's opinion on the literary arrangements for "Vagabondia" was urgently desired. The London papers sent men out, except the Daily Express. Caine's old paper, which simply wired him to represent them at the meeting. So, in the guise of a reporter, Mr. Hale appeared before the great novelist, who took quite a fancy to the younger man, and asked him to take the part. The others had been dismissed.

The screen adaptation of "The Master of Man" has been completed by Paul Born, and the cast, as far announced, includes Mae Busch, Joseph Schenk, Karen Hall and De Witt Jennings.

Pierre Collings, who is now photographing "Alimony," under the direction of Jas. W. Horne, has just received word from the Academy of Arts in Berlin, where he has won one of the most coveted prizes awarded by that Academy, with one of his original creations with the camera lens. Besides being a student of photography, Collings is also well-read on the occult sciences.

Mal St. Clair, director of H. C. Witwer's "Playing Billies" at Grauman's Metropitan Theatre, was formerly an actor in the old Triangle days. He then began work on the directorial staff of Mack Sennett, and was later promoted by F. O. O. to direct Mr. and Mrs. Carter. Haven in two-reel dramatic productions. When production was announced on the Witwer series, St. Clair was given the helm.

UNIVERSAL ADDS MISS COFFEE TO ITS STAFF

Lenore J. Coffee, well-known scenario writer and author, has been engaged by Universal to do a series of adaptations of her stories. Her credit, which has been rated one of the leading scenarists in the field today and has to her credit a list of originals and adaptations of the highest order, includes such productions as "Daytime Wives," "Temptations of California," "The Beautiful Man," "Uncharted Seas," "The Light That Failed," "Sherlock Brown" and "The Face Between." A recent film of her adaptation of a Miss Coffee entitled "Havre" with a cast featuring J. Warren Kerrigan, Anna Q. Nilson, Tom Santschi and Winifred Bryson. The engagement of Miss Coffee by Universal to do a series of screen versions of noted books and plays is in line with three companies recently announced policy of expansion and of making fewer and bigger productions.

THREE INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS ACTORS COMING

Three actors of international fame will arrive in the California cinema colony for their first visit in the next few weeks.

First to arrive will be Joseph Schildkraut, now starring in "The Return of the Gypsy" for the Theatre Guild in New York City. The play will close this week, and Schildkraut will start once for Culver City to play the principal male role in Victor Seastrom's first American motion picture, "The Master of Man," from Hall Caine's latest novel. Schildkraut is expected May 26 or 31.

Elsa Ekman and Edith Ericson, and lead Swedish actor, will leave Stockholm, Sweden, April 4, after the stage season closes there, on the first step of their trip to California. They will be leading man and woman of the Swedish Theatre. They will leave England June 9, and should reach Los Angeles about June 21. Ekman, stage idol of Scandianvia, is to play in one picture for Goldwyn during the summer. While Edith Ericoff is one of the most popular actresses on this stage, it is improbable that she will make any professional part in motion picture activities here. She is the sister of Victor Seastrom and is bringing their two daughters to make a home in the Southland.

Weasley "Freckles" Barry may be small when he comes to age and he is small when he goes to work, but when he rolls out in one of his finest Wurner Brothers pictures, "The Printer's Devil," he will be "an expert engineer, draftsman, reporter, assistant editor and printer's devil on the Briggsville Gazette—wherever that is!"

MONTMARTRE TO HONOR CELEBRITIES WITH PLATES

Stars of the screen are to have their own exclusive plates at the Montmartre Cafe in Hollywood, according to the latest announcement by Al (Eddie) Brandtstrand. Gold and silver name plates bearing the initials of the select actors and actresses will be attached to the tables dedicated to the famous film celebrities. The screen notables will have first call on their tables, but if they are not using them for that particular date, they will be available for other patrons. Among those to be honored are Charlie Chaplin, Pauline Lord, Gloria Swanson, Dorothy Pyms, Al St. John, John Bowers, Margarette de la Roche, Ossi Woods Morrison, Irving Cunings, Eulalie Jensen, Elinor Wil, King Baggoo, Oscar Apfel, Virginia Gilmore, Mary Mason and Bernard J. Durning.

COMPANY REPRESENTS ALL NATIONALITIES

A Spanish picture, directed by an Irishman, roles played by "all-American" and photographed by Europeans!

That's "In the Palace of the King," the period spectacle being produced at the Goldwyn studios.

The story is set in Spain in the sixteenth century, and Emmett Flynn, who, as Irishman than whom there is none whomever, is directing it as his first Goldwyn picture under contract signed recently, the "all-American" cast includes Hugh Sargent, born in Chicago, Hobart Bosworth, Marita, Ontario, Pauline Starke, Jeo, Mr. William of Mont, Chambersburg, Pa., and other representatives of the forty Lucien Andriot, as the name might imply, comes from sunny France, and Paul Ivano, second cameraman, hail from the Italians.

On yes, Albert Lena, birthplace, Naples, Italy, is business manager.

Oliver Follansbee, well-known actor of the Chicago legitimate stage, has begun his career with Cecil B. De Mille. He will appear in "The Ten Commandments."

Muriel Frances Dana played her most difficult role in "Desire" and "Lady in the Lens" as the lead in her latest Metro production. Her role is that of a Chinese child, and her portrayal is said to be remarkable.

Peggy O'Day, who recently finished work on the series "The Fighting Spirit" in which she will be starred, has been engaged to play the leading role in "The Battling Buckaroo" a special western production being made by Rocky Mountain Productions, Inc.
DESSERT IS LOCATE FOR WRIGHT PICTURE

A caravan of motion picture players, cameramen, electricians and assistants departed this week for the desert land of Arizona where their movie film will pitch their tents and remain for six weeks while they film the exterior episodes of Harold Bell Wright's "When a Man's a Man."

This is the first of the series of Wright stories to be given a lavish treatment on the silver sheet by Principal Pictures Corporation. Edward F. Cline is to direct the series, and a notable cast of players has been assembled for "When a Man's a Man."

Prominent among the players in the desert adventure production are Marguerite De La Mot, John Bowers, Forrest Robinson, Robert W. Frazer, John Fox, Jr., George MacDaniel, Otis Harlan, George Periolat, Virginia True Boardman, Raymond Hatton, Harold MacDannell, little Franke Lee, Brinsley Shaw and others.

"The Barefoot Boy" is a story from the pen of Wallace Clifton, well-known author of Chinese screen stories, and the scenario was also prepared by him. It deals with a young boy after brutal treatment at the hands of his parents and members of the village runs away from home, only to return in after years a man of wealth and position seeking to overpower those who seemingly without the least provocation had treated him so cruelly and inhumanly.

The story was directed by David Kirkland, who had as his assistant, Charles Hamm. David Selig was in charge of the photography.

AND THE DAY OF ALL-STAR CASTS REMAINS

Filming of the Mission Film Corporation's "The Barefoot Boy," which is being released while the picture is now undergoing the process of cutting and titling at the Film Arts, preparatory to its national distribution. Meanwhile, arrangements are being made by Production Manager DeWittie Hagar and Norman Walker, business manager, for a preview of the picture which will in all probability be held at one of the theatres in Hollywood.

Officials of the company are very well pleased with the outcome of the production, declaring that the story has been pictured even far more successfully than they had anticipated. No less than sixteen stars, each of whom is recognized as among the foremost artists of their type, appear in the picture and with this unusual array of talent the greatness of the brilliance in the production. This cast was not assembled promiscuously, however, and the company did not try to use the characteristic story merely for the purpose of gathering a number of players whose names were of great box-office value. Each of the artists, regardless of their popularity in the film firmament, was engaged because she was peculiarly adapted to the character in the author's story.

Among those in the all-star cast are such noted artists as John Bowers, Marjorie Daw, Sylvia Drexler, Tully Marshall, George MacDaniel, Otis Harlan, George Periolat, Virginia True Boardman, Raymond Hatton, Harold MacDannell, little Franke Lee, Brinsley Shaw and others.

Even the P. A. Can Get Down to Naked Truth

Here, dear reader, is a press agent story that does not follow the regular formula.

Of course the natural thing would be for us to tell you of Joe De Grasse's familiarity with everything Asiatic and Oriental considering that he is at present directing "Thundergate" a colorful motion picture with a Chinese setting.

To follow the regular beaten track, we should only write about his extensive travels into Asia where he became familiar with every detail of oriental life.

But we can't do that. This is a truthful story—a press agent story extraordinary.

Joe De Grasse admits that he has only come in contact with three sets of Chinese. These are laundymen, restaurant waiters and Chinese extras.

But the fact that he has never been to China, however, does not mean that he is not qualified to direct pictures with Chinese settings, such as "Thundergate," which is now being filmed at the United States for First National Pictures.

"Why should I have to go to China before I can qualify to direct a Chinese picture?" asks De Grasse.

"After all is said and done a director is supposed only to direct a picture and not to master the parts laid out in the scenario. It is the dramatic quality of a picture which counts first. Atmosphere, locale and other features are of secondary consideration."

It must not be gathered from this that "Thundergate" is not going to be perfect as far as the portrayal of Chinese life and characteristics are concerned.

Considerable care has been taken and much research work was done by the members of the technical and art staffs of First National to obtain the proper information relative to the various phases of Chinese life before the production was started.

That the picture might be correct in every detail, and portray as far as possible the oriental atmosphere, First National engaged Thomas Gubbins, who is perhaps more familiar with Chinese life than any other one engaged in the picture industry, to assist in the making of this elaborate feature.

Gubbins supervised the building of the highly colorful Chinese settings and is now acting as interpreter for the three hundred or more Chinese and Japanese who are working in the picture.

Garnez Has Close Call

Lee Garnez narrowly escaped serious injury and his camera was completely wrecked when one of the horses in the jousting contest in "Fighting Blood," now at Grauman's Metropolitan, became pveved at the camera while the scene was being taken and charged directly at the camera. The animal advanced hardly more than a few inches, the teeth and flying hoofs of the enraged animal, but the camera was demolished.

SCHENCK SELECTS NEW TITLE FOR NORMA'S FILM

"Purple Pride" will be the name of the big French historic romance in which Producer Joseph Mayer-Metro has represented his star, Norma Talmadge. The picture has been in the making for two months under the tentative title of "Ashes of Vengeance."

The change to "Purple Pride" from the name of the book from which this gripping 18th century drama was adapted was made yesterday. The new name is believed to be more in keeping with the dignity and magnificence of the new production, which is the most costly film feature in which Norma Talmadge has yet been cast.

"Purple Pride" is being directed by Frank Lloyd. It will be in ten reels and presents Miss Talmadge surrounded by the costliest settings ever assembled. There are twenty-two principals in the drama, including Cartwright, Mrs. John Beery, Courtney Foote, Josephine Crowell, Betty Fraser, Merdoux, Hubert Leaveson, Carpenter, Andre de Beranger, Howard Truesdell and Mary McAllister.

This super feature, which will cost practically a million dollars when complete, is scheduled to be ready for cutting by the middle of next month. It is the last picture which Frank Lloyd will direct for Norma Talmadge. It is scheduled for release next fall.

CAMERAMAN "FOILS" THE ENEMY ALIAS MR. STATIC

That good old standby about necessity being the mother of invention found practical demonstration recently when the Reginald Barker company packed a number of oil stones into the snowy fastness of Jasper National Park, Alberta, Canada, to prevent static in the brilliant scenes being photographed for "The Master of Women," a Mayer-Metro special which Mr. Barker is making with an all-star cast.

Static is the curse of motion picture photography. While the bolt-wool is to the cotton industry, static is to the production of cameramen. Generally, it is frictional electricity generated in the camera box which results in tiny flashes of light on the film. To combat this effect, Percy Hilburn, chief cameraman for the Barker unit, kept the camera at a distance from the tripod of each camera, thus insuring enough warmth in the camera box to prevent the frictional electricity caused by the frigid zone in which they were working.
MATT MOORE IS ON MAT FOR MORE HUMOR

Matt Moore has upped the tranquility of Los Angeles by his presence. He has become a humorist, and as Mrs. Moore often says to her boys, "a humorist in one family is enough entirely. Tom and Owen have always been humorists, but Matt has ever swept the living room into the dirigee of drama.

But life is a grand thing and Matt the score is catching up with his humor. There was Tom, now, waving a red flag and the screen humorist of the make the world laugh at "Hold Your Horses."

There was Owen, again, waving flags in London town for "Piccadilly Jim" and adding remarkable realism to "The Poor Sin." But, in the meantime, put the mute of pathos on the singing Irish heart of him, and told of the majesty of Death in "Back Pay." This became the dramatic roles in "The Storm," "White Tiger" and "Drifting."

The humorists spotty characterizations under helmets and opera hats, but they showed only a part of Matt Moore.

Marshall Neilan, also Irish, wanted a great actor for a role that would be spoiled by acting. He offered Matt the part of "Minnie." It was the real beginning of Matt Moore himself on the screen.

Today, Matt Moore stands out ahead of the Moore family as the whimsical clown and he is middle-distance with his greatest opportunity to lure the lugubrious world into the enchanting kingship of laughter. The story is Fred Niblo's production of "Captain January," in which he plays the part of B. H. Mayer and Metro. Matt Moore has the title role and Niblo is letting him play it as he feels it. Therefore, the film becomes a characterization that will add to the success of the picture and enliven Matt of the Moores as the most humorous of the screen.

AL GIVES CUPS GALORE

Al St. John will soon replace Tercisochore as the patron deity of the dance if he continues to present silver trophy cups with the 14-month promotion of the Famous Players-Lasky Company. Al gives silver cups to his patrons.

Miss Ferguson Entertains

Helen Ferguson, well-known and popular film star, was host to a large gathering of motion picture "celeb" this week at her home in North Hollywood and a small gathering in Hollywood. They participated in an exciting game of Mah Jong in the course of the evening's festivities. All those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Graves, William Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Harkin, Laura LaPlante, Vole Vale and Al Russell. Miss Ferguson is at present under contract with Famous Players-Lasky Company and is proving "The Unknown Purple" at the Goldwyn studios.

Clubs to Shine

Southern California's exclusive and popular film stars are to be well exploited by Director Oscar Lewis in the starring vehicle for Metro. "To Whom It May Concern" is the working title of the Rita Welsh story which Roy Taylor has written the scenario and it deals with the adventures of a taxi driver who inherits a state of California. Viola Dana will be seen as a harum scarum young flapper who finally shows she has the real goods on him when the crisis comes.

T. ROY BARNES TO STAR IN SHORT COMEDIES

T. Roy Barnes, famous comedian and well-known character in motion pictures, has signed a 14-month contract with the Grace Page Productions, recently organized in Hollywood to produce two-reel domestic comedies.

Announcement of the signing of Mr. Barnes, who is to start work immediately upon finishing his present engagement with Cosmopolitan Productions, was made by Miss Page who is also the author of the stories in which T. Roy Barnes will be featured. Deed Mahoney, formerly with Famous Players-Lasky Company, will write the continuities. Mr. Barnes is considered one of the most popular types in pictures, having appeared in dozens of photoplays during the past few years under the names of several different producing companies. While with Columbia, Mr. Barnes starred in the recent comedy feature production, "The Go-Getter," and co-starred with Matt Moore in "Down and Out of Time." He will be directed by Al Davis, who is well known in the film world, who is now assisting Philip Carson in the filming of "The Dramatic Life of Abraham Lincoln," being made by Rokett Productions.

Mrs. L. Elena Wilson has come to Hollywood to make her home and is visiting her cousin Wilson, also her ex-husband and he has evidenced recently, "Big Hearted." Al presented one trophy Tuesday evening at the Winter Garden, and will give another at the Ship Cafe on Wednesday evening, June 5. He also claimed for himself a patron of citrus culture by hanging up a cup for the best fruit rack display at the Anaheim orange show, and at the Ambassador Dog Show he will give a trophy for Boston terriers. Al is at present working on "Clues," a detective comedy under his present Fox contract.

BOOM IN BUILDING DEPRIVES STAR OF EXERCISE

Edward Gibbon, popular film actor and all-around athlete who has been cast as one of the principal players in the new John M. Stahl productions of "The Wanters," has disclosed that he either will have to take up his residence at the border of health and a strenuous exercise which he has been in the habit of enjoying for the past few years.

What has caused the actor to take such a course is nothing more than the great building boom which has occurred in Hollywood within recent years.

Up to a short time ago it was the habit of the actor to don his still active uniform in the morning and go over to some vacant lot in the neighborhood to exercise his muscles by running and jumping. But now the last vacant lot has been utilized for building purposes and Gibbon has found it necessary to change his daily exercise for want of some open space.

Therefore, rather than discontinue this exercise, which has kept him in the best of physical shape, the actor is looking around for a house at the beach where he can get out on the sand whenever he pleases and exercise to his heart's content and further, need not worry about some home builder coming along and depriving him of his "out-door gymnasium."

VITAL PHOTOGRAPHIC DISCOVERY ANNOUNCED

Revolutionary discoveries at the Goldwyn laboratories have done away with the need of photographic dark rooms, and made it possible to develop film in brilliantly lighted laboratories with out danger of "fogging" the emulsion.

Experimental "dark" rooms at the Goldwyn plant proved the merits of the discoveries, and now work has begun which will make visible all the steps in the development of the thousands of feet of film handled at the studio.

Up to the time of the new discoveries, photographers had to work in the faint light of low candle power lamp bulbs, gleaning as near as they could in the gloom to get best results.

In the new dark rooms, there is not only greater speed in handling of the film, but, besides, a clearer, brighter product than has ever been possible before.

Claire Virginia visited her friends Governors on their trip to New York—Alfan Dana, who picked her from the ranks of the extra.
DAVID BELASCO IS DUE HERE NEXT WEEK

David Belasco leaves New York, June 4th, for Los Angeles, it was learned today in a wire received from the impresario's eastern offices. He will come direct to the Warner Brothers studios, where he will start the throttle for the production of the two Belasco-supervised motion picture productions, "The Tiger Rose" and "The Gold Diggers." Mr. Belasco will be accompanied by Leore Ulrie, Broadway's most important star of today, who is to be the featured artist in "Tiger Rose," and his stage managers and assistants, all of whom will be located in the new Warner studios.

Elaborate plans are being formulated by the picture men of Los Angeles, headed by the Warner Brothers, for a reception to be held for Mr. Belasco, before his departure. Some of his scenes are to be shown." Harry M. Warner, senior member of the production firm, who came to the Coast three weeks ago to plan the coming season's output, will remain here until Mr. Belasco has become familiar with the studio situation.

It is understood that on his return from the West, Mr. Belasco is to be tendered a most unusual "send-off" as exhibitors, producers, playwrights and artists have joined together to bid him "bon-voyage." A committee of prominent Californians, including leading Los Angeles business men, will greet the beloved playwright-producer on his arrival here.

Murphy Finishes Another

Joe Murphy has finished his engagement with the James A. Gordon-Carter Organization for whom he acted as assistant director to Harry Revier in the making of "The Supreme Test." Joe is now considering two offers of other producers. Mr. Murphy was for years assistant to Allen Curtis, who made the famous Gale Henry-Miltburn Moranti comedies.

Lederer Returns

Otto Lederer, who has been touring the state of California making personal appearances with the film "Forget-Me-Not," has returned to Hollywood and will resume film activities here. Mr. Lederer will be best remembered for his excellent performance as Solomon Levy in the original production of "Abe's Irish Rose."

Dorothy Seay, child actress, is working on studios for the under direction of Frank Lloyd in "Ashes of Vengeance" starring Norma Talmadge.

NO WONDER BRUCE RESISTS ABUSE

"I guess I'll be banished again," since Gertrude Guerri, inquired of Director Frank Bouse, to whom he has been loaned by Warner Brothers for the Arthur Harbor National production "Dust in the Doorway."

And sure enough the part is that of a youngster whose thoughtlessness either neglects him for foolish galantries. In every one of the seven pictures in which he has played featured roles in his year and a half of screen work, little Bruce has portrayed a kидle at whom life has failed to smile. It all began with "The Bachelor Duddy," which won him nationwide notice and in which he played the youngest of the five orphans.

In "Love in the Dark," he was a youngster whose mother was killed and whose father went off the wagon or away to reform, as adopted by Viola Dana, he romped through the film apparently not feeling the lack of parental influence at all, which he supports Priscilla Dean, will show him as an American film producer in China. "Brass," which features him with a cast of notables and Alexander Warner's contract, pictures him in a similar role of abandonment.

His genuinely gifted portrayals of a woful little orphan have won him the title, bestowed by critics all over the country, of "The Baby David Warfield of the screen." But Bruce, who is half-past three and has a mind of his own, says he does wish they'd let him belong to somebody once in a while, so he could dress up in his nice white sailor suit.

NOW SAY SOMETHING ABOUT PANIC

A program of production for the coming season unprecedented in the history of the motion picture industry, has been laid out and is now well under way at the several studios where First National pictures are made on the West Coast and in the East.

At the United Studios, Hollywood, where a bulk of the West Coast production factories are, are unusual scenes of activities.

At this studio is First National's own producing unit, which is now engaged in making "The Huntress," a romantic comedy-drama of the old out-doors, starring Colleen Moore. Before "The Huntress," is completed, the same unit will begin "Thunder Gate," a thrilling, dramatic story of Chinese and American life, the cast of which will include favorites as Moore Sylvia Brewer, Virginia Brown Faire and Robert McRae.

Then while this elaborate feature is still in making, the unit will begin production on a farce comedy, "The Temperamental Band," and then comes "Flaming Youth," Warner Fabian's famous sensational story of floating love.

The extensive First National program also calls for the early film of Gertrude Atherton's well-documented "The Vanishing," "Black Oxen," and a number of other picturizations of famous book and stage successes.

Norma Talmadge's "Purple Pride," which is being produced by Joseph M. Scheen for First National, is expected to be completed within the next three weeks. Miss Talmadge's comedy is also nearing completion at the United Studios. This will be followed by "A Dangerously Mad," featuring the same star.

Within two weeks producer Sam E. Rork will begin his next big production for First National, "Ponjola," in which Anna Q. Nilsson and James Kirkwood have prominent roles. About the same time Edwin Carewe will begin "The Bad Man," with Holbrook Blinn in the title role.

At the same studio Arthur H. Jacobs has begun production on his next Frank Borzage-First National picture, the temporary title of which is "Dust in the Doorway." Preparation is also being made by Producer Maurice Levee for Maurice Tourneur's next First National production.

At the Louis B. Mayer Studio production is well under way on John M. Stahl's "The Wancers," a brilliant comedy of New York City life, while at the Thomas H. Ince studio the First National program calls for the early production of "Anna Christie," Eugene O'Neill's prize play of a runaway with scenes rights for which cost the top notch price of $100,000.

SCENARIO EDITOR RESIGNS FOR STAGE WORK

That he may devote his entire time to his new stage stories, Frank Dazey, scenario editor at Warner Bros. studios, has been granted a leave of absence to take effect at once, although his contract extends far into the future does not expire for six weeks.

Dazey is the author of "Peter Weston," the picture thunderbolt in which Frank Keenan has been meeting with overwhelming success. The play originally showed here in Los Angeles, and after a successful run in various Tom Wilkes theatres, was ordered east under the name of Sam H. Harris, New York impresario, and Wilkes' partner in the New York production was originally booked to open the Sam Harris theatre in New York, October 1, but has been shown ahead of time. Its premiere there September 1.

The Untame," a new story by Dazey was purchased by Wilkes last week and is expected to have its world premiere at the Alexander theatre in San Francisco within the coming month. It is because of this play, that Dazey found it impossible to devote his attention to the picture scenarios. Frank Keenan is coming to the coast next week to go into final details for the Dazey "Peter Weston" prior to its New York showing.

With Dazey's departure from Warner Bros., the big work there will probably fall on the shoulders of Grant Carpenter and Julian Joseph, the men whom are now busyly engaged on new scripts. Dazey is the husband of Agnes Claire Johnson, famous authoress.

GRECIAN STAR AND HIS WIFE RETURN TO MOVIES

After five years touring in vaudeville all over the European countries and America, George D. Colovos and his wife, Madame Septimus Vasilikite Colovos, arrived in Los Angeles a short time ago to make their home in Hollywood.

Mr. Colovos is a native of Greece. He came to America in 1905 and received his education in St. Louis. His wife, Madame Septimus Vasilikite Colovos, is the daughter of one of the finest families of the South and is a true Southern type. Colovos himself, wrote a scenario, one of the most thrilling comedy dramas, adapting his story from true life, to be produced for a motion picture of 7,000 feet.

"Spect" Walter O'Donnell, a new film produced discovered on the Pacific coast, plays his first picture under the Brothers picturesque of Sinclair Lewis."Main Street."
Weekly Wake-Up—CAMERA’S News Section

News and Gossip About the Moving Throngs of Movieland

Eulalie Jensen Denial

Eulalie Jensen, who is playing one of the leading roles in George D. Baker’s “The Magic Skin,” has had her press department issue a bulletin correcting the story that “The Magic Skin” is a propaganda picture demonstrating the merits of a well-known facial soap.

Jimmy is Lucky

Any time “Jimmy” Morrison, popular leading man of the pictures is downtown late and does not care to drive out to his Hollywood apartments, he will have a royal welcome at the new Biltmore Hotel after it is opened next October. Jimmy’s full name is James Woods Morrison, and he is a namesake of James Woods, who has come here to be general manager of the new hotel.

Comes Another Satire

“Mother’s Jargon” is the title of an animal travesty on “The Covered Wagon” which Reed Hustin has submitted to W. N. Selig as a comedy starring vehicle for “Mary” the educated chimp of the Selig Zoo four-foothand stock company. It is said to be a clever satire of the James Cruze picture of days of ’49 and will be produced at Grauman’s Hollywood Egyptian Theatre.

La Plante Joins Thomas

William La Plante, prominent Los Angeles attorney and motion picture producer, has been appointed personal representative for Richard Thomas, the young producer-director. Mr. La Plante and Mr. Thomas will arrive in Hollywood at the middle of June to perfect arrangements for the distribution of Thomas pictures recently produced. The titles of these productions are “The Silent Accuser” and “Phantom Justice.” The latter picture was temporarily known as “Other Men’s Money.” Both will be shown as six-part features.

Dumbness of a DamSEL

Elliot Fair’s press agent informs us that she had a letter from a girl who was so dumb that she thought “Fair and Warner,” now playing at the Marquee, was the name of a vaudeville team and that Elliot Fair was the fair of the team. Elliot is now playing opposite James Baggot in the Altair production of “Eagle’s Feather,” which Edward Slloman is making for Metro.

Baggot Rejects Offers

King Baggot, once the screen world’s most popular matinee idol, is sticking closely to his directorial knitting at present. This week he turned down two opportunities to make personal appearances at $500 each, because he is busy making an all-star Jewels production built around Baby Peggy. The California Valencia Stage Show at Anaheim wanted King to appear as King Valencia with Maryon Aye as queen.

Patron Liked “Heroin”

Some enthusiastic theatre patron wrote to Lee Partin, manager of the Egan Theatre, telling him how much he enjoyed the acting of Grace Carleye, the heroin (correct spelling) in “Morphine,” Oscar Apfel’s drama of the drug habit as applied to social circles. Lee replied that he never heard of “heroin” being in “morphine,” and Oscar Apfel got all “hopped” up about it. Lee expects to see “Morphine” on the screen, which starts, it is said, in Minneapolis, after they have their winter supply of coal and coke.

This Film is Promising

The first of a series of feature pictures to be produced by Victor Fisher Productions has been completed and, according to those in direct touch with the trend of film production at the various studios in Hollywood, it bids fair to challenge in quality some of the pictures produced by the older established companies. The picture has been titled “Dumbness of a DamSEL” and prominent among the principal players in the cast is Lucy Beaumont, whose performance is said to be one of the high lights of the whole production. Before entering motion picture Miss Beaumont was an actress on the legitimate stage, appearing in such well-known plays as “Miss Alday’s Dress,” “The Little Lady in Blue,” “Chu Chin Chow,” “John Ferguson” and many others. She perhaps scored her greatest success as Mrs. Wiggs in “Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch.”

Miss Daw Engaged

Marjorie Daw, screen favorite, who was recently married to Eddie Sutherland, assistant director to Charles Chaplin, has been engaged by the Mission Film Company to play one of the principal roles in its latest drama of rural life, “The Barefoot,” which is being directed by David Kirkland.

Goldwyn Engages Ballet Master

Carlos Sebastian, ballet master and dancing instructor has arrived in Los Angeles to create the ballet episodes for “In the Prince of the Pines,” which has just been completed at Coast. Emmett Flynn is directing at the Goldwyn Studios.

Sebastian has appeared with such eminent dancers as Gaby Deols, the Holly Sisters, Mlle. Mistinguette and Polah Heart. He conducts the Sebastian School of Dancing in New York City.

Babe Artists Star

Baby Muriel MacCormac, Cob Watson, Jr., Jack Parker and Little Lee have been added to the cast of “Hollywood Hustler,” in which the following Screenland stars, members of the screen juvenile brigade, were guests at the South Lankershim Orchard, a new sub-division of the Universal City, last Sunday. The youngsters proved very popular with the large crowd that visited the tract, giving songs, recitations and dance numbers to the enjoyment of all present.

Walker Winning Praise

Joseph H. Walker, well-known cinematographer, has just finished photographing “Richard the Lionhearted” for Associated Pictures, which takes place on the French Beach, where all the big storm scenes for Associated Authors screen production of “Young Dick Daily” will be made. Walker is using some very interesting and novel camera effects of his own invention, and the film in both productions is said to be unusually beautiful throughout. The production is being directed by W. S. Van Dyke, and is under the supervision of Thompson Buchanan.

Goldert With DeMille

Much of the glamour and romance of the ancient Bible times will be represented in Cecil De Mille’s forthcoming picture, “The Ten Commandments,” at the plans at present call for a double cast, one part of which will interpret the biblical version and the other cast will play it in its relations to modern times. For theheurest part, 4000 acre of the Nile in Egypt in the Mosiac time, De Mille has selected Clarence H. Goddert, a well-known character actor, who has carried character roles in nearly all of De Mille’s big productions.

Read This and Marvel

“A little over three years ago, Barbara La Marr played her first scene in John Ford’s picture ‘The Kent,’ for $1,000. She returned to the Mayer Bros. and had been put under contract to H. B. Warner, until his death, when she was engaged by Mayer to play the part of Jubal MacGregor in the picture that was directed by Donal Baker’s next Metro special, ‘The Master of Woman’ at a salary that is authentically quoted at close to $2,000 per week. The wagers of sin may be death, but the art of being a screen vamp apparently has a wage scale all its own.

Alan Keeps Moving

One of the busiest actors in the Hollywood film colony is Alan Hale, who is just at present working in three pictures at the same time. This popular artist who scored so heavily with his performance in “Robin Hood,” “The Covered Wagons” and “Master of the Telephone” is sharing his services with Jack Gilbert in “Cameo Kirby” at the William Fox studio, with Jackie Coogan and Mabel Paige in “Beau.” In the latter picture he is playing the part of the king, and in a picture being produced at the Fox studios with a full cast of stars.

Jockey Club Popular

The motion picture colony is evidencing great interest in the launching of the Southern California Jockey Club, which will revive horse racing at Culver City. Scores of well-known stars and their appendages are sharing their interests with the breed in the central enclosures, and still others are planning eastern trips to pick up strings of races for their own racing stables.

Mary is Finishing

Favorable progress is reported being made in the finishing of Mary Pickford’s latest picture, “The Street Singer.” Among the artists appearing in support of the star is Little Philippe de Lacy, five-year-old actor, and adopted French war orphan, who has been in such notable pictures as “The Dangerous Ace,” “Rich Man’s Wives,” “Omar the Tentmaker,” and many others. Little Philippe is considered one of the most beautiful children in pictures and has coarse and direct photographic faces that the screen has ever recorded. He was reared in Egypt in the desert and before the Great War. Very recently was captured during the World War by a Red Cross nurse who adopted him and brought him to America. She has been responsible for the success he has attained in motion pictures.
CAREW FINDS HELPING OTHERS IS EXPENSIVE

In addition to his achievements before the camera, Arthur Edmund Carew, noted as a stage star, has added to his interpretation of Svengali in the Richard Walton Tully production of "Svengali" a charm, a lack of vanity, and a genuine empathy that make of him a wonderful automobile repair man. Can not begin to imagine what he would have done to his car, knowing that he thoroughly understood the mechanism of the automobile. The actor's inexperience with repairing cars has been the friend's of another car, having now saved him one penny. Instead it has cost him considerable money.

Many times when the actor has been out on a pleasure trip he has met a friend on the road whose car was "stuck." Unable to locate a repairman in the neighborhood the friend in each case had asked Carew to fix the car, knowing that he thoroughly understood the mechanism of the automobile. The actor invariably has the ability to make the repair hastily and the friend preceded on his way.

That was fine. He enjoyed both the trip and the repair, but he has enjoyed helping to fix other people's cars. But it seems that every time Carew is asked to help a friend with the car he has ruined a good suit of clothes and that is why his knowledge of mechan- ics has cost him more money than he has saved by being his own repairman.

GREGIAN STAR TO STAGE HIS OWN PLAY HERE

George Rigs, well-known actor of stage and screen, who has played the principal role in practically every prominent Grecian play presented before the footlights, Mr. Rigs is now making arrangements to present the play at the Los Angeles theatre and in all probability it will be given a showing early in the coming fall. Should the play meet with success, the producer plans to produce another play. The actress-mother is in the cast and the actor promises a production of the play to which the actor has submitted the story declare it carries a tremendous appeal and is surely worthy of presentation before the footlights. Mr. Rigs is now making arrange- ments to present the play at the Los Angeles theatre and in all probability it will be given a showing early in the coming fall. Should the play meet with success, the producer plans to produce another play.

CAREW FINDS HELPING OTHERS IS EXPENSIVE

WHERE A BABY SAVES A SHOW AFTER ACCIDENT

"On with the dance! Proceed with the show!"

This was the shout of the audience which attended the musical hit entertainment in Hollywood a few nights ago. Several acts had been presented when the curtain and no announce- ment made as to what happened. A few minutes later the audience was: impatient, wondering what was holding up the show. In fact the curtain an accident occurred, which threatened to force the dis- banding of the greatest piece of entertainment. A little child, who was the last to appear on the programme, had had a chance to talk with the entertainer's opportunity to make an explanation.

Realizing the situation, Baby Marie MacGovern, favorite old film starlet, who was attending the show with her mother, hurriedly went on stage and told the audience what had happened.

No one in the audience knew that Baby Muriel had not attended a part of the programme, and they little realized that it was she who was "saving the show."

principal will spend millions of principle

The production cost of Principal Pictures Corporation's forthcoming releases reads like the assets of a bank. This corporation plans to expend three million dollars on feature photo- plays during the coming season. Twelve productions are listed for filming. These include sev- eral well-known plays, two stage plays, and a series of feature comedies starring Harry Langdon of footlight fame.

Principal Pictures Corpora- tion's studios are in Hollywood. Their production schedule is twenty-a-week. Behind the scenes is an army of technicians and directors. Their production schedule is listed as one of the largest in filmmaking for the 1923-24 season. Eleazar Boardman was an interior decorator in New York about twenty years ago and the portrait of Mr. Rigs to any one who can guess correctly how any one could be "the son of a shadow.

Rachel Riendeau has just finished a very interesting and unusual role with Mary Pickford in "The Street Singer," which is being filmed under the direction of Ernst Lubitsch. In this picture Miss Riendeau plays the part of an irate wife, who discovers her husband making ardent love to another woman. The love-making couple are seated upon a wall overlooking a castle moat, and as she was the rival indignant wife does is to cast her spouse into the water behind the wall, but terrifying the other woman, a fierce battle the other women, a fierce battle of fists follows. This production is of Spanish setting and Mr. Lub- itsch has made a perfect Spanish type and one whose ability to handle way- s in hand was unques- tioned. He has declared himself greatly pleased with her work. The production cost of Principal Pictures Corporation's forthcoming releases reads like the assets of a bank. This corporation plans to expend three million dollars on feature photo- plays during the coming season. Twelve productions are listed for filming. These include sev- eral well-known plays, two stage plays, and a series of feature comedies starring Harry Langdon of footlight fame.

Principal Pictures Corpora- tion's studios are in Hollywood. Their production schedule is twenty-a-week. Behind the scenes is an army of technicians and directors. Their production schedule is listed as one of the largest in filmmaking for the 1923-24 season. Eleazar Boardman was an interior decorator in New York about twenty years ago and the portrait of Mr. Rigs to any one who can guess correctly how any one could be "the son of a shadow.

Rachel Riendeau has just finished a very interesting and unusual role with Mary Pickford in "The Street Singer," which is being filmed under the direction of Ernst Lubitsch. In this picture Miss Riendeau plays the part of an irate wife, who discovers her husband making ardent love to another woman. The love-making couple are seated upon a wall overlooking a castle moat, and as she was the rival indignant wife does is to cast her spouse into the water behind the wall, but terrifying the other woman, a fierce battle the other women, a fierce battle of fists follows. This production is of Spanish setting and Mr. Lub- itsch has made a perfect Spanish type and one whose ability to handle way- s in hand was unques- tioned. He has declared himself greatly pleased with her work.

FINE ARTS ADDS TO THE HUM OF INDUSTRY

Several feature stories are in the course of preparation at the Fine Arts Studios, and from every indication this plant will be humming with production ac- tivities within the next two weeks. Finis Fox, having recently returned to Los Angeles with a contract for a series of feature pictures through Associated Exhibitors, is setting ready to start the filming of "Bag and Baggage," a comedy drama written by himself and adapted to the screen by Lois Zelher. He will produce the picture with an all-star cast and a number of the screen's best known artists are now being engaged.

Charles Mack, who has recently completed the formation of the Charles Mack Productions, returned to his Los Angeles studios this week from a trip to northern California with his director, Henry McCarthy, where exterior locations were selected for his first independent feature, "Beyond the Horizon." Actual filming of this story is scheduled to commence within the next few days.

Jess Robbins, who is produc- ing a series of comedy dramas for Vitagraph release, is getting things in readiness for the filming of a new story, the title and details of which he has not yet divulged. Edward Everett Hor- ton, who has been starred by Robbins in such successful stories as "A Front Page Story," "The Ladder Jinx" and others, will be starred in the new production.

Fred Caldwell, whose picture, "Night Life in Hollywood," has scored a decided success with exhibi- tors and the picture public throughout the country, is now getting ready to start the filming of another picture for this company, which bears the title, "Hogans for Hollywood." Several other stories are now in preparation for early filming at the Fine Arts Studios, which plant has recently undergone ex- tensive improvements to the tune of $250,000.

Guy Bates Post to Tour

Guy Bates Post will shortly return to the footlights. This time, however, his stage appear- ance will be in the leading mo- tion picture theatre where he will present a little sketch in conjunction with the showing of a motion picture. The sketch is titled "The Man From Ten Strike," just completed by Principal Pic- tures Corporation in Los An- geles. This will be the star's first stage appearance in two years, his picture in "The Man From Ten Strike" having helped the major part of his time during that period.
FEWER AND BIGGER FILMS, SAYS LEVEE

M. C. Levee, president of the United Studios and producer of Maurice Tourneur's First National pictures, declared this week in a flowing conference with a number of big Eastern film men, that the coming year will see the production of fewer pictures.

"The slogan is for quality pictures, not quantity," said Mr. Levee. "I expect to see just as much production activity the coming year as in the past, probably. For, the type of pictures will be bigger—much bigger.

Throughout the country it is now expected that a week's run in the large theatres is not long enough to give to the showing of the big productions.

"Instead of one week showings motion picture theatres in the larger cities are to extend the run from week to week, or a period of three or four weeks. In view of this situation every distribution producing organization in New York is planning to cut down the number of its pictures for next year and strive to make the type of pictures that will meet the requirements of exhibitors."

WALLY, WALLY WILT
THOU NEVER REFORM?

Wally Beery's running true to form. He even turns a few new wrinkles in villainy in "Purple Pride," Norma Talmadge's 16th century French romance which Frank Lloyd is directing.

Beery has been an ugly half-breed in Northwest Mounted Police pictures, a heartless fiend in Russian ones, and in fact has made film fans flesh creep in almost every picture he has ever played. In "Purple Pride" he adds to his laurels. Among his savage passages are the Duc de Tours in the Norma Talmadge film that of running his sword through a soldier whose sweetheart he has insulted, setting a huge dog to attack a small boy, beating up the brother of the soldier he has killed and rounding up his enemies in a tower and hiring a notorious torturer to abuse them.

In the cast of "Purple Pride," which Joseph M. Schenck productions will release through Associated First National are Conway Tearle, Courtney Foote, Josephine Crowell, Betty Francisco, Hector Sarzo and Little Jeanne Carpenter.

The addition of George Webb, Mervyn LeRoy and Browne, referred to as the wonder dog, completes the cast in support of Johnny Hines in "Little Johnny Jones," the George M. Cohan stage play being filmed by the Warner Brothers.

LLOYD DISCOVERS HE IS A COOK FOR SURE

When Lloyd Hughes was cast for the part of a camp cook in his latest picture "The Huntress," he did not realize that before he finished the picture he would find himself doing honest-to-goodness cooking.

But that is exactly what he was called upon to do a few days ago in the Santa Cruz District of California where the exterior scenes of the First National picture are being taken.

Lloyd, it may be stated, is a real cook as well a reel cook and he admits that he enjoys his own cooking—especially if the piece de resistance comprises that most delectable of all fresh water fish—trout.

Between camera shots he and Walter Long, who plays a "heavy" role in "The Huntress," found time to land quite a few of the finny tribe from the mountain streams which at this time of the year are fairly alive with the succulent fish.

Arriving back at the camp headquarters of the film company, Lloyd proudly displayed the trout that he and Long had caught. He then took them over to the camp cook and informed the knight of the pots and pans that he would be ready to make his supper of the fish within an hour.

But he failed to figure on the obstinance of camp cooks in general and this cook in particular, who informed Hughes that he had been engaged to cook only three meals a day, and that is all he would cook—three and no more.

But the famous juvenile player had set his mind on trout. He had the trout in his bag and he was going to have them for supper! So there was nothing for him to do but to put on an apron, clean the fish and cook them—and last, but not least—eat them.

Martindel at Goldwyn

Headquarters of Edward Martindel are now at the Goldwyn studio, where he is engaged in the leading character role of "The Day of Faith," which Tod Browning is directing. He declares that Goldwyn, despite the fact that it is fully three-quarters of an hour ride from Hollywood, is a grand old studio.

Radio gets them all! Ben Hewlett is completing his fourth week as the "heavy" in "Lightheart," Robertson-Cole's current production, but finds plenty of time to putter around with air currents and the like. "Great results," says Benny. We don't know whether he means hobby or vocation—maybe both!

ANNOUNCING THE BIRTH OF

Delbert E. Davenport Productions

Ready to produce photoplay features de luxe under the new Davenportian Technique. (Ask us about this.)

OUTSTANDING FEATURES OF INTEREST TO THOSE SEEKING SOUND MOTION PICTURE INVESTMENTS

(1) Ownership of all rights to six great stories by leading authors;
(2) Possession of a releasing contract which insures prompt and profitable marketing of product;
(3) Contracts with several prominent photoplayers including BOBBIE DAVENPORT, who many call a million-dollar bet;
(4) Contract for the exclusive services of one of the best scenarists in the world;
(5) Will start production immediately on the much-discussed story, "THE PASSION TO RULE" and "THE LITTLE LIEVER," two exceptional novels with all-star casts;
(6) Control of a big established publicity bureau, insuring an unrivalled world-wide publicity campaign.

WANTED! WANTED!

Yes, we can use some additional capital.

THEREFORE, WE WANT MORE UNIT-HOLDERS TO INVEST $1,000 EACH FOR SURE PROFIT-SHARING INTERESTS!

One important executive position is open to the right man of ability and means.

W. E. Burnham, well-known as a theatrical manager for the last 25 years, late with the T. D. and L. Circuit of picture theatres of Southern California, late manager of the De Luxe and Alvarado Theatres of Los Angeles.

SELDOM HAS THERE BEEN SUCH AN OPPORTUNITY TO GET INTO A LEGITIMATE FILM-PRODUCING BUSINESS ON THE GROUND FLOOR TO A DISTINCT ADVANTAGE TO YOURSELF!

NEVER WERE CONDITIONS SO FAVORABLE FOR MAKING MONEY IN THE INDEPENDENT PRODUCING FIELD!

Call or write at once for full information. You will be agreeably surprised.

DELBERT E. DAVENPORT PRODUCTIONS

W. E. Burnham, General Manager
Room 3, Fuller Building, 6318 Hollywood Boulevard Hollywood, California.
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, June 4

Camera intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-309

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Camera Man</th>
<th>Ass’t. Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BERWILLIA STUDIO.</td>
<td>5821 Santa Monica Blvd. Ashton Dearholt, Pro. Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eddie Lyons Productions (Arrow release)</td>
<td>Eddie Lyons</td>
<td>Eugene De Rue McGill</td>
<td>Cooke</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ben Wilson</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Eddie Linden</td>
<td>J. Ince</td>
<td></td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WOODSTUDIO.</td>
<td>4811 Fountain Ave.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L. H. Martin Production, Don F. Osborne, Mgr.</td>
<td>Bob Dillon</td>
<td>New Gerber</td>
<td>Hutchinson</td>
<td>Howard</td>
<td>&quot;Santa Fe Trail&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Century Comedies (Universal release)</td>
<td>All Herman</td>
<td>Buddy Measinger</td>
<td>William Hyer</td>
<td>Al Herman</td>
<td>&quot;Buddy at the Bat&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHAPLIN STUDIO.</td>
<td>Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr. 1416 La Brea Ave.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Present Arms&quot;</td>
<td>Holly 1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Regent Film Company. (United Artists release)</td>
<td>Charles Chaplin</td>
<td>Edna Purviance</td>
<td>Rollin Tothero</td>
<td>Eddie Sutherland</td>
<td>Monta Bell</td>
<td>&quot;Public Opinion&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHOICE STUDIO.</td>
<td>6044 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>439-764</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HARVEY MACDONALD Productions.</td>
<td>MacDonald</td>
<td>Gloria Joy</td>
<td>Beckway</td>
<td>Eddie Saunders</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HILL STUDIO.</td>
<td>Individual Casting. 4500 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Tag and Baggage&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mervyn LeRoy Productions</td>
<td>(Asso. Exhibitors release)</td>
<td>Patsy Fox</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Landsers</td>
<td>Van Odel</td>
<td>&quot;The Barefoot Boy&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ASSOCIATION PRODUCTIONS.</td>
<td>Harvey Mac Dougall</td>
<td>Norm Walker</td>
<td>Business Mgr.</td>
<td>David Abell</td>
<td>Chas. Hamm</td>
<td>Wallace Clifton</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FOX STUDIO.</td>
<td>Arthur Forde, Casting. 1401 N. Western Ave. Fred Kley, Studio Mgr. Holly 3000</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buildings</td>
<td>Stock</td>
<td>Ernest S. Davenport</td>
<td>Benny Stoloff</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>&quot;Battlin’ Buckaroo&quot;</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BURGESS STUDIO.</td>
<td>5510 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Wild &amp; Wooly&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GARSON STUDIOS.</td>
<td>1845 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td>Cowan</td>
<td>Coffee</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Haven&quot;</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDSTONE STUDIO.</td>
<td>6050 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;What Women Want&quot;</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDWYN STUDIO.</td>
<td>R. B. McIntyre, Casting. Culver City. 761711</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Von Stroheim</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Ben Reynolds</td>
<td>Eddie Sowders</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStroheim</td>
<td>&quot;Glad&quot;</td>
<td>11th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charles craft</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Howard</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D. Baker</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Boyle</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Stand-Up&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L. Neitz</td>
<td>Bill Patten</td>
<td>Money Hughes</td>
<td>F. W. Raymond</td>
<td>Neitz</td>
<td>&quot;The Honeymoon&quot;</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OTIS STUDIO.</td>
<td>6050 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phil Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release).</td>
<td>W. K. Howard</td>
<td>Wm. Fairbanks</td>
<td>Roland Price</td>
<td>Harry Tenbrook</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>&quot;What Women Want&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Von Stroheim</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Ben Reynolds</td>
<td>Eddie Sowders</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStroheim</td>
<td>&quot;Glad&quot;</td>
<td>11th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charles craft</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Howard</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D. Baker</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Boyle</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Stand-Up&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L. Neitz</td>
<td>Bill Patten</td>
<td>Money Hughes</td>
<td>F. W. Raymond</td>
<td>Neitz</td>
<td>&quot;The Honeymoon&quot;</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OTIS STUDIO.</td>
<td>6050 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phil Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release).</td>
<td>W. K. Howard</td>
<td>Wm. Fairbanks</td>
<td>Roland Price</td>
<td>Harry Tenbrook</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>&quot;What Women Want&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Von Stroheim</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Ben Reynolds</td>
<td>Eddie Sowders</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStroheim</td>
<td>&quot;Glad&quot;</td>
<td>11th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charles craft</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Howard</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D. Baker</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Boyle</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Stand-Up&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>L. Neitz</td>
<td>Bill Patten</td>
<td>Money Hughes</td>
<td>F. W. Raymond</td>
<td>Neitz</td>
<td>&quot;The Honeymoon&quot;</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OTIS STUDIO.</td>
<td>6050 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phil Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release).</td>
<td>W. K. Howard</td>
<td>Wm. Fairbanks</td>
<td>Roland Price</td>
<td>Harry Tenbrook</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>&quot;What Women Want&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Director</td>
<td>Star</td>
<td>Cameraman</td>
<td>Asst Director</td>
<td>Scenarist</td>
<td>Type</td>
<td>Progress</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>----------</td>
<td>------</td>
<td>-----------</td>
<td>---------------</td>
<td>-----------</td>
<td>------</td>
<td>----------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GRAND STUDIO</td>
<td>1438 Gower St.</td>
<td>Ben Verscheilier, General Manager.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Comedy</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monte Banks Productions, Inc.</td>
<td>Herman Raymaker</td>
<td>Monte Banks</td>
<td>Bill Williams</td>
<td>Leslie Goodman</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>Comedy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sid Smith Productions, Inc.</td>
<td>Andrew Maye</td>
<td>Hugh Faye</td>
<td>Ken MacLean</td>
<td>Ken MacLean</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>“Hamma’s Baby Boy”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe Rock Production, Inc.</td>
<td>Grover Jones</td>
<td>Joe Rock</td>
<td>Jerry Ash</td>
<td>Dave Smith</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>Comedy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS.</td>
<td>6642 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>J. Jasper, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supreme Art Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seeing</td>
<td>Dick Young Williams</td>
<td>George Larkin</td>
<td>Vernon Walker</td>
<td>Vernon Walker</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>“The Sign”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Food</td>
<td>C. B. Dreyer</td>
<td>Carl Dreyer</td>
<td>Art</td>
<td>Art</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
<td>“Phantom Pack”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assoc. Authors, Inc.</td>
<td>W. S. Van Dyke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Joe Walker</td>
<td>R. I. Selander</td>
<td>Thompson Buchan</td>
<td>“Loving Lies”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LASKY STUDIOS.</td>
<td>L. M. Goodstadt, Casting.</td>
<td>1520 Vine St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount Pictures.</td>
<td>(Famous Players-Lasky release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jerome Storm</td>
<td>Joseph Henaberry</td>
<td>Jack Holt</td>
<td>Dee Jennings</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Langdon</td>
<td>Wm. Hyneman</td>
<td>Wm. McAllister</td>
<td>Wm. M. DeMille</td>
<td>Wm. M. DeMille</td>
<td>Featured</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jane Darwell</td>
<td>Jax. Howe</td>
<td>Guy Wilke</td>
<td>Carl Brown</td>
<td>Carl Brown</td>
<td>Featured</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James Cruze</td>
<td>Cecil B. DeMille</td>
<td>Molly Chen</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Trailers</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INCE STUDIO.</td>
<td>Horace Williams, Casting.</td>
<td>Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>Culver City</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mrs. Wallace Reid Productions</td>
<td>J. R. Crone</td>
<td>Mrs. Reid</td>
<td>Henry Sharp</td>
<td>Ross Lederman</td>
<td>C. Gardner Sullivan</td>
<td>“Human Wreckage”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John M. Dill</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trimble-Murfin Productions.</td>
<td>Murfin-McCloskey</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lewis J. Seeligman</td>
<td>King Gray</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murfin-McCloskey</td>
<td>C. B. Dreyer</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assoc. Authors, Inc.</td>
<td>W. S. Van Dyke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Joe Walker</td>
<td>R. I. Selander</td>
<td>Thompson Buchan</td>
<td>“Loving Lies”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ASK Y STUDIOS.</td>
<td>L. M. Goodstadt, Casting.</td>
<td>1520 Vine St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAYER-SCHULBERG STUDIOS.</td>
<td>3800 Mission Rd.</td>
<td>Individual Casting.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lewis B. Mayer Productions.</td>
<td>(Metro release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R. C. Schueler</td>
<td>John Mull</td>
<td>Perry Gilmore</td>
<td>Harry Schenck</td>
<td>Monte Katterjohn</td>
<td>“The Master of Women”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John H. Stahl</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>“The Wanters”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Preferred Pictures Corp.</td>
<td>B. P. Schulberg, Gen. Mgr. (All Lichtenman release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vic Schertzinger</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mary Pickford</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McFarland</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>METRO STUDIO.</td>
<td>Romaine and Cahuenga Ave.</td>
<td>Harry Kerr, Casting.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oscar Apfel</td>
<td>Harold Shaw</td>
<td>John Arnold</td>
<td>Nat Watt</td>
<td>Taylor</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rex Ingram Productions.</td>
<td>(Metro release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rex Ingram</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Seltz</td>
<td>Curb Reifold</td>
<td>Willis Goldbeck</td>
<td></td>
<td>“Scaramouche”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt Stromberg Productions.</td>
<td>(Metro Release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H. Stromberg</td>
<td>Bull Montana</td>
<td>Irving Reis</td>
<td>Joe Joos</td>
<td>H. Stromberg</td>
<td></td>
<td>“One Wild Day”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edward S. Loman Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edward S. Loman</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Ethel Smith</td>
<td>Winifred Dunn</td>
<td>“Eagle’s Feather”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vic Schertzinger</td>
<td>Jackie Coogan</td>
<td>Frank Good</td>
<td>McDermott</td>
<td>Mary Ruth Burchart</td>
<td>“Long Live the King”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NATIONAL STUDIO.</td>
<td>1116 Lodi St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor M. F. Corp.</td>
<td>C. A. Wilder, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J. A. Ball</td>
<td>Ray Rennahan</td>
<td>G. W. Cave</td>
<td>Color Photography</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS.</td>
<td>Individual Casting.</td>
<td>7100 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists Release.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R-C STUDIO.</td>
<td>Melrose and Gower.</td>
<td>780 Gower St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Individual Productions.</td>
<td>(Film Booking Offices)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J. R. Crone</td>
<td>Geo. O’Hara</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>“The Sups to Conquer”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Googin</td>
<td>Harold Googin</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>“Western Story”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A. R. Schaefer</td>
<td>R. A. Schaefer</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>“A. C. Witten Story”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Emile Chauveau</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>“Life, Liberty, and…”</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RAY STUDIO.</td>
<td>Albert A. Kidder, Jr., Gen’l Mgr.</td>
<td>1425 Fleming St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ROACH STUDIO.</td>
<td>Culver City.</td>
<td>Warren Doane, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ROCKETT-LINCOLN COMPANY</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hal Roach Comedies (Pathe release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Robert Remington</td>
<td>Robert Remington</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Frank Young</td>
<td>Harry Grant</td>
<td>Honeck-Man</td>
<td>Hal Connell</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hal Roach Comedies (Pathe release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charles Ruggles</td>
<td>Charles Ruggles</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Frank Young</td>
<td>Harry Grant</td>
<td>Honeck-Man</td>
<td>Hal Connell</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ROCKETT-LINCOLN COMPANY</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phil Rosen</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Curly Broden</td>
<td>Al Kelley</td>
<td>“Life of Abraham Lincoln”</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Holly 661

Hollywood 1431

Lincoln 2120

Holly 4485

Holly 4470

Holly 7780

Holly 7901

Holly 8172-71

Holly 2176
FUR RUGS. FUR ROBES. FUR STORAGE AND RENOVATING MOUNTINGS OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS

COLBURNS TAXIDERMISTRY STUDIO

933-935 South Broadway
Tel. 643-13

Dr. W. I. Schuster

The Shoe Doctor

Holly 1352
6666 Hollywood Blvd.

Hours 2 to 5
Night Calls Accepted

H. W. WALL, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

Post Graduate Chicago and New York
Holly 102-82; 57288
6702 Hollywood Blvd.
The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry

PARAMOUNT NEWS
(Continued from Page 8)

Wilson, Noah Beery, Robert Edeson and Frank Currie. The invasion of the motion picture camera into the Basin, where the automobile, the telephone and other modern conveniences are still unknown, serves to prove to a finality that nothing escapes the cameras eye. Production Editor Lucian Hubbard announces that the company will return shortly to the studio.

Production starts June 11th on James Cruze’s next Paramount picture, “Ruggles of Red Gap,” now being adapted by Thomas Geraghty from the book by Harry Leon Wilson. This is a wonderful story. Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, states that it will be given a great cast for its screen interpretation. With the man who produced “The Covered Wagon” as director, this should develop into one of the season’s most unusual photo-plays. Ernest Torrence, who has gone to New York especially to see “The Mountebank,” the stage success from W. J. Locke’s novel which is to be adapted to the screen with Torrence in the featured role, will return to Hollywood in time to start work on “Ruggles of Red Gap.” Walter Woods will enter in the capacity of production editor for this picture.

Paramount stars who a few months ago hastened Eastward to take part in pictures being produced at the Famous Players are now telephoning to Hollywood one by one. Last week Antonio Moreno drifted back to the West Coast, but before he was able to make his first appearance on the Pacific Coast. In the very near future, it is announced, Bebe Daniels and Agnes Ayres will also return, both having been in New York for more than a month. With the return of these popular favorites and the signing of new faces by Jesse L. Lasky, activities at the West Coast Paramount studio are shortly to be in full swing again.

George P. Axelrod goes to New York this week to play a featured role in the forthcoming Sam Wood production, “His Children’s Children,” for Paramount. Simultaneously with his arrival in the East, announcement of a strong cast for this picture is to be made. Axelrod’s last photoplay in Hollywood was “Sally Jane,” in which he enacted a featured role.

The Paramount West Coast studio has moved to Guadalupe, California! Two hundred miles north of Los Angeles, Camp Cecil B. DeMille sprawls over a site which stretch along the shores of the Pacific Ocean. The famous producer has taken more than twenty five hundred players, nearly twice that number of domestic and wild animals, and an unbelievable amount of chariots, costumes, makeup and properties, to Guadalupe, where he is now engaged in making starting scenes for the Biblical prologue of his current Paramount production, “The Ten Commandments,” from the story by Jeanne McPherson.

Camp DeMille is a hivel of industry. A continual line of trucks passes between the tented city and a nearby town, bringing in food supplies and necessities and taking out thousands of feet of exposed negative that will later be developed and cut into proper sequences for what internally held will be the greatest motion picture ever made.

To care for emergencies, Mr. DeMille is running the camp on the order of an incorporated city. He is the Mayor, and in his absence he has a Chief of Police, a chief of Fire Department and other officials connected to the metropolitan setup. A system is being set up for the garbage, a hospital, restaurant and stores are other features of this surprising camp. In one thing alone is it lacking the usual, food and drink. Water is the only thing to drink. A hiker calls people to work and dismisses them in the evening. Otherwise, one mighn not know that he is not among the stars of DeMille, California, and spend his days in comfort, while amusing himself by watching the gigantic progress of “The Ten Commandments.”

The cast for Mr. DeMille’s production includes Theodore Roberts, Leatrice Joy, Richard Dix, Nita Naldi, Charles deRoche, Estelle Taylor, Rod La Rocque, Jane Faye, Neill, Edythe Chapman, Geno Corroda, Clarence Burton, George Field, John Randolph and Nobie Johnson.

“Children of Jazz” will be finished this week. This special Paramount production is an unusual cast, and stars Ricardo Cortez, Eileen Pency and Robert Cain, featured players; and Irene Dalton, Alice B. Francis, Frank Currier, Snitz Edwards and A. Edward Sutherland, cast in the Storm, and directing the picture with Ralph Block a production editor. Adapted by Beulah Marie Dix from the play by Harold Brighouse, it has as its central theme the clash of the modern children of jazz with a colony of islands people who still live and act the age of 1600.

The story is a novel story and is being given a superb treatment at the West Coast Paramount studio.

Nearing completion at the Famous Players-Lasky studio in Hollywood is Jack Holt’s current starring vehicle, “A Gentleman of Fashion.” This week in the exact replica of the famous old Waterloo Station, the terminal of the Great South-Western Railway in London, England, reproduced down to the signs on the walls and a pane of glass broken from a window, this set is a curiosity-arousing feature that speaks well for the technical artistry of the men.

When the final scenes are completed, production editor Walter Wood will put the picture into final shape for release.
"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"

OPPORTUNITY
(Continued from Page 8)

we have missed, we may be missing others that are crowding upon us.

We think we are the victims of blind chance, but often it is we who are blind, not chance.

The difference between the successful man and the failure, is that one saw his chance and took it.

The one time the Kaiser had the opportunity to use his power for the world's benefit, he used it to establish himself as the world's Dictator, and all he gained was exclusion in Amorongen.

The victorious Allies had the opportunity to reconstruct the government of an exhausted and devastated Europe, instead of which they constructed The Treaty of Versailles.

One afternoon a man on the race track was watching that he had just missed being a winner. A sententious race-goer remarked, "There are five more races, and there's a winner in every race."

It is well to know when to grasp the opportunity to speak; sometimes it is better to be silent.

We are told that "opportunity knocks once at every man's door," the fact is, it is always knocking but we are too pre-occupied to hear it.

We need wisdom to recognize our opportunity—and decision to grasp it.

BILL HART
(Continued from Page 7)

screen. Never in all Mr. Hart's career did his eyes carry a more overwhelming conviction of honesty than when he looked into mine and declared himself innocent. It came upon me then that if a great tragedy it was that he should suffer the penalties of guilt which I knew him to be innocent.

"Those who know him well have always believed him guiltless of the charges against him. My personal happiness that they have been proved groundless will be shared by hundreds of thousands. I am waiting the moment, which I hope will be within the next few days, when William S. Hart, one of America's greatest and most popular film stars, will come to me in my office and say, 'Mr. Lasky, I am ready to go to work.'"

A TECHNICAL MODEL

Did you ever count the number of "sub-titles" in a feature motion picture production? The average picture of lively action, well made, well edited and well titled, contains about two hundred and fifty. Pictures of a more subtle theme than action dramas often require many more. However, the rule is to use as few as possible, yet make the story clear that there will be no interest break caused by "thinking back" to get the meaning of scenes and situations.

"Judgement of the Storm," the first production made by the Palmer Photoplay Corporation, an organization of story experts, lives up to the reputation of its producers by being a model of technical perfection. Only one hundred and eighty subtitles are used! And while the action element in the picture is strong there is a great deal more of subtle emotional drama which, without such skillful handling, would have required many subtitles.
FROM U TO YOU

Two real western picture units are working at Universal City on condensed tales of the old West.

Francis Grandon is directing Jay Morley and Jay Marchant is directing Pete Morrison in such productions. Margaret Morris and Elinor Field are the leading women of the units.

Elinor Field, heroine of Reginald Denny’s starring successes, The Leather Pushers, is riding through the wild and wooly west for a few days between productions of the H. C. Witwer prize fight classics.

In a western picture he directed by Jay Marchant and starring Pete Morrison, entitled “Barin’ to Go,” she plays the feminine leading role. Other players are Jay Morley and Bud Osborne.

Herbert Rawlinson has again been cast in the role of an Englishman for his latest vehicle, “The Victor,” which is now being filmed at Universal City.

Edward Laemmle, whose direction of historical chapter plays won him considerable distinction and a new contract to direct feature plays for the Universal company, is guiding the making of the play.

Rawlinson recently finished work in “Railroaded,” a screen adaptation of the English crook dud, “Richard,” by Margaret Bry- ant. Edmund Mortimer directed it.

“The Victor” was adapted from “Two Bells for Pezusas,” by Gerald Beaumont.

Excellent progress is being made on the Universal Jewel all star special, “Harov,” in which Anna Q. Nilsson and J. Warren Kerrigan have the leading roles under the direction of Harry Warner. The picture is being made in the Garson studio in Edendale instead of Universal City.

The story by John Blackwood, prepared for the screen by three of the best known writers of the industry, Raymond L. Schroock, Lenore Coffee and John Goodrich, is laid chiefly in islands of the South Seas. Although a special production of the highest caliber, “Harov,” will be made in reasonable production time due to an efficient organization gathered together for this unit. Edgar Stein is the business manager.

Less than a month to go—

“The Hunchback of Notre Dame,” the elaborate million dollar film spectacle based on Victor Hugo’s story, which has been in production at Universal City for seven months, is nearing the final sequences of dramatic action.

The star, Lon Chaney, has but a few scenes to play now, but a few more hours of torture in the most intricate makeup ever devised by an actor. He plays Quasimodo, the hunchback.

Percy Poore Sheehan adapted the story to the screen and Edward T. Lowe prepared the continuity. Sheehan has been supervising production with Wallace Worsley as the director.

An attractive matching of personalities is to be seen on the sets at Universal City where Gladys Walton is working on her newest starring vehicle, “The Untamable.”

Opposite her is Malcolm McGregor, one of the screen’s most promising younger leading men, and in support are John Sain- polis and Elta Lee. There are only four characters in the story, which is full of concentred drama depicting the inner struggles of a “two-souled” woman.

The other players in the picture and the director, Herbert Blaue, have expressed the opinion that in this story the matching of these two is particularly fortunate.

Baby Peggy has changed her nationality.

The screen’s youngest star has become an Italian immigrant baby for her latest starring vehicle, “Wanted, A Home,” which is now being filmed at Universal City under the direction of King Baggot.

It was written by King Baggot and Raymond L. Schroock, head of the Universal City scenario department.

Others in the Baby Peggy cast are Gladys Brockwell, Shelly Lewis, Betty Francesco and William H. Tower.

“The Love Brand,” is the title of the new Stuart Paton picture, work on which has commenced at Universal City. Roy Holliday is to be featured, and a large cast will be used.

San Juan Capistrano, home of the quaint old mission of that name, is to be the set- ting for one of the H. C. Witwer “Leather Pushers” stories being filmed at Universal City. Reginald Denny and his company, with Harry Pollard, director, have returned from a week on location there, filming the action, outside of the prize fight, of an interesting episode.

New Edwards avers that there is more than one way of being a dashing member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police.

He says that it can be made a funny as well as a serious pastime and is proving it in his latest comedy at Universal City. He knows that it is funny, for he heard a proper man laugh during the filming of the first scenes.

The Universal laugh maker is working under the direction of William Watson. The story is a one reel travesty on the Northwest Mounted Police with the working title, “Red Riding Good.”

The comedy was written by Tommy Grey, head of the Universal comedy depart- ment.

WANTED--DIAMONDS

SIDNEY D. COHN

52 Bank of Italy Bldg.
Cor. Seventh and Olive Sts.

Professional Photographs

It Costs No More for Quality Photographs at "Los Angeles' Finest Theatre Studio" Trans Studio

We are professional photographers and have the best equipment for mak- ing Portraits—Publicity Photographs Special Studio Commercial work and Enlargements.

4039 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 2560

THE FIGHTS

drVerY rHday niGHT.

PH0Nes holly 100 for reExRasaTions. D O N T forgEt........

AMERICAN LEGION STADIUM

Hollywood at El Centro

SEE BRUNO

For Your Casting Director Photo

4142 Hollywood Boulevard

PHONE HOLLY 3821

Movie Actors and Actresses Wanted to investigate wonderful values in exquisite clothes.

M. a n y eastern wardrobes new to Los Angeles and filmed.

Evening Clothes—Sport Tans—Furs—

Hats—Shoes—Dresses—Wraps—

All Exclusive Styles.

1310 Lilac Terrace

(near 1460 Sunset)

Telephone Main 257
Announcing the establishment of new and larger headquarters at 1720 Hudson Ave.

where increased facilities will enable us to render the best taxi service in Hollywood.

Touring cars $2 per hour, limousines $2.50 per hour. Special rates on studio trips and touring.

SUNSET TAXI
Telephones: 578-280 578-307 575-52

And if you don't think it pays to advertise, ask me.

BOB THE BARBER.

BOB METZ
6772 Hollywood Boulevard

MADAME SEPTIMUS VALISTOKE COLOVOS  GEORGE D. COLOVOS

Character Leads—5 Years in Vaudeville

BOYLE 1260
G O W N S
WRAPS, FURS, HATS, SHOES
RIDING HABITS, AFTERNOON APPAREL, SUITS

In my home at 2006 Ivar Avenue, Hollywood, I sell the wardrobe of the most exquisitely dressed stars of the screen.

Would you like a stunning imported afternoon dress? Or an exquisite evening gown? Or perhaps a very distinctive sport costume? The character of garments you notice in exclusive, expensive shops?

It is possible for YOU to be as well dressed as any woman in your city!

You now have an opportunity to wear Parisian frocks with less strain on your purse than if you bought cheap, characterless clothes!

I am the only authorized studio wardrobe broker in Los Angeles, handling the entire output of one of the largest studios.

I also have frocks for little girls, many of which have never been worn, and others worn only to model in!

May I have the pleasure of showing you my selection?

Edah B. Arthur
Proprietress

Screen Stars Wardrobe Exchange

2006 Ivar Avenue, Hollywood Phone 435-677
ROY STEWART

IN

"Burning Words" at Tally's Theatre
The Direction of this shop is in capable hands. Through efficient management and time-proven methods we are enabled to render unexcelled service at reasonable prices. We buy, sell, rent and exchange all kinds of antiques. We have an unusually fine selection of rare oil paintings, old bronzes and statues, bric-a-brac and furniture of days gone by, that have transformed many a mediocre set into a thing of great beauty and distinction. We would consider it a pleasure to have you inspect them at your earliest convenience!

Foster's
Antique Shop

4534 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 598-030
Through The Editor's Megaphone

One thing is certain, there never will be any acute shortage of motion pictures so long as Hollywood may last.

And, remember ye also, he, the party, who "parties" to excess can depend on becoming an excess certain to be dispensed with eventually.

We all have our faults, of course, which also of course, makes it seem the very essence of prudence to confine one's fault-finding to one's self.

This is the golden age for the small independent in the picture-producing field. The film industry is due to be ruled by new kings and these new kings will hail from the ranks of the present-day smaller independents. Natural political evolution insures some such a transition as this since all things having to do with progress—temporary triumphs and failures—are extremely transitory.

It is being once more demonstrated that it is a common tendency among picture producers to emulate. Simultaneous with Mrs. Wallace Reid's announcement of her plan to produce an anti-narcotic photoplay, dozens of others started filming such pictures and now as a consequence even before her feature is ready for release there are at least a half dozen such films on the market and being exhibited throughout the country. And, so long as a producer is an imitator, he's a mighty poor excuse of a producer!

Incidentally, it might be added, after the kings have had their flings on the screen, the plebeians shall once more be given opportunity to monopolize the attention just as they do in real life and especially in European countries nowadays. Down deep in their hearts the majority of photoplay fans are far more interested in the romantic story of plain Bill Smith than they are in the intrigues of royalty. Bill Smith's the fellow they want to see every day while most of them would not go across the street to see and be snubbed by a king.

One of most important items of news thus far this film-eventful year is the announcement of the expenditure of fully three million dollars on the deal whereby Charles Ray will take possession of the Cosmosart Studios. Charlie's ambition is to convert this studio into the most beautiful one in the world and by taking full advantage of the unusually striking "lay o' the land," he expects to work scenic wonders such as will make his new picture home a show-place worthy of world-wide fame. Verily, the more of this sort of enterprise in Filmland the better and Mr. Ray deserves unstinted congratulations.

The success of "The Covered Wagon" has had a tendency to give fresh impetus to a "back-to-oldtime-melodrama" movement and it is unmistakably obvious that a very large public will welcome relief from boresome society pictures of which there has been a surplus during the last few months. Melodrama as we know it in these ultra-modern times is simply red-blooded drama with, perhaps, a little abnormal exaggeration, oftentimes improbable, but such form of literature has the power for causing human nerves to tingle and—who knows?—it may be that Prohibition has something to do with the apparent demand for such stimuli! At any rate, melodrama already is back into its own and its return is in no way unwelcome.

There is quite a controversy on—a friendly one—as to the justice of killing the two-reel comedy. Undoubtedly there are powerful forces at work to end the heyday of the short comedy subject in favor of the full-length feature mirth-provoker and many of the leading stars already have abandoned the old field for the new. However, we'll wager a cookie full o' raisins 'n nuts that there will never be a time when the market door can be closed on two-reelers which possess qualities conducive to hearty laughter. But, there IS the point—there must be something to amuse highly or else the comedy of any length shall cease!

Charlie Chaplin is about to complete his big feature. "Public Opinion," in which he will introduce Edna Purviance as a star. No one outside of his studio has seen any part of this film yet and no one knows how wonderful it might be as a cinema classic, but just the same, it's a foregone conclusion that a very vast majority of all the inhabitants of all fandom are wishing with all their might that Charlie will not permit whatever directorial genius he may possess to interfere with his genius for spreading joy as a comedy star. The loss of Chaplin's picturesque pictorial personality from the screen would be one of the most regrettable losses imaginable right now.

Weather conditions and money conditions are both favorable to a maximum production of motion pictures in Southern California just now.Everybody seems convinced the present wave of prosperity is sure to remain with us for at least two years. A vast majority of the people in the field are working and the liquidation of old debts is going on as it never did before. Most everybody (excepting occasional editors) can boast good clothes and good bank accounts. The spirit of distressful Panic is certainly broken. Few untoward contingencies could arise in this era to disconcert one. All in all, everything is lovely and the geese hang high. Therefore, again, all in all, why should there be any expressions of pessimism in any quarter? Why not forget all woes past or present, real or imaginary, and buckle right down to the game of solving the problem with earnest effort!
For Your Week End Homesite and Summer Home In
RAINBOW VALLEY
40 Minutes From Hollywood

All club privileges, including Tennis Courts, Swimming Pool, Club House, Children's Playground and all outdoor sports. Good hunting and fishing. Community Water Plant, Electricity and Graded and Graveled Streets to each lot.

All These Included in Purchase Price—LOTS $198, $298, $398—$10, $15, $20 DOWN and $10 PER MONTH.

All These Included in Purchase Price—LOTS $198, $298, $398,—$10, $15, $20 DOWN and $10 PER MONTH.

For further information, Call or Write RAINBOW VALLEY HEADQUARTERS
100 East Colorado
Glendale, Calif.

Phone Glendale 1702
Representatives Wanted for Hollywood.

King Tut Face Powder
Light and Dark Shades

We beg to announce this new face powder:

New shades especially appropriate for summer use that gives the much desired copper tint. It is the rage in Hollywood now and endorsed by movie stars.

A trial will convince you.

Price $1.00 the box, either by mail, or on sale at

Ye Rub Shoppe
621 W. 8th Street
Los Angeles, Calif.

MARTHA MARSHALL
LEADS INGENUES
SOCIETY PARTIS
Telephone 439-801
A Studio Building Climax is Capped

Now comes a climax in the unprecedented activities in the field of studio expansion development within this busy capital of motion pictures. For several weeks the newspapers have been filled with announcements of plans to enlarge various picture-making units and to build new ones, and a majority of the announcements have proven official. The actual proposed work has been accomplished or is in the course of being accomplished. Explicitly, Los Angeles' studio-building boom has been real—amazingly so—and when all this renewed zeal is spent itself, it is a foregone conclusion that available equipment for the making of motion pictures in this community is going to be something to marvel over.

Approximately three million dollars are being devoted to the latest development to be proposed—that of the Cosmosart Studio property recently purchased by Charles Ray and Albert A. Kidder, Jr., the legal adviser and general manager. The development and realization will be handled by a new corporation now being organized by Mr. Ray and his associates to be known as the Charles Ray Enterprises Corporation.

This sum, which is to be underwritten by one of the large bonding houses of the city, will completely transform this twenty-acre property in the heart of the north Wilshire district skirted by Beverly Boulevard for a mile and by First Street, Virgil Avenue and Juanita Avenue. From this area covering a space of more than two city blocks, it is promised, will evolve the most beautiful motion picture studio property in the country and an exclusive new shopping center. The developments look forward to the upbuilding of a commercial picture plant with a capacity of about a dozen independent producing units, besides affording greatly increased facilities for the two super-productions which Mr. Ray will make yearly.

The new Charles Ray Enterprises Corporation will concern itself with very extensive real estate development as well as working out the picturesque and ornate studio enterprise.

Among the buildings included in the plans are apartment houses and many business structures. Some of these will relate directly to the film industry, as they are expected to house subsidiary lines of trade which have grown up in Southern California in connection with motion pictures.

The line of the new Beverly Boulevard, which is to be a 190-foot driveway to the ocean, bisects a large triangular piece on the corner of the property. On this piece is to be erected a tall Class A business structure to be occupied almost entirely by one of the large costume companies and a studio furnishing company now negotiating for tenancy.

On the other corners of the tract spacious and ornate exclusive apartment houses will be built. One of these possibly will take on the dignity of a first-class tourist hotel.

The First Street frontage of the studio grounds, which is now being paved, will be devoted to a building to house a branch of one of the leading Los Angeles banks, and there will be numerous adjacent structures for stores. There is room in the spacious tract for a considerable number of dwellings which are a part of the general plan. These are to be erected by the corporation with a view to variety and beauty such as will give practical scenic scope to the studio's facilities for outdoor picture shots.

The development of the studio proper will be on a very extensive scale. The most important of the structures will be a new administration building designed to exceed in size and beauty anything of the kind in Southern California.

It is on the landscaping side that changes will be made most pleasing to the eye. The conformation of the twenty acres is such as to lend itself to elaboration of great beauty. They are to be made into what may be called a spacious sunken garden, with its natural lake skirted by paved drives and walks, spanned by bridges and dotted by green pathways.

On the bosom of the lake is to rest the Mayflower, most unique of scenic sets yet built, which cost $60,000 and is now at the present Charles Ray studio on Fleming Street, where it was used for scenes in the star's forthcoming production, "The Courtship of Myles Standish."

(Continued on Page 22)
San Francisco, Cal., June 4.—Louis Graf, President of the Graf Productions, and J. Hesser Walraven, publicity man of the organization, went to Los Angeles on Monday, and will be there a week on business connected with important developments for the company. While there they are making their headquarters at the Hollywood Hotel.

Charles Eyrton, general manager of the Famous Players-Lasky Studios, came to San Francisco last week to welcome his wife, Kathryn Williams, on her return from a tour of the Orient.

Al Wilkie, publicity man for Goldwyn, and at present attached to the company making "Greed" here, spent a few days last week in the South on business.

The picture-making expedition being sent around the world by the Intrepid Company of this city on a yacht has postponed their date of sailing until September first. Their complement of members is almost full, but a little more time is necessary for the installing of all the equipment on the boat, and completing all the many details of the arrangement for so long a voyage.

Ray Moore, head location man, and business manager for Goldwyn, spent several days in this neighborhood the first of last week, and went North on other business for the organization.

Tyrene Powers, accompanied by his wife, arrived in San Francisco last Friday, and after a few hours here went on to Los Angeles, where he will lead in a picture to be made by Goldwyn, called "The Day of Faith."

A picture-making outfit, headed by Emory Johnson, arrived in San Francisco last Friday, with the battleships of the Pacific Fleet, having taken pictures of the trip up the coast, and their arrival here. As the cameramen had the cooperation of all the naval officers, and the use of the searchlights of the battleships, they obtained some of the most remarkable pictures, both by day and night, ever taken of a naval fleet in motion. The picture-making party consisted of Emory Johnson, B. F. Miller, Ilichard Morris, and Roes Fisher. They left on Saturday evening for the South.

Last Saturday night before several thousand people, who overflowed the Greek Theatre at Berkeley, Margaret Anglin gave her long promised performance of Hippolytus. It was produced with great grandeur and with an artful approach as possible in modern times to the original Greek interpretation of the masterpiece. Boyd Irwin, an Australian actor, well known to the films, played Hippolytus.

Abraham Lehr, Vice-President of the Goldwyn Corporation, on his recent visit here talked over with Eric Von Stroheim the progress of "Greed," expressed himself as much delighted with what he has seen of the film at the studio, also with the glorious and helpful assistance that the city officials, civic organizations, and the people generally have given in San Francisco toward the making of the picture. The company worked all last week at the little house in Oakland, and are now completing the trans-bay sequence. After its completion the work of about half the cast will be finished, and they will be released.

Louis E. Lurie, San Francisco capitalist, whose operations in theatrical properties have extended over a number of years, will, on June 26th, assume control of the Century Theatre, and at once remodel it into one of the leading picture houses of the country. The theatre will be re-opened as a picture house under Lurie's personal direction.

Mrs. Wallace Reid, known to the screen as Dorothy Davenport, will come to San Francisco this week to appear in person at the world's premiere at the Century Theatre on June 9th, of the big dope film, "Huma Wreckage," of which she is the central figure.

Jean Hersholt, of the "Greed" cast, wa the guest of honor at a recent dinner by the Norden Society of this city. Hersholt is native of Denmark, and first came to this country as a member of the Danish Commission to the San Francisco expedition in 1911. As his coming to play in this picture is his first visit here since the close of the expedition, he has been warmly welcomed by large numbers of his countrymen who are residents, and many of them old friends.

Charles Ruggles, who has recently completed a picture with Agnes Ayres for the Famous Players-Lasky company, has come to town as a visiting star at the Alcazar Theatre, where he was once a well liked member of the stock company. He will be here eight weeks, with a new play each week, several of them dealing with the players' strike and their possibilities for Broadway next season. Last week they played "Oh, Boy," an old favorite, but this week will see a new comedy of pills and prescriptions called "The Nervous Wreck."

Victor Seastrom and the company filming "Masters of Men" for Goldwyn, are due in San Francisco about June 9th. While here they will shoot some English country scenes in the lanes on the beautiful estates of Burlinge and San Mateo.

E. K. Lincoln has returned from California with a print of his latest picture, "The Right of the Strongest."

Mae Murray is closing her New York apartment preparatory to her leaving for Hollywood, where she will start work at once on, "Conquest," and "Milo, Midnight."

Jesse Hampton is taking a vacation in New York.

The Assistant Directors Association of New York have moved their headquarters to the M. P. D. A., 231 West 55th Street, where all future meetings will be held.

Jawn Friend McKee, Raymond McKee's bridle bulldog, who is appearing before the camera in New York, paid "Laddie Boy," the first dog of the land, a visit at the White House last week. "Jawn Friend," and Ray were in Washington on location.

After an election unmarked by politics, Hat Crane was this week elected to the office of comptroller, on the ticket of the Green Room Club. Fred Burt was elected vice-president, George L. Sargent, copyist; J. Frank Stephens was elected angel. The new officers have taken their positions.

"Victims," a propaganda play on "dope" peddling, has been put into rehearsal for immediate production. C. W. DeRose wrote it.

The new Griffith film, "The White Rose," opened a four-week engagement this week at the Lyric Theatre and marked the return to the screen of Mae Marsh, after a long absence. The acting of Miss Marsh invests this film with a charm that causes it to be a delight. Her portrayal is easily the feature of the film and firmly establishes her as one of the foremost emotional actresses of today. Ivor Novello, the imported half-English screen Apollo, plays the boy. He is handsome to a fault and lacks the "pop" and fire of Bert Lytell or Richard Dix, who played similar roles in "The Christian," "The White Rose" is a melodrama. The plot moves slowly and carefully, being relieved now and then by bits of humor. The first-nighters liked it.

Gloria Swanson and George Fitzmaurice attended the Sixty Club Dance last week at the Plaza. Mrs. Murray, and her husband, with his new mustache, were also on "deck."

If members of the Producing Managers' Association, curtial production, as Arthur Hopkins and Arch Selwyn have publicly threatened, in earth of an actors' strike next year, the Equity members themselves will organize dramatic companies and give their own shows. At least that is the substance of the statement given out to Broadway. The plan is to raise large tents on vacant grounds and present the plays under canvass in case the actors have difficulty in obtaining theatres.

Ann Luther has been cast for a role in "The Governor's Lady," which William Fox is making from the famous Behclos play.

The Canarder, "Acquitanian," took away several well-known people in the theatrical world when she sailed Tuesday for Cherbourg and South Hampton. Dorothy Dalton, the Paramount picture star, was snapped by the photographers before the ship left. George Paul and his wife, Ouida Berger, left for Rome, where he will start direct Sir Hall Caine's "Eternal City." Wallace Eddinger, who has just completed a tour of the country in "Captain Applejack," and Mary Nash, also sailed.

Frank Keenan, who closed in Chicago his season of twelve weeks in "Peter Weston," (Continued on Page 22)
Photography Progress----Did It or Didn’t It?

By RAY H. LEEK

In the art or motion photography progress of the recent film of Preferred Pictures of that gripping romance of literature, the West and screen "The Virginian," for early June, approximately half a million dollars has been appropriated by the B. P. Shulberg organization to produce from the James Oliver Curwood story, an epochal picture that will serve to prove the actual forward strides of the screen art during the eight years that have elapsed since it first was portrayed before the camera. But, contrary to general belief, it is not expected to show that the improvement has had to do chiefly with photography, lighting and the other purely mechanical departments of photoplay making. Direction, action and the human element entering into them, productions have profited most from the experience of years, if the theory of the producers of the newest "Virginian" is correct.

The first surprise probably will be found in the fidelity with which the views of the author have been carried to the screen. William S. Hart attained his greatest stage success as the Virginian at an age slightly older forty-five. Dustin Farnum, the Virginian of the Paramount screen production, undertook the part at about the same age. But Wister spoke of his hero's age as ranging between twenty-four and twenty-eight during the period pictured in the story. A thorough canvas of the acting material on the West Coast and the East has resulted in the selection of Kenneth Harlan, at the age of twenty-eight to play the role in the new production.

Harlan, tall, athletic and strikingly American in appearance looks enough like the author's conception of the Virginian to have posed for the pen portrait. That he has played the part in four stock companies during his youthful stage career is an added coincidence rather than a reason for his selection for the part.

Tom Forman, who is to direct the picture, is combining the screen colony here for players to make up a cast in keeping with his project, while an entire staff of art directors are preparing the architectural and natural settings before which the story will be enacted.

David Belasco's Los Angeles stay promises to be an eventful one. In addition to "The Gold Diggers," in which he will have a supervisory interest, he will be given an opportunity to give the Belasco touch to one of his greatest productions, "The Boomerang," which Victor Schertzinger will film as soon as he completes direction of Jackie Coogan's latest picture.

Eve Unsell, who will work with the director, composer as scenarist throughout his latest series of productions, is preparing the screen version of the play, which is from the pen of those gifted literary partners, Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes.

The versatile Schertzinger, meanwhile, has added another duty to his many daily activities—that of supervising the erection of settings now being erected at the Shulberg studios for the production.

Advocates of motion picture-text books for the schools may find material for thought in the life story of Abraham Lincoln, now being filmed by the Rokett-Lincoln Film Company. If one is to accept the word of Cy Snyder, official purveyor of facts concerning the big production every scene is being shot in accordance with historical data in the hands of Director Phil Rosen and his staff of research workers. The story takes up the life of the Great Emancipator as a boy and carries it through to his assassination, said to be the longest role ever enacted for the screen.

"When a Man's a Man," a Harold Bell Wright story which is about to be filmed by Principal Pictures, has been prepared for the screen by Anees Leahy who has added one more accomplishment to her already long list of picture qualifications by so doing. Having served as a cutter, assistant director and research worker, Miss Leahy was acting (Continued on Page 22)
Essaying the Visualization of the Musical Classic

Charles Wakefield Cadman, eminent American opera and song composer, is composing a musical score for Goethe's "Faust" (not Gounod's opera story), simultaneously with the construction of the film script by Ferdinand Earle, the artist-director who will produce it.

Earle thus rests faith in American talent for the difficult task of resurrecting the ancient Gregorian Chant music, which he considers the fitting atmospheric vehicle to accompany his screen version of the medieval philosophical drama.

"Cadman's numbers are being written into the script, and the film will be directed with the structural requirements of the music in view," declares Earle.

"However, a distinctive experiment is to be tried whereby the tyranny of the 8 and 16 rhythmic measure will be more or less avoided. A new type of musical composition more closely fitted to the requirements of the varying tempo of screen drama will be solved."

"Pseudo music" is Ferdinand Earle's name for the new type of composition. He explains:

"This new music will have the relation of prose to metrical, rhymed poetry. That is a wider freedom and tonal plasticity and a more poignant response to sudden emotional visissitudes and modulations."

To prove this contention that the screen is to be the greatest medium of artistic and dramatic expression, Ferdinand Earle is constructing his entire script according to the laws of a sonata or symphony, thereby obtaining undreamed of unity.

In order that the musical score for Goethe's complete "Faust" will be as novel and radical as the rest of the production, the Earle studios in Hollywood are working on a new orchestra instrument to attain the supreme height of dramatic eloquence."

One novelty on which the composer Cadman and the artist Earle are working is a orchestral backdrop for an entire episode devoid of any hint of melody or figurative "a complex minor chord sustained until the dramatic action calls for a modulation (to instance into the major key), thereby creating a profound subconscious effect."

Another feature is the work to accompany certain scenes, in conjunction with the orchestra.

"Cadman's "Rubaiyat Rhapsody" and other orchestral pieces written for Ferdinand Earle's "The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam."

This is the first film of his recent series of the United States. They have also been published for the piano by a Boston music publisher.

Like the Rubaiyat music, the score for Earle's screen version of Goethe's complete "Faust" will constitute integral concert numbers, and will be published as well for the piano.

AN INTENDED MISTAKE

An amusing incident is related about the time when Carry Odell, well-known comedian and character artist, left the vaudeville stage and set out to launch himself actively in moving pictures. Finding it rather difficult to get an interview with different producers, Odell finally struck upon a novel idea. In his pocket he had the card of a popular film star. As he entered one of the studios in Hollywood he handed the card to the man at the door, asking for an interview with the producer. The card was taken to the film head and immediately Odell was allowed to enter his private office. As the producer recognized him as not being the man whose name was on the card he said: "Are you Mr. So and So?"

"Why no," replied the actor. "My name is Odell."

The card was shown to the actor who explained that he had sent the card in by mistake. However, he got his interview and, better than that, a good part in the producer's picture.

Virginia Brown Faire, one of the prettiest of the screen's leading women, has received numerous proposals of marriage, many of which have been from titled men, but she is still Miss in private as well as "real" life.

"Pai!" the educated canine who appears in "Ragged Lips," Viola Dana's new Metro picture, is the only dog in the world who can boast of two gold teeth.

WEIRD MUSIC TO MOTION PICTURE

Ferdinand Earle, American painter and poet who has been studying motion picture techniques for eight years, believes music can be an integral part with the pictorial art of the screen. Earle produced a film version of the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, a motion poem produced as a motion painting, which soon will be released. His second cinema opus, to which he has now devoted 18 months of research and preparation, will be the "Faust" of Goethe, with its wealth of human interest, its immortal love drama, and its medieval philosophy.

Here are the ways in which Ferdinand and Earle is treasuring music into his motion tapestry of drama and art:

1. Old Gregorian Chant revised by Charles Wakefield Cadman.
2. Musical score written into Earle's film script.
3. Motion picture scenario constructed on pianoforte of symphony.
4. A prose music, discarding conventional measures, for instant response to emotional changes on the screen.
5. Subconsciously emotional reactions obtained by orchestral background minus orchestra.
6. Choral work in conjunction with orchestra.
7. New orchestral instrument invented to obtain musical effects hitherto impossible.

Courage is our greatest asset—if we lose that we are in danger of losing everything.

Of all weaknesses the most dangerous is fear.

We need Courage to overcome the conviction that we are a failure.

Without Courage our success may be the first step to failure.

It requires Courage to face the charge of being a "piker" when we are only trying to live within our income.

The more we know of life the greater our need of Courage in facing its problems.

It requires Courage to marry, often greater Courage to remain single.

There are times when we must have Courage to walk alone, but, let us be sure we are in good company.

We cannot have too much Courage, if we know how to use it wisely.

There are times when we can help our fellow-men more with Courage than with sympathy.

Courage to do right will save us from fear of the consequence that makes cowards.

Constance Binney is going to be a June bride. The happy man in the case is a rich young Pittsburgh business man.

There was a man—In the olden times, who "Slew a lion, In a pit,

On a snowy day."

A great instance of the Courage that conquers. * * *

A great inspiration for us today. * * *

Courage does not fail at the fierceness of the opposition. * * *

Courage is not deterred by the disadvantage of the battle-ground. * * *

In the calendar of Courage there is no "weather permitting."
CAMERA'S WEEKLY WAKE-EM-UP

SPECIAL NEWS SECTION

SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1923

DIRECTOR WILL RUN SCHOOL OF ACTING

Hollywood is to have a school of motion picture acting conducted by a director now producing special photoplays for the largest companies in the industry.

This director is Rowland V. V., whose latest film is Booth Tarkington's Pulitzer Prize novel, "Alice Adams," and who has signed with Fox for making a series of specials. The first of these is to be a photoplay of Gouverneur Morris's short story, "You Can't Get Away With It."

Mr. Lee announced his project the Fox studios this week. Perhaps, his idea is the finding of actors and actresses of quality from the ranks of play-actresses. He believes he has not had the opportunity of using such abilities as they exist because the directors have not used these abilities through actual work before the camera. In the course of this training under the watchful eye of the most experienced directors his salaries would have been such as to carry them out of pocket before the camera. In the course of training under the watchful eye of the most experienced directors his salaries would have been such as to carry them far from his reach.

"Nothing is more natural than the human inclination to depend upon the tried and true," said R. Lee. "But it is obvious, as a matter of economy, that the salaries of actors and actresses must be increased to the point at which actual force is less than actual force among those aspiring to the stage."

"Nothing more important than the human inclination to depend upon the tried and true," said R. Lee. "But it is obvious, as a matter of economy, that the salaries of actors and actresses must be increased to the point at which actual force is less than actual force among those aspiring to the stage."

"Nothing is more natural than the human inclination to depend upon the tried and true," said R. Lee. "But it is obvious, as a matter of economy, that the salaries of actors and actresses must be increased to the point at which actual force is less than actual force among those aspiring to the stage."

"Nothing is more natural than the human inclination to depend upon the tried and true," said R. Lee. "But it is obvious, as a matter of economy, that the salaries of actors and actresses must be increased to the point at which actual force is less than actual force among those aspiring to the stage."

"Nothing is more natural than the human inclination to depend upon the tried and true," said R. Lee. "But it is obvious, as a matter of economy, that the salaries of actors and actresses must be increased to the point at which actual force is less than actual force among those aspiring to the stage."

"Nothing is more natural than the human inclination to depend upon the tried and true," said R. Lee. "But it is obvious, as a matter of economy, that the salaries of actors and actresses must be increased to the point at which actual force is less than actual force among those aspiring to the stage."

"Nothing is more natural than the human inclination to depend upon the tried and true," said R. Lee. "But it is obvious, as a matter of economy, that the salaries of actors and actresses must be increased to the point at which actual force is less than actual force among those aspiring to the stage."

"Nothing is more natural than the human inclination to depend upon the tried and true," said R. Lee. "But it is obvious, as a matter of economy, that the salaries of actors and actresses must be increased to the point at which actual force is less than actual force among those aspiring to the stage."

NEW FILM CONCERN GETS UNIVERSAL WELCOME

Within a very few hours after the first announcement of the organization of the Delbert E. Davenport Productions was published last week, the members of this new firm were given cause for renewed confidence in their venture as a result of not only the numerous congratulations received from well-wishers among the film-making companies and state's rights buyers with offers of handling whatever products the new firm might produce. It does not often occur that the release people seek the untired products advertised in advance as innovations; on the contrary, the rule is that the producer is compelled to sell the release.

The organization of Davenport Productions has been occasioned by the promise of a revolutionary change in professional technique in the forthcoming photoplay features to be made by the Davenport company, and it seems those who have looked at the offer relative to this phase of the venture were impressed so favorably by the promises that returned widespread comment on it.

There is no doubt the proposed attempts to prove that an improved technique is possible will be watched with the keenest interest since the matter of matters facing the industry is capable of standing on its own legs, so to speak, has been a subject for much discussion for the last several years.

It is understood that one of the foremost producers in the business at present, recently predicted that this new technique would come from some one not now prominent in the motion picture industry as a producer and W. E. Burroughs, general manager of the Delbert E. Davenport Productions, is most optimistic in his claims that Mr. Davenport's scheme in this regard will accomplish all that any one could expect in the way of perfecting the manner of presentation of literature as a comprehensive and memorable visualization.

It is the plan of the Davenport company to start actual production on the first of a series of six feature pictures within two or three weeks and an actress that will be selected for each story.

Winifred Dunn, Metro's 24-year-old scenario editor, has completed the first installment of "Held to Answer," by Peter Clark McFarlane. It will serve as the second of new series of all-star specials.

POPULAR ACTORS JOIN IN BIG REALTY DEAL

Courtenay Foote and Conway Tearle have become the latest screen celebrities to utilize the possibilities of Los Angeles real estate, and, after careful consideration, they have purchased the 80-acre H o w - clear property in Hollywood as being the greatest possibilities of all. This promises to be the principal building block in Hollywood history, as the City Planning Commission has decided to widen it to one hundred feet, the Pacific Electric having secured a franchise to operate street cars on it.

Messrs. Foote and Tearle have selected thirty-two acres just west of Sherman Way, part of it being an apricot orchard, which is now being subdivided into large residence and business footage.

PRE-WAR BASIS OF PROSPERITY IS BACK

William De Mille returned this week from New York City, where he has been engaged for the past six weeks in the cutting and editing of his latest production for Paramount, "Only Thirty-Eight," and co-operating with his scenarist, Clara Beranger, in the preparation of the script for his next picture, "Circling Magic," adapted from Edward Knoblock's stage success, "The Faun."

Of unusual interest to the film industry is the business report that was brought back by Mr. De Mille. In a statement issued from the Famous Players-Lasky studio, he said:

"The motion picture theatre represents largely the conditions of the other businesses and industries of the United States. With photoplays houses everywhere reporting a return to pre-war basis, signs of a good year to come are unmistakable."

Due to the enthusiastic reception of "Grumpy" and "Only Thirty-Eight" on the part of critics and audiences everywhere, Mr. De Mille is at present the cynosure of attention from directors and producers. He is distinctly the only person capable of deeming the photoplay with the deft touch of reality and human feeling. He is the only one who can de-paint even further from the beaten path of photoplay production. The unusually strong cast will take part in the picture. The starting date has been set for June 20.

Mr. Van Dyke has been engaged for the role of Leandre in the forthcoming photoplay production of "Scaramouche."

AUTHOR VIES WITH FILM STARS IN BUYING REALTY

Actors, actresses and other members of the motion picture profession who have been causing no little amount of notice within recent months in Hollywood because their large real estate investments are remarkably promising, have anything on Fred Kennedy Myton, the famous author of screen stories, who has just added to his string of real estate purchases with a beautiful bundlager of French architecture in West Hollywood. After his day's work at the United Studios, where he is preparing the continuity for Maurice Tourneur's forthcoming picture, Myton can be found putting around the yard of his new home, adding gravel to the drive, trimming hedges, fruit trees and otherwise beautifying the place.

MRS. REID STARTS DOPE WAR IN FRISCO

At the urgent request of the San Francisco Center Club, an organization of 2400 professional and club women, Mrs. Wallace Reid left here Thursday for San Francisco to launch her national crusade against "dope" in the Bay City.

A number of Los Angeles dramatic critics and others prominent in the industry went with her to attend the world premiere of "Human Wreckage," Mrs. Reid's anti-narcotic film which will play an engagement at the Century Theatre in San Francisco.

A committee of club women and Acting Mayor Ralph McLaren met Mrs. Reid at the train on Friday morning. They escort ed her to the city hall where a conference was held in regard to the local campaign to be launched.

The opening gun in the crusade was fired Friday afternoon when the Center Club gave a big tea in Mrs. Reid's honor at which she spoke. City and government officials and men and women prominent in the affairs of the city were present to meet the guest of honor.

She will make a brief talk at the Century Theatre, and on Tuesday she will speak at the Business and Professional Women's Club which has arranged a special luncheon in her honor.

The attendance of local dramatic critics at the premiere of "Human Wreckage" has been arranged in view of the interest both locally and nationally in this unusual film. The picture will be shown in Los Angeles in three weeks.
KIRKWOOD IS HURT IN RIDE ON A TRICK NAG

James Kirkwood has enjoyed a lengthy period of success on both the stage and the screen, but his heart lies back on the stage. He has returned to his career recently when he gave his horse the wrong cue and happened to fall. It was an accident that caused a broken leg.

The actor was on horseback, quietly standing guard over the herd, according to the action. The horse, which had been running in circles, suddenly threw its head and began herding him back into focus. The shouts of the men and the unusual behavior of the previously well-behaved animal frightened the herd. When the breaker broke into a run they all followed suit, choking down on Kirkwood, who was directly in their path.

Kirkwood, being an expert horseman, slapped his mount with the reins to get them out of their way, not knowing that the animal had been trained to fall and pretend to be dead when se struck.

True to its training, the horse bucked and threw Kirkwood.

Kirkwood did a flying broad jump over the animal's head, spraining his ankle and dragging his knees and shoulders as a result. A shout of terror arose from the director, but fortunately, Kirkwood was unharmed, and there was a genuine lull in the proceedings for a moment.

But the injury sustained by Kirkwood has forced him to take a temporary break from his stage commitments. It is not yet clear how long he will be out of action. However, the production is expected to continue without interruption.

VIOLA AND SISTER TO CO-PLAY AFTER DECADE

Viola Dana and Edna Flugrath, film stars who are sisters in real life, will be sisters on the screen when they star together at the Metro studio in Miss Dana's newest starring picture, "The Woman of the Decade," which is directed by Ria Weiman, who has a film of his own in production at the studio.

The picture will mark Miss Flugrath's return to the American screen after an absence of ten years, during which she has been featured in productions directed by such stars as Shaw, in England and other European countries. It is also the first time the sisters have appeared together on the screen in pictures. The studio has planned for them a series of pictures.

MURPHY WINS JUDGE'S HIGH PRAISE

Maurice Murphy, the eighteen-year-old film starlet, who recently completed an important child part in "The Self-Made Wife," for which he plays the part of the hero's millionaire son, has been declared a star by Judge Philip Field of the New York High Court. Murphy has appeared in such films as "The Eagle's Feather," Metro's new all-star special. It happened on location, 550 miles from the studio, where Edward Sloman was directing a big cattle stampede for this unusual story of the West. Although 4,000 steers appear in this stampede, luckily for Kirkwood, the accident occurred when only a couple of hundred of the cattle were being used for the close-up sequence.

The actor was on horseback, quietly standing guard over the herd, according to the action. The horse, which had been running in circles, suddenly threw its head and began herding him back into focus. The shouts of the men and the unusual behavior of the previously well-behaved animal frightened the herd. When the breaker broke into a run they all followed suit, choking down on Kirkwood, who was directly in their path.

Kirkwood, being an expert horseman, slapped his mount with the reins to get them out of their way, not knowing that the animal had been trained to fall and pretend to be dead when se struck.

True to its training, the horse bucked and threw Kirkwood.

Kirkwood did a flying broad jump over the animal's head, spraining his ankle and dragging his knees and shoulders as a result. A shout of terror arose from the director, but fortunately, Kirkwood was unharmed, and there was a genuine lull in the proceedings for a moment.

But the injury sustained by Kirkwood has forced him to take a temporary break from his stage commitments. It is not yet clear how long he will be out of action. However, the production is expected to continue without interruption.
YOUNG PHOTOGRAPHER IS WINNING RECOGNITION

J. Anthony Bruno, young and popular photographer in Hollywood, is celebrating the first anniversary of his present business this week.

Mr. Bruno came here from Boston three years ago to enter the motion picture business, which ambition he still cherishes. For two years he worked in various studios as cameraman and still photographer, also putting on the grease paint on many occasions when work in his regular line could not be secured. However, he grew tired of the uncertainties of getting steady employment with others and went into business for himself.

He was practically without funds when he opened his studio at 6412 Hollywood Boulevard, where he is still located and today he enjoys a big prosperous business from both the public and the motion picture profession, but he has succeeded in winning this recognition only after a hard struggle. He had many obstacles to surmount.

Mr. Bruno makes a specialty of making photographs of photographers for use in the offices of casting directors, he having made an exhaustive study of the requirements of those who select players from judging their photographs.

POLA STARTS HER 3RD FILM FOR PARAMOUNT

Production started this week at the Paramount West Coast Studio on Pola Negri's starring vehicle, "The Spanish Dancer," a Biograph-Langdon production which was adapted by June Mathis and Boulah Marie Dix from the book, "Don Caesar de Bazan." One of the strongest feature casts ever assembled will essay the principal roles in this story is the result of an extensive search and selecting of support, the opening scenes took place in a picturesque setting. Producer Brenon arranged a startling lighting scheme, with shadow effects that are said to be an innovation in the screen. Commenting on the picture, Mr. Brenon said: "The Spanish Dancer" should afford Miss Negri the greatest opportunity of her career. The selection of the heroine is the result of an exhaustive search for a vehicle befitting the genius of Paramount's great emotional actress. In my opinion that is the kind of picture the American people will love—high type of romantic drama. It will be a lavish spectacle of beauty and grace serving as a background for an inspiring theme."

EULALIE ENTERTAINS CAST AT NOVEL LUNCH

Eulalie Jensen, now enacting a featured part in George D. Baker's "The Magic Skin," recently entertained Director Wallace Worsley, Ernest Torrence and others of her associates in the production of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," in which screen classic she recently essayed an important role, with a gypsy luncheon. The affair was held at the Universal ranch, and Miss Jensen wore the costume of a gypsy street dancer such as she appears in in the big "U" special. The luncheon was served in the open from a company "chuck" wagon, but the food was especially prepared by a well-known firm of caterers.

Following the completion of her work in "The Magic Skin," Miss Jensen will rest a few days at Big Bear before resuming her activities at the studios.

MARILYN MILLER HERE WITH JACK FOR SUMMER

Jack Pickford and Marilyn Miller, his bride of almost a year, are today cozily settled in Hollywood bungalow for the summer.

Miss Miller arrived in the film colony recently, following the losing of "Sally," the famous Ziegfeld musical show in which he has been starring for several ears. She expects to remain in the West for several months, until the new Ziegfeld show in which she will star next season ready for rehearsal. Then she ill return to the East, probably to Atlantic City where in all likelihood the new footlight offerings will be given its try-out.

"While at Atlantic City," said Miss Miller, "I will be unable to take a film while on the coast, had hoped to co-star in Jack's one picture production this summer, but the terms of my new Ziegfeld contract prohibit my appearance on the screen." Jack Pickford is now preparing to launch a new picture, the making of which will undoubtedly take up most of the summer. The new story has not yet been given a title, but it is understood that it will be a Kentucky mountains picture of the type in which Jack has won acclaim.

Miss Miller expects to spend her time vacationing at the studio, the beaches and on extended motor trips.

FEELING OFFERS $1,000 FOR A PICTURE IDEA

Movie aspirants, attention those who may harbor an idea or a scenario. Jot it down on paper and send it to Charles R. Seeling, film producer in Hollywood. Mr. Seeling made a startling announcement this week when he stated that he would pay $1,000 for the best idea for a motion picture that is submitted to him during the next thirty days. He explains he doesn't want full-length screen stories, but simply good ideas for stories which can be successfully developed by his scenario staff into screen material.

He says the ideas submitted should be expressed in not more than two or three hundred words in explanation. Mr. Seeling's address is 6940 Sunset Boulevard, Hollywood, and his star is "Big Boy" Williams, who will appear in the film. He says the best idea submitted to him is developed.

The offer will close July 15, so you who would care to enter and reap the next little sum offered the winner, get busy and send in your ideas.

DAYS OF FINISHING

Cecil B. DeMille, one of the world's foremost producers, and Will H. Davis, former manager of his company, have announced to Hollywood that "The Ten Commandments" will be released in January, 1929.

The picture, which has been in production for more than a year, will be released in a special four-reel edition. The picture, which has been in production for more than a year, will be released in a special four-reel edition.

Henry is Progressing

John Henry, son of a well-known Boston family and heir to his father's millions, who recently came to Hollywood to make a name for himself in motion pictures, has finished his work in the current Lux picture, "A Gentleman of Leisure," starring Jack Holt, which Joseph Henckel is directing, and he is now being seriously considered for work in other forthcoming Lux pictures.

EULALIE ENTERTAINS CAST AT NOVEL LUNCH

Eulalie Jensen, now enacting a featured part in George D. Baker's "The Magic Skin," recently entertained Director Wallace Worsley, Ernest Torrence and others of her associates in the production of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," in which screen classic she recently essayed an important role, with a gypsy luncheon. The affair was held at the Universal ranch, and Miss Jensen wore the costume of a gypsy street dancer such as she appears in in the big "U" special. The luncheon was served in the open from a company "chuck" wagon, but the food was especially prepared by a well-known firm of caterers.

Following the completion of her work in "The Magic Skin," Miss Jensen will rest a few days at Big Bear before resuming her activities at the studios.
STUDIOS COMPETE WITH SCHOOLS, SAYS MARY

Motion picture studios in and around Los Angeles have, within the last few years, taken on the dignity of institutions of learning. In an article yesterday, Miss Mary Pickford, with leading colleges and schools of the country, according to the Daily News, says:

"Scarcely a week passes," she says, "but what students from our established university or other seat of learning, apply for admission to some one of the studios for the purpose of studying styles of architecture or modes of life and customs of some foreign country which is being conspicuously featured in a photoplay."

A group of students from the Architectural Department of the University of California spent a whole afternoon this week making sketches of Mary's set for the film, "The Thief of Bagdad," at the Pickford-Fairbanks Studios, and also preparing renderings of other districts as well as those now being constructed for Doug's new picture, "The Thief of Bagdad."

The Architectural Club of Los Angeles, also two hundred and fifty strong, descended upon the studio yesterday afternoon, and the university students had made their visit, and much valuable information was gathered, according to a letter of thanks from Lloyd Rally, secretary of the club.

The largest party to be accorded admission included more than two hundred "honor pupils" from the Pasadena high school.

In addition to this, requests have been made for permission to photograph the sets with stereoscopic cameras in order that the pictures obtained may be used in the instruction courses of the grade and high schools of Los Angeles.

All of which would seem to add a new dignity and a hitherto-exploited value to motion pictures.

Impears Early

Thomas H. Impears has made application for membership number one in the Southern California Jockey Club, according to Dick Ferris, equestrian impresario de luxe, who is the major domo of the syndicate of local financiers who are launching the new horse racing track at Culver City. Actual construction work is to commence at an early date, and many of the cinema celebrities are becoming stockholders in the enterprise.

Albert James, who has been business manager for the Jacques Tyrol Productions, Inc., for some time, has resigned his position.

RUPERT HUGHES RETURNS TO START NEW FILM

Rupert Hughes, author, composer and cineca director responsible for Saturday the King, his protracted Eastern trip. He came home via San Francisco, where he and Hughes met his wife, and they motored down the coast.

The author, whose ideas are always vivid and free from the least radical as to be subject to argument, has aroused a storm of controversy on this trip. His conversations about politics, music, art and women, and also about "Souls for Sale," his latest motion picture, have created more than a little flurry among critics and the press.

It is announced out at God's work that he will begin preparations for his next picture immediately, although the picture outline has not been announced. Rumor has it that he will do a film called "Law Against Law," which is about divorce, and should prove of exceptional interest under the Hughes handling.

MORANT COMPANY GETS REST DURING EDITING

The Milburn Morant Motion Picture Comedy Company who are making a series of eighteen two reel short comedies for the Architectural Digest, Inc., are taking a two weeks vacation while the first three comedies are being cut and anodized. Eddie Barry, one of the stars of the Morant Company, is taking a two weeks trip to Yellow Stone Park.

Milburn Morant is visiting San Francisco, his old home, which has he hasn't seen since the fire there.

Helen Kesler, the leading lady of the Milburn Morant Motion Picture Comedy Company, is taking a couple of weeks recreation with her folks. Joe Hams is not dead, he is only resting. He is staying at the hotel during his vacation in the cutting room, cutting the first three of the Morant Comedies.

Carew's Future Assured

After completing his work as Svengali in the Richard Walton Tully production of "Trilby," Arthur Edmund Carew is now negotiating with two different producers for leading character roles in forthcoming productions. It is interesting to note that before being cast for the role of Svengali, Carew concentrated his inquiries on other leading character roles, and most entirely on the straight, gaining but little recognition as a character artist. He has been here for some years, an earnest student of make-up and when he was offered the strong character of Svengali in "Trilby," he accepted without hesitation. His work in the picture has been of such high quality as to bring him the personal praise of both Mr. Tully and James Young, who is director of the picture. Svengali is to be continued without question the greatest work of Carew's screen career.

BACK FROM VAUDEVILLE FOR NEW FILM CONQUEST

Bert Howard, who has just finished his second consecutive season with the Orpheum Circuit, has decided to remain in Hollywood permanently and return to the screen, after his considerable experience in motion pictures, playing important character roles in the pictures of the classic of yesteryear, and in addition has written several successful photoplays which were produced by some of the larger picture companies. He will again start a double bombardment of the studios, as both as a vaudeville entertainer Howard was a first-class actor and enjoyed widespread popularity. He played titanic only, with Orpheum, Keith and other national circuits. It is his desire to duplicate this success in films, and toward this end he is working with Charles Mayer special and will have a carefully selected cast of real all-star calibers.

While no definite announcement has been made on the subject yet, it is understood that the title "Cape Cod Folks" is to be discarded in favor of "Women Who Wait" as the name of the picture. Interest in the making of this old New England classic as one of the biggest seen spectacles ever attempted in motion pictures will be greater than Mayer special and will have a carefully selected cast of real all-star calibers.

With Bernard McO城ville's screen version of "Cape Cod Folks" is to be released in November, and the directors are determined to have a well-cast edition. This is the fourth film to be made, and Mayer special and will have a carefully selected cast of real all-star calibers.

Having completed his screen work as Svengali in the Richard Walton Tully production of "Trilby," Arthur Edmund Carew is now negotiating with two different producers for leading character roles in forthcoming productions. It is interesting to note that before being cast for the role of Svengali, Carew concentrated his inquiries on other leading character roles, and most entirely on the straight, gaining but little recognition as a character artist. He has been here for some years, an earnest student of make-up and when he was offered the strong character of Svengali in "Trilby," he accepted without hesitation. His work in the picture has been of such high quality as to bring him the personal praise of both Mr. Tully and James Young, who is director of the picture. Svengali is to be continued without question the greatest work of Carew's screen career.

ALL-STAR CAST TO BE CHOSEN FOR YANK CLASSIC

With Bernard McO城ville's screen version of "Cape Cod Folks" is to be released in November, and the directors are determined to have a well-cast edition. This is the fourth film to be made, and Mayer special and will have a carefully selected cast of real all-star calibers.

Having completed his screen work as Svengali in the Richard Walton Tully production of "Trilby," Arthur Edmund Carew is now negotiating with two different producers for leading character roles in forthcoming productions. It is interesting to note that before being cast for the role of Svengali, Carew concentrated his inquiries on other leading character roles, and most entirely on the straight, gaining but little recognition as a character artist. He has been here for some years, an earnest student of make-up and when he was offered the strong character of Svengali in "Trilby," he accepted without hesitation. His work in the picture has been of such high quality as to bring him the personal praise of both Mr. Tully and James Young, who is director of the picture. Svengali is to be continued without question the greatest work of Carew's screen career.

Philippe to Aid Charity

Little Philippe de Lacy, who was rescued by a Red Cross nurse at Verdun during the World War, and later brought to America, is to act as one of the train stars at the Movietime show which is to be staged at the Ambassador hotel as part of the entertainment programme being presented Saturday by the American Legion for the benefit of the "war chest" of the Disabled Veteran of the World War. For the past year or so Little Philippe has been appearing in motion pictures and he has just finished the part of Mary Pickford's youngest brother in her current picture, "The Street Singer."

"Spring Magic" Soon

Wednesday, June 26, has been set as the starting date for William Deverell's next production for Paramount, "Spring Magic."

The title of the picture was adapted by Clara Beranger from Edward Strong's novel, "The Faun." Perhaps the strongest cast ever assembled for a William Deverell production is to take the leading roles in this production. The complete list will be ready for announcement next week.

In accordance with a plan expressed a long time ago, "Only a Shopgirl" was in the making, the C. B. Folk Series. It was completed and presented to Chicago working girl, and will send her to California to appear in a string of pictures. The girl name is Betty McDonald and was selected as the prettiest and most film type in the entire city and its outskirts districts from among thousands of girls who were considered for the opportunity.

When "Only a Shopgirl" was being made, C. B. Folk officials were so interested in the fact that employees were considered by Charles Mayer sufficiently interesting to be made the heroine of a play—a play which had been popular for a quarter of a century—that they see broadcast a notice to exchanges of the picture that if they would cooperate in selecting a girl, preferably a shopgirl, but positively a working girl, that girl would be given an opportunity for a screen career.

The request also had a two-fold idea behind it—the first to satisfy a longing for better things in some girl who had been in life to work in a shop as was the case with Mamie Moloney in "Only a Shopgirl;" the second an expression of ideas that has long been held by Joe Brandt and Jack Cohn of C. B. C.—the idea that one panacea for the ever-increasing salaries of present day stars is to create more and more stars to compete with them. There has been a belief on the part of many in the industry that if they can prove they do not need the present big stars, but can create in the public eye a new place for new stars, or for the generally all-around well-balanced cases, several of these not on the top rings will look around and realize they must meet certain demands, with the result that salaries will become more normal all around.
MARY COMPLETES FILM AND GOES ON VACATION
Mary Pickford's new costume production which is being made under the direction of Erast Lubitsch, is completed. At least, the final shots have been made and the film will go into the cutting and editing, although she will continue to supervise the cutting and editing.

To celebrate the event Doug and Mary yesterday set forth on a four-day vacation, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Case of New York, Maurice Cleary, Sally James Farnham, famed sculptress, Edward Knoblock and other close friends. They will camp on the beach somewhere between Los Angeles and Santa Monica as the hotel accommodations do not suit them; they are always in a building and in a city. The hotel has to be in a great location, secret, to avoid the eye of curious stargazers.

When the group reached the beach they found it deserted, and all the cast and directing and producing and professional and other celebrities all week long at their studio. Among those who have visited the演员s have been Joseph Schildkraut, the star of "Lillom" on the stage, who also played the male lead in Griffith's "Orphans of the Storm"; Theda Bara, and the Princess Borzage who with Charles Chaplin as escort, visited the studio early in the week.

A delegation of Chinese diplomats and statesmen was also entertained by Doug and Mary last Friday.

BORZAGE SELECTS TRIO TO PLAY ONE BIG ROLE
Director Frank Borzage, starting his new picture for Arthur H. Jacobs, has achieved something unusual by engaging three persons to play the same character at widely different ages, but with something which stumps them as the same identical person of the play.

"Usually such a trio of players are matched by camera craft, make-up and so forth," says Borzage, "but in this case we have found three distinct individuals to match our idea, in fact, it is with startling realism that we see them playing the same person on the screen."

He goes on to say: "We had a difficult time to find the players, but we found them - J. Franklyn Collier, Jr., for the grown lover, a principal part. Then we worked down to Frank Marshall, and he in turn suggested the use of our old friends and the best of the boys - Eddie Quillen as an old liar, our splendid little Bruce Guerin to do the baby boy role, mainly because he showed the closest adaptability of character."

The rest of the all-star cast includes Esther Ralston, Richard Barthelmess, Clive Brook, Joseph Schildkraut, Fredric March, Aggie Herring, J. Farrell MacDonald and others.

ROOSEVELT OF JAPAN DISCUSSES AMERICAN FILMS
Tatsumburo Yamamoto, wealthy Japanese coal importer, and film fan, who sides with Americans in the far East as "The Roosevelt of Japan," recently visited Los Angeles, where he saw the talkie, motion picture for the first time in his life.

Like the letter-carrier who spent his vacation by taking a walking tour, Mr. Yamamoto was eager to see the filming of "The Goddess," being made at the United Studios by 1st National.

"I choose to see "Thunder-gate,"" the Roosevelt of Japan said, "because I was curious to see how an American company would create such a picture, portraying Oriental life and characteristics."

"I was amazed at the magnitude of the "Thunder-gate" settings and the care that must have been taken to include details that one would expect to be typical of Japan."

Mr. Yamamoto arrived at the studio during the taking of scenes in a Chinese Inn. The setting was designed after a famous—or infamous—resort in Canton which is known to travel writers as a place that has been called the most disgraceful hangouts in Asia for the riff raff from all corners of China.

As soon as the Japanese visitor arrived on the stage where the picture is being taken, he immediately recognized the setting. "I have been in that Inn," he exclaimed. It was then explained to him that the setting was designed under the supervision of Theda Bara, and it spent many years of his life in China, and who designed the Inn from his recollections of the famous Canton district.

Mr. Yamamoto was accompanied by his wife. They are visiting the United States in connection with business and pleasure trip. Mr. Yamamoto who is one of the most influential business men of the Japanese Kingdom has spent considerable time in China and is familiar with every aspect of life in that country.

"Such a picture as "Thunder-gate," the Japanese declared, "will leave a wonderful reception wherever it is shown in the Orient. Both in China and Japan the majority of pictures are made on merchant lines."

We naturally like to see pictures laid in our own country. The film-stores in such cases, will do much to further popularize American pictures in my country." The Japanese are especially critical in regard to pictures showing Oriental life. The average pictures produced by ourselves seem to get the proper Oriental atmosphere into his pictures. If he has an idea of what he thinks the Orient should be, not as it really is. From what I can see it is as "Thunder-gate." The fact that the technical people are all men who are familiar with that part of the world, I can see that he will make a picture that will ring true in every detail."

""Chinese" is being filmed by First National on a most elaborate scale. Nothing is being overlooked to make it the finest picture portraying Oriental life that was ever made. Joseph De Grasse is directing it. Among the principal cast are Owen Moore, Sylvia Breamer, Tully Marshall, Virginia Brown Faive and Robert McKim.

FILM ANNOUCE WEDDING AT A PARTY
Miss Frances Primm, a charter member of the Reliable Photoplayers' Association, was hostess to a large number of members of the association a few nights ago at her home in Hollywood. The occasion being in honor of Voyre Hazen, well known film producer, who is going to Chicago shortly to launch his own producing company. The surprise of the evening came in the announcement that Voyre and Miss Lucille Simpson, that they have been married since May 31, none of the guests having previously heard of the wedding ceremony. Among these present were Sara Martin, Mrs. Constance O'Brien, Leon Luchinsky, Myrtle Stoezel, Virginia McCandless, William Hartigan, Ken Elise, Robert Lewis, Ted Beeber, Jack Norbeck, Robert Manning, George Lupie and others.
News and Gossip About the Moving Throng of Movieland

Griffin Joins Warners
Frank C. Griffin, recently a member of the Universal Players, has joined the Lasky scenario staff, has joined forces at the Warner Bros., where his brother, William, is now occupied as staff man on the "Little Johnny Jones" company, in which Johnny Hines is star, and Arthur Rossen is the director.

Shirley and Bernie to N. Y.
Shirley Mason is recovering rapidly from her recent major operation at the Good Samaritan Hospital. As soon as she is well enough, the clever little star and her talented director husband, Sydney S. Sherk, will hop the rattle for New York, where William Fox is entrusting Durning varied work from Pal, and has appeared before the recognition of his good work in the filming of Lincoln J. Carter's "The Eleventh Hour."

Valli Film Completed
Virginia Valli's latest starring vehicle, "The Lady of Quality," is nearing completion under the direction of Charles Healey and gives promise of being one of the most important pictures in which it has appeared since achieving stardom. Prominent among those supporting her in this picture is Joy Watson, Jr., ten-year-old film starlet, whose clever work before the camera is winning him fame.

Blue in "Harbor Bar"
Monte Blue has been cast by Associated Authors for the leading male role in Thompson Buchanan's screen adaptation of "The Harbor Bar," Peter B. Kyne's story of the coastal low "Richard the Lion Hearted" on the Authors production schedule. Monte has played the role of a sea captain in the new production, recently has appeared in 28 reel "Street Corpora tion in Broadway Rose," with Mae Murray, and with the two Gish sisters in "The Two Orphans of the Storm."

Joins Magazine Staff
E. Fred Franklin, formerly advertising manager of the Palmar Photoplay Corporation, has packed his brief case and departed for Hollywood to take the position of advertising director and business manager of The Story World, Hollywood's national magazine for writers. Before joining Palmar, Franklin was with the Palmar Photoplay Corporation in Chicago. Mr. Franklin spent four years in the national advertising agency held in Chicago. Mr. Franklin's place with the Palmar Corporation will be filled by Carroll B. Dotson, who was formerly Palmar representative in New York, before which he was with the Baton, Durstine and Osborne advertising agency.

Jane Starts Another
Jane Novak has begun work on her latest Chester Bennett Production, "The Lalilaby," from the story by Lilian Ducey, Chester Bennett is co-producer personally, and is assisted by Douglas Dawson. William Garwood is production manager, and MacKenzie is at the camera.

"Brass Bottle" in July
Maurice Tourneur's "The Brass Bottle," produced by M. C. Corporation, which organization has started filming a feature drama entitled, "The Barefoot Boy," this is to be the first of a series of six special productions to be made by Mission during the year. The cast engaged for the picture includes such well-known screen celebrities as John Bowars, Marjorie Daw, Laura La Plante, Fatty Arbuckle, Tom Murray, Marshall, Raymond Hatton, Otto Harlan and others.

Muriel With Comedian
Baby Muriel MacCormac, four-year-old film starlet, has been engaged by Clyde Cook, William Fox comedian, to play an important part in his latest film "Sing a Hello," which has been assigned to Baby Muriel after two other screen juveniles had failed to succeed in the role. One of the recent screen successes in which Baby Muriel has won a great amount of praise for her histrionic talents and clever mannerisms is "Poor Men's Wives," in which she was seen as one of the "heavenly twins."

Torrence Forges Ahead
David Torrence is running his famous brother, Ernest, a close race for stellar honors in the photoplay world. Within recent weeks David has been playing some of the most important roles of his career which gives every promise of bringing his name to the forefront soon. Of course, Ernest is by no means losing by his young brother's success in his work in many notable film plays, including "The Covered Wagon," establishing him in the hearts of the picture public as one of the screen's greatest character artists.

New Series Started
"So This Is Hollywood!" the first of B. C. Whatley's second series of "Fighting Blood" stories has just been completed at the F. B. O. studios under the direction of Mr. Whatley. George O'Hara and Mary Beth Milford head the all-star cast which includes Louise Lorraine, Albert Cook and Kit Guard.

Mack Writes for Cook
Willard Mack, actor and author of "Kick It," "Tiger Rose" and 28 other famous Broadway successes, has just completed a two-reel comedy in which Clyde Cook, famous Australian comedian, will be featured by Pro ducer Joseph M. Schenck. Clyde Cook is making his comedy at the Buster Keaton studio.

Filming in "Catalina"
James W. Horne has taken his company which is now filming "A Californian" for a number of scenes for the production. The cast of players in "Allomy" include Grace Darmon, Warner Baxter, Jackie Saunders, Ruby Miller, Clyde Fillmore, Herschell Mayall and many others of note.

Langdon Ready for Camera
Harry Langdon, one of the most popular vaudeville liners of the times, has closed his lifetime career and has just arrived in Los Angeles where he will make his home and enter the field of silent comedy. During a recent vaudeville engagement in Los Angeles, Langdon signed a contract with Sol Les- linger's Principal Pictures Corporation, covering the remaining years of his contract, and calling for the making of six feature comedies each year.

Old Trails Cross
Adam Hull Shirik, recently engaged as Scenario Editor and Publicity Director for the Grand Studio enterprises, including at present comedies by Monty Banks, Sid Smith and Joe Rock, and later to be augmented by another syndicate in both dramatic and comedy fields, was surprised to run across two actors who had years ago played opposite each other. He had written the libretto and lyrics and which Forrest Hartman produced at Idora Park, Oakland, Calif. These gentlemen were Larry Bowes and Jack Hender son. They had, in fact, been recalling the experiences of those days. Both Bowes and Henderson are talented comedi ans. One appears with Joe Rock, the other with Sid Smith productions. Stub Pollard, with Rock, was another who appeared in Shirik's plays for which Edward Gage wrote the music.

Preparing for "Ruggles"
Preparations for the start of James Wray's next Paramount production, "Regeneration of Red Gap," adapted by Thomas Gerachy from the book by Harry Leon Wilson, will be accelerated by Merced, and rapidly in New York, will return the first of next week to play a featured role.

Cannon With Warner
Raymond Cannon, who has just completed a role in "Mary of the Movies," a Willard production of life in Hollywood, has signed a contract with Warner Brothers by the terms of which he will undertake another of his enjoyable comedy characterizations in "The Printer's Devil." This comedy photoplay will be directed by William Beaudine and feature Wesley Barry.

Comes Another Star
"Doc" Soloman, all-round man has many reasons for walking on air this best. "Doc" has become the proud father of a future star. Pauline Francis, so the Warners have elevated him to the management of the transportation department, in addition to his duties as property depart ment superintendent. "Doc" derives his nickname from the fact that prior to the present prominence of the automobile, he was a veterinary surgeon.

Doty Scenarioizes "Gigi"
Douglas Z. Doty, Editor-in-Chief of the Advisory Bureau of the Los Angeles Photoplay Corporation, has added his name to a short story to his list of continuity versions and adaptations. Mr. Doty will be responsible for the continuity and adaptation of "Gigi," which stars little Dinkey Dean. Dinkey, like his predecessor, has his chance to star by playing with Charles Chaplin. He took an important supporting role in "The Pilgrim." Mr. Doty's screen writing career has been principally with Famous-Players Lasky.

Hiers is Homesick
Walter Hiers soon will return to Hollywood and the Lasky Stu dio. In a letter received this week from the comedy-star, he admitted a severe attack of "homesickness." Hiers left Los Angeles shortly after the completion of "Fair Week," in which he appeared opposite the leading role of Rob Wagner for Paramount, to make personal appearances in the West Coast, before which he has been in Toronto, Canada, and Minneapolis, Minn., where he is making appearances in connection with the showing of another of his starring pictures for Paramount, "Sixty Cents an Hour."
1,500 "EGYPTIANS" DELAY NOTED BISHOP

Bishop John J. Cantwell of the Catholic Diocese of Los Angeles explained Monday afternoon from ministering the rite of Confirmation at Santa Maria, Calif., had the unique experience of being delayed on his return trip by 1500 Egyptians and Chaldeans, "Israelite" bishops.

Two special trains arriving at Guadalupe, Calif., with players for Cecil B. de Mille's forthcoming filming version of "The Ten Commandments," checked for a while the dramatic and human regular passenger train to Los Angeles.

Learning of the purpose of the huge group, Bishop Cantwell decided to take a later train and drove four miles westward to a railway station where Bishop de Mille had built a huge camp as a base for the taking of exterior scenes before a reproduction of the city which Rameses II forced the Children of Israel to build. This forms a portion of the Biblical prologue which will relate practically the whole Book of Exodus, to the modern story evolved by Jeanie Macpherson.

"Mr. de Mille has a chance to make a great living, vital thing out of his Biblical prologue," said Bishop Cantwell.

"We have had Biblical films before, but unfortunately they have been largely of tableaux nature with but little real human interest. Mr. de Mille has recognized this.

"Mr. de Mille has a chance to make a great living, vital thing out of his Biblical prologue," said Bishop Cantwell.

"We have had Biblical films before, but unfortunately they have been largely of tableaux nature with but little real human interest. Mr. de Mille has recognized this."

HELEN ANNOYED TO GET BACK TO FILM WORK

Helen Chadwick wants to change an old axiom.

"All play and no work dulls the edge of pleasure.""

"All play and no work dulls the edge of pleasure.

After her happy one-month engagement for the first time in many months on the Goldwyn lot, she made a straightway for the camera of a well-known picture company. According to Miss Chadwick:

"Playing and resting is all very well for a short time, but after a while everything seems the same. I just can't begin to work soon enough. It's the contrast between play and work that brings real enjoyment."

SHORTER AND DIFFERENT PICTURES MORE NECESSARY THAN BIGGER AND Better ONES

Supplanting the time-worn phrase of "bigger and better pictures" comes Maurice Tourneur with the urge for shorter and different pictures.

That the industry needs pictures of not more than six reels in length can no longer be denied. It should offer different plot construction and handling of situations, is the contention of Mr. Tourneur, who, in conversation with M. C. Levee, has adopted a producing policy along these lines for their First National productions.

"We have had much of the cry for bigger and better pictures' during the past few years but what the industry needs today more than anything else are shorter and different pictures," said Mr. Tourneur.

"Many in the producing world have placed strong influence upon the word 'bigger.' They have indeed made bigger pictures of all sizes of sets, costage and in production costs. In short, they have applied the same methods of production in pictures which require more than bigness to make for success in pictures. This rush for physically big films has made many forget the two important items of story values, of logical plot construction and the general fundamentals which go to make successful screen entertainment.

"This trend of big productions has also brought about a same-ness of screen entertainment that must be overcome. What we need are those stories which may be indeed considered 'different'; novel treatment of such stories and productions not more than six reels in length.

"The Brats Bottle! I consider a sudden success, how they have come without losing any punch in it. The key to a perfect picture in eight reels I realize the importance of that feature which theatre owners can use to keep feature productions within the six-reel length.

"No producer can ignore this demand. Theatre owners want shorter feature productions so that they may give their patrons the type of program most popular with the public. With the longer feature production the theatre manager must sacrifice other features of entertainment on his program in order to turn out the number of shows every day that enable him to show a profit. This absence of other features causes dissatisfaction among patrons.

"With the growing demand of the exhibitor reaching a peak, producers must produce pictures that will have quick audience, the appearance on the screens of theatres throughout the country, of after-years, feature productions will soon be evident to the public.

"The realization of fewer pictures is now apparent. Every producer for the coming year has cut down the number of pictures he will release as compared to his output of the past year. This should force longer runs in the theatres of worthwhile attractions. I believe during the coming year, the leading theatres everywhere will go in for longer runs. The run of two and three weeks of pictures at a theatre will in time become looked upon rather than the exception and greater strides in this connection will be made the coming year than ever before.

"UNO VE HAF HERE VON LITTLE OF SCENE"

Ernst Lubitsch, who is directing Mary Pickford in "The Street Singer," seems to delight in love scenes. While placing people for a scene he will invariably ask, "Ve haf here a little of scene, yes?" In one such scene in this production, however, the lovers come to grief when Riene Raleigh, playing the part of the wife, finds her husband in the arms of another woman and immediately casts the lovers into the caste noot. Her revenge is slightly impaired nevertheless, for the two emerge from the water and proceed with their demonstrations of affection without the reach of the indignant wife, who looks on in unappreciable fury. Before coming to Hollywood and pictures Miss Raleigh was prominent in Chicago dramatic circles, playing leading roles in productions given for the benefit of disabled ex-service men. She was also with the old Essanay Film Company in the Windy City, but just for a short time. What success she has enjoyed she credited to Bertha L. Isles, well known theatrical producer of Chicago, from whom she received her early training in stage work. Miss Raleigh is considered to be one of the foremost of the younger character actresses in pictures and is expected to be versatile. Her best work has been done as an exponent of Spanish and Latin characters, especially in her role in the Pickford film.

ENID BENNETT TO PLAY LEAD IN "BAD MAN"

Enid Bennett is to play the leading female part in "The Bad Man," which is to be produced and directed by Edwin Carewe, who has recently signed with Holbrook Blinn in the featured role.

Miss Bennett was engaged to play the part after a most exhaustive search through film-dom for the actress best fitted, in appearance and experience, to enact the role of Miss Morgan Pelt, who forms the apex of a peculiarly typical situation in the film which is straightened out by "The Bad Man" in most approved fashion.

Although "The Bad Man" is essentially a comedy, it nevertheless rises at times to great dramatic heights, and at the acting of this type—the interpretation of intense drama and emotion—was installed on Miss Bennett's shoulders.

Few actresses now playing for the screen can approach in the interpretation of emotion picture patrons as Enid Bennett who has won favor in her portrayal of a variety of types in some of the screen's biggest productions.

She had an enviable stage career before deserting the legitimate for the silver sheet. On the stage she appeared both in America and abroad in support of Otis Skinner and later in support of Fred Niblo.

Miss Bennett has just completed playing the leading feminine role in "Captain Applejack," a Fred Niblo production and a comedy-drama which promises to be one of the best novelty pictures of the year.

One of her most recent successes was her portrayal of the part of "Naid Marion" in "Robin Hood," Douglas Fairbanks' fascinating action picture.

With the choice of a leading lady for "The Bad Man," Producer-Director Edwin Carewe may turn his attention to the assembling of the remainder of the all-star cast to interpret this highly entertaining stage success.

Production will begin about June 15.

Miss Leighton With Neilan

Lillian Leighton, well known character actress whose finely drawn interpretations had won her a place of distinction as far back as the "old Selig days," returns to the screen after a several months' illness in Marshall Neilan's latest production, "The Eternal Truth." Miss Neilan, who affords the comedy relief in this picture, is particularly remembered for her widely varied list of promotions. This includes the menacing, Boer widow in "Under the lash" and in支持 from "Is Matrimony a Failure?"
Who's Who and What's What in Filmland This Week

Making pictures on location has its advantages, as members of the Metro company now working on "The Eagle's Feather" are quite willing to testify. During the two weeks of their stay in the mountains of Oregon they had freshly caught trout every morning for breakfast, James Kirkwood and Louis Pepe, star of the picture, were in a contest as to who was the best angler.

Viola Dana has been shopping for a whole week in preparation of her role in "To Whom It May Concern," the contemporary production of her new series. In this picturization of Rita Wiley, Dana, company of 20 players, to more gowns than in any picture of her career.

George Siegmann, one of the best hated villains of the screen, who is appearing in the all-star cast of "The Eagle's Feather," is Metro's most elusive, "Half A Chance," the first three reel picture ever produced.

Rex Ingram, who is now directing a magnificent picturization of "Song to the Siren," for Metro, is learning the art of fancy diving from Malcolm McGregor, Metro featured player. Mr. McGregor was at one time the holder of the Metropolitan championship for low board fancy diving.

Now that spring has come, as the spring flowers bloom and the weather grows warmer, the Metro studio is preparing its new picture, "The Master of Man." The story is of a man who is left to take care of a small farm, but finds that he has a talent for it.

Ena Gregory has been engaged to play the Queen of Spain in Emile Charnier's production of "The Master of Man." She will appear in the film as the wife of Sam de Grasse, who plays the role of King Philip II, tyrannical monarch of Spain in the sixteenth century.

Katherine McGuire, one of the most popular stars of Metro, is engaged to play the leading female role in "The Master of Man." She will appear in the film as the wife of Sam de Grasse, who plays the role of King Philip II, tyrannical monarch of Spain in the sixteenth century.

Mahlon Hamilton is nearing the completion of his role opposite James Agney in the Metro picture, "The Fighting Soldier." He has been working on the picture for several weeks and is expected to finish it soon.

Arthur Rankin, who appeared in "The Fighting Soldier," is now vacationing at his home in Laurel Canyon.

James Woods Morrison has been named for the leading role in "The Unknown" under the direction of Roland West for fall release. Morrison has been featured in many important roles during the past few years but he has never before had the opportunity to display his dramatic ability in a role of this nature.

Alan Hale, well-known and popular actor, who scored a decided hit with his performance in "The Red Rooster," "The Covered Wagon" and other screen successes, is finishing his work in "Long Live the King," his biographic versatility that he will enjoy in the forthcoming special.

Vera Stedman, Jinnie Clemens, Florence Gilbert and Laura Larnie are supporting "Bull" Montana in "One-Wild Day," his current Hunt Stromberg-Metro comedy.

E. M. McDermott, who recently finished cutting Booth Tarkington's popular story, "Penrod and his Friends," is now working on "The Printer's Devil," starring Wesley Barry.

Frank Strayer, who has been appointed assistant director to Harry Beaumont, is directing "The Big Fighters," in which Hope Hampton, Wildham Standing, and Louise Fazenda head an elaborate cast.

Elizabeth Rhoades has been placed under contract by Sol Lesser productions, with which company she is now on location at Prescott, Arizona. She is playing the part of the mother in "A Man's Man."

Voyte H. Hazen, who has been serving as one of the assistants in the production of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," is preparing to leave for Chicago, where it is reported he is to direct and produce feature playdates.

The cowboys who appear in Metro's all-star production of "The Eagle's Feather" are uniting in an effort to teach the historic "The Cowboy's Lament" to Mary Alden, the featured player.

The Gold Diggers," Avery Hopwood's famous stage play, is now being produced under the direction of Harry Beaumont. Hope Hampton stars in the leading feminine role in the production.

Kenneth Gibson is nearing the completion of his role with Nora Talmina in "Purple Pride," produced under the direction of Frank Lloyd.

Clyde Fillmore is now playing one of the leading roles in "Alice in Wonderland," a Robertson-Cole all-star production being filmed under the able guidance of James Horne.

Muriel Frances Dana, the child star, is one of the few children in the pictures who plays a piano. Baby Muriel has been a student of music for the long period of three months. She is now four and one-half years of age.

Louise Lorraine, former member of Universal, has signed with Robertson-Cole to appear in C. C. Witwer's "Fighting Blood" series.

Mary Jane Sanderson has returned from a three-weeks trip to Catalina, where she spent her vacation with her mother and a half-dozen books.

Harry S. Northup left for San Francisco Wednesday to attend the premiere of Thos. H. Luce's anti-narcotic picture, "Human Wreckage," starring Mrs. Wallace Reid.

In "Human Wreckage," Mr. Northup is playing the part of the king of the dope ring, one of the strongest roles of all the 37 he has given to the screen.

Pierre Collings, who is now photographing "Allimony," seems to fall into good luck. He formally "shot "Daytime Wives" under the direction of Emile Chautard, and on his return home last night found that his cleaner, who had called for one suit the week before, had left two suits at the house, when making delivery. Collins called the cleaner and made the case clear. Collings now has only one clean suit.

The cowboys who appear in Metro's all-star production of "The Eagle's Feather" are uniting in an effort to teach the historic "The Cowboy's Lament" to Mary Alden, the featured player.
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, June 11

Cameral intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-860

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BERWILLA STUDIO</td>
<td>5821 Santa Monica Blvd. Ashton Dearholt, Pro. Mgr.</td>
<td>Holly</td>
<td>3130</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eddie Lyons Productions (Arrow release)</td>
<td>Eddie Lyons</td>
<td>Mccoll</td>
<td>Cooke</td>
<td>Ditz</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eugene De Rue</td>
<td>Bobby Dunn</td>
<td>Mccoll</td>
<td>Cooke</td>
<td>Ditz</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ben William Productions (Federated release)</td>
<td>J. Ince</td>
<td>The Washburns</td>
<td>Linden</td>
<td>Stevens</td>
<td>J. Turner</td>
<td>&quot;The Love Trap&quot;</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| BRENWOOD STUDIO | 4811 Fountain Ave. | 598-146 |
| CHAPLIN STUDIO | Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr. | 1416 La Brea Ave. | 4070 |
| Regent Film Company, (United Artists release) | Eddie Grady | Olga Purvine | Rollin Totherson | Eddie Burtutah | "Public Opinion" | 27th Week |
| CHOTING STUDIO | 6044 Sunset Blvd. | 439-764 |
| Sokolowski | Dorothy Devore | Nrophy | LaVell | Jas. Clemens | Conklin | 2-Reel Comedy | Editing |
| Underwood Productions. | John Gilbert | Don Short | Louis | Max Gold | Harvey Gates | "Snow Drift" | Preparing |
| Christopher Productions. | | | | | | | |
| Leslie T. Peacock Productions. | | | | | | | |

| FINE ARTS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 4500 Sunset Blvd. | 598-165 |
| Finis Fox Productions. (Asso. Exhibitors Release) | Finis Fox | All-Star | Londers | Van Ossell | Lois Zellner | "Tug and Baggage" | Preparing |
| Mission Film Co. Norman Walker, Business Mgr. | David Kirkland | All-Star | David Abel | Chas. Hamm | Wallace Clifton | "The Barefoot Boy" | Editing |
| Fred Caldwell Productions. | Fred Caldwell | All-Star | All-Star | Rouseville | "Hogan from Hollywood" | Preparing |
| Miss Mack Productions. (Western Pictures Exposition). | Floyd Jackman | Chas. Mack | Chas. Mack | "Beyond the Horizon" | Preparing |
| Jess Robbins Productions. (Vitaphone release) | Jess Robbins | E. Everett Horton | Roberts | Comedian Drama | Preparing |
| FOX STUDIO. | Arthur Forde. 1401 N. Western Ave. | Fred Kley, Studio Mgr. | Holly | 3000 |
| Friss Fox Productions. | John Marshall | Bronson | Wm. Hills | Mack | "Battlin' Buckaroo" | 4th Week |
| Jack Ford | Betty Grable | John Gilbert | Dooley | Paul | "Wild & Wooly" | 3rd Week |
| Dunlap | Chas Jones | | | | | |

| FRANCIS FORD STUDIO. 6040 Sunset Blvd. | 2632 |
| Rocky Mt. Productions. | Al J. Neils | Bill Patten | Morey Hughes | F. W. Raymond | Neils | "Battlin' Buckaroo" | 4th Week |
| GARSON STUDIOS. 1845 Glendale Blvd. | Wilshire | 81 |
| Metro Release. | Harry Garson | Nelson-Kerrigan Richardson | Cowan | Coffee | "Haven" | 7th Week |

| GOLDSTONE STUDIO. 1426 Beachwood Dr. | Philip Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release). | Paul Keyser | 761711 |
| Van Staff | All-Star | John | John Reynold | Eddie Smith | Mathis| "Creek" | 11th Week |
| Charles Brabin | All-Star | John | John Mack | A. L. Robe | Outda | "Six Days" | 12th Week |
| Newton | All-Star | David | Dave | Thomas Field | Lovett | "The Rendezvous" | 12th Week |
| Ted Brewster | Wm. | John | John | Fodo | Kavanagh | "The Day of Faith" | 4th Week |
| Geo. B. Baker | Wm. | John | John | Erald | Whittaker | "The Magic Skin" | 8th Week |
| Victor Beacham | Wm. | John | John | King | Erald | "Master Man" | 6th Week |
| Emmett Flynn | Wm. | John | John | Man | June Mathis | "In the Palace of the King" | 6th Week |
| Cosmo Productions. | George W. Hill | All-Star | Leroy Orcher | George Butcher | Frances Marion | "Daughter of Mother McGin" | 11th Week |

Camera!
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>GRAND STUDIO.</td>
<td>1438 Gower St. Ben Verscheiser, General Manager.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monte Banks Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sid Smith Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe Rock Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOLLWOOD STUDIOS. 6642 Santa Monica Blvd. J. Jasper, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richard Thomas Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Irving Cummings Productions. Charles Woolstenhulme, Production Manager.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supreme Art Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Childs, J. Hall</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INCE STUDIO. Horace Williams, Casting. Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr. Culver City</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palmer Photoplay Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cortland Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mrs. Wallace Reid Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trimm-McCloskey Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Murfin-McClarence Stronghead</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harney-All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WORLD EDUCATIONAL FILMS</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Elsa Allen</td>
<td>Baby Betty</td>
<td>Wm. Field</td>
<td>P. M. Abbey</td>
<td>Robinson</td>
<td>&quot;The Forty Niner&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WILLIAMSON B. C.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anchors-Armstrong</td>
<td>R. S. VanDyke</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INTERSTATE PICTURES CORPORATION. Jean Burt Calvert, Casting. Culver City, Calif.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J. B. Calvert Productions. J. H. Bernhard</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Frank Cameron</td>
<td>A. Belondi</td>
<td>Drama</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LASHY STUDIOS. L. M. Goodstadt, Casting. 1520 Vine St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paramount Pictures. (Famous Players-Lasky Release.)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Louis B. Mayer Productions. (Metro release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Preferred Pictures Corp. B. P. Schulberg, Gen. Mgr. (Al Lichtman Release)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tom Sobera</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>METRO STUDIO. Romaine and Cahuenga Ave. Harry Kerr, Casting.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oscar Apfel</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Harvey Shaw</td>
<td></td>
<td>Taylor</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rex Ingram Productions. (Metro release). Chester B. Reininger, All-Star.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hunt Strongberg Productions. (Metro Release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edward Slioman Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NEVA GERBER PRODUCTIONS. 6735 Holly Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor M. P. Corp. C. A. Willat, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 7100 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists Release.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R-C STUDIO. Melrose and Gower. 7830 Gower St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hal Roach Comedies (Pathes release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Villeponte Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McNamara-McKennon</td>
<td>Joan Lowder</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jenks-Pembroke Productions</td>
<td>Len Powers</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Palter-Charms</td>
<td>Len Powers</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Pulse of the Studios&quot; C AMER A1</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;The Street Singer&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;The Thief of Bagdad&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Little Out&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;She Suspe to Conquer&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;What Should a Girl Do?&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>6th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;One Reel Comedy&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Animal Comedy&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Universal Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Fred Datig</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Universal Film Manufacturing Co.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Richard Stanton</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. Parker</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ed. Beguick</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. Croft</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. Cunningham</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. Conley</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wallace Worsley</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Pollard</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stuart Paton</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ed. Laemmlle</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>King Baggett</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Watson</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. Duncan</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Herbert Flache</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Dinky Dean Productions

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Lew Lipton</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Andy Gump Productions

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Norman Taurose</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Jimmie Aubrey Productions

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>W. Hayes</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Vagittagor Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>W. S. Smith</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Warner Bros. Studios

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Arthur Rosson</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. Beudine</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harry Beaumont</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Harry Ralph Productions

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Wilnat Studio

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>H. W. Wall, M. D.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

Marion Warde

Acting and Make-Up for Stage and Motion Pictures

A Legitimate, Practical School of Results. Classical, Character, Ballet, and Step-Dancing.

423-4 Music Arts Bldg.

Phone 821-181

201 N. Broadway

Hours 2 to 5 - Night Calls Accepted

---

QUICK MONEY RELEASE!

Producers—Active or Prospective—Get in Touch with a LIVE One

H. and B. Film Company

Bronx Studio, 1745 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles

Distributor—Producers

Philips 4275

---

CAMERARIE

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Phil Rosen</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Curly-Broening</td>
<td>Al. Kelley</td>
<td>&quot;Life of Abraham Lincoln&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Ray Studio

ROCKETT-LINCOLN COMPANY.

Chas. Huber, Casting.

Holly 2176

RAY STUDIO.

Albert A. Kidder, Jr., Gen'l Mgr. 1425 Fleming St.

Holly 7945-6

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
<th>Manager</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>B. D. Russell</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Logan-Bayham Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tom Gibson</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Emel Del Lord</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sennett Studio

1712 Glendale Blvd.

Mack Sennett Comedies.

First National release.

F. Richard Jones

First National release.

Joe De Grasse

Sam. E. Rork Productions.

First National Comedies.

Jas. Vandress

First National Productions.

Jas. Wether

UNIVERSAL STUDIO.

Manager.

Louis B. Mayer Productions.

Clune’s Studio, 5360 Melrose Ave.

Fred Niblo

Frank Borzage Productions.

First National release.

Edwin Carewe Productions.

First National release.

Joseph M. Schenck Productions.

First National release.

Frank Lloyd

Sam. E. Rork Productions.

First National Productions.

Joe De Grasse

UNIVERSAL STUDIO.

Manager.

Louis B. Mayer Productions.

Clune’s Studio, 5360 Melrose Ave.

Fred Niblo

Frank Borzage Productions.

First National release.

Edwin Carewe Productions.

First National release.

Joseph M. Schenck Productions.

First National release.

Frank Lloyd

Sam. E. Rork Productions.

First National Productions.

Joe De Grasse

UNIVERSAL STUDIO.

Manager.

Louis B. Mayer Productions.

Clune’s Studio, 5360 Melrose Ave.

Fred Niblo

Frank Borzage Productions.

First National release.

Edwin Carewe Productions.

First National release.

Joseph M. Schenck Productions.

First National release.

Frank Lloyd

Sam. E. Rork Productions.

First National Productions.

Joe De Grasse

UNIVERSAL STUDIO.

Manager.

Louis B. Mayer Productions.

Clune’s Studio, 5360 Melrose Ave.

Fred Niblo

Frank Borzage Productions.

First National release.

Edwin Carewe Productions.

First National release.

Joseph M. Schenck Productions.

First National release.

Frank Lloyd

Sam. E. Rork Productions.

First National Productions.

Joe De Grasse

---

VITAGTAGOR STUDIOS.

1708 Talmadge.

W. S. Smith, Gen Mgr.

598131

---

WATTNER BROS. STUDIOS.

5842 Sunset Blvd.

Holly 4181

---

WARNER BROS. STUDIOS.

5842 Sunset Blvd.

Holly 4181

---

Dr. W. I. Schuster

---

H. W. WALL, M. D.

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

Post Graduate Chicago and New York

Holly 102-82; 57288; 602 Hollywood Blvd.
Director Bob Horner is happily—he's just made another find and this time it's none other than petite Martha May Voss. Martha hails from Huntington, West Va., and is some dancer. Recently she was engaged by Horner for a small part in his latest production, "The Virginian Outcast," featuring Marjorie Daw and Jack Perrin. So impressed was Horner with her splendid work that he immediately engaged her to do the ingenue in his production "Midnight Limited," which is under way.

It was during the filming of Sherwood MacDonald's circus picture, an old lady was tearfully telling the police, how she had been robbed of her purse when Crash! and all eyes turned. It was only Tiny Sandford, who had attempted to sit in a studio chair, but the chair refused to stand for him.

Tiny, who is doing the heavy, only weighs 300. "Not fat, just large," exclaimed Eddie Saunders, the assistant director, as he proceeded to bawl Tiny out for breaking up the props.

---

"CAMERA!"

WANT ADS

AVAILABLE NOW— Bell & Howell with complete studio equipment. Blaine Walker, 541 South Olive Street, Telephone Main 3746.

FOR SALE—Pomeranian puppies, six weeks old; one male, one female. Also two black, one male, one female. These are little beauties and pedigreed stock. Call 2901 June St., Phone 577-698.

FOR RENT—Bell & Howell camera, 120° shutter, full equipment, excellent condition. Phone 577-674.

FOR RENT—High-grade still outfits, $5.00 per week. Lottie, The Big, Photographer, 5874 Hollywood Boulevard. Phone 437-902.

FOR SALE—Erie camera, equipped complete for studio. Tanur, rare of "Camera!"

FOR SALE—To responsible party by week or longer, new Bell & Howell camera, 110° shutter, complete for studio. Also new Eastman No. 2 8x10 still camera with Gourz-Dager 3½ inch lens. Phone 594-506.

Much of the romance of the "old west" will be presented in Roy Stewart's latest picture, "The Love Brand," which is now in production at Universal City.

---

What Savings Mean

AN INCREASE in population without a corresponding increase in savings means decreased demand for labor and lower wages.

The dollars deposited in the Savings Department of this bank are not merely earning interest. In a vital way they are helping to insure lasting prosperity for Southern California.

Resources

60 Million Dollars

---

KWIK LUNCH

Serves you right

1626 Calistoga Ave.

---

The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry

---

Hugh Hoffman

Scenarist and Production Supervisor

Glady Walton unit, Universal

Current production, "The Untamable"

Herbert Blaché, Directing

Recent releases, "A Dangerous Game," "The Love Letter." "The Town Scandal"
“The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry”

FINDING “BEN HUR”

By Donald H. Clarke

During the past year many guesses have been made as to who will be the players in the picturization of General Lew Wallace’s “Ben Hur.” Few—if any—actors and actresses of note on stage or screen haven’t been mentioned for one role or another. Writers on motion picture subjects everywhere have picked their favorites; thousands of letters received by Robert B. McIntyre, casting director for Goldwyn, are sufficient proof of the great public interest. The pastime of home and study in the case of “Ben Hur,” brings up an interesting point, and one, apparently, that amateur casting directors seldom consider. It is this. Until the actor for the title role is finally selected, and the latest official word is that he hasn’t been, it is utterly impossible to pick any other players.

A moment’s thought is sufficient to show why this is so. The members of “Ben Hur’s” family must look something like him at least. If he is a strapping, dark complexioned chap, Tirzah his sister, cannot very well be a tall blonde and his direct opposite. On the other hand, Messala, the villain of the historic story, must be a contrast to “Ben Hur,” just as Iras, the “vampire” must be a foil for Esther, the gentle heroine.

Just as “Ben Hur” must have a personality that is at the same time romantic and noble, and a figure that denotes strength, so must Messala have an equipment of qualities that are the opposite, except in the matter of physique. There he must be able to contend with the hero. It would be as ridiculous to pick an actor for Messala that clearly was overshadowed in the physical prowess by “Ben Hur,” as it would be to select a “Ben Hur” that appeared delicate beside his foe.

Merely a suggestion of the problems that face the Goldwyn organization in the actual casting of this long anticipated photodrama has been given above. Work has been going forward for months in the preparation for final choice of the players, just as it has been on the continuity, the sets, and the plans for locale.

Many tests of leading—and available—players in the proving of the title role have been taken both at the Culver City studio and the New York offices. When decision is finally made, the rest of the task of casting will not be so difficult, as each candidate for the part suggests immediately to the trained eyes of the executives the particular group, or the particular type, of players with which he should be surrounded.

Your Phonograph

will reproduce in soft Mellow Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a Delexograph

Fits any Phonograph or Victrola

Using Changeable Needles

Play after hour—will not disturb.

Delexograph attaches to needle holder, filters sound oscillations, prevents scratch and surface noises entering sound box. No metallic noises.

YOUR PHONOGRAPH

$1.00

Gold Plate $3.50

Nickel Plate $1.00

VANTONE CO. Dept. 416

110 W. 19th St.
New York, N. Y.

HOOVER STUDIOS

The Finest Quality Professional Portraiture. All Sittings are Made by Appointment.

1616 Vine St. Phone Holly 9161

COLE BURN S TAXIDERMY STUDIO

933-935 South Broadway

Telephone 643-13

FUR RUGS. FUR ROBES. FUR STORAGE AND RENOVATING MOUNTINGS OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS

SUNSET TAXI

Touring Cars $2 Per Hour. Limousines $2.50 Per Hour.

Special Rates on Studio Trips and Touring

578-280 578-307 575-52
picture field and the reality development of one of the most valuable tracts in the entire city was brought about by W. H. Grant of the Grant & Campbell Co., after more than a year of labor with the complex factors involved.

J. E. Bowen, president of Cosmopolitan and an expert engineer, whose foresight in 1919 was the selection of this fine site, with its natural scenic advantages for picture-making, will probably be associated with the new Charles Ray Enterprises Corporation.

Charles W. Flack, a prominent attorney and former mayor of Macon, III., will probably be interested in the new company.

PASTOR IN ADDRESS HITS AT MODERN CONCEPTION OF MARRIAGE

That the lack of a proper sense of moral obligation between the contracting parties is one of the causes of the failure of many modern marriages is the opinion of Dr. Henry Neumann, Brooklyn, N. Y., pastor who is considered an authority on domestic questions throughout the states of the east.

Following a showing this week of the motion picture production "Brass" before an audience of clergymen and jurists, Dr. Neumann, who is head of the Brooklyn Ethical Society, discussed the novel, from which the picture is taken.

"Brass" presents in a striking way the reasons for the failure of so many marriages of today, Dr. Neumann declared.

"Most of the characters show their inability to understand the fact of obligation in a married life," he continued. "They are easy going and self-gratifying. Marriages are wrecked because persons entering that state try to cut off moral obligations to their partners.

"The book is called "Brass," because one of the characters said her wedding ring was not cold at all, but only brass, cheap and tawdry.

"How many marriages today are simply that? The moral responsibility and ethical obligation which are essential are lacking."

Instead of so much propaganda for birth control and more adequate divorce laws, Dr. Neumann said, "It would be more to the point if propagandists put their energies to the institution of the moral responsibility for the husband and wife, both before and after marriage."

Dr. Neumann said the present generation of young people is "trained as a race of sentimentals and emotionalists, for which marriage is certain to bring disillusionment."

"Marriage is not yet civilized," he continued.

"There is degeneration as well as progress. A single generation of capricious, undisciplined freedom may be sufficient to wipe out the spiritual gains of the centuries."

"It is quite right for a husband and wife to be scrupulous of their manners and appearance before marriage, but it is just as essential afterward. The author of "Brass" makes a point that inconstancy is not as bad in marriage as unkindness. The Chinese have a proverb that man more often stumbles over molehills than over mountains."
BERT HOWARD

Comedy Leads    Character Parts

Many years of big-time vaudeville on Orpheum, Keith and other circuits.

Have had motion picture experience, playing important parts in screen classics made by some of the first film companies.

NOW AVAILABLE!

Address care of Fred W. Fox, Advertising Manager, "Camera!" 6318 Hollywood Blvd.

.... also an adept scenarist Have written several successful motion picture stories. At present have some scenarios for disposal.......

...
FAN Pictures

Photographs made from original negatives are always better than reproductions.

We have a department for making photographs in large quantities and they cost no more than reproductions.

Our prices are no higher.
Our quality the best.
Stop in and see our samples.

Evans Studio

Lyman A. Pollard
6039 Hollywood Blvd.

Ruth A. Dowdall
Holly 2560
FINIS FOX, AUTHOR, DIRECTOR AND PRODUCER
NOW PRODUCING HIS FOURTH INDEPENDENT PICTURE
"BAG AND BAGGAGE," AT THE HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS
A Leading Role

In motion picture production is being enacted by this shop, and it is conceded to be without parallel in the scope of its service. The proper embellishment of a set is accomplished only through the most intensive study, and great care in the selection of appropriate furnishings. We are equipped to aid the most painstaking producer in the business. We buy, sell, rent and exchange.

Antique Furniture—Oil Paintings Bronzes — Statues — Bric-a-Brac

Make-Up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry

Our goal is not quantity. We are concentrating our efforts and resources to produce goods of extraordinary beauty and lasting quality. In so doing, however, we have employed the most modern and efficient manufacturing and merchandising methods, which enables us to sell at very low costs. We have attained our greatest renown as wigmakers, retaining in the preparation of hair goods all the fine details of the old wigmakers' art and blending these details with our modern facilities for rapid production. We believe that our greatest recommendation is found in this; we have been employed by some of the foremost producers and directors; we take great care and pride in our work; each and every one of our patrons must be satisfied.
The Editor Advances Some Opinions

Foreign competition in the raw film line is becoming quite pronounced. There is a veritable flood of a German product in the country at present and although many cameramen do not like the composition of this stock so well, it is perfectly apparent that there is a very active market for it. The best evidence of it is that American companies are showing more solicitude in the matter of "getting the business." Meanwhile, competition, so long as it is fair, is never a bad thing.

The inevitable movement of centralizing picture-making on the Pacific Coast. Many of our "steady home talent" who have been working back east for some time are returning to resume studio endeavors here. Simultaneously an almost unprecedented number of stage artists of note are joining our colony to both work in pictures and to enjoy vacations. It is more than ever a certainty that Los Angeles is destined to become as much of a mecca for members of the acting profession as li'l ol' New York. Nor will any set do more to make life lively in li'l young L. A.

Now that we have had our era of historical and costume photoplays, to what class shall the next era belong? Some say melodramas of the old-time sort with up-to-the-minute settings. Others say comedy dramas in which there is incentive for tears and mirth in equal quantities. Still others hold that baffling mystery is due to hold the screen for a while. However, let them all be right in their predictions just so long as one fact remains conceded—the story must be human and of general interest. Whoever can write stories which ring true from the human angle need not worry about trying to write masterpieces.

During the last fortnight there has been just the slightest lull in production activities due principally to a quite general finishing up of big productions at various studios, but it is already patent this little lull is to be followed by even augmented activities. Some of the biggest pictures of all times have just been started or are about to be, including Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" and Douglas Fairbanks' "The Thief of Bagdad." These two productions alone will give more people employment for a longer period than an average dozen films and there is certainly no occasion for any panic feeling in any quarter.

Whatever may happen to the program picture, it is just as well. The public has reached that stage of natural fastidiousness where seeing the same old thing in the same old way has ceased to be bearable and therefore it is necessary to develop the bigger and better pictures. But, as of the more conservative producers are pointing out, "bigger and better" is not a term synonymous to "costlier." It happens all too often that it takes more money to make a good photoplay. Now, above all times, is the time for genius to assert itself and to make its influence felt irrespective of the personal financial status. Verily, it is a healthy condition the elimination of the machine-made program picture brings about and one from which much good in behalf of the cinema art is sure to be derived.

It is said that eastern and mid-western picture theatres are doing a better business right now at the outset of the warm season than they did last winter at the height of the season. It is noticeable that as the army of unemployed dwindles, the attendance at all classes of theatres increases and in these times of "the heyday of the movies," the cinema emporiums are getting the bulk of the increase. It is all very important since business conditions seem certain to justify the mid-summer release of many pictures which ordinarily would be held for fall showings. The importance of this is, there will have to be more photoplays made to fill the gap next fall and the more photoplays they make the more prosperous everybody in filmland will be. So let the merry tendency go on merrily.

Some of the big producers are once more discussing the feasibility of having stories written especially for the screen. It would seem that the "re-hashing" of old published material and of unsuccessful stage plays cannot continue indefinitely. Therefore, it would undoubtedly be a fine thing to make immediate preparations for supplying the inevitable dearth by listening to the reasoning of advocates of the original story. It is to be sincerely hoped that some one big producer will take the initiative in starting the ball rolling in the right direction by abandoning all other stories excepting original screen ones just as soon as many of them abandoned the latter class some time ago. There can be no questioning the fact that there will never be a distinct screen literature unless it is especially written as such and with the idea of it living. So here's repetition of an oft-expressed hope—may the original come into its own after all!

The fad and fashion for chasing the false gods of alleged exploitation as a means for "putting across" inferior pictures cannot be eliminated by a mere ignoring or a nonchalant assuming that no harm is done thereby. As a matter of fact, exploitation in some cases is the most dangerous enemy the motion picture industry as a whole has and it is high time that the common habit of employing the whole category of such attitudes should be stopped. The "greatest" picture of all history has been made so many times that it has long since become most monotonous. The "greatest" cast has been assembled so many times that it has ceased to be the least bit alluring. The "greatest" book ever written has been picturized so many times that there are hundreds of them. Need there be any more of the modern manner of exploiting motion pictures? Why not, instead, a simple, straightforward presentation of the facts concerning each production? Would it help Wrigley one iota to call his chewing gum the greatest confection ever made since the creation of the world?
For Your Week End Homesite and Summer Home in Rainbow Valley
40 Minutes from Hollywood
Smallest lot 40 ft. x 100 ft.
All club privileges, including Tennis Courts, Swimming Pool, Club House, Children's Playground and all outdoor sports. Good hunting and fishing. Community Water Plant, Electricity and graded and graveled streets to each lot.
All these included in purchase price—LOTS $198, $298, $398,—$10, $15, $20 down and $10 per month.
From Glendale—through Montrose, along Michigan Ave. to Tujunga, Sunland, RAINBOW VALLEY.
For further information, call or write office of
Rainbow Valley
100 East Colorado Glendale, Calif.
Phone Glendale 1702
Representatives wanted in Hollywood

King Tut Face Powder
Light and Dark Shades
We beg to announce this new face powder:
New shades especially appropriate for summer use that gives the much desired copper tint. It is the rage in Hollywood now and endorsed by movie stars.
A trial will convince you.
Price $1.00 the box, either by mail, or on sale at

Ye Rub Shoppe
621 W. 8th Street Los Angeles, Calif.

GOLDIE FESSENDEN
Dramatic Leads—Vamp Roles—Classical Dancer
438-641

MARGUERITE LA MONT
Dramatic and Emotional Parts
Nine Years on Legitimate Stage
Vermont 5780
The Artistic Counterpart of Bonaparte

It is more than passing strange and indeed unusually interesting how a certain line of arts will pursue an artist. The case of William Humphrey, now portraying the role of Chevalier de Chabbrillane in R. Inrant's production of "Scaramouche" at the Metro Studios, is extraordinary inasmuch as he has played one single character in no less than a score of different stage plays and photoplays during his brilliant histrionic career. And, that character is none other than Napoleon. In fact, he has characterized this famous personage more times in more productions than any other living actor and he has not finished with him yet, for he is now writing a Napoleonic photo-drama in which he will play the stellar role when it is produced by one of several film concerns he is present negotiating for it.

During the last fifteen years every time anybody presented a play in which Napoleon was an important character, William Humphrey has always been selected to play it, perhaps his most noteworthy appearance in his part was in the stage offering of "More Than Queen," in which he supported both Julia Arthur and Blanche Walsh, but due to his remarkable performance was later starred in the piece. Almost equally as notable was his Napoleonic interpretation in "Mme. Sans Gene," in which he so distinguished himself as to be hailed by critics as "the very reincarnation of Napoleon himself seemingly."

Other highlights in Mr. Humphrey's artistic revival of interest in the Little Corporal were in "Mlle. Mars," in which he created the role in Mrs. Langtry's American presentation after Lewis Waller had originated it in the London engagement, and with Mary Manning in "Glorious Betsy." Still another one of his stage appearances as this same great military genius was in "Imperial Divorce."

Little less active has Mr. Humphrey been as same Napoleon in the motion picture screen. He has "Napoleonized" for the entretainment of movie fans in fully a dozen different photoplays and whenever there is a picture in which this historical celebrity figure seems producers never conside anybody else but William Humphrey. Many think his best performance on the screen was in this role in the very first three-reel picture ever made by Vitagraph quite a few years ago.

According to all the available paintings of Napoleon, Mr. Humphrey is, physically, almost his exact counterpart. He looks at least enough like him to be a brother and for many years he has studied every book on the man and every pictorial illustration of him until he has acquired as a matter of second-nature all of his known mannerisms even to his way of standing or sitting.

"Years ago when it became apparent to me that I was destined to essay characterizing the great Napoleon indefinitely, I began a most assiduous study of the man," Mr. Humphrey says. "And, I've been at it ever since I have gotten so filled up with information regarding him and ideas I have formed from that information that I simply had to write as an outlet for the vast store, which explains why I am devoting all of my spare time to writing a Napoleonic story for picture screen."

Although Mr. Humphrey is best known on the West Coast as an actor, he is also a director of very wide experience, having been behind the megaphone in the making of several important picture features.

WILLIAM HUMPHREY

There Are Directors--And Directors

For whom does the motion picture director really work? Directors of films have been classified as "commercial" or as "artistic."

So familiar has the public become with the pictures of today that thousands of picturegoers can look at a film and immediately tell you who directed it.

One man is noted for his human treatment, one for pathos, others for comedy, a few for spectacular scenes, two or three for the masterly handling of children, one or two for daring treatment bordering on, if not quite, risque, some for individual and original touches, some for rapidity of action or smoothness of sequences. Some are noted for gorgeous settings, jazz sequences, mob scenes and a very few for appealing simplicity.

Yet all of these shades of directing can be turned into two separate and distinct classes — "commercial," or "artistic."

Box office history tells us that commercial pictures are the financial successes and that simplicity is the best quantity that can be injected into a film. The pictures which have really become the milestones of picture progress are the stories of human emotions, told simply and in a human manner.

The great "artistic" pictures have not been financial successes from the reason that all else has been relegated to the back ground in an effort to create "art."

Few picture-makers understand that art is not merely artistic effects; art is just as real in homely background as in the grandeur of the most splendid scenes. Art must be in acting as well as in pictorial effects. Americans, on the general average, are not strong for things overly artistic, they want to be entertained.

But if you can entertain them in an artistic manner without detracting from the strength of the story they will appreciate it to the extent that they will help to make box office history by their attendance of picture shows.

By this simple reasoning it must be ded-ucted that directors are working for the general picture-going public rather than for producers, releasing organizations or for any certain class.

With this idea in mind First National's own producing unit has purchased a limited number of the very best stories of the year. Stories which can be transcribed to the screen in a beautiful manner yet retaining all the dramatic strength of the original vehicle.

Flashes from Frisco

By AGNES KERR CRAWFORD

San Francisco, Cal., May 11.—Victor Sjöström, the great Swedish director now making his first picture for Goldwyn, "Masters of Men," and some twenty-five members of his cast and staff, arrived in San Francisco on Monday. They will work for a week or ten days at Half Moon Bay, and on location near Burlingame, and San Mateo. The cast includes Joseph Schlickraut, Creighton Hale, De Witt C. Jennings, and Patsy Ruth Miller. James Hogan is production manager, and came to town several days ahead of the company.

If a Snow, who made the now famous "Hunting Big Game in Africa" picture, will leave in the very near future for a return trip to Africa. They will on this expedition go farther into the interior, and expect to make even bigger and better animal pictures, also to bring back to this country a whole ship load of live animals, for zoos, and public exhibition purposes. His son, Sidney Smith, will be cameraman with the party.

Albert Wilkie, who has been doing the publicity for Eric Von Stoehheim's production of "Greed," has resigned his position with Goldwyn, and left San Francisco on Sunday for the South, to accept a very flattering offer from the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. Fitz Tilden, of this city, will take his place with the "Gold" company.

Jack Holt spent most of last week in San Francisco, and returned to the South on Sunday.

Chester Conklin, Mother Ashton, little Austin Jewel, and the twins have all finished their parts in the production of "Greed," and have left for their homes in the South within the last few days. The big picnic sequence is being shot this week, and on its completion one or two other members of the cast will be released. Mrs. Jean Herriot, and little son Allen, have arrived to be with Jean during the balance of his stay here.

Something really new in the way of moving pictures had its world's Premiere at the Civic Auditorium on June 15th. It was "Frante Sole," the first moving picture opera that America has ever seen; a picture with an opera score played and sung while the action takes place on the screen. The picture is built on the life of Saint Francis of Assisi, and the story is from the pen of Marie Corel, well known screen dramatist of Rome. It was produced under the direction of Ego Falena, in Rome and in the actual scenes where At. Francis lived and moved. The musical score was written by Luigi Mancinelli and was rendered by an orchestra of eighty musicians, with twenty-four soloists, and fifty voices in the chorus, directed by Alexander Slavisky. The whole production will be given on the very highest scale of artistic performance, and is being taken care of by more experienced personnel than ever.

After the run of the picture here it will go to the Auditorium at Los Angeles.

Oakland is to have a very grand fete and pageant the latter part of this month, and the first of July, on the lake at Lake Merritt. Harry Reed, the famous and well-known picture writer of the movie world, is the director, and among other things a moving picture will be made in connection with the pageant. The shores of Lake Merritt will be transformed into the "Island of Oz," and our old friends the scarecrow, the tin woodman and all their companions will be there assisted by a company of some five hundred people. Richard Melvick, well known to the silver-screen as a daring wild west and trick rider, and his three wonder-fully trained horses will be a part of the show, and altogether it promises to be quite a party.

"The pair of Hellions," first picture made by the Stereoscopic Productions, was previewed at the Civic Auditorium in Oakland last week to an audience that seemed to enjoy it very much. The next picture of the company will be started at the Pacific Studios next week.

The world's premiere of Mrs. Wallace Reid's picture "Human Wreckage" took place at the Century Theatre here last Saturday night. The picture is not only a wonderful lesson, but a well played, and really interesting picture. Mrs. Reid came to San Francisco for the screening and made a personal appearance, and a very dignified and appealing little speech.

Thomas Ince and his wife were in town over the weekend to be present at the first public showing performance of "Human Wreckage."

Edward Johnson of the film world of Hollywood is in San Francisco just for a little holiday, and change of air.

Fritz Ridgeway is the headliner at the Orpheum this week in a novelty, called "A Wife's Honor." It is played in three reels and given an effect of a picture with every thing on the stage in black and white, and shutter lighting.

Along New York's Rialto

By RAYMOND McKEE

Sophie Tucker has purchased a home in Los Angeles.

"Human Wreckage," the anti-narcotic photo-drama, with Mrs. Wallace Reid, distributed by the Film Booking Offices, opens in New York at the Lyric Theatre following the run of Griffith's "White Rose" in that theatre. The premiere will happen July first.

Mimi Palmer, a new star, will make her appearance this week at the Capitol Theatre. "The Ragged Edge" is the second Distinctive Production to be released through Goldwyn. The role of the young hero is played by Alfred Hunt.

Police Commissioner of New York City, Richard E. Earleight, has written a scenario, and tells his fellow "Friers" that a certain producer has made arrangements with his wife to film.

D. W. Griffith is casting his next picture. It is to star Al Johnson, who will play two parts, that of a brown skin lover and also a straight white man.

"The Meanest Man in the World," produced by Principal Pictures Corporation, in Los Angeles, will have its world premiere on Broadway with the George M. Cohan Theatre as its home.

Juianta Hansen, who was cured of the drug habit, will have Mrs. Flite's role in "The Dice of the Gods," when the piece is put on tour.

William LeBaron, production manager, Joseph Urban, designer, and Luther Reed, scenario writer, of the Cosmopolitan, left for California this week to attend to the preliminaries for the filming on the coast of Marion Davies' next picture, "Yolanda." Miss Davis is now on her way to Europe to attend the world premiere of her "Lillian Old New York," which opens in London.

Ann Forrest is being sued for $20,000. It happened this way: about a year ago Ann was stopping at the Hotel Netherland. She caused home one evening to find her jewels conspicuous by their absence. Ann phoned the police who later recovered the jewels from a woman employee of the hotel. So happy was Miss Forrest that she decided not to press the charge against the poor unfortunate. So she dismissed the maid and then called for lawyer counsel for her. Now this poor unfortunate, who took the gems, up and sued Miss Forrest for $20,000 for being maliciously arrested. If she wasn't why did Miss Forrest press the charge she maintains.

Jacques Tyrol, president of the producing corporation which bears his name, this week announced that Henry James, former business manager of this concern, has resigned and that he is no longer affiliated with that concern.

Bernie Durning is in New York making ready to do a special picture for William Fox, with an all-star cast. Shirley will join him later.

Christie Cabanne is doing one of his own brain children at the Metro studio with an all-star cast.

The Shuberts have leased the Centra Theatre to William Fox from September 1st to February 1st. Fox will use the house for his special film showings, opening with "When Winter Comes."

"Enemies of Women," with Lionel Barrymore and Alma Rubens, moves to the Cameo next Sunday from its eighth week on Broadway, pumping from house to house. It will run indefinitely. Alan Crosland directed this in Monte Carlo.

Minta Durfee, Roscoe's wife, will open in a vaudeville act in New York real soon. She had a wire from Pappy yesterday in Chicago telling her that she was accepted by the exclusive crowd and was playing to capacity. Arbuckle is leading the number and has a comedy which badly falls.

(Continued on Page 22)
"No motion picture can compare with a great painting as a work of art," recently wrote a New York reviewer. The reason is that the film is the work of an organization of specialists, whereas the painting represents the personality of one individual. The reviewer doubtless will be interested to learn, however, that he soon will be given an opportunity to view an exception to that rule. For the Tom Forman production of "The Broken Wing," which just has had its first studio preview here, may safely be said to represent the personality of the director alone. The youthful director, formerly a featured player in Paramount pictures, a scenarist, soldier, and Texan who knew every foot of the cow country in which he spent his youth, has made use of first hand information in the production story which, as written by Paul Dickey and Charles W. Goddard, had so successful a run on the New York stage. When the play first was acquired, to be filmed as a B. P. Schulberg production, Forman was named as director because of the opportunity for aeroplane thrills, military maneuvers and big treatment of the sort that has contributed to his fame as a supervisor. But Forman contributed an additional detail to the work by announcing that he would himself write the screen version of the play. On its completion he visited Northern Mexico, New Mexico and the various "locations" in which the most spectacular phases of the picture have been filmed. He organized the two Mexican armies and led them into the comic encounters that form one feature of the story. While he worked with mechanical experts in the planning of what is declared to be one of the most impressive aeroplane feats ever accomplished before the camera.

Also, the director can claim such credit for the selection of the cast which, headed by Kenneth Harlan and Miriam Cooper, includes such favorites as Richard Tucker, Walter Long, Miss Dupont, Evelyn Selbie, Ferdinand Munier and Edwin J. Bradley. When it is considered that the director also cut and edited the production, it may safely be said to come as nearly representing the personality of one individual as so complicated a thing as a film production may do.

It looks as if the picture fan who yearns to see his or her favorite in person would have a real opportunity to satisfy a life-long craving this summer. The motion picture exposition, to-be staged here from July 2 to August 5 promises to offer a greater number of stars, starlets and featured players than ever before have been seen at one time. Advance announcements indicate that Doug and Mary, Charles Chaplin, Kenneth Harlan, Thomas Meighan, Gaston Glass, Orville Caldwell, Pola Negri, Barbara Larr, Ethel Shannon and all our favorites will shine simultaneously for the visitors. And, since President Harding is scheduled to make a personal appearance during the exposition, there should be plenty of political, as well as screen notables to fill the eye of the visitor.

To seekers after literary inspiration, Olga Printzlau offers these words of advice: "get yourself a bungalow-studio in the heart of a zoo and start work."

Miss Printzlau, writer of a greater number of screen successes than any other contributor to screen literature, has done just this thing. Seated in the interior of a picturesque bungalow structure in the heart of the Selig Zoo, the bobbed haired scenarist is at work on her most ambitious story—a screen version of "Maytime," the tuneful comedy that now is being played by half a dozen companies on the speaking stage in as many cities.

Looking out of Miss Printzlau's front door one views an elephant or two, engaged in their daily occupation of reducing the hay supply on the lot. To the left are long rows (Continued on Page 22)
It happened so long ago—the story of Little Bo Peep—so long ago that there is no one left who can remember. Ireland was more famous then than it is today, a glowing green land set in an amethyst sea—in whose valleys and on whose hillsides the quaint hospitable peasant folk dwell in prosperity. It was there—on Ireland verdant hills, that Little Bo Peep first opened her eyes upon a brand new world.

She was the only child of Patrick and Sally MacMahon, and for almost two short years she had frolicked about the clay floor of the humble cabin that was built of mud and roughly piled stones and filled always with the pungent odor of smoking turf upon the hearth. True, there were those among the inhabitants of the neighborhood village who claimed that Patrick had no love for the child,—he having longed for a son and heir, and having been deeply disappointed when the tiny girl-child had been born. But if this were true, Bo Peep was far too young to understand, and the gentle little mother who had brought her into the world protected and shielded her from the gruff brusqueness of the disappointed Patrick.

And now the child, a little story is concerned,—the story of Little Bo Peep as it happened many, many years ago.

It was fast approaching twilight. The sun had slipped behind the emerald hills, and the lonely little cabin of the MacMahons nestled drowsily against the hillsides in the deepening shadows. From somewhere came the distant low of cattle, and now and again the tinkling of bells the returning herds broke the still quietness of the twilight hours. Patrick MacMahon stood at the edge of the gently flowing stream, driving his sheep ahead of him into the shallow water—urging them on with wide sweeps of his powerful bare arm,—his deep voice carrying clearly through the silent hollows of the hills as he called to the barking sheep dogs. On the other side of the stream he picked up the winding path again, and soon the sheep were swarming into the fenced-in pasture lot.

His flock safely stayed away for the night, Patrick turned his steps toward the cabin of mud and stone that dozed among the shadows. He was hungry—and he knew that within those homely walls a fire of turf would be burning on the hearth, and over it the savory odor of his supper would seep out from beneath the lid of the huge black kettle to greet him. He quickened his step, urged on by his contented anticipations.

Then in the open doorway he stepped short—there was no fire glowing on the hearth, and the hure kettle on its crane was silent. The two roughly built stools were over-turned upon the clay floor. The muddy broom lay across the hearth as though it had been suddenly dropped there. Several copper pans had fallen from the walls where they were wont to hang in neat rows. The place bore a look of hurried departure,—of neglect—as though she who had left had no thought of the two who had come home, hungry, in the twilight.

Patrick entered the cabin and looked quickly about, his great fists clenched at his sides. He surveyed the tiny room again, off the larger one stood ajar. He threw it wide and peered within. Sally, his wife, was gone.

For a minute he stood leaning against the low frame of the doorway, his deep chest rising and falling with his heavy breathing, his shaggy brows drawn low above his deep set eyes, his strong white teeth clamped together with the firmness of a steel trap—making the muscles stand out like tortured veins around his cheek bones. The room was just as it had always been,—save that the peg on which her shawl had hung was now vacant.

And in that first awful moment, Pat, ever quick at drawing his own conclusions, arrived at what was to him the only plausible excuse for the emptiness of his little home. She, his wife, had left him! not alone she had destroyed his honor and dragged his good name at her heels through the muck of the path she had chosen to follow—and she had dared to face him in her weakness! She had gone while his back was turned—and left him only the drags of a life gone suddenly bitter!

Then, into the burning tumult of his thoughts crept the consciousness of the little plebeian cry of a child.

Patrick turned back into the deepening shadows of the strangely changed room. In a corner a tiny nite with tumbled golden curls sat on a heap of straw, her little shoulders shaken with her sobbing, her dirty little fists digging themselves into the eyes from which the tears were streaming. Patrick stares at the quivering little figure in silence; and as he stares there deepened in his eyes a look that was not good to see. He passed one hand across his forehead, and for a moment seemed as though his great body was about to crumble and fall. Then, with a sound like that which comes from a wild thing faintly hurt, he raised his great bare arms above his head, and in a voice that was choked with fury he cried—

"May every curse in God's universe descend upon him who has taken her from me! And may he drag her to the very depths of the bottomless pit at his side!"

This thought came to the sobbing child in the corner. Two little hands went out to him in a pathetic appeal for comfort, and between her convulsive sobs the child repeated again and again: "Mama!—Bo Peep—want—Mama! Bo Peep—want—Mama!"

The man's muscles grew taut as he looked at the pitifully helpless little figure,—"and she left me—that!" he muttered beneath his breath—"she left me something that will grow up to look like her,—a living curse that will come from me! A weak foolish thing that will grow to be a woman!"

Far into the night Patrick MacMahon sat brooding, cold from the day's toil endured before him through the tiny window that framed a bit of moonlit world beyond. And in a corner of the darkened room the half smothered wall of a child rose and fell, until, from the sheer exhaustion the sobs that trembled through the little body grew longer and far—

(Continued on Page 20)

"AMBITION"

By Eric Mayne

"From well, I charge thee, fly away Ambition. By that sin fell the angels."

Wolsey's fall has dislocated his ideas, or, at any rate, his power of expression.

Ambition is not a sin.

Ambition did not cause either Wolsey or the anarcho to fall.

Milton attributes the fall of the angels to Pride,—he also was guessing.

Without Ambition Wolsey never would have been a Cardinal. With Ambition and good judgment he might have been a Pope.

Ambition led Wolsey to a position of great power, then he became proud, arrogant, despotic, and—he fell.

It is better to be Ambitious and wise, than to be Ambitions and otherwise.

Napoleon was Ambitious; but not wise. He sacrificed the men of France, he undermined his financial stability, he destroyed its prestige to satisfy his desires for power.

It is not a compliment to a man to call him a Napoleon of fortune, or a Napoleon of anything else.

Napoleon was a bankrupt. If he had fallen leading the troops, he professed to love so much, in that last charge, he would have had desperate heroism to his credit.

In 1811 Napoleon terrorized Europe. In 1815 he was protected from those he had led to ruin, by those he had tried to destroy.

Lincoln had Ambition. Ambition to solve a great problem. To ensure the freedom of humanity. To give civilization strength and dignity to the people he loved and served.

Ambition to do good to all, made him one of the world's greatest men. It spurred him to do a noble work that commands our admiration and reverence.

"Fling away Ambition," and stand in the bread line of mediocrity.

Contemptuous without Ambition retards the progress of progress.

Let wisdom guide our Ambition and we shall march toward the world who help to make life better and brighter.

Lincoln did not fling away Ambition, but he held fast to love, honor, devotion to his country, reverence for his God.
UNITED IS READY FOR GREATEST SUMMER

With the $800,000 improvement program now nearing completion at the United Studios, arrangements are being made by M. C. Levee, President of the plant, to handle the greatest summer producing activities in the history of the studio.

Contracts have already been signed by Mr. Levee to house the producing of several companies this summer and negotiations with five other producers of prominence are practically closed. This will mark a new summer producing record for any leasing studio in the industry and is made possible through the building improvements and enlargements in the big leasing plant which have been under way for the past two months.

This announcement is another definite indication that the present producing boom in Hollywood will continue through the summer contrary to the usual July and August let-up in production evident the past four years.

Foremost in producing activities at the United Studios this summer will be Joseph Schenck and Associated First National Pictures with the largest number of companies. Among the producing organizations to the usual United at this time are Manager Parke, Ed Kalman, Sam Rask, Arthur Jacobs, Edwin Casey, William Muroc, Harry Davidson, Allan Levee, Jack Dillon, Lynn Reynolds and John McDermott.

As soon as the new buildings and other improvements on the United lot are completed, the eleven organizations already signed, will be in full operation. Others will closely follow as soon as additional studio facilities now in work, are provided.

Bowers Misses Ocean

John Bowers, often called the "water spaniel of the movies," is having a dry time on location at Prescott, Arizona, with the company producing "When a Man's a Man," from Harold Bell Wright's novel. Not that Bowers is hankering for the beverages Mr. Volstead taboosed. But the company has a daily dip in the Pacific, and it is too far from Prescott to motor to the ocean. Bowers is busy by nine o'clock in the morning, made ready for work on the set. When in Hollywood he rarely misses a morning for a plunge at Santa Monica.

AL CHRISTIE RETURNING FROM EUROPE JULY 1

At Christie cables from Venice, Italy, where he is presumably looking over boats and gondolas, judging from his interest in yachting at home. He has recently joined the California Yacht Club and is studying the best types of cruisers in home and foreign waters. Mr. Christie will return to his studio about the first of July and in the meantime his directors are working on pictures which were planned for fall release.

Mr. Christie reported from London last week that Betty Coogan's first film, "Famous Popular," created enormous popular following in the British Isles, and her forthcoming pictures to be made in Italy are an important topic of conversation in film trade circles in London.

250 CHARIOTS IN UNIQUE RACE ON DESERT

The fastest and largest charge of chariots in 3,000 years took place at sundown Monday, on the 120-square-mile dry lake at Muroc. It is said that not since the days of the real Pharaohs has there been an equal to the dash across the huge flat expanse of two hundred and fifty chariots, five hundred horses and five hundred men. These representatives of ancient Pharaonic Rome II in pursuit of the Children of Israel, and the scene was a climax of Cecil B. DeMille's historic production of "The Ten Commandments."

Residents from all portions of the Mojave Desert gathered on the great natural speedway to watch the reproduction of ancient military greatness.

The chariots were driven by soldiers of the Eleventh United States Cavalry and the 16th Field Artillery. Each carried a civilian.

Ten teams ran away and were not stopped by Evelyn F. Pau, production engineer, of the town.

The scene is said to have been the largest equestrian stunt ever staged for motion pictures. The racing horses gained a speed of nearly 45 miles an hour on Muroc Lake, the largest absolutely flat expanse in the world.

Eileen Percy has been signed by the United Artists Corporation for a leading role in "Yesterday's Wife." This feature, directed by Dorothy Arzner, is one of Columbia's largest releases of the year. Portions of the film will be shot in the desert, where the company will distribute.

GLORIA REALIZES LIFE AMBITION IN "ZAZA"

Gloria Swanson began the fulfillment of the most cherished desire of her screen career at the Paramount Long Island studio this week when she started work in the title role of "Zaza." Under the direction of Allan Dwan, who has made preparations for this picture that insure it being one of the most spectacular he has yet produced.

Ever since Miss Swanson became a star she has had a desire to play "Zaza." Her interpretation of the role in the screen play, which has been adapted from the opera and play by Albert Shelley Levine, will have all the fire and zest that the famous "Zaza" has had in the past if her enthusiasm has anything to do with it.

"Zaza" will be the first Paramount picture Miss Swanson has made in the east, all her work heretofore having been done at the Lasky studio in Hollywood. No cast of stellar proportions has been selected by Mr. Dwan to support Miss Swanson. H. B. Warner, who is at present playing the part of the President in the Harvard prize play, "You and I," will play "Bernard DuFrenoy" opposite Miss Swanson. Ferdinand Gottschalk, another member of the "You and I" company will play "Duke De Brissac." Lucille LaVerne will be "Aunt Rosa," and Mary Thurman will have the part of "Eliza Palame." Other members of the cast are Riley Hatch, Ivan Linow, Marie Sheldon, Edna Wheaton, Eleanor Dell, Laura Oakley and Hazel Webb, a dancer.

FORT RETURNS HERE TO PURSUE HIS FORTUNE

Garrett Esher Fort, scenarist and playwright, whose one-act sketch, "Moonlight," made a favorable impression at the Screen Writers' Play Room last Saturday night, has returned from his prolonged stay east. Mr. Fort intends to devote himself to free lance continuity work and titling. He has recently finished "The Critical Age," Ernest Shiptman's picture, which is being released through Hodkinson, and has also completed a contract with Archie Comedies, Inc., an eastern independent concern formed to film P. G. Wodehouse's novel, "The Indiscretions of Archie." Mr. Fort was formerly assistant scenario editor for R-C Pictures Corporation, and did a number of shorts for Pauline Lord, Dick Stockton, Sessue Hayakawa and Doris May.

FRISCO TO HAVE FILM FINANCE COMPANY

It has just been announced that San Francisco is to have a new moving picture financing corporation on a very large scale. In fact the actual paid in capitalization is one million dollars. Louis Graf, President of the Graf Productions, is at the head of the new organization, and he has just returned from a trip east where he spent a week on business connected with its formation. Mr. Graf has returned to San Francisco to confer with his associates on the project, the details of which will be whipped into shape at once.

The object of the organization is the financing of picture producers, but owing to the fact that no two pictures are alike in their varied needs, and conditions, no set policy can be announced. However, it is stated that the organization will be such as to let the producer live and give him a fair chance.

Although Mr. Graf has studied the picture production situation through first-hand experience in making pictures, the Graf Productions will not in any way participate in the benefits of the new corporation, as their future productions are already sufficiently financed, with surplus laid away, and the money of the new organization will be kept strictly for the needs of other producers.

SULLIVAN SEeks PLots FOR TALMADGES IN N. Y.

C. Gardner Sullivan, who was recently appointed head of the Paramount Pictures Corporation in New York looking for material, Mr. Sullivan will not only be in charge of the continuations of future Tal- madge productions, but will act in an advisory capacity as to what type of production shall be produced.

"I am a firm believer," said Mr. Sullivan, "in Constance Talmad-ge's ability to portray emotional roles and serious drama quite as successfully as her de-lightful comedy roles. I am bearing this particularly in mind in buying new Constance Tal- madge material, so any of your readers, who have a good story up their sleeve, with comedy, tragedy or anything remotely, and laughter intermingled with tears, may send it to me at the Hotel Colonne.

Mr. Sullivan will be in New York only ten days, returning to the Scheinck Productions at the United at the end of the month, the early part of next week.
MARYON YAY GETS FIVE-YEAR JOB WITH TRUART

Tack up an ace card for Maryon Yaye!

This popular little Miss of film fame has placed her name on the dotted line of a big, fat movie contract. There were reasons for this to be the day when film czar and Attorney Herman L. Roth of Hollywood Productions Company, tried to explain each and every one of them to the actress.

But the clause that attracted the attention of Maryon was the one which stated the length of her contract—five years. Of course the salary was to be considerably above what she received upon her appearance. But insofar as that part be concerned, Maryon's perfectly satisfied.

In fact, it was in connection with her new Wood Production banner. This is a sister organization of Truart that has already signed Larry Sennn for a period of six years.

There has been in the film world for several years. Coming to Hollywood direct from the footlight world, the pretty maiden has been with the two studios and has risen rapidly, having played important roles in many of the recent first-class pictures.

Her most recent work has been with Principal Pictures Corporation in "Meanest Man in the World," soon to be released.

During the life of her new contract, Miss Yaye will journey east and to Europe on various productions. This has been her life's ambition—her dream of seeing the world. Miss Yaye was one of the original thirteen "baby stars" selected two years ago by the "Wampas." The names of the girls beginning with their letters announced at that time that each of the thirteen girls they selected would have a guaranteed role in filmdom. Miss Yaye, therefore, helps the prophecy of the "Wampas" prove and gives the faith placed in her by her organization.

"Havoc" Nearing Completion

"Havoc," Universal special production from the pen of Lenore J. Coffee, well known scenario-artist and author, is rapidly nearing completion. It is a colorful story of the Orient and has a string of players heading J. Warren Kerrigan, Anna Q. Nilsson, Tom Santschi and Winifred Burroughs. The picture is a very big and attractive set has been built and the company expects the production to be one of the unique pictures of the year.

Following a vacation since the completion of "Sawdust," Gladys Walton's circus story, Japan- way, the director, has returned to Universal City. He has several new stories in view and will direct on his next within a few days.

VETERAN WHO SAW AND HEARD LINCOLN SAYS FILM VERSION OF HIM IS TRUE

Capt. Harry H. Carmack, Civil War veteran, gave the opinion this week that the reproduction of Abraham Lincoln's Gettys- burg Address, which Mr. Harry H. Carmack, Film Lincoln Company staged this week at Sawtle, is faith- fully done. As a historian of Pennsylvania in all particulars. Capt. Carmack's opinion is to be regarded as that of an authority on the subject. Mr. Carmack was present at the dedication of the Gettysburg burlar grounds in 1863.

"I have raked my memory," Capt. Carmack told Mr. Rockett of the Rockett organization which is producing "The Dramatic Life of Abraham Lincoln" for which the reproduction was made, "to see if your scene is unfaithful in any of its details, but it is as true as the day I saw it. The lay of the land and the people have selected it corresponds almost directly with that on which the Gettysburg scene was.”

The crowd stood at Gettysburg. Your crowd and their costumes are Gettysburg come to life.

"I have seen the Lincoln," Capt. Carmack continued, referring to George Billings who is enacting the title role, "is in order. His height, his stature, his manner are those of Lincoln, and he delivered the address—I notice he knew it by heart—much better than the "Billings'" voice too. It's a real orator. Your cabinet, your Stanton, your Seward, couldn't be told from the original. The way he leaves my house, I don't go to see pictures so often, but this is one that I am going to see when it's finished. It's the kind that America needs.

Capt. Carmack is at present a member of the honorary firing squad at the Soldier's Home, Sawtle. At the age of sixteen he ran away from Bethany College in West Virginia to join the Union forces as a private in 1863. Later, he was a resident of Harper's Ferry, Va., and his family divided between the North and the South. He is the cousin to the late Senator Car- mack of Tennessee.

Philip E. Rosien is directing the production. Mr. Robert Kurbe and H. Lyman Broening are the cinematographers.

LANDON STARTS NEW COMEDY SERIES HERE

Harry Landon, who signed with Principal Pictures for a series of comedies, has arrived in Los Angeles and has started the first of these new productions at Principal Pictures studios, Hollywood.

Sol Lesser, president of Prin- cipal, signed the noted comedian when he was playing a vaude- ville engagement in Los Angeles. Landon has been approached many times with reference to picture work but always had considered the stage so far in advance in the two-a-day route.

All Goulding has been selected to direct the company. Gould- ing made the Baby Peggy pictures for Universal and has been in the comedy fold of directors for many years.

It is the intention of Principal Pictures Corporation to surround the new comedy star with ex-ceptionally well-known comedy players and no expense or time will be spared in giving the pub- lic the highest quality in comedies.

Landon is noted for his abil- ity to create and direct over comedy situations. He was regarded as one of the ace comedians on the bigívideocircuits and when he severed his associations with the footlights, he found the hands of the directors of the circuit who expressed their loss but assured him of greatest success in his camera work.

Kit Guard, who plays the fight trainer in "Fighting Blood," is in the interest of one of the world's most aristocratic families.

COSTLIER MOVIES NOT NECESSARY, SAYS COOGAN

"Bigger and better pictures," says Jack Coogan, senior, who is supervising the entire produc- tion of Jack's first picture for Metro's, "Long Live the King," is suffering the fate of many an- other slogan. In short, it is being replaced by making "costlier productions," and that is the one error into which the producers must not fall, mainly because of the exhibitor and the public, who have to pay at almost every turn of the season.
OLD-TIME CAST OF "BEN HUR" IN REUNION

A unique reunion, fraught with sentiment, was held at the Goldwyn Studio here recently, consisting of members of the original cast of "Ben Hur," best beloved of any stage production. Of the original cast a dozen or more came to Los Angeles recently, where William Farnum, whose famous characterization of Ben Hur is well remembered; Emmitt Corrigan, who first created the title role, and then played Simonides; Mabel Burt, who played Ben Hur's mother, and W. J. Kolker, who played Drusus and then Messala. William S. Hart, who for several years portrayed the villain, Messala, and then became Tragedal, who was the messenger, Maltac, were unable to attend.

The reunion is interesting not only as its dramatic value. No camera has ever caught a performance in Bill Farnum's big blue-gray eyes as he greeted, for the first time in many years, the little white-haired woman, Mabel Burt, who played his mother. Not many words were exchanged at first in the little group—just everybody bravely smiling and trying to overcome the tears. "How many times has he it?" "When did we play together, Mabel?" asked Mr. Farnum. "I'm afraid to say, Will" (she always calls him Will) "if the fear will it seem too long ago."

June Mathis, who is personally adapting "Ben Hur" to the screen, presided at the luncheon table, with Messala on her right and Ben Hur on her left. "Success for Ben Hur is already written on the heights," said Miss Mathis in addressing the diners, "for the great man who created it on the stage to the living, beautiful play that it was, have carried it far above the screen and now rests with the screen to give that immense scope of which it is capable, to make 'Ben Hur' immortal."

WING IS ADDED TO U'S SCENARIST STAFF

William E. Wing, well-known writer of motion picture plays, has been added to the scenarist staff of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Wing has just completed the screen adaptations of "Overland Red" and "Ridgeway of Montana," and is now engaged in writing the continuity for "Wings." He also wrote the starring vehicle, an original story by Raymond L. Schrock and Hart- ton, and is working on a story by Paul Dehn as a starring vehicle, another original story by Raymond L. Schrock and Hartton.

He has written 435 original stories for the screen, all of which have been sold, of which many of have served as starring vehicles for some of the biggest stars of the screen.

PALMER TO FILM STORY OF SMALL-TOWN DOCTOR

The Palmer Photoplay Corporation, which inaugurated a unique five per cent basis for advancing producing policy with the filming of its first screen drama, "Judgment of the Storm," evidently is not content with proving its point about the superiority of "original stories," over "adaptations," but by original authors. It is announced that the story for the second of their productions has been purchased, and that camera work upon it will start shortly at Thomas H. Ince Studios.

"Trusis" is the temporary title of the screen play about to be produced. As with "Judgment of the Storm," by Ethel Stylies Middleton of Pittsburgh, the new story, was written by a hitherto unrecognized author, trained in screen play technique in this country, in a story laboratory and clearing house. The author is Dr. Walter G. Hallstead, a practitioner in the city of New York.

"Trusis" will begin soon. It is called a murder play, but technically that little adaptation or continuity work will be needed, according to the fact that it itself constitutes a big point in the Palmer Corporation's struggle to establish an independent and distinct literature for the screen, of stories written by trained screen playwrights directly and expressly for that medium.

"Our practice of paying unknown screen authors royalties—a uniform rate of one thousand dollars in advances, five per cent basis for five years—has attracted a high class of creative men. This is something, Manker, President of the Palmer Corporation. "Its effect is already being felt, not only by producers, but by original authors to whom we supply original screen plays."

Among the writers who seem to be producing the best material are those hitherto unknown. Dr. Hallstead has never sold fiction or scenarios before, although he has written many of the latter during his training course. Mrs. Middleton was also an unrecognized genius before we filmed "Judgment of the Storm."

Another unique feature about our undertaking to film better can be given: consistently. In the case of "Trusis," the material has been written, edited, and played, and it, this activity, is the fact that our organization works as a self-contained unit, which trains its own work force, picks its screen play material from work, and produces the whole, the wholesale, if you will, our nucleus of a new epoch in cinematic art; an era of independence from the older medium of expression, "Judgment of the Storm," was written, our first production, has far excelled our highest expectations, and we believe that we can go even far better with our second production."

WING IS ADDED TO U'S SCENARIST STAFF

William E. Wing, well-known writer of motion picture plays, has been added to the scenarist staff of the Universal Pictures Corporation.

Wing has just completed the screen adaptations of "Overland Red" and "Ridgeway of Montana," and is now engaged in writing the continuity for "Wings." He also wrote the starring vehicle, an original story by Raymond L. Schrock and Hartton, and is working on a story by Paul Dehn as a starring vehicle, another original story by Raymond L. Schrock and Hartton.

He has written 435 original stories for the screen, all of which have been sold, of which many of have served as starring vehicles for some of the biggest stars of the screen.

PALMER TO FILM STORY OF SMALL-TOWN DOCTOR

The Palmer Photoplay Corporation, which inaugurated a unique five per cent basis for advancing producing policy with the filming of its first screen drama, "Judgment of the Storm," evidently is not content with proving its point about the superiority of "original stories," over "adaptations," but by original authors. It is announced that the story for the second of their productions has been purchased, and that camera work upon it will start shortly at Thomas H. Ince Studios.

"Trusis" is the temporary title of the screen play about to be produced. As with "Judgment of the Storm," by Ethel Stylies Middleton of Pittsburgh, the new story, was written by a hitherto unrecognized author, trained in screen play technique in this country, in a story laboratory and clearing house. The author is Dr. Walter G. Hallstead, a practitioner in the city of New York.

"Trusis" will begin soon. It is called a murder play, but technically that little adaptation or continuity work will be needed, according to the fact that it itself constitutes a big point in the Palmer Corporation's struggle to establish an independent and distinct literature for the screen, of stories written by trained screen playwrights directly and expressly for that medium.

"Our practice of paying unknown screen authors royalties—a uniform rate of one thousand dollars in advances, five per cent basis for five years—has attracted a high class of creative men. This is something, Manker, President of the Palmer Corporation. "Its effect is already being felt, not only by producers, but by original authors to whom we supply original screen plays."

Among the writers who seem to be producing the best material are those hitherto unknown. Dr. Hallstead has never sold fiction or scenarios before, although he has written many of the latter during his training course. Mrs. Middleton was also an unrecognized genius before we filmed "Judgment of the Storm."

Another unique feature about our undertaking to film better can be given: consistently. In the case of "Trusis," the material has been written, edited, and played, and it, this activity, is the fact that our organization works as a self-contained unit, which trains its own work force, picks its screen play material from work, and produces the whole, the wholesale, if you will, our nucleus of a new epoch in cinematic art; an era of independence from the older medium of expression, "Judgment of the Storm," was written, our first production, has far excelled our highest expectations, and we believe that we can go even far better with our second production."

BRILLIANT TRIO CAST FOR "THE ACQUITAL"

A trio of players whose work has been highly approved by the public will soon make a second screen attempt to win the hearts of its fans. Dorothy Manners, a leading woman who has come up in the profession under the sheen of Esther Ralston, leading woman of Hoot Gibson's "Blinky," and several other Universal pictures, Otis Harlan and Frank Currier, character man of long established repute, and Eddie Gribbon, the comedian who has furnished "comedy relief" in a dozen dramatic features at Universal City.

"The Victor" is an adaptation of Gerald Beaumont's story, "Two Balls for Pegasus," and the director is Edward Larmme, maker of historical serials and dramatic features. The hero is an Englishman of rank, who turns prizefighter in America and thereby turns his family's social world upside down.

Goodwin Re-engaged

Harold Goodwin, who took a big step upward in his career when he was granted a delay of the leading male leading role in "The Flint," and who has appeared in a dozen Universal pictures, has been signed by Universal for the next Hoot Gibson vehicle, "The Ramblin' Kid."
ELECTRICAL CHEF IS BURIED BY HOT CARBON

Lew Johnson, chief electrician of theemme studios com-pamy, was severely burned on the right hand by hot carbons during filming of the final scenes of Miss Talmadge's latest photoplay, "Purple Pride," at the United Studios, Hollywood.

The scene was in a large castle representing the days of Charles IX of France. One of the large spotlights on the highest run-way became loose and toppled just as Director Frank Lloyd gave the order to shoot. Luckily, a single rope held fast to the light, snared, cracked and broke, spilling hot glass and burning carbons.

Johnson shouted for Miss Talm-idge's publicity man, who rushed in to seize her just in time to ward off a large piece of burning carbon, sustaining very painful burns on the right hand.

"Purple Pride" is being made by Herbert Wetzel and Samuel M. Schenck for release through Associated First National, Inc.

Apgel Formerly a Banker

If Oscar Apfel ever is handed a script with a banker for the lead, you may be sure his leading man, for he can handle the role himself. The Metro director, who is making Viol dana's "The Girl Who Dared," started his business career as a teller in Cleveland, Ohio. The drawbacks of banking passed upon him, then he became an actor, later a stage director, and then a successful motion picture director. Among his best known pictures are "The Squaw Man," "Brew-ster's Millions," "Rum tan on the Box" and "Ten Nights in a Barroom.

"West" Writes Song

Wesley Barry, besides bursting into adolescent youth, has also blossomed into song composes with a composer's quill; a song entitled "If I Knew You Really Loved Me," which will soon be published. His admirers are wondering if the song is the result of spiritual inspiration, or whether experience is to blame. He is now busy on his latest Warner Brothers picture, "The Private Life," written for him by Julien Josephson.

Fred Farrell returned this week from Laguna Beach, where Henry Otto was filming "Temple of Venus" and has been engaged by James Flood to work in his next Fox Production.

Florence Campbell has been signed by Grand Studios to work in the Monty Banks Productions. Miss Campbell has just comleted "My Trip to Paris" for Fox, where she has been engaged in the "Temple of Venus" being produced by Director Henry Otto.

BUDDY, FILM CANINE, GETTING NEW HOME

We have all heard about the sumptuous homes occupied by motion picture stars, but little has been heard about the luxury quarters of the canine stars, who often figure so prominently in pictures. Buddy, the intelligent film star, who has held important parts in many screen successes, wishes to announce through his master, Howard, that he is having a new mini-ture bungalow constructed on the quiet, east side of Laurel Canyon. When completed Buddy will give a house warming party to his many friends, with bones being a feature of the menu. He has just finished an engagement at the Fox studios where he played in support of Dusty Farman in "The Man Who Won."

Upon returning from his vacation, John Rikklemann, secretary and treasurer of the Fine Arts studios, who is prepared to read in the press stories stating that his plant has been burned to the ground, said, 'The Fine Arts studios has not been sold,' says Mr. Rikklemann, 'it still remains in the hands of myself and my brother, Deverich, president. Any reports to the contrary are erroneous."

Dorothy Seay has been cast to do a gypsy part in Pola Negri's "The Spanish Dancer" being produced at Lasky's by Herbert Brennan.

TYREONE POWER ARRIVES ON GOLDWYN "LOT"

Tyrene Power, one of the leading figures of the American stage, has arrived in Los Anger to complete a picture accompanied by his wife and his sister, Bertha Knight, a former Los Angel girl and graduate from the old Los Angeles High School.

Power, who came West to interpret the part of Michael Ans-tel, in Tod Browning's production of "The Day of Faith" at the Goldwyn studios, just closed a successful eastern campaign in "The Lights of Broadway."

Power comes from a family of actors, his father, Harold Power, and his grandfather, Tyrone Power I, are two of the outstanding figures of the American and European stage. Besides being an actor, Power is an accomplished musician and a villain who has, as his last will, his wife having sold for a thousand dollars.

"The Day of Faith" will be Power's next picture as it is expected to appear in "Where Are My Children?" "The Black Panther's Cape," "Town Street," and "Fury."

Pete Morrison has just finished "Under the Border," a mining story, at Universal City. It was adapted by George Fpon from a story by Charlene A. Locan, former San Francisco newspaperman and now of the Universal publicity department. It appeared in story form two years ago.

Possibly About You——

E. Lloyd Sheldon, production editor at the Paramount Long Island Studio, has returned to New York after a short stay in New London, Conn, where Thomas Meighan and a company of players are making scenes for "Back Home and Broke" under the direction of Ralph Ince.

Alfred E. Green and Thomas Geraty are at George Ade's home conformeering on the next production in which Thomas Meighan is to be starred, "All Mus. Marry."

These four men were responsible for "Back Home and Broke," one of Meighhan's biggest Paramount successes.

Ann Little, daring star of "The Eagle's Talons" at Universal City, had a narrow escape during a cliff scene in one of the episodes this week. While wait1ng for a scene her foot slipped and she dropped part way down the cliff. A jutting shrub saved her. Too bad the camera missed it!

Ray Gray has completed his role in "Lights Out," the R-C production, and was immediately signed to play the role of Direction in I. C. Ktner's "Lightning Blood" series. The role which Gray portrayed is one which requires subtle handling, a villain-

All But Three In "Greed" Cast

With the completion of this week's work on "Greed," Erich von Stroheim's picturization of Frank Norris's "McTeague," all but three members of the cast will have finished their parts in the picture.

Gisbon Gowland, playing the role of McTeague, Zasu Pitts, and Jean Hersholt will stay with the company, now in San Francisco, for the remaining scenes. Sylvia Ashton, Chester Conklin, Dale Fuller, Fanny Midgley, Hughie Mack and Joan Standing will return to Los Angeles.

Von Stroheim and the three remaining players will go to Death Valley for final scenes for "Greed," after work is finished in San Francisco.

Von Stroheim is expected to finish the picture in the early part of July.

GOLDEN CHANCES

The latest production from the Hal Roach studios, "What Should A Girl Do," directed by Erich von Stroheim utilizing Dana Murphy, boasts of an exceptionally fine supporting cast, among which is Lois Goldin. Miss Goldin recently scored a decided hit at the Majestic Theatre, Los Angeles, Calif., in "That's All," presented by the Wilkes Stock Company.

At the age of five she made her debut on the stage in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," playing the part of little "Tommy." She also has the distinguished honor of having been selected in a beauty contest for resembling Mary Pickford the closest of any of the other contestants. As winner of this contest she was engaged to ride on von Stroheim's photoplay "The Its of the Still Country" in her city.

Miss Goldin was born in Seattle, Wash., and is now approaching her 17th golden summer. She can already boast of a professional career that makes the vet-crans of the footlights envious, and it is predicted by her many friends that she has a very bright future ahead of her in the playgoer world.
TO SHOW "YOUTH TRUMPHANT" SHORTLY

"Youth Triumphant," the initial Fisher Production, is now entirely finished with the work of titling and editing the film just concluded under the direction of Lillian Ducey, who also adapted the story from George Gibbs' book and staged the scenario.

The production will have an early Los Angeles release. Negotiations with various distributing organizations who have made offers to the Fisher company for world's rights on the picture, are now under way and a definite announcement as to the distribution of "Youth Triumphant" and future Fisher productions will be made within the next ten days.

Meanwhile, plans are already under way for the Los Angeles premiere of "Youth Triumphant" at one of the leading theatres here. Virginia Lee Corbin and other members of the cast will participate in person in the local presentation of the photoplay, and arrangements for stage, prologue and musical settings for this occasion will soon be completed.

Victor B. Fisher, supervising director, leaves for New York shortly with the master print of the production to sign contracts for the American and foreign distribution rights. The film will return to Los Angeles immediately with several new stories for early picturization and to take care of the enlarged producing plans of the company which call for double the output originally anticipated.

The work of Virginia Lee Corbin in this production and which marks her return to the screen after two years of theatrical engagements, is said to prove one of the outstanding artistic achievements on the screen during the current season. Anna Q. Nilson's portrayal as little Miss Corbin grown up, it is stated, is second only to the results registered by the girl actress.

Vidor Preparing "Wild Oranges"

King Vidor, the youthful Goldwyn director, who is personally adapting the Joseph Hergesheimer novel, "Wild Oranges," to the screen, and who will screen the work in the production in about three weeks. He will retain the same technical staff which assisted him making "Three Wise Fools," his first Goldwyn picture.

Fanchon Royer, a former editor or writer, turned director, Sherwood, at the critic's desk on The Story World and Photodramatist, Hollywood's foremost scenarist magazine.

POPPULAR ACTOR OWNS NIECE OF PRESIDENT'S DOG

Truman Van Dyke, who is just finishing the portrayal of the important role of Lee Godfrey in Rex Ingram's direction of "Scararamouch," is the proud possessor of what he calls "a canine of extraordinary distinction." And this is why—this dog he has just acquired is a niece of Laddie Boy, President Harding's widely famed pet and therefore the first dog of the land. Truman has christened his pup Dixie as a matter of recognizing his own loyalty to the south whence he hails and already Dixie is about the most talked-of and most admired animal in all Hollywood. With a pedigree the proverbial mile long, Dixie stands somewhat in a class itself so far as Southern California is concerned and although it betrays no signs of obnoxious ego, there is no mistake the fact that it is not lacking in family pride.

To President Harding goes a great deal of credit for making the Alreade about the most popular dog in all Coddop and it has now become noticeable in filmland that motion picture celebrities have vied with each other to increase the population of their kennels always a la Alreade. Thus far the score stands in Mr. Van Dyke's favor since he has been fortunate enough to corner one so distinguished in pedigree. Thus early he has been offered twice the amount he paid for Dixie, but he is steadfastly refusing all offers on the theory that "a dog like this is a dog of a lifetime."

Prior to concentrating his brilliant talents on feature photo-plays, Mr. Van Dyke was one of the foremost serial stars, he having won especial popularity as the hero of Seelig's "The Jungle Goddess."

BARKER'S LATEST FILM FINISHED WITH LEAP

What is considered one of the most promising of the many big dramatic spectacles now under way for release during mid-summer was completed last week when Reginald Barker staged a final thrill for his next Mayer-Metro special, "The Master of Woman," by having Pat O'Malley make a 125-foot jump from a precipice into a swirling river rapid to save Renee Adoree and Earle Williams from destruction in a water fall further on down the stream. Ordinarily, such a daring leap would have been an unusual event in Pat's life, but after the hazards incurred during the months spent in the snowbound interior of Alberta, Canada, the shooting of the dangerous Boy mountain Canyon Rapid near North Vancouver, the adventurous thrills experienced in the Big Bear country and the several savage fights in which he participated on the studio sets, this last effort is but another day's work to him. By photographing the jump from above, Percy Hilburn, secured a weird effect that will bring people right out of their seats no matter how much they paid for them.

"The Master of Woman" is Darryl Zanuck's new uncut production for Louis B. Mayer, and, according to all reports, it will stand out as his greatest achievement. A find for realism, as was proven by his starting a forest fire in "Hearts Aflame," he has expended every effort toward making his new picture ring true to the last foot of ground.

In addition to the players named above, the list of celebrities in the cast includes: Wallace Beery, Barbara La Marr, Josef Swickard, George Kuwa, Anders Randolf, Robert Anderson and Ed. J. Brady. Based on G. B. Lancaster's novel, "The Law-Bringers," the theme, while presenting North-West Mounted Policemen among its principal characters, is not a story of romance as was "Dixie," a famous red-coated soldier girl. Fiery romance, deeply-sewn love and tense drama predominates in the pictures which are packed with comedy, thrills, wonderful scenery and beautiful effects to maintain balance and even tempo. J. G. Hawks made the adaptation and Monte M. Katterjohn prepared the scenario.

Phillip La Vie is undergoing an operation at his home in Hollywood. His return to the screen will be immediate following the completion of the operation.

Truman Van Dyke

SHOWS N.Y. "BROADWAY"

Irving Cummings is in New York proudly displaying the negative of "Broken Hearts of Broadway," his latest heart-throb drama of metropolitan life, in his suite. Since the completion of the picture which stars Colleen Moore and Johnnie Walker, with a stellar supporting cast including Alice Lake, Tully Marshall, Kate Price, Arthur Stewart Hull, Freeman Wood, and Percy Mervin, Cummings has had several offers from well-known distributors who saw it in preview. Cummings, however, gave his word not to dispose of "Broken Hearts of Broadway" on the coast before showing it to certain eastern film magnates and he stuck to his promise by taking the film East.

Patsy Miller Returns

After many months absence, and the winning of high honors abroad, Patsy Ruth Miller will return to her studio home, according to announcement from the Goldwyn Studios that she will play the ingenue lead in Victor Seastrom's great production of "The Master of Men," from the novel by Sir Hall Caine.

Hampton is Returning

Jesse D. Hampton, the film producer, is returning to Los Angeles immediately and has given up his plans for an European trip this summer, according to Karl Anderson, Hampton's representative here. Anderson, who assisted Hampton on the production of "The Spillers" is now with Tod Browning on "The Day of Faith."
CAST OF "IN THE PALACE OF THE KING"

Dolores Mendoza ........................................ Edward Sweet
Don Mendoza ............................................ Edmund Lowe
General Mendoza ........................................ Hobart Bosworth
Inez Mendoza ............................................ Pauline Starke
Kingsley Mendoza ................................. Richard Dix
Perry, his secretary ................................. William V. Mong
Princess Eboli ........................................... Alleen Pringle
The Count Jester ........................................ Lucile Browne
George Gomez ........................................... Charles Clary

Cortez

Approximately 1,000 actors in addition to the principals were used. The scene set in the palace was shot while filming his army against the Moors in a conquest of Granada, and later, the victorious return of the army.

"TEA—WITH A KICK" GETS ACROSS WITH A KICK

"Tea—With a Kick," a sparkling comedy drama, in which more than twenty-seven well known artists appear, contained such a "kick" that Sid Grauman, now in New York on a business trip, personally booked the picture for presentation at his Third street theatre. Edward and his brother, Harry, producers of "Tea—With a Kick," were in New York at the time, negotiating for the release of the picture and were showing it before a gathering of film distribution officials.

Grauman happened to be present when the picture had been exhibited Grauman wired to Los Angeles to his office to make preparations to show the picture at his Million Dollar theatre for one week beginning June 18th.

This booking is in line with keen interest by the independent producers who heretofore have found it impossible to obtain a booking for their pictures in the Grauman theatres because it is generally known that these theatres are controlled by Famous-Players-Lasky Corporation and therefore seldom book anything but Paramount features.

The booking is considered not only a great achievement for the independents but for the independent producers in general.

Simultaneously with its opening at Grauman's here, "Tea—With a Kick" opened at the Hiale, New York, thus booked in two of the largest theatres in the country.

One of the largest casts that has ever been assembled for a picture of its kind appear in "Tea—With a Kick." Among them are Creighton Hale, who plays the lead, Doris May, Gale Henry, Hank Mann, Victor Peck, Louisa Fazenda, Billy Frey, Stuart Holmes, Rosemary Tieby, Shint Edwards, Sidney D'Albror, Hazen March, lanne Johnston, Irene D'Annable, Ralph Lewis, Edward Jollon, Chester Mitchell, Harold Tod, Earl Montgomery, Zasu Pitts, Dot Farley, Faller Fuller, Spike Reinking and others, truly a cast of unusual strength.

The picture was directed by Erle Kenton, one of the screen's foremost directors of satire pictures, who is remembered for his pictures, "Down On The Farm," "A Small Town Idol," "For Honor and Behave," and others.

While the title of the picture would suggest that it deals with prohibition it does not take sides with either the "wets" or the "drys." A feature of the production is a huge balett in which more than 100 dancers take part. Irene D'Annable, who is known in Europe as well as America for her terpsichorean novelties, and who was featured in the Chauve-Souris on the Continent some years ago, has been here the last many months, directed the ballet scenes.

The Halperins are expected to close it up shortly for the release of the picture and will then return to Los Angeles to resume work in the film producing field.

LOS ANGELES GETS DUNO ESTABLISHMENT

The return from the east this week of Paul Engstrom, president of the Duro System of Auto Refinishing, brings important news to the motoring public of Southern California and Los Angeles in particular. According to Mr. Engstrom, after having been closed whereby the manufacturers of the Rolls-Royce, Cunningham, Franklin and other cars, the most expensive automobiles are now turning their cars out with this new system of finishing. The most important part of Mr. Engstrom's announcement is that it is now possible to apply this system of finishing to cars in Los Angeles, at a price no greater than that of a first-class paint job.

Motor car manufacturers are now enthusiastic of the success that Duro has made in the east, during the rigid tests to which it was subjected. Mr. Engstrom declares the finish applied by the Duro System will not crack, scratch or fade, which fact is in line with the automobile men who have had any experience with automobile painting. It is said that the Duro System adds to the important advances in the automobile world and those families with its accomplishments do not hesitate to predict a most successful future for it.

AND FROM ACORNS GROW BIG TREES

Further indication of the general prosperity which the motion picture industry is now enjoying is evidenced by an announcement issued by Edith B. Arthur, proprietor and general manager of the Great American Screen Stars Wardrobe Exchange, that the establishment is moving to new and more spacious quarters at 1649 S. Western Avenue, near Santa Monica Boulevard.

In conjunction with a few associates Mrs. Arthur has built up a big wardrobe business within the last six months and the announcement of the removal to larger quarters augurs well for these enterprising and energetic young women. They are making a specialty of selling gowns, suits, furs, hats, shoes and other feminine wearing apparel which is placed on exhibition with them by some of the most prominent of Hollywood's cinema ladies, and the values which they are now in the process of collecting are quite attractive, selling beautiful apparel for almost halfprice, and attractive figures and known figures nearly 80 per cent.

The tremendous turnover of which they enjoy enables them to offer to the public an understandable significance is attached to this announcement than would be otherwise, but stop to consider that Mrs. Arthur began her business on practically nothing except several gowns which had been placed with her by a prominent actress who was interested in her proposition and interested in her proposition with an enthusiasm. Needless to say this same star still does business with her, and is taking an active interest in the business, which is her chief worry at the moment. Her confidence has been very well rewarded.

Fate Is With Her

Dorothy Chase, erstwhile public writer for Marjorie Warfield, Mickey McLean, and others, whose work in ingenue and character parts and bits has been creating considerable attention of late, thoroughly believes in the truth of that well-known adage concerning "a tide in the affairs of men." An interesting combination of circumstances, ranging all the way from a chance bit given her with the Katherine MacDowell Company two years ago, to a trip East and the temporary retirement of her sister, Marjorie Warfield, from the London stage, to her present occupation and rising successes. Miss Chase has played with such names as W. Berger, Century, Universal, Richard Thomas, Warner Brothers and others, and has just finished a bit in Rex Ingram's "Scaramouche."
TEARLE TO GET A BIG WAGE IN CONNIE FILM

Conway Tearle, one of the highest priced leading men in the business, has signed his signature to a Joseph M. Schenck contract. He will be the leading man in the forthcoming Constance Talmadge in "A Dangerous Maid," a comedy-drama of the time of the 17th century, which Victor Heerman will direct. Produced about 1928.

The consideration involved is said to exceed anything Tearle has ever received before. In securing him for Constance's first big historic sitcom, producer Joseph M. Schenck said to tearing several other producers who were angling for his services.

Through his superlative portrayals in Norma Talmadge costume plays Tearle has won himself a place among players of that type. His work in "Purple Pride," the Norma Talmadge spectacles of old France, which he was completing under Frank Lloyd's direction, is conceded to mark the highest point in his distinguished career.

Tearle established himself firmly as the head of that small company of film artists capable of playing aristocratic roles by his deft handling of his leading part in "The Eternal Flower," in which Norma Talmadge starred. It is said that casting indexes contain only 200 out of Hollywood's 30,000 performers capable of carrying aristocratic roles, and of these Tearle is the arch-exponent.

IRENE RICH RETURNS READY FOR NEW FILM

Ruddy of cheek and bright of eye, Irene Rich, accompanied by her mother, who is more like a big white goat than a parent, returned from a short vacation trip to San Francisco where she attended the opening of "Thrua," in which she plays one of the main roles.

"I had to go through another ordeal," says Irene, who altogether is too modest for so popular a person as you see, the whole object of having a vacation in San Francisco at the opening was for a personal appearance. I just hate 'em, and from now on I'm going to stick to my trade — no more stage for me unless I go on with lines and everything. We had a dandy time, however."

She starts her first Warner start of the year in "Thrua," which will play one of the leading roles in "Masters of Men," his first production for Goldwyn.

McRea TO RETURN SOON FROM CAMERA EXPLORATION OF ORIENTAL COUNTRIES

Henry McRea, American Camera Explorer, who left Hollywood almost a month ago, will sail with the members of his expedition for this country within a few weeks, according to advisices which reached his representatives here this week.

In the course of his quest of the unusual in scenes of the Far East, Mr. McRea reports a success even beyond the hopes he entertained at the start.

His pictures for the most part have been taken in the remotest districts of Oriental countries, where natives at times not only have never heard of a railroad or an automobile, but refuse to believe of their existence.

Their very ignorance was in many cases, writes the cinematographic explorer, an advantage to his party and its aims for, having never seen or heard of a camera, much less a motion picture, the natives in many instances none of the supersitious fear of being photographed.

The itinerary of the McRea expedition included Japan, China, Siam, and some parts of India, and in the gathering of the pictorial data, more than 100,000 feet of film was expended, not including the retakes made necessary by the spoiling of much footage by the oppressive tropical heat.

The idea directing the selection of the film materials for the McRea party was not panoramic but human. As the leader himself said, "It was a range of mountains or a lake lie in a country to which white man has ever seen dozens of photographs distinctive. They look about the same as any other mountains or lake; and the sublime descriptive of their remoteness will add little interest.

"But the people in such places will have never seen one staring, toms, their habits of life, their forms of worship, their creeds of mankind, to deny the construction of joy or grief—these vary enormously."

"What I have seen and caught with the camera is but a fragment, for all that it is a hitherto unknown fragment. The Orient has not really been touched by that, to see what we have seen is the only way to realize how little there is to picture. It would take twenty years to cover thoroughly the materials we have come upon, from which we have only taken the highlights."

WOMAN BOOKING AGENT OF N. Y. VISITS HERE

Ada Humbert, one of New York's best known theatrical booking agents and one of the pioneer casting directors in the film field, is a visitor in the city this week.

"A number of former legitimate actors now employed in the films in Los Angeles will re-appear in the role of Miss Humbert was once an important role in the film 'Woman.'"

While in the city, Miss Humbert is being entertained by Eula Jansen, well-known character actress leading woman, and James Woods Morrison, one of screenland's most handsome juvenile leads, both of whom the friendship of this booking agent from the days of their respective debuts in the dramatic realm.

MURIEL DANA'S SCREEN WORK WINS FAVOR

Some child stars always seem very proud of the fact that he or she has appeared in so many productions. One started even going so far as to say that she has appeared in sixty pictures, but Muriel Dana is proud of the fact that she has appeared in only eight pictures in all of life. Upon arriving in Los Angeles some time ago, Baby Muriel was seen by Thomas H. Ince and engaged for a very important role in the picture "The Woman!" Then followed roles in "Mother O'Mine," "A Pool There Was," "D'hand," "The Sunshine Trail." The two latter productions are as yet unreleased. To have acquired the friendship of this booking agent proves her work in these productions has been of the highest caliber.

GETS GOAT FOR "SUB"

Now that Harry Myers is cast as a newspaper publisher, in the Warner Bros. production of "Seaside," he is passing the same way that Larry Blye's latest Warner Bros. production, he is passing the days and daily events that make a publisher's life a vale of tears. Harry's first bit is to receive a goat in payment for five years' bond for his newspaper, delayed on chanced paper. He is wondering if someone is going to give him an elephant for life subscription.

FALLS INTO HARBOR

Sandy Roth, the assistant director of "Little Johnny Jones," the Warner Bros. production of the George M. Cohan stage success starring Johnny Hines, has a great deal in the proverb that "pride comes before a fall." Detailled to find a deep water spot on the San Pedro harbor, he was doing his best reconnoitering when he looked too far over the bank and slipped, tasting some rather muddy water.

SETS WRECKED BY DESERT SAND STORM

Making desert scenes for a production is not an easy task. Furtner evidence of this fact was carried home in the case of Principal Pictures Corporation's company filming of Harold Bell Wright's "When A Man's A Man" in the desert region of Arizona this week.

The company which includes among its artists on Paramount, Arizona, their headquarters while on location, and drove twenty miles into the desert. Here tents were pitched and sets erected for "shooting."

During the evening of the second day, a strong wind arose which seemed to grow stronger as night fell. Several natives of Arizona area the film players returned to Prescott for the night, but early morning filming was on their schedule and director Edward F. Cline, after a quick consultation with the members of the company, decided to remain where they were.

A few hours later a huge sand mountain rose in the distance and as it moved toward the movie camp, it enlarged itself into mountain size. A powerful gust of wind was warning and the company was awakened. Quick exit was the only thing that saved them from the rushing sand-storm which demolished their sets and ripped the canvas from their tents as a clown dog went by with a paper hoop in a circus ring.

The residents of Arizona state through this experience quickly and move rapidly with the wind, tearing away the brush and all other things involved in travel. They subsided almost as quickly as they formed.

Among those who were embarrassed by sandstorm were Marguerite de la Motte, John Bowers, Robert Frazer, June Marlowe, and a host of others equally popular in filmdom. The company returned at once to Prescott and set the next day to travel to "location" every morning, returning to safety in town at the conclusion of each day's work.

Louise's Birthday

Louise Fazenda is on the June birthday calendar. It's the twentieth, and on the same day, but not year, when, according to the learned comedy queen, the battle of Bunker Hill was fought. In the role of Mabel, chief of the "Gold Diggers" series, it was the battle which was to be knocked down. But maybe the shades of '96 were jogging the Fazenda elbow.
SEELING AND HIS STAR IN PLANE THRILLER

George Larkin, star of Charles R. Seeling Productions, and Doris Dare, his leading woman, miraculously escaped serious and perhaps fatal injury a few days ago during the filming of scenes for the company's latest picture, "The Tango Cavalier," in which the star was playing an important part. The experience of the players was related today following their recovery from cuts and bruises received in the accident.

Hanging head downward from the cockpit as the plane was preparing to pull Miss Dare out of a speeding automobile, the day was very rainy and one quite unfavorable for flying, especially for stunt flying. As Pilot Goebel dipped his plane toward the speeding car, it suddenly swerved and then dropped. Grabbing Miss Dare by the hands, Larkin was thrown violently against the car, which sped on as the plane swerved to one side and sped ahead a few feet from the ground. Although a bad cut on his head was bleeding profusely, Larkin, with shrewd grit, hung to the plane and to Miss Dare while both were dragged along the ground for many feet until the plane righted itself and Larkin worked himself and Miss Dare onto one of the wings and it then dropped to the ground and came to a stop. During the excitement Vernon Walker, cameraman, had to jump for his life when the plane came to a sudden stop directly beside the car which had been driven against the side unexpectedly. His camera narrowly escaped being destroyed by the plane. Charles R. Seeling, who was directing the scene, suffered cuts and bruises when he attempted to reach the plane and to retrieve his valuable apparatus. He was knocked over by the plane and received injuries to his face, legs and other parts of his body.

The players, together with Director Seeling, were rushed to a physician where they were given first aid treatment and then taken to their homes. The scene in which the accident occurred was later exhibited in the studio projection room and reviewed by the players who have viewed it. It is one of the most unusual and thrilling scenes of its kind that has ever been recorded by a motion picture camera and adds the greatest interest and value to the production.

Malcolm St. Clair, who recently completed his contract with Robertson Cole, for whom he directed H. C. Wittchers "Fighting Blood" series, has returned from his vacation out west at Laguna Beach. The drug stores will do big business in the cold cream departments it is predicted.

IF MICKEY BECOMES A GENERAL, THIS IS WHY

Talk about fighting blood! If little Mickey McBan applies the same spirit and enthusiasm to his film work as his forefathers Melville, MacBean and Robertson-Cole, the boy his age, he's going to be one of the brightest constellations in the film sky. This is no idle boast. The boy is a major star, who is now enacting one of the major roles in "The Temple of Venus" which is being made by the Fox Studios under the direction of Henry Otto, has often been referred to as film-making's most promising newcomer. Mickey is only one and a half feet tall, but it is not until one has glanced over his long and distinguished list of ancestors that the true appropriateness of the title is revealed.

He is a direct descendant of Donald Ban, one of the first of the Scottish chiefs, and a favorite character in Highland lore. In the early part of the tenth century, a merger of the Ban clan and McAlpin clan was effected only to be later nullified by a marriage of a member of the family to the Dhu. The result was two new clans, the MacBeans and the McAlpins. Mickey's people are all of the Ban group, and it was this tribe that produced Gillis MacBean, the hero of the Battle of Culloden. As time went on the name MacBean gradually changed to McBan, and the members of Clan Ban were named for their prowess as warriors.

Frederick McBan, who was Mickey's great-grandfather, was a major of the Second Dragon Guards of the Scots Greys, which has been rated as the best of Highland fighting units. He was slain at the Battle of Inman in Russia, and his son, Wesley McBan, who was a captain of the Seaforth Highlanders, was killed in South Africa during the Boer War. The record was further enhanced by Mickey's father, Fred McBan, who saw active service at the front during the World War. He was a member of the regiment that included Sir Harry Lander's son. Lander's son was killed in action, but McBan came through unharmed and is now technical director of the Trimble-Murphy Productions producing the Strongheart series. He was born in Edinburgh and was educated in the schools of that city, at Finsbury College, London, and is a graduate of Columbia University, New York.

All of these fighters are from his father's side, but his maternal ancestors are equally distinguished. His mother's father was one of the Camerons of Australia, and her husband was the last white to escape thesavages of South Australia. Though the McBans and the McAlpins were the first of the Highland clans, and among the top of their line are only six remaining members in the world today, according to the most authentic information. The McAlpin Hotel in New York was founded by members of this group, and is today in the hands of distant relatives of the little screen starlet.

With this warrior blood in his veins Mickey should be able to put up a good fight for celluloid stardom. Perhaps some day he will bring to the shadow stage a drama of those stirring days of Robert Bruce, of the time when the Highland clans held their own and protected their native land from the soldiers of the British kings; a picture replete with the beauty of the lochs and glens of that distant country, that will bring a new and more compelling theme to the silverhke. Let the role of Rhoderick Dhu and those other romantic heroes be portrayed by one who is from their clans. It may be some time hence, but it will be worthy of patience on the part of art lovers.

Ben Hewlett has just finished six weeks engagement with the Robertson-Cole studio, playing the "Heavy" in their special, "Lights Out."

It is rumored about Hollywood that Tiny Sandford, who is playing the heavy in Sherwood MacDowell's Cirkus picture featuring Gloria Joy, is looking for a letter of introduction to his family.

Tiny has been going at top speed the past few months and wishes he had been born twins instead, so that he could carry on his work and at the same time keep on speaking terms with the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles King of 1524 Hudson Avenue, announce the arrival of a nine-pound boy. Mother and son are doing nicely.

HOLLYWOOD SOCIAL LEADER ENTERS PICTURES

After a prolonged absence from the screen, Miss Goldie Pessendone, one of Hollywood's charming society maidens will again take up the more serious duties of characterizing the blonde vamp in the silent drama. Miss Pessendone's return has been widely predicted as the affirmative reply to the much discussed topic as to which is the more "dreadful"—the blonde or the brunette type of vamp, and is one of those screen beauties, blonde, her versatility, however, lending itself to a wide range of dramatic and comedy to heavy dramatics.

In her recent appearance on the screen Miss Pessendone, who recently essayed the vamp role in Leslie T. Peacock's production, "The Midnight Flower," in which she scored a decided success, made an attempt being pronounced by the critics as a superior piece of art. Previous to her accomplishments, Miss Pessendone made her debut as Wn. Farm in "The Tale of Two Cities," and with George Vailes as "A Dinner in the Country."

Miss Pessendone is a professional classical dancer of more than usual ability, having appeared by her achievements in this capacity and has also been booked with her dancing partner as "The Castles of the Coast."

Her stage and dancing career began at the age of four at which time she took the leading dancing part in the production of "Bea Hur." Miss Pessendone says that she attributes her success to dancing, expression and dancing to thorough study and concentration, having been an entrant in the Pennsylvania Institute of Expression, the Cummock School of Expression and has studied under Professor Miller at the American Institute of Music.

Miss Pessendone has also endeared herself to the Los Angeles and Hollywood Everyman for having so often lent her talent to charitable and other social causes, having depicted the role of Galatia, of Pygmalion and Galatia at one of the annual events of the Auditorium given by the Theatrical Mechanical Association; appeared with Lilian Burkhardt in the Four Seasons Tower, the "Kings Cup," a benefit for the Los Angeles Orphans Home and took a prominent part in the Sunbeam Society Ball to benefit the "Shut-ins" and invalids.

It was Lincoln's Move

Lincoln Plumer and family lived in Los Angeles three years. Last week, while motoring out Hollywood way, the little boy remarked, "Hollywood is the garden spot of the world."

Lincoln's address has been changed to the Hollywood Apartments.
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, June 18

Camera! intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-360.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BERWILLA STUDIO. 5821 Santa Monica Blvd. Ashton Dearholt, Pro. Mgr. Holly 3130</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eddie Lyons Productions (Arrow release). Eddie Lyons</td>
<td>Eugene De Rue</td>
<td>McGil</td>
<td>Cooke</td>
<td>Diltz</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ben Wilson Productions (Federated release). J. Ince</td>
<td>The Washburns</td>
<td>Linden</td>
<td>Stevens</td>
<td>N. Blair</td>
<td>&quot;The Love Trap&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BRENTWOOD STUDIO. 4811 Fountain Ave. 598-146</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Century Comedies (Universal release). Eddie Sutherland</td>
<td>Monte Bell</td>
<td>&quot;Public Opinion&quot;</td>
<td>23rd Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHAPLIN STUDIO. Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr. 1416 La Brea Ave. Holly 4070</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Regent Film Company. (United Artists release). Eddie Sutherland</td>
<td>&quot;The Circus&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHOICE STUDIO. 6044 Sunset Blvd. 439-764</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Scott Sidney</td>
<td>Jimmy Adams</td>
<td>Nagy</td>
<td>Jas. Clemens</td>
<td>Comedies</td>
<td>Comedy</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sherwood MacDonald Productions. MacDonald</td>
<td>Gloria Joy</td>
<td>Beckway</td>
<td>Eddie Saunders</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Independent Art Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sphinx Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Underwood Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Suckard Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Better Picture Association</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>West Coast Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crescent Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leslie T. Peacock Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FOX STUDIO. Arthur Forde, Casting. 1401 N. Western Ave. Fred Kley, Studio Mgr. Holly 3000</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buckingham</td>
<td>Stock</td>
<td>Harry</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Al St. John</td>
<td>St. John</td>
<td>Ernest S. DeKep</td>
<td>Benny Stodoll</td>
<td>Rye</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rolf Summervilla</td>
<td>Stock</td>
<td>Al Herman</td>
<td>&quot;The Circus&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lamberts Hillard</td>
<td>Tom Mix</td>
<td>Dan Clark</td>
<td>Eugene Ford</td>
<td>&quot;Lone Star Ranger&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Erle Kenton</td>
<td>Lew Brice</td>
<td>Joe August</td>
<td>&quot;The Temple of Venus&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Henry Osse</td>
<td>Phyllis Haver</td>
<td>Schneiderman</td>
<td>Ed Peeny</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Ford</td>
<td>John Gilbert</td>
<td>Max Gold</td>
<td>Harvey Gates</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Duxbury</td>
<td>Chas. Jones</td>
<td>Max Gold</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FRANCIS FORD STUDIO. 6040 Sunset Blvd. Holly 2632</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rocky Mt. Production Co. 1426 Beechwood Dr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GARSON STUDIOS. 1845 Glendale Blvd. Wilshire 81</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Metro Release. Harry Carson</td>
<td>Nilson-Kerrigan</td>
<td>Richardson</td>
<td>Cowan</td>
<td>&quot;Havoc&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDSTONE STUDIO. 1426 Beechwood Dr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phil Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release). Staff</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDWYN STUDIO. R. B. McIntyre, Casting. Culver City. 76177</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Van Stormbein</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>&quot;Battlin' Buckaroo&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charles Brain</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>&quot;Wild &amp; Wooley&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Melan-Urono</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>&quot;Here's Looking at You&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Too Brown</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>&quot;The Boss&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geo. D. Baker</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>&quot;The Saga of Gypsy&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Victor Scatrom</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>&quot;The Spirit of the Plow&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Emmae Lynn</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>&quot;The Unknown Purple&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cosmopolitan Productions.</td>
<td>George W. Hill, All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Carlos Productions.</td>
<td>Roland West</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monte Banks Production, Inc. 1438 Gower St. Ben Verschleiser, General Manager. Holly 162</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Herman Raymaker, Monte Banks</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sid Smith Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Joe Rock Productions, Inc.</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedy</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bill Williams</td>
<td>Leslie Goodman</td>
<td>&quot;Hats&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ken. MacLean</td>
<td>Chas. LeMont</td>
<td>Chas. LeMont</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Director</td>
<td>Star</td>
<td>Cameraman</td>
<td>Asst Director</td>
<td>Scenarist</td>
<td>Type</td>
<td>Progress</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>----------------</td>
<td>---------------------</td>
<td>-----------------</td>
<td>---------------</td>
<td>-----------</td>
<td>-----------------</td>
<td>----------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Finis Fox Prod.</td>
<td>R. R. Beatty, Gen.Mgr.</td>
<td>Finis Fox</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supreme Art Productions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Bob Horner Productions (Independent release) | 1442 Beachwood Drive |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Horner |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| World Educational Films |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Cha, R. Seelinger Productions (Ayon release) | 1442 Beachwood Drive |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Seelinger |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |

| INCE STUDIO. Horace Williams, Casting. Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr. Culver City |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Palmor Photoplay Productions |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Cortland Productions |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Mrs. Wallace Reid Productions |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Trimble-Morris Productions |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Martin-McCoskey All-Star |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Laurette Trumble Stroeschart |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Assoc. Authors, Inc |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| W. S. Vandyke All-Star |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |

| LASKY STUDIOS. L. M. Goodstadt, Casting. 1520 Vine St. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Paramount Pictures. (Famous Players-Lasky Release.) |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Herb, Bresson |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Wm. DeMille |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Victor Fleming |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| James Cruze |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Cecil B. DeMille |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Geo. Seefeldt |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| John M. Stahl |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Tom Forman All-Star |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Vic Schertzinger |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Joe Doolin |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Art Dix |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| METRO STUDIO. Romainc and Cahuenga Ave. Harry Kerr, Casting. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Oscar Angell |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Rex Ingram Productions. (Metro release) |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Edward Soman Productions |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| NEVA GERBER PRODUCTIONS. 6735 Holly Blvd. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| NATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Pickford-Fairbanks Studios. Individual Casting. 7100 Santa Monica Blvd. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| United Artists Release. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| I. A. Hall |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 7100 Santa Monica Blvd. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| Hal Roach Comedies (Pathes release). |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |

---

CAMERAI

| HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS. 6642 Santa Monica Blvd. J. Jasper, Mgr. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |
| ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr. |                   |                   |                   |           |                 |          |

---

Holly 1431

Holly 1437

Holly 761731

Holly 2400

Holly 2448

Holly 4470

Holly 7901

Holly 2806

Holly 7780

Holly 761-721
CAMELIA
"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"
Page Nineteen

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ROCKETT-LINCOLN COMPANY. Chas. Huber, Casting.</th>
<th>类型</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Phil Rosen</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Curly-Browning</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R. D. Russell</td>
<td>Al Mohr</td>
<td>Fred Allen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Logans All-Star Productions</td>
<td>MacDonald</td>
<td>Kane-Walsh</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>RAY STUDIO. Albert A. Kidder, Jr., Gen’l Mgr. 1425 Fleming St.</th>
<th>类型</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>HOLLY 2176</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RUSSEL STUDIO. B. D. Russell, Mgr. 1439 Beachwood Dr.</td>
<td>类型</td>
<td>Progress</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WILLY 7945-6</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SUNSET PRODUCTIONS. 7425 Sunset Blvd.</th>
<th>类型</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Al Russell</td>
<td>Bert Longnecker</td>
<td>Ray Dyer</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>UNITED STUDIOS. 5341 Melrose. M. C. Levee, Pres. Nan Collins, Casting.</th>
<th>类型</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>HOLLY 4080</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>UNIVERSAL STUDIO. Fred Datig, Casting.</th>
<th>类型</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>570-081</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>UNIVERSAL Film Manufacturing Co. (Universal Release).</th>
<th>类型</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Tilting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Segwick</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Doran</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Dobie</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Chapman</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Corbett</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Webb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Laemmle</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>J. Myers</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Warren</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Warren</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Clarke</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WM. Parke</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Smith</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>VITAGRAPH STUDIOS. 1708 Talmadge. W. S. Smith, Gen Mgr.</th>
<th>类型</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>598131</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>W mortar Brothers STUDIOS. 5842 Sunset Blvd.</th>
<th>类型</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>HOLLY 4181</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>WILNAT STUDIO. 6070 Sunset Blvd.</th>
<th>类型</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>HOLLY 7940</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

M a r i o n  W a r d e
Acting and Make-Up for Stage and Motion Pictures. A Legitimate, Practical School of Results. Classical, Character, Ballet, and Step-Dancing.
423-4 Music Arts Bldg. Phone 821-181 233 So. Broadway
Why Pay Big Studio Rentals? Here's a Snap!
Space to rent at Bronx Studios. Open and covered stages. Exceptional opportunities for independent producers who want to save substantial sum on overhead. Investigate!
H. and B. Film Company
Bronx Studio, 1743 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles.
Wiltshire 4275
LITTLE BO PEEP

(Continued from Page 3)

ther between, and then at length sleep came to relieve the tortured little soul of the terror of consciousness.

At the end of fourteen years the little child who had cried herself to sleep on that frightful night of hunger and loneliness, woke up at dawn on the same straw mattress into which she had sobbed her first childishly grief. When the earliest ray of sun crept through the tiny window to caress the tangled flaxen curls, she stretched a slim bare leg from beneath her ragged blanket, brushed the lingering droppings from her eyes, and shook the loose straw from her head and shoulders as she jumped to her feet. She was dressed in the garments of a boy,—a pair of trousers that ended well above the knees, a loose blouse, girded in at the waist with a bit of rope, the sleeves of which fell away from her round white arms in tatters—leaving them bare almost to the shoulders.

As she drew water from the well and set it to boiling over the fire, the man in the opposite corner of the room turned over in his bed of straw and watched her with sulen, disapproving eyes. The girl was mixing meal and milk in a stone bowl, and as she worked she sang softly to herself with a voice as sweet as a meadow lark’s. The man in the corner rose from his bed and stretched his great brawny body. Then turned up upon the girl.

“Quit that infernal racket I tell you; It’s bad enough that I should see you—without hearin’ you all the time!”

So the singing stopped and the meal was ground in silence.

Since that night when Patrick MacMahon had returned and found his home deserted, a black cloud seemed to have settled about him, frowning him in and shutting out the sunlight from his life. And he gave vent to all his ill feelings against the world through unkindness toward any living thing, and in particular toward the daughter he wished had been a boy.

Among the villagers he was known as “Black Patrick,” and they often shook their heads in regret of the change that had taken place in him. The girl had grown up without friends or companions—knowing no love save that given freely by the sheep dog and the flocks she herded. Her father never called her by his name, and to the villagers she was known only as “Bo Peep,” the nickname given her by her mother.

While “Black Patrick” stood at the side of the cabin dashing his eyes with cold water, Bo Peep unlaced a fat sow and her ten chubby offspring to the hearthstone where she placed a bowl of milk for the tiny pigs. Then she turned back the blanket from her straw bed and gathered the soft woolly body of a baby lamb to her breast, crooning soft words to the little creature. She stood with it in her arms and rocked it gently to and fro, when the doorway of the cabin was darkened by the entrance of “Black Patrick.” The frown deepened upon his brow as his love fell upon the old sow and her young one.

“So,” he growled, “You feed the swine while I stand around empty!”

And with a saveral kicks he sent the little pigs tumbling across the door sill. Bo Peep’s eyes were filled with an unspoken hurt, and she quickly stowed the baby lamb away in her straw bed.

“You breakfast is cooking, father,” she said, then with a coaxing little smile she drew nearer to him, adding: “Come, let me take the bits of straw from your beard while we wait.” But Patrick brushed her roughly aside, saying:

“Thank you I can let half the day go by while you fool around with your eternal nonsense!” and the smile faded from Bo Peep’s lips, as she turned away to take the meal crumbs from the glowing coals.

In silence they ate their breakfast, while Bo Peep, under cover of the table, dropped bits of food into the waiting jaws of a huge, shaggy shepherd dog. At length she timidly addressed the sudden man who sat across the table, "Father," she said, smiling up at him,
"They say that today the Prince will pass on this way to the hunt. I wish that I might see him—only I couldn't leave my sheep—could I, father?"

Patrick scowled at her until her smile was gone. He did not like that smile; it made him remember things. "Faith!" he sneered.
"A pretty pass we've come to when a maid can leave her flock and hie herself off to the village for a holiday to see a paltry Prince pass by!"

So Bo Peep did not go to the village that day. Instead she gathered her curls up under a peaked cap, adorned with a seragly feather, and taking her little lamb under one arm unlatched the pasture gates and followed her flock of snowy sheep along the winding stream to the hillside where they grazed.

Along with her flock she sat beneath a shady tree and watched the white clouds drift across the sky—like so many sheep.
"The wind must be their shepherd," she whispered to herself. Often she was lonely as she sat there on the hillside; but she would have been more lonely were she not able to make companions of the beings who dwelt in her imagination. She was sure that fairies lived in the hollow trees, and she liked to pretend she was one of them. She knew that the birds understood when she talked to them, and many of her sheep she knew by name, and when she called they would come and eat out of her hand. She wondered about many things as she sat there alone, and most of all she wondered why the birds and the sheep and the fairies could not quite keep her from being lonely. She did not know that it was love—love which she longed, —the love of a mother, and the need of a human companion.

Suddenly the quick, muffled beat of horses' hoofs upon the hillside trail broke in upon her lonely musings. One of the great sheep dogs stood alert, his ears bent forward, his inquisitive nose sniffing the air excitedly. Then he bounded away through the trees and reached the path just in time to dart suddenly over from under the underbrush and bark ferociously at the heels of the galloping horse. Frightened by the sudden appearance of the dog the horse stopped short, reared up on its hind legs, pawed the air with its forefeet, and then as it broke into a mad run, stumbled over the barking dog that darted across the path under its very heels.

Bo Peep sprang to her feet. She had

---

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry" Page Twenty-one

Coy Watson, Jr.
Age 10. Wilshire 3616
Release:
"No Lack."
"You Never Know."
"The Right of the Strongest."
With E. K. Lincoln

Doctors
FORD & FORD
Palmer Graduate
Scientific Spinal
Adjustments
Individual Test
Rooms

Ann Mac Ford
D.C., Ph.C.
Office
Ground Floor
Henry Ford
D.C., Ph.C.

CHIROPRACTORS
5911 Hollywood Boulevard
Mon., Wed., Friday Evenings, 6 to 8
19 to 12-3-5

THIS SPACE
INTRODUCING
MRS. JAMES T. CRAIG
1310 Lilac Terrace
Near 1400 Sunset
Los Angeles, Calif.

Evening Clothes, Sport Wear, Hats, Very Reasonable
Catering to the profession. Disposing of complete wardrobes on a commission basis. Can always place High Class exclusive wearing apparel
STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL

HILLYVIEW GRILL
Hillview Apartments 1125
Hollywood at Hudson
Holly 7980 Holly 6826
11:30 to 2 5:30 to 8

MERCHANTS LUNCH

We take great pleasure in announcing our new offices and showrooms at 1033-1037 Broadway Place where we will maintain an enlarged and most complete stock of fur robes, fur rugs, and mountings of all descriptions. We have exceptional facilities for fur storage and renovating.

COLBURN'S TAXIDERMY
STUDIO
1033-1037 Broadway Place Telephone 643-13

HOOVER STUDIOS
The Finest Quality Professional
Portraiture. All Sittings are Made by Appointment.
1616 Vine St. Phone Holly 9161

CAMERA D.C., which

Publicity Engineer
Tamar Lane
Holly 737

'Service to Producer
and
Justice to Performer'

SCREEN SERVICE
(formerly The Service Bureau)
1036 South Hill
Phone 821-071

Hardee Kirkland
Hollywood 6298
(Fort Worth says about the sketch
"The Man Higher Up," in which
Mr. Kirkland appeared with Theodore Roberts):

"Usually, the movie star is the only thing to play, but Hardee Kirkland, the second and only other member of the cast, rivaled the distinguished 'father of the films' for top position honors."

YOUR PHONOGRAPH
will reproduce in soft Mellow
Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a
Deflexograph
Fits any Phonograph or Victrola
Using Changeable Needles
Play after hours
—will not disturb.
Deflexograph at aches to needle holder, filters sound oscillations prevents scratch and surface noises entering sound
box. No metallic noises.

$1.00
Gold Plate $1.50
Silver Plate $2.00
NICKEL PLATE $1.00.

VANTONIE CO., Dept. 416
110 W. 13th St. New York, N. Y.
WHEN THE MARSHIE METHOD WILL REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT A POUND A DAY SAFELY, INEXPENSIVELY AND PERMANENTLY.

Consultation free.

Phone 593-262 for appointment.

Home Office:
1733 Maltman Ave.
Los Angeles, Cal.

Have your figure permanently Marshelled NOW.

Portait Painting

....the individual touch that makes your photographs distinctive. Special rates for fan pictures. The highest grade work at reasonable prices.

Emma G. Hoffman
907 Central Bldg. Phone 142-38

Announcing the appointment of

ROSE McQUOID as Casting Director of the

IVAN KAHN AGENCY
5540 Hollywood Boulevard

NEWS FROM NEW YORK
(Continued from Page 6)

Charles Murray quit the C. C. Burr organization last week to retire from pictures. Charles says he may do one once in a blue moon for pastime, but not again as a steady diet.

If you Hollywoodians want to see a great show don't fail to see "Romeo and Juliet" with Jane Cowl. The Shakespeare play has just closed a twenty week run at the Henry Miller Theatre and will open in Los Angeles at the Mason July 5th.

The Annual Gambol of the Lambs at the Earl Carroll Theatre Sunday night is said to have grossed $15,000 for the organization. The programs brought $900.

Tears and laughter mingled freely Saturday night when Will Rogers cried as he said An Revoi to his pals (men and girls) at the "Polly's." Rogers left for the Coast.

heard the bawl of the dog, the cry of a man, and a heavy thud as the horse and rider were thrown to the ground. She left her sheep in a panic, as the cattle were flying in a wild group, and one paw lifted from the ground, the rider was nowhere to be seen.

And then when she found him—she tilted her head skyward with a look that could have broken the heart of a girl and kinked at his side and lifted his head to her lap. When her fingers touched the red blood on his cheek, he smiled filled with sudden tears, and to the dog that crouched beside her she whispered tremulously—"Oh Shamrock—see what you have done! He is hurt—he does not speak—and there is blood upon his face!"

Then resting his head upon a bed of moss, she went to his horse and took from behind the saddle a canteen of water, and bending over him again bathed his face with a bit of cloth torn from the tattered sleeve of her blouse.

Slowly the man's eyes opened, and as from a distance he heard a soft voice whisper: "Look Shamrock—he wakens! And soon he will speak to us!" For a moment more the stranger lay still and felt the soft touch of gentle fingers as they smoothed the hair back from his forehead. Then he drew himself up on one elbow and looked at the little figure that knelt beside him. The wide open blue eyes were smiling from the strength of his own, and the peaked cap, adorned with its seragally feather and pulled down low at a jaunty angle, allowed not even the cheek to protrude from beneath its edge. The man's lips parted in an answering smile: "You have been good to me little lad," he said.

The latest contribution of the speaking stage is the person of Joseph Schildkraut, he of "Lilim" fame, who has just completed work in the New York theatre Guild's production of "Peer Gynt." Mr. Schildkraut will play the leading male role in Victor Sennstrom's production of "Master and Man," now under production at the Goldwyn studios.

Gambling on the future popularity of today's screen favorites, a hazardous occupation of picture producers in the past, appears to have more security as much greater business capacity as a London Lloyd's policy. The straws that show the direction of the wind now are being used to show the location and volume of screen applause.

Back of the announcement that Kenneth Harlan has signed a long term contract with the United Artists, nothing to be said about the conditions, is a story of the manner in which favorites are identified by the producer.

We Need More Room!

Our phenomenal growth forces us to seek larger and more convenient quarters.

On Monday, June 18th, we will be in our new home at 1060 North Western Avenue, just off Santa Monica Boulevard.

Enlarged Stock's multiply opportunities for money-saving, extraordinary values, prompt and conscientious service.

Screen Stars Wardrobe Exchange
1060 North Western Ave.
Phone 435-677

Wanted...DIAMONDS

Highest Cash Prices Paid for Yours

SIDNEY D. COHN
909 Bank of Italy Bldg.
Corner Seventh and Olive Sts.

THE FIGHTS

eVerY FRiday niGht.
PHOne holly 100 for ResErvaTions. D o N T forgEt.......

AMERICAN LEGION STADIUM
Hollywood at El Centro

S E E BRUNO

For Your Casting Director Photos
4142 Hollywood Boulevard
PHONE HOLLY 3821

Adeline M. Alvord
Books Plays Motion Picture Enterprises
211 HOLLYWOOD SECURITY BUILDING
Telephone Hollywood 8029

Young man now engaged by large Los Angeles firm desires connection with film celebrity in capacity of private secretary, several hours evenings. Expert stenographer, executive ability, perfect knowledge of French and English.

Address Secretary, care Camera! 6318 Hollywood Blvd.
SUSANNA THOMAS

Terpsichorean and Dramatic Artist

567-322
Auto Refinish
SYSTEM

Method and material adopted by the world’s largest manufacturers of fine automobiles for “painting” and finishing cars.

Applied in our Los Angeles plant by time-saving factory methods which gives a smoother, more lasting finish than baked enamel.

We Put an Original Finish on your Car 2 to 6 Days

Complete—including burn off, sanding to glass-like smoothness, filling and applying of 10 to 15 coats of Duro—ready to use in less than a week.

Guaranteed not to check, scratch or fade, Duro finish is not affected by weather, salt air, gasoline, water, mud, alkali, flying sand or brush.

Think of it! A “Repaint” with the same finish NOW adopted for the world’s finest motor cars—complete in a week. Come and see the finished cars in our new plant.

2811 Leeward Avenue at Hoover between 7th & 8th Streets
Los Angeles
Telephone Dunkirk 1430

Our folder explains Duro System in detail. Ask for it!
AUTHENTIC DETAILS AND PHOTOGRAPHS OF FOREIGN INTERIORS AND EXTERIORS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

INTERNATIONAL CINEMA RESEARCH
L.A. HOWLAND
300-301 HOLLYWOOD SECURITY BLDG.

Extras Wanted

in the preparation of a set are often wanted in a hurry, and that's the time when our shop, with its complete selection of bric-a-brac, proves its true worth. Before placing orders for your next picture see our antique furniture, oil paintings, bronzes, statues, and the many other things we have here that will improve your backgrounds one hundred per cent. Yes, of course, we buy, sell, rent and exchange. We're in HOLLYWOOD.

Foster's ANTIQUE SHOP
4534 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 598-030

Courtearle Park
owners
Courtney Foote — Conway Tearle

THE SUBURB BEAUTIFUL— with a wonderful vista of the Santa Monica and green Verdugo hills, it makes an ideal homesite. Values are increasing daily. A visit will convince you!

LOTS FROM $475 UP

Ventura Boulevard Frontage
$40 Per Front Foot and Up

Drive out Ventura Boulevard to Sherman Way, then three blocks west to tract office.

CLEVELAND-BLAIR REALTY CO.
200 Wilcox Building, Los Angeles, California

"Make-Up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry"

It is very difficult to satisfy motion picture people where make-up is concerned for a good make up is absolutely essential to the perfect interpretation of a part, and this means that they must exercise the greatest discrimination in the selection of their material. Probably an unusual sales knack has been responsible for our consistent success, but we prefer to credit it to the quality of our merchandise and the conscientious service we render. We believe we can say in all sincerity that everyone who has patronized us has become our steadfast friend.

ZAN MAKE-UP SHOP
819 South Hill ---- Pico 498
As the Editorial Mind Works

Fortune smiles on the one who smiles on misfortune and everything in all creation frowns on any frown. So, why frown?

Occasionally there is reason to doubt someone, but as a general rule, doubts are uncalled-for. Filmland is no place for Doubting Thomases just as it is no place for Cheap Johns. The chap who is most welcome is the Tom, Dick or Harry who's in earnest and will work assiduously and honestly.

Troublesome times are ahead in the Ruhr nor is the Chinese situation encouraging and the Balkan question is up again, all of which is mentioned merely to remind one and all just how lucky a fellow is to be living amid the glories of Southern California, where peace and prosperity rule supremely.

"Opera de Photoplay" is one of the possibilities of the early future and in fact it is being tried in a practical way right now. What, with musical movies, can be the next goal for those ever in quest of something new under the sun which is supposed to shine upon no such a thing!

Although you do not hear so much about it any more, the high cost of living is still well elevated. We bought a new straw the other day and if we had bought it one day earlier we would have saved fifty cents. We're not complaining, but we are pointing out the incontrovertible fact that prices seem as reluctant to come down as wages are to go up.

Motion picture people will find much to appeal to their artistic desires in the symphony concerts to be given in the Hollywood Bowl this summer and it is to be hoped that they will prove their willingness to support something so worth-while in musical uplift. Meanwhile it will help prodigiously to have it become known generally that photoplayer as a body are more interested in the best there is in music than they are in "wild parties," which have been so greatly exaggerated by the press at large.

Liquor is getting more plentiful in Prohibition America every day. In fact, it is getting so plentiful that the prices are being reduced amazingly. Practically none of the best citizens are helping in any way to have the liberty-denying law enforced and as a consequence it is the greatest farce ever written as legislation. Now why in the name of every ordinary common-sense doesn't the populace of the nation arise in its might and obliterate all this illicit traffic by legalizing light wines and beers whereby the fabulous fortunes boot-leggers are making would be diverted into the federal treasury in the form of taxes, automatically reducing several totally unfair taxation under which the people are now struggling so valiantly!

According to reports emanating from those "in the know," this is no time for anyone in any branch of the picture-making business to make a "blind jump" to New York City with the idea of getting an engagement there, because conditions are decidedly bad throughout Gotham so far as filming activities are concerned. It is estimated that practically ninety per cent of all filming is being done in Southern California and this is the place to stay if the wolves of poverty are to be kept away. Other conditions in the business world in general are good throughout the east and there is a more rapid movement towards normalcy than ever before since the war, but Los Angeles and environs constitute the center of photoplay-building and it is therefore the center of Jobs in this line of work.

Those who make motion pictures and those who take them are both important, but those who pay for the making and the taking—the great army of patrons of movie theatres—are even more important and should be at the bottom of every consideration more than ever now. It is no longer to be accepted without reservation that no one knows what the public wants, because it is being demonstrated that it is not difficult to ascertain this pretty accurately. Most everybody should know the public wants good pictures and most anybody who knows anything at all about the various elements entering into the making of a good motion picture should know just about how to go about supplying the demand. Frankly, there is seldom any excuse whatsoever for a bad picture in these days of abundance of all kinds of film-wise brains.

It is utterly beyond the normal comprehension why Los Angeles newspapers are so ready to present news of inevitable tragedies in the film world in ways so derogatory to film folk in general. Is it not enough to have out-of-town papers take advantage of opportunities to scandalize? Verily, it would seem the part of the most fundamental prudence and simple conservation of civic pride to adopt policies such as would at least avoid unsavory intimations founded entirely upon some reporter's conclusions. If the Detroit newspapers defamed people in the motor car industry with as much reckless abandon as Los Angeles newspapers defame people in the motion picture industry, there probably would be a protest of national scope if such scandalizing tended to interfere with the efficiency in automobile factories and the morale of those upon whom the legions of people depend for dependable motor service. It is certain the proclivity of the local dailies for making mountains out of mole-hills every time a screen celebrity breaks into print unfavorably has a detrimental effect upon the morale of the big army of earnest men and women upon whom the great public depend for the best humanly possible in the way of motion picture entertainment. Is it just or is it right?
“Having people want you to do what you want to do—that’s about all anybody could ask for, isn’t it?—J. M. Bundscho who has relinquished the advertising management of “Camera!” to Mr. John Cornyn in order to devote more time to his publicity accounts. Mr. Fox will continue with this publication as Director of Advertising Copy and Exploitation, but the active liaison between advertisers and the magazine will be carried on by Mr. Cornyn.

ANNOUNCING the establishment of a complete and comprehensive motion picture publicity service at 6318 Hollywood Boulevard under the direction of

FRED W. FOX

No effort will be spared in rendering an unexcelled publicity and exploitation service. Inquiries are invited from progressive players, directors and producers who realize the value of the right kind of publicity, preferably those who have established themselves to some degree in the profession.

Moderate rates will prevail. All types of material will be handled; newspaper and magazine news bulletins and feature stories with local, national and international distribution. Our aim is to supply the press with truthful, timely, and interesting news; news that will be NEWS for the newspaper and PUBLICITY for the client.

Fred W. Fox
Motion Picture News and Advertising Service
6318 Hollywood Blvd.
Hollywood, California
A Eulogy Due and by Others Unpaid

When the news of the untimely and tragic death of Evelyn Nelson was broad-cast to the public this week by the Los Angeles Times, a host of facts and alleged facts were presented in such a way as to leave room for any kind of an unsavory deduction to the real story behind the sad affair. The sensationalism of the present-day yellow press is so completely banal—one was that Miss Nelson had ended her own life and the other is that she had been a motion picture star. Certain passages in the farewell note she left to her mother and sister were written so as to make it appear as if she might have been a drug addict. Those who knew Miss Nelson best know there could be no malicious conclusion farther from the truth inasmuch as she at no time in her career had any objectionable habits of any sort.

The possibility of a love affair with a prominent screen star being the cause of an unfortunate girl's ill-advised act may be serving of some credence, but certainly it is the light ungraciously chosen by the press. It is a profession for suicide to follow unrequited love or bitter disappointment in the turn of events which seem to close the door to any aspect for future happiness. Self-destruction under such circumstances is not only so extraordinary as it was made to seem in this instance merely because people prominent in the motion picture world were involved.

The contents of the late Miss Nelson's last note would indicate that discouragement for her struggle for success as an artist was more to blame for her temporary delusion of mind than anything else. It to be satisfied with a cause so lacking in sensational elements did not seem to be possible with those who wrote the reports the tragedy. There can be no gainsaying thearking injustice heaped upon members of the press fraternity by the press, there is no lightest excuse and in this case a young woman of very fine character and many admirable traits was the victim of such maligning after she had ceased to be capable of defending herself.

Here is the farewell note she left and it is printed in full with no additions or eliminations:

MOTHER Dear and Dott:
I am going away tonight. I am tired. I know I am being very unkind to you. I love you both. I know you have done all you could to make me happy. I have lost my ambition. I don't even want to work any more and I couldn't if I wanted to. I want rest more than anything in the world and I am going to find it. Please forgive me if you can. God bless you both. EVELYN.

As must be perfectly apparent to everyone, it would be difficult to so far misconstrue these lines into giving any substance to any theories having to do with the use of drugs or an ill-fated affair, the facts as stated are such that there are those who know Miss Nelson had fostered a strong, honorable affection for a certain young man, but the fact that there had been such a love affair there was no happy fruition to it does not justify intimations reflecting discredit upon anyone. The willingness of the local press to jump to such conclusions simply because the ones involved in the story happen to be picture people is not to be condoned by anyone believing in ordinary fair play. And, Miss Nelson's life was such as to command admiration rather than implied condemnation. Her many friends know this positively, but due to the manner of presenting the story of her sad ending a very small percentage of the public has believe it now. Therefore, she has been done an everlasting injury in no way deserved.

The last rites conducted over her remains this week constituted an eloquent answer to all the attacks which have been made upon her. These uncalled-for charges and calumnies had a funeral in filmland been so largely attended by so many nobles of the motion picture industry in which the deceased was to have been a part in the future. The floral offerings were so extensive as to make it a really difficult problem to care for all the flowers.

Those who served as pall-bearers were: Jack McDermott, Robert Dillon, Charles King, Craig Hutchinson, Leo White and S. W. DeWosven each had known the deceased for many years, not one of them knowing a single thing which could be interpreted as derogatory to her character. In conclusion, the tragic case of Evelyn Nelson shall go on record as an outstanding protest of all filmdom against the usual press treatment of its people and it is to be devoutly hoped all newspapers will see the error of their way in indulging in so much fulsome sensationalism that is such a distinct gain of devoting their energies to being more generous to those who pass into the Great Beyond.

The Fate of Big Pictures Promising

"Special pictures—bigger and better!"

"That's the cry going up from the general public using the exhibitors as a mouthpiece," declared Floyd Brockwell, general sales manager of First National Pictures, Inc., in an address before the annual convention of film sales managers from the principal cities of the Pacific Coast and the Rocky Mountain states.

The cry for big specials cannot be resisted," says Brockwell. "The general public's taste for pictures advances just as fast as the art of picture-making progress. Exhibitors throughout the nation are convinced of this, hence they are calling for bigger and better—and lots of them.

"The public's taste of certain types of photodramas may be fickle, but they always want the best. For this reason First National will offer to the screen public more than seventy of the finest 'specials' to be made this year.

"A canvass of the situation has shown that these exhibitors are looking forward to the release of First National specials and are making preparations for a big film season. We have had thousands of inquiries regarding Norma Talmadge's 'Purple Pride,' now being directed at the United Studios by Frank Lloyd. The announcement that Thomas H. Ince will deliver not less than four big specials for First National distribution has been widely applauded by the men who know the picture-going public.

"Richard Walton Tully's 'Trilogy,' John M. Stahl's 'The Wablers,' Frank Borzage's 'Children of Dust,' and 'Dust in the Doorway,' Constance Talmadge's 'Dusty,' which she has just completed and her The Dangerous Maid' and 'Mme. Pompadour' to be made in the near future have attracted no small amount of attention.

"It is safe to say that George Fitzmaurice's 'The Eternal City' and Samuel Goldwyn production of 'Potash and Perlmutter' will be two of the picture drawing cards of next season. Edwin Carewe's 'The Girl of the Golden West' and 'The Bad Man' will be specials worth while and John M. Stahl's future production, which will include 'Why Men Leave Home' and 'Women That Pass in the Night,' are already eliciting a very large number of inquiries.

"Previews of Maurice Tourneur's 'The Brass Bottle' and James Young's 'Wandering Daughters' have convinced First National executives that these two dramas are of exceptional box office drawing power. Charles M. Duell's presentation of Richard Barthelmess in 'The Bright Shawl' and 'The Fighting Blade' will make screen history as will the enormous production planned by Joseph M. Schenck in which Norma Talmadge will play. These films, which will include 'Secrets' and 'Dust of Desire.'"

First National's own production of a limited number of pictures to round out the new season of special presentations were explained to the convention by John McCormick, western representative of First National and by Earl J. Hudson, production manager of the unit and Richard Walton Tully, who is acting in the capacity of assistant.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., June 20.—The film of "Youth Triumphant," first picture of the new Goldwyn Studio recently dedicated by the Hollywood Studios, was brought to San Francisco last week, and has been given a preview at the new Pilmrove Theatre, before the stockholders of the organization, and a few invited guests. It was much enjoyed by the small audience, as it is well filmed, and the cast contains such well known names as Anna Q. Nilsson, Raymond Hatton, George Siegman, Joseph Dowling, Virginia Lee Corbin, Lucy Bevan, Boyd, Erwin, Arthur Jasmine, and Eugene Beeser, with Glen MacWilliams at the camera.

Jean Hersholt, who is playing Marcus in the Eric Von Stroheim production of "Greed," met with an accident last Thursday, which might have been very serious. The company was working on a picnic sequence at the Bristol Oakland, and Hersholt and Gibson Gowland, as Marcus and McTeague, were staging their big fight in the story, when Gowland threw Hersholt over for the employee to collect. I knew on his head and back with such force that he became unconscious, and Dr. J. W. Peck of the hospital, hastily called, declared for a while that his back might be broken. The injured man was rushed to a hospital, where X-Ray pictures were taken till it was decided that the hurt was not serious. Hersholt was later able to return to work.

The Redwood Films company of this city is making most interesting production plans to be carried out in the near future. They expect to make as their first picture a five- reel feature dealing with conditions in the Ruhr District. The story is by Walter Mon-tague and has an allegorical prologue, and the whole production will be shot in the country in which the scenes are laid, which means that the company will go to England, Germany, France, and Russia. Richard Kip- ling will have a prominent part in the making of the picture. At the same time the organization will make short travelogues of the countries in which they work.

Allan Mackenzie, motion picture manager of New York, and Los Angeles, has come to San Francisco with a view to settling permanently here. He will work in conjunction with Frank L. Burt, vice-president of the Pacific Coast, and expects to begin work shortly on a picture to be made at the San Mateo Studios.

James Flood, director for Fox, and a cast and crew, arrived here last Friday, arriving on San Francisco on the boat last Saturday. They had worked on the boat and did some street scenes here, and left for Los Angeles on Monday evening. The picture is being filmed under the working title of "The Best Man Wins." Walter Mayo is assistan writer, and the production is being handled by William Russell, Dorothy Devore, Lloyd Whitlock, Edgar Sherrod, and others. Arthur B. Cohen is production manager, and arrived a day or two before the company.

Victor Seastrom and the Goldwyn company filming "The Master of Men," under his direction are still doing location work near Burlingame, and at twin lakes. They have been a little delayed by a couple of dark days, but expect to finish and return to the South the latter part of the week.

Charles Stalling, having just finished his duties as production manager on the "Hunch- back of Notre Dame," with his wife and little daughter, motored to San Francisco last week, and was here for several days just on a holiday after his long and hard work on the big picture.

On Sunday Eric Von Stroheim shot the only real mob stuff in the filming of "Greed." It was supposed to be the Easter Sunday parade of the Polk Street Improvement Club, and big street scenes are enough of a novelty in San Francisco, that besides the couple of hundred extra people who were hired to create a crowd, there was gathered to watch the fun. In fact it looked for a while as though half the town was there.

Robert Gordon, who lately played one of the leading roles in "Main Street," and his wife, Helen Chadwick, Goldwyn at with George R. Giroix, came to San Fransico last Saturday morning for a two day stay. It is here part of the Cham ber of Commerce Sociality Trip, during which they have visited thirty coast cities and towns to tell them about the big Motion, Centennial, and Motion Picture Exposition to be held in Los Angeles in July. While they were the guests of honor at luncheon of the local Chamber of Commerce where they presented Mayor Rolfe, and few other leading men with the Motion Centennial coins. The special half-dollars were struck off by the United States Government to commemorate the one hundred anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine.

Mrs. Herbert Standing is spending a week here as the guest of her daughter, Jos Standing, who is a member of the "Gree" cast.

After the extensive alterations and repainting the Century Theatre will undergo it is taken over July first by Louis R. Lur its name will be changed and it will be known in future as The Capitol.

The Plaza Hotel had a surprise the other day when it leaked out that a wedding under romantic and most unusual circumstances had taken place under its roof. The happy couple is Emily Pinter, until a few days ago a member of the cast of "The Demi Virgin" at the grand picture house, and Jefferson Asher, of Los Angeles, both well-known to both the stage and screen world. Miss Pinter's thea rical engagement came to a sudden end with the closing of the play, and the departure of the management without the formally paying the company, just after which she was taken ill with a bad attack of "flu." S Ashes, who has been her admirer for some time decided that the time had come when she needed the protection of someone, and faint was obtained and the marriage took place with Miss Pinter still too ill to leave her bed.
Ten Million Stories Begging Places on the Screen

The apparent success of the efforts to animate the life and events of Abraham Lincoln into motion pictures, the production of which, according to the most recent forecasts, will be a very popular one, has caused A. and J. Rockett, of the Rockett-Lincoln Film Company, to believe that they will henceforth look exclusively to history to supply their screen stories.

"We are through with original stories and so-called, magazine play-ups and weekly periodical leaders as material for picture days," declared the Messrs. Rockett in a recent interview, "and from now on, we will make our pictures from the real happenings of life, not what some writer might have thought, for an event real life is better than an event of like fiction.

"Henceforth, therefore, we shall draw our inspiration from history, the life story of mankind, and we shall dramatize the events of history as our offering for the ideal type vehicle of the cinema."

"The stage with 2500 years of history behind it—and perhaps with 25,000, nobody owns—has found its archetype in the plays of Shakespeare, as produced by both Barrett, Forrest, Sothorn and Sloane, Henry Irving, Walter Hampden and others past and present, and Shakespeare made his plays from history, actual happenings and doings of people in real life as recorded in what we call history. And that is history but the visible record of the solution of life and form in the universe, chiding man! And what is evolution but work to do to find an archetype? That, adequately, is the purpose, the work and the story of the soul.

"It is the divine purpose that runs through all nature and it is the inspiration for every artist, high or low. The greatest artists among artists is he who catches the essence of a man.

"To instruct the heart, therefore, is the chiefest business of the cinema, according to our ideal, and the heart can best be taught by presenting human interest stories from real life—life that has really lived—in the form of dramatized history, a form that not only instructs but entertains.

"There is no end to history. It is as old as creation and eternal in the making. There are ten million stories to tell and there need be no fear that the supply will run out.

"In the crusades, alone, there are a thousand picture plays. The story of the Medes and Persians, the Assyrians, the Egyptians, has never been attempted. Who will be first to tell even the beginning of the story of Alexander the Great? What has the screen shown of the achievements of the ancient Greek immortals? What have we offered in relation to the philosophers and teachers—Confucius, Lao Tze, the Buddha, Zarathustra; the Aryan sages; Plato, Aristotle, Pythagoras and the holy men of lesser ones?"

"The story of the Prince of Peace has yet to come to the screen in a convincing way and the stories of the early Christian fathers, the saints and the martyrs are still untouched.

"Who has told the wondrous stories of Charles XII, of Charlemagne, of John Sobieski, of Peter the Great, of Bruno, Savonarola, Luther, Hypatia, and ten thousand others? What of the riches of Rome, of Carthage, of Venice, Florence, the middle ages and the Renaissance, of the world discoverers and pioneers?"

"There is one charmed book of the East that has 150,000 stories in it of pure historic fact, more interesting than the Arabian Nights; and there is in Siberia and China an unworked and inexhaustible mine of cinema wealth.

"In the history of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, there are mighty stories to be told in pictures, but why continue? The list is as long as the Bible text.

"Also, nobody seems to be interested in presenting the amazing story of the rise and spread of Islamism. There is a story, or rather a thousand stories of incomparable drama, romance, human interest, poetry and pageantry—work for many a great cinematic genius."

Owen Moore, who, despite the fact that he is one of the screen's very first stars, is now more popular than ever, is now playing an extraordinarily dramatic part in "Thundergates," being the principal male character. In this film he will be seen in three characteristics.
Madrid, San Francisco, Siberia, England, France and New York are the settings for six feature film productions now being made by Goldwyn studios. Each of these stories is a historic spectacle which promises to be the biggest picture of its kind Goldwyn has ever made.

The company under the direction of Flynn is now working on interior scenes of the king's palace, while that structure is being built. A sixteenth century palace, one of the last motion picture sets ever built, will be a feature of the picture.

Blanche Sweet, Edmund Lowe, Hobart Bosworth, Pauline Starke, Sam de Grasse, William M. Morgan, Alva Uingle, Owen Liddlefield, Charles Clary and others make up the cast.

Modern San Francisco is the setting for "Greed," a tale of the city by Frank Norris, and with characteristic Stroheim accuracy, the picture is being made on Polk street, San Francisco—the exact spot Norris chose in his novel. Von Stroheim's cast includes Gibson Gowland, Zina Pitts, Dale Fuller, Cesare Gravina, Jean Hersholt, Sylvia Ashton and Chester Conklin.

Charles Brabin and a company headed by Constance Trenet, Frank Mayo and Lyrl Steadman have almost completed "Six Days," an Elmo Glyn story which is set in England and France.

"Six Days" is a typical Glyn story, and the climax comes when hero and heroine are trapped in a dugout underground trench in a desert battlefield of France for six days.

Tod Browning, most recent addition to the Goldwyn roster started working on "The Day of Faith," from the novel by Arthur Somers Roche. The story, which deals with the creed, "My Neighbor is Persecuted," is being done in Andalusia, Tyrone Power, Eleanor Boardman, Raymond Griffith and Charles Conklin head the cast.

Paris is the locale of "The Magic Skin," a fantastic tale taken from Balzac's "The Wild Ass's Skin." George B. Eaker is directing the production for Achievement Films. Bessie Love and Carmel Myers have been selected for leading roles.

Victor Seastrom, the great Swedish director, is preparing to film Hall Caine's "The Master of Man," as his first picture produced in this country. Joseph Schudrack and Mae Busch will play the leading roles. Rupert Hughes, director of "Souls For Sale," and "Kings Row," who just completed "Three Wise Fools," are considering stories suitable for their next productions.

HAPPY DAYS OF YORE

Lydia Yeamanus Titus, one of the members of the cast of "Scaramouche," Rex Ingram's new production, had her first screen motion picture experience in a one reel comedy several years ago. As she walked into the first scene a barrel of water was poured upon her. In the haste of her first moment she was turned in the third scene and in the third she was thrown into a tank of water. Those were the happy days!
CAMERA’S WEEKLY WAKE-EM-UP

SPECIAL NEWS SECTION

SATURDAY, JUNE 23, 1923

EXPOSITION IS PRACTICALLY READY

With actual construction of the Exposition City completed and in a vast array of decorators and landscape artists adding their finishing touches to the picture, practically everything in readiness for the grand opening of the American Historical Revue and Exhibition at the Kaiser Wilhelm's Exposition to be held in Los Angeles, July 2 to August 4.

Final details are now being worked out for the presentation of the big historical pageants, commemorating the hundreds of the Monroe Doctrine, and the many other spectacular features of the celebration.

Contracts have been signed by the Exposition management with more than 100 noted singers, actors, impersonators, and producers of the pageants and striking entertainment acts, who will participate. Arrangements have been made with the Motion Picture Amusement Service Association with Theodore Kosloff, noted Russian dancer, and Emil de Recat, famous producer of pageants, to stage the historical revues and pageants.

The first tableau will depict the primitive life of the American Indian before Columbus and the subsequent centuries of its history-making event. Kosloff's balalaets will portray the "Fall of the Aztecs," "An Easter Night in Russia," and a "Ballet of Conquests," showing characteristic Aztec dances.

The "Aztec City" that has been built to house the Exposition lends the atmosphere of old Rome with the crude beauty of the Latin-American cities. The main thoroughfare in the Esplanade, lined with palms and emblazoned with flowers and tropical plants. In a lily-pond near the entrance will be a statue of President Monroe, brilliantly illuminated.

All Exposition activities will adulate from the Court of Honor, a large area, flanked by towers, situated between the two littering Aztec towers.

The most spectacular feature of the Exposition will be the presentation of the "Montezuma or the Fall of the Aztecs." More than 2000 persons and tons of Worbla will be utilized in the production of this mammoth feature, said to be the most elaborate pyrotechnic display ever produced. It will be staged in the new Coliseum eating 8,000 persons.

ARTIST WILL PRODUCE NOVEL MOVIE DOLLS

Antor Novak, the Hungarian artist, has opened a studio in Hollywood for the production of a new kind of motion picture. He has put into operation his new invention in photography, which makes dolls seem to fly about, dive into the ground and not be full of life and activity.

He will produce motion pictures specially designed to entertain children and at the same time give them useful information.

JOHNNY HARRON IS IN "GOLD Diggers" CAST

A familiar face at the Warner Brothers studio these days is that of Johnny Harron, brother of movie star Bobby, who was a Griffith star for years, and the idol of the film fans.

Johnny has been engaged by the Warners for a leading part in "The Gold Diggers" now in production at the West Coast studio under the direction of Harry Beaumont.

"The Gold Diggers" is from the David Belasco stage play "Wake-em-up."

KINEMA REDUCES PRICES HUNDRED PER CENT

The Kinema Theatre in Los Angeles has made a radical departure in its policy of operation.

Decision was made by officials of West Coast Theatres, Inc., to have a downtown house with popular admission prices and to effect a new scale has been initiated at the Grand Avenue and Seventh Street theatre. The price for Saturdays, Sundays and holidays are scaled at twenty-five cents all over the house, with ten cents for children and fifty cents for the big loge chairs.

During the rest of the week the general admission to all parts of the theatre will be twenty-five cents excepting the loges. The tax is added to these prices and since the inception of the new policy it has been found that the move was not only a wise one but certainly one deserving success.

During the first two weeks of operating this new policy at the Kinema did a tremendous business at popular prices. West Coast Theatres, Inc., are advertising the slogan "the picture is the thing" for the Kinema and eliminating all stage and atmospheric embellishments. Greatest care is being devoted to the proper musical accompaniment of pictures and short subjects. The desire often voiced by Los Angeles theatre patrons to be able to witness pictures with the longest drawn-out and often tiresome programs seems at least to have been realized with a change of the Kinema policy, and a little favorable comment has been heard.

There now provision for all those who desire nothing but pictures to go to the Kinema and observe at popular admission prices the many pictures which have made screen subjects headed by first-run feature picture.

WARNER BROTHERS SIGN ERNEST LUBITSCH

Ernst Lubitsch, world famous director from Europe, was today signed to a contract by the Warner Brothers.

Mr. Lubitsch takes up offices in the Warner's new studios Monday at the head of his own production unit. He is to make only major productions for the organization of which David Belasco’s "Deburan," which is to be the greatest undertaking ever attempted by any motion picture organization.

Lubitsch has just completed "Mary Pickford's biggest picture," made under the title "Rosina" and to be released as "The Street Singer." He comes to the organization with the promise of past connections and is to commence work on the preliminary details of his first picture at once. Lubitsch is incidentally the man credited for those successful European pictures which were shown in America in the past year or two. He is considered the peer of European directors.

The signing of this important director may be recorded in film history as another step of marvelous advancement by the Warner Bros. With David Belasco under contract and a number of the most important producers and directors of the picture world signed, this company bids fair to advance considerably further in the picture field during the coming years than in the past, when it grew from a small starting unit to one of the most important film companies in the world.

Hoot Gibson is on location at the Aryan ranch, in the high Sierras, where the exterior scenes of "The Ramblin' Kid" are being made. Edward Sedgwick is directing the new Gibson play, to be one of his in a series of Universal-Gibson special productions.

VANDALS DESTROY COSTLY PART OF "SET"

Sight seeing, vandals, in the guise of studio visitors, this week completely destroyed an almost priceless Chinese screen on one of the sets used in the filming of "Thunderstruck," a First National production now being directed at the United States by Joseph De Grasse.

The huge screen, made of teakwood and gold plated for years in the home of a mandarinh of interior China. During the war, and at the end of the War it was carried away and finally sold to an English collector for a large sum.

The screen eventually found its way to America and was loaned for the "Thunderstruck" production. The materials making up the antique had been patiently and skillfully carved by hand and the finished screen was valued at several thousand dollars.

It was thickly studded with ivy miniatures as well as carved mother-of-pearl ornaments.

Many of the ivory and pearl ornaments were cut from the screen by some visitor who deftly wielded a pocket-knife in his search for souvenirs of the picture set.

Mr. De Grasse declares the article is almost completely destroyed and can never be replaced. Private detectives have been placed on the property and strangers who have recently visited the set may be questioned as to the vandals is discovered.

The discovery of the screen's destruction was made by Owen Moore, star of "Thunderstruck," and immediately reported to First National officials.

Hale is in Frisco

Creighton Hale, debonair leading man, whose screen career dates back to the days of the earliest D. W. Griffith pictures, "Intolerance," "The Clansman" and others, and who scored a decided hit with Los Angeles audiences a short time ago when he appeared as the star in "Just Suppose," at the Mason Opera House, is on location at San Francisco with the Goldwyn company, filming "The Master of Man" under the direction of Victor Sjostrom. In this picture Mr. Hale is playing the part of "Alick," a sympathetic juvenile role, which is said to allow him unusual opportunity to demonstrate his versatility and histrionic ability.
FINIS STARTS 4TH INDEPENDENT PICTURE

Finis Fox has started work on his fourth independent feature production, "Bag and Baggage" at the Hollywood Studios with a new group of the Fox artists. Like all his other productions, Finis not only wrote the story, but is also directing and supervising the details of production from story and theme to the cutting room.

The cast is headed by Gloria Grey, the most recent Finis Fox discovery. John Roche, who scored a big hit in David Belasco's "New York" stage success, "Deburau," has been signed for the male lead. The cast also includes some film stars like Paul Wiegand, Carmelita Geraghty, Adelle Farrington, Arthur Summers, Maxine Elliott, Hicks and Ned Greer.

The story is a typical Finis Fox drama with paths and comedians. The finely drawn quality was written by Lois Zelln.

The executive and technical personnel of the Fox organization includes R. R. Beaty, General Manager, William Dashiel, Assistant Director, Danny Hall, Technical Director and Hal Mohr, Photographer. "Bag and Baggage" is the first of a new series of super productions that Finis Fox will make for the independent market.

STORY OF METRO PICTURE-MAKING TOLD IN REELS

A precedent was set by officials of the Metro west coast studios, when Howard Strickling, director of publicity at the Hollywood plant, to the annual Los Angeles film convention in New York with a three-reel film showing the exact progress of the various pictures now under course of production. The film contained scenes from "Screamoche: The Eagle's Feathers," "The Girl Who Dared," "Strangers of the Night," "The Master of Woman" and other pictures now being made.

In addition it shows sidetracks on the various productions, the actual difficulties involved in making some scenes, the handling of huge crowds and other interesting features. Following the convention Mr. Strickling will confer with Metro officials and return to Hollywood about July 1st.

William S. Hart this week signed a long term contract with Lasky, and will start at once to re-establish himself after an absence from the screen of two years. He will resume his old time virile western characterizations.

Back to Free Lancing

Eugene A. Vogt, having completed his engagement as scenarist for the H. and B. Film Company at the Brown studio, has opened an office at 5515 Santa Monica Boulevard, where he will free lance in writing submitted outlines for movies, until he gets the tiling of a number of important productions to his credit and as several stories and continuities.

CONSTANCE HEARS HER OWN SONG ON THE RADIO

Constance Talmadge has had two new thrills this week. First of all, she has heard her own song, "If Anyone Can Steal You, Then You're Not the One For Me," out in California, as sung by Miss Rita Gould in New York. And secondly, all her Hollywood friends have been dropping in at tea and dropping by at the publicist's Constance home on South Gardiner avenue, to hear Constance's first musical effort on the OKE phonograph records.

Constance originally wrote the song, "If Anyone Can Steal You, Then You're Not the One For Me," sometime ago, in collaboration with Edward Laska, a stage, movie composer and playwright. This is the first time Constance has ever written, though she has frequently composed little jazz melodies on the piano for her own amusement. The song has been published by Son & Ovyan, and the sheet record is marketed by Merkle's orchestra. All Miss Talmadge's friends in the screen world are listening to these days and praising Constance's unexpected new talent. Many First National exhibitors are planning to capitalize the success of this song and fox trot by Miss Talmadge, who has been playing in films, during the run of "Dulcy," Constance's next Joseph M. Schenck production.

MABEL NORMAND HAS HER OWN GOLF COURSE NOW

That she may keep in practice and break up on some of the more intricate shots, and get on with the great outdoor game of the Scots, golf, Mabel Normand has had constructed a miniature course back of her bungalow on the Mack Sennett studio lot, where one will find her every minute she is not busy on the set of "The Extra Girl."

Miss Normand has been an ardent golfer for several years and was one of the first women in Los Angeles to take out a golf membership in any of the clubs. The Amelia and Wilshire Country Clubs get Miss Normand's patronage, where it is reported she is one of the best and steadiest players among the women.

Suffering Musician

Cecil Crandall, one of "Mickey" Nolan's Fiddlers Four, having had several teeth extracted on account of "goose flesh" trouble in making the mournful Russian music more mournful on the Nolan's Russo drama, "The Rendezvous," has been known to give up his violin for a while and to play the slide trombone or something else more convivial to the muscles of the face.

OFFERS A CZAR A JOB IN MOTION PICTURES

Czar Boris III, Bulgarian monarch whose throne is tottering, may come to Hollywood. M. C. Levey, president of United Studios, yesterday offered him a job as technical advisor after reading an Examiner special dispatch from Paris about the king and his filmmaking friends as he would come to America if he had to. The job as technical advisor motion picture awaits your acceptance," read the cablegram that's thinking Mr. Levey dashed off. The breakfast table as he read the Czar's words.

"Foreign pictures, with their kings, emperors and czars, their unique clothing, furniture and interiors, are coming to the fore," Mr. Levey explained. "We want to be exact, to picture people, manners, customs, clothes as they are. We need advice. A czar, steeped in the traditions of his people and of his class, is better equipped to give us that advice than anyone else. There is a place for everyone with a special knowledge, in pictures."

The Examiners dispatch in yesterday's Examiner quoted Czar Boris as declaring that he would not be frightened if he lost his throne, as he could "go right to America and get a job." Revolution in Bulgaria threatens Boris' position.

Miss Moore to Star Again

Colleen Moore is to be starred in a Flaming Yorke," first National's picturization of Warner Fabian's daring story of contemporary life. The picture is to be made at the United Studios and it is estimated that it will cost upwards of $500,000 to produce. The elaborate feature will be filmed immediately following the completion of "The Huntress," in which Miss Moore is now appearing in the star role.

Harold Lloyd and Hal Roach have tinkered with after an affiliation of nine years. Lloyd will head his own producing unit henceforth and Roach will continue to operate his other six units.

FIRST ALL-WOMAN FILM COMPANY LAUNCHED

The first motion picture company composed entirely of women has been launched. It is the only one in America, in the world, or in film history. Its first production has been made, and preparations are on the way for making a large regular program of feature releases, educational, and other films in San Diego at the Sawyer-Lubin Studios.

Women occupy the positions of producers, directors, codirectors, script-riters, screen editor, costume designer, assistant director, and publicity director. At the head of the company are Mrs. Lule Warrenton, who has taken upon the stage and in motion pictures, and Mrs. Czerwicz, who heads the Universal Film Company and other organizations she was associated with as writer and director of a number of productions.

The special significance of this organization not only embraces the fact that women fill all creative and executive positions, but that three who occupy very important positions are newcomers, trained, but not previously experienced on either stage or screen.

This means that the "outsider" can enter films after receiving adequate training, without "working up from the bottom," and that careers in all important branches of the motion picture industry are open to women.

Hamilton Back

Lloyd Hamilton has returned to Los Angeles and will start work immediately on his new series of Hamilton Comedies to be released through Film Exchange. Hamilton had been in New York for several months conferring with his associates and conferring with E. W. Harmans, president of Educational, regarding production and distribution plans for the coming season, and immediately on signing the new contract, Hamilton left for San Francisco. He visited his mother in Oakland before going on to Los Angeles.
BLOOD TESTS MAY SOLVE INDIAN MYSTERY

Test of blood from Susee, white wife of Chief Broken Horn, Arapaho Indian, and J. S. Thurston of Laguna Beach, or his 82-year-old mother, may determine whether or not the Cauanian squaw is the sister of Thurston, who was kidnapped in Utah 54 years ago.

Because of Dr. C. L. Thudichum of 1754 North Kingsley Drive, Hollywood, asserted in the Professor Tyerman scandal at South Bend, Indiana, that such tests would determine the blood relationship of individuals, he likely will be appealed to in the Susee Broken Horn-Thurston mystery, which has been the theme of talk for several weeks among the Indians encamped at Cahuenga Pass.

Dr. Thudichum, when approached on the subject by Sid Grauman, who has interested himself in the case because of a recent appeal for his aid made by Thurston, declared such a test would prove or deny that the squaw is the sister of the Laguna Beach man, who insisted he believed her to be the same girl who was stolen by Indians in 1869 during a raid on the Thurston homestead in Utah.

It only remains to obtain the consent of Chief Broken Horn and Susee that the test shall be made. Opposed by nature to the mysteries of the white man, the Indians are slow to yield themselves to unusual situations. The Arapahos are consistent, too, so that it is seen with one of two children who survived the pillaging of a wagon train while it was crossing the Yellowstone River many, many moons ago.

Col. T. J. McCoy, who brought the Indians to Hollywood to appear in "The Covered Wagon" at Grauman's Hollywood Egyptian Theatre, is endeavoring to win the Chief's consent to having his wife's blood tested by Dr. Thudichum, who says Thurston must be a full brother to the missing child or else his mother's blood must be used in the test.

Want Success? Join Stock

A few years ago, the theatregoers of Portland, Oregon, were very proud of a certain group of actors known as the Baker Stock Company, of which certain gentlemen by the names of George Baker and John Sainpolis were the owners. Mr. Baker is the Mayor of Portland, while John Sainpolis is one of the handsomest and most eligible in the role of the screen and is playing an important role in "The Social Code," Viola Dana's new Metro Pictures Moral. Join a stock company.

AND THAT VERY CHILD MAY YET LEAD THEM

Little Philippe deLacy, five-year-old film starlet, who has won the unanimous praise of photoplay critics for the naturalness and human characterization which he presents in the role of "Dicky," in Funeral, now showing at Grauman's Rialto, has no doubt been subject to the wear and tear of interesting experiences, endured more hardships, encountered more jitters than any other youngster of his age.

The story of little Philippe's life reads like a page from fiction, and has brought forth the pity of all who have heard it. His father, killed in the line of duty on the French front, his mother captured and murdered by bandits, he who before he came in which they lived bombed and completely wrecked, little Philippe left in the care of his grandfather, who was an Expector. The lives of these two men in the war—these and many other sad experiences formed the first year of the youngster's life.

At Naney, a small town near Yuma, the American forces had established a Red Cross hospital. One day a call came, telling that an old lady in a nearby town was tottering to the verge of poverty, that a special nurse was needed to tend to the call. She found the old lady living in the cellar of a house that had formerly been her home. She was lying on some filthy, torn blankets stretched out on the cement floor of the cold shack. It was the only bed she possessed. Near her was a small child, pale and thin, his cheeks sunken and covered with sores, his clothes having been washed for two days and his body covered with a dirty, ragged garment. It was Philippe.

The news took the unfortunate to the American hospital, where they were given every attention, but a few days later the old lady died. Before she passed away she asked little Philippe to tell the colored nurse, who had rescued them, and asked that she "please be good to him." Philippe slowly gained strength and color and when hostilities between the enemy and ally forces ceased abroad a few weeks later he was a picture of health. He was brought to America by America's Department of the War and France had taken all legal steps for his adoption, and upon the persistent advice of friends he was placed in pictures.

Today one cannot realize by looking at the youngster that he has gone through such pain and suffering and that he was on the verge of physical collapse before he was rescued. It reflects the strength and magnetic personality of Joan D'Arc of his native land and is considered unusually bright for a child his age.

Chester Bennett, director and producer of 'Divorce,' declares that little Philippe deLacy is one of the easiest children in pictures to handle and predicts a great future for him in the photoplay world.

WILD ANIMAL SHOW PLANNED FOR SELIG'S

Edythe Sterling, famous rodeo star, is rounding up and bog-tieing a bunch of daring cowboys and cowgirls to appear in Wild West feats at the Circus and Wild Animal Exposition to be staged at Selig Zoo by Los Angeles Post No. 1, Disabled Veterans of the World War, from June 22 to July 1, inclusive. A number of stellar riders have come south for the Frontier Days celebration to be held at Prescott Arizona, and many of these will appear at the rodeo here.

Cowpunchers, rope artists, bronco busters and steer riders will be among the performers at Selig Zoo. Bill Hulter, the "Human Spider," and an up-to-the-minute midway have been added to the attractions at the circus, which also will have dancing acts, musical features, novelty feats, boxing bouts and animal performances on its nine days' programs.

Strother, who often doubles for motion picture stars, is known from coast to coast for his daring climbing stunts. He has scaled most of the best known skyscrapers in Los Angeles.

The circus midway will contain all the usual features, with several specialty novelties added. It will be open for four days a night and is planned to be one of the stellar attractions of the exposition.

Aside from participating in the battle royal that is to be the main event of each Saturday's boxing card at the Los Angeles will appear in musical specialties. Henry Wrner, vocalist; Tony Geyer, banjoist; Louis Jacobs, violinist; and the Newboys' Trio are among the music features of the daily programs.

Little Shirley Widman, toe dancer, will perform and concerts will be given by the crack jazz orchestra of the Disabled Veterans of the World War and the Hollywood American Legion band of 45 pieces, which has donated its services for the benefit, by which the veterans hope to raise sufficient funds to pay off the mortgage on their club home at 246 South Hill Street. Col. W. N. Selig's trained lion, tigers, leopards and bears will appear in the animal acts.

Beginning Monday with the State Department, D. V. W., the successive days have been set aside for the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the United Spanish War Veterans and the G. A. R.
“PG” Smith Heads New Comedy Company

The clan of independent producers is steadily growing. Last week the “PG” Smith Productions in the California Bunker Building, at 6548 Hollywood Boulevard, was organized with a string of 12 two-reeler comedies to be produced and released during the 1923-24 season. These productions have been tentatively named “The Pumpkin Center Comedies,” and will deal with life in the rural communities of the United States. The theme will deal principally with a delapidated locomotive and string of coaches evidently built some time during the Stone Age. They will be made with all star casts, headed by Terry Duffy, well-known local comedian.

“PG” Smith, who is at the head of the company, has been leading the last eight years studying the film field from every angle with the determination to some day produce pictures of his own. He was formerly a film salesman for Paramount, Vitagraph, Goldstone, and other distributing concerns, and also managed theatres in various parts of the United States and Canada. He later purchased a theatre in Los Angeles, and was actively engaged in the management of same, only giving up this enterprise to enter the production field.

“PG” is one of the youngest producers in the business, being only 24 years of age, but he has shown industry and ability along executive lines and this, linked with his varied experience in the film world, should enable him to climb to the top of the cinema ladder within a very short period of time. Smith has stated that he believes there is a dearth of good rib-tickling comedies at the present time, and that the public will appreciate the shorter variety of film fare. The excellent reception the small-town plot has always received at the hands of the theater-goers was a factor in his decision to film something revolving around the life of the small towns and countryside of the nation.

Harry Devere Recovering

The many friends of Harry T. Devere, who has been ill at the Clara Barton Hospital for the past few months, will be glad to learn that he is now well on the road to recovery. Mr. Devere was cast for the heavy lead in the play, in the beginning in “The Lady of Quality,” and had played but three days when taken ill. A great deal of credit for his return to health is evidently due to his wife, the popular character actress, Jess Malville, who has been attending in her attention to him in addition to “keeping the home fires burning.”

Some Stars Must Die So They Can Live

Some motion picture artists have the distinction of being married in nearly every picture in which they appear. Others have gained a reputation for performing some hair-raising stunt before the camera, but perhaps no artist of stage or screen has “died” in more plays for the sake of his art than Eric Mayne, one of the screen’s best-known character artists, who, before entering motion pictures, was a foremost actor on the London stage, calving famed for his masterly portrayal of leading roles in Shakespearean plays and others.

During a recent interview with the actor, he advanced a few interesting ideas as to how and why he has had to “die.” He said:

“For many years I played villain and was compelled to die one way or another at the end of the play. The villain must not die too soon because it is only through the darkness of his vile deeds that the purity and nobility of the hero and heroine can shine forth.

“In ‘Hamlet,’ in which I played the king, I could not die until the very end of the play, for I must live in order to allow Hamlet to finish his work. It is only after I have been killed that he completes his work.

“In ‘Romeo and Juliet’ I played Mercutio. I enjoyed this character more than any other I have ever portrayed and I regretted every night that I had to die so soon. Although Mercutio is a light-hearted, good-natured fellow, beloved by everyone, he must die to the middle of the play in order to allow Romeo a chance to establish himself as the leading man.

“In motion pictures I have been killed in sword fights, I have shot myself, been shot in pistol duels, poisoned myself; indeed, I cannot recall a possible death that I have not met in the interests of retributive justice.

Mr. Mayne concluded by saying: “Actors must live, and in order to live many of us must ‘die.’”

Graves Finishing

Ralph Graves is finishing the leading male role opposite Mabel Normand in “The Extra Girl,” which is being filmed at the Sennett Studios, and already is preparing to start work upon another picture. There is a rumor to the effect Ralph has just signed a very alluring contract with one of the biggest producing companies in the lot which will provide for his appearance in leading roles in several big pictures.

Boxing Favorite Sport of Peggy O’Day

Peggy O’Day may at times be cast for roles in society dramas, but in everyday life one of her favorite pastimes is the sport of Jack Dempsey and Benny Leonard—boxing. Peggy is much interested in the art of self-defense and for the definite purpose of making any fight scenes in which appears, look like the real thing and not of the usual fakey appearance, the little actress has taken lessons from no less an expert than ex-champion Kid McCoy. As several members in the cast of “The Fighting Skipper” can testify, Peggy at times becomes perhaps a little too realistic in her endeavor to get a punch into the story.

New Garrison Unit Plans Educational Films

It is the aim of the Garrison Production Company, who has just returned from South America where they made a series of educational pictures, to start production of a series of educational and society dramas here, on or before January 1, 1924. The personnel of the company is G. W. Garrison, financial manager, R. W. McGee, director and manager, J. H. Rush, assistant director, and C. E. Rush, cameraman. Edith Rush, widely known in theatrical circles, will be featured in this series. Miss Rush’s leading man has not yet been selected. The Garrison Production Company has a strong financial backing.

J. H. Rush is desirous of obtaining studio space and any information regarding this company or studio space will be gladly answered by him, by phoning Hollywood 561.

Aspiring leading men, here is your chance to get in touch with something worth while.

Sargent Supports Gladys

Louis Sargent, who was formerly starred by Universal in a series of Louis Sargent comedies, is once more working at that studio, having been engaged to play the leading juvenile role in Gladys Walkin’s latest starring vehicle, “The Wild Party,” which Herbert Blache is directing.
DOUG DISCOVERS NEW TYPES FOR "BADGAD"

For his new picture, "The Chief of Bagdad," Douglas Fairbanks portrays an independent Arab. In fact, nearly everybody so far engaged is comparatively new to picture audiences. The picture is written for the screen and the unit wants its players to express new note the moment they step in front of the camera. Furthermore he play be to a fantasy rama, and personalities that have been conventionalized might appear grotesque against his unusual backgrounds.

The most difficult feminine role is played by Julia Johnson, a tall slender girl of woman heretofore primarily for her dancing. She will appear as partner to Douglas Fairbanks, but she has acquired in dancing and her willowy figure have made her a primary choice for the role. She also has been provided with two of the necessary qualifications for the part.

The villain will be played by Col. Richard Hartman, a man absolutely new to the screen. His previous claim to note has been a writer. He is partly oriental, and in the robes he wears a picture, might actually be draped from the slips of the Genuine Arabian Harem.

Brandon Hurst, Saitz Edwards, Charles Belcher and Annay Wong are others who have been cast. Two of them are utterly unknown.

Doug found new angles to well worn personalities making "Robin Hood," but he apparently is discovering altogether new people for "The Chief of Bagdad."

ACTRESSES PLAY QUIET CLUB AS THEIR RETREAT

Rosemary Thoby is a busy woman these days—she is represented by two pictures having their first run locally, "The Girl of the Golden West" and "The Midnight Patrol" and at the same time is playing an important role in support of Jackie O’gan in "Long Live the King." He is the leading figure in a group of prominent motion picture actresses who are forming a new social organization to be called "The Sixties," the name to be applied to their clubhouse in the foothills of Hollywood. Miss Thoby will provide a haven of refuge from the bustle of the studios and the whirl of social engagements between pictures.

CALL CHILD SWIMMER TO THEIR RESCUE

McBain, little film actor who is the world’s youngest member of the Amateur Athletic Union, possibly when he was swimming medals, has resumed aquatic training at Benison in Los Angeles preparatory to competition for several new water records, and at the present time is concentrating his efforts upon perfecting his high diving and backstrokes. This four-year-old boy who was recently seen in Gannier’s "Poor Men’s Wife" and who is now playing one of the big parts in "The Temple of Vengeance" at the Fox studios, is characterized by the high schools as being "the new wonder boy" of the Pacific Coast and in the first of his new exhibitions, which will probably be held here next week, he will probably be called upon to compete with some of the best in the city, for he is a young man of the new generation. He has already been seen in many Christies comedies.

IN "A Lady of Quality," now in production at Universal, starring Virginia Valli, little Miss Cartwright plays the part of the star’s grandmother. The part carried added significance in that she makes up as a boy, allowing her a splendid chance to more firmly establish her versatility and ability to enact difficult roles. She is at present engaged with Guard Productions, for whose latest picture she is playing the featured role opposite "突出 Alexander" in the direction of Norman Taurog.

In addition to her accomplishments on the camera and footlights, the youngest child expert horsewoman has won more cups with her croupier than the average race horse. Two of these were won at Ambassador Horse Shows and the other at the Venice Horse Show. She is also proficient as a dancer, swimmer, pianist, artist and cartoonist.

Peggy has never been to school. "She has been placed entirely in the hands of private tutors. Like her parents and grandparents, Peggy has taken a keen interest in things literary and she is conversant with the works of such noted authors as Rudyard Kipling, Mark Twain and Shakespeare."

HARRY MYERS ENGAGED IN "BAD MAN"

Harry Myers, be of "Connecticut Yankee" fame and more recently "Horace Vintomere, in "Two Weeks' Notice," has been engaged to play a prominent part in "The Bad Man," which Edwin Carewe is to produce and direct for First National, with Holbrook Blinn in the title role. Myers has been cast to enact a comedian role, that of "Red" Giddings, a Westerner whose business in the play will be to produce laughs. He is the fifth member of the company to be engaged. The others are Holbrook Blinn, who will play the title role, and made famous in the stage, Enid Bennett, Jack Mulhall and Walter Mcgrail.

The latest addition to "The Bad Man" is a cast for a new scene in pictures since 1910, when he deserted the legiti- mate stage to play the part of "Red Eagle" in "Red Eagle’s Love Affairs," the screen version of "Strongheart." He will be a stunt man in many recent successes including: "Turn to the Right," "Robinson Crusoe," "Kisses."
Who's Who and What's What in Filmland This Week

Margaret Landis has been added to the cast of "The Love Brand," being filmed at Universal City under direction of Stuart Paton. Miss Landis is a sister of Culen Landis, well-known juvenile of the pictures.

Sydney de Grey, now appearing in "Love Brand" under direction of Stuart Paton at Universal City, is an old stage favorite. He was one of the support of Kob and Dill in the old days of "Lonesome Town."

J. J. Pasztor has been signed to photograph "The Power of Darkness," featuring Wallace Beery and directed by Jacques Jaccard, at the Golden West Studio, on Lankershim Boulevard, opposite Universal City.

Winne Brown, considered by many the leading horsewoman in America, has been engaged for the leading role in the Metro's all-star production of "The Eagle's Feather," which Edward Sloman is directing.

Dorothy Devore, farce comedienne of the Christie studios, has been loaned to the Fox company to play the lead with William Russell in a new production to be directed by James Flood. After this picture Miss Devore will return to resume her work in Christie Comedies.

Conrad Trichtler, the master artist from London, brought to this country by Richard Walton Tully to lend his skill to the screen production of "Trilby" is now engaged on similar work for the Universal's "Thunder-gate."

Irene Rich has been secured by the Film town for 20th Century-Fox as the lead in a new production for the company. Miss Rich, who is now under contract to the company, will be shooting scenes of "Trilby" this week.

Florence Rittenhouse has been engaged to play the leading female role in Edward Locke's new picture, "Yesterday's," which opens at the Astor Park, July 9th. This will not interfere with Miss Rittenhouse's work on the screen, as she is at present working on a series of shorts.

J. C. ("Jack") Fowler has completed his role of Pharis in "What Should a Girl Do," at the Hal Roach studio under direction of Val Paul in support of Edna Murphy. "Jack" is a new recruit from the legitimate stage and has been constantly at work in pictures since his arrival in Hollywood last February.

James Woods Morrison, who has just finished his work in "The Unknown purple" at the Goldwyn Studio, has been engaged by Metro as one of the all-star cast of "Held to Answer," a big special to be directed by Harold Shaw from the story by Peter Clark MacFarlanes.

Al St. John, famous Fox comedian, aspires to be a professional auto racer. He likes to "burn 'em up" as a speed king and is known throughout the West as a crack amateur driver who can "scorch" the roads when the speed cops are not around. Al owns eight fast cars, all capable of doing better than eighty miles an hour, and he takes such one out one day a week to a remote secluded spot whenever the opportunity offers.

Harry Lamont has finished playing the part of a Lauriva All Star in Coogan's new production, "Long Live the King," at the Metro Studios.

Harold Rhodes, child film artist, has just completed an engagement with Lasky, appearing in the last Lasky series shot under the direction of Victor Fleming.

Paul Weigel is working with the Fins Fox Company in "Bag and Baggage," playing the part of Anthony Hope, a music-master type of role.

Caroline "Spy" Rankin is now playing straight as well as eccentric character roles before the camera. Her latest engagement is with Naze Rose at Universal, where she is appearing in "Six Fifty."

"My Mame Rose," from the well-known name of the same name, will be the next production to feature the talents of Mary Philbin, young actress who has scored such a hit in the Universal super-production, "Merry-Go-Round."

Oliver Pollauslee has received an offer from the Majestic Stock Company, Toronto, Canada, to appear in their future stock productions during the coming year. Pollauslee, however, will be unable to accept the offer as his screen work will require his remaining in Southern California for some time.

Dainty Frances Arnold, better known to the profession as Iva Forrestor, has decided to discard the "Iva" name and work under her own trade-mark. She has been leading lady in the Universal series, "Our White House man," and several other current productions. The Bob Horner Productions has just placed her under a year's contract.

The task of supplying about two hundred ex-service men for work in "The Life of Abraham Lincoln," being filmed by the Rocket Film Company at the Mayer studios, was fulfilled a few days ago by the Reliable Photographers' Association. Harry Lewis is serving as studio representative for the organization, and Frank Morris is his assistant.

"The Girl Who Dared" has been chosen as the final title of Viola Dana's current product. Instead of "To Whom It May Concern," the original title of Rita Weiman's mystery story of which it is a screen adaptation, scenes for the picture were filmed made by Milton E. Hoffman. Metro production manager.

Raymond Lee, young son of Art Lee, make-up maestro, has just signed for the part of Bob, the American boy, in Jacki Coogan's "Long Live the King" at the Metro studios.

Work is progressing rapidly on "The Worm," Johnnie Walker's latest production for F. O. "The production is being filmed under the direction of William Worthington."

Louise Lorraine, who plays the leading feminine role in C. Witwer's "Fighting Blood" series, has just received a pair of clothes flown to her from an Eastern admirer.

Norma Talmadge has returned to Los Angeles from Santa Barbara, Cal., where some of the final scenes of "Purple Pride" were made in the gardens of William and Margaret Graham, Monterey millionaire.

Tom Wilson, a member of the Robertson-Cole stock company, has landed a role in "Young Idea." He will play one of the leading roles as a black-face in D. W. Griffith's next production. It is said that Al Jolson will also take part in this picture. Wilson expects to be away from sunny Southern California for three months or more.

Muriel Reynolds, who recently portrayed the role of Cinderella, at the Hollywood Bowl, with her director, Mrs. Idealine Meredith, and part of the group, enjoyed many gladdening the hearts of the children at the Columbia hospital. A number of the Columbia's personnel were among the audience of the suffers children.

Margaret Morris has just returned from location at Keene, Camp, Jaconito mountains, where she portrayed the leading role in Robert Bradbury's, "Ace of the Saddle," featuring also Edwin Cobb. Jay Morley played the Jew. On her return to the "I" lot, Miss Morris was immediately cast as lead in a new Jay Marchant western piece, which started Wednesday, Pete Morris has the manes lead.

Joseph Du Bray and Pierre Collings, cameramen on "All the Girls," James W. Horne's latest, Robertson-Cole product, pulled off some marvelous shots of the Wigley playground, Catalina Island, where the company has been filming many wild scenes for the production. Grace Darmond, Warner Baxter, Ruby Miller, Pauline Lord,强迫 Fillmore and many others are it the cast.
HAVOC" PROMISES SOME UNUSUAL REALISM

Java, melting pot of the Pac, and one of the strangest or least known of lands, was hit, and months of research accounts to explorers precede" the writer for the filming of " Havoc," the Henry Carson spectacle being filmed for Universal. Incidentally, one of the known screen actresses in Java qualified as research agent for the picture, for much of the detail is due to the aid of Auras Kimball Young, who visited Java in Java, Burma, and the Orient, on her recent and the-world, trip, and who volunteered for services to help score the spectacle.

Every possible nationality is represented in the strange population of Java, a tropical country of strange races and strange people, some outcasts in their own land, some adventurers, some representatives of national interests—and all leeching on the virus of the tropics—a queer charm that's far afield.

The play is a massive spectacle—showing Java's strange fes, pitfalls for souls, its exotic charm, and, as a climax, a Batak typhoon and tidal wave as occur in this queer land ringing the "six months rains" rid along the equator.

J. Warren Kerrigan and Anna Nilsson head the cast in the event story, and a small army of extras of all nationalities appear as the polyglot population of the queer country. Many of the scenes were actually taken in Java, a special trip made for this purpose, and the production will be constructed to duplicate the climate filmed on the trip.

NEWSPAD MANAGER

John Cornyn, has joined the ranks of Camera! as Advertising Manager. Cornyn has just served as Production Manager and as their Western Representative.

AUBREY AND LEON LEE JOIN TO MAKE COMEDIES

Jimmy Aubrey, for years a star on the Vitaphone program as a comedian in a series of two-reel comedies, is signed to the studio's contract with Leon Lee to appear in 12 two-reel fun-films.

An old-time comedian, Aubrey is considered the "man" who put over the "Joe Rock Comedies" to such a run of popularity. Lee signed a one-year contract with the Universal Film Corporation to use any and all sets that are erected at the Big U Studio. It is said anything that their studio calls for, and when one knows that Universal City has anything from an elephant to the smallest pot, it can readily understand the possibilities that the company will have at their command.

Charles, Saxton, the well-known New York Evening World cartoonist, who is known as the "Wise Cracker of Broadway," has been engaged to write stories and make humorous cartoons which will help put the series over. Reggie Lawrence, who was the camerographer on "Black Beauty," the Vitaphone special, has been engaged to photograph the entire series.

ELINOR GLYN NOW HERE TO FILM "3 WEEKS"

Motion pictures are the "greatest moral force in the world to-day" according to Elinor Glyn, world-famous English authoress, who has just arrived in New York.

The noted authoress, who has left New York for Los Angeles, where she is directing and producing the filming of her greatest book, "Three Weeks" at the Goldwyn studios, is an enthusiastic one.

The famous authoress, still vital and attractive despite her years, at a tea given by officials of the Goldwyn company, who are enrolling her in New York, announced she was the grandmother of three children.

Mme. Glyn, who was induced to come to the Goldwyn studios to collaborate in the filming of her novel, is very enthusiastic over the screen possibilities of "Three Weeks," and declares the motion picture version can be made to do justice to the spirit and lesson of the book, that "the wages of sin is death."

Some of the most significant scenes in my life was accomplished when "Three Weeks" was written," Miss Glyn declared at the luncheon. "I used the mind of a psychologist. The human mind must be analyzed to interest other minds."

"Six Days," an original story by Mme. Glyn, is now nearing completion at the Goldwyn studios, and Newsweek will also handle the production.

NEW DRAMATIC CLUB IS RAISING CHURCH FUNDS

The "Hollywood Players" is the name of a new club that has recently been formed by motion picture artists in the Hollywood film colony for the purpose of raising funds with which to construct the "Little Church of the Corner," of which Rev. Neal Dudd is the sponsor. Gay Welles, president of the club, and Miss Mary Arter is secretary and other officers are now being elected. The first play was produced by the club a few weeks ago at the Hollywood Woman's Club and scored a big hit. Plans are being made to stage a play of greater importance within the next week at San Fernando. The club already boasts a membership of several hundred artists and among those who have recently enrolled are Betty Jean, a well-known film artist and leader of the Reliable Photoplay's association, a Hollywood organization.

BENNETT CALLS "LULLABY"

MISS NOVAK'S BEST FILM

The entire personnel of Cheetah Productions and its production is in unit expressing themselves that Jane Novak has perhaps the greatest role of her entire career in her current production of "Lullaby," her current personally directed and supervised production.

In "Thelma" Miss Novak had a splendidly appealing role and in "Lullaby" she interprets a character that is resulting in heavy bookings all over the country in first-run theatres.

Bennett is sparing no time or expense in surrounding Miss Novak with the best supporting cast that could be secured for "Lullaby."

Bennett believes the actress who personally personifies the screen woman, with womanly ideals and entirely free from the sex situation, is the popular actress of the next hour and he intends to direct only this class of shadow plays in the future for Miss Novak in the stellar role.

BEAUTY OF SIMPLICITY IN WEARING OF HATS

Grace Darmond, who is now playing the leading role in "Alimony" at the R-C studios, gives a few hints to girls on the choosing of hats. She admits that the most popular hat of the day is simply one that is good for the hat.

Some girls choose elaborate and flashy hats as an aid to their beauty. Instead of being so, however, these often detract by being too conspicuous, while the simple and subdued seem to set off the face to an amazing degree, and, put on at the right angle cast a spell that no other can equal.

Miss Darmond has just completed her role opposite Guy Bates Post in "The Man From Alaska." Previously in her career she also wore the picture she appeared in the leading role in "Daytime Brides."

ADDS CHARACTERS TO FILM AT THE FINISH

Several notable players have been added to the big cast filing "When the Boys Meet," starring vehicle for the diminu-
"tive Baby Peggy, at Universal City, King Baggot, the director, and the studio announced a line of picture players to support the tiny starlet, has built up several new roles, in which names long familiar on the speaking stage are added to the list of principals.

Rex Davidson, famous character actor of the speaking stage, is to play "Levinsky," the quaint old showman of New York's ghetto, in the production. Minnie Steele, well-known in Sundayville, is one of the stars. The two parts are rich in comedy but essentially human-interest factors in them.

Frank Currier, veteran of the stage, has been added to the cast to play Baby Peggy's ancient grandad, who has been in pictures for some years and has played a variety of impersonations. J. Gorman Rex, another character man, who, in his younger days, played with John McCullough and John Schrock and John McCullough, has been added to the cast to develop an important human-interest role in the part of the paper vendor.

The play, a lively story in which the baby starlet appears as a tiny Italian immigrant, is laid mainly in New York's lower Eastside, and on the Atlantic steamer. The ghetto is reproduced in remarkable detail at Universal City, and several hundred people are used in the big scenes.

The story was written by King Baggot, the director, and Raymond L. Schrock.

Advertising Does Pay

Since one of a number of $1,000 for the best idea for a scenario, Charles R. Soelgen, film producer, has been besieged with letters from all parts of the country, a strong effort being made by the authors to win the prize. After writing through a hundred or more of the manuscripts, Mr. Soelgen announced this week that many of the ideas submitted were worthy of consideration, but many of them are impossible for screen material. The idea sent in by July 15th will be used by the scenario staff in preparing a new feature story for "Big Boy. William one of the company's stars. Mr. Soelgen requests that the contact be removed to the studio in such a way that in case their idea is re-cected it can be returned.

William Parks, who directed "Legally Dead," is busy at Universal City preparing his next film, "The Man From Alaska," in which Herbert Rawlinson is to be starred.
News and Gossip About the Moving Throng of Movieland

Summer Releases

La Verne Making 'Em Up
La Verne making an unknown stage and screen character actor who was recently seen in "Robin Hood" is in charge of the makeup for "The Spanish Dancer," starring Pola Negri, which is being filmed at the Lasky studio in Hollywood. La Verne is James Collins, who is wigmaker for the unit. Several interesting makeup innovations are assured as the result of the combined efforts of these two.

Cloninger's Big Plans
Plan plans are rapidly being formulated for the first of a series of independent productions to be filmed in and around Salt Lake City, which will be sponsored by several capitalists of Salt Lake City, Spokane, and other northwestern cities. Ralph Cloninger, for many years a stage favorite in that territory, will be actively concerned in the productions, both from the acting and managerial standpoint. Negotiations are under way for a director and several camera men, and a formal announcement is expected within the next fourteen days.

Otto Quits Realty Business
Oto Lederer says, "Once an actor always an actor," and as a result he is going to devote his time to his film and stage work alone. He sold all of his real estate holdings on Beachwood this week, for he will not have sufficient time to devote to their development and upkeep, he says. The costumes and set designers are busily engaged in putting the finishing touches on the sets.

Tis Scandalous
This promises to be a great scandal season for Haruty Gorden, talented Louis B. Mayer studio star. Following his sly conquest in Fred Niblo's "The Famous Mrs. Palt," he went into romantic adventure on a wholesale scale in the leading role of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," and now he is back in the Mayer Studio carrying on a nasty flirtation in a star part in John M. Stahl's new picture, "The Wantons."

Van Dyke Signs
As one of the important steps in his plans for increased production activities, Louis B. Mayer has signed W. S. Van Dyke on a long contract to direct all-star special melodramatic and spectacular trend. Other famous directors now working under the Mayer banner include John M. Stahl, Fred Niblo and Raoul Walsh. Messrs. Van Dyke's first picture at the Mayer Studio will probably be "The Span of Life," which is now being completed under the supervision of J. G. Hawks.

La Verne Making 'Em Up
La Verne making an unknown stage and screen character actor who was recently seen in "Robin Hood" is in charge of the makeup for "The Spanish Dancer," starring Pola Negri, which is being filmed at the Lasky studio in Hollywood. La Verne is James Collins, who is wigmaker for the unit. Several interesting makeup innovations are assured as the result of the combined efforts of these two.

Cloninger's Big Plans
Plan plans are rapidly being formulated for the first of a series of independent productions to be filmed in and around Salt Lake City, which will be sponsored by several capitalists of Salt Lake City, Spokane, and other northwestern cities. Ralph Cloninger, for many years a stage favorite in that territory, will be actively concerned in the productions, both from the acting and managerial standpoint. Negotiations are under way for a director and several camera men, and a formal announcement is expected within the next fourteen days.

Otto Quits Realty Business
Oto Lederer says, "Once an actor always an actor," and as a result he is going to devote his time to his film and stage work alone. He sold all of his real estate holdings on Beachwood this week, for he will not have sufficient time to devote to their development and upkeep, he says. The costumes and set designers are busily engaged in putting the finishing touches on the sets.

Tis Scandalous
This promises to be a great scandal season for Haruty Gorden, talented Louis B. Mayer studio star. Following his sly conquest in Fred Niblo's "The Famous Mrs. Palt," he went into romantic adventure on a wholesale scale in the leading role of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," and now he is back in the Mayer Studio carrying on a nasty flirtation in a star part in John M. Stahl's new picture, "The Wantons."

Van Dyke Signs
As one of the important steps in his plans for increased production activities, Louis B. Mayer has signed W. S. Van Dyke on a long contract to direct all-star special melodramatic and spectacular trend. Other famous directors now working under the Mayer banner include John M. Stahl, Fred Niblo and Raoul Walsh. Messrs. Van Dyke's first picture at the Mayer Studio will probably be "The Span of Life," which is now being completed under the supervision of J. G. Hawks.

La Verne Making 'Em Up
La Verne making an unknown stage and screen character actor who was recently seen in "Robin Hood" is in charge of the makeup for "The Spanish Dancer," starring Pola Negri, which is being filmed at the Lasky studio in Hollywood. La Verne is James Collins, who is wigmaker for the unit. Several interesting makeup innovations are assured as the result of the combined efforts of these two.

Cloninger's Big Plans
Plan plans are rapidly being formulated for the first of a series of independent productions to be filmed in and around Salt Lake City, which will be sponsored by several capitalists of Salt Lake City, Spokane, and other northwestern cities. Ralph Cloninger, for many years a stage favorite in that territory, will be actively concerned in the productions, both from the acting and managerial standpoint. Negotiations are under way for a director and several camera men, and a formal announcement is expected within the next fourteen days.

Otto Quits Realty Business
Oto Lederer says, "Once an actor always an actor," and as a result he is going to devote his time to his film and stage work alone. He sold all of his real estate holdings on Beachwood this week, for he will not have sufficient time to devote to their development and upkeep, he says. The costumes and set designers are busily engaged in putting the finishing touches on the sets.

Tis Scandalous
This promises to be a great scandal season for Haruty Gorden, talented Louis B. Mayer studio star. Following his sly conquest in Fred Niblo's "The Famous Mrs. Palt," he went into romantic adventure on a wholesale scale in the leading role of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," and now he is back in the Mayer Studio carrying on a nasty flirtation in a star part in John M. Stahl's new picture, "The Wantons."

Van Dyke Signs
As one of the important steps in his plans for increased production activities, Louis B. Mayer has signed W. S. Van Dyke on a long contract to direct all-star special melodramatic and spectacular trend. Other famous directors now working under the Mayer banner include John M. Stahl, Fred Niblo and Raoul Walsh. Messrs. Van Dyke's first picture at the Mayer Studio will probably be "The Span of Life," which is now being completed under the supervision of J. G. Hawks.

La Verne Making 'Em Up
La Verne making an unknown stage and screen character actor who was recently seen in "Robin Hood" is in charge of the makeup for "The Spanish Dancer," starring Pola Negri, which is being filmed at the Lasky studio in Hollywood. La Verne is James Collins, who is wigmaker for the unit. Several interesting makeup innovations are assured as the result of the combined efforts of these two.

Cloninger's Big Plans
Plan plans are rapidly being formulated for the first of a series of independent productions to be filmed in and around Salt Lake City, which will be sponsored by several capitalists of Salt Lake City, Spokane, and other northwestern cities. Ralph Cloninger, for many years a stage favorite in that territory, will be actively concerned in the productions, both from the acting and managerial standpoint. Negotiations are under way for a director and several camera men, and a formal announcement is expected within the next fourteen days.

Otto Quits Realty Business
Oto Lederer says, "Once an actor always an actor," and as a result he is going to devote his time to his film and stage work alone. He sold all of his real estate holdings on Beachwood this week, for he will not have sufficient time to devote to their development and upkeep, he says. The costumes and set designers are busily engaged in putting the finishing touches on the sets.

Tis Scandalous
This promises to be a great scandal season for Haruty Gorden, talented Louis B. Mayer studio star. Following his sly conquest in Fred Niblo's "The Famous Mrs. Palt," he went into romantic adventure on a wholesale scale in the leading role of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," and now he is back in the Mayer Studio carrying on a nasty flirtation in a star part in John M. Stahl's new picture, "The Wantons."

Van Dyke Signs
As one of the important steps in his plans for increased production activities, Louis B. Mayer has signed W. S. Van Dyke on a long contract to direct all-star special melodramatic and spectacular trend. Other famous directors now working under the Mayer banner include John M. Stahl, Fred Niblo and Raoul Walsh. Messrs. Van Dyke's first picture at the Mayer Studio will probably be "The Span of Life," which is now being completed under the supervision of J. G. Hawks.
CAMELIA

"Pulse of the Studios"

Page Seventeen

Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, June 25

Camera intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 432-369

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BERWILLA STUDIO. 5821 Santa Monica Blvd. Ashton Dearholt, Pro. Mgr.</td>
<td>Bobby Glendale</td>
<td>Rose 761</td>
<td>1st 2-Reel</td>
<td>Santiago</td>
<td>Edmun</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BRENTWOOD STUDIO. 4811 Fountain Ave.</td>
<td>J. Ince</td>
<td>The Washburns</td>
<td>Turner</td>
<td>N. Blair</td>
<td>&quot;The Love Trap&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BRONX STUDIO. 1745-51 Glendale Blvd. Kenneth Bishop, General Mgr.</td>
<td>Jack Blystone</td>
<td>Buster Keaton</td>
<td>Joe</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BUSTER KEATON STUDIO. 1025 Lillian Way. Eddie Cline, Casting</td>
<td>Lou Anger Productions</td>
<td>Eddie Cline</td>
<td>Joe</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHAPLIN STUDIO. Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr. 1416 La Brea Ave.</td>
<td>Scott Sidney</td>
<td>Jimmy Adams</td>
<td>Nazy</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FINE ARTS STUDIO. 4500 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>Ben Lyon</td>
<td>Sid Jacobson</td>
<td>Joe</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FRANCIS FORD STUDIO. 6044 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>Rocky Mt. Production Co.</td>
<td>Neil Beach</td>
<td>Joe</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GARSON STUDIOS. 1845 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td>Metro Release.</td>
<td>Harry Warner</td>
<td>Bill Patten</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDEN WOOD STUDIO. 4011 Lankershim Blvd.</td>
<td>Al J. Neils</td>
<td>Bill Patten</td>
<td>F. W. Raymond</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDSTONE STUDIO. 1426 Beechwood Dr.</td>
<td>Phil Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release)</td>
<td>Harry Tenbrook</td>
<td>Wm. Fairbanks</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDWYN STUDIO. R. B. McIntyre, Casting. Culver City.</td>
<td>Von Stroheim</td>
<td>Ben Reynolds</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStroheim</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOODMAN STUDIOS.</td>
<td>Charles Brabin</td>
<td>John Macaulay</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStroheim</td>
<td>6th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOLLYWOOD STUDIO.</td>
<td>Wm. Davis</td>
<td>Ken MacLean</td>
<td>&quot;Hats&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOLLYWOOD STUDIO.</td>
<td>Wm. Wilkins</td>
<td>Bill Williams</td>
<td>&quot;Hats&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RIDGEGATE STUDIO.</td>
<td>Eddie Cline</td>
<td>Santiago</td>
<td>&quot;Hats&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Hollywood Studios

HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS. 6642 Santa Monica Blvd. J. Jasper, Mgr.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Finis Fox</td>
<td>R. R. Beaty, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>Win. Dashiel</td>
<td>Lois Zellner</td>
<td>&quot;Bag and Baggage&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>John All-Star Production</td>
<td>&quot;Bad Men and Good&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Loving Lies&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Nobody's Idea&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

INCE STUDIO. Horace Williams, Casting. Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr. Culver City

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>J. B. Calvert Production</td>
<td>Joe Campana</td>
<td>Frank Cameron</td>
<td>Belmont-Woodhouse Drama</td>
<td>&quot;Our Man in Cairo&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

LASKY STUDIOS. L. M. Goodstadt, Casting. 1520 Vine St. Holly 2400

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Lewis B. Mayer Productions. (Metro release)</td>
<td>&quot;The Wanters&quot;</td>
<td>Sid Algers</td>
<td>&quot;The Boomerang&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

METRO STUDIO. Romaine and Cahuenga Ave. Harry Kerr, Casting.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Louis B. Mayer Productions. (Metro release)</td>
<td>Ernest Stahl</td>
<td>&quot;The Social Code&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Help to Answer&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edward Sloom Productions.</td>
<td>&quot;The Last Man&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The Last Man&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The Last Man&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackie Cooper Productions, Inc.</td>
<td>&quot;The Light That Failed&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;All Must Marry&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;All Must Marry&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NEVA GERBER PRODUCTIONS. 6735 Holly Blvd.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ray Rennahan G. W. Care</td>
<td>&quot;Sante Fe Trail&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Sante Fe Trail&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Sante Fe Trail&quot;</td>
<td>9th Episode</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor M. P. Corp. C. A. Willat, Mgr.</td>
<td>&quot;The Virginian&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The Virginian&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The Virginian&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 7100 Santa Monica Blvd.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

PRINCIPAL PICTURE CORP. 7250 Santa Monica.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Eddie Eline</td>
<td>&quot;When A Man's a Man&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;When A Man's a Man&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;When A Man's a Man&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

R-C STUDIO. Melrose and Gower. 780 Gower St. Holly 7780

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Individual Productions. (Film Booking Offices.)</td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;For the Love of the King&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The King Made&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The King Made&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The King Made&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Lend a Hand&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Lend a Hand&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Lend a Hand&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Lend a Hand&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr., 6701 Santa Monica Blvd.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>J. T. O'Donahue Staff</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rosemary</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jeske-Pembroke</td>
<td>Rosemary</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roxy Clements</td>
<td>&quot;What Should a Girl Do?&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;What Should a Girl Do?&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;What Should a Girl Do?&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M. R. Parkes</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chas. Parrott</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

R-C STUDIO. Melrose and Gower. 780 Gower St. Holly 7780

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Individual Productions. (Film Booking Offices.)</td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Lights Out&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;For the Love of the King&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The King Made&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The King Made&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;The King Made&quot;</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Lend a Hand&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Lend a Hand&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Lend a Hand&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Lend a Hand&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr., 6701 Santa Monica Blvd.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>J. T. O'Donahue Staff</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rosemary</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jeske-Pembroke</td>
<td>Rosemary</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roxy Clements</td>
<td>&quot;What Should a Girl Do?&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;What Should a Girl Do?&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;What Should a Girl Do?&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M. R. Parkes</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chas. Parrott</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Baking</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CAMERA | "The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry" Page Nineteen

ROCKETT-LINCOLN COMPANY. Chas. Huber, Casting.
- Phil Rosen: All-Star Curly-Broneing Al Kelley
- "Life of Abraham Lincoln" Schedule
- Holly 2176

RAY STUDIO. Albert A. Kidder, Jr., Gen'l Mgr. 1425 Fleming St.
- B. D. Russell: Franklin Farm Al Mahr Fred Allen Hively Feature Preparing
- Logan-Bayhnam Productions.
- T. Moore: MacManus Kane-Walsh 2-Reel Comedy Schedule
- Sennett Studio. 1712 Glendale Blvd.
- Mack Sennett Comedy. (First National Release). F. Richard Jones Malcal Normand Homer Scott Wagner Jim Wright Jack Davidson Mark Sennett "The Extra Girl" 15th Week Comedy
- Roy Del Rio: Red Skelton E contrary Jack Powell "Ten Dollars or Ten Days" 3rd Week Comedy
- E. H. Week.
- Sunset Productions. 7425 Sunset Blvd.
- All Russell J. H. Warner Bert Longnecker Roy Ivy King Thompson Certain Lee Editing
- Louis B. Mayer Productions, Clune's Studio, 5360 Melrose Ave.
- Edwin Carewe Productions. (First National release). Edwin Carewe Halbrook Biff Holm Sol Polito-Storey Wallace Fox Finis Fox "The Bad Man" 3rd Week Editing
- crispy.
- Josefa Frank Lydell Norma Talmadge Tony Gaudio Harry Well Frances Marion "Purple Pride" Editing
- Sam E. Rock Productions.
- Frank Craven Assistant:
- First National Productions.
- Logan Reynolds All-Star J. Viontrey H. Welfig Perry Vreelfred Fred K. Mylin "The Huntress" 6th Week Editing
- Joe De Grasse All-Star Bosie Perry Vreelfred Scott Bell "Lord of Thunderdine" 6th Week Editing
- Maurice Tourane All-Star Arthur Todd Don Albert "Against the Grain" 5th Week Editing
- Louis B. Mayer Productions.
- Universal Film Manufacturing Co. (Universal Release.)
- Wm. Parker: All-Star Al Fromm Hudson Balbinio Tinning Harvey Gates 'Inside Down' Preparing
- Ed. Segwick: All-Star Herbert Rawlings Gyson Tinling Harvey Gates 'Rambing Kid' Preparing
- Rust: All-Star Bob Roach Dorian Geo. Pyper 'Six Fifty' Preparing
- Brown: All-Star Edward Cobb Lovenson "The Acquittal" Preparing
- Grandin: All-Star Wm. Desmon Stoddard "Sentenced to Soft Labor" Editing
- W. H. Malag: All-Star Mersay-Segwick Rafter-Thomas Howard Oswald "Daniel Boone" Preparing
- Archaean: All-Star Friaul Heaven "The Storm Daughters" Schedule
- Duke Warren: All-Star E. J. Thomas "The Eyes of Taro" 24th Week Schedule
- Harry Poyard: All-Star Reginald Dennis "The Eagle's Talons" 21st Week Schedule
- Discouragement: All-Star Howard Brownson "The Lost Colony" 21st Week Schedule
- King Baggott: All-Star Roy Short "The Wild Party" Preparing
- Watson: All-Star Dety Peggie "The Willy Party" Preparing
- Heartland: All-Star Gladys Walton McCall Sallyman "Tiger Rose" Preparing
- Wm. Mc. Duncan: All-Star Duncan-Johnson Robinson Clarke "The Steel Trap" Preparing
- Hobart Henry: All-Star Virginia Vailt Arthur Smith "Lady of Quality" Preparing
- "Buttspace" 2nd Week
- Leon Lee Productions. Leon Lee Manager.
- Dinky Dean Productions. Lew Lipton, Production Manager.
- Andy Gump Productions.
- Jimmie Aubrey Productions.
- W. Hayes: Aubrey Zimmermann "Buttspace" 2nd Week
- "Buttspace" 2nd Week
- Dave Smith Productions.
- All-Star S. Smith. Jr. Wm. Caldwell Smith "The Pioneer" 3rd Week
- Larry Senn Productions.
- J. Davis: Semon-Segwick H. Korea: Kim "The Chase" 5th Week
- WARNER BROS. STUDIOS. 5842 Sunset Blvd.
- Warner Brothers Productions.
- Arbuckle: All-Star Johnny Hines Rappo she "Little Johnny Jones" Editing
- Wm. Heade: Wesley Barry Duval "The Country Kids" 1st Week
- Harry Beilman: All-Star Abel Strayer "The Gold Diggers" 3rd Week
- Sidney Franklin Productions.
- Sidney Franklin: Lenore Urce Chas. Nasher Wm. McCall "Tiger Rose" Preparing
- Ernest Lubitsch Productions.
- Ernst Lubitsch: All-Star Wm. Mccall "Lucy Lombard" 15th Week Scheduled
- Harlan Roper Productions.
- Cletch Wither: All-Star Sada Cowan Edmund Goulding "Broadway After Dark" Preparing
- WILNAT STUDIO. 6070 Sunset Blvd. Al. Brandt Mrs.
- Le Saint: Rich-Perry King Gray Geo. E. Reinh Evelyn Campbell "Yesterday's Wife" 1st Week

Dr. W. I. Schuster 203 Rupertus Rd., Sunset at Western Chiropractor and Nerve Specialist Acting and Make-Up for Stage and Motion Pictures. A legitimate, Practical School of Results. Classical, Character, Ballet, and Step-Dancing.
- Holly 7940

Why Pay Big Studio Rentals? Here's a Snap!
Space to rent at Bronx Studios. Open and covered stages. Exceptional opportunity for independent producers who want to save substantial sum on overhead. Investigate!

H. and B. Film Company
Bronx Studio, 1747 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles.
Wilshire 4275

Marion Warde
Acting and Make-Up for Stage and Motion Pictures. A legitimate, Practical School of Results. Classical, Character, Ballet, and Step-Dancing.
- Holly 2118

James V. Vilan
The young Filipino actor, 6 years in Hollywood. Have been with Harry Casson in "Havoc" nine weeks. Am well recommended to that company. Phone 921-856.
Consultation
secretary
Young 6666
Phone
years' GRACE
the Scripts
LOCATION
340
6223
612
Holly
JACK
Minor EXPERT
Attorney-at-Law
ELMER
OF Los Cahuenga
Bldg.
and FRANK
OF Los Angeles,
Cal.

Minor Blythe
Attorney-at-Law
Suite 620 Pacific Finance Bldg.
Los Angeles
Telephone 134-88

EXPERT TYPING
Scripts and Stories
a Specialty
GRACE AINSLEE
Carvanza 3395

Reproductions
Publicity
Still Finishing
Photography
LITTLE
Commercial Photographer
Phone 417909
5874 Hollywood Blvd., Corner Bronson

Animated Cartoons—Original Title Ideas—
Clay Animation—Miniature Sets and Animated Figures

Cinema Arts Studio
ELMER H. YOUNG, Mgr.
612 Lipton Bldg.
Phone 644-42

“We save your sole and heel you too”
FRANK
The Shoe Doctor
Holly 3752
6666 Hollywood Blvd.

LOCATION LUNCHES
Holly 7660

KWIK LUNCH
1626 Cahuenga Ave.

“The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry”

CAMERA

FULL DRESSES OF EARLY FRENCH PERIOD SERIOUS HANDICAP IN PRESENT DAY

Full dresses, of the style worn by court ladies during the time of the French Revolution which serves as the background for "Scaramouche," Box Ingram’s newest Metro production, are out of place in the present period. Mr. Ingram learned this during the making of this picture and was forced, for some length to solve some of the difficulties presented by the odd style of gowns.

Each gown consists of 12 yards of material, and a woman wearing one takes up as much room as two or three persons in modern clothes.

During the filming of ballroom scenes at Madame Plouzaste’s Paris mansion, 200 women, all fashionably attired, were used. Every gown was elaborate, made of brocades and satins and with a great deal of lace. It was necessary for every woman to be as careful as possible with her costume for the trains swept across the floor and two seamstresses were kept busy on the set to mend rents and tears.

The first big difficulty came during noon on the first day when the company was dismissed for lunch. Only half of the 200 women were able to get into the two cars across the street from the studio. Booths constructed for the purpose of seating four ordinary persons would accommodate only two ladies attired in bouffant gowns.

Consequently the half that were not seated had to wait until the other half had completed their lunche. Since then, when using a large number of women Mr. Ingram sends portions of the company to lunch at a time.

Moviedom’s Triumvirate

This triumvirate has undertaken the production of another semi-serious vehicle, and expect to complete within the next few weeks an original story to be known as "The Extra Girl," in which the irresistible and much loved Mabel Normand is again starred with a particularly well known cast, giving such personalities as Ralph Graves’ leading man, George Nichols, Anna Hernandez, Vernon Dent and Charlotte Mineau.

The story of "The Extra Girl" is by Mack Sennett and was adapted for the screen by Bernard McConville, and gives every promise of being as popular a product produced by this triumvirate. Laughter, sympathy and beauty are all incorporated in this picture, is the claim of its creators.

Making her appearance at the beginning of the picture as the daughter of an honest, hard-working, mid-western family, Miss Normand introduces a new character to the screen, a type of American girl, we all know exists but whom we seldom meet. A daring, ambitious enthusiasm, cherishing the bigger and finer things is provided for in the narrow circle of activities in a country town, and who with girlish simplicity and unchallenged determination, satisfies her heart’s desire that which she aspires to. Through the evolution of incidents into which the element of love romance and adventure play an all important part, our heroine finally settles into that blessed state of happiness prescribed for right thinking and healthy bodied youth.

John Elliott, who is appearing in Metro’s picturization of "The Eagle’s Feather," enjoys the distinction of being an honorary chieftain of the Brule Tribe of Sioux Indians.

SUNSET TAXI
Touring Cars $2 per Hour. Limousines $2.50 per Hour
Special Rates on Studio Trips and Touring 578-280 578-307 575-52

C H U M A C H O P S U E Y
Parlor
American and Chinese Dishes. Chowmein to take home
732 South Olive Street
Los Angeles, Cal.

Young lady, 31, desires position as secretary to studio executive. Twelve years legal experience. Expert stenographer (typist and dictation). Diplomatic receptionist. Address Box J. C. 3 Camera

WE MOVE THE MOVIES
and Shine

Hollywood 207 — SAMUEL C. SHINE — 1920

'CAMERA!' WANTED ADS

FOR RENT—High-grade still outfits, $5.00 per Day. Little. The Dolliographer, 1794

Charming, with the photograph, a cast of characters, a cast of costumes, a cast of personalities, a cast of situations, a cast of emotional responses, a cast of conflicts, a cast of relationships, a cast of...
Walter Frederick Seely
Shadoword Photography
1448 North Wilcox
(One-half block west of Cahuenga at Sunset)
Telephone 439-774

Publicity Engineer

Tamar Lane Holly 737

Hardee Kirkland
Hollywood 6298

(Fort Worth says about the sketch "The Man Higher Up," in which Mr. Kirkland appeared with Theodore Roberts).

"Usually, the movie star is the only thing to the play, but Hardee Kirkland, the first and only other member of the cast, rivals the distinguished 'father of the films' for top position honors."

YOUR PHONOGRAPH will reproduce in soft Mellow Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a
Deflexograph
Fits any Phonograph or Victrola
Using Changeable Needles
Play after hours — will not disturb.
Deflexograph attaches to needle holder. Filters sound oscillations, prevents scratch and surface noises entering sound box. No metallic noises.

FILM FORECASTS BALKAN IMBROGLIOS

Always one of the political volcanoes of the world, the Balkans are crowding the front pages of the newspapers again. The unrest, which exploded on that memorably tragic day at Sarajevo in 1914 has not been entirely allayed by the four years of war and the millions of lives sacrificed since a crazed student fired "the shot heard round the world."

The movie picture has often followed closely upon the herald of important world news; but it remained for Jackie Coogan to embark on the filming of a story that presages the mid-European chaos. "Long Live the King," which Jackie is now making under the supervision of his father and the direction of Victor Seibertinger, tells a story of political imbroglio in the mythical Kingdom of Lavonia, typical of all the Balkan states. The author, Mary Roberts Rinehart, wrote this novel some years ago; but when the Coogans were seeking for the first story to be made by Jackie under his new contract with Metro, Jack Coogan, senior, selected this tale from the many under consideration, not only for its intrinsic drama and entertaining values, but also for its Timeliness. He foresaw that conditions in the Balkan states would be bound to bring on a political eruption—and that eruption has come to pass, even sooner than he expected.

"Long Live the King," will be released as soon as possible after completion—it is now in its seventh week—and it will afford the American public a uniquely valuable opportunity to see the social conditions which exist in these little-understood communities and thus derive greater appreciation of the historical events transpiring there at the present time. Fundamentally, of course, the picture will be offered on the screens of the world as Jackie's biggest and most elaborate film, with a superlative cast supporting the starlet in his finest acting role, but the concomitant exposition of Balkan life will doubtless be of additional interest to audiences everywhere.

Rafael Sabatini, whose Scaramouche, a romance of the French Revolution is now being filmed for Metro by Rex Ingram, is hailed as the modern Dumas.

Coy Watson, Jr.
Age 10. Wilshire 3616
Releases:
"The Weak"
"You Never Know"
"The Flight of the strongest"
With E. K. Lincoln

Doctors
FORD & FORD
Palmolive
Graduate
Scientific Spinal Adjustments
Individual Test Rooms
Office
Ground Floor
C. Henry Ford
D.C., Ph.D.

CHIROPRACTORS
5911 Hollywood Boulevard
10 to 12—2 to 5
Mon., Wed., Friday
LOS ANGELES, CALIF.
Evening Clothes, Sport Wear, Shoes, Hats, Very Reasonable
Catering to the profession. Disposing of complete wardrobes on a commission basis. Can always place High Class exclusive wearing apparel

STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL

Especially for Motion Picture People.

THE HILLVIEW GRILL
Hillview Apartments Bldg.
Hollywood at Hudson
Holly 7800 Holly 6626

MERCHANTS LUNCH
11:30 to 2
5:30 to 8

HILLVIEW APARTMENTS
Boulevard at Sunset

COLBURN'S TAXIDERMY STUDIO
1033-1037 Broadway Place
Telephone 643-13
FUR RUGS
FUR ROBES
MOUNTINGS
of All Descriptions—Exceptionally Complete Facilities for Fur Storage and Renovating

HOOVER STUDIOS
The Finest Quality Professional Portraiture. All Sittings are Made by Appointment.

1616 Vine St. Phone Holly 9161

Hellman Bank is Coming to Hollywood
Temporary Location 6621 Hollywood Blvd.
Permanent Home Hollywood Blvd.
at Cherokee
"Saturday Night Banking"
ABOUT LENORE ULRIC AND SARAH BERNHARDT

With the arrival of Lenore Ulric, noted actress of the legitimate stage, who is about to commence work before the motion picture camera as the star of David Belasco's "Tiger Rose," for the Warner Brothers, many stories of this artist and her connection with the beloved Sarah Bernhardt are pouring into the executive offices of the Warner studios from interested showmen.

Perhaps the most interesting bit of information about Miss Ulric and the divine Sarah comes from Albert Dorris, motion picture editor. In a Hollywood newspaper who was formerly prominent in dramatic circles of the east. Mr. Dorris has watched and studied the performance of Miss Ulric since she broke into the Belasco realm a few years ago. He was drawn to her art because of the interest she displayed in Madame Bernhardt, who was at that time under the management of Ike W. Hope, a close friend of Dorris.

It seems, according to the kind informant, that Miss Ulric had chosen the "Madame," as she was always called by the profession, as her idol, and each night at Frohman's theatre, would find the young actress deeply absorbed in the performance of the noted French artist. Finally Ike Hope carried his little secret to Madame, with the result that the Madame insisted upon Miss Ulric's company at an early date. The little incident terminated with Madame presenting a most beautiful portrait of herself to Miss Ulric with a personal touch of certainty that her young admirer would be heard of in the "big lights" before long.

The affair took place in late 1918 when Madame Bernhardt was appearing at the Empire Theatre in New York City. Miss Ulric had just finished her first bit under David Belasco and coming from so important a personage as Bernhardt, the little token of good will was most welcome.

Miss Ulric commences work in the immediate future on "Tiger Rose." This is the play in which she made such an impressive showing on Broadway. The picture version will be known as a Sidney A. Franklin production with Mr. Franklin handling the megaphone.

Katherine MacDonald was married last week to Chas. Johnson at Atlantic City, at the home of Dr. R. Johnson Held, uncle of the bridegroom. Mary MacClure, the sister and Mrs. L. A. MacDonald mother of the bride, were present.

Things are Great

We're in Our New Home, Snug as a Bug in a Rug!

Our Stock Has Been Greatly Enlarged and We're Now Ready for a Salvo of Bargains!

Tremendous Discounts!

Screen Stars Wardrobe Exchange
1060 North Western Ave.
Phone 435-677

Wanted---DIAMONDS
Highest Cash Prices Paid for Yours

SIDNEY D. COHN
392 Bank of Italy 1566
Cor., Seventh and Olive Sts.
Metropolitan 8412

The Finest of the Squared-Ring Sport here every Friday night
The gathering place of the elite of filmdom. Come and enjoy an evening of different recreation! You'll soon be a regular fight fan!

AMERICAN LEGION STADIUM
Hollywood at El Centro
Phone Holly 100 for Reservations

Rainbow Valley

Where the Rainbow ends. Just the spot for a little home in the hills. Water, Electricity, Graded and Graveled streets to each lot.

HERE IS THE POT OF GOLD.

Health, Happiness, a good investment and perpetual rights in the Rainbow Valley club. Swimming, dancing, tennis, quoits, horseshoe, fishing, hunting and all to be had for $198, $298, $398, $498, $10, $15, $20, $25 DOWN and $10.00 per month.

From Glendale—through Montrose, along Michigan Ave., to Tujunga, Sunland, RAINBOW VALLEY.

For further information call or write office of

RAINBOW VALLEY
100 East Colorado St.
Phone Glendale 1702
Glendale, California
SUSANNA THOMAS
Terpsichorean and Dramatic Artist
567-322

Photos by Evans
King Tut Face Powder

in Light and Dark Shades

A new and exceptionally fine powder, especially appropriate for summer use. While principally designed for street use, it can also be used in the studio. We have the light and dark shades which are so popular at the present time. Used and endorsed by some of the foremost film stars.

Attractively priced at $1.00 the box, either by mail or at our store. A TRIAL WILL CONVINCE YOU

Also Hair Dyeing, Scalp Treatments, Manicures, Shampoos and Facial Massages.

Ye Rub Shoppe

Los Angeles

621 West 8th Street

California

Ye Rubbe Shoppe,
621 West 8th St.,
Los Angeles, Calif.

Enclosed herewith find $1.00 for which please send me one box of KING TUT FACE POWDER in the ............................................................shade.

Name.................................................................

Address.............................................................

City......................................................State........................................
HARRY MESTAYER
LEADING HEAVY IN JANE MURFIN'S "THE SIGN."
Recent N. Y. Engagements
David Belasco, Geo. M. Cohan, Charles Frohman, Inc., and Others
PHONE 552-75.
"N. Y. YORK ADDRESS—LAMBS' CLUB."
AUTHENTIC DETAILS AND PHOTOGRAPHS OF FOREIGN INTERIORS AND EXTERIORS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Mrs. A. Metzner announces the opening of where she will be prepared to handle all your diet problems.

“The Diet Shop”

Whether you are overweight; underweight; have difficulty in maintaining normal weight; diabetic or whatever your particular problem may be. Her “Zero” Products——absolutely starch free——palatable, having no food value——take the place of bread and crackers on any diet; add bulk, satisfy hunger and relieve constipation.

Consultation by Appointment

5621 Hollywood Boulevard

The Atmosphere

and scenic effects of a picture oftimes have created a success of what might have otherwise been a complete failure. Appropriate and beautiful settings are vital factors in present day film production, and those producers who want to insure perfection in their settings will find our shop of inestimable value. We maintain a complete collection of art works, oil paintings, bronzes and bric-a-brac from all corners of the earth. The 20,000 feet of floor space in our establishment is filled with all manners of unusual and beautiful antiques. We’re IN HOLLYWOOD; come in and meet us when you’re down here.

The Atmospere

and scenic effects of a picture oftimes have created a success of what might have otherwise been a complete failure. Appropriate and beautiful settings are vital factors in present day film production, and those producers who want to insure perfection in their settings will find our shop of inestimable value. We maintain a complete collection of art works, oil paintings, bronzes and bric-a-brac from all corners of the earth. The 20,000 feet of floor space in our establishment is filled with all manners of unusual and beautiful antiques. We’re IN HOLLYWOOD; come in and meet us when you’re down here.

Foster's Antique Shop

4534 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 598-030

“Make-Up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry”

That this shop has universal appeal is evidenced by the fact that film folk of widely varying importance in the profession make it their make-up headquarters. Thus has it earned its title of “Make-Up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry”; catering to all who love fine things. It is exclusive, but not expensive. Yet the products sold here are of the best manufacture. Years of experience and endeavor, efficient management and modern methods, have enabled us to grow to our present size.
"Camera!"

ESTABLISHED 1918—A FILM MAGAZINE AND A FILM NEWSPAPER IN ONE

Entered as second class matter, August 11, 1918, at the postoffice at Los Angeles, Cal., under act of March 3, 1879.

S. W. (DOC) LAWSON, Publisher and Manager
JOHN CORNYN, Advertising Manager
DELBERT E. DAVENPORT, Editor
FRED W. FOX, Advertising Copy
GEO. WOOLLEY, Studio Representative

H. H. CONGER COMPANY, National Advertising Representatives

Marbridge Building, NEW YORK CITY
First Nat. Bank Building, CHICAGO
Hollywood Building, SAN FRANCISCO

Price 10 cents per copy, $3.50 per year in Los Angeles County. Outside Zone, $4.00 per year. Canada, $4.50, Foreign, $5.00.

Issued on Saturday afternoon of each week at 6318 Hollywood Boulevard, in Los Angeles, California.

Phone 439-869

Address All Communications to Camera!

Vol. VI. SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1923 No. 11

As the Editorial Mind Works

In view of the early approach of the Fourth of July again, let us resurrect what old saw: Beware of the gun that's not loaded! Also, mind your fire-cracking if you mind losing a finger or two.

Any man who takes advantage of another man when he's down on his knees need not expect to stay on his own feet so very long. Time sweeps the unfair into the discard unaided by mortal man.

There's going to be a revolution in motion pictures one of these days, but it won't be a Trotsky or a Lenin at the head of it, and, when it is all over, some of the present-day leaders among producers will probably go under.

The east had scarcely recovered from a blizzard when a man-killing heat wave hit that section of the country. From frigidity to torridity seems like a silly jump to endure when it's so simple to take a jump to Southern California.

Gradually the old-time, machine-made program picture is passing into discard, as one by one the producers are forsaking that field in favor of the so-called "special." Yea and verily, it is highly possible that in another couple of years you'd hardly know a photoplay, so different and better it will be.

There seems to be some doubt in the minds of some people as to the status of the motion picture industry so far as prosperity is concerned. All doubts should be dispelled by the simple statement of the fact that more money is being spent on film production this year than at any time in the entire history of the business. This is status enough to be optimistic over, we think.

Motion pictures about Hollywood are as right all as they go, but more good would come of it if there could be injected a more serious note in all pictorial references to the home life of this community. The sooner the world knows that Hollywood people—including motion picture people—live just as people live in any other wholesome American city the better it will be for all concerned. Exaggerations one way or the other will not help one iota.

A movie a day keeps the "blues" away just as an apple a day will keep the doctor away. Now of all times should it become the habit of all civilized peoples to patronize the motion pictures more than ever, for an increase in patronage at this time will prove a great boon in encouraging the many improvements in screen fare which is so much demanded by the public.

It takes money to pay for improvements and the activities around box offices are requisite to making possible the detaining of the expenses. Hence let there be all the activities required since it is all for the common weal that motion pictures should be improved.

Next week the first annual Motion Picture Exposition opens at Exposition Park in Los Angeles. Out of common patriotism—an element which should be universally common in all Filmland—this enterprise should be given the utmost support by the picture people. It cannot be said that this rather gigantic affair has been advertised either judiciously enough or extensively enough, but it seems certain a sufficient number of people of the great general public know about it to insure record-breaking crowds. The very novelty of the idea of having a motion picture exposition is alone amply powerful to prove a big drawing card.

There is a veritable influx of child artists amazingly apparent in Hollywood just now. Mothers and fathers are bringing their off-spring from the north, east, south and west and all in-between directions as they never did before since the movies became the universal rage. Meanwhile there is very small demand for such juvenile talent. It is being proven daily that it is most difficult to develop second Jackie Coogans and second Baby Peggsys and someone should take the trouble to broadcast the information relative to the great surplus of child aspirants here at present. It was demonstrated at a certain studio just this week that the issuing of a call for children brings at least fifty for each job. It is to be hoped the ratio will not be increased simply as a matter of sparing some doting parents from bitter disappointments such as are inevitable in such a big majority of the cases.

Myron Zobel, publisher of Screenland, a fan magazine, and Hollywood Confessions, ostensibly a sensational publication, is "on the pan" on the charge of his editorial policies and various tactics being unfair to Hollywood and detrimental as well. One of the local newspapers has been "jumping onto him with both feet" and many merchants have joined in a movement to make known their disapproval of him most emphatically. Meanwhile Mr. Zobel has moved bag and baggage to New York, where he does his own work at least, and it is highly doubtful whether or not he is justified in advertising that his Screenland comes from Hollywood at all, especially in view of the fact that it is not even printed here. He has had wonderful opportunities to do Hollywood many good turns, but evidently he has not elected to be conspicuous as this city's benefactor. While he does not maliciously malign this center of film-making, yet there are unsavory intimations in many of the stories he publishes and for this he can be blamed. Here's hoping, however, he will prove it is all a mistake and that he really is a good friend to the old home town, which certainly has been good to him.
"It takes two seconds to shoot off a skyrocket—and two months, at least, to build a skyscraper. We mention it because that goes for business too—J. M. Bundscho.

This is the competitive era in motion pictures. The age-old law of the survival of the fittest carries on as relentlessly as in days gone by. From time to time we see a few, who have been acclaimed as artists of extraordinary merit and the ushers of a new order of things in the industry, rise to a momentary triumph and as quickly fade away into oblivion or mediocrity. They are the skyscrapers of the profession; they have not built a strong foundation for the structure that is their career. They last but two seconds.

Others, unfavored and unknown, through sheer hard work and the magnetic quality of their art, slowly climb to the heights and find their niche. They make skyscrapers of their career, reaching to the height of worth-while achievement. They build a firm foundation for that structure. They learn through experience, their ability is gained through intensive and conscientious training. They last two months, then two years...they last, that's the thing.

Far-visioned people of the industry realize that one of the biggest factors in film success is ADEQUATE PUBLICITY. Through the medium of this worth-while publicity they are enlisting in their aid the tremendous and far-flung power of the press. They are making themselves known. Publicity is the cornerstone of the foundation of any real screen success. I want a few people who believe in themselves, to discuss this publicity phase with me. I believe I can be of genuine service. I am now representing several prominent actors and actresses and I will unhesitatingly refer you to them that you may ask them if publicity, GOOD publicity, pays. You will see above and below the mark of GOOD publicity. It is known to progressive editors throughout the world.

The following compose the mechanical staff:
WALTER FREDERICK SEELY
Photography
C. H. DILLINGER
Commercial Art
J. M. BUNDSCHO, Chicago
Typography
Fine Printing
Commercial Art
Vi Offers to Uplift Villains High

Viola Dana has offered to undertake the task of uplifting the poor downtrodden screen villains of Hollywood.

Charles Gerard, one of the ill-fated and abandoned at tribe, leers, plots and connives through several hundred feet of film of Miss Dana’s newest Metro starring picture, a mystery story written by Rita Weisman, “The Social Code.” Oscar Apfel is directing.

The little star does her level best to foil Gerard’s evil plans while before the camera, but otherwise she is one of his best friends.

“Some of the nicest men I’ve known are screen villains,” she told him. There are Nest Torrence, the Beery boys, Walter Jago, George Siegman and a dozen others. The trouble is that you don’t stick together. You have no standing in the community. A lot of people think you are as bad off the screen as you are on it.

“My suggestion is that you form a club, have regular officers, meet one night a week and unite your efforts to uplift the status of the screen villain. I don’t think there’s any need to vote for officers. I wouldn’t do it that way. Just get together with paper and pencil and figure out what pictures each has played in during the past year.

“The one that has killed the most people, foreclosed the largest number of mortgages on widows and stolen the greatest amount of pennies from the blind men’s cups—all in pictures—should be president. The villain with the second best average would be vice-president, and so on down the line.

“The by-laws of the club might be arranged so that if at any time one of the ordinary members raises his average of misdeeds above that of one of the officers that he take that officer’s place. Any person who failed to maintain an average of at least three mortgage foreclosures every month and three railroad wreck plots might be automatically dropped from membership.

Mr. Gerard considers that idea a good one. Has promised to “take it up with the boys” and report what progress he has made to Miss Dana.

Composing Music as He Directs Picture

Many of the big films since “Intolerance” have had special musical scores written for them, usually compilations of different established pieces of popular and classical music. Sometimes the musical score for the presentation of a big film consists of entirely original music, written especially for the photography and therefore all the more appropriate. Such was the case with Douglas Fairbanks’ Robin Hood,” for the presentation of which director Schertzinger wrote an entirely original score.

In the filming of Jackie Coogan’s Metro version, “Long Live the King,” Schertzinger is gone another step forward. He is directing Jackie in the picturization of this popular Mary Roberts Rinehart story under the personal supervision of Jackie Coogan, minor, and he has been composing the music which is played on the stage by the “set orchestra” during the taking of the actual scenes. This same music will be transposed some degree and arranged for the presentation of “Long Live the King” when it is offered to the audiences of the world this fall.

It has long been the custom for most directors to use a set orchestra, which plays music that the director or the actors feel will inspire them to greater emotional heights, but this is the first time in film history that entirely original music has been played on the set during the making of a photoplay, and scores another advance for the Jackie Coogan organization.

Thus Schertzinger has written several new ballads for the scenes between Ruth Henick and Alan Forrest, who provide the chief love interest in the piece, and some interesting “villainous” themes for Rosemary (Continued on Page 21)

RIGHT—Raymond McKee, who is returning from New York to reside in Hollywood.
San Francisco, Cal., June 25, 1923—The Fox company with James Flood directing, and William Russell as the featured lead, shot some scenes on Market Street last Monday, and Tuesday worked on the docks, and departed for Los Angeles by train Tuesday evening.

Milton Gardner, Vice-president of Goldwyn, came to San Francisco last Thursday morning, and spent several days here looking over the work of the two Goldwyn companies now shooting in our midst. While in town Mr. Gardner visited the Victor Sea- strom outfit working on location near Half-Moon Bay, and Eric Von Stroheim just starting his fourth month of work on the big made-to-order set at Hayes and Laguna Streets. And he also saw some of the lately finished film of "Greed," with which he was much pleased.

James Cruse and thirty members of the cast and staff engaged in making "Ruggles of Red Cap" for the Famous Players-Lasky company, arrived in San Francisco last last Saturday morning, spent the day at the Palace Hotel, and left in the evening for a location. Among the leading members of the organization are Ernest Torrence, Frizzi Ridgeway, Anna Lehr, Lois Wilson, Edward Everett Horton, and Charles Ellioton. Vernon Keys is assistant director and Karl Brown is head cameraman.

Metro has also been represented in San Francisco the past week, as Harold Shaw, director, and seven others just starting the filming of "Held To Answer" from a story by Peter Clark McFarlane came to town last Thursday morning. Nate Watt is assistant director, Andre Barlaber at the camera, and House Peters is being featured. The picture will be an eight-reel special, and the leading feminine role has not yet been cast. While here they, with the help of some dozen local extra people did some two days of work on an Alameda ferry boat travelling back and forth across the Bay, also, some scenes in Oakland, and at the Oakland Hotel. They returned to Los Angeles Saturday evening and will begin work at the studio on Monday morning.

Speaking of ferry boats, going to sea on San Francisco harbor seems to have suddenly become very much the fashion, for Eric Von Stroheim, most of his cast, and some fifteen extras, also spent two days last week sailing back and forth to Alameda to work on a scene for the second day, day ahead of them on the beautiful water of the Bay. All the company rather regards this part of the picture as a lark, and a company from Von Stroheim himself, Frank, the property boy, lunched together, perched up on stools in the lunch room, the boat, and enjoyed the fresh air, and the beauty of the battleship docked harbor between shots. As on Friday, both Metro and Goldwyn were working at once, only on different boats of the same line, the crew wave at each other now and then as the passed by.

A. H. Sebastian, of the Belasco Production, and George W. Davis of the New York end of the organization, have been in Los Angeles the past week completing some important arrangements for the company.

Victor Seastrom, director, and the Goldwyn company working with him in the making of Hall Calwe's "Master of Men," have finished their location work here, and for the last week, on Friday evening. The second and last week of work here seems to be dozed with so many misfortunes the Jimmie Hogan, production manager, is without much more happened to go jump in the Bay himself. First of all the sun was not well behaved, and refused to shine seven days when needed, then Charles Von Erps taking their head cameraman, trying to get some shots just at sunrise at Half-Moon Bay slipped on the rocks, and sprained his ankle, and the property man had an infected foot, last but not least, Patsy Ruth Miller retiring to bed with bronchitis, but in spite of it all they at last got finished up, and our friends Jimmie wasn't quite driven to a water grave.

Joan Standing, who has been playing "Sibella" in "Greed," has finished her part in the picture and left for Los Angeles for Friday evening. Frank Hayes is also done.

(Continued on Page 22)

Flashes from Frisco

By AGNES KERR CRAWFORD

Along New York's Rialto

By RAYMOND MCKEE

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McKee are leaving New York City to settle in Hollywood. They have a log cabin on Cherokee Avenue all furnished with wild animal skins and rustic things from all parts of the globe. So there they will live until his tenants vacate from his bunglow. It will be Mrs. McKee's first visit to the land of flowers. She was Marquisee Courtot. Remember?

Eva Tanguay, the cyclonic comedienne, is working up the death of her Miss Tanguay's "Baby" croaked in Omaha while she was playing on the Orpheum Circuit. The dog's head has been sealed up in a jar of alcohol, and the skin is being purchased by a taxidermist. The lady is overwhelmed with grief.

The Court has given Mrs. Locklear, wife of Omer Locklear, the late daredevil aviator, permission to file suit for damages arising from his action by filing an amended complaint within twenty days. The Fox company filed a motion for the courts to dismiss the suit for $50,000 which Ruby Graves Locklear brought shortly after her husband met his death while performing in an aeroplane for the Fox Film Corporation in Hollywood.

Beazie Harrisscale has closed her season and come back to New York for a rest before leaving for the Pacific Coast.

Michael J. Connelly, formerly casting director for the Cosmopolitan Studios, has opened offices of his own at 140 West 44th Street under the name of the New York Casting Office. He has already cast principals for some of the biggest productions now in the making.

Tyrone Power will play an important part in "The Day of Faith" which Tod Brown- ing is to direct for Goldwyn.

Herbert Corthell and Walter Catlett have been engaged for important roles in "Second Youth," which Distinctive Pictures has put in production as a feature film for Alfred Lunt and Mimi Palmer.

Sherry Hall, a real "Native Son" of Erle is cutting his latest special for Distinctive Pictures. Sherry is kept busy these days between directing pictures and listening on the radio he must find time to sing, at least once each night, "Lady of the Evening." Believe me the "old kids" a elevah.

The general approval with which the press and screen public have received the film "Main Street," has won for it the distinctions of a second week's showing at the Strand Theatre. Credit for this goes to Harry Henn mont, for his capable direction and a good cast which includes Melville Cooper, Alan Hale, and Mabel Ray and Philip Vidor.

On July 1st the Green Room Club will move from its home in West 47th Street to 3500 Fifth Avenue. The Actors' Order of Friendship owns the present quarters which will be used for restaurant purposes.

Warner Oland won his suit for $6,000 from (Continued on Page 20)
THE SILENT TREND

COMPOSITE OF VIEWS, PREVIEWS AND REVIEWS OF MOTION PICTURES

We are back again after a vacation. It is a reviewer of pictures good to have re- gret from projection rooms for a few weeks. As a matter of fact, it is a long time since we saw anything in the way of a picture worth writing about. The shortage of pictures has been apparent for some time, and the lack of new material has forced us to turn back to the past. We have been forced to look to the past for new things to write about, and it is a long time since we have had to look back to the past for new things to write about.

The situation is not likely to improve any time soon, as the lack of new material has forced the producers to turn to the past for new things to write about. We have been forced to look to the past for new things to write about, and it is a long time since we have had to look back to the past for new things to write about.

TENDENCIES TILERE ENTERED

The inclination of various groups of exhibitors to squabble and fight is not abating any and the continuance inspires the question: What are they fighting about? It seems as though an attempt is being made to win the hearts of the public, and it is a battle between a few leaders and the rest of the field for the control of the public. It is a battle between a few leaders and the rest of the field for the control of the public.

The coalition of A. L. Reamer and the owners of the Famous Pictures is as yet without any results. The coalition is without any results. The coalition is without any results.

This promises to be the banner year for screen adaptation of published novels. Never before have so many books been on studio schedule and yet there are those optimists who predict the immortal success of this year's pictures.

Photoplays with purposes are enjoying a vogue just now largely due to the world-wide interest aroused by Mrs. Wallace Reid's auto-pictorial picture, "Human Wreckage," which is proving powerful as a force for arousing the public to renewed efforts to stamp out the greatest menace of all. The work, the photoplay helps some worthy cause while it entertains the better it will be for insuring the permanence of the great cinema art as a perpetually benefactor of humanity.

One by one great publishers admit the screen ranks with the press as a factor in promoting the public welfare. William Randolph Hearst is the latest to add his impress to this point. Some of the hide-bound censors may yet have to wail out justice to motion pictures.

There is a revival of interest in western photodramas, a revival which may be traced to "The Covered Wagon." At the present time there are more companies making western pictures in Southern California than at any time for two years. Meanwhile the high-society is suffering and the costume play is on the wane.

FINESSE AND FIDELITY TO TRUTH: "The Spoilers," always a good bet, is now a better one and as a picture revival of the popular tale, it seems destined to enjoy unprecedented popularity throughout the realm inhabited by photoplay fans.

Well, "Main Street" is on the screen map and a sequel is to be expected. It was on the book market although, frankly, the screen version is scarcely recognizable as having been related to the book. Sinclair Lewis wrote a true, the epic of Gopher Prairie as originally written had practically no picture value and it was indispensable to infuse many angles of dramatic worth in order to get even the semblance of a plot. Of course, frankly again, the one reason why "Main Street" ever reached the screen had to do with the exploitation value of the title due to the fact that it was the best seller of its time. Universal policies which would make the fixed rule to relegate high grade original stories written expressly for the screen for the sake of acquiring the prestige of the popularity of a work not written with the idea of any picturization, could not possibly be beneficial to the industry in the long run although it is true quite a pretty penny is made on such a proposition. The Warners, however, much clever work has been done by someone in assembling the few available picture points of the book. Mr. Lewis gave to the world and attacking them to incidents of greater visual importance. The cast of characters is almost countenance, there being no less than twenty-five principals who get screen credit. Florence Vidor comes off the top honors with Monta Bell a close second. Alan Hale, Noah Beery, Harry Myers and Louise Fazenda also give good accounts of themselves.

James Young has given the exhibitors of the country another real box office attraction. His latest is "Wandering Daughters" and the title alone gets "em in." It is a story conceived and produced as a much-discussed subject of the moment and inevitably it gets much of its impetus from the jazz craze which is still with us. There is plenty to interest one throughout this production although, of course, those inclined to want a little more of the serious and of the high-brow will not be fully satisfied. However, there is real drama in many of the situations and it is of the variety that strikes home especially since everyone has watched the career of one or another of the leading ones. Most of the interest centers around the performances of Marjorie Daw and Margerite De La Motte although Pat O'Malley is a good one. He is excellent in an exciting feature for the popular priced house.

PROOF—REAL PROOF

Truth is stranger than fiction! Here is proof.

Figure 2 in "Wandering Daughters," a recent James Young-First National production, a dramatic highlight is an incident when an artist uncovers a nude painting the body of which was one girl and the head of another.

Truth: A well-known New York society woman sues a prominent sculptor for $200,000 claiming that he had used the model of her head on the model of the nude body of another woman.
THIS BUTLER HOLDS RECORD FOR SERVICE IN FILMS

This is a story about John Underhill, the butler known as the "Butler of the Social Code," which Oscar Apfel is directing for Metro.

Mr. Underhill's praises are in-doom sung but he is known to every director and casting director in Hollywood. Almost everyone who attends motion pictures even occasionally at the “Roxy.” When his name is flashed on the screen it is just looking at an old friend.

To recount the pictures in which this famous character actor appeared would require the listing of 90 per cent of the productions in which butlers or waiters have been used, and that means a good share of the hundreds turned out yearly.

"I'm doomed to the life of a butter and a waiter," said Mr. Underhill. "I probably never will be anything else. I was in pictures long before most of our present stars had finished McCuey's fourth reader and if my health holds out I probably will be still working for them tomorrow. I'm a served, madam, when most of them have been retired to their country estates."

I am dwelling over the best butlers in motion pictures. I used to be on the stage. Character parts are not for me although I often have longed to try one. I think I would like to consider them as dignified as butting. A head waiter isn't so bad, there's a deal of poise to be maintained when you're playing a role like that."

Mr. Underhill is rather tall and well built with thinning gray-brown hair and cold gray eyes. He is exactly the type of person, if he were a waiter in a high class cafe, patrons would never think of tipping him less than a dollar.

A report appearing in support of Miss tuna in this Rita Weiman mystery story include Malcolm McGregor, Edna Flugrath, Huntly Gordon, Mary Ruby, John Sainpolis, Yvonne Gardelle, William Humphrey and Charles Gerard.

FIFTEEN CENTS A DAY HIS WAGES

Working in a theatre for fifteen cents a night, later traveling through the British empire with the faith-fil step-brother Alfred Capper who is now in England as a successful mind reader, then working at odd jobs for the next two years in France, Switzerland, British Columbia and other foreign countries, only to finally land in Seattle, Washington, where he went to work as a newspaper reporter—this is a brief summary of the career of Reggie Morelli, film actor, before his entrance into motion pictures in 1912.

The actor's parents and grandparents have all been identified with the theatre. His mother, an Italian, was a renowned singer and dancer, his father played for many years appeared with the Royal Ballet at the Scala Theatre in Italy.

His father, an Englishman, was one of the best known man in music in that country. When he was fifteen old Morelli worked as a stage hand at the Venice Theatre in Naples, for which he received the startling sum of fifteen cents a night. At that time Lina Cavalieri was the star at the theatre and was just starting to earn fame as a singer.

His first job in America was on the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, where he worked for two years. He made his first appearance in motion pictures as one of the Keystone cobs in the old Mack Sennett comedies when Gloria Swanson, Charles Chaplin and Orna Connors were among the players with the company.

ANNA DOUBLES FOR CLOCK

No need for an alarm clock for Anna Q. Nilsson's Hollywood neighbors.

For three months fair Anna has been getting into shape to play a part in "Pompiola," a First National picture directed by Donald Crisp, in which she appears as a young woman masquerading as a man.

Getting into shape means one hour of calisthenic exercises every morning and shape, slaps, massages, and the handful of a professional masseuse.

The "ouches" "ows" and "wows" which Miss Nilsson ejaculates as the masseuse does her stuff are not sufficient to wake up the whole neighborhood.

Incidentally "Anna Q." suggests the slapping treatment for those who would like to Mike Connolly, popular casting director for the Hearst pictures since their beginning, has already made for himself to cast for the screen and stage. "The New York Casting Offices" is written across the door at 140 West 44th Street and Mike is the president and is reported to have some very influential friends back of him.

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry" CHARACTER ACTRESSES

According to the studio casting director the number of capable character actresses on the screen can be counted upon the fingers of one's two hands. This lends importance to the fact that two of the ten, Lydia Yeun, Missus Titus and Carrie Clark Ward, are members of the cast of "Scaramouche," Rex Ingram's newest production for Metro.

Their last meeting occurred in 1916 when they appeared on the same program at the Grand Opera House. Missus Titus at around streets Los Angeles. Miss Ward had the lead in her own company's production, "The Golden Ticket," and as was the fashion in those days Miss Titus had before the curtain between acts and sang "Sally In Our Alley" and other songs. She was one of the best known vaudeville's in this country or Europe.

On one particular night the stage director conceived the idea that it would be an interesting experiment to have Lawrence Hanley, the leading man, register rapture at a point near the footlights as he listened to the story of one of the songs being sung in composition of the wings by Miss Ward. She told him he couldn't sing and the argument was becoming good when Miss Titus saved the day by volunteering to sing in Miss Ward's place.

"The audience will never know the difference," the cast told.

Miss Ward agreed and at the conclusion of the song she made her entrance on the stage. The applause was thunderous. Miss Ward purposely bowed and smiled, bowed some more and smiled some more. She tried to continue with her lines but the audience drowned her voice.

"Without a doubt it was the most embarrassing moment of my life," she said. She was panic stricken. At last with a final bow she made her exit. After Miss Titus obligingly sang another stanza off stage Miss Ward returned to an applauded audience and the show went on.

REMINISCENT OF ANNIE LAURIE

Mabel Forrest felt a slight tingje of sympathy as she read in the papers the other day an item to the effect that the home of Annie Laurie, at Craigdarroch, Vancouver, Scotland, was to be sold.

For Miss Forrest, leading woman in the Ben Wilson productions for Grand-Ash Distributing Company, is a descendant of her mother's sister of the famous inspirations of the old song. Her mother was a Laurie. The famous Annie married a man named Ferguson and died at 72 in the year 1753. Miss Forrest has pictures of the home which she hoped to visit some day. She can recall her grandmother back home in Ohio, telling of her relationship to the family which has been immortalized—member of it, at least—in the unforgettable Scotch ballad.

Lester Cuneo, one of the featured players in Metro's all-star production of "The Eagle Feather," was a number of the historic Selig company when they were making pictures entirely in the outdoors. No studio scene whatsoever were employed, the entire company living in the open and taking a day's shooting their pictures as they went along.

FAITH

By Eric Mayne

"Faith without works is dead."

Thus wrote the great logician who constructed the theological basis of the Christian religion.

He sets forth the value of Faith in the development of the higher life.

And yet everything, without Faith, is nothing.

To do anything worth doing, we must have Faith in ourselves.

To be of any value to our fellowmen must have Faith in them.

It is better to be deceived by many than to doubt one who is worthy of our Faith.

Some men believe that they don't believe anything. That is not the case.

'The fool hath said in his heart there is no God,' but the wise man knows there are many Gods, and he seeks to serve the Highest.

Some people tell us they don't believe anybody. That is bad for them.

If we wish to serve our country we must have Faith in it.

Without Faith Washington would never have laid the foundations of the great Republic.

With best Columbus on his way, who everybody else wanted to turn back.

Faith in himself, and in the Italians who love their country, inspired Massolini to work out a means of salvation at the critical moment.

Faith in each other would help other countries in Europe—and elsewhere.

Faith does not make a man a success but it makes him try to be a success.

It is not enough that we believe the world is better than it is, we must help to make it better.
CAMERA’S WEEKLY WAKE-EM-UP

SPECIAL NEWS SECTION
SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1923

TOURNEUR WILL FILM BIG EXPOSITION PREMIERE FOR PRESIDENT’S SAKE

If Mahomet can’t come to the mountain, the mountain will go to Mahomet."

The most familiar, to Christian ears, extract from the koran has been paraphrased by Maurice Tourneur, motion picture director. President Harding cannot come to the opening of the President’s Filmmaking Exposition. So, Mr. Tourneur is going to bring the opening to the president.

Motion pictures of the elaborately planned ceremonies which will occur at the formal opening of the 1923 Motion Picture Industrial Exposition will be made under the direction of Arthur L. Todd, chief cinematographer of the Tourneur production and presented to the president, if his approval is obtained.

The plan was outlined in a fifty-word telegram sent to the chief executive at Kansas City this week by Mr. Tourneur. It read: "Understand you will be able to attend opening ceremonies. Monroe Doctrine Centennial Exposition. May I have honor of bringing the premiere of this world event to you in the motion picture?" If this letter is acceptable, it looks like the president will be glad to see his chief cinematographer and personally direct the taking of motion pictures.

That the event is being presented to you as a record of that is believed will prove the most interesting part of the event in the history of California, especially, Maurice Tourneur.

President Harding was expected to formally open the exposition, until this Spring, when international complications resulted in the postponement of his trip West. When the invitation was tendered him last summer, it was tentatively accepted. Anticipating President Harding’s acceptance, arrangements were already under way to break all records for speed in developing and printing the film made at the exposition. If the President may see the screened scenes as soon as possible, inquiries are being made regarding a special train of the President’s Special and arrangements will be made to have it enroute with a projection machine and the Tourneur print.

A special car will be engaged by Mr. Tourneur to be fitted out as a laboratory and the camera with which the pictures are made will be hurried to it, with the film still in it. The film will be developed and prints made enroute.

PRODUCERS GIVING NEW TALENT CHANCE

This production will be released the coming season, starting September 1, will disclose more "new faces" than ever before. According to the screenings on the screens throughout the country, is the observation of Miss Evelyn Brent, one of the newer "types" of leading ladies now appearing before cameras here.

"A wide-spread movement is evident among producers to introduce "new faces" among the players appearing in their forthcoming pictures," said Miss Brent.

"Such producers as Marshall Neilan, Maurice Tourneur, Harry Hoffman, production manager of Metro, Victor B. Fisher and others have already come out publicly in favor of the "new faces" idea and are introducing new players in important parts in pictures now under way. Others are joining the ranks daily and within a very short time many players who have had little opportunity in the past, will be appearing before the camera in leading characterization roles."

Mr. Hoffman of Metro, before a meeting of the Western Motion Picture Advertisers recently, stated that what the screen needs today as much as anything else, are new personalities. He pointed out that the over-use of well known players would harm both the players and the pictures.

An observation of present studio activities discloses the fact that by next season there will be evidenced a greater number of "new faces" on the screens throughout the country, than ever before during any similar period in the history of the motion picture—or at least ever since the star system of using popular players started."

Geldert Ready For 128th

With the return of Cecil De Mille and company from location work on "The Ten Commandments" is rapidly being completed and the picture will be ready soon for the cutting room. In finishing this work in this production, Clarence H. Geldert, the executive producer of the 127th picture in the last six years.

PLANT FOR MANUFACTURING FILM-MAKING ACCESSORIES WILL BE FOUNDED HERE

That Los Angeles will not only be the production and financial center of motion pictures, but the nucleus of the manufacturing of the accessories that accompany finished film products, in the firm belief of Sol Lesser and Michael Rosenberg, of Principal Pictures Corporation.

According to these film executives, steps are now being taken to create a manufacturing plant in which will be created and made, all accessories pertaining to film productions made and released by the Principal Pictures Corporation.

New York, Chicago and Cleveland have at the present time the "corner" so to speak on the accessories necessary for the film world. With Principal Pictures plans, Los Angeles will jump into the ring and take a big stride forward in this respect as well.

Few people outside the industry realize, according to Sol Lesser, that the many "tools" necessary to "put over" a motion picture after it is made. The exhibitors require lithographs, press books, special exploitation mats, cuts, and advertising matter. Novelties in hundreds of different varieties are made up in million quantities by these eastern firms and distributed to the many film exchanges and theatres throughout the United States.

According to Messrs Lesser and Rosenberg, a large tract of industrial property will be purchased, and upon this site will be erected buildings suitable for manufacture of all accessories necessary for the products of the Principal Pictures Corporation. These will include lithographs, press books, special exploitation advertising, novelties of every description, including booklets, dolls, statues, tags, heralds and every conceivable piece of advertising attractive to the theatre owner wanting to exploit pictures on a big basis.

A narrow escape from severe injuries and per chance death was reported by several important film artists this week in Prescott, Arizona, when the closed automobile in which they were riding to location ran amuck in a huge hulk of sheep. The film company is located in Prescott making Harold Bell Wright’s "When a Man’s a Man" for Principal Pictures Corporation. Those seated in the automobile were Marguerite De La Motte, leading woman for the company, Mrs. Edward F. Cline, wife of the director making the picture, Mrs. A. L. Bernstein, wife of the production manager, and John Bowers, star of the company.

The occupants were hurrying to Williamson Valley, the scene of their camera work, some thirty miles from Prescott. The driver of the car was pointing out an interesting piece of scenery along the road and did not notice the herd of sheep crossing. The car struck the animals while several hundred were coming down the roadway and the impact threw the machine from one side of the road to the other, it finally halting on one side in a shallow slope along the road.

Seven of the sheep were killed by the roaring car and had it not been for the strong grip on the steering wheel by the driver, a complete somersault would have been inevitable. The occupants were badly shaken and received minor bruises. They were given first aid treatment and sent back to Prescott. The director Cline made the best of matters by filming episodes in which they did not appear.

The love valleys of this particular portion of Arizona are a grayish hue which makes it difficult to see the sheep which thrive in large numbers and it is always general amongst the residents of that country to keep your eyes on the road ahead.

Henry Kolker will shortly return to the United States after completing "I Will Repay," an Ideal Picture.
ACTOR WINS HIGH HONORS IN CONTEST

Creighton Hale, debonair leading man of stage and screen, has not only firmly established himself with the theatre-going public as one of the screen's most versatile performers, but the other leading men, but last Friday evening in the Rose Room of the Ambassador hotel, when a number of prominent motion picture upon the management of the dance tournament to compete for the championship of Southbend, Indiana, Mr. Hale won the highest honors for his ability as an exponent of the art of tapscoting. Hale made his debut in pictures several years ago, but not until last year had been given the opportunity to work before the camera at one of the Hollywood studios. Victor Hugo Halperin, having been seriously ill during a period of prolonged work as the professor in D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East," and while the work in the film was finished, the only notable film played, transported him from New York to Hollywood to play the leading role in his picture, "Too - With a Kick," which is shortly to be shown at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre. Upon the completion of that picture, Mr. Hale was prevailed upon by the management of the Mason Opera House, Los Angeles, to present his play, "Just Suppose," for a week's run. This play was previously presented by him at the Columbia theatre in San Francisco where it had a tremendous hit and it went over with equal success at the Mason.

This week Mr. Hale was engaged to play the part of "Billy" in the Richard Walden Tully produced picture, "Billy" and according to all reports his performance is one of the high lights of the pictures. At present he is under contract with Goldwyn where he is portraying the role of "Alick" in the current Victor Seastrom production, "The Master of Man."

Added to Cast

Tom O'Brien, who has just completed work with Jane Martin and Justin B. McCloud on "The Sign," has been added to the cast of the Trimbelle-Murfin Production, "The Phantom Park," Strongheart's next starring vehicle, and is playing the part of "Art," the young man in the circus sequence. O'Brien is also being considered by Director Lawrence Trimbule for the part of "Beauty" Smith in Strongheart's other picture, Jack London's "White Fang," the exteriors for which were taken in Canada where the director was making "The Phantom Park" ex

DOD is Popular Player

Buddy, the trained film canine, has just finished his work in Warner Brothers' latest picture, "The Country Boy," directed by William Beaudine and starring Wesley Barrie and according to Henry East, the dog's master, Buddy has now worked in a total of sixty-four pictures and is fast becoming the leader of canine actors.

LA ROCQUE GETS CONTRACT WITH DE MILLE

It was this week announced from the office of Cecil B. De Mille that Rod La Rocque has been signed on a one-year contract by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation for Cecil B. De Mille Productions. Mr. La Rocque was signed recently by Mr. De Mille for a leading role in the modern story of "The Ten Commandments," the loyal prologue of which is just being completed. Mr. La Rocque's tests proved him so ideally fitted to the role which he is intended by Mr. De Mille that he was very shortly given to contract. Rod La Rocque is considered one of the most promising of the younger leading men of the screen. He was born in February twenty-five years ago. He has been on the stage almost continuously since he was seven years old. He has alternated between the stage and the screen. Previous to his recent return to the Pacific Coast, he had appeared in such Broadway stage successes as "The Name's You," and "Pink." In the days of Essanay, he was featured in a series of "La Fable" pictures and played heavies in a number of Bryant Washburn pictures. Recent film successes include "Slim Shoddy," "Notoriety," and "Jazzmania."

Mr. De Mille and Mr. Jesse L. Laskey, first vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, are said to have great hopes for the future of La Rocque, who is now given an opportunity such as that which at one time led Thomas Meighan and the late Wallace Reid to stardom.

Kipling Classic Soon

Rudyard Kipling's classic short novel, "The Light That Failed," is in process of being translated into screen language by F. McGrew Willis, who is responsible for the George Melford's forthcoming production of this popular and dramatic story. While work on the adaptation is progressing rapidly, George Melford is putting the finishing touches on his proceeding paramount picture, "Solony Jane."

Actor is Recovering

Billy Giffen, who was injured recently while working on a set at the Goldwyn studios, suffering a broken jaw and numerous bruises on his wrist, is reported well on the way to recovery and will soon be ready for another round behind the camera. He is confined to the Pacific Hospital, where many of his friends in the local film colony have visited him.

ALL WARNERS GET TOGETHER IN HOLLYWOOD

For the first time in many months the four Warner Brothers of picture producing fame were gathered together when Abe Warner of the New York office arrived at their West Coast studio in Hollywood this week.

Abe Warner's visit to the studio lasted but a few days as he inaugurated a business trip of the middle west. He slipped out of Los Angeles as quietly as entering, after four days of consultation with his brothers the details for the production of eighteen or more of the pictures which are to make this coming season.

This is Abe Warner's second trip to the coast in six months. He has traveled a route of principal cities throughout the country, making personal acquaintance with exhibitors and distributors of the Warner product. On leaving Los Angeles, he headed toward Denver, where he will press the button for the moving picture campaign of "Brass" and "Mack R樱er," the two most recent Warner releases, and then into Kansas City and back to Chicago.

Mr. Warner reports that the entire country is awakening with open arms the fulfillment of promises of Los Angeles producers for bigger and better pictures and that the prevailing optimism of the theatre men of the country, big and small alike, is that genuine stories and real directors go a long way toward making films successful.

Keith Headliner Signs

Francis A. Ross, formerly of the celebrated vaudeville team of Felix Adler and Francis Ross, has succumbed to the lure of the pictures, and is now being engaged as one of the "Gold Diggers." The picture is being produced by the Warner Brothers at their West Coast studios. Miss Ross was a headliner on the Orpheum and Keith Vaudeville circuits for more than four years. She is portraying the role of Dolly Baxter in the Avery Hopwood story "The Gold Diggers."

CAMERA RETURNS FROM TWO MONTHS IN ARIZONA

Principal Pictures Corporation's "When A Man's A Man" company returned to Los Angeles after having spent the best part of two months in Prescott, Arizona, making exterior episodes for the noted Harold Wallis Western story. A special car, thick with dust and piled high with props, came and gathered picture equipment, carried the players and their valuable film from the Arizona town. Among those who stepped from the platform of the car were Marguerite De La Motte, John Bowers, Robert Frazer, Jane Marlowe, George Hackathorne, John Eilers, Patricia Polanski, Charles Malis, Forrest Robinson and a host of others equally popular throughout the state. The director, and Arthur L. Bernstein, business and production manager for the Principal Pictures Corporation, announced that the pictures will be released in October.

"Glad to be home?" The members of the Wright cast looked at each other in silent approval. "You bet," laughed Miss De La Motte. "We had a wonderful trip and the Prescott folk treated us royally, but there's no place like home, you know."

The next few weeks will be spent by the company making interior episodes. Work will be continued at Principal's Hollywood studios at once.

"When a Man's a Man" is the first of the series of Harold D. Wright novels to be filmed by Principal Pictures Corporation. Others will follow in line. There are nine volumes in the series, all of which have been purchased by the picture company.

Mae Busch Birthday Party

Paul Form gave a delightful birthday party for Mae Busch on the Montmartre in honor of Mae Musch. Among those present were Mabel Normand, Corinne Griffith, June Mathis, Julian Johnston, Carmel Myers, Carew Wilson, Walter Morisco, Joseph Jackson, William Halley and Goodman Bradley. Mr. Barr adapted to the screen The Chicago of "Men of the Meter Man," Hall Caine novels, in both of which Miss Busch plays the leading feminine roles.

Hoot Returns

Edward Sedgwick and his company have returned from the location camp at O'Neals, California. The screen version of "The Ramblin' Kid" were filmed, and is now at work on the interiors, at Universal City. The interiors are elaborate. The picture stars Hoot Gibson, with Laura La Plante, W. C. Leyland, Evelyn Brannan, Carol Holloway and a large cast.
BAD MAN" IS NOW BEING FILMED ON RANCH

Bang, bang, bang, they're off! Holbrook Blinn, bad man, has been busted over the border and is doing his famous stage ride before the camera.

Work on Edwin Carewe's "The Man," which will be released by First National, started recently at Roscoe where the initial ranch exteriors were shot.

Though necessarily somewhat different from Emerson Porter's stage play in which Blinn has starred so long so successfully, this celebrated actor as a role even more picturesque and nutrith-provoking than the one which has been charming intimate audiences of New York and Los Angeles.

"The screen adaptation of this play by Mr. Porter has been made so as to give me an even better chance to impersonate the bandit character as I visualize him. The film will permit me to expand action and detail and will permit a wider range of acting and a stronger plot," said Blinn. "I have played Maid Marion in "Robin Hood" and was the feminine lead in Fred Niblo's "Captain Applejack." I will play the feminine end of "The Bad Man" opposite Jack Muthall, who has the role of Gilbert Jones.

Carewe plans to turn the negative over to First National for distribution in August. The interiors will be taken at the United Studios.

CRUZ GETS JUVENILE ROLE IN LEE FEATURE

The part of Charlie Hemingway in "You Can't Get Away With It," the first of a series of special productions to be made by Fox under the direction of Roland V. Lee, is being played by Charles Cruz, popular screen juvenile, instead of George Hackathorne, who was recently reported as playing the part. The role referred to is the leading boy, and is a good opportunity to establish himself in pictures as one of the most capable artists of his rank.

Prior to his entrance into motion picture work two years ago, Cruz appeared in musical comedies and dramatic plays from which he gained wide recognition as a brilliant performer. Among a number of successful pictures in which Cruz has appeared and won the unqualified praise of dramatic critics for his histrionic ability are "Emmy's Worth," "My American Wife," "You Never Can Tell," "Blood and Sand," and others.

A SURPRISE IN STORE FOR FANS OF OWEN MOORE

Whoever had decided Owen Moore permanently committed to starring in rollicking comedies such as he made so thoroughly effective, has been given a surprise in store for them, because when they see him in "Thundergore," in which he is now playing the leading role for First National at the United Studios, they will discover a nothing of interest dramatically. It is just the opposite to the sort of work he did in such successes as "Reported Missing."

"An additional element of surprise will be discovered in the fact that in "Thundergore," Mr. Moore plays three different characters or rather portrayals of the dramatic feelings of an unusual man in three distinctly different transitions of his character as unfelt in this story of the entrancing Orient. Moreover, for the first time he essays the interpretation of a young Chinese character, and, according to reports emanating from those associated with him in the filming of this picture, his performance bids fair to be proclaimed one of the acting sensations of the current year.

Although those who are familiar with Owen Moore's long record for presenting screen characters that variety do not doubt any proof of his versatility, those who know him only by his brilliant work as the star of the screen comedies he made during the last three years will no doubt be more than surprised to see him so heavilily dramatic as he is in "Thundergore." Especially as a derelict is his work most challenging of seriousness although his interpretation of the character of the young Chinese in the midst of devastating Oriental luxury is said to be exceedingly gripping.

CRISP IS WORKING HERE AFTER 3 YEARS' ABSENCE

Donald Crisp, famous director, soldier of fortune and actor, who won fame during the last two years in Europe, two, managing the Famous Players-Lasky, London Studio and one year at the Berlin Studios, the same company, will direct Sam E. Rork's production of "Pon'ola" for First National in New York distribution.

Among the pictures which Crisp directed in Europe was the screen adaptation of "Brides Dirty Bush." This was made in Scotland, the original locale of the story.

Crisp has been a recognized authority on pictures since the inception of the industry and has been able to get along with filmdom in many ways. As director with David Wark Griffith he helped give the world its first big spectacular, "The Birth of a Nation." Another of his famous pictures was "The Ten Commandments.

Crisp has already established offices at the United Studios and will start directing Cynthia Stockley's South African story within the next few weeks. Among members of the cast already selected are: Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood and Tully Marshall. Crisp's assistant will be James Farnum, who assisted director James Young in the filming of "Wandering Daughters," and who helped Tully in his screen version of "Tri by.""}

ROBOT MAKES FIRST FEATURE PICTURE

"Gigi," Dink Y. Takes a vacation from acting, producing, but just has been completed and the negative and masterprint taken East where arrangements are being made for distribution. For perhaps the first time in film history a four-year-old star makes his bow to the picture public in a five-reel costume production adapted from a classic penned by a famous author.

That this picture will take like wild fire is the consensus of opinion of those who have seen it. The production is one and little Dink is supported by a remarkable cast consisting of such shining stars as Lillie Langtry, Anna Jarvis, John Sarnol, Joseph Swickard, Sam De Grasse, Eric Mayne, Mitchell Lewis, Ethel Wales, Frank Bond and Frank Darrow, Sr.

The story has and appealing plot and costumes and settings are lavish and rich far beyond those of the average costume production.

The film was directed by Albert Anfin, who wrote and directed "My Day" and who also directed "Trouble.

Chuck Reisner, famous character actor, star and director, who is Dink's father, assisted in the filming of the youngster's first serious effort toward stardom. Dinky first came into the public eye when he starred with Charles Chaplin in "The Pilgrim."

MONEY-MAD INDIANS GIVE PEACEFUL TOWN A THRILL

Residents of Bishop, California, had visions of an uprising of Piuhe Indians last week when 35 braves, in war paint, descended on the peaceful town.

Then, when they heard for the First National Bank, the fears grew to intensity. "The Indians were going to rob the bank robbers," thought the citizens. But they were all wrong. The Indians were people of the town. They had come there to cash their salary checks which they had received for playing parts in a First National picture starring Colleen Moore, now being taken in the Sierras, a few miles from Bishop.

Florence Billings is taking a short vacation following the completion of her part in "With Hayes," Hunter in "Wild Love."
NOTED N. Y. ACTOR WON BY FILM COLONY

Harry Mestayer, one of the most popular leading men of stage and screen, who is widely known to Los Angeles as well as New York audiences, has arrived in Hollywood with a view of making himself actively in motion pictures.

For ten years an actor and director for Oliver Morosco in Los Angeles, Mr. Mestayer has appeared in support of and directed a great many of the foremost stars of the footlights and silvery screen. He has been an actor for the past thirty years, playing heavy leads with Lucile Sullivan, Ulrich, George M. Cohan, Mine, Nancie Banke's, J. H. Miller, James K. Hackett, Mrs. Hoke, H. S. Southern, Ruth Chatterton, Madeline Delancey, Charles Frohman and many others.

For two years he was leading man at the Majestic Theatre, New York, with Holbrook Blinn. Mr. Mestayer came to Los Angeles last summer as leading man with the original "Fair and Warner" company and his work in the play brought forth the greatest praise of dramatic critics here. Although he has now been in Hollywood only a few days he has already received a number of flattering offers from different film producers to play leads and featured roles in forthcoming pictures. His arrival here is considered a great achievement for Los Angeles players in the past strenuously endeavored but without success to obtain the services of the talented actor. For that at least he could not be induced to give up his work on the stage.

Now that he has announced his intentions of becoming a member of the film colony it is being freely predicted that he will soon achieve the same amount of popularity on the screen that he has enjoyed during his long and successful career before the footlights on Broadway in New York.

Peggy Fools Them

Peggy Carwright, popular screen juvenile, plays the part of a boy in the new Universal production of "Lady of Quality," starring Virginia Valli and so perfect is her makeup that even her most intimate friends failed to recognize her the first day she appeared on the set. The youngster has been in pictures four years and has played in a variety of parts, including every star of the silver sheet. She is an expert horse-girl and has won two cups at the Alexander Horse Show and one at the Ventura Horse Show.

NELIAN ENDS NEW FILM AND GOES TO GOTHAM

With the completion of the camerawork on "The Renegado," Marshall Neilan, who has been directing the Russian drama for the Goldwyn studio, left for New York. Mrs. Neilan (Blanche Sweet) plans to join her husband on a short vacation as soon as the role of Dolores in the Paramount film "The Palace of The King," now being made at the Goldwyn studio, is completed.

Although actual camerawork is completed on "The Renegado," Neilan will be busy for the publicity work and promotion of the film. He will spend part of his time on the journey East in the preparation of the entire community of the film, so that D. J. Gray, his film editor at Goldwyn's, may begin at once upon a stage of production.

As soon as the film has been cut and assembled, Gray will bring the material to New York for Neilan's inspection there.

Leeds Baxter, general manager of Neilan's productions, announced the departure of the director to the metropolis.

REALTY FIRM ENGAGES PICTURE PRESS AGENT

It begins to look as if other leading business concerns are getting in on the ground of the army of press agents in the employ of various motion picture companies. Ted Lewis, a very successful agent for the Morosco studio and representative for the King Vidor Studios, has been engaged to do the publicity work and to conduct a special advertising campaign for Rainbow Valley, a new subdivision of the lots of which are being offered the public.

This tract is called "the throne of the big Tujunga" and is located under the Redwood and is being handled by a branch office of the Eastern Colorado Street, Glendale.

One of the interesting features of this real estate promotion is the presence of an actual bungalow. There is still time to register for this bungalow, which will be formally presented to some lucky person at Rainbow Valley soon. Registrations are taken at the Rainbow Valley of five which is situated at Grand Boulevard and Colorado Street.

Philippe Wins Prize

Philippe deLacy, five-year-old film starlet and French war orphan, who has received the praise of photo play critics for his brilliant performance in "Tivorex," now enjoys extended drumming. Brauman's Righto, has attracted no little amount of attention from press men and officials of the M. G. M. C. A., Los Angeles, for his ability as a swimmer. At a recent aquatic contest staged at the "Y" Philippe won high honors with his exhibition and as a result was presented with a V. M. C. A. Prize Swimming Award Medal.

CUMMING DEFENDS HIS HOLLYWOOD FROM PULPITS

William J. Brady isn't the only producer who can preach. Irving Cummings is treading in the church steps of his one-time "beating" the Goldwyn studio, left for New York. Mrs. Neilan (Blanche Sweet) plans to join her husband on a short vacation as soon as the role of Dolores in the Paramount film "The Palace of The King," now being made at the Goldwyn studio, is completed.

Although actual camerawork is completed on "The Renegado," Neilan will be busy for the publicity work and promotion of the film. He will spend part of his time on the journey East in the preparation of the entire community of the film, so that D. J. Gray, his film editor at Goldwyn's, may begin at once upon a stage of production.

As soon as the film has been cut and assembled, Gray will bring the material to New York for Neilan's inspection there.

Leeds Baxter, general manager of Neilan's productions, announced the departure of the director to the metropolis.

REALTY FIRM ENGAGES PICTURE PRESS AGENT

It begins to look as if other leading business concerns are getting in on the ground of the army of press agents in the employ of various motion picture companies. Ted Lewis, a very successful agent for the Morosco studio and representative for the King Vidor Studios, has been engaged to do the publicity work and to conduct a special advertising campaign for Rainbow Valley, a new subdivision of the lots of which are being offered the public.

This tract is called "the throne of the big Tujunga" and is located under the Redwood and is being handled by a branch office of the Eastern Colorado Street, Glendale.

One of the interesting features of this real estate promotion is the presence of an actual bungalow. There is still time to register for this bungalow, which will be formally presented to some lucky person at Rainbow Valley soon. Registrations are taken at the Rainbow Valley of five which is situated at Grand Boulevard and Colorado Street.

Philippe deLacy, five-year-old film starlet and French war orphan, who has received the praise of photo play critics for his brilliant performance in "Tivorex," now enjoys extended drumming. Brauman's Righto, has attracted no little amount of attention from press men and officials of the M. G. M. C. A., Los Angeles, for his ability as a swimmer. At a recent aquatic contest staged at the "Y" Philippe won high honors with his exhibition and as a result was presented with a V. M. C. A. Prize Swimming Award Medal.
Erle Kenton
Director of "Tea With a Kick," a Halperin Production, now showing at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre with Twenty-seven Stars.

Caroline "Spike" Rankin
Playing Straight as well as Character Parts. At Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre this week as "Mrs. Bumps," a reformer, in "Tea With a Kick."
Phone 436-471

Harry Lorraine
As "Rev. Barry White" in the Halperin production "Tea With a Kick" now showing at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre
Phone Holly 2678
Doris May

Playing the Lead in "Tea With a Kick" this week at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre.

Phone Holly 11064

Victor Potel

One of the Most Popular Members of the "All-Star Cast Fraternity," appearing exclusively ALL-STAR Photoplays, among which are:

"Quincy Adams Sawyer," Metro
"The Meanest Man in the World"—Sol Lesser and at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre this week as "Bellboy 13" in "Tea With a Kick!"

Phone Holly 2884

Rosemary Theby

In the Victor Hugo Halperin Production
"TEA WITH A KICK"
At Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre

Phone Holly 460
Creighton Hale

Leading man and featured player as "Art Binger" in "Tea With a Kick," showing at Grauman’s Million Dollar Theatre this week.

Phone
570-559

Stuart Holmes

"Tea With a Kick"

GALE HENRY

As "Hesperia McGowan" in "Tea With a Kick," showing week of July 2nd at Grauman’s Million Dollar Theatre.

Phone Holly 640
Louise Fazenda

Playing “Birdie Puddleford” at Grauman’s Million Dollar Theatre this week in “Tea With a Kick”

Phone
Wilshire 1222

Hank Mann

As “Sam Spindle” in “Tea With a Kick,” presented at Grauman’s Million Dollar Theatre this week

Phones 581-918, Wilshire 2732

HARRY TODD

“Tea With a Kick”
YESTERDAY'S WIFE" STARTED WITH ALL-STAR CAST

Philo McCullough has won notice throughout his career for artistry of his portrayal. In addition, he has won prominent roles with C. B. C.'s "More to Be Pitied," he has won notice in Universal's "The Four Musketeers," and "The First Degree," in F. B. O.'s "The Stranger's Bouquet," and many other productions. Actual production is under way for Edward J. Dileaut's directing. Mr. LeSaint did fine work in directing the C. B. C. feature "More to Be Pitied," "Only a Shop Girl," and "Temp-tation," which went over so big this year. With production gold, it is nite plans outlined for casts and details on the rest of the C. B. C. program. Joe Brandt is on his way back. He has won the necessary completion of details for which he went to the Columbia.

JAAN RILEY PRODUCTIONS TO MAKE SIX FEATURES

Announcement was made this week of the forming of the Jean Riley Productions, of which Jean Riley, film actress, is star and head. According to E. G. Abell, Gordon and Jean Riley, president, the company plans to produce pictures of feature length. The company will be presented with an all-star cast. Work on the initial sub-ject, the title and details of which are yet to be announced, is scheduled to start within the next three weeks. Joe Sturgis, president of Jean Riley will head the all-star cast for the first picture, and Camille, sister of Gaby Balsky, will appear in the picture as a nurse. Rod Ryerson, business manager. Temporary quarters of the company are at 6701 Santa Monica Boulevard.

YESTERDAY'S WIFE"

A distinguished cast has been completed for "Yesterday's Wife," the first of the series of special Columbia Pictures which the C. B. C. Film Sales Corporation will release as part of its full program. It is announced this week that Lewis Dayton and Philo McCullough have been selected for the leading male roles to play opposite Irene Rich and Eileen Perenyi.

Joe Brandt, President of C. B. C., who has been at the Company's Coast production centre conferring with the production staffthere on the extensive program his organization has mapped out in sincerity over the signing of these two players.

Lewis Dayton is one of the most recent leading men to screen and is known for the fine dignity of his portrayals. His newest release, "The Last of the Mohicans," was won in Dorothy Phillips' newest production, as the male lead in "Slan-der the Woman." He also won distinction for his portrayal of opposite Clara Kimball Young in "Cordelia the Magnificent," and appeared in "Old Madrid." He is in the first Famous Players picture to be filmed in Europe, "The Great Day."

EDDIE STURGIS GETS BIG ROLE IN "PONJOLA"

Edwin Sturgis, popular screen character man, who was a member of the original Famous Players company, and since then has played in features produced by several of the big companies, has been engaged by Sam E. Rich and Joe Comstock to portray in "Ponjola," a First National picture, soon to go into production with Larry Semon and Sylvia Bee.

He will enact the role of "Sherry," a good-natured adventu-urer, the youthful and loving character of the Rhodesian gold fields.

Sturgis' career as a film char-acter man covers many years. With Famous Players he supported most of that company's famous stars including Jack Bartymore, Marguerite Clark, Hazel Dawn, Elsie Ferguson, Paul Frederick and Owen Moore. For four years he was with Fox and later with Gold-wyn, supported Geraldine Far-rar, Mary Garden, Marie Doro and others. For two years he was manager of the Owen Moore picture.

The cast of "Ponjola," which is now completed, comprises one of the greatest array of talent ever assembled for one picture, including James Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson, Tully Marshall and Joseph Kilgour.

"TIGER ROSE" TO BE FILMED HERE SOON

Millard H. Webb, production manager for Sidney Franklin, is busily engaged with prepara-tions for "Tiger Rose," which is soon to go into production at the Warner Brothers West Coast production centre. "Tiger Rose" will be known as a Sidney Franklin production and will be based on his personal supervision. Millard H. Webb, who is to come west to fulfill his contract with the Warner Brothers, will co-direct with Mr. Franklin this production of this David R. Kea-Seay play.

Lenore Ulric, who achieved such wonderful success in the stage play, will have the leading role in the picture version. A remarkable cast is being assembled for her support to include Claude Gillingwater, Joseph Downing, Anders Randolf and Andre de Beranger.

"Tiger Rose" will be released as one of the Warner Brothers screen classics of 1923-24.

TO HOLD SPECIAL MEETING

The Reliable Photoplayers Association will hold a special meeting Tuesday evening, July 3rd, in the Assistant Directors' hall at 5411 Hollywood Bou-levard. It will be the occasion of important business an enter-tainment and dance will be given. The Hollywood Players, a similar association, will be invited to the different studios, have been invited as guests and will partake in the entertainment.

HUGHES PREPARES NEW ONE

Following the success of "Souls For Sale," Rupert Hughes is now busy with preparations for his next Goldwyn production, "Law Against Law," is the title of which he has announced, is the story, written by the noted au-thor and to be directed by him. Rupert Hughes is currently involved with the divorce question. Many of the author's novels and short stories have been dealt with this im-portant question of life, and his rank as an author on the subject lends a peculiar interest to this first play-off on the subject.
Who's Who and What's What in Filmland This Week

Rene Plaisette, well known director who is credited with discovering Leatrice Joy and others of fame, has been signed to supervise the new "Alex the Great" series of two-reel comedies which will soon go into production at the Povder studios.

Henry Lehrman has succeeded Mal St. Clair as the director of the second series of H. C. Wilmer's "Fighting Blood" stories. He began work this week on the second of the series called "She Supes To Conquer."

Albert Cooke, chief comic of the company, is still assisting on the popular H. C. Witwer stories at the Power studios. He will be in the studio half the day while free-lancing for the next Clive French picture to be made. Cooke has been in the same role in the ancient Roman sequence and sustained a severe cut on the elbow and a sprained knee. After being patched up by the studio physician, however, he was able to continue his work of registering laughs.

Harold Goodwin has been signed by Robertson-Cole to appear in forthcoming F. B. O. productions.

Grace Darmond is playing the leading feminine role in "Alimony," an F. B. O. production under the direction of James W. Horne.

Enny Johnson has begun work on his next F. B. O. attraction, "The Maltese Falcon," which Ralph Lewis is to play the leading role in the production with an all-star cast in support.

James Kirkwood was forced to learn all the intricacies of "riding the brake beams" for his portrayal of a down-and-out in "The Eagle's Feather," a Metro all-star special, and now maintains that he can appreciate the oft-questioned comfort of pullmans.

No sooner did House Peters finish his role in "Don't Marry for Money" than he sped over to the Metro studio to portray the leading male role in "Held to Answer," an all-star picturization of Peter-Clare MacFarlane's story, which Harold Shaw is directing.

Fredric Santley who recently closed with "Up She Goes" is working on the finishing scenes of the picture, being made in Long Island.

Ben Lyon who is playing one of the leading male roles in Sam Goldwyn's screen version of "Jeeves and Jericho" has returned from Atlantic City where they have been filming some of the exteriors.

Alma Rubens has just completed "Under the Red Robe" for D. W. Griffith in which she will be starred. Miss Rubens has not as yet announced what her future plans will be.

Malcolm McGregor, Metro's young athlete star who is appearing opposite Viola Dana in "The Social Code," has had so many fighting parts in the few years he has been in motion pictures that he marvels at his ability to keep his knuckles still unbroken and his nose in the place it was originally intended to be.

The combined weight of James Marcus and George Siegman, both members of the cast of Rex Ingram's "Scaramouche," is 520 pounds. Going up.

Many times has Otto Lederer, creator of the immortal Solomon Levy in "Able's Irish Rose" been mentioned as a successor to David Warfield, and it is interesting to note in this regard that his greatest ambition is to bring "The Music Master" to the screen.

Otto Matiesen has a film offer under consideration that has aroused the curiosity of all his friends. He will not state just what it is, but has promised a trip to a foreign country for the future. This is somewhat strange behavior on the part of Matiesen and leads us to believe he is due to be starred or some thing like that. It would be a great thing if they made a picture built around all the Matiesen actors Matiesen has played on the stage and screen. It would seem like the history of the world in review.

Ralph Cloninger, who recently finished a part in "Ten Commandments" and is now at work completing the details for the filming of his own productions is contemplating a trip to his former home, Salt Lake City, where he will confer with a number of financiers and business men who are backing his venture. From there he may go to Los Angeles, San Francisco, and other northern points for another series of conferences of similar nature before he decides where to begin work. He plans to film all of the exteriors of his productions in Utah, for he believes that there are locations up there that will bring new scenic effects to the screen. The Velley of Utah has been mentioned as one place.

Elizabeth Rhoades, a charter member of the Reliable Photographers Association, has completed her contract with Principal Pictures Corporation and is now considering two very favorable offers for work portraying pictures. She has one of the principal roles in "A Man's saga," which was directed by Eddie Cline.

Charles Lawrence, who is one of the big bids in the new musical comedy "Helen of Troy, New York," which recently reopened at the Selwyn Theatre is devoting his spare time acting before the camera.

Brandon Tyuan has just completed playing the leading role in "Loyal Lives," for Whitman where he has kept his feet, and will open at the Capitol Theatre in New York the week of July 8th.

Mary Alden is now in a position of lofty independence in regard to producers and directors. While on location in Northern California during the filming of "The Eagle's Feather" for Metro, Miss Alden received a personal and collective lesson from two score of cowpunchers in the art of flipping flapskys over a campfire. "Anyone who knows anything at all understands that a good flapjack flipper is always in demand for work in restaurant windows," she said.

"Scaramouche," Rex Ingram's newest Metro production, has been stared by Ramon Novarro born in Mexico, John George, Araba; Harry J. Tytten, Belgium; Lyndley R. Leazer, England; Emil Titus was born in mid-ocean; Alice Terry, Lewis Stone, Edith Allen and the others are native Americans. Mr. Ingram was born in Dublin.

Mickey McFann, filmland's young swimming champion, who has been training for the series of aquatic exhibitions to be held in the immediate future, has mastered the intricacies of under-water swimming and can now go from 50 to 75 feet under the surface. His goal is 125 feet, and he ought to be able to reach it in two or three more weeks' practice. At the present time he is with the Henry Otto unit at the Fox in Los Angeles in filming "The Temple of Venus." He plays one of the big parts in this production.

One of the principal roles in "The Wonderful City" which will be shown in this city within the next two weeks, is enacted by Josephine Adair, sixty-year film actress. This part affords her an unusual opportunity to display her keen artistry, and is an old blending of pathos and humor that she brings to the stage. Miss Adair has attained her greatest renown as an interpreter of Haynes Hunter's "Shamrock," completed one of the featured roles in Frank Borzage's "Children of Dust at the United Studios."

"Her Royal Highness," his second motion picture, went on the picture lot. If the titles a tone of our local film folk we have come from aristocratic families of Europe were used in Hollywood some directors, it will number of these celebrities in all the time addressing them. Take, for instance, Thais Valda and Miss Mcclellan in an interesting part in "Bluebeard's Eighty Wife" at the last which will have, her back's back royal court. The revolution reversed the order of things效能; she was made to flee for her life. Her mother father and husband were also and she only escaped to her country after numerous hair ships and hairbreadth adventures. Now she is one of most astonishing screen players and she has doffed her length royal title for her present call. Her other pictures include "The Brass Bottle" and "Trilby."

Sara Mullen has just returned from location having played the leading feminine role in "That's My Man, Miss Love." Miss Mullen will shortly start work on a new production which will have her back's back balance of the summer.

Mary McNally has started work on Murray Garson's new special production in which she is playing the leading feminine role.

Robert North Bradbury is directing a new western picture, "The Trail of the Wolf," with Edmund Cobb and Gladys McConnel in the leading roles, while Miss Mcclellan is the comedy leading woman recently "discovered" and this is her first appearance in a western role.

Norman Kerry leaped from Mediavale Parts to a model role at Universal City. Forsaking the brilliant tinkling of "Pilowbus" in "The Hour lack of Notre Dame," he became "Robert Armstrong" in the big all-star cast of "The Acquital," in which he plays the role of Richard Travers, Barbara Bel and a big cast appear.
EVELYN BRENT IS ENGAGED BY METRO

Evelyn Brent, now appearing with Monte Blue in "Harbor Well," has been engaged by Metro to replace opposite House Peters in the production of Peter Clark McEachern's "I'll See You in Heaven," directed by Harold Law.

In order to allow Miss Brent to appear in the Metro film, Associated Authors are rushing the last important scenes for "Harbor Well" in which Miss Brent participates. After working the past week and a half, Miss Brent was enabled to go immediately on the Metro set and conclude her work at once, thus saving a week appearing in "Magnet" in "Held to Answer." Miss Brent is early in her engagement being the first girl who over-rushed to act opposite Doug Urbanbik for the screen. Although the contract is fresh to extract to play leading female roles opposite Doug, Miss Brent recently received her release from the contract in order to allow her to appear in a number of other productions.

Mabel Ballou, who recently played " somebody's wife" in a London production, is a wife of B. P. Fineman, prospec tors, who left for New York on an expedition for the distribution of his forthcoming pictures of the first of which is complete. Although a newcomer to west coast producing circles, Miss Ballou has appeared on the stage and screen in the last few years she is playing on the speaking stage of the villages in film productions in England. Shortly after she arrived in Hollywood, she was one of the stars of "torpedo" by the Wampas, the only picture of the men's associations here.

WILD WEST PAINTS FIGHTING FILMS

"Fighting Back," the return of the "Leather Pushers," the new rite series of stories by C. Witwer, running in Collyer's Weekly, are being made by Universal as the third series of "further pushers." The original set, including Reginald Denny, Jay S. Kemion and Elmo Key, that made such a hit in the first two series, also have leading parts in the newest six rounds. Harry Pollard is main directing.

COOPER JOINS MCCARTHY

Ashley Cooper, well-known screen character actor, has been chosen by John P. McCarthy to portray the part of Sam E. Rock in his forthcoming production "The Days of Yesterday." Cooper's handling of the ultimate stage and vaudeville as well as the films.

WHEN IT'S FOREIGN

James Ewens, assistant to Donald Crisp, who is directing the film for "The Port of Arms," which Sam E. Rock is presenting through First National, seems destined by fate to work with all the distinguished foreign directors in the picture game.

In 1915, at the Ft. Lee, N. J., studio of the old World Film Corporation, he became the first art director of the film industry in the company of Albert Capellani.

Then followed three and a half years as assistant to every foreign director who was wielding a megaphone in America.

And then they took him over to Europe and on the French setting of Chateau Thierry he went "over the top" and collided with a German bullet travelling in the opposite direction.

IT'S NOT TO EWENS

That sent him back to America.

After his recovery he re-emerged as an assistant director and though his lot fell with American directors the last of his pictures was decidedly foreign.

As assistant to Allan Dwan he helped make "Robin Hood," starring Douglas Fairbanks; then came "Omar the Tentmaker," a Richard Walton Tully production for First National, starring Guy Bates Post. And on the heels of that production went his work as assistant to James Young in the directing of Tully's screen version of Du Maurier's "Trilby."

And now if he isn't assistant to Donald Crisp, and the bloomin' story is Cynthia Stockley's habit, he's been fired from African tides to Jimmie.

JACK WILL START A NEW FILM SOON

The genius of Mary and Jack Pickford combined with that of Marion Jackson's, will be embodied in Jack's next production, which is scheduled to be begun within the next ten days, it was announced this week in Hollywood.

Mary and Jack have collaborated with Marion Jackson, the writer, in producing an original tale of the Kentucky mountains, to serve as a successor to "Garrison's Finish." The story is of a mountain boy, typical American youth of the hills, with the settings of a decade or so ago.

Mary and Jack have tinted the scenes of the story, which has not been tinted, with the wistful feelings and longings of a young mountainster. Jack will forget his stiff collar, the tuxedo, and the keen part in his hair in this mountain boy picture. He will be barefooted again—happy in worn out rags. He will appear in that role of the American youth, which has endeared him to the hearts of theatre-followers the world over.

George Arliss, who recently finished directing "The Daughter of Mother McGlin," a Boston production, has signed to play Jack in "Garrison's Finish" for Jack Pickford, has also been signed by Jack Pickford to direct his mountain boy production.

"Merry-Go-Round" shipped

With prints of "Merry-Go-Round" shipped to New York ready for distribution, Miss Mary Pickford, who directed the film in the fall, Universal is centering its activities on "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and "A Lady of Quality," two other Cooper-Jezebewicz now under production.

KICKLESS TEA IS NOW POPULAR AT UNITED

They can't keep the English out! Upon my word they can't! Not even out of a Chinese picture, which was adapted by a writer who was born in Egypt of a Greek and a Bulgarian parent; not even by Frenchmen, in the story of a negro, of the same name, of the old soul, has the leading role.

Which all leads up to the saying that the all awfer four tea habits has been instituted on the United Studio stage where "Thundereate" is being filmed for First National.

Conrad Trutschel, the English scenic artist who designed many of the settings of this elaborate picture of Chinese and American life, is responsible for the introduction of the English Institute.

Conrad can't get along without his tea, you know, any more than an elephant can get along without his trunk. Every afternoon at exactly half past four he lays his brushes and palette and for a long enough to brew himself a pot of Ceylon.

A week ago he invited Director Joe De Grasse to join him in a "cup that cheers." Joe found that the tea acted as a real "pep provoker." If the beverage will put pep into a director, reasons De Grasse, then it will pep up the cast.

However, brief recess every afternoon on the "Thundereate" set while members of the cast and technical forces imbibe tea.

"PROPS" LIGHTNING BRINGS QUICK "RESCUE"

California authorities, and especially those in the vicinity of Hollywood, are quite ready to expect the unexpected from the film folk. It is not unusual for the police or fire departments to answer a call sent in by some uninitiated layman, but it was the lot of Associated Authors to experience a new joke on the San Pedro Cal, harbor fire boats.

The Associated Authors' "Loving Lies" company were aboard the steam schooner "G. C. Lin dauer" several miles out at sea filming some of the thrilling storm stuff called for by the script. Among the many devices and tricks of the film world carried aboard ship as "props" was a huge lightning cable, which made a flash that could be seen for miles.

The fire boat seeing these flashes mistook them for signals of distress and steamed full speed ahead to the "Lindauer's" aid. After profuse explanations by Director W. S. Van Dyke and no little chagrin on the part of the sea-going fire-fighters, they stood by and watched several scenes photographed.

"Loving Lies" is Thompson Buchanan's screen version of Peter B. Kyne's sea story, "The Harbor Bar," and will be released by Associated Authors through Allied Producers and through a distributing firm of United Artists Corporation. The leading roles are portrayed by Monte Blue, Evelyn Brent, Charles Gerrard and Ralph Paulkner.

MUSICAL COMEDY ARTIST GETS BIG SURPRISE AT U.

Velma Connor, one of the Connor Sisters of "The Pepper Box Revue," which recently played Los Angeles, visited Universal City with a theatrical manager and gained the surprise of her young life.

The surprise was when she was unexpectedly approached with a beautiful offer. Not having any definite hopes of that on her mind made the quality of the offer more interesting. She was then asked to play opposite Reginald Denny in the sixth round of the third series of "The Leather Pushers," the two-acters of the prize ring.

A lead at the first jump—and that woman all that was missing at the start, for her first day's work was a hard journey out on location. The unit under Harry A. Pollard's direction went to Fleming near Lake Arrowhead, for exterior scenes in the beautiful scenic spots there.
RIVER OF TEARS DEMANDED

Oh, yes, Mary Alden can cry!
She proved it quite thoroughly during the filming of an important scene for "The Eagle's Feather," a Metro all-star production which Edward Sloman is directing.

But to stand before the cold eye of the camera and emote realistically, while a dozen blaze studio employees stare unmercifully at her is no easy matter.

Hereafter, Miss Alden threatens to use glycerine or onions.

On this occasion, after she had worked herself up to the emotional pitch necessary to bring ears to her eyes, the film in the camera buckled.

On the second attempt, just when the tears were flowing most copiously, the lights thickened so badly that director Sloman demurred.

On the third trial, the camera ran out of film right in the midst of the weeping.

"All right, I'm gone!" the actress responded.

"But I'm supposed to be an actress—not a geyser!"

Bowedtich "Smoke" Turner, who is Le Chapelier in "Searouche," Rex Ingram's production for Metro, bears the nickname of "Smoke" because of his work as a blackface comedian on the stage.

WHAT DID BABY SAY?

What did Buster Keaton's baby say?

On the second anniversary of the marriage of the comedian and Natalie Talmadge, all present agreed that the baby said something.

But what?

It was the first word the baby ever said, you see.

The Talmadge-Sleicher-Keaton clan had gathered in force for the wedding anniversary which, incidentally, was celebrated on Baby Buster's first birthday anniversary. Baby Buster, on June 2nd, was just one year old.

During his birthday party the baby said something. Natalie self-sacrificingly decided the word was "papa."

Buster heroically said it was "mama."

Constant Talmadge said she heard it "mapa." Norma Talmadge said she thought it was "pama." Joseph Schenck said it sounded like "camera."

But Mrs. Talmadge, hooed by all present, said it was only "gon."

Although Edna Flugrath and Viola Dana were a well known juvenile dancing team on the stage in New York, these famous sisters appear together on the screen for the first time in "The Girl Who Dared," Viola's new Metro picture.

Speaking of New Faces

The attitudes of some of the producers are still open to severe criticism. There are still some men in the producing business who ought to be out of it. It is undeniable that commercialism transcends everything else in too many quarters. Petty jealousies of petty strife continue to make inroads upon efficiency. Incompetence in high places has not disappeared. But the day of marked amelioration is here. The advent of many masters of other fields of endeavor is having a noticeable effect already. We know of one man now working assiduously in a dingy office in one of the smaller studios at a very nominal wage who we expect to see in the limelight as one of the true geniuses of the film-making business within a short time. He knows very little about the business now as it is being done and has been done for years, but he knows some things far more valuable and promising than this. He knows how to create and he is in vibrant with new ideas. He is highly educated in the fine arts generally and is a cultured man with sane ambitions. Above all, he displays the urge to perform a great service for a great art: the cinema, and, we would wager most anything that he will accomplish his purpose. Yet, if we mentioned his name, no one would even know him and he explained his present position, most everybody would sneer at him as even a possibility. Just the same, watch for a veritable small army of true geniuses who are about to emerge from the Land of Oblivion. It will all come in response to a Call of the Cinema for new brains, new blood,—a call which is obviously the result of it becoming universally patent that many of the present "head-liners" need replacing.

Expansion is the rule and not the exception in Filmland at present and there is every indication that this present will continue for at least two prosperous years after which it may be even better.

Courtearle Park

owners

Courtney Foote — Conway Tearle

THE SUBURB BEAUTIFUL — with a wonderful vista of the Santa Monica and green Verdugo hills, it makes an ideal homesite. Values are increasing daily. A visit will convince you!

LOTS FROM $475 UP

Ventura Boulevard Frontage
$40 Per Front Foot and Up

Drive out Ventura Boulevard to Sherman Way, then three blocks west to tract office.

CLEVELAND-BLAIR REALTY CO.

Los Angeles, California
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, July 2

Camera's intent is to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 639-989

"Pulse of the Studios"

Director Star Cameraman Ass't Director Scenario Type Progress

ERWILLA STUDIO. 5821 Santa Monica Blvd. Ashton Dearholt, Pro. Mgr. Holly 3130

Idie Lyons Productions (Arrow release). Eddie Lyons Eugene De Rue Bobby Dunn McGill McGill Cooke Cooke Ditzs Ditzs 2-Real Comedies 2-Real Comedies Schedule Schedule

ON WILSON Productions (Federated release). J. Ines The Washburns Linden Turner N. Blair "The Love Trap" 4th Week

RENTWOOD STUDIO. 4811 Fountain Ave. 598-146

RONX STUDIO. 1745-51 Glendale Blvd. Kenneth Bishop, General Mgr. Wilshire 4275

USTER KEATON STUDIO. 1025 Lillian Way. Eddie Cline, Casting Holly 2814

Ru Anger Productions. Al Austin Clyde Cook E. Lessley Hare "Under Orders" Editing

ENTERTAINMENTS (Universal release). Al Herman Buddy Meisengerg Wm. Hyer Herman "The Inventor" Schedule

HAPLIN STUDIO. Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr. 1416 La Brea Ave. Hollywood 4070

Film Company. (United Artists release). Charles Chaplin Edna Purviance Rollin Tohereth Eddie Sutherland Monta Bell "Public Opinion" Editing

HOICE STUDIO. 6044 Sunset Blvd. 439-764

INE ARTS STUDIOS. 4500 Sunset Blvd.

OX STUDIO. Arthur Forde, Casting. 1401 N. Western Ave. Fred Kley, Studio Mgr. Hollywood 3000

RANCIS FORD STUDIO. 6040 Sunset Blvd. Hollywood 2632

Rocky M. Production Co.

Joff Scott Sidney Jimmy Adams Neil Furns Navy Jax. Clemens Connell Connell Comedy 2-Real Comedy 2nd Week

O N X STUDIO. 1845 Glendale Blvd. Wilshire 81

Metro Release.

GOLDEN WEST STUDIO. 4011 Lankershim Blvd. Lankershim 132-J

Jaques Jaccard Wallace Beery J. D. Pasztor H. Bremond H. Bresnun "Power of Darkness" 3rd Week

GOLDSTONE STUDIO. 1426 Beechwood Dr.

Phil Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release).

Snowy Baker Snowy Baker Harry Tenbrook Staff "Dark Faces" 1st Week

SOLDWYN PRODUCTIONS. R. B. McIntyre, Casting. Culver City. 761711

Von Stroheim All-Star Charles Brabin All-Star Asa Butler All-Star Curt Brownling All-Star H. West All-Star H. West All-Star John Boyle All-Star Victor Seastrom All-Star Emmett Flynn All-Star Lucien Andriot All-Star Ben Reynolds John Meech L. Meech Wm. Selden A. L. Raboch Meech A. C. Eddington Rolph Bennett Lucien Andriot Staff Eddie Sowders Eddie Sowders Ouida Bergere Earl Taggart Eddington LeBeouf Fowler Hayden Mathis- Vans Stroheim "Greed" "Six Days" Kauhauva "The Day of Faith" "Wild Oranges" "The Magic Skin" "Master of Man" "In the Palace of the King" 5th Week 5th Week 5th Week 5th Week 5th Week 5th Week 5th Week 5th Week 5th Week 5th Week

Cosmopolitan Productions.

Carlos Productions.

Roland West All-Star Roland West All-Star Oliver Marsh Oliver Marsh Rob. Ross Staff Staff Paul Schofield Staff Staff "Unknown Purple" 6th Week 6th Week

GRAND STUDIO. 1438 Gower St. Ben Verschleiser, General Manager. Holly 162

Monte Banks Productions, Inc. Herman Raymaker Monte Banks H. Edwards Monte Banks Bill Williams Bill Williams Leslie Goodman L. Goodman Staff Staff 2-Real Comedy 2nd Week 2nd Week Editing Editing

Sid Smith Productions, Inc. Fred Smith Fred Smith Ken. MacLean Ken. MacLean Ken. MacLean Ken. MacLean Chas. LeMont Chas. LeMont Chas. LeMont Staff Staff Staff Staff "Don't Play Hooky" "Hollywood Round" "One Dark Knight" 2nd Week 2nd Week 2nd Week Editing Editing

Joe Rock Productions, Inc.

Gil Pratt Joe Rock Gil Pratt Joe Rock Jerry Ash Jerry Ash Dave Smith Dave Smith Staff Staff Staff Staff 2nd Week 2nd Week 2nd Week 2nd Week

INCORPORATED
CAMERAMAN

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst. Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS. 6642 Santa Monica Blvd. J. Jasper, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 1431</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harold Lloyed Corporation.—Wm. R. Fraser, Gen. Mgr. Finis Fox Prod. © R. R. Besty, Gen. Mgr. Finis Fox Prod. All-Staff</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richard Thomas Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bob Horner All-Star</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>438740</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Horner</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>World Educational Films.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Elusion</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seelig Ice Ray Williams Vernon Walker Char. DeLong</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INCE STUDIO. Horace Williams, Casting. Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr. Culver City</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>761731</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FALMER Photoplay Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CORTLAND PRODUCTIONS.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TRIMBLE-MURFIN PRODUCTIONS.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAYER-SCHULBERG STUDIO. 3800 Mission Rd. Individual Casting.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Lincoln 2120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NEVA GERBER PRODUCTIONS. 6735 Holly Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INTERNATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St. Individual Casting.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>761-721</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HAL ROACH COMEDIES (Pathese release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

Note: The table contains information about various productions, including directors, stars, cameramen, and other production details.

---

Note: The table contains information about various productions, including directors, stars, cameramen, and other production details.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Phone</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dr. W. I. Schuster</td>
<td>3 Bogardus Bldg. Sunset at Western Chiropractor and Nerve Specialist</td>
<td>Phone 436-724</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Industries! Here's What You Want! Good studio space for rent cheap. At the Bronx studios on Glendale Boulevard. Open and covered stages. Here's an unusual chance to save a big sum on your overhead!

H. and B. Film Company
Bronx Studio, 1745 Glendale Blvd., Los Angeles.
Wilshire 4275
NEWS FROM NEW YORK
(Continued from Page 6)

Pathe. The court ruled that the company had no right to discharge the actor under his contract, before the picture was finished even if his scenes had all been taken. This decision is of importance in that it affects the employment of all film actors. The ruling of the court is that it was not the fault of the plaintiffs that he was called on to act in scenes of their proper sequences in the story. It seems the closing scenes were shot first as frequently happens. When the last scenes were taken Oland was discharged. It took six weeks longer to complete the rest of the picture. Oland sued for six weeks salary.

Earl Carroll, independent producer, is making an attempt to produce on Broadway, a non-Equity show. Louis Mann tried this two years ago without success. It is generally believed that the Carroll move was instigated by those producing managers who are hostile to Equity, who are using the "boy producers" as a cut-off point to discover just what attitude the stage hands and musicians' unions will take on the question. "Vanities of 1923" has been in rehearsal two weeks.

New York City Streets are the scenes of much controversy these days. It's like this. Everything in and around New York has turned pro-Nile or pro-King Tutankhamen, so of course Egyptian words are being juggled from the pulpit, stage and sidewalk. This of course causes every thinking person to delve into the depths of Egyptology reading everything that Encyclopedia Britannica can decipher. Now along comes a lot of thinkers who argue that they are an incarnation of the old king himself. I did however, meet one old actor who compromised, sorta met me half way so to speak, and admitted that he was, after all, only Pharaoh IX. But I promised not to tell anyone.

Rudolph Valentino, in his country-wide tour, never loses an opportunity to say a good word for "The Actors' Equity Association. In Atlantic City he said: "This is indeed a strenuous life, doing eighteen weeks of one-nighters, and being.tiring every night. When I am through with this trip I shall go to Europe for a rest, then come back and fight the picture corporation. There is one organization that I believe in whole heartedly. The A. E. A. is for the down trodden actor."

"Some men are held up as examples. Others for what they've got in their hip pocket." Garry Odell, who has just finished the part of Spike Louis in the Richard Thomas production of "Scarlet Shadows," was heard to make this remark.

Bennie Zeidman is cutting his Principal Pictures release, "Bright Lights of Broadway," featuring Lowell Sherman.
COMPOSING MUSIC
(Continued from Page 5)

They and Alan Hale, the "hoovies" in Jackie's cast. For the scenes dominated by Robert Brower, as the dying king, grandpa to the Cute Little Princess—played by Jackie—Schertzing has written a new Father Song, which will doubtless achieve as great popularity as his "Just An Old Love Song" heard with the presentation of the "Robin Hood" film.

And so on, through the long list of different series, Director Schertzing has contrived these original melodies appropriate for the action and the players throughout the story, which has resulted in far greater feeling in their work. "Long Live the King" is played in the first-run houses of America. Schertzing's music will be the accompanying orchestration.

SCREEN KIDDIES ARE SMART.

The great majority of children acting in motion pictures are intellectually above normal.

Notwithstanding the fact that children of the acting profession have the reputation, in other spheres of life, of being impudent and spoilt, it is quite the contrary, says Berta Willy Wynne, her teacher, assigned by the Los Angeles Board of Education to tutor youngsters working on picture sets.

"I taught in the public schools for many years," says this teacher, "and my work during the last year with the children at the studios has given me a chance to compare the children in public schools and those in the studios."

Miss Wynne, who is tutoring Bruce Guerin, Turner Savage and "Red" Ruben between "shots" of Frank Borzage's latest feature, National release, temporarily titled "Dust in the Doorway," believes that acting in pictures sharpens the intellect and teaches the children such intensive and instantaneous concentration that they are able to absorb knowledge with remarkable rapidity.

The educational statutes require that the picture children be given three hours instruction daily if there are three or less youngsters of school age on the set. If there are more than three, the three hours of instruction must be terminated by four o'clock in the afternoon. The teacher receives her pay from the picture company.

Little Frankie Lee, one of the best known children in pictures, and Mary Jane Irving, almost equally as well known, are members of the cast of "Dust in the Doorway." These have their private tutors, who also comply with the state, county and city laws.

Frankie not only has a private teacher but a private school as well. Producer Arthur H. Jacobs permitted Frankie to place a clause in his contract calling for the erection of a private school room adjacent to the picture set. Here he spends every spare moment between scenes in which he is required to appear.

"I believe," says Miss Wynne, "that the discipline maintained on the set has much to do with the brightness of these children. They are accustomed to obeying instantly and their control with older people helps to advance their minds.

"It is amazing how quickly a child can leave a scene and delve immediately into his studies without being bothered by the noise of the set, or the orchestra which is usually playing while a scene is enacted."

"It is true that since in a great while a motion picture child is below normal, or is impudent, but that is very much out of the ordinary. The average child in the studios is quick to learn and has almost faultless manners."
Flash from Frisco
(Continued from Page 6)
and has had his O. K., so will leave to motor South within a few days. Fanny Midgley has gone to her home in Glendale for a few days visit, but will return as she has a couple weeks more work in the picture. The cast now working includes Hughie Mack, Dale Fuller, Eric Von Ritzaun, and four or five local actors who play small parts, besides the leads Zasu Pitts, Gibson Gowland, and Jean Hersholt.

Joseph Jackson, director of publicity at the Goldwyn Studios, and Jack Jungmeyer of the N. E. A. Service, of Los Angeles, came to San Francisco on Friday to spend a few days getting a personal look at the making of "Greed," by Eric Von Stroheim, and the company under his direction.

George Archainbaud was here last week hunting a New England village to be the scene of part of Priscilla Dean's next picture. He found what he wanted in the neighborhood of Half-Moon Bay, and will return in the near future with a company from Universal to film part of the story here.

Euell Hale is also coming to San Francisco in a week to do a modern sequence in "The Ten Commandments," and Fred Niblo is coming here with a company from Louis B. Mayer Production, so it really looks these days in the lobby of the Plaza Hotel, which is movie headquarters, like a part of Hollywood.

Mrs. Wallace Reid addressed a gathering of Government medical officials, and patients at Lederman Hospital last Thursday, and by special arrangement the film of "Human Wreckage," still playing at the Century Theatre, was also shown at the hospital, as a great lesson on the effects of dope.

Jack Hoxie and his cowboys have galloped through the Universal western stars feature at Universal City.

Production has closed on "Where Is This West?" a rapid action satirical drama of the "old west." The play was adapted from an original story by George C. Hull of the Universal scenario department and directed by George H. Marshall.

Mary Philbin, the little Chicago beauty who was cast for the role of the little hand-organ girl in "Merry Go Round," directed by Rupert Julian, and in which she is said to have displayed unusual emotional ability, plays the feminine lead opposite Hoxie.

Rainbow Valley

Health, Happiness, a good investment and perpetual rights in the Rainbow Valley club. Swimming, dancing, tennis, quoits, horseshoe, fishing, hunting and all to be had for $198, $298, $398, $498, $10, $15, $20, $25 DOWN and $10.00 per month.

From Glendale—through Montrose, along Michigan Ave., to Tujunga, Sunland, RAINBOW VALLEY.

For further information call or write office of

RAINBOW VALLEY

Phone Glendale 1702

Glendale, California
DOROTHY CHASE

INGENUES
CHARACTERS
in Rex Ingram's
"Scaramouche"
Telephone 570-528

DOROTHY CHASE

INGENUES
CHARACTERS
in Rex Ingram's
"Scaramouche"
Telephone 570-528

EARN METCALFE

Leads and Heavies

Just Finished:
FAIR PLAY WEEK (Lasky); SKID-PROOF (Fox)
Disengaged after July 1st. Phone Drexel 8089

On first vacation in twelve years

OTTTO
LEDERER

MY 12 YEARS
2 seasons with Mission Play
7 years with Vitagraph
1 year tour of Orient
1 year with "Abie's Irish Rose" and
10 Feature Productions

OTTO
LEDERER

MY 12 YEARS
2 seasons with Mission Play
7 years with Vitagraph
1 year tour of Orient
1 year with "Abie's Irish Rose" and
10 Feature Productions

WILLIAM MORAN

CHARACTER HEAVIES

PREVIOUS ENGAGEMENT: "What Should a Girl Do?" Hal Rouch
Holly 105-03

WILLIAM MORAN

CHARACTER HEAVIES

PREVIOUS ENGAGEMENT: "What Should a Girl Do?" Hal Rouch
Holly 105-03

AT LIBERTY JULY 15th
HOLLYWOOD 3903

AT LIBERTY JULY 15th
HOLLYWOOD 3903
SUSANNA THOMAS
Terpsichorean and Dramatic Artist
567-322

Photos by Evans
MILTON SILLS
IN "WHAT A WIFE LEARNED" AT TALLY'S
AUTHENTIC DETAILS AND PHOTOGRAPHS OF FOREIGN INTERIORS AND EXTERIORS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

The Big Feature

of our service is found in the fact we're located IN HOLLYWOOD, convenient to you at all times. In our shop the progressive and artistic producer and director will find a unique selection of antiques, statues, furniture, armor, bronzes, oil paintings and bric-a-brac, from all corners of the earth. Relatively moderate rates prevail at all times. We buy, sell, rent and exchange.

Foster's
ANTIQUE SHOP

4534 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 598-030
From the Editorial Observatory

Speaking of cold facts, it’s been pretty hot lately!

Well, now that the Fourth of July is over, you may begin thinking about Christmas once more.

If it is true the world is getting its peace in pieces, it’s a cinch it had better get it in full ere long, or else the world is liable to go to pieces.

The popularity of divorce is said to be on the wane. What newspapers does whoever ventures this statement read? Sure can’t be any of the Hearst sheets.

It is difficult to understand how the Germans are getting along these days without their beloved Lubitsch, who seems all set to remain in Hollywood the rest of his life.

Most all classes of pictures are returning profits nowadays, which is the best answer to those censors who have done everything in their power to thwart the cinema art in its irresistible progress. One of these fine days censorship will be abolished by popular acclamation.

The Motion Picture Exposition opened auspiciously despite the fact that there were some who regarded it suspiciously. The amount of good it may do in behalf of the industry cannot be measured as yet of course, but here’s hoping many mighty long yard-sticks will be required to do that measuring.

Another one of the unsolved mysteries is, what has become of the old-fashioned photoplay fan who used to fill the magazines with ravings over the beauty of the hero’s moustache or the heroine’s booful blue eyes of “such sweet innocence.” And, just think, even Mary Pickford has grown up in her latest starring vehicle, “Rosita.”

Here’s some good news of benefit to the whole industry—Charlie Chaplin is going to star himself in a new series of comedies of feature length, according to a statement just issued. Charlie may like to direct, but the public likes to see him act instead and the more satisfied the fans are the better it will be for motion pictures in general.

Whenever you are not sure of what kind of an evening you are likely to have, you can always go to a picture show and this is just as good a prescription for the picture people as anyone else. Of all the people who should patronize cinema emporiums, the people who make them should be among the most habitual.

There need be no alarm over the partial shut-down of Universal City. Such curtailment of production activities during the warmer months is a part of that company’s annual policy and in September there will be a resumption of the full-blaze film-making. Meanwhile the Universal exchanges are loaded to the guards with plenty of new pictures awaiting release and also meanwhile, the scenario and other departments will be kept busy preparing for the fall schedule, which, it is reported, will be unusually extensive.

Men with violent ideas continue to infest the face of the earth, but thank the lucky stars, they are decidedly in the minority and are confined mostly to European countries. The chance to be the greatest benefactor humanity ever had in all history is within reach of that man who can discover some sort of a gland which will convert violent men into mild-mannered ones. The chap who could find a way for perfect distribution of the product so that all human beings needing it would get it, could qualify as the foremost circulation manager in the world.

Prohibition daily becomes the most ridiculous farce in the whole history of the United States. The supply of liquor is increasing amazingly and the army of boot-leggers is gaining more recruits now than at any time. Meanwhile the rest of the world is laughing at us and also meanwhile the one panacea is to legalize the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer. Anyone who needs any convincing on this point should take a run up and down the boulevard any night and see how scornfully some of our best citizens flout the Eighteenth Amendment and how brazenly the run-runners conduct their illicit business.

One well-informed man who has just returned from a tour of various European countries declares there would be practically no competition in film-making from abroad if American artists, directors and producers would discontinue going over there and helping foreign concerns make their pictures. He says most all European producers crave American cinema genius and most of them show little disposition to be very ambitious with some assistance from sons of Uncle Sam. It’s all very interesting, but it is more interesting to contemplate the positive proof that every one who ever goes over comes back in due course of time. As long as this survives as the general rule, Europe will not be able to make any great inroads on America’s supremacy as the foremost producer of photoplay entertainment. And, zat’s zat for a cinch.
FOR BOOTLEGGING CRABS, HE'S ARRESTED

EUREKA, CALIF, July 4.—One of the strangest cases in the history of California law developed today when James Cruze was arrested for bootlegging crabs. Cruze is on location at Eureka shooting the famous Harry De Leon Western story, "Buggles of Red Gap." The locations for this Paramount Picture are far between; consequently when he finishes work each day he is tired and hungry. He loves crabs—especially the giant crabs caught off Eureka. These crabs were so delicious that he decided to let his friends in on the secret and so several hundred of the sea delicacies were packed for shipment to the Lucky studio in Hollywood. Right here was where Jimmy Cruze crashed head-on against the most unique law in California. Humboldt county law does not permit crabs being taken across the line. To ship them in large quantities would soon deplete the supply. Mr. Cruze did not know that such a law existed until Acting Police Chief Frank Cloney, arrested him for bootlegging—bootlegging crabs. It was some time before Mr. Cruze was able to obtain his release. In the meanwhile production was at a standstill. Tonight Cruze was conspicuous by his absence in the hotel dining room. He was extremely crabby over the fact that Ed Ward Kerton, Ernest Torrence, Lois Wilson, Fritz Ridgeway, Charles Ogle and Louise Drucker, featured players in this forthcoming Paramount Picture, continually phoned his room to inquire if they should have some crabs sent up. The police chief made Cruze eat most of the intended shipment as a lesson that Humboldt county crabs are to stay in Humboldt County.

SCREEN COMEDIAN SCORES HIT IN DRAMA

Jumping from work as a comedian to the portrayal of strong emotional roles in dramatic features is a task that is not always successfully accomplished by the average motion picture actor. There have been many who have attempted to make the grade but a large number of expression and emotion have forced them, for the present at least, to abandon all thought of becoming a dramatic actor.

One of the latest artists from the old school of comedy to try his hand at dramatic work is Garry Odell, who made his screen debut with Mack Sennett back in the old Keystone days and who later played the "heavy" for a number of the screen's foremost directors. Laying aside his comedy wardrobe, false mustaches, etc., he undertook to find an engagement with a dramatic director, Mr. Richard Thomas. His first opportunity came in the Richard Thomas production of "Phantom Justice." The part of the character, "Spice Louis," was given to "Spike Louis," a greasy underworld character, to portray.

As a result of the engagement, Richard Thomas, the director and producer, declares the actor's performance to be "one of the high lights of the entire production and so impressive is he with his work that he has already engaged the actor for one of the principal roles in his forthcoming picture. Having made such an auspicious start in dramatic pictures it is doubtful if Odell will ever return to comedy roles, unless it is to play to his comedy relief in dramatic features.

$7,500,000 WORTH OF TALENT GETS TOGETHER

Over Seven and One-half Million Dollars worth of theatrical and movie talent celebrated one of the biggest All-Star Nights ever given at the Ambassador Summer Grove last Tuesday evening. Seldom in the history of Los Angeles have so many famous stars danced under one roof, and movie fans from out of town were busy during the evening securing autographs on menus of the hotel.

Among those present were: Lenoir Ulrich, Ma Busch, Ruth Chatterton, Low Cody, Fannie Brice, Tom Mox, Carmel Meyers, Ray Seinem, Ray Gribbon, Mrs. and Mr. Rupert Hughes, Low Brice, Harold Goodwin, Clara Brown, Mme. Balzac, Sylvia Breamer, Herbert Rawlinson, May McAvoy, Blanche Sweet, Henry Miller, Besse Love, Alice Lake, Chico Windsor, Karte Williams, John Steele, Billy Dove, Sophie Tucker, Eileen Percy, Bennie Fields, Pete Smith, Art Hickman, Carlos Sebastian, Julianne Johnson.

California
Anita Stewart in "The Love Piker"

Miller’s
Harold Lloyd in "Safety Last"

Metropolitan
Dorothy Dalton in "Fog Bound"

Loew’s State
Richard Barthelmess in "The Bright Shoul"

Rialto
Mrs. Wallace Reid in "Human Wreckage"

Kinema
Dorothy Phillips in "The White Frontier"

Million Dollar
Miriam Cooper in "Her Accidental Husband"

Alhambra
Norma Talmadge in "Within the Law"

Hollywood Egyptia
"The Covered Wagon" with Lois Wilson and J. Warren Kerrigan

Mission
Douglas Fairbanks in "Robin Hood"

Clune’s Broadway
Jackie Coogan in "Daddy"

Symphony
Rudolph Valentino in "The Shiek"
Screen Imitations---The Danger

A SON OF ADVENTURE

Here is probably not another motion picture director who has led as adventurous a life as has Donald Crisp, who will direct "Ponjola," the Sam E. Rork production for First National release.

Yvonna Stockley, author of "Ponjola," is said to have a wider knowledge of South Africa, the locale of her story, than any other living writer, but Crisp knew the South African veld long before this writer's eyes on it. He knows every foot of it as thoroughly as he is personally acquainted with the trails and velds and he's done a lot of "soldiering" though Rhodesia.

While still a youngster of only sixteen Crisp decided he would look well in the flaming uniform of the Terenth Hussars. In London he joined the colors and was assigned for service against the Boers in South Africa before he could get his medals.

Lighting "Oom Paul" Kruger, Villejoen and De Wilt, earned three medals for the adventurer—the last being the D. C. M., or Distinguished conduct medal, at the battle of Tnunzula Heights.

Having gone through the Boer campaigns and the World War in safety Crisp joined British intelligence department and flew to South Africa on a mission. Returning to the United States he went into films as a director.

THE WISDOM OF WHISKERS

Whiskers, like whiskey, improve with age, and Thunder Face, the full-blooded Mission Indian who appeared in Edwin Carewe's "Girl of the Golden West," and who is now playing the part of a bad hombre in a present Carewe production, "The Bad Man," attributes his film success to his whiskers.

"It's not their beauty," says Thunder Face, "one Englishman makes me find suspicious that he is a Carlisle graduate, 'cause it's their veracity."

"With their assistance I am a Mexican, a Jew, a Hindu, an Arab, Egyptian, a Moor, a race or Turk and I've just finished a role as a child of Israel fleeing across the Red Sea."

"If I shave and feel comfortable my artistic career is ruined and if I don't shave my good disposition will soon be a total loss.""I'm wearing them for art's sake—and a monetary consideration!"

Eugenia Feiner, who recently completed an engagement at Universal City, opposite Lloyd Hughes in a feature temporarily titled "Grandpap," and who is heralded as one of the most beautiful of the screen's new faces, and who is also being highly praised as the possessor of one of the most charmingly attractive personalities recently discovered. A brilliant future of stardom is predicted for her, because in addition to her natural cinema ability, she is highly talented as a dancer.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., July 2.—J. Ellinson, director for the World Educational Films, and a party of six arrived in San Francisco Saturday. They were on the scene of several days. Included in the party are Baby Betty, just two years old, one of the youngest stars of the screen—Wampus mas cot for the last two years, and was lively and charming bit of a girl. Also Yale Bow, who was the first little star back of the world. He grew out of short trousse and off the screen several years ago, to return recently to the movie world as a go—getting young man.
He has, by the way, just finished playing with George D. Baker in the Goldwyn production, "The Magic Skin." Their stop here is part of an extended movie trip through central and northern California, looking for locations for the next picture of the organization, "The Part—Niner," in which Baby Betty will be starred.
Elmer Dyer, cameraman with the Steno-scope Productions, has left that organization and returned to Los Angeles on Friday.
This week he will be back of the camera and start for another month owing to the little uncertainty in regard to their releasing arrangements. Patrice Palmer, who was co-esting character in the picture, is also with the organization, but Director Walter W.
Bell, and Flanger Bill Miller, the leading man, will continue with the company. Joseph Gonyea, signed as assistant director, is for the time being at least, working in the south.
The Golden Gate Productions, with Jack Dewey as production manager, since their move to the Pacific Laboratories at 351
Tark Street, are very busy making adver-sational, industrial, and commercial films, while they get the last arrangements together, and everything in shape to begin the production of feature pictures, which they hope to do in the very near future.
Harry MacKenzie of the Kemnat Productions returned from New York last week.
While there he arranged for the first picture made by the company.
It will be released in August by Pathé. Its present title is "Tipped Off," but there is a possible title that may be changed. Mr. Mac-Kenzie has gone to Los Angeles for a few days, and will announce the future production plans of the company on his return.
Barbara Caselet, film star from New York, spent several days in San Francisco last week.
Carl Laemmle has telegraphed to Mayor
Rolph that owing to widespread objections from San Francisco certain scenes in the feature film, "The Sluice," have been cut diff. The picture is a story dealing with the San Francisco fire, but so many of the scenes were over-drawn that numerous organizations objected on the grounds that the film in places was "Untruthful and Libelous," on its showing in this city a few weeks ago. Hence the official protest to Mr. Laemmle.
Day by day the cast working in Elie Vernon Strohheim's production of "Greed" grows smaller and smaller. Frank Hayes has finished his part, and left for the south by motor last Wednesday. Fanny Midgley also done, and released. Dale Fuller a only to be murdered this week, and the rest of the cast, including Priscilla Palmer, have finished his work in this part of the picture and as he does not appear in the sequence he will go to Los Angeles until it is time for his scenes in the very end of the picture, to be shot in the desert at Death Valley. Of course Zsa Zsa Gabor has had some experience but in her work, also Hughie Mack, who adds much to the bulk of the company. If the presenplans work out the company will leave for Colfax to do the mine sequences about 24th of July.
A most amusing preview was given the other night of a picture made at a six day drove given by the Alameda Sciots at Cotage Batha Beach lastly. Harry F. Sheehan was given to the supervising director, and Louis Jacobs directs the actual filming, with Bud Hopper at the camera.
Of course it was a comedy and its title, "Yes, We Have No Bananas Today," was a fair description of the plot, but so outlandish the actors, it was a "show business" for all of whom were members of the Alamed Sciots, although several had had previous experience, and the picture had a laugh every minute.
Max Graf, head of the Graf Production, has left New York, enroute for Chicago and Los Angeles. On his return the company will again go into production, with first, a big sea picture, the
"The Grain of Dust," as earlier announced.

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"

IS THE CHANGING THE SECRET OF A CAREER'S LONGETIVY?

As they come, so do they go—in inevitable directions. The career seems destined to go on forever as one of the screen's foremost stars. Ever since the days of earliest invention for the motion picture industry is concerned. Mr. Moore's has been a biggest name, and today it is generally conceded to be a "biggest biggest name" than at any time. Just what it is being portrayed by certain wisecrack of filmland that "Thunder-type," in which he is now appearing at the United States Studios, will serve to give his character entirely different from anything he ever attempted before—That of the son of a Chinese lord, although earlier in the story he is a bona-niere, zig-zagging American. His performance before the battery of cameras has become quite the talk of the town even before the picture is completed owing to the enthusiastic reception of those who have watched the production.

For three years Mr. Moore has starred most triumphantly in a series of feature comedy hits under the banner of Selznick, and many had come to regard him as fundamentally a light comedy star, forgetting that for him to venture into this field, he was the foremost interpreter of the prominent character mentioned above is portrayed in the screen production by the following characters: Louis XVI, Lorimer Johnston; Barbara Winlow, Rebel, Victor Heerman, Director

Kate Price, Arthur Rankin
Lou Morrison, Philip Dunham
Kenneth Gibson

Warner Brothers present "TIGER ROSE"
Adapted from David Belasco's play Sidney A. Franklin, Director Supervised by David Belasco.

CAST

Lena Ulric Florence Kaye Joseph Dowling
Anders Randolf Sam Le Grasso
Andrei Beranger

"BAD MEN AND GOOD" Chas. R. Seelbach, Director
George T. Seelbach, Camera

John Norton, Editor

CAST

Big Boy Williams Lew Meehan Doris Dare Frank Alexander
Billy Quinn Frank Heseltine

Jay Marchant, formerly an assistant director at Universal, is now directing a short western picture there for some time and is proving himself a capable handler of western atmosphere.
The Evolution of Economotelianis

Spiros Economotelianis was a great violinist. His countrymen said he was one of the greatest violinists of his day. He was a favorite of the Greeks, and was much admired by the French and Italian audiences as well. His performances were always greeted with enthusiastic applause.

After his long tour he returned to Hollywood, where he was received with open arms by the American people. The newspapers acclaimed his achievements and his popularity increased. He was invited to perform at many prestigious events, and his concerts were sold out.

FOOLING OLD-TIMERS

It isn't often that a person is mistaken for a nonentity. Such was the case with Tony Gaudio, mayor of the town of Nacoma. The local people were convinced that he was just a common laborer, but they were surprised when they learned of his true identity.

LOW DOWN ON NEWS HIGH SPOTS

By Buster Keaton

Having administration saves $200,000,000 in year. Congressmen celebrate by taking $1,000,000 trip on Leviathan.

Voice on phone at Ambassador Hotel asks to speak to Henry Ford. Told he was not registered, "Oh, yes," was the answer, "he's there; I saw his car out in front."

Premier Stambouliski killed in Bulgarian uprising. Little-known operators break the first signs of relief since Battle of Przemyslki passed into discard.

Something is wrong in Hollywood. Boys of thirteen are wearing long trousers and men of fifty are wearing knickers.

Report from Great Falls is that Dempsey will wed following fight with Gibbons. At this rate he's bound to take the coast one way or the other.

A NEATED BOON

The motion picture industry in Hollywood should take advantage of the discovery of scopolanin, the truth-serum which recently has proven effective in persuading prisoners to tell the truth. This is the belief of Richard Travers, motion picture star, who is at present enacting one of the leading roles in Universal's "The Acquitall."

Mr. Travers suggests the administration of scopolanin to Scandal-seeking visitors to Hollywood, who, if given the opportunity, would draw upon their imagination for reports of wickedness to carry back to the old home town.

Editors of periodicals who believe that the naked truth is mightier than the pen. Oil promoters who know their best chance of striking petroleum is at a gas station.
A complete change in the management and presentations of motion picture theatres throughout the country, is predicted by Maurice Tourneur, director of M. C. Lavery, First National Pictures. The change will sleepily every theatre in the public's mind by the type of entertainment offered, as evidenced in "Legitimate" theatres.

The time is not far distant when motion picture theatres will be classified as are the legitimate theatres today," said Mr. Tourneur. "Just as theatres are established as bulling places, stock, dramatic or musical comedy houses today, so will motion picture theatres be divided in a definite and distinctive manner, each offering the type of entertainment in which it specializes.

There is every indication that sooner or later, motion picture theatre owners will adopt distinct policies in the form of particular types of entertainment. In certain districts there will be theatres devoted solely to the presentation of melodrama. On another street there will be a theatre devoted exclusively to the 'highbrow' type of picture which the critics have been lauding. To date they have been found poor commercial investments. There are bound to come theatres in which subjects for colossal will be made. With the new order of things, pictures will be made for definite classes rather than attempting to make them productions that will hit the bull's eye for every race, creed, color and age.

"When we make a picture today we must keep in mind that it must be so simple that it will appeal to the seven-year-old child as well as to the college professor. A picture that will have its greatest value is the stenographer and the art student. A picture that both the boisterous and the tired business man will enjoy.

"The producer of bioscope on the stage would not attempt to write his plot for the benefit of the patron of the Little Theatre. Yet, this is what film producers are trying to achieve. This is an age of specialization and classification. Personally I would like to make a certain type of picture. Under present conditions this kind of picture would not be found commercial. If there were established throughout the country a certain number of theatres showing this form of entertainment--exclusively I could concentrate on this one type of play and not attempt to entertain those patrons who would not enjoy this class of entertainment.

"When the time comes that producers can profitably concentrate on definite forms of film entertainment and not attempt to give satisfaction to the whole world of picture patrons with one and the same film, great strides in increasing this business value will be evident, and still greater strides in the progress of the film play as an art will be assured."

---

The Most Cosmopolitan Army

"Dukes' sons, cooks' sons, sons of millionaires."

The movie "extra" list gets them all.

From all corners of the world they come, representing every walk in life. And they all think that their only chance to win fame and fortune before the camera.

"Cook's sons are common; sons of millionaires not so common, but now and again Hollywood gets the rarest of them all—a duke's son.

The latest duke's son to buck the "extra" list is the Earl of Glendorgle now playing the "bit" part in "Ponjola," a picturization of Cynthia Stockley's famous story of South Africa which Sam E. Rok is producing for Picture Patrons.

The Earl, or Major Maurice Talbot, as he was rather be addressed, is a "type" in the eyes of the casting director and therefore has little difficulty in getting a job, paying him $5 to $7.50 a day, in pictures of British or Colonial atmosphere.

In "Ponjola," he fills the role of one of the bores and jinxes, the broken-down sons of British millionaires who have flocked to the Rhodesian gold fields.

Playing a nobleman's part is not at all hard for a man who comes of several generations of land gentry and peers. The Earl is one of those titles that went out with being of the incipent home rule in Ireland. For generations his family had been its ancestral home at Arford Abbey, County Kerry, Ireland. Then in 1903—the Irish land bill—and much of the family estate was given up.

As the oldest son, and heir to the title, the Earl naturally followed the course that is laid out for all old sons of the nobility—the army. For twenty years he served with the cavalry in England, in India and in the Boer War.

The world war found him on the retiree list. He "joined up" the day war was declared and was commissioned major. With the Royal artillery he again served in France, in Mesopotamia and Palestine.

He was wounded and gassed four times in France, and then in Palestine commanding the first British battery to cross the River Jordan, he was wounded for the fifth time, a wound that incapacitated him from further service.

Back to Ireland, the war over, the Earl "put up" for parliament from the Cork division. He was defeated by the Sinn Fein candidate and then on returning home, found that his home, Arford Abbey had been burned to the ground, possibly by radical nationalists.

As the Earl puts it "Ireland was then no place for a peer and so I decided to come to California, where I might live a quiet life."

And there he is today, in Hollywood, eking out his army pension with a day's work now and again as a movie extra.

---

Big Changes are Predicted for Theatres

In the official party were Governor and Mrs. Bartlett, P. P. O'Brien, Calvin Bartlett, Thomas G. Patton, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Merriam of New York, Jannis Bernheim, William Koenig, Charles Van Ronkel and Abe Frank of Los Angeles.

The visit to Universal City is a part of the coast itinerary of the postal executive, who left Washington two months ago on a tour of the nation's postal system.

Wallace Worsley works now, regardless of rain or shine. In directing the spectacular filming of Hugo's "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," several-thousand-dollar a day overhead are spent on the big unit, and if the weather was bad or anything, production would be held up until the rainy season is over, with worried idleness, so far as shooting was concerned.

Now, with Perley Poore Sheban and Edward T. Lowe, literary guides of the story, he is spending full time and some more with Edward Curtis of the editorial department, supervising and cutting the film. Lion Chamber, the star, frequently drops in and watches the work. "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" is the first spectacle film cut apart with shooting. It was in twenty-four reels the day the last shot was made.

Claire Adams, one of the most promising of the younger screen actresses, has been selected for the feminine lead in Herbert Rawlinson's latest starring vehicle at Universal City.

"Upunde Kowa," a comedy drama by H. H. Van Loan, is the title of the Rawlinson production, now being filmed under the direction of William Parkinson.

Miss Adams recently played the feminine lead in "Legally Dead," a Universal science mystery drama featuring Milton Sills and finished her work with her role in that production when she was chosen by William Parks, who directed it, for the lead in Rawlinson's picture, although this is the first announcement.

Robert Ellis is repeating former Universal successes in the leading role opposite Gladys Walton in "The Wild Party" at Universal City.

From U to You

Now, with Perley Poore Sheban and Edward T. Lowe, literary guides of the story, he is spending full time and some more with Edward Curtis of the editorial department, supervising and cutting the film. Lion

Chamber, the star, frequently drops in and watches the work. "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" is the first spectacle film cut apart with shooting. It was in twenty-four reels the day the last shot was made.

Claire Adams, one of the most promising of the younger screen actresses, has been selected for the feminine lead in Herbert Rawlinson's latest starring vehicle at Universal City.

"Upunde Kowa," a comedy drama by H. H. Van Loan, is the title of the Rawlinson production, now being filmed under the direction of William Parkinson.

Miss Adams recently played the feminine lead in "Legally Dead," a Universal science mystery drama featuring Milton Sills and finished her role in that production when she was chosen by William Parks, who directed it, for the lead in Rawlinson's picture, although this is the first announcement.

Robert Ellis is repeating former Universal successes in the leading role opposite Gladys Walton in "The Wild Party" at Universal City.

(Continued on Page 20)
CAMERA'S WEEKLY WAKE-EM-UP

SPECIAL NEWS SECTION

SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1923

FORMER KING VIDOR STUDIO

TO BE ENLARGED AT ONCE

BY SOL LESSER INTERESTS

Principal Pictures Corporation’s studios in Hollywood are to be greatly enlarged immediately. This information comes from Sol Lesser and Michael Rosenberg of that organization. The Principal Pictures land consists of some fifteen acres directly adjoining that of the Douglas Fairbanks-Mary Pickford studios. When it was purchased some months since by lesser and associates, it was known as the King Vidor studio. Mr. Lesser made individual purchases at the plant prior to its sale.

Among the chief additions that will take form at once, is another huge stage. It is the plan to equip this new stage with every modern device for picture making. One of the world’s largest generators has been installed and complete organization of the electrical department and a California organization have been completed.

Two new buildings will be erected which will house the many artists scheduled to appear in the forthcoming Principal Pictures productions. Under the supervision of Norman Manning, the new Principal Pictures studio is gradually undergoing a complete and new building schedule. The many isles and rooms of the old studio will be expended in the immediate future on the plant which is necessary to accommodate the many companies planned for the near future.

Here the Harold Bell Wright series of features will be made. First “When a Man’s a Man” is now in the final production stage with “The Winning of Barbara Worth” scheduled as the second of the Wright series.

Harry Langdon, the well known vaudeville comedian is hard at work on the first of a series of twelve feature comedies. Two other units are scheduled to start near the future.

Sol Lesser is now devoting the major part of his time to the production end of the film game. His time is practically consumed in organizing companies, conferring on scripts, scenarios, and attending to the many details that come under his supervision.

The distribution of Principal Pictures products is in the hands of Irving M. Lesser in the Principal Pictures New York offices. All distribution is made from the eastern end with production activity on the west coast, in Los Angeles and Hollywood.

COMEDIAN REMEMBERS OLD PALS WITH BIKE

At St. John, Fox funster and erstwhile lifeguard at Long Beach, has been elected an honorary member of the Balboa Branch, American Red Cross Volunteer Life Corps.

The honor was conferred upon the stellar comedian recently following the presentation of a specially equipped sea-going bicycle to the Balboa lifeguards by St. John who has not forgotten the by-gone days when he patrolled a stretch of beach in search of swimmers in distress.

The bicycle given by Al to the Balboaers is a model machine with numerous attachments designed to aid in the work of resurrection. The wheel will be exercised in regular service at once.

YOUNGEST LEADING LADY SIGNED BY JACK

Lucile Ricksen, 16-year-old leading woman, whose rapid rise to fame has few equals in the motion picture realm, has been signed by Jack Pickford as direct woman for his next picture, it has been announced.

In supporting Jack in his original Pickford-Keaton-Smallon-Di- tants, Miss Ricksen will enact the role of a carefree, barefooted little maiden of the hills. As a typical little girl of the mountains with curls flowing down her back, the young motion picture star will have the greatest role of her varied career of eight years.

Scores of leading women were interviewed and given screen tests by Jack and his director, George Hill, in an effort to secure a perfect type which would be symbolic of youthful abandon closed behind the barriers of civilization in the Kentucky mountains. Miss Ricksen was chosen unanimously as the perfect type.

Hollywood’s youngest leading woman has had a varied career from the time she played her first bit as a Cupid in a Henry B. Walthall picture back at the Edison days. More recently she has had leading roles in two of Marshall Nelan’s greatest pictures “The Strangers’ Banquet” and “The Red- devour.”

The young leading woman first began commanding public attention when she played the part of the lovely little girl in the Edgar Jones-Both Tarkington series at Goldwyn. Then a year or two went by and she began growing up a bit, playing parts in “The Strangers’ Banquet” of Rupert Hughes’ “The Old Nest,” “Look Your Best,” “The Married Flapper,” and “The Girl Who Ran Wild.”

LUBITSCH TO FILM MONTMARTRE STORY

Ernest Lubitsch, who a couple of years ago gained worldwide fame through his motion pictures “Passion” and “Gypsy Blood,” and of whose work since that time such examples as “Deception,” “One Arabian Night,” and “The Love of Pharaoh” were shown on the American screen, is about to start his second American production. It is to be a Warner Brothers screen classic.

Since he came to this country last year, Ernest Lubitsch has directed Mary Pickford in “Hos- tvitia,” a dramatic Spanish tale of the Napoleonic period, which is now in its first spectacular costume play Miss Pickford ever did, but also shows her in a highly emotional part, greatly varying from many of her former roles, and resembling them only in so far as it is interwoven with much delicate, subtle humor.

For his second American production Ernest Lubitsch has signed a contract with Warner Brothers under which he is to make a modern, continental comedy with a small all-star cast. This picture will be somewhat in the order of “Montmar- tre,” Lubitsch’s last European production of the 1920 period with Pola Negri. It presents an intimate love story and plays in the modern continental society.

This coming Lubitsch production is arousing much interest among those familiar with the costume pictures of Lubitsch, as it will give the American public its first chance to see a modern photoplay of the celebrated director.

BATTLE’S FIRE TO SELL $2,500 AN HOUR

Smoke from the burning sump holes in the vicinity held up production on Jackie Coogan pictures. "Long Live the King," this week. It is the practice of various companies which receive oil in tank cars, to empty the residue into a sump hole, and this material is burned regularly. Through an unfortunate shift in the wind the black smoke drifted over the Coogan set, and had the effect of a minor eclipse. Since Jackie was working with hisарэм18 thousand extras on his big street scene, this occurrence was costing the Coogans company at least $2500 an hour.

Director Victor Schertzinger sent for E. A. Bibly, studio manager of the Jackie Coogan productions, but was informed that he had already left for the fire and when fifty minutes the smoke ceased to roll over the set, which was bathed thence-forth in the justly famous Cal- ifornia smoke, he im- mediately proceeded to the sump holes, where he organized a vol- unteer fire department and, as-isted by a group of workmen from the Southern Pacific and the Southern California Edison organizations, the fire was im- mediately checked.

This was the first time in many years that the sump holes fires have interfered with open air shooting of motion pictures, but in order to make sure that this would not occur again, Bibly has made arrangements with the two companies mentioned to light their fires at five o’clock in the evening instead of nine in the morning.

Theby in “The Eagle’s Feather”

Although Rosemary Theby was engaged in portraying one of the leading roles in support of Jackie Coogan in “Long Live the King” at the Metro studios, arrangements were not made for her to also play an im- portant part in “The Eagle’s Feather,” a Metro all-star spec- tacle which is being filmed under the direction of Edward Sloman. Crawford Kent has also been added to the cast of the unusual picture of the west, the complete roster of prominent players in- cluding such popular favorites as Ralston, Kemble, Kirk- wood, Elinor Fair, Lester Cuneo, George Siegman, William Orla- mond, Charles McHugh and John Elliott.
LATIN COUNTRIES ANXIOUS FOR "BAD MAN"

Edwin Carewe's "The Bad Man," which is now being filmed at the United Studios, will be hailed as the greatest picture America has ever produced, in Mexico City, capital of South America, according to General Manuel Perez Trevino, Chief of Staff in the army of President Obregon of Mexico.

General Trevino was Carewe's guest at the studio and watched several scenes in which Holbrook Blinn portrays the character of a border "bad man." General Trevino evidenced such admiration for the production that Carewe permitted him to read the film version of the story.

"Undoubtedly," said the General, "this production will be acclaimed as the finest picture the Latin-American countries have ever seen. It is a picture that the Mexicans, Central American, and South-Americans love. They will delight in Mr. Blinn's characterization. The efforts of all will be made to exploit "The Bad Man," through the entire south. Every publicity will be given the production, which will be comprehensive in Mexico, Central America and the South American countries as it will be in the United States and Europe.

WARNER BROTHERS SIGN FAMOUS PHOTOGRAPHER

John Ellis, credited with being one of the best-known pictorialists in and out of the industry, has been engaged by the Warner Brothers to photograph the many highlights in the organization's forthcoming series of eighteen classics of the screen.

Mr. Ellis has the distinction of having photographed all official Washington, in addition to having served a number of years with the Columbia Stock Company, Washington, D. C. During his sojourn in the Capitol city he is said to have taken special photographs of Woodrow Wilson, Charles Clark, scores of prominent senators and representatives and many New York celebrities of the political and theatrical world.

While with the Columbia Stock Company, Mr. Ellis appeared in a number of well-known theatrical plays with such players as Charlotte Watson, starring in "Young Men's League," Thomas Ince and First National, and is reported to have photographed "Omar the Tentmaker," "Peg o' My Heart," "Famous Mrs. Fair," "Trilby," and many other screen productions.

ASHTON DEARHOLT WILL HEAD HIS OWN UNIT

Filming of the Initial Ashton Dearholt production is scheduled to commence this week under the direction of Jack Hatton.

Indeed, for the past four years, has served as production manager for the Ben Wilson Productions. He will continue to work in this capacity as well as to personally supervise the producing of his own features which will be made at the Ben Wilson studios.

The new organization has contracted to film two new features of the western variety during a period of one year, and they will be released through the Arrow Releasing Company.

This series of plays will serve as a "come-back" for pretty Helene Rosson, who will be remembered as the star in American and Mutual pictures.

"GOLD DIGGERS" ONE THIRD FINISHED NOW

"The Gold Diggers," David Belasco's noted stage success which is being presented on screen by Warner Brothers, with Hope Hampton in the leading role, will be approximately one-third completed today.

Up to the present Miss Hamp- ton has been engaged almost exclusively in interior scenes. Theoretically, remaining exter- ional work will be shot in the near future the exterior scenes, most of them surrounding fashionable streets and beautiful homes will be taken.

From the preliminary view of the "takes" so far, "The Gold Diggers" promises to be one of the outstanding pictures of the year. Miss Hampton is reported to be doing the finest work of her career in this production.

BERNIE IS MEMBER OF THE A.C.C. NOW

Arthur Bernstein, the energetic production manager for Principal Pictures Corporation, arrived home after having spent two months in Prescott, Arizona, with the "When a Man's a Man." "Bernie," whose smile is sometimes as scarce as rain in August, had a grin from ear to ear as he hopped off the train. The reason for this smile was soon discovered. In respect for the work accomplished by Principal Pictures Corporation in cooperation with the recent Hopi Indian dance celebration staged in Prescott this month, the management of the company have elected Bernstein a member of their Chamber of Commerce.

Now when one of the studio attaches wants an "O.K." on a picture he has to visit Bernie's official secretaries and request an appointment with the film executive-civic worker.

made several years ago at the Santa Barbara studios. Miss Rowland will star in all six of the series and will be supported by Edmund Cobb, who will interpret his role.

Wilbur McGeach, who scored a personal triumph for his characterization in Roy Stwart's "One-Eighth An American," has been engaged for supporting roles, and will also assist in the matter of direction. McGeach has been affiliated with the Ben Wilson Productions for the last two years, and is the first leg di- rector and character actor.

E. R. Hickson, in charge of the art direction for all pictures filmed at the Wilson studios, will personally supervise the art direction for the Dearholt production.

B. L. "Bill" McGaugh, veteran cameraman, has been engaged for the series.

BOY SCOUTS IN UNIQUE TRIP SEE MOVIES MADE

A group of fifteen Boy Scouts are today "seeing America first" from the parade roof of an auto-truck in what is said to be one of the most novel motor tours ever undertaken by members of this big juvenile organization.

The trip is in charge of Arthur E. White, deputy scout commis- sioner of Ensign District, Salt Lake City, Utah, and the film that they have been working at the Heftford-Whibanks Studio.

After watching preliminary work for "The Thief of Bagdad," the boys inspected with interest the work of the Flint film company where Mickey Mouse and other characters are made.

TRAVERS FINISHES ONE CONTINUES ANOTHER

Richard Travers has completed "The Endless Summer," Marshall Neilan's "The Rendezvous," and now is engaged in enacting one of the leading parts in the Universal feature production of "The Acquittal."

This leaves Travers in what is for him a comparatively rare instance of idleness, for when he came to Hollywood recently he undertook the portrayal of the two parts at once. "The Acquittal" is a photo-narrative of George M. Cohan's stage success, written and directed by Rita Weiman. The direction of the film version is by Clarence Brown.

Moran writing the script with Morlan Moran's "Many miles away from the city" and "The Endless Summer," he has also been shooting "The Rendezvous," which is a sequel to "The Return to An- swer," the second of Metro's new series of all-star specials. Although "The Bool" is still un- der contract to Hunt Stromberg, who stars him in two-reel comedies, he was loaned to Metro especially for the purpose of writing stories for future situation comedies.
MABEL NORMAND DIFFERENT IN NEW PRODUCTION

There appears to be a well-grounded suspicion in the minds of those identified with the production of Mack Sennett's new comedy, that Miss Normand's new starring vehicle, a new Miss Normand will be seen.

Here tofore Miss Normand has appeared to all eyes in portrayals of light dramatic and comedy roles. She is known the world over, as the all-star comedienne and will probably stay in that classification for all time to come.

Despite this, however, the irresistible personality of this little screen favorite will force itself still deeper in the affections of her admirers, when "The Extra Girl," is given to the screen, owing to the fact that she is demonstrating in this new picture how the class will be classed among the foremost emotional actresses of the cinema.

NOW WE MAY EXPECT A NEW COMMODORE—BEVAN

When in Rome, do as the Romans do,—that old adage was inspiration for guiding Billy Bevan to an airplane of expensive living than he has been in the habit of following. Billy has purchased a power cruising boat. The next thing he will be doing is to doll his family up in yachting attire, while he dons a commodore's cap, while flannals and sneakers.

During the four weeks he was on location at Balboa Beach with Mack Sennett all-star comedy troupe, Bevan was guest on several private yachts. The life around on canopy-covered decks and talk about regattas, cruises, etc., so strongly appealed to him that immediately he purchased a good boat for use. When that was accomplished he made application for membership in one of Newport's exclusive yacht clubs.

Now that he has been admitted to the real class of sportsmen, his friends are wondering if he will remain just plain Billy Bevan, or will he insist on being addressed Mister Bevan.

MARGUERITE LOSES ALL FEAR OF SNAKES

Every actress in motion pictures has a fear of some one thing. Perchance it is a mouse; may be a lion or other wild animal. And it seems always that during her career before the camera, some one or other be called upon to enact a role which brings her in direct contact with the dreaded object.

Such is—or rather was—the case of dainty Marguerite De La Motte, creating the leading femi- nine role in principal Pictures Corporation's "When a Man's a Man."

Marguerite fears—or rather feared—snakes, and that her name? And lo and behold, when she started making the popular Harold Bell Wright story, her role called for her to be found fondling a pet reptile. Horrors! Try as she would to have the part changed, but when she was set down to perform in that particular episode,—it all fell upon deaf ears so far as the director, Eddie Cline, was concerned.

Aw, don't be scared of an old snake," cried John Bowes in soothing tones to Marguerite, as the actress stood some twenty feet away from the crawling thing.

Finally with the assurance of all that the snake was tamed out, toothless and, had been human, probably bald, the film star proceeded with the most difficult task of her entire screen career. She "did her stuff"—with Mr. Snake.

As she watched the film shown in the projection booth, a chill swept down her back. "I don't know how I ever did it," she exclaimed several times, and now I'm not afraid of anything. Bring on your wild animals, your mice, lions, bears—even your old snakes. I'm not afraid any more!"

LOSES ACROSS-SEAS RACE WITH STORK

Henry King, who has been directing Lillian Gish in the filming of Francis Marion Crawford's "White Sister" in Italy, has lost a race with the stork.

Mr. King is hurrying home on the "Bevergallia" in the hope of being able to introduce his film, but the race has already been won by the bird, as Mrs. King will introduce "White Sister" when it reaches home this week. Mr. King left with Miss Gish for Italy last November and the picture has not been finished.

Miss Gish will return to her native land on the "Olympia."

Mr. King also lost another race, as Richard Barthelmess, who directed in "ToHave and To Hold," of several months ago, his pictures, became a father two months prior to Mr. King.
BELCHER WINS SECOND BRENNON ENGAGEMENT

Ernest Belcher, who was selected by Herbert Brennon to stage playing a ballet scene in Pela Negri's latest production, "The Spanish Dancer," has been called back to the Lasky Studios to stage a second dance number.

Belcher's fame as an originator of spectacular and artistic ballets has been a success while he was in the east and almost his first move upon arriving in Los Angeles was to begin the production for Belcher.

The success of Belcher's efforts in the initial presentation has caused Brennon to recall him to present the second ballet number, which also be a feature of the production.

Belcher students from the advanced classes will be used exclusively in the presentation.

PRESS AGENT PLEADS GUILTY TO AN ERROR

Jay Chapman, Palmer Photoplay Corporation publicity man, wishes to make himself the goat in a matter concerning the inaccuracy of a report sent out on the length of "Judgment of the Storm," the organization's first production, and to apologize to the public and to dramatic editors for an unintentional misrepresentation.

The item stated that nearly 100,000 feet of film had been "shot" for this picture, which would place it in a class with D. W. Griffith's and Von Stroheim's pictures in the matter of film actually taken. As a matter of fact, "Judgment of the Storm" was held down to less than half that, which, considering its complete length and the fact that four or five cameras shot many big outdoor scenes, approaches a record in the opposite direction.

Ince Buys Another

Thomas H. Ince has purchased screen rights for "The Barber of New Orleans," a vividly colorful stage play of a little known period of American history—the period of the Louisiana purchase. Romantic New Orleans is the scene of the play which had a big run for a number of years with William Faverham starring in it. The plot is taken from "The Code of Victor Jallot," a popular novel by Edward Childe Carpenter, who is the author of "The Cinderella Man"; "The Easy Mark"; "The Dragon Fly"; "The Pipes of Pan" and other big stage successes.

Associated Authors have just completed the filming of "Loving Lies," Thompson Buchanan's film adaptation of Peter Kene's second story, "The Harbor Bar," which features an all-star cast including Monte Blue, Evelyn Brent, Charles Gerard and Joan Lowell.

An interesting portrait study of Otto Matiesen, noted Danish character actor, as he appears in Rex Ingram's "Scaramouche." He portrays the role of Philippe de Vilmorin, a French clergy scholar who is slain in a duel with the Marquis d'Azyr (Lewis Stone) and those who are equipped to judge say that after this picture has been shown, Matiesen will find his place on the screen with the truly great artists. He has been on the stage practically all his life, and was very popular in Europe as an interpreter of Shakespeare, Ibsen and Washington Irving. He has appeared in several other pictures, and was also seen as Napoleon Bonaparte in "Vanity Fair."

WHEN HIS CAR COULD BE BOUGHT FOR 15 CENTS

Lewis Sargent, who is playing the leading juvenile role in Gladys Walton's latest starring vehicle, "A Wild Party," saw visions of his classy Ford speedster being wrecked a few days ago when the director called upon him to allow Miss Walton to operate the car for scenes in the picture. Knowing that she was used to operating a highly expensive car with a gear shift, Sargent hesitated about letting his car be used by the star for her own safety as well as the safety of the car. However, Miss Walton was confident that she could operate it successfully and to have it placed at her service. She started down the road and was to pass the camera at full speed. The first time she tried it she missed hitting another car by less than six inches. Sargent weakened. Then the company decided to film the scene. The star came down the street in the car at breakneck speed, cameras were grinding and as she passed the camera men and director the car swerved to the left and then to the right, keeling over on two wheels and then righted itself, finally coming to a stop with neither car nor driver injured. "You're a wonderful driver," said Sargent, turning to the star after the scene had been taken, "but anyone could have bought any car for fifteen cents when you started for the second trip down the road."

Wilson Adapts "Three Weeks"

Carey Wilson, associate editor of the Goldwyn studios, will adapt Elinor Glyn's best known novel, "Three Weeks," to the screen. Wilson has written many scenarios for Goldwyn features, both originals and adaptations. Madame Glyn is now at Culver City in daily conference with him to personally assist in the production of the picture. The rialto is now teeming with rumors as to who will be cast in the picture, particularly in the role of Paul.

In "Mail Man"

Josephine Adair, who recently finished one of the six featured roles in Frank Borzage's "Children of Divorce," is now playing an interesting part in "The Mail Man," which is being made at the R.C. studios under the direction of Emory Johnson. This picture stars Ralph Lewis, with whom Josephine also played in "The Third Alarm," and "In the Name of the Law." Josephine is rapidly coming to the fore as one of the most talented of our younger character artists.
CAMERAS' Warnings Plan a World Premiere Here

Where the North Begins," most recent Warner Brothers screen classic to be completed, is to have its world premiere at the State Theatre in Los Angeles July 23. This will mark the first Warner picture to have its initial showing outside of New York City and for its presentation in Los Angeles one of the biggest exploitation campaigns of the year has been promised. Showing of the picture on the West Coast is the result of a plea by Harry Rapf, its producer, who is of the opinion that the finished product should first be marketed nearby the producer's headquarters.

"Where the North Begins" was directed by Chester M. Franklin, who is now directing Norma Talmadge. It is a story nestled in the north featuring a wild wolf-dog who takes himself to a master, and in his own way portrays the red man.

The picture was made under the working titles of "Wolf Fangs" and "The Wolf's Epitaph," but is said to be the most costly dog production ever attempted and has for its star the international known police dog, Rin-Tin-Tin.

Following the Los Angeles showing, the picture is to play the Warfield Theatre in San Francisco, largest of the chain of West Coast theatres, and then into the New York houses.

A finished print of "Where the North Begins" was shipped to the Warners' home office in New York this week by Mr. Rapf.

Baggett Takes First Vacation in 3 Years

After three years of hard work without a vacation at Universal City, King Baggett is enjoying a brief outing at Catalina, taking his first lessons in piscatorial art under the able tutelage of Dustin, Farnum, Hall Roach, Zane Grey and noted disciples of Isaac Walton.

A part of the ambitious vacation program laid out by Baggett includes the landing of a tuna that will tip the scales at more than 100 pounds. Baggett, who recently concluded filming "Whose Baby Are You?" at Universal, is expected to star in the production starring Baby Peggy. Upon his return he will start cutting the thirty reels shot down to feature length.

Andrew Leigh, formerly juvenile lead in the Successful" and "Spoiled Rotten" movies, has just finished an engagement with Henry Otto in the "Temple of Venus" for Fox.

Silvia and Enid Cross Paths Again

Silvia Du Brey is added to cast for "Ponjola"

Silvia Du Brey, popular screen vamp, has been added to the cast of "Ponjola," the first National production which is being made First National, with Donald Meek as director.

Miss Du Brey, whose mission is as far as the movies are concerned—to lure unsuspecting fiancés from their wives, is to still another "vamp" part this absorbing story of the New York gold fields, but her vamping in "Ponjola" is a novelty inasmuch as she captivates the man's heart and yet succeeds in landing her fiancé back home.

The part for which Mr. Nagel was cast is the one from which Joseph Schildkrut withdrew after preliminary tests which demonstrated that he is physically unsuited to the role.

Ormond in "Magic Skin"

The part for which Mr. Nagel was cast is the one from which Joseph Schildkrut withdrew after preliminary tests which demonstrated that he is physically unsuited to the role.

Ormond in "Magic Skin"

William Ormond, the well known character actor who has just completed a role in "The Eternal Three," has been engaged to play the part of a French nobleman in "The Magic Skin," the Balzac story which Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., is producing at the Goldwyn studios under the direction of George D. Baker.

As Charmosse, Ormond plays the dashing, colorful Carmel Myers.

Jane Thomas is at present in Gloversville, New York, taking scenes for a new Arrow production, in which she plays the leading role.

Hollywood Girl is Rising to Film Fame

Although she has been in pictures for the better part of a year, Miss Morris, well-known Hollywood girl, who scored a decided hit with "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Taming of the Shrew," and "Shakespearean Ode," was featured at the Hollywood Bowl by H. Ellis Reid, in making such rapid strides as an actress that it is almost a case of "out of sight, out of mind." Miss Morris, who have been focusing their attention on her work that before another year rolls around she will be appearing as a star in her own right.

Born in Minneapolis, Miss Morris received her education at Dana Hall and Stanley Hall, private schools in that city. Her great-grand uncle was William Henry Harrison, famous Indian fighter and former United States President. Her father is Benjamin Harrison, who also was a President of the United States. And her mother is Miss Morris, formerly a member of the Minneapolis State Legislature.

"Miss Morris'" entrance into motion pictures was preceded by a career with the Suburban Stock Company, and later with the California Opera Company, appearing in many important plays produced by those companies. Her debut in Hollywood was brought about as the result of a visit to the Goldwyn studios in Culver City, where she was introduced to Clifford Robertson, the casting director, who became seriously impressed with her personality and offered her an engagement in "The Great Lover," which Frank Lloyd directed.

NAGEL WILL PLAY LEAD IN "THE MASTER OF MAN"

Conrad Nagel will play the same part in Victor Seastrom's production of "The Master of Man," according to this week's announcement from the Goldwyn studios.

Nagel, one of the most popular of the younger leading men, is identified as related to the man, judge, or deceiver, it will be his second part since being placed under long-term contract to the Goldwyn company. He has just finished the leading role in Marshall Neilan's big stock picture, "The Rendezvous," that of "The Master of Man," which is Mr. Seastrom's first American-made picture, includes Mae Busch, Patsy Ruth Miller, and Harry O'Hanlon, and C. Jennings, Evelyn Selbie, Winter Hall, Alleen Pringle and Maxine Cooper.

The part for which Mr. Nagel has cast is the one from which Joseph Schildkrut withdrew after preliminary tests which demonstrated that he is physically unsuited to the role.
Walter Miller has been engaged by RKO to play the leading male role in his forthcoming production, which will be made in Florida.

Ann Luther has just finished her contract with Fox, having played the lead in the forthcoming production, "The Governor's Lady."

Jack O'Brien, who played one of the principal parts in "Under the Red Robe," will shortly work on a new production.

Cyril Chadwick's waxed mustache is an important part of his trade. Mr. Chadwick, now doing some "heavy" work in "The Social Code," Viola Dana's newest Metro picture, which Oscar Apfel is directing, says he could not manage to appear half as villainous without it.

Lorimer Johnson, who appeared as King Pharaoh XVI of Egypt in Rex Ingram's "Scarabouche," built a motion picture studio in Johannesburg, Transvaal, South Africa during the winter of 1915 and 1916, following which he proceeded to make feature productions there.

"The Social Code," Viola Dana's newest starring picture for Metro, is one of the few in which Malcolm McGregor has appeared in which he has not been the bloody but unknown participant of from one to a dozen fast battles.

Director Oscar Apfel consulted a city directory to find 290 names to list on a card boxboard for use in "The Social Code," Viola Dana's newest Metro picture. It seemed a simple task to write offhand 290 typical names, but Mr. Apfel gave up after he had put down less than 80. "Try it yourself if you think it's easy," he challenged.

Rex Ingram will film the scenes showing the fall of the Bastille in "Scarabouche," his monster Metro production, on July 14, the day on which that historic event actually took place, according to present plans. He "shot" the first scenes of the production on March 17. The only connection the latter date has with the story is that Rex Ingram was born in Dublin and he believes in four-leaf clovers.

Viola Dana and Malcolm McGregor, principal players in "The Social Code," which Oscar Apfel is directing for Metro, believe they have hit on a sure-fire hit. On several occasions Miss Dana has mistaken Mr. McGregor's machine for her own, and vice versa, as Julius Caesar might have said. They were alligned to the dents in the right rear fenders. But the confusion is ended, for Miss Dana's fivver now has a caved-in radiation and a limping headlight as a result of meeting with a small truck.

Arthur Mallette, who has the role of a surgeon in "The Eagle's Feather," a Metro special which Edward Sloman is directing, bears a remarkable resemblance to the late John D. Marquay, famous Chicago specialist.

Thomas H. Ince is transforming the "plot" of his studios at Culver City into a bit of the old Southland preparatory to the filming of "Barbara Fritchie." The studies, which he is building in, are architecturally from the home of George Washington to Mt. Vernon, and when the sets for the new picture of Civil War days are completed, Ince will have a complete Colonial mansion at his disposal.

Lloyd Ingraham, the noted director, has signed by Associated Directors, Inc., to direct their third production; Ellmer Harris' screen version of Frank R. Adams' Cosmopolitan story, "The Love Hater." Matt Moore, of the celebrated actor-family, will essay the leading male role.

Eunett King, well known character actor, has been added to the cast for Tod Browning's production of "The Day of Faith," being produced at the Goldenwest studios.

Jere Austin has just completed "The Aflib," a special feature in which he will be starred.

Maurice (Lefty) Flynn was forced to abandon his film trip to New York as his services are much in demand by the coast producers.

Ellen Fair has just completed her third picture under the Universal banner. She is under a five-year contract.

Alma Rubens, having finished her contract with Cosmopolitan, is considering taking this fall a trip to Paris for some new fall gowns.

Following his remarkable performance in "Success" and "Loyal Lives," Brandon Tynan has been engaged by Murray W. S. Garst for a series of special features.

Marie R. Burke, who made a sensation in "The Heart Raiders," has received an offer from England to play the part of a Grand Duchess in a big special production. Miss Burke will shortly announce her future plans.

Jane Novak has portrayed a youngManaging Director for the third time in succession in her latest starring vehicle, "The Lullaby." She has just become a new mother in "The-Dama," also in "Divorce." Fred Eshelman portrays the role of her father.

Fred Eshelman has been selected by Chester Bennett to play one of the principal roles in that of the police judge, in "The Lullaby," starring Jane Novak.

Here's a new one. Ralph Lewis' collie dog got a bad case of Klieg eyes while working with his master on the set of "The Mailman," and work on the picture was held up two days while the Thespius canine was recovering from the inflamed eyes.

Finis Fox has selected Harry Luskkinson to play the important role of the police inspector in his forthcoming Metro production, "Bag and Baggage," now being produced at the Hollywood Studios, Inc. and starring Gloria Grey, heralded as Finis Fox's latest film find.

Fred Wesley is playing the role of Chief of Police in Finis Fox's picture, "Bag and Baggage," now being produced at the Hollywood Studios, Inc. and supporting Gloria Grey.

Al J. St. John, Fox stellar comedian, starts work on a new comedy this week, for which he has chartered the "Flivver," the Chauffeur's vacationing in the wilds of Central California. Ben Stoloff will assist in the direction.

"Till" Beaumaine, "the boy director," started this week on his third Wesley beauty special production for Warner Brothers. Beaumaine's "Perfid and Num" is now being released by First National.

Oscar Apfel is finishing "The Social Code," starring Viola Dana, for Metro. The production, an adaptation of Rilie Weekman's "To Whom It May Concern" is Apfel's first coast production since his return from Europe.

Allen Holubal will soon begin actual filming of his initial picture for Metro. He is to make a series of specials to be known as Allen Holubal Productions for Metro release.

Cory Phillips is enjoying a long-needed vacation at her home in the Hollywood foothills. The star's plans for the future will be announced in the near future, it is said.

Lois Scott, has just finished in "One Dark Knight," at the Grand Studio, starring Jack Oakley, and has been cast in an African picture featuring Snowy Baker, a Philadelphia daretaker. The production will leave this week for location—no, not Africa, Chatsworth.

Little Elizabeth Ann Keeve has scored another bull-eye in the role of the flower girl in the Chistie Comedy, "Morning Blues," directed by H. Beaumine, which has just been finished.

Georgie Hickman, who just finished with "Present Arms," a Century Studio featuring Rudolph Messinger and directed by Al Herman, has been cast in the new Constance Talmadge vehi- cle, at the United, and is leaving for location at Truckee. Figuring in Hickman's present and adding a few years to his present sixteen gives an answer which will make the other youngsters look well to their laurels.

Universal is looking forward to Vivien Leigh's latest starring vehicle, "A Lady of Quality," now in its final stages of production, as one of the bigest successes in their output for the 1923-24 season, with the acquisition, of course, of The Hunchback of Notre Dame." A strong cast is appearing in support of Miss Vali, among whom are Osgood, Alcoff, Michel's, and a sparkling cast of Frenchmen. A first-rate old film starlet, and Peggy Cartwright, eight-year-old actor, who are the stars of the newer leading youngsters in the film field.

Reggie Morelli, having completed his contract for Universal in the column in "The Life of Abraham Lincoln," which is being pro- duced by the Rockett Film Company, has been engaged by Cecil B. de Mille to play an important part in his current production of "The Ten Commandments." Meanwhile, he is negotiating with a group of Italian bankers in Los Angeles who are planning to shortly launch a producing company and present him as their featured player.

Following the completion of his current production, "Good Men and Bad," starring Bette Davis, the Theatrical Re- view will present his star in a special feature picture before starting construction of the new studio of which he has talked with him. Williams is under contract with Seeling for the next several years and it is possible that he will give him every possible chance to become one of the most popular stars of western pictures.
WHEREIN A LITTLE GIRL

Ten years ago, a little girl pupil at Urusline Academy, New ork, used to point to Los Angeles on the school map and tell her fellow pupils that some day she would go to the city and be a famous movie star.

Perhaps in the length and breath of these United States there have been ten girls who have done the same thing. Some of them, no doubt, have gone to the "city of picture" but few of them have realized the extent of their desires—that is, to become a star.

Ruth Clifford, however, was one of the exceptions.

This talented young player, who has just been engaged to play a prominent role in "Pon-jola," which Sam E. Rock is producing for First National, got her first acting job acting while still a pupil at Urusline

Academy.

Rochelson studios were quite close to the school. One day a casting director came to the school and asked for permission of the school to write letters to some of the scholars in a religious play. Ruth was one of the children who was picked for a part—the part of an angel.

That was the beginning of her movie career. A few years later she was asked to play the role of a woman in a picture like the rest of them she had to go through the course of all potential stars, that is playing atmospheric and "bit" parts.

Ten years she played small parts in Universal pictures and then won stardom in "The Kennedy," to be released through

"O'Mine," and other features produced by that company.

She played featured roles in "The Desert Song," "Tae uploads,

"The Battle of Berlin," and "Polly Put the Kettle On" and then going to

New York she was featured in serial "The Invisible Ray," which was produced by the Frohman Company.

In Porto Rico she was starred in a Ralph Ince production "Tropical Love," and since returning to Los Angeles, a year ago, she has played star and leading roles in nine pictures.

Among the most important ones she has done are "Dangerous Adams," "John M. Stahl—First National picture, "The Face on the Barroom Mirror," and "Poet and "King," Fox specials; "Daughters of the Rich," a Schulberg production and "Mothers-in-law," and

"The Birders," two pictures not yet released.

Her latest role before playing the part of Gay Liscion in "Ponjola" was as "Ann Rat-ledge" Abraham Lincoln's first sweetheart in a picture now in production for "The Dramatic Life of Abraham Lincoln."

THIS COMPOSITE PICTURE

TO RULE SCREEN CHOICE

Fifty noted physicians and surgeons from all parts of the United States visited the Goldwyn studios, and were photodographed individually, on a uniform scale, from which a competitor was selected and used as a guide for selection of "city doctors" types from now on.

The visit grew out of a conversation between George M.

Sheffield, producer, with several members of the American Procto-logy Association, who desire to photograph pictures which the doctors will be called on to sign.

In Los Angeles, in which the surgeons criticized the way their profession had been represented on the screen. Mr. Nellans is engaged on a production in which a surgeon is the leading chara-cet.

The medical men and their wives were greeted by Hobart

Bosworth, Claire Windsor, Raymond Hatton, and Miss Love, and other members of Mr. Nellans' cast, and photographed in motage pictures while doing various scenes with the professional actors and actresses, under the direction of Mr. Nellans.

DOUG, JR. PREPARING

Preparations on the story to serve as the initial starring related to Douglas Fairbanks Jr.,

who recently arrived in California to make his debut before the camera. The producers are said to have handled the conclusion at Paramount's West Coast studios, Joseph Henabery will direct the thirteen-year-old star as soon as the scenario is ready.

COMEDIANNE GETS CONTRACT WITH METRO

Gale Henry, one of the screen's best known comediennes, has been signed by Metro to play the part of "Sally," the housekeeper, in "Held to Answer," which is being directed by Harold Shaw with an all-star cast.

This contract was brought about largely though the exclusive performance which Miss

Henry has given in a number of Metro productions, one of which is "Quincy Adams Sawyer," a picture that brought the comedienne the unanimous praise of playphot critics.

Hons Henry is the oldest and yet she is the youngest actress of her type in pictures. She made her debut in pictures thirteen years ago when she was only 17 years old, and has since never engaged in any other profession in the United States. She was starred by Universal in the old

Joker comedies and when she reached the pinnacle of popularity she decided to produce her own pictures. The next three years were given over to work on the building of her own company, and during this time she produced a total of 135

two reel comedies. The record that has never since been beaten in the comedy field.

She then cast her services with producers of feature length pictures.

FILM DOGS IN BATTLE

ROYAL ON STUDIO SET

Whether it was because of jealousy or just a family quarrel, "Props," the Great Dane owned by the Warner Brothers studio, has started a battle royal on one of the company's stages in Hollywood a few days ago, which as far as excitement is concerned, puts all battles in the fistic arenas in the shade.

"Buddy," who is a lightweight, and "Props," a welterweight, had apparently always been on the best of terms until the other day when it is thought "The Prop" imagined "Buddy" was trying to steal his popularity with the company and decided to take him down a peg.

For the first few rounds "Buddy" made to hold his own, but when "Props" delivered a few fierce uppercuts,

"Buddy" seemed to be on the point of falling, but he was finally forced to take the count. "Buddy" suffered a bad cut on his neck and "Props" was given a nursingцион, but both have now recovered and, having seen the folly of their remarks, are now better friends than ever.

WAGING LEGAL WAR OVER THEIR NAMES

What's in a name? A great deal according to two screen beauties who are taking the matter of their movies names to the courts. And strangely converse are the opinions of these two actresses as to what kind of an appellation is the best for a starlet who is trying to win fame in the flicker world.

Genevieve Berté, screen leading lady who was denied the court permission to change her name to Peggy O'By, stating that this name will be more advantageous to her in her film work.

Last week Derelys Perdue announced that she has sued against the Film Booking Offices alleging that they wanted her to change her name to Ann Perdue, and that this would do damage to her screen prestige because of its plainness.

Miss Berté's dispute with Miss Perdue in the matter of plain names and gives forth the opinion that any appellation is something to be desired by a motion picture aspirant.

"The very reason I am asking for permission to change my name from Genevieve Berté to Peggy O'By is, because I think my own name too fancy, while the latter is so simple that once it is heard it will easily be remembered.

Most of our leading screen favorites have plain names and if anything this has helped them in their climb to the top. The simpler the name the better.

The former Miss Berté is already using the name Peggy O'By in her motion picture work and besides utilizing it in "The Fighting Skipper," a serial which she has just completed, has also been featured by this name. "O'By the Girl!" "They're Off!" and "Thundering Hoots!" is it to establish a legal right to the name that she has applied to the court.

Melford to Start Production work on "The Light That Failed," the George Melford production for Paramount of Kipling's famous novel, will start within a few days with a location trip to Catalina Island. A particularly notable cast has been assembled by the producer for this picture. F. M. gimmicks which has been adapted by the director and Ralph Block has been entrusted with the production editor's duties on this Paramount Picture.

Irving Cummings, now in New York, is seriously considering filming Jane Porter's "Thadeus of Warsaw" as a mighty spectacle drama upon his return to Hollywood shortly.

ANNA Q. GETS $5,900 FOR ONE HAIRCUT

If you were a beautiful young woman.
If your wealth of curly blonde hair was the envy of every feminine eye.
And if you were called upon to name a price to have your hair cut off.
How much would you demand?

Anna Q. Nilsen, famous motion picture actress, asked $59,900.

And that price was paid to fair Anna by Sam E. Rokk, producer of "Ponjola," a First National Picture.

In this picturization of Cynthia Stockley's famous story of South African life, Miss Nilsen enacts the role of a young woman who masquerades as a man. The story was one that she could convincingly portray the part.

La Rocque Settled

For some years to come Rod La Rocque, popular young screen comedian, which will be distributed exclusively in Paramount Pictures. Cecil B. de Mille announced recently that he had signed the director to an exclusive contract with the Paramount organization to appear in De Mille productions. La Rocque is at present one of the featured members of the cast of the Cecil B. de Mille productions such as "Circumstantial Commandments" by Jennie Macpherson, in which Theodore Roberts, Leatrice Joy, Richard Dix, Nita Naldi, Charles de Roché, Estelle Taylor, Julia Faye, James Neill and Edythe Chapman are also featured.

Clara to Visit Here

Clara Beranger, scenario writer for William de Mille's production for Paramount, will leave New York City about July 22nd to make an semi-annual visit to Los Angeles and Paramount West Coast Studio. She will be in session with the director on the cutting and editing of "Spring Magic," the Edward Knoblock success "The Faun," which she adapted, featuring Agnes Ayres and Jack Holt, supported by Charles de Roché, Robert Agnew and Mary Astor. Conferences will also be held regarding the next William de Mille production following "Spring Magic."

Al Assisting Rockett

Al Davis, veteran assistant director, is assisting Phil Rosen in the direction of "The Life of Abraham Lincoln," which is being made at the Mayer studios by the Rockett Film Company. Davis is an assistant from the old Griffith film school and has assisted in the direction of many of the screen's most successful pictures.

King Baggott is busily engaged in editing his most recent serial production, "Whose Baby Are You?" starring Baby Peggy.

Dorothy Chase as she appears in Rex Ingram's "Scaramouch." Miss Chase was formerly a pub- licity writer and since changing her profession to that of acting a few months ago, she has made unusual headway, showing brill- iance in her performances that has brought her much recognition from pro- ducers.

Mickey and Venus

Mickey McElhan is finishing his part in "The Temple of Venus" with a bang, and has been making the best of his screen work in this picture that is being filmed under Henry Otto's direction. The little starlet is training for the swimming test to be held in Los Angeles soon, and between his studio work and his appearances at the aquatic tank is quite a busy young man. He plays one of the important roles in Chauvin's "Daytime Wives," which is scheduled for early release, and all in all it seems that he is destined for a steady stream of engagements for many months to come, judging from the popularity he has attained with the directors and producers.

Finishes "Love Trap"

Sidney Franklin, father of Jewish characterization, has just finished another of those soul-stirring parts in which he will win his "The Love Trap," featuring The Washburns. So pleased was Oliver Morose with Franklin's splendid portrayal of Solomon Levy in "Abie's Irish Rose" in which vehicle he starred for 13 weeks at the Morosco Theatre, he was taken to San Francisco to open the play there.

Meighan Due Here

Thomas Meighan is expected to arrive at Paramount's West Coast studios within the next fortnight to begin work on "George Ade's story, tentatively titled "All Must Marry," Alfred E. Green, who will produce this Paramount Picture, is already on the West Coast. There as a position for George Ade will accompany the star to Califor- nia to personally follow the pro- duction work on this story.

Ussia Jensen is winding up her work in "The Mage Again," at Goldwyn, under George D. Baker. The popular featured player eagerly anticipates a vacation at its conclusion in the near future.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BRWILL STUDIO.</td>
<td>5821 Santa Monica Blv.</td>
<td>Ashton Dearholt, Pro. Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 3130</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ed Lyons Productions (Arrow release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eddie Lyons</td>
<td>Eddie Lyons</td>
<td>McCull</td>
<td>Cook</td>
<td>Dilts</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eugene De Rue</td>
<td>Bobby Dunn</td>
<td>McCull</td>
<td>Turner</td>
<td>N. Blair</td>
<td>&quot;The Love Trap&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilson Productions (Federated release)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Other Men's Laughters&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J. Ince</td>
<td>The Washburns</td>
<td>Linden</td>
<td>Steve</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BENTWOOD STUDIO.</td>
<td>4811 Fountain Ave.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>598-14b</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SonX STUDIO.</td>
<td>1745-51 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td>Kenneth Bishop, General Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Wilshire 4275</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>STER KEATON STUDIO.</td>
<td>1025 Lillian Way.</td>
<td>Eddie Cline, Casting</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 2814</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anger Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cntury Comedies (Universal release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Al Herman</td>
<td>Buddy Messinger</td>
<td>Wm. Hyer</td>
<td>Herman</td>
<td>&quot;Lead Pipe Cinch&quot;</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CAPLIN STUDIO.</td>
<td>Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>1416 La Brea Ave.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 4076</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kent Film Company. (United Artists release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VOICE STUDIO.</td>
<td>6044 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>439-764</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H. Beaudine</td>
<td>Neal Burns</td>
<td>H. Breummond</td>
<td>Ernie Leavelle</td>
<td>Conklin</td>
<td>2-Reel Comedy</td>
<td>3rd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FX STUDIO.</td>
<td>Arthur Forde, Casting.</td>
<td>1401 N. Western Ave.</td>
<td>Fred Kley, Studio Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 3000</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H. S. Fox</td>
<td>John Gilbert</td>
<td>Wm. Needham</td>
<td>H. Houck</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Robert J.</td>
<td>John Gilbert</td>
<td>Wm. Needham</td>
<td>H. Houck</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LEE ARTS STUDIOS.</td>
<td>4500 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F. K. Fox</td>
<td>Bill Keaton</td>
<td>Jesse Hays</td>
<td>H. Breummond</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F. K. Fox</td>
<td>Bill Keaton</td>
<td>Jesse Hays</td>
<td>H. Breummond</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OLSEN WEST STUDIO.</td>
<td>4011 Lankershim Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Lankershim 132-J</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H. E. Fox</td>
<td>Bill Keaton</td>
<td>Jesse Hays</td>
<td>H. Breummond</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OLDSMITH STUDIO.</td>
<td>1426 Beechwood Dr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release).</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jack Nelson</td>
<td>Snowy Baker</td>
<td>Roger Lyon</td>
<td>Harry Tenbrook</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Dark Faces&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OLDSWYN STUDIO.</td>
<td>R. B. McIntyre, Casting.</td>
<td>Culver City.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>761711</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Von Stroheim</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Meech</td>
<td>Edie Bowers</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStrohen &quot;Greed&quot;</td>
<td>17th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Charles Brabon</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Meech</td>
<td>Edie Bowers</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStrohen &quot;Greed&quot;</td>
<td>17th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tom Browning</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Wm. Sinden</td>
<td>Edie Bowers</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStrohen &quot;Greed&quot;</td>
<td>17th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tod Browning</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Meech</td>
<td>Edie Bowers</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStrohen &quot;Greed&quot;</td>
<td>17th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H. West</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Meech</td>
<td>Edie Bowers</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStrohen &quot;Greed&quot;</td>
<td>17th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bud Baker</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Meech</td>
<td>Edie Bowers</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStrohen &quot;Greed&quot;</td>
<td>17th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Venter Seastrem</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Meech</td>
<td>Edie Bowers</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStrohen &quot;Greed&quot;</td>
<td>17th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Emmett Flynn</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>John Meech</td>
<td>Edie Bowers</td>
<td>Mathis-VonStrohen &quot;Greed&quot;</td>
<td>17th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Camptonian Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roland West</td>
<td>Oliver Marsh</td>
<td>Roy H. Rose</td>
<td>Paul Schaefer</td>
<td>&quot;The Unknown Purple&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RAND STUDIO.</td>
<td>1438 Gower St.</td>
<td>Bill Verschelser, General Manager.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 162</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>S. A. Brown</td>
<td>Montage Banks</td>
<td>Bill Williams</td>
<td>H. Williams</td>
<td>&quot;Hot Sands&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reggie Morris</td>
<td>Joe Rock</td>
<td>Jerry Ash</td>
<td>Murray-Logwood</td>
<td>&quot;Soap Nurse&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TheESTER PICTURES CORPORATION</td>
<td>Jean Burt Calvert, Casting.</td>
<td>Culver City, Calif.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Director</td>
<td>Star</td>
<td>Cameraman</td>
<td>Asst. Director</td>
<td>Scenarist</td>
<td>Type</td>
<td>Progress</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---------</td>
<td>------</td>
<td>----------</td>
<td>----------------</td>
<td>----------</td>
<td>------</td>
<td>----------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS.</td>
<td>6642 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>J. Jasper, Mgr.</td>
<td>Holly 14</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr.</td>
<td>Bob Horner Productions (Independent release)</td>
<td>1442 Beachwood Drive.</td>
<td>Monte West, Studio Mgr.</td>
<td>4387</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>World Educational Films.</td>
<td>Chas. R. Seeling Productions. (Wyvern release)</td>
<td>1442 Beachwood Drive.</td>
<td>&quot;Mighty Limited&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Flame of the Sahara&quot;</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chas. R. Seeling Productions.</td>
<td>Raoul Walsh Productions.</td>
<td>1442 Beachwood Drive.</td>
<td>&quot;The Forty Niner&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Bad Men and Good&quot; 1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hercules Film Productions, Inc.</td>
<td>P. Andrews, Mgr.</td>
<td>1442 Beachwood Drive.</td>
<td>&quot;Mysterious Gooses&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;Fighting Blood&quot; 1st Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INCE STUDIO.</td>
<td>Horace Williams, Casting.</td>
<td>Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>Culver City 761</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trimble-Murfin Productions.</td>
<td>&quot;Spanish Dancer&quot; 5th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>METRO STUDIO.</td>
<td>Romaine and Cahuenga Ave.</td>
<td>Harry Kerr, Casting.</td>
<td>Holly 44</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oscar Apfel</td>
<td>Harold Shaw</td>
<td>&quot;The Virginian&quot; 5th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rex Ingram Productions.</td>
<td>(Metro release).</td>
<td>&quot;Long Must Marry&quot;</td>
<td>&quot;My Time&quot; 2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc.</td>
<td>E. T. Schaefer and Jackie Coogan</td>
<td>&quot;The Rescue&quot; 10th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NEVA GERBER PRODUCTIONS.</td>
<td>6735 Holly Blvd.</td>
<td>&quot;Santa Fe Trail&quot; 44th Episode</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NATIONAL STUDIO.</td>
<td>1116 Lodi St.</td>
<td>Holly 44</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor M. P. Corp.</td>
<td>C. A. Willat, Mgr.</td>
<td>J. A. Fall</td>
<td>Ray Rennahan, G. W. Cave</td>
<td>Color Photography Schedule</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS.</td>
<td>Individual Casting.</td>
<td>7100 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>Holly 79</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PRINCIPAL PICTURE CORP.</td>
<td>7250 Santa Monica.</td>
<td>&quot;The Thief of Bagdad&quot; Preparing</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R‐C STUDIO.</td>
<td>Melrose and Gower.</td>
<td>780 Gower St.</td>
<td>Holly 77</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Individual Productions.</td>
<td>(Film Booking Offices).</td>
<td>&quot;When A Man's a Man&quot; 5th Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chester Bennett Productions.</td>
<td>&quot;The New Mall Man&quot; 2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>JEAN PILEY STUDIO.</td>
<td>E. G. Walker, Mgr.</td>
<td>6701 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>579</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ROACH STUDIO.</td>
<td>Culver City.</td>
<td>Warren Doane, Mgr.</td>
<td>Schedule 7617</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hal Roach Comedies (Pathé release).</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot; Schedule</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Schedule 7617</td>
<td>&quot;What Should A Girl Do&quot; Schedule</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot;Red Comedy&quot; Schedule</td>
<td>&quot;The Man Who Wanted To Be&quot; Schedule</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
All Legal Matters
Attorney and Counselor at Law

JACK P. LEONARD
340 Douglas Bldg. Consultation Free Los Angeles, Calif. Telephone 659-42

MAKE-UP POWDERS
Pure Rice Base
All shades made to order at
YE RUB SHOPPE
621 West 8th St., Los Angeles, Calif. Phone Metropolitan 1366

Hugh Hofman
Scenario and Production Supervisor
Gladys Walton unit, Universal.
Current production, “The Wild Party” Herbert Blache, Directing Recent Releases, “A Dangerous Game,” “The Town Scandal,” “Sawdust”

Minor Blythe
Attorney-at-Law
Suite 620 Pacific Finance Bldg.
Los Angeles
Telephone 134-88

WE MOVE THE MOVIES
and Shine
on Service
Hollywood 277-SAMUEL C. SHINE:8460 San Marino

Reproductions
Publicity
Silt Finishing Photography
LITTLE
Commercial Photographer
Phone 437902
5874 Hollywood Blvd. Corner Bronson

Anoimated Cartoons—Original Title Ideas—Clay Animation—Miniture Sets and Animated Figures
Cinema Arts Studio
ELMER H. YOUNG, Mgr.
612 Lischer Bldg. Phone 644-42

“We save your sol, and heal you too”
FRANK
The Shoe Doctor
Holly 1732
6666 Hollywood Blvd.

LOCATION LUNCHES
Holly 7660

SUNSET TAXI
Touring Cars $2 per Hour. Limousines $2.50 per Hour
Special Rates on Studio Trips and Touring
578-280 578-307 575-52

THE DIGEST OF THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY

MAINTAINING SUPREMACY AS HOLLYWOOD’S FOREMOST AMUSEMENT CENTER THROUGH THE CONSISTENT EXCELLENCE OF DIVERSIFIED PROGRAMS.
A GOOD NIGHT EVERY FRIDAY NIGHT. THE GATHERING PLACE FOR FILM FOLK. PHONE HOLLY
100 NOW FOR YOUR RESERVATION.

AMERICAN LEGION STADIUM
Hollywood at El Centro
Phone Holly 100 for Reservations

FROM YOU TO YOU
(Continued from Page 8)

City. In “The Dangerous Little Demon” and other Universal pictures Ellis gave exceptional performances and is generally rated as a dependable player.

“The Wild Party,” an original story written especially for Miss Walton by Marion Orth, is being directed by Herbert Blache, with Jack Sullivan assisting him. Freeman Wood, Lewis Sargeant, Esther Ralston and Dorothy Valarga.

Others in the “Upside Down” cast are Claire Anderson, Marzaret Campbell, William Irving, Frank Farrington and Herbert Porter.

Some aerial views of Universal City, producing center of the Universal Pictures corporation and other companies, recently taken from a plane piloted by Al Wilson, reveal the colorful studio city as a kaleidoscope of Arabian Nights wonders spreading in wild profusion over six hundred acres of varied land. The views were taken by John Bunny of the Universal art studio department and have a decided “cultural” aspect. Giant sets twisting in grotesque shapes and outline make the pictures interesting and give one a new “slant” on the Los-annu film city.

Filming of “Whose Baby Are You?” Baby Peggy’s first Universal-Jewel production, has been completed at Universal City.

The tiny screen actress has been lifted from the ranks of “comedy kiddies” and has been made a featured star of big production. Her next Universal feature will be “Editha’s Burglar.”

The picture just completed was written

Adeline M. Alvord
Books Plays
Motion Picture Enterprises
211 HOLLYWOOD SECURITY BUILDING
Telephone Hollywood 8092

COLBURN’S TAXIDERMY STUDIO
1033-1037 Broadway Place
FUR RUGS  FUR ROBES  MOUNTINGS of All Descriptions—Exceptionally Complete Facilities for Fur Storage and Renovating

CAMERAS

HF. WALL, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Post Graduate Chicago and New York
Hollywood 100-51 5299 (700 Hollywood Blvd.

SUE BRUNO
For Your Casting Director Photos
6412 Hollywood Boulevard
PHONE HOLLY 3821

CAMERA!
WANT ADS

FOR RENT—Specially built super-speed camera up to 216 pictures per second. Call Hol.
2785 in business hours or A. Scholtz 50-20

FOR SALE—A series of one-reel comedies
This should interest entertainers. Drexel 3

FOR SALE—Four weeks Hawaiian trave and positive, written agreement to re lease any time non-theatrically. Wonder material. Just the thing for your stock library. Will sell entire right to negative and positive for $800 each. Need immediate
Phone 324-276.

Well-known screen character actor who is returning desires to dispose of complete character wardrobe. Will sell at tremendous sacrifice in order to make quick sale. Here is an un usual opportunity for some live-wire character man to secure a fine outfit at very low cost.
For further information as to price, descrip tion, etc. Apply immediately to BURTON S.
LAw., e.o. Canyon Pharmacy, Santa Mon, Canyon, Santa Monica, Calif.; telephone San Monica 232-81.

FOR RENT—High-grade silent outfits, $8.00 or week. Little—The Big Photographer, 857
SCREEN SERVICE
(formerly The Service Bureau)
1036 South Hill
Phone 821-071

Walter Frederick Seely
Shadowgraph Photography
1448 North Wilcox
(One half block west of Cahuenga at Sunset)

ALBERT C. SMITH
Official Cinematographer for
So. Calif. Edison Co. in construction the largest water power projects on the West Coast at Big Creek, California

hardee kirkland
hollywood
6298

YOUR PHONOGRAPH will reproduce in soft Mellow Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a
Deflexograph
fits any Phonograph or Victrola
Using Changeable Needles
Plays after hours—will not disturb. Deflexograph attaches to needle holder. Filters sound oscillations, prevents scratch and surface noises enter-ec.

$1.00
 Nickle Plate $1.50
Gold Plate $1.50
VANTONE CO., Dept. 416
220 W. 42nd St.
New York, N. Y.

AM ERA!

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"

Coy Watson, Jr.
Age 10. Wilshire 3616

No Luck. You Never Know.
The Night of the Brontosaurus.
Featured in Campbell
Comedies

Overweight? Underweight?
Weigh what you want to! Overweight? Underweight? Hard to maintain your normal weight? Something absolutely new! No drugs! No starvation! No strenuous exercises. Be well and weigh what you should. Endorsed by physicians. Bring your diet problems to "THE DIET SHOP:
MRS. A. METZNER
Consultant
5621 Hollywood Boulevard

Publicity Engineer

Tamar Lane Holly 737

Wonderful Bargains in Exclusive Clothes, Shoes, Hats for every occasion. These garments worn by Screen Stars and Society
Matrons. A trial will convince. Call anytime.

Also disposing of complete wardrobes on a commission basis. Sell before you buy or sell

Mrs. James J. Craig
Apartment Shop
Broadway 1258 1206½ Sunset Blvd.

THE HILLVIEW GRILL
Hillview Apartments Bldg.
Hollywood at Hudson

Holly 7930 Holly 6626

MECHANIC'S DINNER
11:30 to 2
4:30 to 8

Public Spiritualistic
Meetings
every Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock
Readings daily at 1428 Tamarind Ave., Hollywood, Calif.
Public Welcome

Selected Antiques
Turton's Antique Shop
Mickey McBan

That publicity is a vital factor in motion picture progress is evidenced in the rapid strides Mickey McBan has made within the past few months. This four-year old player is champion swimmer over all comers in his class on the Pacific Coast, and the world's youngest member of the Amateur Athletic Union. He has appeared in thirty-nine GOOD pictures and works continuously. He has real publicity value and that he may be properly publicized I am devoting my time and efforts to him exclusively insofar as boy actors are concerned. I know Mickey McBan will make good.

Fred W. Fox
Motion Picture News and Advertising Service
6318 Hollywood Blvd.
Hollywood, California

Hellman Bank is Now in Hollywood
Temporary location 6621 Hollywood Blvd.
Permanent home, Hollywood Blvd. and Cherokee

Rainbow Valley with RAINBOW VALLEY CLUB
All club privileges with a large cabin site for $198, $298, $398, $498, $10, $15, $20, $25 DOWN and $10.00 per month.

From Glendale—through Montrose, along Michigan Ave., to Tujunga, Sunland, RAINBOW VALLEY.
For further information call or write office of
RAINBOW VALLEY
100 East Colorado St.
Phone Glendale 1702

BRINGS POPULARITY TO BEACH RESORT

In the usual underground and mysterious manner that so many pieces of news gather and travel, word not around that Balboa Beach was being patronized daily by a group of beautiful young ladies in the most attractive bathing attire ever seen in those parts. This rumor resulted in fishing trips and motor parties being postponed in favor of beach parties, much to the displeasure of Elmer Del Lord, the Mack Sennett director on location at the well known resort.

Del Lord claims the crowd of visitors have become so great that it is difficult to get the best work out of his troops of bathing beauties, who have become the hit of the town. These girls under the direction of the Sennett director have been on location for two weeks, shooting exteriors for the new water comedy for Pathé release.

Attracted by the natural beauty and charm of the group of Mack Sennett mermaids who have been on location at Balboa Beach for the past week, shooting scenes for a forthcoming water comedy for Pathé release, Jack Ward, factory representative and coast manager for the Miller Rubber Company in Akron, Ohio, suggested that he be permitted to equip the troops with bathing belts, hats and caps, also shoes. Mr. Ward claims they are the prettiest girls he ever saw and far more attractive than those he could ever expect to engage as models for the display of his rubber goods.

Such expression and commercial offer is but another recommendation for the ability of the Com-edy King to choose from the thousands of aspirants, those young ladies whose beauty appeals.

Filming of "Men in the Raw," Jack Hoxie's latest starring vehicle for Universal, has been completed, and Jack's cowboys are now decorating the top rail of a corral fence at Universal City, waiting for his next production.

The Hoxie picture is a screen version of the popular novel of the Montana cattle country by W. Bert Foster. It was directed by George E. Marshall, who directed Hoxie in his two previous western dramas for Universal, "Tom Quickshot of the Rio Grande" and "Where is this West?"
Marguerite La Mont
Leads Heavies Characters
NOW AT LIBERTY
Vermont 5780
Fan Photos

ARE THE BEST MEDIUM OF PUBLICITY THERE IS. THE QUALITY OF PHOTOGRAPHS USED FOR THIS PURPOSE IS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE TO GAIN THE DESIRED RESULTS.

We furnish original photographs in large quantities for the same price generally asked for reproductions.

No charge is made for the sitting for fan pictures and we finish two negatives with each one thousand prints.

We use only the best grade of paper stock in order to maintain the high quality of our work.

STOP IN AND SEE OUR SAMPLES

Evans Studio

Lyman A. Pollard
6039 Hollywood Blvd.

Ruth A. Dowdall
Holly 2560
GLADYS WALTON, STAR OF "SAWDUST"
NOW AT PANTAGES
Character Leads

in every business. An establishment that is rendering a service of real character will invariably progress. Our big shop in HOLLYWOOD is more than an antique salesroom; it is headquarters for conscientious, up-to-the-minute producers and directors seeking co-operation on problems pertaining to the artistic decoration of their sets. We have a complete stock of antiques including bric-a-brac, oil paintings, furniture, bronzes, statues, armor and works of art. We buy, sell, rent and exchange.

Foster's Antique Shop

4534 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 598-030

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"
In Plain Editorial Words

Roscoe (Patty) Arbuckle is making a big hit as a vaudeville star back east. It looks like a hit which might make possible his hitting on the screen once more. He is certainly demonstrating that the general public likes him about as much as ever.

The motion picture exposition is proving more successful than most people anticipated. There is no doubt but what it will benefit the industry considerably. But, if there is another similar affair given next year, it is certain it can be made more beneficial by simply profiting by what has been learned in this first attempt.

Hollywood again has its symphony under the stars. Emil Oberhoffer opened its summer season in the Bowl most auspiciously and it seems a foregone conclusion the film colony is going to support the better music he offers most generously. It is the hope of all the music-makers who dote on defaming the local film industry could see how picture people flock to the Bowl to hear the symphony concerts.

Freedom from the sieve of censorship is what the modern motion picture needs most. It is to be hoped some method can be discovered for making the public of the whole country to the menace and farce of most censorship. Public clamor is often very effective in bringing justice and the screen of today does need justice.

When President Harding visits Los Angeles next month and proceeds to officially inspect local motion picture studios, it would be a fine idea, to impress upon him just how dependent this vast industry is upon helpful treatment from the federal government. Prior to the World War the screen got little recognition from official Washington and even now there is being overlooked in many ways.

There is much to be grateful for in the present situation as it obtains among motion picture exhibitors. Most of them are showing aptitude in the matter of learning on a sure scientific basis just about what their picture-going patrons want and in turn they are letting the producers know with the result that features are being made more and more to order. This is the one real way to avoid making films which fail because they do not measure up with popular demands and it is to be hoped it will become the universal custom for the creators of the film fare to thus work along such safe lines.

According to recent numbers of the trade papers, all of the releasing concerns are better supplied with new pictures than at any time since the cessation of the World War; and those who have been fortunate enough to see pre-views of many of them agree its features agree the quality is away above the average. In fact, there is every indication of the better-pictures movement having its greatest momentum right among the majority of the producers, although there are a few picture-makers seemingly with more ability as blunder-makers. In time the process of natural elimination will remedy all situations this latter class cause.

So once again, there is no occasion for pessimism.

It begins to look as if the real start in the making of honest-to-goodness super-production is just being made. "Tis whispered by those with inside information that Douglas Fairbanks' "The Thief of Bagdad" will actually dwarf "Robin Hood" in all comparisons, including the size of the production. Meanwhile Rex Ingram is completing "Scaramouch," which will prove one of the biggest pictures ever exhibited. Then Jackie Coogan is also completing one of the record-breakers in point of extraordinary qualities and Eric Von Stroheim's "Greed" is bound to be so big as to beggar description. Besides, it is rumored Mary Pickford is seriously considering the making of at least one film which will rival any of them and Charlie Chaplin seems to be well along with plans to star himself in one of those awe-inspiring masterpieces of cinema extravaganza. It is logical to expect much in the way of truly big photoplays from this time on and don't be surprised if someone at present unknown steps forward with still another one.

If there ever was a time when motion pictures producers in general should concentrate on filming original stories written expressly for the screen and meeting all the requirements the average best-seller misses so pathetically, that time is right now—this minute, and, for all the minutes of the next year. There are a thousand good reasons for this, but it certainly suffices to mention only one of them, to wit: the public demands it! This thing of being unable to recognize the stories on the screen as having anything to do with the published book has long since started to pall on audiences. And yet it is unavoidable to inject "picture values" into the scenario even though it does alter the whole idea of the work from which the adaptation was made. Many of the books purchased at fancy prices do not contain enough picture material to make two reels of action film. It is being proven that the mere use of a famous title is not worth all producers pay for it. There is much delusion about exploitation values of a popular title alone. Meanwhile every original from the brain of the competent writer who knows and understands the scope and limitations of the camera is invariably replete with picture "stuff" only and consequently better cinema art results from them. It is safe to conjecture that if the fans were given a chance to vote on this question, the original story built for photoplay purposes exclusively would win by a tremendous majority. Those producers who still doubt this might do well to try taking a vote on it. It would pay to spend many dollars on this, ascertaining the facts in a vital proposition. It might avert the decline so inevitable if no real enduring screen literature is not created soon.
SOME CURRENT PICTURE HIGH-LIGHTS

A unique and speedy mixture of American pep and English dignity, with Jack Holt as the hero and Sigrid Holmquist, the beautiful Swedish actress and Paramount's newest screen find, as leading woman, is the diagnose of "A Gentleman of Leisure," the feature attraction at Granum's Metropolitan Theatre this week.

Some daring and artistic feats on the ice are presented by Elsa and Paulsen, said to be the champions of the world, and who have just completed an engagement of two seasons at the New York Hippodrome.

Another of the H. C. Witwer "Fighting Blood" comedies, Jimn Osborne the youthful Los Angeles solicitor, and two special novelty features arranged by Sid Grauman are also on the program. Herman Heller conducts the Metropolitan Orchestra and Henry Murtagh plays a second edition of his organ novelty, "Mental Telepathy."

One of the most famous of the long list of novels by Emerson Nolton, author of "The Covered Wagon" and others depicting American life is "The Man Next Door" which comes in picture form to Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre Monday, July 16. The story deals with life on a Wyoming ranch and amid society in the city. The contrast in background and environment offered by these two distinctly different locations, gave Director Victor Schertzinger the broad scope for elaborate production, the sets showing the mansion in the city being most lavish in a architecture and furnishings. Alice Calhoun, the star, has opportunity to prove her versatility first as a tom-boy and western girl in the early scenes of the picture, changing to a belle of society when her father becomes a millionaire and moves to the city.

The brilliant cast further includes James Morrison, David Torrence, Adele Farrington, Bruce Berziller and Frank Sherdan.

The music surrounding the feature is especially interesting with Grauman's Symphony Orch., Maurice Lawrence conducting, rendering in four concerts daily, a fantasy from Sanger's "Tanzhauser" and Edward House at the Wurlitzer playing the popular ballad "Carolina Moon." Mr. Wallace Reid's production, "Human Wreckage," at Grauman's Rialto, takes its place as the greatest moral play ever conceived. The story itself is constructed for the purpose of reproducing the life of any individual but rather planned to put over forcefully as many salient truths as could be logically included in the film without injuring its value as entertainment.

It does offer entertainment, not a light, frothy sort of momentary relaxation, but it has the power to tell of interesting things in a forceful manner. After all, people are most entertained when they see a picture from which they gather new information.

Mrs. Wallace Reid in the leading role, gives a marvelous performance, the dominant note of sincerity permeating every scene, while James Kirkwood's characterization appeals to the heart. This splendid actor has given the screen literature Bessie Love, George Hackathorne, and Torrence are other prominent members of the cast.

"LICHEY" OPENS PUBLICITY OFFICE

"Purveyors of Publicity To The Majesties the Klings and Queens of Movieland" is the way the Howard Lichtenstein Company announces the opening of their new offices in Hollywood. Old boy "Lichey" himself will be in personal charge of this new bureau and he has surrounded himself with a staff of competent newspaper writers who will be able to turn out original copy about the movie stars that should make exceptionally fine reading matter.

For the past number of years Lichtenstein has been manager of publicity and exploitation for the William Fox Corporation throughout the central states and he knows personally more motion picture and city politics than a score of press agents put together. Under the byname of "Lichey" he writes exclusive copy for a number of regional trade papers and in addition his articles are syndicated throughout the country by one of the best daily newspaper syndicates in existence.

Years ago when many of the present film celebrities were playing in stock along the local rialto, Lichtenstein was a press agent—names like Frank Lloyd, then a leading man; Gale Henry, then a musical comedy comedian; Francis White, then a soubrette; Blossom Seeley, then a prima donna and hundreds too numerous to mention. Mr. Lichtenstein sponsored Carmel Myers and made her God Mother of the Portlock Division at Camp Kearny during the World War. Later he became a member of the Stars and Stripes official newspaper of the A.E.F. in France, joining the Selznick Pictures Corporation upon his discharge from the army, and later the Fox Film Corporation as an exploitation and publicity representative.

"Lichey" will be glad to see all of his old friends at his new office in the Colonn Building.
Now Comes Microscopical Pictures

The leading McCullough might age they then un-Villainous lcroscopical thorough period of eight years by the scientist he taken over for the production of "theatrical" as a theatrical picture for world-wide distribution and for cooperation in educational advancement with institutions of learning everywhere.

Saying pictures of microscopical life have revealed the screen and eluded scientiat. A multitude of problems involving the sense of optics, the lighting of the tiny objects without killing them in the light-rays, and the adjustment of picture cameras with microscopical apparatus were but a few of the baffling problems that have at last been solved, and the picture reveals the fact, according to Tolhurst, that a new and marvelrous door has been opened in the world of education being into a hitherto untouched field of pure exploitation—the world that is unexplored and opened by the microscope.

Tolhurst will be made, according to Mr. Tolhurst, to Interest leading educators in the examination of material for screening. Already Professors Bennett M. Allen and Ted Miller, of the Department of Biology at the University of California, Southern Branch, and Ernest C. Moore, Director, have agreed in the highest terms the authentic results of Tolhurst's applied science and have volunteered their enthusiastic services to further the cause of visualized instruction as it has been developed by Tolhurst.

"Microscopical marvels," says Sol Lesser, "not only added prestige as a center of picture making, but as a center of research and development to the world."

The first motion picture to be completed under the perfected processes developed by Tolhurst, is one on the Bee. It might be termed a screen version of Metenerich's great and popular volume, "The Life of the Bee," though it is not liable to excite the scientific doubts with which the mystic Celulg sometimes shrouded his subject.

This picture has been made in two versions, one for regular motion picture presentation, and appealing to the popular mind to awaken curiosity and wonder at the amazing miracles met on every hand in a study of the bee. The other version is more scientific in treatment and is designed for classes in biology in high schools and colleges.

A second production is now being made by Mr. Tolhurst in which the spider is the heroine and Belinda is under way dealing with the ant.

"It is up to the screen," says Mr. Lesser, "to make good its educational beauty. It is not functioning as the great blessing we believe it is to mankind if it seeks no other purpose than that of entertainment, important as that is. I believe with every ounce of my being that we are about to give to the world the most important thing that has happened in the development of the picture industry since moving pictures became a fact. Instruction is carried to the beholder in the terms of exciting, thrilling and sometimes sensational entertainment. Life in its origins is seen striving in the larvae of the bee; institutes almost majestic in the self-sacrifice they imply are revealed magnified. The world of life is disclosed in a drop of water; the ant hill becomes a citadel in which move mighty hosts; the footsteps of a germ-laden fly are disclosed in all their potential menace to human life; the marvels of the circulation of the blood are uncovered infinitely magnified; the range of the word's civilization and vision is infinitely extended and the hidden processes of nature brought to light decorously and magnificently.

In my opinion it is of tremendous importance that this perfected process of motion microscopical pictures will bring to the civilized world perfectly understandable images of life in its smallest forms. The sting of the bee, for instance, in operation, is magnified on the screen millions of times its size. Various problems that have vexed scientists concerning insect life are solved by the possibility of magnifying the images to such size as to permit a thorough study of their anatomy.

"Since nothing under the microscope is ever commonplace or ugly, the pictures carry an extraordinary fascination. Even the spider assumes the stature and role of a hero—when he destroys man's enemy, the ant.

"Our Bee picture is all ready for exhibition and will soon be in the classrooms of several of the larger eastern institutions of learning, while the theatrical version will soon be released to the theatres of this country and Europe," says Mr. Lesser.

Philo Progresses

Philo McCullough, who is one of the photoplay stars of yesterday and today—one who seems to have about doubled his popularity in the last year—has just finished a leading role in "Yesterday's Wife," which bids fair to be one of the picture sensations of the coming autumn season. For several years Mr. McCullough has divided his time between being one of the most brilliant villains of the screen and one of the most popular of leading men. Some of the producers consider him a good bet as a director, too, and he has had his fлинт commanding things cinema from behind the megaphone, having been responsible directly for several screen hits. According to advance reports, the versatile Philo has given one of the most notable performances of his long career as Taffy in Richard Wal-ton Tully's production of "Tribe." Another high-light in his recent achievements has been scored in the Palmer play, "Judgment of the Storm." He also played the villain in the Finzi Fox production of "The Man Between."

While McCullough was in picture circles this fall, a promise to bring Los Angeles to the attention of every institution of education around the world and, in the opinion of the officials to the deal, will open up a new period in educational methods.

The Principal Pictures Corporation, with its president, Sol Lesser, has closed on the Louis H. Tolhurst laboratory forces early the entire equipment and microscopical processes, invented and developed a period of eight years by the scientist. It has been taken over for the production of "theatrical" as a theatrical picture for world-wide distribution and for cooperation in educational advancement with institutions of learning everywhere.

Saying pictures of microscopical life have revealed the screen and eluded scientific a multitude of problems involving the sense of optics, the lighting of the tiny objects without killing them in the light-rays, and the adjustment of picture cameras with microscopical apparatus were but a few of the baffling problems that have at last been solved, and the picture reveals the fact, according to Tolhurst, that a new and marvelrous door has been opened in the world of education being into a hitherto untouched field of pure exploitation—the world that is unexplored and opened by the microscope.

Tolhurst will be made, according to Mr. Tolhurst, to Interest leading educators in the examination of material for screening. Already Professors Bennett M. Allen and Ted Miller, of the Department of Biology at the University of California, Southern Branch, and Ernest C. Moore, Director, have agreed in the highest terms the authentic results of Tolhurst's applied science and have volunteered their enthusiastic services to further the cause of visualized instruction as it has been developed by Tolhurst.

"Microscopical marvels," says Sol Lesser, "not only added prestige as a center of picture making, but as a center of research and development to the world."

The first motion picture to be completed under the perfected processes developed by Tolhurst, is one on the Bee. It might be termed a screen version of Metenerich's great and popular volume, "The Life of the Bee," though it is not liable to excite the scientific doubts with which the mystic Celulg sometimes shrouded his subject.

This picture has been made in two versions, one for regular motion picture presentation, and appealing to the popular mind to awaken curiosity and wonder at the amazing miracles met on every hand in a study of the bee. The other version is more scientific in treatment and is designed for classes in biology in high schools and colleges.

A second production is now being made by Mr. Tolhurst in which the spider is the heroine and Belinda is under way dealing with the ant.

"It is up to the screen," says Mr. Lesser, "to make good its educational beauty. It is not functioning as the great blessing we believe it is to mankind if it seeks no other purpose than that of entertainment, important as that is. I believe with every ounce of my being that we are about to give to the world the most important thing that has happened in the development of the picture industry since moving pictures became a fact. Instruction is carried to the beholder in the terms of exciting, thrilling and sometimes sensational entertainment. Life in its origins is seen striving in the larvae of the bee; institutes almost majestic in the self-sacrifice they imply are revealed magnified. The world of life is disclosed in a drop of water; the ant hill becomes a citadel in which move mighty hosts; the footsteps of a germ-laden fly are disclosed in all their potential menace to human life; the marvels of the circulation of the blood are uncovered infinitely magnified; the range of the world's civilization and vision is infinitely extended and the hidden processes of nature brought to light decorously and magnificently.

In my opinion it is of tremendous importance that this perfected process of motion microscopical pictures will bring to the civilized world perfectly understandable images of life in its smallest forms. The sting of the bee, for instance, in operation, is magnified on the screen millions of times its size. Various problems that have vexed scientists concerning insect life are solved by the possibility of magnifying the images to such size as to permit a thorough study of their anatomy.

"Since nothing under the microscope is ever commonplace or ugly, the pictures carry an extraordinary fascination. Even the spider assumes the stature and role of a hero—when he destroys man's enemy, the ant.

"Our Bee picture is all ready for exhibition and will soon be in the classrooms of several of the larger eastern institutions of learning, while the theatrical version will soon be released to the theatres of this country and Europe," says Mr. Lesser.

Phil McCullough With Leading Man Smile

There are more riders waiting for Walter Cameron to put them to work than Bill Hart could use if he made sixty pictures a week.

As to marksmen—Los Angeles has its quota, too, however, offer some suggestions on how NOT to attempt
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., July 9th.—The "Ruggles of Red Gap" company, with James Crazz directing, and a long roster of well-known names, is working in San Francisco, coming from Eureka on the morning of the Fourth, spent the day, and went on to Los Angeles the same night. The company certainly didn't seem to have found location work in Eureka a bed of roses, for Jimmie Crazz himself was hobbling round with an injured knee, and the members of the cast and crew were all dirty, tired and unhased, and very glad of the comforts of the Plaza Hotel.

J. N. Gawane, director of locations with the Joseph M. Schenck Productions, and his wife, spent last week in San Francisco on a little holiday trip and vacation.

Max Graf, head of the Graf Productions, returned last Saturday from an extended business trip to the East. He will begin work at once on preparations for the actual shooting from the efforts of original which will be a big sea story, with an all-star cast, and the title is "Half-Dollar Bill."

Madge Bellamy spent the week-end in San Francisco to make personal appearances with the opening of the Tivoli Theatre. She made an end of the "Heart," the big circus picture in which she was starred. Oscar, the elephant in person, was also praised to the public, but for some reason he wasn't present.

Richard Tucker, well-known leading man of both the stage and the silent drama, arrived in town last Thursday to play with Marjorie Rambeau, star of the New York stage, during one of her rare trips to the coast. Miss Rambeau and her all-star company will open at the Capitol Theatre on July 15th in "The Goldfish," her great Broadway success of last season, to be followed by the trial of a new play, "Come Valley of Comfort," which if it comes up to the expectations, will be her next season's vehicle. Mr. Tucker has just finished playing a most important part in the Fox production of "Cameo Kirby."

Wayne Mack, big, good-natured production manager with the Palais Film Corporation, is very ill at the Holland Hotel with a general nervous breakdown.

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, popular both on the screen and stage, were in town in a week making personal appearances at the Warfield Theatre with their picture, "Modern Marriage." They are using an idea that although it is not absolutely new has at least been so seldom seen as to be pretty much of a novelty. In the midst of the picture just before the big scenes, the lights fade out, and in place of the picture the living actors appear, and play out the scene to its climax. Three other actors are also employed, and the bit of a play within a picture is meeting with a warm reception.

Jack Holt was among the week-end guests at the St. Francis.

The production of "Greed" under the direction of Erich Von Stroheim, is making most satisfactory progress. Dale Patler was duly murdered last week, and the "remain," and the cameras, got a wild ride to the Emergency Hospital in an ambulance, but for a person who has so recently had her throat cut Dale seems pretty lively, and expects to finish, and return to the South the very near future. Jean Hersholt's proposed departure has been delayed on account of the necessity of one or two takes.

Charles Ruggles completed his very successful six-weeks' engagement at the cazar last Saturday. On account of a popular demand, the week went the second time in the run, the new, amusing comedy, "The Nervous Wife" which he expects to use as a starring vehicle on Broadway next winter.

Lawrence Grant, long a screen favorite and Roland Bottomly came to San Francisco last week to be here several weeks as members of Marjorie Rambeau's company at Capitol Theatre.

Allen Connor, for three years a juror with the Lasky stock company, and the assistant cameraman and director but with little stage experience, has recognition for himself by the very beautiful performances he is giving in Stroheim's production here of "The Woman No Importance." In spite of little experience on the screen stage he is playing difficult role in the Wilde play, and play it so well, that Miss Anglin regards him a great find.

The Duncan Sisters opened on Saturday night before a delighted audience at the cazar Theatre, in the musical version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It is very gay, and a very modern "Uncle Tom's Cabin," however, with no blood-hounds, no ice for Eliza to cross, but with some good songs, and on the whole very amusing.

HERE'S A VOTE FOR THE CREATIVE WRITER

The writer, who creates stories for the screen, has a great advocate and champion in Chester Bennett, well-known director and producer. Bennett contends that the writer who writes directly for the motion picture screen and keeps its possibilities always in mind, will give the director better material to work with than the literary light who dispenses the motion picture rights to his fiction stories after they have been published in book or magazine form.

"The literary man must be more or less a descriptive writer," states Bennett, "while the writer for the screen has to dwell only on plot building and characterization of the individual players. He continued, "One of the greatest of the screen successes have been of the specifically screen screen writer. Some of De Mille's most artistic pictures are the original work of authors who write only for the silvertone sheet."

Continued, "My little screen play, "Divorce," starring Jane Novak, which is having quite a record run throughout the country, was an original screen story by a practical motion picture author."

"The picture I am now making," added Bennett, "The Laduv," also starring Miss Novak, is the creative work of an author who writes only for the screen.

"Give the screen writer a chance" is Bennett's slogan.

"The Mystery Trail"
Denver Dixon, Director
CAST
John Hampton.............House Peters
Marion Donnay.........Grace Carlby
William Barbee........Hiram Burbeck
John Sainpolis.........Bea Burbeck
Evelyn Brent.........Rolfie Burbeck
James Morrison........James Morrison
Lida Knott.............Lydia Knott "Red" Lizard............"Bull" Montana
Maid...........Gale Henry
Organist..............Robert Daly
"Spiders" Welch.........Charles West
"Dud. Atty. Scour."......Charles Mulhay

"The Spanish Dancer"
From the novel, "Don Caesar de Bazan"

From U to You

By Adolphe D'Evelyn and P. S. T. Dunn
Adapted by June Mathis and Beulah Marie Dix Herbert Brenon, Director
CAST
Pola Negri............Antonio Moreno
Wallace Beery..........Kathryn Williams
Gareth Hughes........Adolphe Menjou
Edward Kipling.........Dawn O'Day
Chas. A. Stevenson.....Elvira Ortiz

From U to You

William B. Davidson, New York st. player of considerable note, who played pictures in the East occasionally and sent to the west coast in "Salomy Jan," has one of the leading roles in the play. Fredric Brown in "The Storm" played by Leete; Archainbaud in the original role, by George Archainbaud will direct as a "Versus" feature.

Other members of the cast so far chosen are Tom Santschi, Pat Hartigan, Chadwick and Owen Gorin.

Cyril Chadwick, excellent English type actor who appeared in several of the launching pictures released during the past year, has been chosen by Fred Datzi, coming director at Universal City, and G. Archainbaud, for one of the principal in the next Priscilla Dean vehicle under Universal-Jewel banner, "The St. Deacon," which will be shot early in the fall.

Tom Santschi, William B. Davidson, Pat Hartigan and Owen Gorin are all players chosen by director. Leete Lenick Brown wrote the story of the great onward and upward trend of motion pictures a new type of genius has evolved. It is that of the "laugh-spotter." Alfalfa, the duds solely in charge for the screen, the job is a harrowing one. For the laugh-spotter must detect the funnier cranks and klutz in cameras, new grooves and what not, tabulate these laugh producers on the basis of the tabulation, a final decision is made as to whether the picture or not. There are three degrees of laugh-splotters:

(Continued on Page 20)

1. The spotter who sits in the cold, dark corner and records his pictures with laugh-inducing jokes without being noticed by the public.

2. The spotter who has a talent for turning the audience's attention to the jokes.

3. The spotter who is able to make the audience laugh spontaneously without any manipulation.

Enter: Ye Merrie Laugh-Spotters

"Crowding laughs into a picture is the most serious work in the world," says R. A. Rowland. "It is so difficult that, even after a picture has been completed, it takes an expert to tabulate the laughs. The man who directed the picture might believe he had failed utterly and then find that the public goes into an uproar over it."

When "The Frozen Toto," a screen adaptation of William Collier's play was filmed, at Culver City, the knowing ones said it would fall flat. They declared the situations in it would not appeal to the public. A private showing took place, at which one hundred persons and two laugh-splotters were present. Mr. Ince was one of these splotters. Three hundred laughs were recorded. The report seemed incredible. Next the picture was shown in Chicago. The splotters that attended the opening performance there reported 450 laughs! Mr. Ince declared that during the steep-climb race scene he had lost much of the effect because the audience became "too hilarious."

This one incident emphasized the value of the laugh-spotter. If the word of the pessimists had been taken after the filming of the picture it might have been made out at great expense and the laugh-provoking scenes in it lost.

Henry H. O. Schwalbe, secretary-treasurer of First National, "is closely related to tears. Violent laughter is a form of hysteria and is violent grief. The man who laughs hilariously at anything has lost complete control of his emotions. The man who smiles inwardly is an expert on humor, because he retains self-control and while enjoying himself, is able to observe the effects on others. That type of man makes the ideal laugh-spotter."

This statement is borne out in the case of Charlie Chaplin and Harpo. Chaplin is always serious in his action and when he does smile it seems forced. Lloyd smiles as if he must do it.

The laugh-splotters scored a triumph in the case of "Bel Boy 13," which was shown at the New York Strand with fair success and afterward swept the entire country. When the first prints of this comedy were brought to New York the laugh-splotters said it would prove an excellent box office attraction—that it, would draw crowds and be talked about. After the Strand showing the laugh-splotters were told their reports had been too optimistic. But the next week, as reports on the picture began coming in from various parts of the country, the laugh-splotters found that they had been completely vindicated.

Anyone who desires to study the art of laugh-spotting is advised to attend a movie show determined not to smile but to observe the smiles, chuckles and laughs from others—to count them and then form an opinion as to the laugh-drawing power of the picture if it is a comedy, and the "comedy relief" in it if it is a melodrama.

Re-Visiting a Studio

By DONALD H. CLARKE

Actor Seamstom, the Swedish director had begun to make his first American picture, "The Master of Man," from Sir Hall Caine's story of the same name. He came to set in his shirt sleeves. No cap with the shading the back of the neck, adorned helmet; no megaphone decorated his mouth; no patee enrobed his legs. He down to business immediately. A visitor, who had not been in a studio for seven years, remarked that the distinguished figure looked very little like a director. Where are his megaphone, and his cap and patee "the visitor inquired, and this was called to the mind of those who hadn't noticed the change, so gradual it been, that directors nowadays have run up dressing for the part. An immediate canvas of the Goldwyn studio revealed the Chaplin idea, "Six Days," was the only director wearing a cap, and he was wearing the ordinary way, instead of revealing. The camera was the director's camera, and the idea of the director was lead any differently from the other studio officials. Any of them might have stopped in front of a camera and portrayed the role of most business man without change of costume.

The visitor of the day also noticed something else that puzzled him. Lambert Hill, directing "The Spellers," called "Going!" head of "Camera!" when, after necessary rehearsals he ordered the cameraman to begin grinding.

"Camera!" shouted while the camera was sitting. "The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry" Page Seven.
INCE BUNGALOW IS FILM EXHIBIT FEATURE

One of the most interesting exhibits of the Motion Picture Exhibit which concluded this week is the Thomas H. Ince bungalow. Furnished in colonial style in keeping with the architecture of the studios at Culver City, the walls of the bungalow are hung with pictures of old times in Culver where some of the most famous productions of the industry were made and also with pictures of "Ince-Blande" Picture Hysteria and "Ince-Made Directors."

Included in the gallery, which is accessible to the public through famous names of the industry are: W. S. Hart Dorothy Dixon, Sidney Harcourt, Cora Byrck, John H. Reinhold, Carl Arndt, Arnold Burrello, Howard Hickman, Charles Ray, Frank Reicher, Clara Hoven, Madame Selby, Douglas MacEwan, Doris May, Lloyd Hughes, Louise Glum, Sylvia Breamer, George Broban, H. H. Mapotnick, R. H. McKee, Mildred Harris, Eddie Love, Olive Thomas, Billy Burke, Gladys Hulette, with pictures of E. S. Desmond. All of these stars made their first "big" pictures with Thomas H. Ince and were started by him on the road to stardom.

Included in the list of directors who put their initial training under Mr. Ince are John Griffith Wray, Rowland Lee Frank Borzage, Del Andrews, Lambert Hillyer, Jerome Storm, Ford Nilo, Reginald Barker, Walter Edwards. All of these men are known nationally today as leading directors of the picture world.

FITZMAURICE GETS FILM UNDER WAY IN ROME

Filming of "The Eternal City," Samuel Goldwyn's first George Fitzmaurice-first National production, is under way in Rome, Italy, according to cables from Mr. Fitzmaurice.

The company arrived at the Italian capital June 14th and within four days were organized and on the fifth day began shooting.

Guido Bergere, responsible for the screen continuity for Sir Howard Keel and his famous story, is completing "The Eternal City" in the Benetti's Italian villa near Rome.

The entire cast including Barbara La Marr, Richard Benetti, Lionel Barrymore, Montague Love, Geraldine Griffith, are now located at the Grand Hotel, Rome. The technical staff, consisting of four laboratory experts, two cameramen and a boss carpenter, arrived last week via Naples.

Liberty National's European offices are cooperating with Mr. Goldwyn's Italian staff.

BEAUTY CONTEST WINNER SIGNS 5-YEAR CONTRACT

Two months after entering motion pictures by the beauty contest route, Muriel Reynolds has signed a contract for five years with D.W. Griffith and D. W. Caldwell. She will be filmed out while not employed in Caldwell productions. Miss Reynolds has done complete entrance comedy part, a comedy characterization with Henry Lehrman at Robertson's. She will be known as the Cinderella in the play of that name lately at the Hollywood Bowl and at the Hill Top Harmonic Auditorium.

Mr. Caldwell chose her from five aspirants in a contest a few short months ago.

MONTAGUE GLASS HIT IS NOW A PHOTOPLAY

Samuel Goldwyn's screen production of Montague Glass' stage play, "Potash and Perlmutter," was finished at the direction of Clarence Badger at the Fort Lewis studios.

In addition to Barrow Bernard, Alexander Carr and Vera Gordon, the roster of players includes Martha Manseil, Noelle Sutherland, Ben Lyons, Leo Kollman, Edmund Darnell, Durand, Sarah Moores and Jerrie Llwyden. Twenty-four beautiful models wearing next winter's advanced fashions were supplied by Madame Frances and Ann Tappo. Other novelty effects were secured by Mr. Goldwyn.

"Potash and Perlmutter" will be an early September release through Associated National Pictures, Inc.

Ricketts in Lee's Cast

Thomas Ricketts has been added to the cast of "Beloved," Jacky Lee's production for Fox, "You Can't Get Away With It," a Government Morals story. This veteran actor, who has been one of the first directors of motion pictures, has the part of an elderly gallant. He has in the photoplay, a motion of winning one of the beauties in the motions. Mr. Ricketts' characterization of a J. A. Lamb in Mr. Lee's recently released picturization of "Alice Adams," was considered memorable by the critics.

A. A. Signs 'Em Fast

Mudge Bellamy has been signed by Associated Authors to handle the leading feminine role in Elmer Harris' screen version of Frank R. Adams' Cosmopolitan story, "The Love Hater," produced and released this past week. Keithen Clifford, who portrayed the role of Queen Elizabeth in "Richard the Lion Hearted," "The Frank Woods production for Associated Authors, also has been engaged for this picture. Lloyd Thomas is directing under the personal supervision of Elmer Harris.

FORMER EDITOR OF "THE DIAL" NOW IN MOVIES

Michael Dark, formerly editor of "The Dial," has resigned from the periodical issued in New York, E. F. Rice, can be seen, on the screen in Rowland V. Lee's production for Goldwyn, "If You Can't Get Away With It." Mr. Dark or rather Mr. Johnson for Michael Dark is a Warner Pictures production some time ago for his health which had suffered from the strain. It is also dark whether he could bear the toil of complete idleness nor risk for a time engaging in the strain of writing, and so undertook acting as an occupation so novel to him: as to be refreshing.

SHRIEK-ESS Finishes "PRINTER'S DEVIL"

Kathryn McGuire, who is contracted with Ben Turpin in "They're Like Them," has just finished her latest engagement as leading woman in Warner Bros.' production of "Shriek-ess's Printer's Devil," with Vresto, Harry and Harry Meyers. Although a small town girl her picturesque career of many unusual events McGuire has played has always been held in big cities, except the stage appeared appearing and the one she has just finished. "The Crossroads," "The Great Cartoon," "The Bronze Woman," "The Flame of Life," "Playing with Fire"—these are some of the beautiful productions in which Kathryn McGuire has played since she left the Sevanett lot. Miss McGuire is, incidentally, one of The Wampus Stars of Tomorrow, 1925 Edition, and recently won first prize in a national beauty contest conducted by a group of eastern film magazines in which she was voted the most winning motion picture player.

Burns Supports "West"

Edward Burns of "East is West" fame has been engaged for an important role in Wesley Hardy's latest starring production, temporarily titled "The Country Kid." Burns will be remembered for his stellar work in several recent screen successes. "The Country Kid" is being produced by the Warner Brothers at their West Coast studios under the direction of William Beaudine in an original story by Julien Josephson of the Warner's scenario staff.

A. Gitter With Stars

The United Studios in Hollywood, under Arnold the independent producers make their picture has never in its history house such a roster of stars as at this new working there. Among the more popular luminaries appearing will be the Norma and Constance Talmadge, Cooleen Moore, Anna C. Xillson, Elmo Lincoln, Charles Ray, Kirkwood, Marjorie Law, Lloyd Hughes, Harry Myers, Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Hal B. Wallis, Washburn, Blanche Sweet and others.

FREAK COLONY @ KEATON'S NEW HOBBY

A library of human freaks, Barnum made a fortune on handsome George Washington, charged a dime admission. Buster Keaton is going to start one. But he is going to call it Hollywood.

The need for "atmosphere" and character change demands in the Hollywood motion picture camp, dwarfs, giants, men and women with physical idiosyncrasies countless varieties, in every size or shape, are at some time or other needed for screen purposes. And, when needed, it is generally at a moment's notice.

Buster Keaton is going solve the problem of this want. Already his studio staff is working on a complete catalogue of the freaks of Hollywood. Collection of his bureau are to be enlarged a catalogue and some known human freak will be used in the making the pictures. It is his hope to make a catalogue with complete description accompanying picture, of Buster Keaton Studios, which will be available for any Hollywood producer.

VON STROHEIM FINISHES ON "GREED" SEQUENCES

What is to be said of the same movie that started so many large-scale stories of such an important sequence occupied the attention of Eric von Stroheim, the Goldwyn stars who are now at work on the feature for the past week in San Francisco.

Almost the entire week was spent in one small room, owing to the fact that the wall and ceiling were built for other purposes than motion picture. It was something of a photographic and technical feat to record the action on the film.
ULVER CITY STUDIO OPENS; TO OPERATE ON LEASING BASIS TO INDEPENDENTS

The motion picture industry makes significant advancements in film production, with Ulver City opening its doors. The studio is set to operate on a leasing basis, allowing independent filmmakers to take advantage of the facility.

Dexter is Signed for "Flaming Youth"

Elliott Dexter, screen favorite, has been signed as lead in some of the most noteworthy films of the last year, including the Cecil DeMille production "Adam's Rhth," to play a prominent role in "Flaming Youth," a First National picture, directed by Francis Dillion, which goes into production next week. "Flaming Youth," an adaptation of Warner Fabian's widely read novel of the same title, which caused a sensation when published two years ago on account of the manner in which it treated life as lived among a certain class of wealthy, pleasure-seeking Americans.

The play centers about the loves and lives of a modern mother and her three daughters. Dexter enacts the dramatic role of "Dr. Bobs," the one man who is the confidante of the mother and the three girls and, as a result of the manner in which he treated life as lived among a certain class of wealthy, pleasure-seeking Americans.

The part is ideally suited to Dexter, whose career both on the stage and before the motion picture camera has been an extensive one. "Flaming Youth," to be interpreted to the screen by a brilliant all-star cast. The other screen celebrities who have already been announced to play in this highly dramatic picture, are Colleen Moore, who will enact the leading role and Milson Sills, who will be seen in the principal male part.

FANS GET CHANCE TO "SHOOT" HUGHES

Movie fans who go in for snapshots of movie stars were given an opportunity to try their kodaks on Lloyd Hughes, popular leading man in Mary Pickford's "Tess of the Storm Country" today.

At the Motion Picture Exhibition in front of the Owl Drug Store exhibit, Lloyd Hughes put on his make-up and posed for amateur photographers. For the best amateur snapshot of Mr. Hughes, the Owl Drug Store awarded a handsome kodak. Hughes was awarded for the next best snapshots.

Promptly at two o'clock Mr. Hughes appeared and placed himself at the disposal of amateur photographers. The contest was free. All were invited to bring their cameras and try their skill on the handsome face of the young leading man.

Mr. Hughes' appearance opposite Mary Pickford in "Tess" made him one of the most popular leading men in films. He has just completed his engagement opposite Colleen Moore in First National's "The Huntress."

WARNERS BUILD ODD HUT FOR PICTURE EXPOSITION

A simple hut constructed with logs, and prettily dressed in an atmosphere of the open north represensts Warner Brothers' studies at the American Historical Review and Motion Picture Exposition being held in Los Angeles this month.

The Warner Exhibit is entirely different from those offered by other studios, inasmuch as simplicity marks the beauty of the display. The hut used is a reproduction of the one built for the recently completed "Where the North Begins," which is to have its world's première showing in Los Angeles just before the exposition closes.

Rin-Tin, world famous police dog who is starred in this picture of the north is the only living being exhibited by the Warners at the exposition. He proudly parades the little hut every day and night to the pleasure of interested spectators. As a special offering the Warners have arranged with Leo Dunn, owner of the dog, for Rin-Tin-Tin to attempt to break his high jump record of eleven feet.

BEN WILSON HAS PLAN FOR BIG PICTURES

The future production plans of Ben Wilson, who is engaged in making a series of special features for release by Grand-Asher, contemplate some of the most elaborate settings and effects obtainable for screen offerings, without entering into a program of wasteful extravagance. In a word, while there will be no effort to hold down the pictures to their actual cost, the Wilson concern will be carefully watched to eliminate waste and to get the most possible out of everything employed. Thus, to create a number of important interior scenes for some of his productions, Mr. Wilson will see to it that the windows, doors, and other details of the interior fittings of the old Botsford mansion in Los Angeles, consisting of wonderful panning, grille-work, doors, windows, etc. These can be used in a number of ways and will be far more substantive than anything that could be built for the purpose. Some of the fittings will be seen in "Other Men's Daughters," his third production just starting at the Berwillia studio.

"I am inevitably favorable to wholesome, human interest stories," says Mr. Wilson, "and all of my pictures will be of the sort that appeals to the great majority ofrespectable people; not striving for outre or bizarre effects. I want naturalness and humanness above all else."

Bryant Washburn and Mabel Forrest are featured in the first three pictures; "Mine to Keep," "The Lovers," and "Our Daughters."

Stars Give Party

On the completion of her work in Elinor Glyn's "Six Days" which Charles Brabin directed at the Goldwyn studios, Corinne Griffith was given a party at the Ambassador by Misses Love and Caramel Myers. Guests present included Mrs. Busch, Blanche Sweet, Katherine and Marjorie Bennett, June Mathis, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nihon, Walter Morosco, Raymond Griffith, Herbert Howe and Kenneth Hawks.

Cameramen's Weekly Wake-Em-Up

SPECIAL NEWS SECTION
SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1923

Ulmer Leighton Home

Lillian Leighton, interpreter of that beaming heroine of western heroines, Ma Pettingill, has returned from Europe, where she has been locating with "the Ruggles of Red Gap" company for two weeks. Ma will continue her way to the film public at the Lasky plant under the supervision of Director James Cruze.

Lillian Leighton Home
Mrs. Jack Pickford Refuses Stage Offers

Strange as it may seem, the British Intelligence Department desired to get some first-hand information regarding conditions in Russia. Crisp was assigned for extremely dangerous espionage work but never caught by a camera.

Crisp has been managing a big American studio in England during the last two years and quite incidentally he knew the ins and outs of Scotland Yard. While in Russia, the British Intelligence Department desired to get some first-hand information regarding conditions in Russia. Crisp was assigned for extremely dangerous espionage work but never caught by a camera.

The conflict between ignorance and superstition on the one hand and modernization on the other, conflict which has been in full force in China for many generations—forums the background for "Thundereg," directed by the British producer Robert Z. Leonard and based on a Chinese and American life and which is now being filmed at the United Artists under the direction of Joseph De Grasse.

The story of "Thundereg" is based on the legend of the first son of a Chinese lord, the head of forces using every means to weaken the man he calls his enemy, with a plot that will make you shiver with every turn. It is the first time he has essayed a Chinese characterization and according to statements issued by those who have seen his work, he is in a place where he is not wrong, where he has made a real effort to bring the story to life.

The story of "Thundereg" is based on the legend of the first son of a Chinese lord, the head of forces using every means to weaken the man he calls his enemy, with a plot that will make you shiver with every turn. It is the first time he has essayed a Chinese characterization and according to statements issued by those who have seen his work, he is in a place where he is not wrong, where he has made a real effort to bring the story to life.

Mrs. Jack Pickford Refuses Stage Offers

Strange as it may seem, the British Intelligence Department desired to get some first-hand information regarding conditions in Russia. Crisp was assigned for extremely dangerous espionage work but never caught by a camera.

Crisp has been managing a big American studio in England during the last two years and quite incidentally he knew the ins and outs of Scotland Yard. While in Russia, the British Intelligence Department desired to get some first-hand information regarding conditions in Russia. Crisp was assigned for extremely dangerous espionage work but never caught by a camera.

The conflict between ignorance and superstition on the one hand and modernization on the other, conflict which has been in full force in China for many generations—forums the background for "Thundereg," directed by the British producer Robert Z. Leonard and based on a Chinese and American life and which is now being filmed at the United Artists under the direction of Joseph De Grasse.

The story of "Thundereg" is based on the legend of the first son of a Chinese lord, the head of forces using every means to weaken the man he calls his enemy, with a plot that will make you shiver with every turn. It is the first time he has essayed a Chinese characterization and according to statements issued by those who have seen his work, he is in a place where he is not wrong, where he has made a real effort to bring the story to life.

The story of "Thundereg" is based on the legend of the first son of a Chinese lord, the head of forces using every means to weaken the man he calls his enemy, with a plot that will make you shiver with every turn. It is the first time he has essayed a Chinese characterization and according to statements issued by those who have seen his work, he is in a place where he is not wrong, where he has made a real effort to bring the story to life.

LEGION STADIUM IS IMPROVED

Last Friday night Roy Marshall, manager of the Hollywood Legion Stadium, announced that the Legion Post was going to show its appreciation of the large attendance at the regular Friday night boxing shows in a "Concrete Manner." The writer, who witnessed the activities around the stadium during boys and girls events and found it hard to make good on Roy's statement.

The entire reserved section of the stadium has been excavated to make the grade of seats four times what it was when there was nothing but the dirt floor to keep the column of feet from being on a step. The aisles are inclined, making it easy for entrance and exit. Each seat has been staggered and raised so that every one will have an unobstructed view of every foot of the floor of the ring. This should be good news to all of the Hollywood fans, as the shows have become so popular that they have given up the lower seats closer to the ring floor unless they have a reservation for the box seats.

Joe Medina has also asked for an opportunity to make good for the defeat he lost to Lewis. This request has been granted and these two good boys will be in the fifth bout on the occasion of the re-opening show.

June Celebrates Birthday

They say it takes a busy man to write a letter. So it takes a busy woman, perhaps, to have a birthday. Evelyn Goldwyn Edmister, the popular Edward Goldwyn Editorial Director, had been tempted to ignore the one thousand letters that were poured upon her from the media. She was loved to pass unnoticed by members of her staff, who gave her a knock on the door and a bunch of flowers. She was given the task of a studio emmissary. Present were Carey Wilson, Katherine Kavanagh, Tom Miranda, Harriet and Mildred Morris, Harold Frances Lee and Vivian Newcomb, to say nothing of creamed chicken and crescent rolls, factory-made Beancoons, bonbons and bon mots.

CRISP, WAR HERO PUTS THRILLS IN "PONJOLA"

Marilyn Miller Pickford, wife of the film producer who is spending a vacation with her husband in Hollywood, has turned down several offers to appear in vaudeville. In fact, what she has done away from Broadway, it has been learned. Marilyn, before she was a film producer, was a new three-year contract to star in another Ziegfeld show. When she swapped offers to appear in vaudeville and special shows, The Orpheum Circuit was one of the first to make an attractive offer for her services because she refused "because I want to have a chance to return to the Grauman, theatre magnate of Los Angeles and Hollywood, has been the most recent to offer an attractive engagement. Yesterday, Mrs. Pickford refused an offer by the Orpheum to play at Grauman's Metropolitan Theatre Los Angeles for one week. The story is better told in the two telegrams which Mrs. Pickford received from Sid Grauman to Mrs. Jack Pickford:

"Will you please spend a few weeks vacation in Los Angeles. Would you consider it great favor if you will come and make good on your offer. Will be pleased to have you visit your old home and open the first engagement to open at your theater. The show will be attractive and we will do our best to get you the best out of Los Angeles."

"Indly."
ICE BUYS RIGHTS TO HISTORICAL NOVEL

Following the announcement at Thomas H. Ince will produce "Anna Christie" and "Bar-
By Freicht in the First Naral release, now comes word that he had purchased from the director's pri-ution rights to "The Barber irture for "The Producers.
New Orleans," which had a successful run as a stage play, and which will also be a First National pic-also be a First National picture in line with his policy of putting out screen productions in big dramatic moments lesren, written by playwrights of earn merit. Mr. Carpenter, so president of the Screen amastics Society, has never cut out a play that has failed public approval.

The Barber of New Orleans" als with a period in American story when the Louisiana Pur-seas in the Crescent City.
he picturesque atmosphere
va and the legend of the novel, ails is brought out in the story.

The Barber of New Orleans" had a tremendous play, running through two edi-
. Mr. Carpenter, in discuss-g the story, said the idea of it ue to him from letters which were written in New Orleans at the time of the Louisiana Pur-
From a historical point view, the narrative is accurate every detail. Mr. Carpenter aying been aided in the pre-ation of his material by John ichardson, who said, "In those days there was no re pictorial spot in the world that the barber's pole," said r. Carpenter, "The people were spirited, courteous, hospita-he degree of living and the big scenes in stress. Their customs were aint, mediaval. The barbar hat time were men of much portance. Besides performing ial tasks, they were men of ual, fell well, met," who aw all the gossipy of their com-

TO REDUCE FOOTAGE IN FEATURE FILMS

That all future productions bearing "Dix" Smith's name where within the five and six footage, and will never ex-number, is the statenment made, that in order to reduce the charge of a production unit for Brothers. The depart-ence in policy follows an exchange of correspondence with hundreds of exhibitors and deep study of the situation. It is also result of the continuous conroversy that has been in the foreground of discussion apropos short versus long features.

"I intend to reduce the footage and Fast, after seven months demand of the exhibitors," Mr.
rap says. From querying them,
News came to the conclusion that they demand pictures withithese limits, and do not take to the seven, eight and nine features.

"It is quite difficult to tell a story in such a short number of reels, but it done must be in the exhibitors interest, and I shall the end. As the best means to further this, I shall spend a lot of time with the scenarist writer eliminating the unimportant and shaping the continuity so that when the picture is cut it will not hurt the continuity. This means that a great deal of very hard work and time will be needed before the picture is shot.

Mr. Rap is earnest in assuring the exhibitors of his intention to provide them the same high-class product they have had in the past. While improving on each picture, he means to keep the same weight which he siders an important factor in entertainment.

His latest production, "Brass," acted from Charles G. Norris' while of marriage and divorce, has been receiving favorable comment from many exhibitors.
Mr. Carpenter, in a communication to Mr. Rap, congratulates Monte Blue and Marie Prevost costarring in it.

McRae Returning Here From the Orient

Henry McRae, American motion picture producer, and member of his camera expedition into the Orient, have sailed from the Maine, after seven months in quest of out-of-the-beaten-path scenes.

The beginning of the return to Hollywood of this party was called this week to Mr. McRae's representatives here by Dai Fujikawa, chief of the proc-ducer's camera staff upon the expedition. The wire was sent from Singapore.

In the course of the McRae eploration of the Orient the party journeyed through Japan, China, Southeast Asia, and Siam. From the reports from McRae from time to time the footage taken during the sojourn in the Orient is close to a half-mil-ion feet, and from remarks by the head of the unit, the objective of the unusual has been fully attained.

Dix is Realistic

Richard Dix believes in realism. In C. B. DeMille's "Ten Commandments," Dix plays a carpenter. He purchased a new juicer and sent that the carpenter shop with it on to trade for a used one. The trade was readily made, and when
Mr. Rap, in charge of the shop, he spelled some nails from the pocket of his old juicer to "come up" so as to the foreman of the shop as Dix kept on going. So back came Dix and put the "come up." So good was his make-up for his carpenter thought Dix one of his hired hands.

MCA買って rights to historical novel

CARPENTER FALLS
HERE FROM THE ORIENT

White working this week in the Fox Studios above one of the big yellow pillars are seen in the big department sale setting for Rowland V.
Lee's production, "You Can't Get Away With It," one of the studio carpenters missed his footing and plunged twenty feet down in the great tube.

The crash of the fall, which was broken by braces on the inner side of the pillar and several unprintable remarks uttered by the carpenter during the development of his experience in the form of a block and tackle.

He was hoisted back to safety without injury, except for a few scratches.

Dan Keefe, Mr. Lee's assistant, was disposed not to regard the incident as singular.

"When we strike the set," he said to the director, "I'll bet we find a lot of 'em down in those pots." The diameter of the pillars is about that of a horse.

The recent decision of the Warner Bros. to hold the world privileges of all future classics of the screen in Los Angeles has resulted in a getting a coveted position the studio publicity department. Charles E. Kurtz arrived recently as the news of a publicity director to become managing editor of exploitation of the biggest product. Harold V. Wallis, a prominent, will relieve his next p. a. of the studio duties and will be given support in his important by another member of the Warner's eastern staff who is due here soon.

TAKE FIRST SHOTS ON DOUG'S NEW PICTURE

Approximately one year and three months since the time he within Doug Fairbanks began work on his new picture production, "The Thief of Bagdad," which is well progressed, 16 actual first shots were taken with a small group of people on the glimmer stage that will dominate architecturally as did the castle in "Robin Hood.

No definite time has been scheduled for the completion of the feature, because many important considerations of the photography cannot be held which may cause unforeseen setbacks. That the picture will be ready for release before the close of the year is undoubted.

It took Doug about four months to produce "Robin Hood," worked on which nearly a year has elapsed during which he has made preparations for his new picture. During this time he was seriously contemplating doing a pirate story, but later abandoned this when Edward Knoblock offered the suggestion of the legendary theme.

"The Thief of Bagdad" will undoubtedly be the most enthralling and colorful of any of the pictures ever made. It will set new standards in photography, and perhaps many unsuspected innovations. It promises to revive the romance of the old picture screen.

The leading roles in the picture besides that of Fairbanks will be played by Rebecca Nor-Hurst, Charles Delcher, Schnitz and Ralph Walser is directing, and Edson in charge of the photography.

BLENCHIE SWEET ENDS NEW GOLDWYN FEATURE

Blanche Sweet, who for the past month has been portraying the leading role in Goldwyn's
"In the Palace of the King," has concluded this characterization.
This marks Miss Sweet's first appearance in a costume part for some years and is said to prevent her at her best in the colorful character of the quaint old Spanish Princess.

Miss Sweet, after her return to the screen, has been besieged with contracts by producers.
She is at present holding off all eengagements until the production plans of "Tea of the Guests" are actually completed.
She is to portray the part of Tea" under the direction of herself, husband, Marshall Avedon. Producer is anxious to have her star in an adaptation of a famous stage play. If it is set up she will start work with this film immediately.

ENDS
Marguerite La Mont
Leads Heavies
Characters
Vermont 5780

MARY OVERLOCK
Ingénues
Holly 3053

SUSANNA THOMAS
Terpsichorean and Dramatic Artist
567-322

MADOLIN SCOTT
Ingénues—Dancing—Characters
Drexel 0967
ICKFORD CAST IS NEARLY ALL COMPLETE

Three more players were added this week to the Pickford Company’s forthcoming production, one of which will be begun within a few days.

The players cast were Frank Egh, Ralph Yearls, and James Younger, who will portray the role of a colored family in this story of the cotton mills. Leight has been used as the heavy and Yeary will enact the role of a stupid young boy.

Ludde Ricken, one of the brightest young women of the year, has been engaged to play a romantic feminine lead opposite Jack. The Pickford Company will live this week for Boulder week Canyon, where the few exterior scenes of the picture will be taken. The picture will be made almost entirely on sets as there are only a few exterior scenes.

Harold Chirmer, art designer, has built the sets for “Behind the Door” and “Below the Surf,” and other scenes. He is now designing the sets for Pickford's new picture. George Hill, who made Jack Doyle’s “The Unholy Maria,” will direct Jack. In addition to the cast and production staff, Jack will be accompanied on location by his wife, Beryl Miller.

RECTOR USES PLANE TO TRANSPORT ACTORS

The first use of airplanes to carry actors to and from work was inaugurated Monday by Ed. Cummer, under whom the “Bad Man,” from first national.

Because Holbrook Blinn andottie Kibbee are essaying the stage version of a play at a local theater, and they are not available for playing on the stage, Carewe is utilizing two planes daily to take them to and from location south of Sylmar.

Every morning at 7:30 o’clock Renee, Blinn and Sellen in two “hep off” from the Los Angeles Weekly Wake-Up—CAMEIRA’S News Section Page Thirteen

“THE HUNTRESS” NOW BEING EDITED

Production was completed this week on “The Huntress,” a First National picture, starring Colleen Moore. The film is now in the hands of the editors.

“The Huntress” is a film version of Hubert Footner’s famous story of the same title, was directed by Lynn Reynolds. The film is a costume picture, but unusual inasmuch as it is a “western” without a cowboy, nito pony, or mounted policeman.

Six weeks was consumed in the making of this brilliant comedy of the great outdoors. Its exterior scenes were taken in one of the most picturesque spots of California high Sierras, in the “backyard of America” amid the lakes and peaks of the Mammoth Lake district.

“The Huntress” promises to be one of the most sprightly screen comedies ever filmed with the west as a background. It tells a simple story, yet plausible, dramatic and highly entertaining it.

Its story centers about a vivacious white girl, who is brought up in Indian and then, when learning that her parents has set out to win a husband by kidnapping a youth from the city. Colleen Moore portrayed the role of the Indian girl and Lloyd Hughes the part of the city boy.

Other members of the brilliant cast are Russell Simpson, Walter Long, Wilfred Lucas, Charles E. Anderson and Wilfred North.

HOLUBAR WILL GLOBE TROT FOR A YEAR

“The Wandering Jew” will have nothing on Allen Holubar, well known producer, during the coming year, for that he is under contract to make four big special productions for Metro.

Each one of the plays selected calls for a trip far from Hollywood. His first feature will take him on location to Dixieland, his second to a South Sea, his third to Alaska and his fourth to South America.

Holubar is determined to make each of the stories on the original locations described by the author available. In some instances he will save money by making the trips, because it will be less expensive than building the actual setting required at the Metro studios.

Mayne With Melford

Eric Mayne, who is just concluding an engagement in support of Mabel Normand in “The Extra Girl,” under Richard F. Jones’ direction, has been engaged to play a leading role in “The Light That Failed,” which will be filmed at the Lasky studios here.
Constance Talmadge is shooting an average of fifteen scenes a day in her new costume drama, "The Dangerous Maid," at the United Studios.

Director Frank Lloyd is working day and night in the cutting room on Norma Talmadge's greatest picture, "Ashes of Vengeance."

C. Gardner Sullivan, head of the Joseph M. Schenck scenario department, has returned from New York after looking for new story material.

Frances Marion is adapting "The Desire," Norma Talmadge's new photoplay, which will be started within a month. She will co-direct the production with Chester Franklin.

Conway Tearle, who played opposite Norma Talmadge in "Ashes of Vengeance," has done another 17th century uniform for Constance Talmadge in "The Dangerous Maid," which Victor Heerman is directing.

Charles Gerrard, who is playing the part of Sir Peter Barrie in "The Man," Norma Talmadge's latest comedy-drama, "The Dangerous Maid," was imported from New York for the part.

Tod Browning, Goldwyn director, is now making "The Day of Faith," by Arthur Somers Roche, says: "Light your lanterns."

Running a circus as a sideline was but a part of the activities of Frederic Herzing, when portraying the owner of the vodka joint in Marshall Nellite's "The Rendezvous." He had wooden soldiers, dancing girls, and everything.

Jean Del Val has just completed his contract with Famous having played one of the leading roles in "Zaza," starring Gloria Swanson.

Ruth Penick, who is at present on the coast, will return to New York in the fall to star in a series of special productions.

Templar Saxe has just completed "The Squal," which was made in New York.

Following the completion of "The Love Bandit," Victor Sutherland will be starred by Chas. Biancy in a series of pictures.

E. H. Griffith is at present cutting and editing his big cosmopolitan special, "Unseen Eyes," which starred Lionel Barrymore and Seena Owen.

Fred Cavens, noted fencing master, has just completed a long engagement with Frank Lloyd, in "Ashes of Vengeance," a Schenck Production, starring Norma Talmadge, and has been retained as fencing-master for the same company for their next production, "The Dangerous Maid," starring Constance Talmadge.

Tote Du Crow has just finished playing Sun Sun, the Chinese interpreter, in "The Lord of Thundergale," which is being filmed at the United Studios under the direction of Joseph De Grasse.

Edwin Carewe, producer of "The Bad Man," with Holbrook film in the same role, has selected Enid Bennett, who portrayed the role of Maid Marian in "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," for the part of "Mrs. Morgan Pelt," in the film version of Porter Emerson Browne's famous border comedy.

Eugenie Besserer, who portrays a Russian peasant in March, says her character has been in theatricals since childhood. One of her early parts was the characterization of Oliver Twist.

A man with twenty dogs—Emmett Corrigan, who plays an important part in Marshall Nellite's Russian drama, "The Rendezvous." Mr. Corrigan has a kennel of police dogs back in New Jersey, but their number is too great to ship west.

Cleo Madison has started on a new picture contract which will keep her busy here for the entire summer. Miss Madison recently completed "The Man From Texas Strike."

Alvye Mills has been engaged to play one of the leading feminine roles in support of Constance Binney in "Clipped Wings," a C. C. Burr production, which is being made in Glendale.

Wm. N. Bailey of "Polly Preferred" has been engaged by C. C. Burr to play the leading male role in "Clipped Wings," opposite Constance Binney.

Johnny Hines has been re-engaged for an indefinite period by Goldwyn, which produces "Do Not Disturb," which recently completed the starring role in "Little Johnny Jones," a picturization of George M. Cohan's play of the same name. The name of Hines' next picture has not been announced.

Charles Rosher, chief cinematographer for Mary Pickford, has been secured by the Warner Brothers as chief cameraman for Dunham's "Little Johnny, Jones." Fred Leeder is starring Lenore Ulric under the direction of Sidney Franklin.

Little Dorothy Scay has just finished work in Fox's "You Can't Get Away With Everything," directed by Iolani Lee.

After a brief vacation from the stage, actor-manager Charles Lederer returns to the fold as a guest at Grauman's Concert at the Million Dollar Theater this Sunday in a new routine of characterizations with music, including his own conception of Shylock and the Italian ladignant in "The Merchant of Venice."

Max Mogi has been engaged by the Jack White Productions to play the part of a Hindu in one of their Mermaid Comedies, starring Lige Conley and which Huglie Fay is directing.

Crighton Hale is in the list of popular actors whose life is one of success after another. Crighton Hale has been occupied the past five weeks in delineating a young law student in the Hall Caine play, "The Man," which Victor Seastrom is directing for Goldwyn. It's one of the most important roles to which he is especially adapted and which he will complete in about four weeks.

One of Ralph Lewis' first screen portrayals under the direction of D. W. Griffith in his splendid 1914 drama, "The Mystery Letter," he is now starring as one of Uncle Sam's finest in "The Mailman." It takes Jane Novak three hours every morning to make up for her role of the imprisoned mother in Chester Bennett's production of "The Lullaby," in which she plays the starring role. So perfect is her make-up that hardly anyone on the studio stage is able to recognize the woman, who portrays the charming Chester Bennett star. Many of her brilliant dramatic scenes are with Fred Emmerson who plays the role of the Judge.

Edward J. Montague, noted lawn tennis player, who adapted to the screen "The Barefoot Boy," and "The Secret of Bentza," has just finished shooting "The Common Law," and "The Swamp Angel," both of which will be shown in the fall. He will be seen in the new one-reel feature for Warner Brothers, "The Man Who Loved.""The Man Who Loved" will be shown in the fall. He will be seen in the new one-reel feature for Warner Brothers."

When Lenore J. Coffee, author of "Poor Men's Wives," and other photoplays first took up literature as a profession she gave considerable thought to the study of foreign languages. After several years she finally mastered French and German. Now she is writing for the silent drama and doesn't know who to do with them.

Tyrone Power has complete "The Day of Faith" and will make two more features before returning to New York.

Wm. N. Bailey, who is at present playing villainous parts opposite Constance Binney! C. C. Burr's "Clipped Wings," will star in a series of special features upon the completion of his present contract.

Arthur Houseman is considering joining the host of stars here, having received a flattering offer that would keep him here for a year.

"Little Boy Blue" is the title selected for Monty Banks' comedy for Grand-Asher formerly called "A Concrete Mixture," was directed by Harry Edward Mony, has just finished shooting "The Sands" which Herman Reymond directed and has started another with Edwards again the megaphone. Title as yet announced.

Arvid Gillstrom has a lot of corking stunts in his present picture for Grand-Asher, starring Joe Rock, with Billie Rhodes. One fact, he says, is that the megaphone picture as well as a huge proponent "Patty" Alexander and Lois Scott are also in the cast. Jerry Ash is shooting.

WILL MAKE PERSONAL APPEARANCE

Baby Muriel MacCormac, clever child actress, who has been well remembered for her work as one of the twins in "Poor Men's Wives" and for brilliant performance in many other successful screen, is to make a personal appearance and be the guest of honor at the Evans Photo Booth at the Motion Picture Exhibition, exposition. She will be in the studio in a most attractive Southern outfit and will give a real talk with: The New Donor," the third of her series, will give away one hundred autographed photos of herself.
THEY(strcmp("ESTS NOVEL FILM CONTEST AT GLENDALE")

Then "Judgment of the Storm," the first screen production of the weekly motion picture contest sponsored by the Glenlake-El Dorado Community, is released this fall. Public criticism of the picture has been lamentable, both in the national and local contests. Prizes totaling thousands of dollars for the best constructive criticism of a picture have been announced. The first public criticism comes from a motion picture reviewer who was held at Glendale, California, with "Judgment of the Storm," a prize-winning picture. Glenlake's contribution to picture making has been tested for its potentialities in production. "The Covered Wagon," and many others having been shown to a loyal audience. The Palmer Corporation's test-study, offering prizes of $900 to the best script, was quickly packed the large theatre where "Judgment of the Storm" was shown, it was reported by the reviewer to turn away the crowds twenty minutes before curtain time. According to Roy Williams, in charge of the Palmer Corporation, the contest has demonstrated the ability of students to contribute materially to the entertainment they create.

"This Proves You Never Can Tell"

When Lynwood Crystal Rapp, the rising child artist, returned to Hollywood to resume her picture work after a vaudeville tour, it was widely heralded that her rare beauty would win for her a place of stellar prominence within a very short time. The interesting part of this is, something very besides beauty has come to the foreground to keep her very busy. That something else is talent—she is proving herself so quickly, that it is practically that she is kept busy continually and is generally booked ahead.

There is no exaggeration whatever in the statement that little Miss Rapp is one of the most beautiful children that ever lived and she certainly has few rivals on the screen. In her next few forthcoming releases, it is said she will demonstrate that her personal charms, however variable, are supplemented by a unique ability, all of which goes to prove once more that it is ever difficult to accurately judge in advance where the secret of a success lies in reality.

This young lady made her first deep impression on the screen as a protege of Mary Pickford, and just now, according to reports from various studios, she is more than living up to the expectations of her distinguished benefactress.

Only recently it was announced that negotiations were under way for a starring project for petite Miss Rapp, and were long a definite announcement of her future bigger plans will be made. Meanwhile she is working most every day playing important parts in important pictures.

Bob Redell McKee is just a regular fellow who, upon leaving college two years ago, where he made a name for himself in athletics, has tried his hand at everything from pick and shovel to motor-cycle racing. He is a daring and clever driver, as well as being his own mechanic, and last week crossed the continent alone in a small car of his own manufacture, having several harrowing experiences.

He has just joined the new Hollywood Athletic Club, where he hopes to take up his residence upon its completion.

While claiming no signal success as an actor, he has in the past year put over several good hits, and recently completed an engagement with the Phil Gold stock production, "What Women Want."

TWO-REEL COMEDY COSTS AMATEUR ONLY $300

The cheapest two-reel picture production of a comic or dramatic nature has just been produced. It was made in Oakland, California, under direction of a man who has only contact with or knowledge of motion pictures before was an extension course in screen play with the Palmer Photographic School. The picture is "Mr. H. H. Glaser, and in himself he constituted his entire staff, from story writer to sales agent and from camera boy to directing producer.

Mr. Glaser brought his two-reeler comedy to Hollywood, and arrangements are being made to secure its release through regular channels. The cost of his production, including some film wasted in learning to operate his camera, was $300. The actual camera work took fourteen days. The cast, consisting of seven principals and twenty-six minor parts, was composed of a local talent who had never acted for the camera before.

This film is considered a unique achievement in professional film circles. Mr. Glaser attributes his accomplishment and the surprising degree of success he attained to the pains-taking system he used in charting camera angles, "shots," and light conditions at various hours of the day. He knew nothing of photography, even as a secondary amateur, until he began his production preparations. Then he not only "shot" but developed his own film. He spent a month training his amateur actors, while experimenting with his camera, and perfecting his plans.

Carmel Myers will not play in "Poncho;" as had been previously announced. Miss Myers has had to cancel her engagement with the her own film. He spent a month training his amateur actors, while experimenting with his camera, and perfecting his plans.

The popular Koak sister, Beth and Marguerite, will appear in the Pilgrimage Play at the Bowl. Beth now has a prominent part in the "Covered Wagon" production she and Marguerite is with Jackie Coogan in "Long Live the King."

According to an announcement made this week, Eugenia Feiner, who recently completed an entire film role in the "Bolero" by Hughes, is "The Foot of the Hill" at Universal, will probably play the leading feminine part in the initial feature picture to be made by the Delbert E. Davenport Production. W. E. Burnham, general manager of this company, is so favorably impressed with the dramatic talent and beauty of this young actress that he is enthusiastic in predicting very early completion.

"I predict now she will be among those chosen by the Wampas as the stars of tomorrow at their next selection session," Mr. Burnham says. "I believe Miss Feiner is one of the few new faces the screen has acquired.

Miss Feiner hails from St. Louis, where she achieved fame as a singer and dancer. She had been a society leader of prominent families and had been a professional career. Her is one of the pioneer and most influential in a short time. She was an old player, Bern recently adapted to the screen is Hall Caine's novel, "The Master of Man," which Victor Sestrom is now directing at the Goldwyn studio.

Lorraine Eason, who enacted the role of "Echo," about whom the story revolves in "The Temple of Venice," has returned from a three weeks location at Santa Cruz Island.

Edna Mae Cooper has finished her part in the "Ten Commandments," and is due to the "The King of Kings and Baggage" at the Hollywood Studio, under the direction of Finks Fox.

The popular Koak sister, Beth and Marguerite, will appear in the Pilgrimage Play at the Bowl. Beth now has a prominent part in the "Covered Wagon" production she and Marguerite is with Jackie Coogan in "Long Live the King."
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, July 16

Camera! intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-889.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Camera</th>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst. Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BRENTWOOD STUDIO. 4811 Fountain Ave.</td>
<td></td>
<td>Lou Angle Productions.</td>
<td>Rock Cook</td>
<td>H. Toree</td>
<td>Burt, Hal</td>
<td>Untitled</td>
<td>1st Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FINE ARTS STUDIOS. 4500 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>Frank M. Willard, Studio Mgr.</td>
<td>CHAPLIN STUDIO.</td>
<td>H. J. Lamione</td>
<td>Neal Burns</td>
<td>John Harvey</td>
<td>&quot;Wild &amp; Wooley&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FOX STUDIO. 1401 N. Western Ave.</td>
<td>Fred Kley, Studio Mgr.</td>
<td>GARSON PRODUCTIONS. 1845 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td>Bill Patten</td>
<td>Mary Rogers</td>
<td>F. W. Raymond</td>
<td>Neitz</td>
<td>Wilshire 8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDEN WEST STUDIO. 4011 Lankershim Blvd.</td>
<td>Lankershim 132.</td>
<td>GOLDSTONE STUDIO. 1426 Beechwood Dr.</td>
<td>Jack Nogas</td>
<td>Betty Cook</td>
<td>Sid Warner</td>
<td>Al St. John</td>
<td>Staff</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GOLDWYN STUDIOS. R. B. McIntyre, Casting.</td>
<td>Culver City. 76171.</td>
<td>PHIL GOLDSTONE PRODUCTIONS. (State Rights release).</td>
<td>Harry Tynock</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td>&quot;Dark Places&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>GRAND STUDIO. 1438 Gower St.</td>
<td>Ben Verschleiser, General Manager.</td>
<td>INTERSTATE PICTURES CORPORATION.</td>
<td>Jenn Burt Calvert, Casting.</td>
<td>Culver City, Calif.</td>
<td>J. B. Calvert Productions.</td>
<td>Joe Campana, Frank Cameron</td>
<td>Belmont-Woodhouse Drama</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Notes:
- "Pulse of the Studios" is a weekly publication that provides information about the film industry, including studio productions, shooting schedules, and casting news.
- The table lists various studios, their productions, and the people involved in them, along with their progress or release dates.
- The content is presented in a structured format, making it easy to read and understand.

---

Details:
- Director: Identified the person responsible for directing the film.
- Star: The main actor in the film.
- Cameraman: Responsible for capturing the visual elements of the film.
- Asst. Director: The assistant director who assists the director in managing the film.
- Scenario: The story or plot of the film.
- Type: Indicates whether the film is a comedy, drama, or other genre.
- Progress: The status of the production, such as shooting, editing, or release.
Pulse of the Studios

HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS. 6642 Santa Monica Blvd.  J. Jasper, Mgr.  Holly 1431

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Ass't Director</th>
<th>Scenarist</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Harald Lloyd Corporation.—Wm. R. Fraser, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fred Fox Productions.—R. R. Beatty, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>richard Thomas Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Foreing Cummings Productions.—Charles Woolstenhulme, Production Manager.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>supreme Art Productions.—Charles, J. Hall</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>independent Art Productions.—Richard Stanton, Producer.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Donald MacMillan.—J. Fraser</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

BORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr.

| 1442 Beachwood Drive. Mante West, Studio Mgr. | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| World Educational Films. | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Helen | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Al Neitz | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Alson | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Thomas H. Ince Corporation. | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| John | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |

NCE STUDIO. Horace Williams, Casting.  Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr.  Culver City 761731

| almer Photoplay Productions. | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| rand Productions | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| urble-Murfin Productions. | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Murfin-McCloskey All-Star | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Lauranee Trumble Street-Farmer | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| assoc. Authors, Inc. | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| W. VanDyke All-Star | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Lloyd Primer | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Thomas H. Ince Corporation. | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Henry Sharpe | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |

ASKY STUDIOS. L. M. Goodstadt, Casting.  1520 Vine St.  Holly 2409

| armament Pictures. (Famous Players-Lasky release). | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Herb. Bremen | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Max DeMille | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Vas. Craine | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Max. DeMille | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Geo. Mafford | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| All-E. Green | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Maclean Henry | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |

FAYE-SCHULBERG STUDIO. 3800 Mission Rd. Individual Casting.  Lincoln 2120

| ois E. Mayer Productions. (Metro release). | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Reinhardt Barker | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Tom Seymour | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Tom Forrest All-Star | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Curt Sefton | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Jack Coogan Productions, Inc. | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Victor Schertzinger | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |

NEVA GERBER PRODUCTIONS. 6735 Holly Blvd. —

| Dearholmes—Jill—Ivan | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Neva Gerber | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |

NATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St.  Holly 4470

| technicolor M. P. Corp.—C. A. Willat, Mgr. | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Ray Rappanhan | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| G. W. Cave | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Color Photography | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Schedule | | | | | | |

PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 7100 Santa Monica Blvd.  Holly 7901

| United Artists Release. | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Roa Walsh | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Douglas Fairbanks John Edson J. T. O'Donnell | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Staff | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| "The Thief of Bagdad" 3rd Week | | | | | | |

PRINCIPAL PICTURE CORP. 7250 Santa Monica.  Holly 2806

| Edgar Clive | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Bud | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Willard McRough | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |

R-C STUDIO. Melrose and Gower. 780 Gower St.  Holly 7780

| Individual Productions. (Film Booking Offices.) | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Leonard | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Emory Johnson | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Ralph Wilson | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| William J. McDermott | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Lorne Leichter | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. C. Walker, Mgr. 6701 Santa Monica Blvd.  579-440

| Ronman | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| A. M. Coogan | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Bill Severin | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| "Light of the World" 6th Week | | | | | | |

KOACH STUDIO. Culver City.  Warren Doane, Mgr.  761-721

| Hal Roach Comedies (Pathes release). | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Roscoe Arbuckle | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| "Dad" Parrott | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| All-Star | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Van Dyke | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Freeman | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| Clark Grace | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |

| Comedies of "Our Gang" | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| "What Should a Girl Do?" | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| "Animal Comedy" | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| "Three-Reel Comedy" | | | | | | |

| Schedule | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| *Schedule | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| *Schedule | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |
| *Schedule | | | | | | |
| | | | | | | |

RAY STUDIO.  Albert A. Kidder, Jr., Gen'l Mgr.  1425 Fleming St.

RUSSEL STUDIO.  B. D. Russell, Mgr.  1439 Beachwood Dr.

SENNENT STUDIO.  1712 Glendale Blvd.

SUNSET PRODUCTIONS.  7425 Sunset Blvd.

WILNAT STUDIO.  6070 Sunset Blvd.  Al. Brandt, Mgr.

DR. W. I. SCHUSTER
Palmer Graduate Chiropractor
"WHERE THE SICK GO TO GET WELL"
203 Bogardus Bdg., Sunset at Western Hours 10 to 12; 2 to 5  Phone 436-724

H. W. WALL, M. D.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
Post Graduate Chicago and New York
Holly 102-82; 57288 6702 Hollywood Blvd.

SUNSET TAXI
Touring Cars $2 per hour

Special Rates on Studio Trips and Touring.

Universal City $1.00  Club Royal  3.00
Mayer Studio 2.50  Calver City
Holly-Fairbanks 2.75  United Studios 1.00
Fox Studios 2.75  Robertson-Cole 2.00
Fox Studios 2.75  Metro Studios 1.25
Lasky Studios 2.75  Ambassador Hotel 1.50
Santa Monica 3.50  Venice 4.00
Pasadena 3.50  Center of Los Angeles 2.00
All Stations 2.50  Plantation 3.00

578-280  578-307
GEORGE AND BASEAL
BOOKASTA

Just finished important parts with Mary Pickford in "Rosita." Engaged for Douglas Fairbanks' forthcoming "The Thief of Bagdad." Obtainable as team or individually. The only TEAM, publicized by Fred W. Fox. All communications relative to engagements should be directed to

FRED W. FOX
Publicity Manager, 6318 Hollywood Boulevard

LOIS SCOTT

is with Joe Rock and Billie Rhodes in a new comedy directed by Gillstrom now being made for Grand-Asher release.

Holly 10174

MAX MOGI

1014 Kensington Road

Phone Wilshire 5145

Remember
RIENE RALEIGH

1098 Hollywood
A good card every Friday night. Clean and sportsmanly boxing at all times. All filmland comes here. Do you? PHONE HOLLY 100 FOR YOUR RESERVATIONS RIGHT NOW!

American Legion Stadium
Hollywood Boulevard at El Centro Ave.

FROM U TO YOU
(Continued from Page 6)

Storm Daughter" especially for Miss Dean. Lee McCarey will assist Archainbaud.

Owen Gorine, recently brought from England by the Universal Pictures Corporation, will have a principal role in support of Priscilla Dean in "The Storm Daughter." Lewis Brench Brown's original story will enter production at Universal City very shortly.

The story is a sea story, most of its characters "rough-cut," George Archainbaud, director of "The Power of a Lie," and other Universal successes, will direct this as a Universal-Jewel special.

Norman Kerry, handsome leading man of Universal's two, has completed spectacles "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and "Merry-Go-Round," failed to report on the set a few days ago for his work in the leading masculine role of "The Acquittal," and star Universal-Jewel special. A message from his house said that he had been sent to a sanitarium under a doctor's care for one of the most unusual injuries ever suffered by an actor.

While doing a scene of the latter, he accidentally struck the corner of a metal cigar box with some force. The result apparently was nothing more than a deep cut on his finger—but is developed into something similar to blood poison. It became so serious that he was ordered to rest.

Now, however, he is well again and will return to work at once.

Clarence J. Brown is directing the filming of Rita Weiman's stage play with Kerry, Claire Windsor, Barbara Bedford, Frederick Vroom, Harry Mestayer and others of note in the principal roles.

Jules Furthman made the adaptation.

Colonel Gordon McGee, research expert at Universal City, in present association with the Hobart Henley unit making Virginia Valli's starring vehicle, "A Lady of Quality," is a world traveler and has relatives all over the face of the globe. He has served in several wars and been in many lands in the course of his military career.

Recently a nephew of his, three years older than himself, was appointed Premier of Ontario after a consistent political rise in Parliament. His name is Howard Ferguson.

Adeline M. Alvord
Books
Plays
Film Enterprises
211 HOLLYWOOD SEC. BLDG.
Phone HOLLY 6962

Hugh Hoffman
Scenario and Production Supervisor

Art Lee
SPECIALIST ON MAKE-UP
Will teach you how to Make Up Correctly. Read my references
Telephone 598-297
1712 St. James Court, Hollywood, at Western

WE MOVE THE MOVIES
Shine
and on Service-

Reproductions,
Still Finishing
LITTLE
Commercial Photographer
Phone 437962
1874 Hollywood Blvd., Corner Bronson

Animated Cartoons—Original Title Ideas
Clay Animation—Miniature Sets
Units Animated Figures
Cinema Arts Studio
ELMER H. YOUNG, Manager
628 Lesper Building, Phone 644-92

Frank The Shoe Doctor
"We serve your sole and heel you, too"
6666 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 3752

WHY BE FAT
When the Marshall Method will reduce your weight a pound a day safely, inexpensively and permanently.

Consultation free.
Phone 591-262
for appointment

Home Office:
1733 Malmaison Ave.
Los Angeles, Cal.

Have your figure permanently Marshelled NOW

Imported Oriental Art Goods and Bric-a-Brac
Oriental Costume Co.
6223 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 5954

Highest Title Efficiency
Our Aim

We secured the services of Mr. Irving W. Bunze from Craftsmen Laboratories, New York, who is the Greatest Hand Letter Artist in the country.

Also introduce the Lane Patent Process for 100% Printed Titles.

"Give Us a Trial"

Quality Title & Film Co.
1442 Beechwood Dr. Holly 4850

"CAMERA!"

FOR RENT—High grade still outfits, $5.00 per week. Little Town Big Photographer, 617 Hollywood Boulevard. Phone 497-302.

Studio Space Cheap: Open and Covered Stages!

The Bronx Studio on Glendale Boulevard offers an unusual opportunity for independent producers to save big sum on space renting overhead. Investigate this today!

H. and B. FILM COMPANY
Bronx Studio, 1745 Glendale Blvd.
AN OIL PAINTING

costs quite a sum of money, but you can have your photograph colored to look just as beautiful at a much lower price. My specialty is portrait paintings of the finest type. Special rates on fan pictures.

Emma G. Hoffman
907 Central Bldg. Phone 142-38

Walter Frederick Seely
Shadowed Photography
1448 North Wilcox
(One-half block west of Cahuenga at Sunset)
Telephone 43-774

MARION WARDE
ACTING AND MAKE-UP
FOR THE STAGE
AND FILMS
CLASSICAL, CHARACTER BALLET AND
STEP-DANCING
423-4 MUSIC ARTS BUILDING
233 SOUTH BROADWAY
PHONE 821-181

hardee kirkland
hollywood
6298

YOUR PHONOGRAPH
will reproduce in soft Mellow Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a Deflexographe

Fits any Phonograph or Victrola
Using Changeable Needles
Play after hours will not disturb.
Deflexographe attaches to needle holder; filters sound oscillations, prevents scratch and surface noise; entering sound without noise. No metallic noises.

C. de FREITAS
Cinematographe. At Liberty
Phone Drexel 3906. B. & H. Camera

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"

COLBURN'S
Taxidermy Studio
Phone 643-13
1033-37 Broadway Place

...exceeds in mounting of fish—trout our specialty...
...see samples at our studio

BRUNO
6412 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 3821

LEADING ROLE IN SCREEN PLAYS
NOT ALWAYS MOST IMPORTANT

"The leading role in screen plays is not always the most important one!" That is the startling statement of Ruby Miller, famous English actress who has recently arrived in this country after a tour of Australia and the Orient with her own company.

"I mean the day of the wish-wash, blushing ingenue who never seems to know what it all is about is past.

"Who was the outstanding player in The Covered Wagon?" Neither the hero nor the heroine, but the character played in a most interesting fashion by Ernest Torrence. Here was a work which eclipsed both that of the leading players. By force of personality he commanded every scene in which he appeared.

"Blood and Sand" proved to be the stepping stone for Nita Naldi, who played a 'vamp' role. The leading feminine player in the production is hardly remembered. Not that it is the fault of the actress, but it merely proves that the role which required more acting ability than good looks is usually more important to the success of the picture than the leading feminine player.

"The Famous Players-Lasky organization announce on their production program for the forthcoming six months only two feminine stars, Gloria Swanson and Pola Negri. Here is food for thought."

There was so much red blood spilt during the war that everybody lost patience with the wailing heroine, who is making idotic fuss over no trouble at all. It was only her innocence and ignorance that got her into the predicament.

How Not to Get Into Pictures

(Continued from Page 5)

rector never send him your usual form letter which starts: "I've just seen your latest picture. Your acting is wonderful." Do not get a letter of introduction from your local theatre owner. Letters of introduction are what keep studios in a state of panic.

Do not send in snapshots taken by a Brownie II camera. Picnic pictures seldom do you justice.

Do not come to Hollywood unless you are financially able to wait for your opportunity. Engagements at the beginning are few and far between.

Never try to get into a studio by saying you are a newspaper writer, if you are not. The publicity department will soon get your number.

Overweight? Underweight?
Something absolutely new: a wafer, a cracker, a cookie and a biscuit without any food value—not a calorie! Takes the place of bread and crackers. Allays hunger. Can be used on location. Adds bulk to any diet and is laxative. "ZERO" Products on sale at "THE DIET SHOP." Prescribed by physicians.

MRS. A. METZNER
Consultant
5621 Hollywood Boulevard

Publicity Engineer

Tamar Lane
Holly 737

Wonderful Bargains in Exclusive Clothes, Shoes, Hats for every occasion. These garments worn by Screen Stars and Society Matrons. A trial will convince. Call anytime.

Also disposing of complete wardrobes on a commission basis. See me before you buy or sell.

Mrs. James J. Craig
Apartment Shop
Broadway 1258 1206½ Sunset Blvd.

Especially for Motion Picture People.

THE HILLVIEW GRILL
Hillview Apartments Bldg.
Hollywood at Hudson
Holly 7930 Holly 6626

MERCHANTS LUNCH
11:30 to 2
DINNER
5:30 to 8

SCREEN SERVICE
(formerly The Service Bureau)
1036 South Hill
Phone 821-071

Selected Antiques
Turton's Antique Shop
Rainbow Valley

$198, $298, $398, $498, $10, $15, $20, $25 DOWN and $10.00 per month.

From Glendale—through Montrose, along Michigan Ave., to Tujunga, Sunland, RAINBOW VALLEY.

For further information call or write office of

RAINBOW VALLEY

100 East Colorado St.

Glendale, California

The most promising child actress on the screen today is Josephine Adair, whose versatility is well known. She has appeared in a number of excellent pictures and her portrayals have been very wide in range; everything from light comedy to drama of the most serious type. Those who are responsible for her progress realize what a big part adequate publicity—GOOD PUBLICITY—plays in modern motion picture production, and have enlisted the aid of this agency in building a strong and lasting foundation for her career. She is the only child actress I will publicize and in cooperation with the public press I hope to make her universally known. The success of Josephine Adair is assured.

Fred W. Fox
Motion Picture News and Advertising Service
6318 Hollywood Blvd.
Hollywood, California
Independent Producers Attention!

THE NEW

CULVER CITY STUDIO

INVITES YOUR INSPECTION

A most up-to-date studio with complete equipment offers the Independent Producer

Maximum Results at Minimum Cost. Co-operation Our Motto

Modern Office Suites Cosy Dressing Rooms Direct Current

PLUS SERVICE

Address Communications to Ralph De Lacy, Gen. Mgr.

6529 Venice Boulevard
Culver City, Calif.

I'll Tell the World—Who You Are”—Lichey.

Howard Lichtenstein
Company

PURVEYORS OF PUBLICITY

to their

MAJESTIES

the

KINGS AND QUEENS

of

MOVIELAND

Suite One, Conlon Bldg.
6047½ Hollywood Blvd.
Hollywood, California

—Personal Publicity
—Personal Representation
—Advertising Campaigns
"P. G." Smith Productions
6548 Hollywood Blvd.

Present a Series of Twelve Two-reel

Dan Mason Comedies

Emery Johnson
Sec'y-Treas.

"P. G." Smith
Gen'l Manager

Dan Mason as "Pop Tuttle"

Harry Mason
Co-Director

Joe Gonyea
Production Manager

Earl Rodney
Co-Director

Stories
Wilna Hervey

Ingenue Lead

Jack Duffy
Cinematographer
MARIE DICKFORD IN "DADDY LONG LEGS" AT THE KINEMA
UNO

AUTHENTIC DETAILS AND PHOTOGRAPHS OF FOREIGN INTERIORS
AND EXTERIORS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

INTERNATIONAL CINEMA RESEARCH
L.A. HOWLAND
Phone 438-761
300-301 HOLLYWOOD SECURITY BLDG.

DOROTHY CHASE

CHARACTERS

570-528

KENNETH GIBSON

who has finished his role as "Captain Harrington," the Juvenile lead with Constance Talmadge in the "The Dangerous Maid," a First National release being made by the Joseph M. Schenck Productions, at the United, under the direction of Vic. Heerman.

Under Personal Contract to Mrs. Harriet C. Higbee.

Holly 9787

"Make-Up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry"

TODAY and tomorrow and the days thereafter the service of this shop will continue uninterruptedly and with greatly increased value for we are building our business on the confidence of our patrons. A dissatisfied customer is a weak link in the chain and reduces the strength of the chain to a very great degree. We know of no weak links in the chain of our business.

ZAN MAKE-UP SHOP
819 South Hill...... Pico 498
The Editor Comments and Opines

If Henry Ford does run for president, it would be just like his opponent to win in a walk, scorning all Fords.

Warner Brothers have called a meeting of state right buyers in New York. To find out why they don't buy more?

Mrs. Wallace Reid has been received with open arms back east, which proves the "dope" on it being wise to slam the dope evil.

When intrigue comes in, efficiency passes out. Hence it is imperative that all forms of intrigue be eliminated from the motion picture industry. There is room for us all in our field providing no quarter is monopolized by intrigue.

Motion pictures by radio! What a thrill this possibility conjures up in the mind! Yet radio movies are well on the way to projection, and, incidentally man's inventive genius becomes more uncanny than ever. Scarcely anything is impossible any more unless it is Prohibition.

The abolition of blue laws is urged by a Kansas City preacher. He'll probably be fired from his job for being so unapologetically fair-minded, but he has performed a praise-worthy service for humanity just the same. So, he should worry over minds that are narrow.

Politics will be at white heat in another year and it is being freely admitted that political cliques plan on using the screen more extensively than ever for spell-binding. Here's hoping that they don't move moving pictures too far into the political arena so infested with dangerous pitfalls.

Neighborhood theatres in most large American cities are doing so much more business than was expected that a movement to increase seating capacities has become quite general. This is one more reason why the pessimists should pipe down and 'fess up that conditions are not so hopeless after all.

Will Hays has taken the initiative in raising $100,000 to donate to the Y. W. C. A., to increase its facilities in Hollywood for taking care of the large number of screen-struck girls who swarm into this film center from all parts of the world, only to be disillusioned and made to suffer from sheer financial want. This is real charity, but it would be even more charitable to conduct a propaganda campaign which would prevent most of these girls from invading filmland in vain in the first place.

Great Britain has been contemplating the placing of an embargo on American motion pictures, but that nation’s Parliament finally saw the folly of the move and shelved the idea. The claim has been set up that American pictures had a tendency to destroy the English film-making industry. The tendency probably still obtains, but it is because of the superiority of American cinema achievements and John Bull cannot afford to take the position of refusing to let merit prevail. Meanwhile it is up to Uncle Sam’s photoplay-producers to continue to excel.

Music has become as closely allied with the movies as possible in a mighty short space of time, but now the musical score bids fair to be an integral part of most every photoplay, the new idea being to compose it beforehand so it may be played during the taking of the various scenes of the picture, thus to inspire the players more. It is easy to understand wherein this practice will aid in making the action of the story move forward with a smoothness and more harmonious tempo, an end much to be desired. Verily the composer’s niche in film-building is bound to be important.

All kinds of predictions are being made concerning the future of motion pictures. Forsooth this seems to be the prize era for cinema prophesies. The interesting part of it is, the vast majority of these predictions are ultra-optimistic, most every-body expressing implicit faith in the prospects for unprecedented expansions in this business. According to announcements made thus early, the forthcoming fall will be the banner time for film production activities in the Hollywood and Culver City districts. And the inevitable lull coincident with summer is not much of a lull this year either. Hence it is unmistakably patent that there is ample reason for all their optimistic predictions—they are based on something more than mere exploitation buncombe.

Leading exhibitors are again discussing the proposition of increasing theatre admission fees. Just what necessity there is for any advance in ticket prices at this time is not clear. Certainly it would be all wrong to make the movies less democratic and accessible by raising the prices beyond the means of the great masses of people from whom most of the support is drawn. Any higher rates as a general industry policy now would tend to check the growth of the universal popularity of moving pictures and since the trend towards new zeniths of patronage is so pronounced throughout the country at present, it would surely be suicidal to make it seem that mercenary motives are transcending all things else among those responsible for cinema entertainment. If the margin of profit is a little too slight, why not be content if such sentiment will be instrumental in promoting the size of the patronage?
Morosco
744 So. Broadway

"Dulcy"

Mason
127 So. Broadway

Dark

Egans
Pic and Figueroa

"Getting Gertie's Garter"

Hippodrome
520 So. Broadway

Vaudeville

Orpheum
630 So. Broadway

Pantages

Hill at Seventh

Vaudeville and

"Nanook of the North"

Hillstreet

Hill at Eighth

Vaudeville and

Trix Frigana in

"Mind Over Motor"

Burbank

Main near Sixth

Musical Comedy

Majestic

845 So. Broadway

Ivan Miller in

"The Man of Action"

Mission Play

San Gabriel

with

Monroe Salibury

Exposition

Motion Picture Revue

Tally's Broadway

831 So. Broadway

J. Warren Kerrigan and

Sylvia Brearer in

"The Girl of the Golden West"

---

STARS BREAK GROUND FOR NEW MOVIE THEATRE

Film stars and city officials mingled together this week at Santa Monica, California, when ground was broken for one of the new beach theatres at Santa Monica.

The new theatre will be one of the finest on the West Coast chain and will have a seating capacity in the neighborhood of 5,000. Every modern convenience will be installed in the new playhouse.

The ground breaking ceremony consumed the better part of a morning and were attended by many stars of Principal Pictures Corporation as well as the majority of civic officials of the popular beach resort.

Marguerite de la Motte, dainty star of Principal Pictures Corporation, turned the first shovel of dirt while other film players looked on in admiration as the. youthful star plowed the shovel into the earth.

Among those who attended the ceremonies were John Garfield, George Hackathorne, Fred Stanton, Mayor Berkley of Santa Monica, George Cleveland of the West Coast Theatres chain, Alphonso. Ransome, Sol Lesser and other West Coast officials.

Work will be speeded on the new theatre and it is expected this new home of the silent drama will be the show place of all the beach resorts of the Pacific coast.

BEAR TAKES A RIDE ON BIG FERRIS WHEEL

"Prunes," the baby Bruin once the mascot of the battleship "Georgia," honorably discharged from the navy because of his III advised raid on the Admiral's suite, may soon be in the nation's skies. It is his tendency to "go up in the air" can be taken as an indication of his ambition.

Recent visitors to Selig Zoo Park were greeted by a strange sight when "Prunes," the pet bear of Col. Wm. N. Selig's famous animal collection, decided that he would like to go up in the air via the Ferris wheel route.

It was while the sporty carnivores were meandering about the park that he discovered the giant wheel in motion and the joy that the occupants of the swinging baskets were accruing from the strange ride intrigued the face of the wily "Prunes."

Waiting until the device came to a stop, the colonel's pet hopped into one of the inviting baskets and before he was discovered the wheel was revolving at a rapid rate. Spectators watched "Prunes" with great interest as he hung on to the safety bar and snorted with excitement. It was a great new game for his urbane majesty and now he insists on his daily visits to cloudland on the giant Ferris wheel.

---

WARNERS SIGN JOHNNY HINES FOR MORE FILMS

Johnny Hines has been signed to an indefinite period and will be by the Warner Brothers for an estimated number of forthcoming Warner pictures, according to an announcement by Harry M. Warner. Hines recently completed his store picture for the Warners, "Little Johnny Jones," an adaptation of George M. Cohen's stage play which has been completed under the direction of Arthur Rosson.

The Warner Brothers originally secured Hines to star only in "Little Johnny Jones," but his stellar work in this picture convinced the Warners that he was truly one of the screen's greatest comedians and they accordingly engaged him for a series of pictures.

In "Little Johnny Jones," Hines is said to do the best work of his career and he plays the role of an American jockey in Europe bent on winning the English derby. Considerable romance and intrigue is woven into the story which is interpreted by a supporting cast including Windham Standing, Molly Malone, Margaret Seddon, Herbert Prior, George Webb and Mervyn Lenox, adapted for the screen by Raymon Schrock.

"LICEHLY" FINDS IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

"It sure pays to advertise," proclaimed Howard Lichtenstein of the Howard Lichtenstein Company, "because my first announcement regarding the opening of my new office attracted unlimited attention, and the past week I have received many visits from stars and directors who have requested me to handle their publicity and their personal representation.

The Lichtenstein offices are only a week old, and it just goes to prove what can be accomplished by that type of chap who believes in getting out and going after material.

The motion picture actor will find within the staff of the Lichtenstein organization, competent commercial artists, newspaper writers, and individuals capable of handling every part of their activities, looking after their personal representation, as well as helping them to exploit them and bringing them to the attention of the motion picture producer, exhibitor and fan.

Christie Gets Busy

Al Christie has taken off his coat and gone to work on some new pictures, having been home from Europe a week and rested up while other new complete projects are planned to come under the direction of Scott Sidney and Harold B. Larmore. Last week it was decided Christie's opening release for the new fall season will be "Navy Blues" starring Dorothy Devere.

---

California
Main at Eighth

Jack London's

"Call of the Wild"

Miller's
Main at Ninth

Harold Lloyd in "Safety Last"

Metropolitan
Sixth at Hill

Monte Blue and Madge Kennedy in

"The Purple Highway"

Loew's State
Seventh at Broadway

Viola Dana in

"Her Fatal Million"

Rialto
Broadway near Eighth

Mrs. Wallace Reid in

"Human Wreckage"

Kinema
Grand near Seventh

Mary Pickford in

"Daddy Long Legs"

Million Dollar
Third and Broadway

Eileen Percy and Kenneth Harland in

"East Side-West Side"

Alhambra
731 South Hill

Alma Rubens in

"Enemies of Women"

Hollywood Egyptian

Hollywood Blvd. and McCadden

"The Covered Wagon" with Lois Wilson and J. Warren Kerrigan

Mission
Broadway near Ninth

Douglas Fairbanks in

"Robin Hood"

Clune's Broadway
Broadway near Fifth

Lon Chaney in

"The Shock"

Symphony
Broadway near Sixth

Buster Keaton in

"Balloonic"
Living Doubles of Historical Figures Appear in “Scaramouche”

Rex Ingram has accomplished something of an uncanny nature in the filming of his new monster production for Metro of “Scaramouche,” Rafael Sabatini’s great novel of the French Revolution. He has brought to life Louis XVI, the ill-fated monarch, Danton, Robespierre and other famous historical characters in a manner that has amazed close students of French history who have seen the picture in the making.

The historical figures in “Scaramouche” are not painted, animated manikins. Mr. Ingram does not believe in the extensive use of the artifacts of makeup which made the task of finding the right people doubly hard. He spent months in search of some of the screen artists who play historical roles in this picture.

At a moment he read Sabatini’s book he knew he was going to film it and immediately he began in his mind’s eye to fit people into the colorful characters of the story. He selected in most cases to be perfect Aline and Ramon Novarro appeared to have been made to play the role of Scaramouche.

While in New York last winter during the cutting of the film of “Where the Pavement Ends” he found an ideal Climene in the person of Edith Allen. He and his wife saw her at a cafe one evening, were introduced, and brought her to Hollywood to play in “Scaramouche.”

From the first Mr. Ingram knew that George Siegman would be his Danto, the famous French patriot, and there remained only the difficulty of securing the giant artist’s release from two other contracts.

Bowditch “Smoke” Turner automatically became Le Chapeller, the president of the National Assembly. Mr. Turner had nothing to say about it. For Mr. Ingram had decided upon him for the part while reading the book.

The young director found his Napoleon in a peculiar manner. The famous Corsican, as he appears in “Scaramouche” is not the figure of paintings—a matured and rather overfed brooding person with a lock of hair across his forehead and hands either clasped behind his back or else with his right hand thrust into his waistcoat. In this production he is shown as a young second lieutenant of artillery, a witness of the sack of the Tuilleries Palace, one of the most thrilling of the picture's scenes of the actual fighting.

The man Mr. Ingram selected is not—or rather, was not an actor at all. The man who bears so striking a resemblance to Napoleon as he appeared in his youth is Slavko Vorkapich, a Servian artist. The director saw several of the young painter’s works at an art exhibit two years ago and purchased one, “The Lady and the Swan.” He remembered the young artist as Napoleon’s “double” and when he cast “Scaramouche” he selected Mr. Vorkapich as one of his players. Guided by Mr. Ingram the youthful Bavarian has done remarkable work.

But there seemed to be no Maximilien Robespierre, “the little lawyer from Arras.” Everywhere he went the young director was on the watch for him and as the time for the filming of the National Assembly scenes drew near it became imperative that he make a selection.

One day while directing a scene showing the attack of the populace on the mansions of the wealthy in Paris he saw his Robespierre brandishing a scythe with a thousand other ragged, blood stained revolutionists. The man was De Garcia Fuerberg. Other than to make his face appear pock marked he needed no makeup and his portrayal was faultless. Inquiry proved that he was a German with 20 years experience on European stages in Shakespearean and other classical plays. Not being a skilled linguist he had been unable during his four months in the United States to find theatrical work and so had enlisted as a member of one of the “Scaramouche” mobs.

Mr. Ingram selected and rejected three men before he finally decided upon Roy Coulson for the part of Jean Paul Marat.

(Continued on Page 20)

All Ready for Films

Filmland’s latest gossip is to effect that a certain local group is dickering for the screen service of the well-beloved, internationally famous star—one other than the illustrious Eva Tanguay, who is now in our midst, having but recently finished one of her Veuveustic and exhilarating vaudeville tours, and, as is usual, having once tasted of the fruits of an idealistic existence—that of homelife in Hollywood—Is, apparently, loth to return to the eternal grind and grind of the professional tours. Miss Tanguay, whose shots at the Ambassador Hotel, but a few days ago, appeared even more youthful than ever before and her exotic beauty impressed the most as that of a princess of the realm rather than the Queen of Vaudeville.

“I Don’t Care” may have been her commercial vehicle, undoubtedly assumed to greater or less degree, (to the tune of 3 Grand), but we feel safe in surmising that Eva Tanguay, in spite of her usual tempestuous roles, does care, in fact cares for all things that are truly inspiring and beautiful and we hesitatingly predict a screen popularity, surpassing even her tremendous box office appeal of the stage—that is, if some lucky boy is successful in getting her name on the dotted line.
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., July 16th.—Buster Keaton and his wife spent the week-end in San Francisco. They were enroute from Truro where they have been on location to the South.

The West Coast FIlms Corporation, with N. D. Dragnet as its general manager, and who, for the past two years or more, have had their production offices in the Monadnock Building here, have decided to move their future activities to Los Angeles. The headquarters of the corporation will be either at the Hollywood or the Cosmosart Studios.

Cullen Tate, location man for the Famous Players-Lasky company and his assistant, Paul Ilribe, were in San Francisco looking up locations for a forthcoming production.

Gibson Gowland, who is playing Me-Tague in Eric Von Stroheim's production of "Greed," having the first few days off in more than three months' work on the picture, made a hurried trip to Los Angeles last week. He enjoyed his brief visit with his little son, Peter, and spent a few hours at the Goldwyn Studios.

Harry MacKenzie, head of the Kenmyn Productions, returned from a trip to the South last week, and announces that their organization will start the filming of a new picture within the next few weeks. On his recent trip to New York, Mr. MacKenzie arranged the release of their first picture, "Tipped Off," through Pathé and it will be given to the world about November 1st.

The office of the Graf Productions is a busy place these days, as they expect to start shooting on their big sea picture, "Half Dollar Bill," August 1. Studio work on the picture will be done at the Pacific Studios at San Mateo, J. Hesser Wahron, long connected with the organization, has been made business manager of the corporation.

John McDermott, well-known director with First National, is in San Francisco looking up locations for their next picture, a large part of which will be shot here. It will be "The Temporary Husband," and it will be of unusual interest, as it is planned to use as high as seven thousand people in some of the scenes, and will be the first comedy ever filmed on such a scale. The all-star cast includes such well-known names as Sidney Chaplin, Owen Moore, Tully Marshall, George Cooper, and Chuck Reiner. McDermott himself will direct and work will begin in the very near future.

Gordon Mitchie, production manager for the Bellmore Films, a San Francisco organization with offices in the Chronicle Building, has just returned from New York, where he went to arrange a release for the first picture of the company, recently filmed on the Universal lot. They will release through Selznick and the picture will have its world premiere in September. It was shot under the title of "Heartstrings," but will be released as the Selznick prize title picture, with an offer of a five hundred dollar prize for the best title suggested by any fan. The story is by Grace Sanderson Mitchie, author of "The Finger of Justice" and other photoplays, L. W. Chamber was director, and the cast includes such well-known names as Monte Blue, Irene Rich, Tully Marshall, Russell Simpson, Jackie Saunders, James Gordon, and George Rheems. Lynwood Abbott was at the camera. The company will start their next picture next week, and will again work at Universal City.

Captain P. B. Cullinan, at present an assistant director with the Von Stroheim forces engaged in the making of "Greed," will leave the picture world on August 1 for London, and after a visit there will continue his travels in a trip around the world. Captain Cullinan is one of the world of the silver-screen who has a record for great bravery in the late war, and who was the winner of the Military Cross with bars, given as a recognition of great bravery in action with the Prince of Wales Regiment.

Frank Keenan spent a few days in San Francisco last week to be "among those present" at the opening of the Duncan Sisters' big success, "Topsy and Eva."

Buster Keaton's latest picture, "Three Ages," had its world premiere at the Warfield Theater Saturday night. As a comedy it seems to be a riot. A number of the officials of First National came up from Los Angeles for the opening.

A new photoplay company has been organized in San Francisco by H. B. Mattern and H. A. Mitchell with offices at Market Street, and they are making plans which they expect to result in the production of from four to six feature pictures a year. Mattern created the Scenario Authors Agency in this city, of which he is still the head. He has sold the first of his novel work along the same lines in colleges. These ambitious young men are already attracting the cooperation of their friends and fellow students, and hope to go into early production with only the highest type of material.

J. F. Whitfield, well-known camerman, is now employed by G. M. Anderson to do the filming and finishing of the Casino Motion Picture News, which is to be shown from now on at that popular theatre at Ellis and Mason Streets.

Under the general management of Herman Lubin, president of the Pacific Motion Picture Studio at 331 Turk Street, many new activities are now in progress. Among them is the shooting of scenes for G. M. Anderson's "Casino News in Pictorial Form," which is devoted to special events, notables, and industries in and around San Francisco. A special program is being arranged for the opening of the Casino for the season on July 14.

up a chance to quote facts and figures concerning the number of collars witted during the filming of the elaborate country club dance scenes in "The Social Code," Viola Dana's newest Metro picture which Oscar Apfel is directing.

The piercing rays of an energetic Southern California sun heat relentlessly on one of the huge enclosed Metro stages. The lights used to illuminate the ballroom set within the stage gave off more heat. Mr. Apfel and his assistants, Camerman Jim Arnold, the electricians, property men and carpenters were clad as lightly as possible, palm beach suits and white shirts with open necks predominating. Viola Dana and the other young and older women were fortunate inasmuch as they were in ceremonial evening attire which, after the style of nearly all evening gowns, permitted of considerable ventilation.

The men suffered. Malcolm McGregor, who appears opposite Miss Dana in this picture, Huntly Gordon and Cyril Chadwick spent much of their time shifting collars, removing their coats at the completion of each scene and donning them again at the start of the next scene.

In addition to those mentioned, the cast of "The Social Code" includes Edna Flagg, John Shainpolis and William Humphrey.

Choice Productions, Inc., announces the following cast and organization for a special all-star feature play:

Story and Continuity by William Clifford.
Bay View, Cameraman
Martin J. Heyl, Director
Warren Froun and William Lynch
Warren Frone and William Lynch

CAST:

Eileen Percy Sheldon Lewis
Pauline Stark Chester Bishop
Eva Novak Frank Ridge
Claire Adams Walter Whitman
Ishmael Salter Robert Edson
Rockcliff Fellows True Boardman
William Long Fred KoVert

Fred Caldwell Presents
"HOLOG IN HOLLYWOOD"
Fred Caldwell, Directing Story and Continuity by
J. Stewart Woodhouse
Photographed by George Crocker

CAST:

Alice Howell
Violet Schramm
Victor Potell

Chas. W. Mack
Charles Dale
Muriel Reynolds
Jean Metcalf

STATISTICAL WRITERS NEGLECT TO INCLUDE WILTED COLLARS

The "figgerin' fools" who write statistical stories about motion picture productions have overlooked a bet. They have passed

Betsy Giles, popular child artist of the screen

...
The Bright Future of the “Heavy”

By Lucile Erskine

Clyde Fillmore slid into success. Others have found themselves up against the barred door that Hollywood so often turns itself into for screen aspirants, but Fate opened it for him. Coming out to the costume shop, Maude Pealy’s company, he happened to hit the influenza epidemic and was marooned here for ten months. When the lawyer he had made on the speaking stage began to miss him, he flashed before them on the screen.

And his quick success wasn’t altogether due to his very good height, although it did get him a job once, made a daw out of what threatened to be a pretty black night. On a particularly blue Monday he was sitting in a theatrical office filled with others, hoping, despairing like himself, when Sam Forrest came to the railing and threw the crowd into the pit of dejection with the following short speech, “It breaks my heart, boys, but I am going to tell you that there isn’t a thing for anybody.” Mr. Fillmore was so impressed with the courage of the man who could utter such black cander that he lingered longer than usual and admitted his admiration and sidled near the railing as he did so.

“When do you think there will be a change?” he ventured timidly.

Forrest surveyed him from heel to head. “Stick around,” he murmured in a confidential whisper. It ended in a part and Mr. Fillmore as is his habit from anything dung at him made a success out of it.

And always being able to eat in a career where so many have starved, has given him a nature a certain mellowness. He is even merciful towards Hollywood.

“No,” he said to a question I put to him in the living room of his little bungalow. “I don’t think we’re another Babylon meriting destruction for our sins. We are only honest, call a spade by its ugly black name, are more lyrical than the steam-rolled Middle West. Our freedom works both ways. You can be very good in Hollywood if you want to be.”

Back of his chair as he talked hung a Japanese screen. The clock that ticked on the mantle piece has ticked for generations to spinners in some old colonial house. Books were about and good solid books at that. There was an air of peace, of detachment, to this hill house. It plainly said, “There is no jazz here.”

And enshrined above everything else of importance was Hero portrait.

“Is she young?” I asked at last.

“About the age I pretend to be,” he answered.

They met on her birthday and are to be married on his. He was completely disflabili- sated, he said and she has spread the veil over the world again. She is Mrs. Sadie Michener, a very handsome widow of Los Angeles and the wedding will be solemnized in Pasadena. Mrs. Michener was formerly Miss Sadie Bird of Chicago and had a very brilliant gay debut.

And Mr. Fillmore will act all the better for being happy. There is a false idea that you can’t be merited by fate and then you will have something to give the world in art. But Mendelssohn wrote music that has lived and his life was a happy song too.

And as for the poor man who can’t make on the screen, he thinks an ambitious artist is to have his biggest opportunity in the silent.

“A man isn’t a villain,” he said, “for three hundred and sixty-five days in the year. And the shading off of this character from his rather monotonous blackness is getting into of the cant about the “mission” of the movies.

He entered the stage door from a home of culture and with a college-trained mind. After finishing at the Catholic University of Oregon, he had a year of medicine at Johns Hopkins, Baltimore. Later, when working for the government at Washington, he was given his “knock-off” time was four o’clock. He cast about somewhere else to spend the late afternoon. A dramatic school spread out before him.

And in this new Bagdad where the failure of yesterday is the success of today, as in the old, when the beggar of the morning was the grand vizier by night, he gives you the impression through his stability and poise of not only snatching at success, but having her pretty securely by the throat.

VOLCANO TIMES ERUPTION TO SUIT LUCKY MOVIE DIRECTOR

It is very unusual for Mother Nature to perform her work on a regular schedule in any event, and twice as unusual when she performs according to a motion picture director’s schedule. The producer of the photoplay “The White Sister,” starring Lilian Gish, not only saw Vesuvius with a copy of the schedule for his scenes of the eruption of that volcano in the picture “The White Sister,” but, he and his company had been located in Bosca tre Coss, a village at the foot of Vesuvius for three weeks, making scenes in and around the crater, when the volcano erupted and found him prepared to take advantage of the awe-inspiring spectacle.

“All during the winter in Rome,” said Mr. Kin, “I conducted research work on volcanic eruptions and weather conditions, so I could duplicate the actual scenes as near as possible for my photoplay.

“I had been plotting out showing the eruption of Vesuvius from the days of Pompeii, and the weather conditions previous to each eruption, when I suddenly realized that industrial and current meteorological conditions in comparison to my data, the next outburst of lava from the famous volcano, standing by the bay of Naples, should be some time this summer.

“My company was a bit surprised when, out of the clear sky, I abandoned work on the location near Rome and moved them down to Bosca tre Coss, a village which is three layers deep, each succeeding village being built on the ruins of one which had been buried previously by lava flow. I had told no one just exactly the reason for shifting the location, except to say that I thought it would be a good time to get some scenes around the volcano.

“We had been working about three weeks in and around the crater, (and let me tell you it isn’t a cool job to be walking over millions of tons of molten rock), when one morning the old volcano began to rumble and shiver, and I had a presculation that I would see some of the most realistic pictures of flowing lava and fleeing refugees ever taken.

“Instead of working fast, as lava in a molten state starts to flow with great rapidity. We had to figure our locations so as to avoid those fiery rivers, and stay far enough away from the awfully dangerous torrent as it poured down the sides of Vesuvius, consuming everything within its path, vineyards, houses and animal life, leaving nothing be

(Continued on Page 19)
News and Gossip About the Moving Throng of Movieland

Guns Were Scarce

As Doris Long, 1200 assorted mob weapons such as pitchforks, scythes, sickles and pikes, and 50 swords were measured at the Metro studio for use in depicting the storming of the Tuileries for Broadway's new play of "Scaroumache." History tells us that so many people wanted to part with guns, but it is evolution that there were not nearly enough guns to go around.

Made Auspicious Start

Although Evelyn Brent has never appeared on the stage, her first few screen appearances were made with such stage favorites as Tom Wise, Mme. Ingram, Astrid, and Lionel Barrymore. Just at the present time, Miss Brent is portray- ing the leading role in "Help to Answer," the new Metro all-star picturization of the story by Peter B. Cark MacFarlane.

Jimmie Is Now James

James Wood Morrison is the official new "program name" of Jimmy Morrison, well remembered featured player of the old Vitagraph company in the days of A. Edward Sutherland, of Griffith and Harry Morrey. Mr. Morrison has grown physically and gained in expressiveness, but now he is enacting a leading role in "Help to Answer," the new Metro all-star special.

Association Changes Quarters

The Reliable Photoplayers Association, which moved their offices from Sunset and Santa Monica boulevard to 1442 Beechwood Avenue, is now in a new location. Here they now have more spacious quarters and are in a position to give better service to producers. Betty Jean, secretary of the association, has been confi- dented to her bed for the past two weeks with illness, but it is ex- pected she will be back on the job within the next few days.

Actor Expert Fisher

Margaret Morris, who has acted as leading woman for many of the screen's top male stars, and who is now playing opposite Pete Morrison in a new western feature at Universal, is enthusiastic over all outdoor games and back in Murchison, where she was born and educated she spent nearly all of her leisure moments trout fishing, which sport she in par- ticularly fond of. Knowledge of the many big catches which she recorded in streams near her home, has added greatly to the amount of fame as an expert angler.

English Star Here

S. Revre-Smith, the noted English actor who recently arrived in America, has been added to the cast for Elmer Harris' screen version of Frank R. Adams' Cos- tly, "The New Heart Hater," which is being filmed by Associated Authors. Revre-Smith is one of the most prominent character men on the English stage and boasts a dramatic experience that is both wide and varied. He was brought from England for this角色 after a great deal of diffi- culty in finding exactly the right type.

Meakin Finishes Another

Charles Meakin, who for years was connected with many prominent theatrical organizations, on the opened stage, and who lately has turned to the screen, has found this medium well-known with Lionel Barrymore. Just at the present time, Miss Brent is portray- ing the leading role in "Help to Answer," the new Metro all-star special.

A Little Misunderstanding

It was right after the Willard-Firpo battle that Larry Trimble, producer of the St. Louis Feature, was discussing this particu- lar fight and pugilistic en- counter in general with his technical director, Fred McLean, whose son Mickey, well-known boy actor, was standing close at hand listening attentively to the conversation. Mr. Trimble was relating instances of the deadly effects of well-directed clippers. It seems that at one time Jess Willard, during a ring date at St. Louis, had his clippers so short that he pulled out an uppercut. As Mickey and his father were walking away the little chap asked, "Daddy, how could that man kill the other man with an uppercut?" As Mickey had the stage play, its popularity is due in no small part to the clever dialogue but to the many exceptional situations.

In Victorville

Edwin Carewe, and the entire cast of "The Bad Man," which he is producing for First National, are now located at Victorville, where all the bandit and cattle rustling scenes of the production will be taken. Holbrook Blinn, star of the picture, is the only absent member. All of his scenes have been finished and he has left for the East. Accompanying the company are Wallace Fox, assistant director and Louis Jerome, business manager. About 55 people were taken along and they will remain on location for the better part of the next three weeks. All of the interiors were finished before Blinn left for New York. The only remaining work to finish the picture are the scenes relating to bandit outlaws.

Entertains New Star

Mrs. Hildred White, 689 South Bronson avenue, this week entertained twenty luminaries of the film world at dinner in honor of Miss Reynolds, who, has had a meteoric rise in pictures since she won a beauty contest from five hun- dred other girls two months ago. Director Fred Caldwell, who has Miss Reynolds under contract for five years, and William Jenner, West Coast representative for Pathé, were among the guests.

Back From Elks’ Meet

Mrs. Hildred White, who recently engaged to play "Beauty" Smith in Jack London's famous dog story, "White Fang," on which Direc- tor Fred Caldwell is now working in a few days, has returned from the Elks' Conven- tion at Atlantic City, which he attended as a delegate from the Santa Monica lodge, and has re- ported for work. O'Brien also had an important part in the Strongheart picture now in the cutting room, "The Love Mas- ter," which was made under the working title of "The Phantom Pack."
Chaplin Film Gets New Title

"A Woman of Paris" is the title finally decided upon for Charles Chaplin's first dramatic picture in which Edna Purviance is featured and which has just been completed at the Chaplin Studios.

During the making of this picture, which has been in production for eight months, it has been temporarily titled "Public Opinion," a title copyrighted by Mr. Chaplin and one which will be used on a subsequent picture.

Although Mr. Chaplin does not personally appear in "A Woman of Paris," there runs through it that same touch of humanism which has made him the acknowledged genius of the screen and into whose humor, pathos and tragedy are blended with supreme artistry.

Those who have seen the picture admit that it will be a sensation when it is released during the month of September at 56th street it will have its premiere in New York City at a Broadway legitimate theatre.

Perhaps the most vital phase of the production is the new treatment of the subject matter and the finesse with which the various parts of the plot are handled by the actors; Mr. Chaplin having devoted more of his time to the acting in this picture than has ever before been given to a motion picture. Each scene was directed by him personally and on some of them were spent on a single scene. The result bids fair to place Mr. Chaplin in the same position among directors that he has formerly held among actors.

The picture which will be released in eight reels will be handled for distribution by United Artists, the releasing organization for the personal productions of Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith.

These in the cast supporting Edna Purviance are Adolphe Menjou, Cari Miller, Lydia Knott, Charles French, Betty Morrill, Leonie Bessen, Diana Pole and Clarence Geldert.

The staff assisting Mr. Chaplin on the production of "A Woman of Paris" included, editorial, Monte Bell; assistant director, Eddie Sutherland; business, Alfre Wehl; wardrobe, Gertrude Tether and Jack Wilson; and research, Harry D'Arrast and Jean de Limur.

Following a short vacation Mr. Chaplin will immediately begin work on his next production. By the six reel comedy with himself starred and which will also be released through United Artists.

In order to confer with Richard A. Rowland, general manager of Associated First National Pictures, Inc., Earl J. Hudson, general production manager of that organization's own producing unit, has left Los Angeles for New York City.

Quit Playing to Fight Forest Fire

Constance Talmadge's warriors of "The Dangerous Maid" have been fighting long enough the other night to conquer what threatened to grow into a forest fire.

The company was working in a nearby valley on a wooded ranch supposed to be an old English highway. Constance, disguised as a boy, was darting back and forth across the road and behind trees with a squad of "Red-Cads" hot after her. Half a mile away a wall of flame shot up into the air and the cry of "Fire!" went up. Director Victor Heerman immediately called a halt and ordered Constance, Marjorie Daw and the other female members of the cast to safety.

Heerman then told off 200 men into squads under Conway Tearle, Lou Morrison, Philip Dunham, Eddie Brophy and Glen MacWilliams and the whole company was on the spot of the flames in motor trucks. There they joined with residents of nearby ranches who were hastily assembling, and in about two hours made a firebreak that prevented the flames from reaching the timber land. The blaze spread on through the brush but, cheated of its larger prey, finally burned itself out.

FLYNN SPECTACLE IS NOW NEAR COMPLETION

When the cameras click on long shots of the big palace set the last part of the epic Emmett Flynn will have completed the filming of "In the Palace of the King," the period spectacle he directed for the Goldwyn studios.

Emmett Lowe, leading male player in the production is the only principal in the cast who is not yet finished with the picture. Others who have completed work are Sweet, Hobart Bosworth, Pauline Starke, Sam de Grasse, Lucien Littlefield, Hildegard Mong, Alleen Fringleton, Charles Clary, Harvey Clarke and others, and they have final scenes to stage. After them are planning their summer vacations.

Lesser Will Film "Hiawatha" Soon

Sol Lesser announces an early beginning on the production of a spectacular and poetic screen version of Longfellow's "Hiawatha." For several months this subject has been in contemplation and for several weeks the dramatic department has been busily engaged in research work attendant on the great enterprise of filming this American classic.

The services of James Willard Schultz have been engaged in the preparation of the story, he being a full-blooded member of the Blackfoot Indian tribe of Montana with the fortunes of which, for more than twenty years he was identified in the field and chase. As an authority on Indian lore, Mr. Schultz is regarded without a peer in the United States, and his published works on Indian life are numerous and popular. He has been taking an active interest with the Principal department staff in the adjustments necessary to render the story of Hiawatha suitable for film translation.

"FILM PLANNING," says Lesser, to emphasize the poetical elements of the work, or rather to attempt to give them complete visualization. This we hope to accomplish by the importance we shall give to the earlier episodes of the poem wherein the infancy and young boyhood of Hiawatha are treated. The poetic essence of the work is how we are rather than "plot-values" and the usual "movie plot action." We shall boldly attack the problem of fixing upon the screen immortal poetic beauty of Longfellow's most widely known and popular poem. Of course we plan the engagement of typical Indians to give reality to our scenes and in the engagement of these we shall be authorized by the,' authority and counsel of Mr. Schultz will guide us rightly. We believe we shall accomplish the object of the poem that will appeal with its beauty to every class of motion picture motion patron and even to lover of romance and poetry."

American and Turkish Write Play

An interesting collaborating affilliation, which promises to bring to the motion picture screen a story with a keen psychological analysis of the Oriental custom of plural wives, has just been announced.

Under the title, "Harem Love," a story based on a play prepared by J. Stewart Woodhouse, well known local scenarist, and Gerbes Bey will be produced in Constantinople. Gerbes Bey was educated in the universities of the Turkish capital and knows Oriental life and its customs. His uncle was Minister of War under Abdul Hamid, under which man he himself was knighted at the age of nineteen. Gerbes Bey was connected with the diplomatic service of his country for many years and finds his better half has been divided into numerous infinitesimal fractions.

Just what conflict of emotions would be aroused in a father's breast when confronted with giving his own daughter as a part of another man's harem, equal in proportion to his own, is a sentiment an American would find hard to conceive. Inasmuch as it is purported the hero of the story shall be an American there will probably be a striking clash of love sentiment between the Anglo-Saxon and the Oriental temperament.

Mr. Woodhouse is working on his, with the aid of back Turk coffee, at his home 1832 North Normandie, Hollywood.

George Hackathorne has completed his role in Eddie Cline's First National production, "When a Man's a Man." Included in the cast are John Bowes, Marguerite de la Motte and June Marlowe.
VIOLA GETS A BIG SURPLUS OF DOGS

Enough is sufficient and sufficient is plenty. Viola Dana has had another birthday and with it gifts from her sisters, Edna Flugrath Shaw and Shirley Mason, and from her father and maternal aunt.

Remembering how his daughter had grieved over the disappearance a month previous of her pet, a Chow dog named Pom-Pom, Mr. Flugrath proudly brought her a husky Boston bull terrier for a birthday present. It arrived while the little Metro star was breakfasting and she was overjoyed.

An hour later Miss Shaw and her director-husband, Harold Shaw, called to see their new pet and named it for Finis Fox, and his injury, which confined him to his bed for a fortnight, brought the production to an abrupt halt.

With the introduction this week of Bertram Johns and Leo white, particularly the former, the cast is at work. Ethel Wales plays the only other important role. "Fal," the famous motion picture dog, also has a prominent part.

DOROTHY IS KEPT BUSY CHANGING HER WIGS

Dorothy Chase, former publicity writer, whose interesting work in ingenue and character roles has been attracting considerable attention lately, has appeared in many ways this week in her headgear in recent pictures, that her screen friends have almost forgotten what her own hair looks like. It remained for Finis Fox to reveal the secret. Mr. Fox asked her to remove a hat for "close-ups" during the garden-party scene in "Bag and Baggage," his current production, and Miss Chase showed the pale, blonde hair that was concealed under the velveteen "Scaramouche," and in the voluminous and becoming headgear appropriate to her costume in Jackie Coogan's "Long Live the King," the chance to be "herself" was greatly appreciated.

Miss Chase's latest characterization has been that of a kidnaped American girl in the Mexican dance-hall sequence of Choice Productions' current picture, as yet untitled.

Dinner for Elisor Glye

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Lehr entertained with a dinner party in honor of Mme. Elisor Glye, who has just arrived in Los Angeles to assist in the filming of "Jerk," a novel. Present were: Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Edington, John Coogan, Alphonzo Phillips, Cedric Gibbons and Carey Wilson.

HELENE TURNS TO THE RUPERT HUGHES UNIT

That Helene Chadwick will play the leading feminine role in Rupert Hughes' new production, "Law Against Law," is the interesting announcement from the Goldwyn studios.

The news is the more interesting because of the recent difficulties between the beautiful Helene and Goldwyn. But difficulties and management issues have been effectuated and now everybody is happy, with Miss Chadwick casting in the big role, that is, in a new Hughes picture the culmination.

It will be remembered that Miss Chadwick won her greatest success in previous Hughes productions, including "Dangerous Curves," "I Am a Camera," "The Ground Up," and "The Old Nest." Miss Chadwick is the first player to make a cast in "Law Against Law."

ACTOR'S WORK IN FILM IS GIVEN HIGH PRAISE

David A. Dunbar, who is one of the newest, yet one of the most promising character artists in filmland, has the leading role in Paul Hurst's latest feature production, "The West Not Die," which has just been completed at the National studios in Hollywood. The picture was previewed at a large party two weeks ago at the Burbank Theatre in Burbank, and Dunbar, in the character of a young Indian chief, won considerable praise for his brilliant performance and hypnotic talents. He is winning great recognition as a master make-up artist and his characterizations are of such quality that he is on the way to an inspiring and successful career for him in the film world.

BETTY IS KEPT ON THE JUMP BY FOUR JOBS

Betty Gilles, who has made a prominent success with her work in many productions during the past year, is now playing at the United in "The Dangerous Maid," starring Constance Talmadge and directed by Vic Heerman. Betty, however, further enjoys the added distinction of working in three other current productions, hops from set to set in no time at all in double-quick to do her various bits in "Ponjola," also at the United, and in "Cavalcade," "Honky Tonk," and "Long Live the King" at the Metro.

Paul Scarden, who is personally supervising the filming of "Jerk," now producing for Fox, has been busier than ever, and with Miss Blythe, reports that this production contains many of the numbers on which he has been working. He has ever seen, and that Miss Blythe's role in it is increasing more and more. He is very fond of her as an actress and is a fan of "Queen of Sheba."

Supplying a genuine need on the part of the exhibitors, producers and advisers, a new line of wholesome as well as thoroughly entertaining comedies and features is being massed under the band of The Grand-Asher Corporation is presently preparing a schedule for the fall season which should prove decidedly interesting.

The comedies in which will be starred Monty Banks, Sid Smith and Joey Rock, are all of two-reel length, widely different in character and type and directed by men who know the comedy end of the films backward. Adequate settings, good casts, stories that are built solely to amuse and entertain, render them highly desirable. The exhibitor's point of view and should make them entirely acceptable to the public, so to speak, with which to garnish the heavier fare provided by dramatic vehicles.

At present the features are being produced by Ben Wilson with strong cast headed by Bryant Washburn and Mabel Forest. The first three were all written by Evelyn Campbell and adapted by well known continuous writers. There are seven more to be made by Mr. Wilson and all will be supplied with strong casts. Many of these stories, by writers of note, have been already selected and are now being adapted for the screen. Among these pictures will be several in which Billie Rhodes will appear in the stellar role.

Later production plans for other productions in which famous screen luminaries are to appear will be announced at the end of the month, when the Grand-Asher organization, on its return from New York early in August.

Announcements in the trade papers contemplate some of the most attractive pictures imaginable from this newly formed releasing company. At least one new face has already introduced in Mabel Forest, who appears opposite Bryant Washburn in the Ben Wilson films.

Sargent Finishes

Lewis Sargent, popular film juvenile artist, has completed his engagement at Universal, where he played the leading juvenile role in Gladys Walton's latest starring production, "The Happy Hooligan." He is now trying to decide between offers which have been made him for other pictures. Meanwhile, he has taken a bungalow at one of the Los Angeles pictures where he is enjoying his first vacation in three years.
BARKER STARTS ON HIS 3RD. MAJOR SPECIAL

Reginald Barker has started the filming of "Pleasure Mad" as a Louis B. Mayer special for Metro release. This will be the director's third independent unit production, the first two following "Hearts Aflame," a current success, and "The Master of Woman," which will make its debut in the early fall. "Pleasure Mad" was adapted from Blanche Upright's novel, "The Valley of Content." Dealing with the fortunes—and misfortunes—of a happy family of movie professionals which is split up by the seductions and indulgences which follow sudden acquisitions of wealth, this book has proven to be one of the most popular novels of the past year.

Mary Alden, a favorite since the days of the silent era, is working with Mr. Barker, who scored such a big hit in Fred Niblo's "The Famous Mrs. Fair," and who has just finished filming "Mrs. Stahl's "The Wantons," will be seen in the two leading roles. Working with Barker is Myrtle Stedman, son of the veteran producer, vice-president of the Mayer organization, who is now directing the schedule of the studio and will have the complete list ready within a short time.

With Alvin C. Wyckoff in charge of the unit, and Edward J. Gillel, who has been successful in other pictures, the cast is being put together. Mr. Barker is shooting scenes in the mean-time, confining his activities to certain key dramatic sequences in which only Miss Alden and Mr. Gordon appear. The company is now working on the covered stage at the Mayer studio.

While no definite announcement has been made to the director's next picture following "Pleasure Mad," it is possible that he will do the project of "Train of Ninety-Eight," the Robert W. Service story which was purchased by Mr. Mayer some time ago for production by Barker.

George Ade Due

George Ade will arrive at Paramount's West Coast studio next week to confer on his story, "All Must Marry," in which Thomas Meighan will be starred, according to an announcement made by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production. "All Must Marry" will be an Alfred E. Green production. Meighan will follow Ade in three or four days and production work will start immediately after the star's arrival. Thomas Geraghty will adapt the story to the screen.

Mare Carr is once again portrayed by Mare Carr, who is making "Clipped Wings," which stars Mare Carr. The picture is being made in Glendale, L. I.

FORMER DISH-WASHER TURNS PLAYWRITE

Leopold Granitz, a Chicago restaurant man, has turned playwright and is preparing a series of one-act plays. "Clipped Wings," one of these, has been chosen for production by the Theatre Guild, an independent New York company which Mr. Granitz has dramatized, and which will be seen on the screen in Chicago soon.

The story of the play goes back to 1906, in the turbulent Balkans, Russia, Mont Carlo and America. The hero is an American, whose mother left a good husband, a famous Russian surgeon, and became engaged to an American millionaire, and a young man in the Balkans, who promised to wed her as soon as she secured a divorce. When she finally did so she fled from her American home to the Balkan kingdom, disowned by her father. She is believes in the Balkan granitz has proven himself to be one of the most expert in portraying romantic situations and mysterious happenings, as he did in the more prosaic work of food control.

JEAN HERSHOLT EXHIBITS PAINTING IN FRISCO

The artistic ability of Jean Hersholt, who plays the role of Marcus Schouler in the Goldwyn picture "The God," which Erich von Stroheim is transposing from Frank Norris' "McTeague," is not confined to acting. He is also a noted painter and has exhibited his paintings in Copenhagan, Denmark, his native city, and in Chicago and San Francisco. The latest showing of his brush and pen work was held in the galleries of O'Connor, Messel & Chan, 584 California St.

The exhibition included oil paintings and pen and ink drawings. The former consisted of portraits, still life and landscapes; the latter were black and white studies, in the manner of etchings, of Zasu Pitts, as the Trina of "Greed," Erich von Stroheim, the director, and himself, as Marcus Schouler.

The exhibition was well attended and received excellent notices in the San Francisco newspapers.

McConnville Re-engaged

Bernard McConnville, who recently prepared a screen version of "Cape Cod Folks" for Louis B. Mayer, has been re-engaged by that producer to work on the scenario of "The Volunteer Organist," which will be filmed in the early part of the year.

The background of this famous old play is being revived with the aid of writer-director Jean Ferrell, Sam de Grasse and Theoden Von Eltz.

ACTOR HAS BEEN NOTED AS POET FOR 20 YEARS

Frederick Truesdell, who plays the millionaire husband in "The Age of Desire," which Frank Borzage is directing for First National, is one of America's few actor-poets. Mr. Truesdell has made a study of a hobby of poetry, and has been seen on a nearly daily passing down the world what he is writing something of this sort.

His poems have appeared for the past twenty years in various magazines. He is contemplating publishing a book of poems that he has written during this period.

While working for Director Borzage, he has been writing quite a bit and has added several compositions to his lengthy literary record.

He plays the millionaire husband of Myrtle Stedman in the story, and appears with a really all-star cast comprising such notable as Mary Philbin, William Collier, and Joseph Twickard, Frankie Lee, Ethel Yorke, J. Farrell MacDonald.

Miss Ulric Starts

Lenore Ulric has started work on the picturization of David Belasco's "The Roof," which is being produced at the Warner Brothers studios in Los Angeles under the direction of Albert Herman. The supporting cast includes Claude Gillingwater, Joseph Dowling, Andrews Duggan, Birolli, and Rawlinson. The interest lies in the face of the possibility of William Desmond, Jack Mower or Herb Rawlinson being featured in the stellar role of Boston Blackie.

PSYCHIC CRYSTAL GAZER LAUDS TRIBLY

Mlle. Inez Covell, a youthful psychic crystal gazer and palmist of Los Angeles, who has furnished the studio with several well fulfilled predictions regarding the destinies of professional people, who have come from around America and abroad, has launched a new art on which she has spent the past two years in deep study—an art which she terms "sooths'cary," the science of foretelling one's fate by the soles of the feet.

Mlle. Andree Lafayette, the beautiful film actress who played the title role in Richard Walton Tully's screen version of the famous du Maurier's novel, "Trilby," soon to be released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc., and who is credited with the most beautiful feet in the entire film trade, is very much interested in the art of Mlle. Inez who gives herewith a few of her impressions on the practicality of this art concerning the Parisian beauty.

"Mlle. Andree Lafayette has gracefully moulded feet, creamy white, and tipped with shell pink nails. The soles are satin smooth, and bespeak sincerity of purpose and a loving, unselfish character—emotional, impulsive and ambitious."

"I find from the lines of her feet," said Mlle. Inez, "that she is a lover of music, art and all that is beautiful."

"The feet of Mlle. Lafayette is a bora actress; but besides the enjoyment of this gift, she could easily develop into a musician of undreamed brilliance and intensity. Fortune will smile on her later in this direction."

"There is a great similarity between her feet and those of Mlle. Ida Rubenstein, famous dancer and the inspirer of the late D'Annunzio, Italy's fiery warrio—poet."

"The feet of this gay little French Tribly, she of the golden hair, eyes of blue and incomparable feet, is destined to be one of bliss and contentment with attainment of the highest pinnacle of fame. She is truly fortune's favorite."

A wire from New York informs us that Laura La Plante has been cast in the new serial at the Universal and will be seen at her best in the characterization of the daughter of crooked alley, in "The Heart of Boston Blackie,"

Of course Mr. and Mrs. Boyle and under the direction of Bob Hill. Owen Goring is thejuvenil star in the serial. The supporting cast includes Claude Gillingwater, Joseph Dowling, Andrews Duggan, Birolli, and Rawlinson. The interest lies in the face of the possibility of William Desmond, Jack Mower or Herb Rawlinson being featured in the stellar role of Boston Blackie.
For the first time in the history of the motion picture, according to First National, the maker of the Salem action pictures in "Merrimac," the actual sight of the Salem, the long displaced, will be reproduced in the coming film, "The Salem Witch Trials." This scene will be one of the dramatic episodes of "Barbara Freitchie," which Thomas H. Ince will produce for First National release. "Barbara Freitchie" will be a screen adaptation of Clyde Fitch's play of the same name, the purchase of which by Mr. Ince now marks a new era in Mr. Ince, after long consideration of the screen possibilities of the play, has announced that he will produce it on a scale equal to that of any production of the coming year. It will greatly extend the picture library of recent date which has issued from the Ince studios.

The fight between the Merrimac and the Monitor, which marked the death knell of the wooden fighting ship and the birth of the modern steel battle cruiser, will be reproduced with Government co-operation. A replica of the famous "Yankee Cape Box" as the Monitor was called, is now being built. The set for both ships is the Merrimac, considered the most formidable fighting machine of its time. No more dramatic incident in the history of naval warfare can be described. The Monitor was permitted to approach within a range at which the fighting would apparently be all in favor of the Merrimac, and the two great iron guns of the Confederate battleship were turned on it, but the revolving steel turret of the Yankee left the Monitor defenseless and soon rendered useless the pride of the Southern sea.

The fight scenes in "The Merrimac" are enthusiastic over Mr. Ince's plans and has promised him all the support he desires in filming authentically the famous sea battle. Mr. Ince will retain the dramatic love story of Mr. Fitch's play, which some critics have pronounced among the sweetest and most touching in the history of literature.

No cast has been announced as yet, but the producer is laying plans to make this picture an epoch in the field of historic productions.

WHITTAKER MOVES HERE

Another prominent member of the film colony has announced Mr. Whittaker's move to permanent abode in Hollywood. This is Charles Whittaker, the eminent producer, whose recent contribution to the screen is the adaptation of Balzac's story, "The Magic Skin," which George Arliss is directing at the Goldwyn Studios.

WHEN DOOR SLAMS EVEN EXPERTS JUMP

A door slammed in the projection room at the Louis B. Mayer studio and announced that Fred Niblo's "Stranger of the Night" has the element of mystery and suspense that the director was seeking. Niblo, who has taken the film the story from "Captain Applejack." The production has been in the making for many weeks in the cutting. It was ready to run the other night and Niblo invited a little group of keen motion picture executives to watch it.

Matt Moore, in the title role, faceted character woman, was this week selected by Mr. Mayer and "Stranger of the Night" is designed to be a thriller as strong as "The Night the Lights Went Out." A beautiful heroine is slumbered in a thorn bush by the monster, who is an enigmatic factor in the plot of the film. The heroine who is slumbered goes berserk and the monster is the villain in the picture. The story has been made for all the mystery and suspense in the story, and the atmosphere which it will create is sure to make it a hit. The story is not only a new one, but it is one that will appeal to all classes of people.

WHEN DOOR SLAMS EVEN EXPERTS JUMP

A door slammed in the projection room at the Louis B. Mayer studio and announced that Fred Niblo's "Stranger of the Night" has the element of mystery and suspense that the director was seeking. Niblo, who has taken the film the story from "Captain Applejack." The production has been in the making for many weeks in the cutting. It was ready to run the other night and Niblo invited a little group of keen motion picture executives to watch it.

Matt Moore, in the title role, faceted character woman, was this week selected by Mr. Mayer and "Stranger of the Night" is designed to be a thriller as strong as "The Night the Lights Went Out." A beautiful heroine is slumbered in a thorn bush by the monster, who is an enigmatic factor in the plot of the film. The heroine who is slumbered goes berserk and the monster is the villain in the picture. The story has been made for all the mystery and suspense in the story, and the atmosphere which it will create is sure to make it a hit. The story is not only a new one, but it is one that will appeal to all classes of people.

WHEN DOOR SLAMS EVEN EXPERTS JUMP

A door slammed in the projection room at the Louis B. Mayer studio and announced that Fred Niblo's "Stranger of the Night" has the element of mystery and suspense that the director was seeking. Niblo, who has taken the film the story from "Captain Applejack." The production has been in the making for many weeks in the cutting. It was ready to run the other night and Niblo invited a little group of keen motion picture executives to watch it.

Matt Moore, in the title role, faceted character woman, was this week selected by Mr. Mayer and "Stranger of the Night" is designed to be a thriller as strong as "The Night the Lights Went Out." A beautiful heroine is slumbered in a thorn bush by the monster, who is an enigmatic factor in the plot of the film. The heroine who is slumbered goes berserk and the monster is the villain in the picture. The story has been made for all the mystery and suspense in the story, and the atmosphere which it will create is sure to make it a hit. The story is not only a new one, but it is one that will appeal to all classes of people.

WHEN DOOR SLAMS EVEN EXPERTS JUMP

A door slammed in the projection room at the Louis B. Mayer studio and announced that Fred Niblo's "Stranger of the Night" has the element of mystery and suspense that the director was seeking. Niblo, who has taken the film the story from "Captain Applejack." The production has been in the making for many weeks in the cutting. It was ready to run the other night and Niblo invited a little group of keen motion picture executives to watch it.

Matt Moore, in the title role, faceted character woman, was this week selected by Mr. Mayer and "Stranger of the Night" is designed to be a thriller as strong as "The Night the Lights Went Out." A beautiful heroine is slumbered in a thorn bush by the monster, who is an enigmatic factor in the plot of the film. The heroine who is slumbered goes berserk and the monster is the villain in the picture. The story has been made for all the mystery and suspense in the story, and the atmosphere which it will create is sure to make it a hit. The story is not only a new one, but it is one that will appeal to all classes of people.

WHEN DOOR SLAMS EVEN EXPERTS JUMP

A door slammed in the projection room at the Louis B. Mayer studio and announced that Fred Niblo's "Stranger of the Night" has the element of mystery and suspense that the director was seeking. Niblo, who has taken the film the story from "Captain Applejack." The production has been in the making for many weeks in the cutting. It was ready to run the other night and Niblo invited a little group of keen motion picture executives to watch it.

Matt Moore, in the title role, faceted character woman, was this week selected by Mr. Mayer and "Stranger of the Night" is designed to be a thriller as strong as "The Night the Lights Went Out." A beautiful heroine is slumbered in a thorn bush by the monster, who is an enigmatic factor in the plot of the film. The heroine who is slumbered goes berserk and the monster is the villain in the picture. The story has been made for all the mystery and suspense in the story, and the atmosphere which it will create is sure to make it a hit. The story is not only a new one, but it is one that will appeal to all classes of people.
TOURNEUR TO FILM FRENCH HIT NEXT

“Two Little Vagrants,” a screenplay adaptation of a famous French stage, is to be Maurice Tourneur’s next picture. World screen rights to the play have been obtained for $40,000 francs, according to a cabled report received here from Paris, from J. Wilk last night. Mr. Wilk has been in Paris for several weeks concluding negotiations begun in this country some time ago.

After a successful conclusion of negotiations for the picture, which Mr. Tourneur has wished for several years to film, an adaptation has been completed by Fred Myton, Tourneur scenario chief, and practically all arrangements for Tourneur’s film. Among the prominent child players are awaiting a contract from Mr. Tourneur, and it is said that the other principal characters have been cast the camera will begin to grind at the United Studios for First National release. Actual work on the production is expected to begin some time next week.

“The play, which is to the French public what “Way Down East” has been to us for public for many years, is a melodrama of novel construction and the picture is to be thoroughly in accord with the Tourneur policy of ‘shorter and different.’ The complete photoplay is not expected to exceed six reels in length and will have that novelty and unusual character which has marked every production of the French director’s productions.

It is possible that Mr. Tourneur and some of the principals may go to France with the picture, as it will go to France some of the important scenes, in order to obtain authentic atmosphere.

WILL FILM “TEMPORARY HUSBAND” IN FRISCO

John McDermott, who is to direct “Her Temporary Husband” for First National, has arrived in San Francisco this week, making arrangements for his picture, which, for the most part, will be made in the Golden Gate city.

“Her Temporary Husband” is a screen version of F. McGrew Willis of William Paulston’s famous stage comedy of the same title.

It is planned to film the picture on a most elaborate scale. According to First National executives, it will be a comedy extraordinary, containing several hundred persons.

Sidney Chaplin, brother of the famous Charlie, is to play the leading male role in this huge comedy production. Other members of the cast have not yet been chosen.

FIRST NATIONAL CONCENTRATES AT UNITED

In order to be in closer contact with the various independent producers who are making First National pictures, John McCormick, western representation, has established offices in twelve cities for the organization’s new western offices. McCormick has removed his office from 5528 Santa Monica Boulevard to new and more commodious quarters at 3012 Western Avenue.

In his new offices Mr. McCormick will be on the same lot with Producers’ Corporation’s Distributor, Frank Lloyd, Edward Carewe, Sam E. Rork and Arthur H. Jacobs.

With the establishment of McCormick’s office at the United studios and the completion of the organization of First National’s producing personnel at the same place, all west coast production is centered on the United lot with the exception of the Thomas H. Ince and the John M. Stahl-Louis B. Mayer producing companies.

The pictures now being made by First National at United are “Frenzy” starring Richard Colleen Moore and directed by Lynn Reynolds; “Thundergale,” also starring Moore, and interpreted by an all-star cast including Owen Moore, Sylvia Breamer, Tully Marshall and Virginia Brown FAire. Work on “Flaming Youth” and “Her Temporary Husband” is scheduled to start immediately.

The production of First National’s own producing unit, as announced today by McCormick, is Earl J. Hudson, general production manager; Richard Walton Tully, general production counsel; David H. Thompson, production manager; Clifford Butler, comptroller and cost supervisor; William Ely, casting director; Art Reynolds, chief censor; chief of camera; J. Miller Book, electrician; Tom Dougherty, general office; Ward McCormick, assistant to the general manager; “Pinkerton” and “The Flaming Youth” are at the west coast studios.

WEST POINTER DRILLS JACKIE’S GUARDS

Fifty-six footers compose the Palace Guard which is used in Jackie Coogan’s forthcoming production of “Long Live the King,” now in the making at Metro’s Hollywood studios. Each man was chosen not only for his physique but also for his military experience, every one of them having seen service in the World War.

The Palace Guard was trained for the complex series of marches and maneuvers by J. Fitzmaurice who has graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point and who is out in Hollywood with his parents on the customary three months’ leave granted to the new officers. Finding time hanging heavy on his hands, Fitzmaurice is combining business with pleasure. The Coogan set and thus also keeps brushing up on his military technique. In the fall, Fitzmaurice will join his command at Kelly Field, Texas, since he has been assigned to the Republic.

Every veteran in Jackie’s palace guard has an interesting background. Jack William Volanski, his Right Guard, has service medals from the Belgian and British armies and over 250 decorations for bravery on the battlefield. John Runsky, another “guard,” spent two years in the Tsar’s Imperial Russian army. Most of the men, naturally, saw service in the A. E. F. or with the Canadians.

LADY WHO KNOWS “LITTLE” BIT ABOUT PICTURES

Discovered! Twelve-dollar-a-day carpenters who actually work fast! When Elmer Harris of Associated Authors took company to Santa Monica beach for some exteriors of his screen version of “The Love Halt,” he selected a stately home under construction for “location.” After a “shooting” session, director, Lloyd Ingham, moved his cameras up for a close-up, but by the time his cameras were placed in position, the carpenters had made radical progress in their work. After several futile attempts to beat the carpenters’ hammers, the astonished director begged the workers to cease their labor until he completed his “shooting.”

The lady for whom the house was being built acceded to the picture-makers’ wishes, saying that she “knew a little bit about motion pictures.” No doubt she didn’t know what happened to Mr. Jesse Lacky. The cast of players on this location included Mickey Kelly, Matt Moore, Kathleen Clifford, S. Reeve-Smith, Stanhope Wheatcroft and George Cooper.

Josephine Adair has just finished the roles in the pictures of Emory Johnson’s “The Mailman” with Ralph Lewis. “The Mailman” and “The Man of the Law” were the pictures in which she appeared with Ralph Lewis under Emory Johnson’s direction.

POST WILL TOUR WITH “GOLD MADNESS”

Arrangements were completed this week for an extended tour of Guy Bates Post in conjunction with his stellar vehicle, “Gold Madness,” which is being presented by William H. Bender. The tour is to be made under the auspices of the Principal Picture Corporation, Sol Lesser and Mike Rosenbaum contracting with the star and his representative, Mr. Bender, to distribute the picture and back the bookings of the stage celebrity in conjunction with this independent production.

An unusual scheme has been approved by Lesser for the introduction of Mr. Post in a dramatic intermezzo, which will reveal the actor’s eloquence of voice and gesture and his dramatic power in a unique manner. He will appear in three capacities in this interlude—first as a character in the story, then as an abstraction or cosmic being and then in his own person as Guy Bates Post. The material employed has been written expressly for Mr. Post by George Noel Baker, author, journalist and native of Constantinople where he was born of English parents but later espoused the spiritual philosophy of the East. There is a touch of mysticism, a firm foundation of ethical truth and a noble appeal in the lines assigned to Post that promise to fortify and emphasize the dramatic impact of the vehicle and impart an epic grandeur seldom encountered in pictures, says Mr. Lesser of Baker’s “dramatic interludes.”

LLOYD HUGHES FINISHES ROLE IN “HUNTRESS”

Lloyd Hughes, popular leading man for Mary Pickford in “Tess of the Storm Country” and other big successes, has just concluded his characterization opposite Colleen Moore in “The Huntress,” a forthcoming First National picture, soon to be released.

Mr. Hughes leaves this week for his first vacation in two years and will resume work before the camera in the near future. Hughes, one of Hollywood’s young men in Hollywood and a “local boy,” he started his career as a butcher boy at eight years of age and soon acquired the movie bug and hung around studios until he received an offer from Pickford who pointed out as the screen successor to the late Wallace Reid, by many “Wisecracks” in movie circles.
Who's Who and What's What in Filmland This Week

Lucy Fox has been signed by Fox to play the leading feminine role in their production of "Around the Town with Galagher and Shean." Fredric Sankey, who just crossed as star of "Up She Goes," is going into vaudeville for the summer in an act called "How Do You Do," which was written by two well-known Lambs.

Henry Kolker, who is at present in England directing "I Will Repay," an ideal picture, is expected to return to New York late in July, where he will start casting for a new production to be made there.

Edith Taliaferro has just completed "The Darkened Doorway," and will immediately start work on a new picture.

Mary Thurman has completed her contract with Panorama Players and has played one of the leading feminine roles in "Zaza." Miss Thurman will start work on a new feature at once.

Although he appears nightly in "Helen of Troy," New York, Charles Lawrence is working on a series of comedies to be released in the fall.

Hedda Hopper, who is under contract to L. B. Mayer, has just completed her first picture, and will immediately start work on her next feature. Miss Hopper will probably remain here for about a year.

Dell Henderson, who has just completed "The Love Bandit," a Blanche production, has started casting for his next Blanche special.

Mary McLaren has left for location in Connecticut, where the exteriors of Murray Garson's next picture will be filmed. The title has not yet been decided upon.

Immediately upon his arrival in Hollywood, Don Lyon was engaged to play the leading male role in "Pansy's Plot," in which he will be featured.

Boyce Combe, who just arrived here, will remain for some time to come, as she has signed a contract to appear in a series of special features.

Immediately upon the completion of "Just in the Doorway," Miss Virginia Pearson was engaged to play the leading male role in "Aagie McGuire," in which she will be starred.

De Garcia Fueberg, who appears as Maximilien Robespierre, "the little lawyer from Arras," in Rex Ingram's "Scaramouche," has mastered in German and Spanish the principal roles of all Shakespeare's plays and all of those of continental authors whose productions he has directed. Now, together with his motion picture work, he devotes two hours daily to perfecting his English.

Gyp Hayt says her real name is just that, Gyp Hayt, or rather, this character portrays the historical character of The络louge de Mericourt in "Scaramouche," Rafael Sabatini's novel of the French Revolution which Rex Ingram is directing for Metro.

Now that she owns a garage that sells gasoline and such things" Viola Dana feels as though she is a business partner of John D. Rockefeller, a young fellow who has done right well in the oil game.

Alice Terry, the leading female player in "Scaramouche," Rex Ingram's monster Metro production, has decided upon Ignatz II and Krazy Kat as the names of the two puppies surviving her pet Spitz dog, Ignatz, who died recently.

"Bull" Montana, early eared Metro comedian in "Held to Answer," which Harold Shaw is directing, has been kept busy ever since the Jack Dempsey-Tom Gibbons July 4 fight explaining how it happened that the champion did not score a knockout. "Bull," who trained with Dempsey for several of the latter's battles, has freely predicted a quick victory for the Colorado mauler.

Rose Dine, well known French actress appearing in "Scaramouche," Rafael Sabatini's stirring story of the French Revolution, says she dis-likes to admit she has been in the United States all of four years because she still speaks English with a decided Parisian accent.

Malcolm McGregor, young featured Metro player, has come to the conclusion that youth has its drawbacks. He is trying to grow a full sized beard so that the powers that he may see whether he will fit a certain role in a coming production. The alfalfa crop is making slow headway.

House Peters preached a real sermon and his "congregation" of several hundred persons sang real hymns to the strains of music produced by a real organ in the French Revolution. Miss Anne Carlyle's old coachman, Harald Shaw is directing for Metro. In this picture Mr. Peters appears as a minister of the gospel.

Edwin Argo, the Louis XVI of France of Rex Ingram's "Scaramouche," formerly was social secretary for Zerashan, Crown Prince of Egypt during the latter's colorful tour of this country.

Gypsy was in error last week in stating that Lorimer Johnston played this role.

John Davidson has been engaged by Famous Players to play the leading male role in "Children's Children," now being made at the Paramount Long Island studios.

Warren Krech has started work on "The Tide," in which he will be featured. The production is being made in New York.

Cecilia Cameron has completed her role in "Alimony," the Robertson-Cole production starring Ruby Miller.

Mablon Hamilton will shortly return to Hollywood from New York, where he appeared in the leading male-speaking roles in two Azizes Ayres productions.

Wyndham Standing is nearing the completion of his role in "The Gold Diggers," the Warner Brothers production, filmed under the direction of Harry Beaumont.

Shannon Hoy has been cast for the part of the Indian maid in "No More Women," an Elmer Harris Production for Associated Authors.

Harland Wood has completed his role in "The Master of Soul," his latest production, in New Orleans in the French quarter.

Jackie Saunders has completed work on "Alimony," Ruby Miller's first starring vehicle, for P. A. Powers.

Sarah Brown, famous as a dancer, has arrived in Hollywood from New Orleans. She will be a pupil of Ernest Belecher and the school of Ruth St. Denis for the teachers' summer session.

Al Martin, who directed the series of Alt and Howell comedies and just recently co-directed with Chuck Ralston at Universal is now in the scenario department of Mack Sennett's.

Joy Winthrop is playing the part of an old maid in "Espana Down," under the direction of Win. Parke at Universal.

Peggy Blackwood just finished a character role with the Finis Fox Production, "Bag and Baggage," at the Hollywood Studios.

Newton Hall ten-year-old juvenile, who recently scored a big success in his personal appearance at Loew's State Theatre with the picture "Peace and Sam," is now under contract with Fox Studio for an important part in "The Temple of Venus" under the direction of Henry Otto.

Harry Burns, codirecting with Charles R. Seelng, has finished "Mysterious Goods," at the Horseley, featuring George Larkin and Charlotte Morgan.

Alton Brown, who recently finished in "Alimony" and "Nobody's Dog," has been cast in the juvenile lead in "The Yankee Counselor" as brother to Douglas MacLean, who is featured.

Billie Butts, the "Little Character in "Alimony," the Robertson-Cole production starring Ruby Miller.

Mablon Hamilton will shortly return to Hollywood from New York, where he appeared in the leading male-speaking roles in two Azizes Ayres productions.

Wyndham Standing is nearing the completion of his role in "The Gold Diggers," the Warner Brothers production, filmed under the direction of Harry Beaumont.

Shannon Hoy has been cast for the part of the Indian maid in "No More Women," an Elmer Harris Production for Associated Authors.

Harland Wood has completed his role in "The Master of Soul," his latest production, in New Orleans in the French quarter.

Jackie Saunders has completed work on "Alimony," Ruby Miller's first starring vehicle, for P. A. Powers.

Sarah Brown, famous as a dancer, has arrived in Hollywood from New Orleans. She will be a pupil of Ernest Belecher and the school of Ruth St. Denis for the teachers' summer session.

Al Martin, who directed the series of Alt and Howell comedies and just recently co-directed with Chuck Ralston at Universal is now in the scenario department of Mack Sennett's.

Joy Winthrop is playing the part of an old maid in "Espana Down," under the direction of Win. Parke at Universal.

Peggy Blackwood just finished a character role with the Finis Fox Production, "Bag and Baggage," at the Hollywood Studios.

Charlotte Du Puis, a promising newcomer from the North, who appeared in the Charles Le Moyne, "Six Days" and in Rex Ingram's "Scaramouche" attracted more than usual attention, is considering a call to carry the ingenue lead in a new comedy production.

Peggy Maya, in addition to laurels already won in filmdom, was presented with a huge silver cup by John Snee at the Palmaton, in a recent ball-room dancing contest, and but a few nights later won another at the Winter Garden, having been judged the best dancer among hundreds of others.

Jean Hersholt returned Thursday from San Francisco, where he has been on location for the past four months in helping the screen's "Creed," taking the heavy role of Marcus Schoeler, and will again leave inside of the next two weeks for Bavaria, first at Keeler and then Death Valley, which will spell fins for this production.
DANCE GENIUS HAS OPENED SCHOOL HERE

NORMAND FEATURE WILL SOON BE FINISHED

In a few days the clicking of cameras will cease on "The Extra Girl" set at Mack Normand will take a few weeks rest before starting with the production of her starring vehicle, "Mary Anne."

"The Extra Girl," under the direction of Dick Jones, has been practically completed to date in record time. Despite the fact that this latest Normand classic was shot in much less time than it is, nevertheless, considered by those qualified to judge, to be the greatest production ever produced by Mack Sennett and certainly the best vehicle Miss Normand has appeared in.

Although no specific date has yet been set for Normand's next appearance on the screen, it is understood that a premiere will be given her new production in the Mission Theatre, Los Angeles, some time during the first or possibly the first part of September.

Now that actual photographing of "The Extra Girl" is finished, however, the work of cutting and editing will begin under the supervision of Mr. Sennett, then will follow the necessary dubbing and shipping it to New York for general distribution.

"The Extra Girl" is one of those big human-interest stories of the real old homespun type. A story with a strong heart appeal and a good moral behind it and, without fear of contradiction, the producer, Mr. Sennett, claims it is practically unplayable and inimitable personality, that it will never be seen again and that it is a comedy drama, the little star of innumerable successes introduces a new character to the screen, George Novak, charmingly irresistible, romantic and adventurous.

Nothing has been overlooked or undone which would not have improved the picture in any way. When it is unfolded, "The Extra Girl" will cause a stir of excitement, owing to the technical and artistic detail of its construction, plus its splendid cast of carefully chosen players, of whom Ralph Graves is the lead, with the names of George Novak, Vernon Dent, Ramsey Wallace, and Charlotte Mineau following, yet equally important.

To Write for Hart

Albert Shelby LeVino has been selected to play the original story by William S. Hart, which the veteran Western star will use as his initial starring vehicle on his return to the screen. LeVino returned to the West Coast a few days ago from San Francisco and Paramount's Long Island studio.

NORMAND'S LATEST FILM TO GET N.Y. PREMIERE

"Ashes of Vengeance," Norma Talmadge's new film, has been given its world premiere at the Apollo Theatre, New York, Aug. 6. Completion of arrangements for the showing were communicated to Producer Joseph M. Schenck by his Eastern representatives yesterday.

The Apollo Theatre is one of the big stage play houses of New York. Producer Schenck's move in booking the picture at other than a film theatre is having a great deal to do with the production. "Ashes of Vengeance" is in ten reels, cost about $1,000,000, and is said to be destined to rank as one of the biggest productions of 1922.

"Ashes of Vengeance" was directed by Frank Lloyd. The director is now completing the work of cutting and editing which has been going on from 10,000 to 10,000 feet and supervising the editing and lifting.

Jack Richardson has been engaged by Wm. Fox for his new special of being filmed in his New York studios.

STARS MOTHER DEFENDS HOLLY WOOD AS IDEAL

"Hollywood is the quietest and finest place to raise a family in the world." That is the opinion of Mrs. Blanche Phibbin, mother of the newly famous Miss Blanche Phibbin, who is one of the attractive stars in "The Age of Desire."

"Two years ago we came here from Chicago," continued the bustling little mother of the talented little star, "and although we were dubious of the place after reading the scandal, we felt that we could protect our daughter when she entered the films, but our first 24 hours in the beautiful city made our eyes to the crime that has been perpetuated against Hollywood, the city beautiful, the city of churches, and homes and art."

"Yes, and there is more sin in one block in Chicago than in the whole of Hollywood," averd Pauline Phibbin, former railway man of the windy city who is here with his little family. "Why, we're almost afraid to say 'goodnight' after ten o'clock, so quiet is the neighborhood. It's a crime the city has forgotten to impress as to the morals of this wondrous city."

Miss Phibbin is one of the leading roles in this Frank Borzage picture with Myrtle Stedman, Wm. Collier, Jr., Josef Santelli, Freddie Trussell, Frankie Lee and others.

CHESTER BENNETT, the producer and director, has signed Sam Kaufman on a two months' contract to make up Jane Novak for her role in "The Lullaby." Miss Normand is the mother in production, "The Lullaby." Kaufman's duties are to see that Miss Novak's make-up is perfect before stepping within camera's focus. She will continue in this role until Jack Richardson finishes the work of cutting and editing which has been going on from 10,000 to 10,000 feet and supervising the editing and lifting.

Muriel Frances Dana is the latest star in Hollywood to take up the art of stage name. Among the stars is Baby Muriel who has received a miniature set from a Chinese admirer and may be seen playing with her friends when not on the stage.
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, July 23

Camera intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 639-369

---

Director | Star | Cameraman | Asst Director | Scenario | Type | Progress
--- | --- | --- | --- | --- | --- | ---

BERWILLA STUDIO. 5821 Santa Monica Blvd. Ashton Dearhart, Pro. Mgr.

Edward Lyons Productions (Arrow release).

Eddie Lyons Productions (Federated release).

Ben Wilson Productions (Federated release).

Denny Dixon, All-Star

Jack Forgie

Dearthall Productions.

Dick Hamilton

Rhode Island

Billy Noble

MCGILL

Al Lanken

Linden

S. S. Bates

M. J. Andrews

Wm. Lester

"The Mystery Trail"

2nd Week

2nd Week

2nd Week

1st Week

598-146

3rd Week

"Lead Pipe Cinch"

Editting

1st Week

Holly 2814

593576

Holly 96

313-14

Holly 4070

439-764

Holly 3100

162

Wilshire 2115

Holly 2632

Wilshire 81

Lankershim 132-J

---

FRED CRAWFORD PRODUCTIONS. 4513 Sunset Blvd.

Fred Caldwell

Cass Elliot

Gene Cook

H. Thorpe

J. S. Woodhouse

J. P. Woodhouse

"Hogan of Hollywood"

"Million of Hollywood"

"Lead Pipe Cinch"

Holly 3100

CENTURY STUDIO. 6100 Sunset Blvd.

Julius Stern, Gen. Mgr.

Bert Sternback, Casting.

CHAPLIN STUDIO. Alfred Reeves, Gen. Mgr.

1416 La Brea Ave.

CHOICE STUDIO. 6044 Sunset Blvd.

Martin J. Hoyl

All-Star

Ray June

Warren Frimmie

W. H. Clifford

All Christie

Hobby Vernon

Nancy-Phillips

Haggan

Cokkin

Holly 4070

439-764

COSMOSART STUDIO. 3700 Beverly Blvd. J. E. Bowen, Gen. Mgr. Frank M. Willard, Studio Mgr.

Frank E. Willard, Studio Mgr. Wilshire 2115

FINE ARTS STUDIOS. 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO. Arthur Forde, Casting. 1401 N. Western Ave.

Fred Kley, Studio Mgr.

Holly 3000

GARSON STUDIOS. 1845 Glendale Blvd.

GOLDEN WEST STUDIO. 4011 Lankershim Blvd.

Lankershim 132-J

GOLDSTONE STUDIO. 1426 Beechwood Dr.

Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release).

Harry Tenbrook

Staff

"Dark Faces"

4th Week

GOLDWYN STUDIO. R. B. McIntyre, Casting. Culver City.

761711

Cosmopolitan Productions.

Carlos Productions.

GRAY STEARNS. 1438 Gower St. Ben Verschleier, General Manager.

Monte Banks Productions, Inc.

H. Edwards

Monte Banks

Bill Williams

L. Goodman

Staff

"Wedding Rings"

1st Week

Sid Smith Productions, Inc.

Ken. MacLean

Bobie Asher

Lamont

"Husbands Wanted"

1st Week

Joe Rock Productions.

Peggie Norris

Joe Rock

Jerry Ash

Murray-Reck

Merris

2nd Week

INTERSTATE PICTURES CORPORATION. Jean Burt Calvert, Casting. Culver City, Cal.

J. B. Calvert Productions.

J. B. Calvert

All-Star

Joe Rampana

Frank Cameron

Belmont-Woodhouse Drums

Preparing
HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS. 6642 Santa Monica Blvd. J. Jasper, Mgr.

Harold Lloyd Corporation.—Wm. R. Fraser, Gen. Mgr.
Finds Fox All-Star Hal Mohr Wm. Dashiel Lois Zeller "Bag and Baggage" 5th Week
Richard Thomas Productions.
Irving Cummings Productions. Charles Woolstonhulme, Production Manager.
Supreme Art Productions. Chas. J. Hall
Donald Magill All-Star J. J. Farnetor Preparing

HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr.
Horner All-Star Meehan Middleton Horner "The Lost Limited" Casting World Educational Films. Ellerson Baby Betty Wm. Field F. M. Abbey Robinson "The Forty Niner" Preparing Chas. R. Seeling Productions. (Ayywon release). 1442 Beachwood Drive.
Seeling Geo. Larkin Elmer Dyer Harry Burns "The Eagle Claw" 3rd Week
Hercules Film Productions, Inc. P. Andrews, Mgr. 1442 Beachwood Drive.
Arthur Paul J. Charles L. Feldman Staff "Mysterious Goods" Preparing

INCE STUDIO. Horace Williams, Casting. Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr. Culver City

IALSTUDIO. L. M. Goodstatt, Casting. 1520 Vi

V PARAMETERS. (Famous Players-Lasky Release.)
Beaumont Pat O'Neil Harold Schwartz Mathis-Dix "Spanish Dancer" 7th Week
Wm. DeMeille All-Star Guy Wilke Geo. Hippard Clara Beranger "Spring Magic" 5th Week
J. Neis Big Boy Williams Karl Brown Vernon Keyes "Doughies of Red Gap" 5th Week
S. DeMeille Featured Bert Glennon H. Tate J. McPherson "The Ten Commandments" 7th Week
R. O. Lincoln All-Star Featured Joe Melchian H. Tate J. McPherson "The Light That Failed" 7th Week
J. Kane Featured "All Must Marvel" Preparing

METRO STUDIOS. Romainic and Cahuenga Ave. Harry Kerr, Casting.

Lincoln 2120

Louis B. Mayer Productions. (Metro release).
Becky and the Hawk A. Wyckoff Harry Schenck A. P. Younger "Pleasure Mad" 2nd Week
Victor Schertzing-Jackie Coogan.
Saran Coogan Productions, Inc.
Victor Schertzing-Jackie Coogan.
Allan Hublar Productions.

NEVA GERBER PRODUCTIONS. 6735 Holly Blvd. Dearbotala-Dillon Neva Gerber Hutchinson Wilbur McGough Dillon "Santa Fe Trail" 14th Episode

NATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St.
Technicolor M. P. Corp. C. A. Willat, Mgr.
J. A. Ball Bay Rennahan G. W. Cave Color Photography Schedule

PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 7100 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 7901

United Artists Release.
Reno Walsh Geo. Hill Douglas Fairbanks Jack Pickford Arthur Edson O'Connell J. T. O'Donahue Staff Staff "The Thief of Bagdad" "The Valley of the Wolf" 4th Week Preparing

PRINCIPAL PICTURE CORP. 7250 Santa Monica.

Edith Cline Bow, Al. Dar-La Mott Ned Van Buren Harry Langdon Albert Breakiln "When A Man's a Man" 7th Week

R-C STUDIO. Melrose and Gower. 780 Gower St. Holly 7780

Individual Productions. (Film Booking Offices.)
Al Santel Eddie Hearn
B. St. John Geo. O'Hara
Emory Johnson Ralph Lewis R. Fisher
Emile Chauvard Derylys Perdue Geo. K. Arthur
Chester Bennett Productions.

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr. 6701 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 59-440

ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

Hal Roach Comedies (Pathes release).
Howe-Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Green Harry Gadirtz Henecke-Brandie "Our Gang" C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule
McGowan Ralph Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Young Harry Gadirtz C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule

It's a Wonderful Life
Everybody's Talking
What's the Use
Shadows
"The Lullaby" 5th Week

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr. 6701 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 59-440

ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

Hal Roach Comedies (Pathes release).
Howe-Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Green Harry Gadirtz Henecke-Brandie "Our Gang" C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule
McGowan Ralph Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Young Harry Gadirtz C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule

It's a Wonderful Life
Everybody's Talking
What's the Use
Shadows
"The Lullaby" 5th Week

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr. 6701 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 59-440

ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

Hal Roach Comedies (Pathes release).
Howe-Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Green Harry Gadirtz Henecke-Brandie "Our Gang" C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule
McGowan Ralph Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Young Harry Gadirtz C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule

It's a Wonderful Life
Everybody's Talking
What's the Use
Shadows
"The Lullaby" 5th Week

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr. 6701 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 59-440

ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

Hal Roach Comedies (Pathes release).
Howe-Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Green Harry Gadirtz Henecke-Brandie "Our Gang" C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule
McGowan Ralph Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Young Harry Gadirtz C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule

It's a Wonderful Life
Everybody's Talking
What's the Use
Shadows
"The Lullaby" 5th Week

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr. 6701 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 59-440

ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

Hal Roach Comedies (Pathes release).
Howe-Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Green Harry Gadirtz Henecke-Brandie "Our Gang" C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule
McGowan Ralph Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Young Harry Gadirtz C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule

It's a Wonderful Life
Everybody's Talking
What's the Use
Shadows
"The Lullaby" 5th Week

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr. 6701 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 59-440

ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

Hal Roach Comedies (Pathes release).
Howe-Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Green Harry Gadirtz Henecke-Brandie "Our Gang" C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule
McGowan Ralph Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Young Harry Gadirtz C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule

It's a Wonderful Life
Everybody's Talking
What's the Use
Shadows
"The Lullaby" 5th Week

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr. 6701 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 59-440

ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

Hal Roach Comedies (Pathes release).
Howe-Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Green Harry Gadirtz Henecke-Brandie "Our Gang" C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule
McGowan Ralph Cedar "Paul" Parrott Frank Young Harry Gadirtz C. Merrilse 1-Reel Comedy Schedule

It's a Wonderful Life
Everybody's Talking
What's the Use
Shadows
"The Lullaby" 5th Week

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr. 6701 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 59-440

ROACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.
ROCKETT-LINCOLN COMPANY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst. Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Phil Rosen</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Kurtz-Browning</td>
<td>Al. Davis</td>
<td>Frances Marion</td>
<td>&quot;Life of Abraham Lincoln&quot;</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

RAY STUDIO
Albert A. Kidder, Jr., Gen'l Mgr.  1425 Fleming St.

RUSSEL STUDIO
B. D. Russell, Mgr.  1439 Beachwood Dr.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>D. B. Russell</th>
<th>Franklin Parum</th>
<th>Al. Mohr</th>
<th>Fred Allen</th>
<th>Hively</th>
<th>Feature</th>
<th>Preparing</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Logan-Bayham Productions.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Tom Gibson</th>
<th>Morante</th>
<th>MacManigal</th>
<th>Kane-Walsh</th>
<th>2-Rel Comedy</th>
<th>Preparing</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Gen. H. Seitz</th>
<th>Hoy-Miller</th>
<th>Wm. Bertram</th>
<th>Seitz</th>
<th>&quot;Way of Man&quot;</th>
<th>4th Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

SENNITTO STUDIO
1712 Glendale Blvd.

Mack Sennett Comedies, (First National Release).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>F. Richard Jones</th>
<th>Mabel Normand</th>
<th>Homer Scott</th>
<th>Jim Wright</th>
<th>Mack Sennett</th>
<th>&quot;The Extra Girl&quot;</th>
<th>Editing</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Roy Deluth</td>
<td>Ben Turpin</td>
<td>Wagner</td>
<td>Joe Bordeau</td>
<td>Mack Sennett</td>
<td>&quot;Ask-up at the Switch&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Jim Camp FIELD | Johnson-Lovina | Strub. | Mack Sennett | "Bough and Beauty" | 3rd Week |

SUNSET PRODUCTIONS
7425 Sunset Blvd.

UNITED STUDIOS

Louis B. Mayer Productions, Clune's Studio, 5360 Melrose Ave.

Frank Borsage Productions, Arthur H. Jacobs Corp.  (First National release.)

Edwin CARESS Productions, (First National release)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Edwin-Carowe</th>
<th>Holbrook Illson</th>
<th>Sol Matt-Storey</th>
<th>Wallace Fox</th>
<th>Fins Fox</th>
<th>&quot;The Bad Man&quot;</th>
<th>7th Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Joseph M. Schenck Productions. (First National release)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Heman Constance-Talma</th>
<th>Talma</th>
<th>Glen McWilliams</th>
<th>E. Brophy</th>
<th>Willard Mack</th>
<th>&quot;The Dangerous Maid&quot;</th>
<th>5th Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

| F. Franklin | Nora Talma | Tony Guadagno | David Fisher | Mack-Sullivan | "Rose of All the World" | 2nd Week |

Sam E. Rok Productions.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Donald Cripp</th>
<th>All-Star</th>
<th>Paul Perry</th>
<th>Jas. Evans</th>
<th>Cha. Logue</th>
<th>&quot;Ponjola&quot;</th>
<th>9th Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

| Joe De Grass | All-Star | Boise | Perry Vrejob | Wm. Dowlin | "Lord of Thunderhead" | 9th Week |

FIRST NATIONAL PRODUCTIONS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Maurice Tourneur Productions.</th>
<th>Arthur L. Cobb</th>
<th>John Beal</th>
<th>Fred Myron</th>
<th>&quot;Two Little Vagrants&quot;</th>
<th>Casting</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

UNIVERSAL STUDIO
Fred Datig, Casting.

Universal Film Manufacturing Co. (Universal Release)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Wm. Stark</th>
<th>Herbert Rawlinson</th>
<th>Balino</th>
<th>Tilling</th>
<th>Harvey Gates</th>
<th>&quot;Inside Down&quot;</th>
<th>Editing</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Brown</th>
<th>All-Star</th>
<th>Ballinas</th>
<th>Dorian</th>
<th>Dorian</th>
<th>&quot;The Acquittal&quot;</th>
<th>7th Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Arthaudain</th>
<th>Tisidis Dean</th>
<th>Hillyard</th>
<th>Sullivan</th>
<th>Hugh Hoffman</th>
<th>&quot;The Near Lady&quot;</th>
<th>3rd Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Herbert Blanche</th>
<th>Gladya Walton</th>
<th>Roger Robin</th>
<th>Wright</th>
<th>Geo. Hampton</th>
<th>&quot;The Steel Trail&quot;</th>
<th>11th Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

| Wm. Dunne | Donald-Johnson | Robinson | Abel | Abel | "Edith's Burglar" | 4th Week |
|-----------|----------------|---------|-----|-----|"The Hog" | 4th Week |

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Wm. A. Soter</th>
<th>Baby Peggy</th>
<th>Baby</th>
<th>Dovitch</th>
<th>&quot;Crooked Alley&quot;</th>
<th>&quot;Bugsy&quot;</th>
<th>4th Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Edw. Lumley</th>
<th>All-Star</th>
<th>Marchant-Kohn</th>
<th>Marchant-Kohn</th>
<th>&quot;The Moon Riders&quot;</th>
<th>&quot;Beasts of Paradise&quot;</th>
<th>2nd Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Robt. Hill</th>
<th>N. Brainbury</th>
<th>N. Brainbury</th>
<th>Taylor-Kick</th>
<th>Taylor-Kick</th>
<th>&quot;Beasts of Paradise&quot;</th>
<th>2nd Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Leon Lee Productions.</th>
<th>Leon Lee Manager.</th>
<th>Wm. Hayes</th>
<th>Lyons</th>
<th>Zimmerman</th>
<th>Staff</th>
<th>Comedy</th>
<th>Schedule</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

|-------------------|-----------------|--------------------|----------------|---------|---------|----------|

|------------------------|----------------|----------------|---------|---------|----------|

WARNER BROS. STUDIOS, 5842 Sunset Blvd.

Warner Brothers Productions.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Johnny Hines</th>
<th>Johnny Hines</th>
<th>Chas. Gilson</th>
<th>&quot;Conductor 1192&quot;</th>
<th>Scheduled</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Wm. A. Soter</th>
<th>All-Star</th>
<th>Davel</th>
<th>Frank Strayer</th>
<th>&quot;How to Educate a Wife&quot;</th>
<th>Scheduled</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Edw. Leavenston</th>
<th>All-Star</th>
<th>Abel</th>
<th>&quot;Parrishes&quot;</th>
<th>&quot;Parrishes&quot;</th>
<th>Scheduled</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sidney Franklin Productions.</th>
<th>Sidney Franklin, Owner and Ulric</th>
<th>Chas. Rocker</th>
<th>Wm. Maginn</th>
<th>Edmund Goulding</th>
<th>&quot;Tiger Rose&quot;</th>
<th>2nd Week</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Ernest Lubitch Productions.</th>
<th>Ernest Lubitch</th>
<th>&quot;Jasacita Lombard&quot;</th>
<th>Edmund Goulding</th>
<th>&quot;Broadway After Dark&quot;</th>
<th>Scheduled</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

WILNAT STUDIO. 6070 Sunset Blvd.  Al. Brandt Mrs.  Wm. Caldwell

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>H. Mitchell</th>
<th>Dave Abel</th>
<th>&quot;Forever and Forget&quot;</th>
<th>&quot;Forever and Forget&quot;</th>
<th>Scheduled</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

DR. W. I. SCHUSTER
Palmer Graduate, Chiropractor
"WHERE THE SICK GO TO GET WELL."

203 Bogardus Bldg., Sunset at Western Hours 10 to 12; 2 to 5 Phone 436-724

Hours 2 to 5 Night Calls Accepted

H. W. WALL, M. D.
Physician and Surgeon
Post Graduate Chicago and New York
Hollis Hospital, 6702 Hollywood Blvd.

---

INCE $2 GOLDWYN ROACH STUDIOS

578-280 SUNSET TAXI 578-307
The stage husky for V her can T S Davidson 1 ness.

"The fumes and gasses accompanying the eruption made us all sick; and a husky Italian cameraman, Fernando Recchi, fainted from the effects of the gasses. One camera became so hot that the emulsion melted off the film and we lost about fifteen hundred feet of some very fine pictures.

"The terrific whirlwinds and gales, created by the coming together of hot and cold air currents, enabled us to get what were equivalent to actual photographs of tornadoes. In fact, the velocity of the winds was so great that at one time one of my cameras was blown over and one of the photographers had his back strained. Fortunately, he was not seriously injured, and the films in this case were saved."

Mr. King said that he considered himself fortunate to get some of the best action pictures ever taken in the motion picture industry, for his volcanic scenes in "The White Sister," and said that even now it made him feel uncomfortable when he thought of the heat and risks he and his photographers had to take in order to utilize the latest upheaval of Vesuvius.

Eric Von Ritzau arrived in San Francisco on Friday to join the cast of "Greed," in which he will play the part of the traveling dentist. He has quite a bit of work in the sequences still to be made in San Francisco, and still more in the part to be filmed after the company goes to Colfax the latter part of July. Von Ritzau has the distinction of being not only one of the oldest and best friends of Eric Von Stroheim's early days in America, when they lived together, but also of perhaps as many years' experience before the camera as any actor in the business.

HELLMAN BANK IS NOW IN HOLLYWOOD

Temporary location
6621 Hollywood Blvd.
Permanent home
Hollywood and Cherokee

Tom Santschi, who has successively been a western star, a high-salaried "heavy" and a straight leading man, has been chosen to play opposite Priscilla Dean in her new Universal-Jewel starring vehicle, "The Storm Daughter."

"The Storm Daughter" was written for Miss Dean's use by Leete Renick Brown of the Universal City scenario department and is a sea story involving largely "rough-cut" characters.

Santschi's role will be that of a brute of the ships, yet with some redeeming qualities from the start, and the story is so written that the audience will not know until the last sixty seconds of the picture whether Santschi or William B. Davidson hold trump-hearts. Davidson, formerly a stage player of high repute in New York City, shares with Santschi both the leading role and "heavy" honors.

Pat Hartigan, Cyril Chadwick and Owen Gorine, the latter a newly imported European actor under contract with Universal, are other players cast in the forthcoming Dean production, which George Archainbaut, director of "The Midnight Guest," "The Power of a Lie" and other pictures of note, will guide the filming.

Thanks—

I desire to take this means of extending my thanks and appreciation to the many friends who wished me success in the establishing of my new office.

To those members of the motion picture profession who have signed contracts with me to handle their publicity and to personally represent them—I promise to give the best in me—and to those members of the profession who are held back in their efforts to go ahead I welcome you to join my already large number of clients. Let me prove my statements—I know that I can make good for you.

HOWARD LICHTENSTEIN COMPANY

Purveyors of Publicity, to Their Majesties
The Kings and Queens of Movieland

6047½ Hollywood Blvd.
Suite One, Conlon Bldg.

Phone 432-030
Hours 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.
Sundays 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

BRUNO
6412 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 3821

... for your casting director photos . . . .

"Camera!"

WANT-ADS

FOR RENT—High-grade still outfits, $5.00 per week; Little, The Big Photographer, 5874 Hollywood Boulevard. Phone 437-902.

Malamute Pups, pure blooded, look like bear cubs. $50 each. Phone Hollywood 6310 or address Box PRW, "Camera!"

LADIES' WIG—Beautiful brown natural curly hair—parted on side. Good as new. Reasonable. 1118 S. Gramercy Dr. Phone 738-37.
Hugh Hoffman
Scenarist and Production Supervisor
Gladys Walton unit, Universal.
Current production, "The Next Lady"
Hortense Blaché, Directing.
"Sawdust."

"HAIRGOIL"—permanent cure for superficial hair on arm, limbs, face and body—also wonderful for men who have shaving troubles.
$2.50 the bottle—manufactured at
ORCHID BEAUTY SHOPPE
809 No. Hope St. Phone 16595
All lines of beauty culture.

CHORUS GIRLS
Wanted for stage production
Must not be over 22. Apply
REHEARSAL HALL, 955 SO. OLIVE

Reproductions, Still Finishing
Publicity Photography
LITTLE
Commercial Photographer
Phone 437952
5874 Hollywood Blvd. Cornor Bronson
Animated Cartoons—Original Title Ideas
Clay Animation—Miniature Sets and Animated Figures

Frank Tha Shoe Doctor
"We save your sole and heel you too!"
6666 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 3752

American Legion Stadium
Hollywood Boulevard at El Centro Ave.

Living Doubles
(Continued from Page 5)

Mr. Coulson is unknown to screen followers.
Mr. Ingram simply recognized the man's likeness to the real Marat and his ability to play the part convincingly.
The director thought he found an excellent
King Louis XVI but when he saw Edwin Arugas in a large group of French aristocrats he changed his mind. The first man he deposed and from that moment until the scenes in which appeared were completed.
Mr. Arugas was Louis XVI.
The young director refused to worry about finding a woman for the role of Marie Antoinette.
He simply kept his eyes open, watched faces, and two days before she made her first appearance as Queen of France, Clotide Delano was selected from a crowd of "extras." She has the same high forehead, prominent eyes, the same mouth, nose, and carriage that marked Antoinette.
It is Mr. Ingram's belief that in seeking to duplicate historical figures facial structure is most important, providing the stature is of the right proportion. He does not per mit himself to be misled by mannerisms, the way in which a person's hair is arranged or a person's manner of dress. He looks at the construction of the forehead, breadth and length of face, the position of eyes, nose, cheekbones and mouth.

One of the reasons for Mr. Ingram's un usual ability here is made clear to a large extent by the fact that he made an extensive study of sculpturing under Lawrie at Yale and at the Art Students League in New York.
This explains why he secured death masks of Danton, Robespierre and the others.
It was necessary to cable to France for some of them. The director would not only rely on portraits of the famous men in the story in his search for their living replicas.
The historical characters in "Scaramouche" be silent witness to his skill.

Frank Currier, who remembers stage his tory from personal experience back to 69 and who was stage manager for Julia Mar lowe's first stage success, is one of the veteran artists selected by the Universal Pictures corporation to support the diminu tive Baby Peggy, aged three-and-a-half years, in her next Universal-Jewel special,
"Editha the Burglar." The Frances Hodgson
Burnett story will be filmed under the di rection of William A. Seiter, director of "The Beautiful and the Damned" and other pictures.

THE DENTIST
Wanted to diagnose and treat
Dental problems.

HOLLYWOOD\nSCENIC SUTURES
4730 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 14278

"We are your friends as you sleep!"
AN OIL PAINTING

costs quite a sum of money, but you can have your photograph colored to look just as beautiful at a much lower price. My specialty is portrait paintings of the finest type. Special rates on fan pictures.

Emma G. Hoffman
907 Central Bldg. Phone 142-38

Walter Frederick Seely

Shadow Photograph
1448 North Wilcox
(One-half block west of Cahuenga at Sunset)
Telephone 439-774

MARION WARDE

Acting and Make-Up for the Stage and Films

Classical, Character, Ballet and Step-dancing

423-4 MUSIC ARTS BUILDING

233 SOUTH BROADWAY

PHONES 821-181

Hardee Kirkland's

Phone Number is

Hollywood

6298

YOUR PHONOGRAPH

will reproduce in soft Mellow Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a Deflexograph

Fits any Phonograph or Victrola

Using Changeable Needles

Play after hours — will not disturb.

Deflexograph attaches to needle holder, filters sound oscillations, prevents scratch and surface noises entering sound box. No metallic noises.

$1.00

Postpaid

Gold Plate $1.50

Nickel Plate $1.00

VANTORE CO., Dept. 416

110 W. 15th St.

New York, N. Y.

Young lady—SCRIPT CLERK—desires position. Recently with Fred Niblo. Call Capitol 1698 between 2 and 4 or evenings.

"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"

Page Twenty-one

Coy Watson, Jr.

Age 10.

Wilshire 3616

MODEL.

You Never Know.

The Right of the Strongest.

Featured in "Campbell's Oatmeal Sirup -ee"

"Overweight? Underweight?"

MRS. A. METZNER

Consultant

5621 Hollywood Boulevard

Publicity Engineer

Tamar Lane

Holly 737

Wonderful Bargains in Exclusive "Clothes, Shoes, Hats for every occasion." These garments worn by Screen Stars and Society Matrons. A trial will convince. Call anytime.

Also disposing of complete wardrobes on a commission basis. See me before you buy or sell

Mrs. James J. Craig

Apartment Shop

Broadway 1258

1206½ Sunset Blvd.

THE HILLVIEW GRILL

Hillview Apartments Bldg.

Hollywood at Hudson

Holly 7880

Holly 6068

MERCHANTS LUNCH

11:30 to 2

DINNER

5:30 to 8

SCREEN SERVICE

(formerly The Service Bureau)

1036 South Hill

Phone 821-071

Selected Antiques

Turton's Antique Shop

Rainbow Valley

with RAINBOW VALLEY CLUB
All club privileges with a large cabin site for $198, $298, $398, $498, $10, $15, $20, $25 DOWN and $10.00 per month.

From Glendale—through Montrose, along Michigan Ave., to Tujunga, Sunland, RAINBOW VALLEY.
For further information call or write office of

RAINBOW VALLEY
Phone Glendale 1702

A Pretty Face, Plus

A pretty face isn't all that is needed to win film fame. A pretty face without the ability to act wouldn't get any girl very far, but, of course, it helps. Beauty has been the free ticket of admission to movie land for hundreds of would-be actresses, but few of them get beyond the first few rungs of the ladder of fame because they lack the histrionic talent that must go with it to assure success.

It was a pretty face that brought Virginia Brown Faire into filmdom. She got her first part through the winning of a beauty contest in which she was playing extra and bit parts but for an ability for acting which, fostered by clever direction and ambition on the part of the young player, has brought her finally to within easy grasp of the highest honors that screenland can offer.

Recently Miss Faire signed a contract to play leading and feature parts in a series of First National pictures. Her first appearance under the new contract is in "Thunder-gate," a thrilling drama with a Chinese and American background, in which Miss Faire is playing opposite Owen Moore.

In this powerful story of the Orient and Occident the talented young actress plays the part of a young white girl who is reared as a Chinese and meets romance when a young American is forced by circumstances to masquerade as an Oriental overlord.

This same pretty face that brought Virginia into films used to get her into all kinds of trouble back at Public School No. 15 in Brooklyn.

In those days the actress-to-be was a genuine tom-boy. She enjoyed boys' games; she loved to climb fences; play ball—yes, and even fight. Add to these proclivities an unusual supply of physical pulchritude and it is easy to understand why she was looked upon as one of the class' "disturbing elements."

Virginia recalls how, on one occasion, she was punished in school for no other reason than she had a pretty face.

One day she was hard at work over a problem in mathematics, she relates, when out rapped the command of her teacher: "Virginia will change places with William Smithers." That meant that she must take a seat in the back row.

The girl, who was later to become famous on the screen, explains, "I was afraid the teacher should be asked to make the change. She had been especially attentive to her studies that afternoon. And "banishment" to the back row meant punishment.

Virginia asked the reason.

"Well, there isn't a boy in the whole class who had his eyes on his work," the teacher explained. "Every boy sits gazing at you instead of doing his lessons. From now on you are going to sit in the back row where they can't see you."

Sheldon Lewis and William J. Quinn, members of the cast supporting Baby Peggy in "Whose Baby Are You?" her recently completed starring vehicle directed for Universal by King Baggot, held a "re-vival" of stage jokes and anecdotes that occupied all their leisure time.

Ten years ago both appeared in the William A. Brady stage production of "Life" in Chicago. So many things were associated with this period that on the Baggot set all Lewis and Quinn talked about was "who did which and why." This was their first meeting at work in ten years. Other members of the Baggot cast were Carl Stockdale, Gladys Brockwell, Pat Hargrigan, Betty Francisco, Anderson Smith and Leong Duck.
Marguerite LaMont
Vermont 5780
Watch For Further Announcement

of

“PG” SMITH PRODUCTIONS

2nd Floor, California Bank Bldg., 6548 Hollywood Bldg.
EDITH JOHNSON
CO-STARRING WITH WILLIAM DUNCAN
IN "DANGEROUS SMILES"
AT THE HIPPODROME
AUTHENTIC DETAILS AND PHOTOGRAPHS OF FOREIGN INTERIORS AND EXTERIORS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

INTERNATIONAL CINEMA RESEARCH
L.A. HOWLAND
Phone 438-761
300-301 HOLLYWOOD SECURITY BLDG.

Charlotte Du Puis
INGENUES AND CHARACTERS
Specializing in French, Italian and Spanish roles.
Under Personal Management of Mrs. Harriet C. Higbee.
Holly 9787

MARIA LOREDO
Heavies
Just finished the part of Dolores Mendoza in "The Santa Fe Trail" with Neva Gerber.
Broadway 1205

ZAN MAKE-UP SHOP
819 South Hill ... Pico 498

We have an unsurpassed selection of quality hair goods of all descriptions. Made to order on the shortest notice with painstaking care and to suit each individual requirement. For more than a decade the Zan shop has served the discriminating people of the profession. It has increased in strength, size and service with the passing of the years.
Confidence is a great asset, but too many promoters have nothing else to offer.

If big pictures become the rule, a lot of "little" men in the producing game will certainly fail to measure up. Oh well, perchance 'tis just as well.

An unusual increase in the amount of new eastern money being invested in Hollywood film projects is noticeable. Here's hoping the notices continuing to be warranted.

Foreign pictures are conspicuous for their absence in the U. S. A. On the contrary, foreign countries are flooded with American pictures. It's great for us even though it does grate on foreign nerves.

The prospects for a gasoline war should have a soothingly peaceful effect on the long-suffering motorist. Ten cents a gallon is an ample price for "gas" and there is no reason why the gasoline trust should have more than plenty.

Los Angeles bids fair to become the foremost premiere city for big photoplays. It also seems assured of becoming the foremost city for most everything else. Forsooth its future is far more stupendous in promise than its past in actual achievement, which is saying a lot.

The east and middle-west continue to be in the grip of a heat wave and a wave of indignation over the accompanying "dryness." In the meantime, despite the total absence of rain, Southern California continues to be the "wettest" spot in the whole country and everybody is very cool about it.

Many experts agree it is more difficult to make audiences laugh than to cry. Ah yes, after seeing some of the latest two-reel comedies, one is inclined to concede it is far too easy for some comedians to make people weep in boredom. Indeed, the screen could use a few more real comedians who are not so prone to mis-use it.

As time goes on the whole country is getting back to normalcy in a business way, but the wearing on of the same time does not seem to influence the masses and classes of people to manifest more respect for abnormal laws such as that decreeing Prohibition. The solution is simple of course—abolish abnormal laws and replace them with sane ones.

The price of screen rights to successful novels and stage plays is going up amazingly. The sum of $200,000 seems to be a minimum as a price and even this amount was refused recently by the owner of "Lightnin,'" the late Frank Bacon's hit. Need there be any reason other than the pecuniary one for encouraging original screen stories more and more?

We predict a nation-wide uprising against blue laws and all the principles actuating those reformers who elect to dictate what the majority shall do. In view of the fact that it is sure to be a bloodless uprising, the sooner it comes the better it will be for the general welfare. Humanity has been burdened with an excess of reformers' jealous delusions long enough and is ready for a shortage thereof.

One New York newspaper attaches great importance to the report that Jack Pickford intends to make his future pictures in Gotham, inferring it to be another sign of that city depriving California of its majority percentage as the producing center. The absurdity of the notion is made perfectly apparent in the mentioning of the fact that Marilyn Miller, Jack's wife, will be back on the New York stage soon and that Friend Husband naturally desires to be wherever his charming wife may be.

It is foolish to expect the motion picture industry to "stay put." Primarily, it is a gigantic business which cannot be easily confined to stipulated limitations. Secondly, it is young and just in the midst of growing into its maturity. So, when anyone calls this industry volatile, the insult intended so strongly is really a compliment—an admission of marvelous expansion. Anyway, some of the literary critics of the film industry deserve much ignoring.

Still another boom in theatre-building activities is under way right now. It is estimated there are more than 3,500 new playhouses under the course of construction at this time with many more planned throughout the nation. Hollywood is to get its share too, having three big ones assured already and a strong possibility of a couple more ere long. One thing certain is no one need worry about the future so far as having some place to go is concerned.

One producer claims there are only eighty-six photoplayers whose names possess box office value. If this estimate is correct, the talent market needs extensive replenishing since there are more than eighty-six producers constantly striving to have those eighty-six players in their pictures. Meanwhile there are definite indications of a veritable public clamor for new faces. Nor is it so easy to find new faces to equal the standard set by the old ones from a histronic standpoint. The only plausible answer is the establishing of a cinema conservatory at which latent talents may be developed on a scientific and artistic system. Why not such an institution sponsored by all the producers?
This Week's Theatre Notes

Jack London's "Call of the Wild" now at the California, is thrilling thousands who love adventure.

Harold Lloyd continues to entertain the throngs that visit Miller's with his latest laugh-provoker, "Safety Last."

"Salome Jane," a story of early California days; Sid Grauman's specialty act, "Thirty Minutes Around Los Angeles," and Herman Heller's orchestra, make up the programme at the Metropolitan this week.

The north woods—its glamour, adventure and risks, are said to live unforgettable and beautifully in Warner Bros.' screen classic, "Where He North Begins," in which Rin-Tin-Tin, the emperor of police dogs, is introduced, to the Loew's State Theatre audience this week in a world premiere.

"Human Wreckage" held for another record week at the Rialto as its cast Mrs. Wallace Reid, James Kirkwood, Bessee Love, Geo. Hackathorne and Robert McKim, who display a sensitive understanding of the tremendous theme, and a sincerity that is making it an outstanding production of the year.

"Temptation," which comes to the Million Dollar this week, is one of the season's most gripping plays with an all-star cast, including Bryant Washburn, Eva Novak, June Elvyde, Phillips Smalley and Vernon Steele.

Richard Barthelmess and Dorothy Gish are returning to the Alhambra this week in Joseph Hergesheimer's romantic photoplay, "The Bright Shawl," with a supporting cast including Marcy Astor, Andre de Beranger, Margaret Seddon, Lois Alberini, Andy Randolf, William Post, Jetta Gondal and Geo. Humbert. The story deals with the love of a young American who had pledged himself to the aid of Cuban hero's fighting for independence, many scenes of which were filmed on the actual location in Cuba.

"Legally Dead," a Universal all-star production with Milton Sills in the leading character part, opens the Kinema this week. Adrenaline, the life-restoring drug with which dead people have apparently been brought back to life, is the theme of the story.

The Symphony's offering of Buster Keaton's "The Ballomatic" has proven so popular with local audiences that the management has consented to hold the bill another week.

Lee "Bud" Harrison, favorite black-face comedian of the Hi-Jinks musical comedy company in "Frivolous maidens," has just closed at the Bank Theatre, will entertain audiences this coming week in a character part that will startle his followers to the nth degree of nothing short of sensation.

This week's offering at the Mission Theater is Rupert Julian's Universal Super-Jewel production of "Merry-Go-Round," presented by an all-star cast including Mary Philbin and Norman Kerry. "Merry-Go-Round" is a story of gay Vienna in the days before the war, with a love story interwoven which takes in both the royal throne of Hungary and a poor peasant girl. This is the western premiere of the production. Ben Turpin's latest Mack Sennett comedy, "Where is My Wandering Boy This Evening?" is on the same program.

Pantages offers for the lovers of outdoor sport, Hoot Gibson in his hair-raising thriller, "Shootin' for Love," along with a bill of bradlin vaudeville acts.

Tom Moore, popular screen and legitimate star, comes to the Mason Theatre in person this week in T. W. Gibson's romantic dramas, "Dust of Ern." Mr. Moore will be seen at his best in this play, that affords him an opportunity to show his wonderful personality, which has made him such a popular local favorite.

Elise Bartlett, in private life Mrs. Joseph Schilderout, of the New York Theater Guild, makes her debut to Los Angeles at the Majestic Theater this week in "The Man Who Came Back," a comedy drama written by Jules Eckart Goodman and based on the story by the same name from the pen of John Fleming Wilson. Ivan Miller is seen in the principal male role. Miss Bartlett comes to Los Angeles after a series of successes in the East, where she appeared in "Lilliom" with her husband, "Peer Gynt," "The Adding Machine" and others.

Charles Ray comes to Tally's this week in "Alias Julius Caesar" and promises a laugh from start to finish. Mr. Ray is seen in an entirely new character which affords him an opportunity to pack his audience with merriment.

Popular William Duncan and pretty Edith Johnson will entertain the film fans at the Hippodrome this week in their latest offering, "Dangerous Smiles." A well selected group of vaudeville acts rounds out the bill.

Roberta de Bergen has finished her role as Harry Langdon's mother in the Principal Pictures, "New Mall Man," under the direction of Al. Goulding.
Anti-Blue and Colorful in Hopes

The vitally fundamental fabric of all human liberty is more at stake in free America than in absolute monarchy of all history. Unfortunately, the motion picture is a convenient mark for the unscrupulous fusilade of irresponsible sharp-shooters, who hold that any influence a reformer may inflict is immoral in righteousness and therefore worthy of approval.

Luckily, there is a countering force at work. Glorious in the espionage of the principle of any man's right to be right, this force arises with promising might under the name of the Libertarian League, and, as might be expected, it is a Los Angeles creation.

The league proposes to oppose legislation designed to suppress Sunday newspapers, close saw-stands on Sunday, close gasoline and oil stations on Sunday, close post offices on Sunday, restrict the right to work on Sunday, provide for censoring motion pictures or the spoken drama, forbid concerts, theatrical performances, picture shows or entertainments on Sunday, forbid games, sports, amusements and sciences, and the operation of boats, automobiles, trolley cars, railway trains or excursions on Sunday.

In addition, the heads of the league declared that the nation is threatened with laws which would close drug stores, soda fountains, confectionary stores and cigar stores on Sundays.

The sale and use of tobacco is threatened, and the prohibition of social and interpretive dancing may be expected momentarily, it was said.

All such laws as the foregoing will be combated by the league wherever proposed, whether in town councils, or congress, according to the announced program, as well as laws sanctioning sectarian or ecclesiastical teaching in the public schools.

The first step in the campaign proposed by the officers of the league calls for an immediate "census of all known Libertarians." A libertarian is defined as "one who upholds the principle of liberty of thought and action."

The proposed campaign for nation-wide education, organization and action against "fusilade" has three phases:

1. Diffusing a knowledge of the principles of liberty and the asserted menace of "blue" laws, and the enrollment of acknowledged libertarians.

2. Organization of these signatories to the principles of the league into political fighting units.

3. Direct action in the legislative halls of the nation.

In justification of the organization of the league, C.C. Vincent asserted that Sunday closing laws prevail quite completely throughout twenty-one states and censorship in varying degree throughout forty-eight states.

The result is, he said, that on Sunday one cannot go to a ball game in Pennsylvania, or to a dramatic performance in New York state. Soda-water is unpurchasable in Philadelphia on one day in the week, and the delivery of a quart of ice cream in Omaha on Sunday is against the law.

The right to smoke cigarettes on that particular day is unlawful in North Dakota and Kansas, while one may be jailed in North Carolina and Ohio for working in one's garden on the Sabbath. Sunday dancing and dancing after midnight is prohibited in the city of Los Angeles.

Proposants of the league claim that the majority of people living under the so-called blue laws are opposed to them, but cannot combat them because of lack of organization. It is this needful organization which the Libertarians propose to accomplish, they say.

Charles T. Sprading, president of the league, is declared to be the author of many books and pamphlets dealing with the subject of personal liberty under the law. He has charge of the general promotion of the national campaign, and is expected to speak soon on the purposes of the league in the principal cities of the country.

Other officers and directors include H. F. Rossner, national secretary; Charles Lee Swarts, treasurer; John A. Wizell and Alfred W. Lummo, vice presidents; John Martin of Denver and S. Silberberg of New York, directors.

John D. Bradley of Washington, D. C., is to represent the organization before congressional committees, and George Wright is one of the organizers in Los Angeles.

The organization appears to be well financed and today issued Volume I, No. 1 of "The Libertarian, an Anti-Blue-Law magazine." In this magazine of 40 large-sized pages the purposes of the league were outlined comprehensively. It will be issued quarterly.

Chaplin's Champion

Before coming to Hollywood to enter motion pictures George Bookata was used by Kansas City exploiters when Charlie Chaplin's pictures were in town. He used to appear in prologues preceding the screening of the comedies and his imitations of the comedian were so clever he soon won wide renown as Kansas City's "miniature Charlie Chaplin."

His natural ability as a clog-dancer enabled him to give almost perfect renditions of the famous hop-and-skip Chaplin employs when turning corners.

He has been in pictures only a little over six months and during that time has placed in about fifteen productions, including "The Law of the Lawless" with Dorothy Dalton, "Gigi" with Dinky Dean, "The Day of Faith" with Cortine Griffith and with Baby Peggie in "Whose Baby Are You?" His most recent part was with Mary Pickford in "Rosita" and his work was such high caliber he was immediately selected to play one of the page boys in Douglas Fairbanks' "The Thief of Bagdad," now in production.

He has a younger brother, Bascal, who is playing the other page boy. Inasmuch as they are almost as much alike in every respect, they have become very popular as a team, and are rapidly winning their way to cinema recognition.
The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry

Flashes from Frisco

By AGNES KERR CRAWFORD

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., July 23rd.—The days of work on Eric Von Stroheim’s production of “Greed” still to be completed in San Francisco grow less and less and they think now that another ten days will see them done here, and on their way. Little Hughie Mack, all the three hundred and sixty-eight pounds of him, has finished his part in the picture, and left for his home in Los Angeles on last Thursday evening. Dale Fuller is also through, but he got her O. K., and departed for the South on Tuesday. All the company seems to leave San Francisco with real regret, for they have been here so long that they feel like old residents.

Max Graf, head of the Graf Productions of this city, and his brother, Louis Graf, president of the organization, have both gone to Los Angeles within the past two or three days to complete their cast and make other arrangements for the production of their next picture. It will be made at the Pacific Studios at San Mateo, with some work at sea off San Francisco, as it is a big sea picture called “Half-A-Dollar Bill.”

Victor Fisher, head of the Fisher Productions, left for New York last Tuesday with a print of “Youth Triumphant,” first picture made by the organization, to complete arrangements for its release.

Grace Inglis, of the Film Booking Office of Hollywood, arrived in San Francisco on Monday for a few days’ stay on business. The West Coast Productions of Los Angeles have opened a branch office here with headquarters in the Phelan Building, and expect to make a picture at the Pacific Studios at San Mateo in the very near future. As announced, it will be called “Nobody’s Child.” The story was written by James Calhoun, who will also direct its making, and the cast will include such well-known names as Lew Cody, Rosemary Thatch, Niles Welsh, Doris May, and Dot Farley, it is reported.

Ernest Traxler, production manager for Goldwyn with the Von Stroheim outfit, went to Los Angeles Saturday morning for a four days’ stay on business connected with the organization.

Cecil B. DeMille, and about forty of the company engaged in the filming of “The Ten Commandments,” arrived in San Francisco Sunday morning. They will spend some four or five days here working on a sequence that is part of the seventh commandment. The list of stars who are among those present includes such well-known names as Richard Dix, Robert Edeison, James Ncill, James McPherson, Rod La Roque, Leatrice Joy, and Nita Naldi, and others.

Chester Gore and E. E. Davis of the Lasky forces came in the middle of last week to get locations, and make preparations for the work of “The Ten Commandment” outfit.

Directors Please Note.—An extra man from the South, pretending to be a director, masquerading as Crain Wilbur, and claiming to be casting for Metro, arrived in San Francisco a couple of weeks ago and caused many a flutter in the hearts of the local would-be screen stars, by trying out a lot of girls for what he claimed was going to be a big production. As a real proof that he was all he pretended to be, he pointed out the fact that he wore a large gold star on one sleeve, which is the great theme of the Song’s of Solomon, of Dante, of Goethe, of Shakespeare, and they live because they inspire man’s spiritual imagination.

The Pious are not always Spiritual, because creeds often mean more to them than Love.

The man who would lead men to eternal punishment because they do not believe as he does; has no Love for God, or anyone else.

The measure of a man’s Love of God is the treatment of his fellow-men.

Greater Love hath no man than this, that a man should lay down his life, not necessarily die, but live his life, in the broader, greater sense, for another.

To live for another, for a friend: of if need be for an enemy; is often a greater, and a more useful proof of Love than to die.

Love does not demand, but where there is Love there is no alternative.

To live without Love is the greatest tragedy of living.

To live with Love is the great Hope of humanity.

We may have Leagues of Nations, and Peace Conferences, at the Hague—or elsewhere—but until Love permeates the heart, and dominates the life of man, we still have our sounding brass and clanging cymbals.

We have the knowledge of Good and of Evil, but we have the Serpent also, only Love will give us the strength to crush that enemy and dwell in the freedom of Truth.

While there is Love there is Hope. We may speak Love in twelve hundred languages but we are learning the language of Paradise.

Hey, who for Love have undergone, The worst that can befall, Are happier thousand fold Than those who never loved at all.

MOVIE ART ON PAR WITH NOVEL

By Maurice Tourneur

The press has been filled recently with attacks on “the motion picture,” as if the motion picture was a distinct entity, with no variation in its quality. But there are good pictures, as well as bad pictures and indifferent pictures. To attack all for the sins of omission and commission of the few is unfair. No conscientious writing man can adequately defend the motion picture from attack. There are bad novels and indifferent novels as well as good novels. Yet all do not suffer in the esteem of the critics for the sins of the few. Of course, the motion picture has not risen to the height to which Cabell, Machen, Hudson and others have raised the novel. But there are many, many pictures which excel in artistic value the works of Harold Bell Wright, Gene Stratton Porter and other novelists of the popular school. And the motion picture art is newer by generations than that of the novel.

Rose Dione, French actress who is in “Scarabocchi,” Rex Ingram’s monster Metro picture, arrived here last Tuesday, and we hope the town is now well rid of him.

Charles A. Logue, now of the First National forces, and his wife, spent most of last week in San Francisco on a holiday trip, and to celebrate their wedding anniversary. Other enough, while they do their shopping, and we hope the town is now well rid of him.

William Fox was host to a thousand people at the invitation performance given at the Columbia Theatre last Friday night as the feature picture made from A. S. Hutchins’ best-seller. The first night audience enjoyed the picture highly, and its regular showings began on Saturday afternoon, to be continued for a limited time only.

Theodore Roberts, grand old man of the silver screen, comes to the Orpheum for a single week as headline in De Mille’s absorbing little drama, “The Man Higher Up.”

Trixie Friganza headed the bill at the Golden Gate Theatre twice last week. That is, she was there in person with her skill. She has been there as star in the filming of Mary Roberts Rinehart’s story, “Mind Over Matter,” Miss Friganza’s first picture.
A hushed group was listening to a young violinist playing not more than a decade ago. His name was Haroldi and he was of the race of Paderewski and enough like Tchaikovsky to pass for his brother. About them was the exotic beauty of Hollywood, that even then with the amber light of after sunset back of its hills and its flowered courtyards resembled those of Greek cities still a bloom along the shores of the Mediterranean like imperishable Illyria.

Among the listeners were Gertrude Ross and others who have proved to the world that California can be another Italy in her nurture of the arts. From the strings of the violin came a Polish melody, melancholy, exquisite. For what this crushed race has learned in suffering, they are able to tell in song. Listening intent too, but probably unnoticed by the older ones in the group was a little girl, Kascia, the daughter of the guest with the violin.

But at the early age of thirty-three death stilled the hand of the gifted young musician. He had time, however, before going, to love his little daughter. And that she was to devote her life to some art.

At seven little Kascia was a successful child actress in pictures. Then she was whisked away to be educated, but that completed, Hollywood and the pictures proved too strong a lure. She returned.

And now in an apartment softly colored in one of Hollywood's villas in that quiet hour when the same amber light assembles back of the hills, she plays one of her father's favorite numbers. Whirling the flash of her hands in the half-light, they reminded me of a cast I once saw of Diaghilev's, the same narrow palm and fingers like slender petals, hands not made for any manual work, but only for gesture and expression.

She has followed her father's wish and chosen that art towards which his spirit directs her pictures. And what a preparation her Polish blood has already made for her! Defeated politically for centuries, the Pole has turned to art for successe, his very spirit has breathed in that sphere alone. Chopin's music was the cry of little country pain. And it's in Bertha Kalisch's sad, beautiful face and in her sombre art. Kascia Haroldi has an Italian strain besides, and an artistic wealth in her veins. This shows in her midnight eyes, full of expression and revealing a quick mind back of them. They and her auburn gold-dust hair give her the look of a Florentine painting.

Already she has two possessions that ought to make for success in her chosen career, youth and maturity of mind. At an age when the American girl is apt to be a flapper and is occupied mainly with jazz, this girl is using every minute in serious preparation for her life work. The time not spent at the studios is devoted to music. She writes too, and is skilled in interpretive dancing. In the last picture in which she appeared at Goldwyn's, her dancing was especially praised by the director. She never attends parties. And this sixteen-year-old girl knows nothing of love. But then Mary Anderson was able to give all the fire of Judith the other girl. For Kascia Haroldi.

Kascia gives me the impression of a beautiful, even dawn. I feel stillled, at peace in her presence. Being on the threshold of so many things, she has not lost the simplicity of herself. A certain atmosphere of confidence, of power is felt in those whose spirit tells them they have something to give the world and that it is going to listen. Part of her Russian players produced in New York is an auger of the future.

Her preference is for foreign artists. "Because," she puts it, with the manner that characterizes everything she says, "they have not as a rule a tact that affects and those mannerisms that so often cling to the Americanist on his piano. But when she has reached a height in her art that demands absolute sincerity,,

There is in her the critical spirit coming from her lips. She is happy, free, her foot already securely placed on the steps that lead to the heights. Hollywood is a garden to her, and she is the beautiful memories. She is never happy away from it. To others it is a fierce and bloody arena where so many go down. And hence when won takes its toll in compromise.

But Kascia Haroldi's art will open as serenely as a flower. It's delicate and exotic and it belongs to Hollywood.

GYPSY HART RE-DISCOVERED BY REX INGRAM IN "SCARAMOUCHE"

While young motion picture artists such as Gypsy Hart are available there is no need to worry about a lack of new screen faces, is the opinion advanced in a recent article by a leading screen magazine that Miss Hart has an important historical role in "Scaramouche," Rex Ingram's monster picturization of Rafael Sabatini's novel of the French Revolution, but when the picture started she was merely "among those present." Mr. Ingram selected her from the hundreds of aristocrats who appeared as spectators in the Universal Assembly Scene.

Miss Hart must have potential screen qualifications, for although the young director did not discover the fact until later, she is the same girl whom he caused to enter motion pictures while he was directing at Universal City years ago. She had been a visitor and Mr. Ingram, whom she met at the studio, told her that if she wanted to be an actress she would have a part in his next picture.

She played the two of Mr. Ingram's pictures, "The Reward of the Faithless," and "Hearts of the World," following which she appeared in other productions. Miss Hart was just becoming well known when she retired to private life. A year ago she returned to the screen.

"I decided to start at the bottom of the ladder and try to climb up again," she said.

So she did "extra" work and when she first appeared before the camera in "Scaramouche" she was still just "atmosphere." Then Mr. Ingram saw her and as a result of her excellent work at Thieroughe de Mericourt she appears to be on the road to success again. She had spent a total of several years in every year explaining that Gypsy is her real first name and that she is not related to Bill Hart, although both, like her, she rides a horse unaccompanied.

Gypsy Hart comes from the center of a cattle country, Temple, Texas. It's near Waco, she always explains, which indicates the size of the Temple.

"Bill" Montana is portraying a crook role in "Held to Answer," Peter Clark MacFarlane's story which Harold Shaw is directing for Mr. Ingram. In this way as auxiliary it would not be necessary for him to put on any makeup. Now the burly faceted comedy star is trying to decide whether he was complimented or otherwise.
News and Gossip About the Moving Throngs of Movieland

Entertains Frohman

Carmel Myers, now playing in George D. Baker's production of "The Magic Skin," gave a lunch-er for the Goleta students in honor of Daniel Frohman, President of the Actor's Fund, who is the leading benefactor of the interests of this charity. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Lehr, George D. Baker, Concrete Nagel, Kinckdor, Rupert Hughes, Josephine Quirk, Carey Wilson, Gilbert E.
Gable, Jane Mathis, Mrs. Myers, Max
Buch, Herbert Hove,
George Walsh and Bessie Love.

Lefty Flynn Is Hurt

Maurice (Lefty) Flynn is taking an enforced vacation. It seems that during the filming of Mr.
"Salomy Jane," in which he played the lead, his arm was badly wrenched in a fight with the villain. From this work, Lefty went on without telling anyone about his arm, with the result that when the completion of the picture he had his arm examined by a doctor, the damage was revealed, and now confined to his bed with a badly lacerated and broken arm.
The patient is doing very well, and the members of the cast, out of gratitude, keep him well supplied with fruit, candy, flowers, etc.

Australian Notables Meet

It was all Australia the other day when Sidney Herschel Small, the author of "The Lord of Thundergates," visited the United studios, Hollywood, to see the filming of First National's "Thundergates," which was adapted from Small's book. Mr.
Small is an Australian and he felt right at home when the studio chief introduced him to Sydney Wolcott, the picture Anti, who is playing a leading part in his picture, and later intrduced him to Flad Benett, another Australian, who is playing the leading feminine role in "The Bad Man," also a First National picture.

"No More Women" Starts

"No More Women" is the intriguing title chosen by Elmer Harris for the Associated Authors production of this story, work upon which commenced this week. This is the third Authors production following the joined forces with the version of Peter B. Kyne's sea-story, "The Harbor Bar," which was recently presented. "No More Women" features a star cast including Mazda Beltay, Matt Moore, George Cooper, Monty Blue, Matthew Hope Wheatcroft, it will be directed by Lloyd Hughes under the supervision of Elmer Harris

Sylvia Repeats

Sylvia Reaves, who is now playing one of the leading feminine roles in "Thundergates," a First National picture, has been seen in one of the leading parts in "Fighting Youth," a First National picturization of Warner
Palbo's widely distributed play of modern life. Miss Brahma portrays the role of "Dee Frentrees," one of the three ultra modern sisters whose insoucion love affairs form the basic plot of the highly dramatic play. "Fighting Youth" goes into production at the United studios, Hollywood, within the next two weeks, and John Francis Dillon is to direct it. An all-star cast will interpret the several roles including Colleen Moore, in the lead, Mrs. Mary McShane, Mike Stedman and Elliott Dexter.

Chimes of Dumb-bells

Gale Henry, popular comedi-ean, is now playing one of the principal roles in "Hold to Answer," another all-star production being made under the direction of Buck Jones. Miss Henry, who half corroded over to a soft drink stand the other day between her picture shoot, requested a cold lemonade. "Please put some shaved ice in it," said Miss Henry. The new clerk hesitated. He had never heard of such a thing. In his attempt to be obliging, however, he reached for a safety razor blade underneath the counter and then upon trying diligently to smooth it, turned his customer with "shaved ice."

Resurrects Old Autos

Cliff Bowes and Virginia
Vance, comedians, doing their staff under the Cameo branch of Educational Pictures, are appearing in a one-reel comedy, "Wrecks," which has for its local a hencoop for worn-out automobiles of all descriptions.

Hundreds of cars, waiting to be junked, are shown in the picture.
Many of them are of models which date back to the early days of motoring and there are a few of last year's model that tried to climb trees or beat tires to the crossing, all waiting their call to be broken up and sold for junk.

New Mermaid Comedies

Work on the first of a new series of twelve Mermaid Comedies for distribution through the Educational Film Exchange, Inc., has been started by Jack White, the young producer-direct-er of Educational Pictures, in Boston. The comedies include
Comely in the leading role, and Hughie Fay in one of the leading numbers. Jack Lloyd, Otto Fried and Spence Bell, the inimitable colored comedian are in the cast.

"Bad Man" Near Finish

Several weeks and Edwin Carwee will be finished with "The Bad Man," which he is filming for First National. The efforts, with his wife, Miss Hollinbrook Blinn, whose scapes have all been taken, is now at the studio. The assistant the concluding scenes of the production will be taken. These include all the bandit outrages and cattle rustling scenes along the American-Mexican border.

Doug, Jr., Starts August 1st

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., will start production work in his initial starring picture for Paramount August 1st under the direction of Joseph Henabery, secured for him by Mrs. Sue jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of the Paramount or-organization. Richard Davis' famous story "The Grand Cross of the Crescent," will serve as the basis for the star's first vehicle. According to the Paramount production authorities this title will be regenerated. Theodore Roberts will be featured with the young star. Will Reiner and Beverly Beecham are under Elfred Fincham adapted the Davis story to the screen.

Uses Famous Characters

"William S. Hart In Wild Bill Hickock" is the way the famous Western star's name and title of his first picture will appear in the press. It is a picture which Paramount Picture following his retirement is released. The story is an original by Hart and deals with the stirring period of Western history from 1866 to 1872. As characters in the thing the star has used many of the vivid personalities of the period including William B. ("Bat")
Masterson, Wyatt Earp, Chalk
Beeson, Charles Bassett, Bill
Tishman, Lake Short, Doc
Holliday and the outstanding feminine personage of the time-- Cattleya Jane. Albert Shively writes the story and will chaperone the story to the screen.

McGowan Uses Logic

Bob McGowan, who has made up quite a bit of publicity getting the "Our Gang" comedies at the Rochester studios, figures the best way to make kid comedies is to become one of the boys yourself, and make the tots feel that you are with them heart and function. The boy's age is a play. There is a whole lot of logic in this, and one has just waited patiently in the New City plant and watch Director
McGowan work with his charges, and see how "unconscious" the boys are. The camera man and the cameraman is filming their every move.

Wilson Prepares Another

Ben Wilson is preparing for the screen for his next picture in in which Hulie Rhodes will star for Grand-Asher, some time next week. The scenes which will be constructed and location that ranged, are a palatial home in Chicago, a girl's school dormitory room, the home of a small mid-west town, a beautiful lake for a school reagta, a backyard menagerie, etc. The matter of cast is also important because there are a number of very complex roles and the best players loanable will be selected. The story, by Adam Hull Shirk, is now being put into contour for the screen. The company now making the role assiduously, and every thing points to a very successful picture which will mark the return of Hulie Rhodes to feature films.

As Filming Goes

Ten trips across the bay from San Francisco to Oakland and back were required to get certain scenes for a Ben Wilson production in which Washburn and Mabel Forrest arestated for Grand-Asher. Only the director, Webster Cullison and the cameraman went North for the trip. Miss Forrest says, they did enough work in one day for a whole company.
Besides the ferry scenes were outher at the St. Francis Hotel and all in the, the flying visit to the bay city was a strenuous job. The company is now working so hard to complete certain important scenes several night sequences have kept the players and staff busy all at hours.

Rock Makes Animal Film

Reggie Morris, Grand-Asher comedy director, believes in animal in pictures--despite that he has almost turned gray in the last few days. What with dogs, a baby and a big brown bear, the set for Joe Rock's newest comedy which he is directing, has been one of the busiest spots at the Grand studios. John Brown, the noted wrestling bear from the American Rockies is in the picture and it rumored there are still more animals to come. The comedy has not yet been titled.

Jack Curtis in It

Jack Curtis, character actor, who recently distinguished himself by his handling of a role in "This is the Life," at the Goldwyn studios, has been engaged for the cast for Tod Browning's production of "The Day of Faith," which is a continuity centering around Red Johnson in the Arthur
Somer's cozy story.
KOSLOFF HEADS A GREAT FILM PROJECT PLANNED TO AID FAMISHING RUSSIA

The first announcement of a $5,000,000 international film corporation was made in Los Angeles this week by Theodore Kosloff, who will have a prominent part in the organization. This motion picture corporation, which will have stockholders from almost every nation in the world, is organizing with the specific intent of bringing peace and plenty to war-torn, famine ridden Russia.

Kosloff, who is a Lasky motion picture star, will give up his own promising career in American and return to his own country to help with what he feels is the most momentous project of modern times.

Kosloff has still four months of unexpired contract with the Lasky-Famous Players which he will fulfill. He expects to leave soon after that for Paris to confer with his brother-in-law. His family will remain in America, where they will maintain a home for a time, at least.

The corporation will have its headquarters in Paris and its releasing field will be centered in Russia exclusively.

E. Altswang, brother-in-law of Kosloff, who was known before the Russian Revolution as the “richest man in Russia,” is the promoter and the president of the corporation. Altswang is now in Paris completing the plans of the organization. He has just returned from Russia where he made a complete canvass of the situation and signed up 320 Russian cities, each city pledged to support two theatres. Kosloff, himself will have the unique association as director, actor, producer and exhibitor.

“To me,” says Kosloff, “this is the biggest thing in the history of the world, because it is the first real step toward the brotherhood of man. Young children of all nationalities can play harmoniously together, because they will be in the same film. It is only when men begin formulating creeds and imposing duties that they try to make pictures. We are going to produce pictures that will demonstrate the kinship of the human race and Russia, through her own amalgamation, is going to be a factor in cementing the brotherhood ties of the world.

KOSLOFF HEADS A GREAT FILM PROJECT PLANNED TO AID FAMISHING RUSSIA

Mae Marsh in “Daddies”
Mae Marsh has signed a contract with Hollywood Brothers production of David Belasco’s play, “Daddies.” Miss Marsh will portray the part of Ruth Atkins.

“Gulliver’s Travels” is to be filmed on a magnificent scale by King Vidor, Goldwyn director, according to announcement last night by Vice-President Abraham Lehr.

Probably no recent communiqué from the screen front has caused so much interest. The Jonathan Swift classic is as well known as “Ben Hur” and it presents marvelous pictorial possibilities.

It was learned that Mr. Vidor and the Goldwyn company have been making secret preparations for the production for the last month. Elmwood’s detailed photographic experiments have been completed. The ingenuity of director and cameraman will be tested in the making of “Gulliver’s” visit to Lilliput, where he is a giant in comparison to the natives.

“Camera tests at the Goldwyn laboratories have proved that these things can be shown on the screen with absolute fidelity,” said Mr. Vidor last night.

“The motion picture is the ideal medium for the telling of ‘Gulliver’s Travels,’ much better than the printed page, although I am not saying that we shall do a better job than Swift did.”

“I have long wanted to film this classic, which appeals to the young by its fantasy and to the adult by its satire. It has been in the back of my head for a long time and I have just been waiting for the opportune time to do it. My association with Goldwyn gives me the facilities for such a production.”

“I believe there is a crying need for more imaginative and fanciful productions on the screen. Our growth has been retarded by factual realism. Most people get their fill of realism in their own lives and they seek escape into the realm of imagination for their entertainment. The cinema is ideally suited to portray fantasy and myth.”

Mr. Vidor will not direct “Gulliver’s Travels” until he has finished “Wild Oranges,” Joseph Hergesheimer’s novel.

He and his staff will leave in a few days to film the story. The exact spot described by the novelist, thirty-five miles from Savannah, and on Brimston’s Island, off the Georgia coast. The cast, not yet announced, will follow later.

GOLDWYN WILL FILM NOTED GULLIVER

“Gulliver’s Travels” is to be filmed on a magnificent scale by King Vidor, Goldwyn director, according to announcement last night by Vice-President Abraham Lehr.

Probably no recent communiqué from the screen front has caused so much interest. The Jonathan Swift classic is as well known as “Ben Hur” and it presents marvelous pictorial possibilities.

It was learned that Mr. Vidor and the Goldwyn company have been making secret preparations for the production for the last month. Elmwood’s detailed photographic experiments have been completed. The ingenuity of director and cameraman will be tested in the making of “Gulliver’s” visit to Lilliput, where he is a giant in comparison to the natives.

“Camera tests at the Goldwyn laboratories have proved that these things can be shown on the screen with absolute fidelity,” said Mr. Vidor last night.

“The motion picture is the ideal medium for the telling of ‘Gulliver’s Travels,’ much better than the printed page, although I am not saying that we shall do a better job than Swift did.”

“I have long wanted to film this classic, which appeals to the young by its fantasy and to the adult by its satire. It has been in the back of my head for a long time and I have just been waiting for the opportune time to do it. My association with Goldwyn gives me the facilities for such a production.”

“I believe there is a crying need for more imaginative and fanciful productions on the screen. Our growth has been retarded by factual realism. Most people get their fill of realism in their own lives and they seek escape into the realm of imagination for their entertainment. The cinema is ideally suited to portray fantasy and myth.”

Mr. Vidor will not direct “Gulliver’s Travels” until he has finished “Wild Oranges,” Joseph Hergesheimer’s novel.

He and his staff will leave in a few days to film the story. The exact spot described by the novelist, thirty-five miles from Savannah, and on Brimston’s Island, off the Georgia coast. The cast, not yet announced, will follow later.

GOLDWYN WILL FILM NOTED GULLIVER

“Gulliver’s Travels” is to be filmed on a magnificent scale by King Vidor, Goldwyn director, according to announcement last night by Vice-President Abraham Lehr.

Probably no recent communiqué from the screen front has caused so much interest. The Jonathan Swift classic is as well known as “Ben Hur” and it presents marvelous pictorial possibilities.

It was learned that Mr. Vidor and the Goldwyn company have been making secret preparations for the production for the last month. Elmwood’s detailed photographic experiments have been completed. The ingenuity of director and cameraman will be tested in the making of “Gulliver’s” visit to Lilliput, where he is a giant in comparison to the natives.

“Camera tests at the Goldwyn laboratories have proved that these things can be shown on the screen with absolute fidelity,” said Mr. Vidor last night.

“The motion picture is the ideal medium for the telling of ‘Gulliver’s Travels,’ much better than the printed page, although I am not saying that we shall do a better job than Swift did.”

“I have long wanted to film this classic, which appeals to the young by its fantasy and to the adult by its satire. It has been in the back of my head for a long time and I have just been waiting for the opportune time to do it. My association with Goldwyn gives me the facilities for such a production.”

“I believe there is a crying need for more imaginative and fanciful productions on the screen. Our growth has been retarded by factual realism. Most people get their fill of realism in their own lives and they seek escape into the realm of imagination for their entertainment. The cinema is ideally suited to portray fantasy and myth.”

Mr. Vidor will not direct “Gulliver’s Travels” until he has finished “Wild Oranges,” Joseph Hergesheimer’s novel.

He and his staff will leave in a few days to film the story. The exact spot described by the novelist, thirty-five miles from Savannah, and on Brimston’s Island, off the Georgia coast. The cast, not yet announced, will follow later.
MEETS ZULU MAN HE KNEW 20 YEARS AGO

The world's a small place!

Randall Faye, technical director in the making of "Ponjola," Cynthia Stockley's story of South African life which Sam E. Rork will present through First National, has a remarkable memory for faces. His routine at First National is to visit an office in a tall building in Los Angeles. The elevator operator was a negro. All the way up to the tenth floor Faye tried to remember where he had seen this man before. But he couldn't.

Several days later a large number of black men were used on a "Ponjola" set at the studios. Among them was the negro elevator operator. Again the face caused Faye to wrack his brain.

But it was not until the negro appeared before the camera in South African costume, and with the negro operator, that the technical director identified him. He was a full-blooded Zulu who was used for the subdivision or 'bang' in Faye's family in Rhodesia twenty years ago!

NAGEL LAUNCHES BIG REAL ESTATE PROJECT

Conrad Nagel, Goldwyn screen player, has announced his plans for the subdividing or "bang" on two ranches in Monrovia, California. One ranch, devoted to the raising of watermelon, honeysuckle and clementine, is 40 acres, and valued at $65,000. This section Nagel intends to sell in tracts of five lots to a purchaser, for residences.

The second Nagel ranch is 25 acres and is covered with orange trees. As the location of the smaller tract is much nearer the business section, Nagel intends to subdivide it and erect apartment houses.

The buying and handling of the ranches will be entrusted to Nagel's foreman, who, with a crew of several men, has been working the ranches for several years.

Nagel is now working in Victor Swatstrom's production of "The Master of Man" at the Goldwyn studios, but will find time to supervise the subdivision of his land.

Vincent Coleman has started work on a series of specials in "The Master of Man" at the Goldwyn studios, but will find time to supervise the subdivision of his land.

WEEKLY WAKE-EM-UP—CAMERA'S NEWS SECTION

LEADING MAN MUST LEAD IN WORK, TOO

That the leading man has greater obstacles to overcome in registering with the public and that he must work harder for whatever recognition he gets, is one of the reasons of the acting profession in motion pictures, is the contention of Lloyd Hughes, leading man for Mary Pickford, Colleen Moore and other celebrities.

"The character actor has his tricks of the way of striking make-ups that go a long way toward helping him put over his part," says Hughes. "This also applies to the character woman, of course. An effective make-up for the character actor is what the voice is to the stage actor. The leading man has the advantage only when working in films.

"The leading lady too, has a big handicap over the leading man. An attractive style of make-up has more appeal to the public. That's why the pictures of women have a broader appeal, for the reason the majority of the pictures of men, the minority. An attractive girl, whether she's at tractive in personality or looks, has the appeal to her own sex as well as to the opposite sex. A handsome man does not get much attention from his own sex.

"A child always has that universal appeal that registers with all ages. A child will always draw sympathy—a talented child, too.

"The villain, while never winning sympathy, wins recognition by his sheer villainy. Thus a child actor, the greater success he is, "

"The leading man, however, is suddenly swept up into the current of success that are enjoyed by the others. If he is good looking but will have a certain amount of fundamental appeal to the flappers, of course. This is his only aid. He is pictured as he is. He must use all his training, his talent. He has 'nothing up his sleeve.' Whether he is a leading man or a character actor, he has a harder row to hoe than his brothers and sisters in the profession."

FILMS BATTLE WITH 2 BIG CALIFORNIA LIONS

H. A. Snow, of "Hunting Wild Gamers in Africa" fame, has just returned from Tuolcuan County, where he has been making a picture of fighting in the California forest. With Snow's party was his "son," Sidney, as cameraman, also J. C. Bruce, State Lion Handler of the State Game Commission.

Picking a spot where reports have come of the large lice of the forest this season, the party had a most successful hunt. Two very large lions, or cougars, were shot and up and away the band was on. While both Snow and Bruce were closing in on the larger of the two when Sidney Snow getting action with the crane, the smaller one was so close to the camera that it was necessary to move back in order to get a good shot.

Just as the move was made the larger one came into view and sprang, at Sidney Snow, catching him on the left arm, and inflicting several deep scratches. At this moment two shots rang out, hitting the large animal, who was so close the blood struck Sidney Snow and the tripod legs. The picture shows action every minute and is a visual thrill through the movement. Snow states he will have this production finished about the last of September.

Ned Holmes, well known showman, has been engaged by Inscriptions Pictures to direct the premiere showing of the photoplay, "The White Sister," soon to take place on Broadway. Hilliard Daves of the Los Angeles version of F. Marion Crawford's famous novel produced by Henry King in Italy.

CARTEL AND BESSIE AS SISTER ACT MIGHT WIN

Carmel Myers and Bessie Love are staging a little Damon and Pythias act all their own. While first, at school they became inseparable companions and they planned years of happiness and free moments together. Without any preliminary planning they were suddenly swept up into motion pictures, both getting their first work at the old Griffith studios. And when Bessie was given her first big part, Carmel was cast as sister, and they were in the same picture, "The Flying Torpedo." Don't get it mixed up, the Cartel and Carmel the dark-eyed siren.

Ten years have gone by and during that time the two have continued their friendship but had never played together, not even so much as at the same studio. Then, almost to a day from the time they played together in "The Flying Torpedo," they were both cast in "The Magic Skin," the Balzac story, which George D. Baker is directing at the Goldwyn studios. And their parts are the same as before. Bessie is the young girl heroine and Carmel wrecks havoc with her 'dime for a dollar' eyes as the Countess Fedora.

Among the players engaged by David Smith to support Cullen Landis in "The Pioneer," which picture is now in production at the Vitagraph studios, are Felice and Phillep deLacy, popular film starlet. Phillep has the only child part in the picture and those familiar with the story believe that his part is of greater importance than the part he plays. DeLacy, like all the others, is given him the unstinted praise of the photoplay critics throughout the country.

ENTERTAINS 11 OF WORLD'S GREAT LADIES

Mrs. Harriet C. Higbee, well-known in Los Angeles and Hollywood society circles, and personal associate of internationally famous stage celebrities, was hostess last Saturday evening at a dinner party given by her at her home, 4933 Rosewood Avenue. It was strictly a man-less affair, and the author being temporarily indisposed with lest his presence cast a gloom o'er the trans-coast, and, itty and harmonious associations of eleven of our most professionally and commercially successful women of the present day.

The guests of honor were Zoa Beckley, special correspondent for the "Western Coast"; Miss Helen Higbee, stopping at the Christie Hotel, Miss Beckley for being a picture and having its name in association with celebrities than any other newspaper woman, and Helen Rowland, of the Hearst syndicate, famous with the women of the world under the title "Bachelors Girl." Guests also were Madame Amanda Kirkwood, the all-time famous concertista, who has made an enviable reputation through the world, and a contralto of unusual ability.

Rena McDonald, affiliated with L. E. Debuney, impresario of the Western Coast, and who last year successfully handled the Chicago Grand Opera on this coast, incidentally, made it pay—big.

Dora Stearns, ex-president of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, who, recently, spent three weeks in Sacramento in the interest of the city charter. She is also a member of the National Republican Committee of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Alfred Wilson, best known and best beloved newspaper woman and syndicate writer in the United States, and author of "Her Husband's Wife," Gertrude Comstock, who has made a phenomenal success in Los Angeles real estate, having a borrowed capital of some $200 less than a year ago and is now rated as owning property valued at $50,000, owns a new "Ca'd" and a nice nest-egg in the banana specket.

Dr. Amy Schoonmaker, renowned orthopedic diagnostician, from Denver, Colorado, and an expert accountant, connected with the First National Bank of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Helen West, supremely happy and successful in life's most uncertain venture—marriage. Mrs. West, who is prominent in Los Angeles society, fearlessly admitted that she had never earned a dollar in her life, but as the wife of Dr. Frederick West was as contented as the world's greatest financier.
VON STROHEIM TO INVADE DEATH VALLEY

Erich von Stroheim has almost finished the San Francisco scenario for "Carnival," his first Goldwyn production, and will soon take his company into the torrid heat of Death Valley.

The heat wave of the second week will be at the Big Dipper mine up near Coffax. That's where our young hero died and in his penurious youth shoving an ore car.

"But that will be paradise to we who suffer from the heat of the end. The story closes in Death Valley at the foot of the Panamint range. And we shall get there about the middle of August.

"That will be a venture in Diablo's Merc and a high-heat temperature which will be 172 degrees in the shade. Our supplies will be conveyed in a large freight car, with four mules besides. One mule comes in the story, and if it dies from the heat, we shall have reserves.

"The spot is a hideous sink of alkali, incongruous and malignant, in which a single clump of sagebrush would fascinate the eye. Marcus Schouler, playing John Gorrell, will sink through the crust."

"I wish we had an artesian well there. We shall have to supply nine gallons of water daily for each man, and 15 for each animal. Cars will be built with proportionate axles, so the grease won't run out like water."

SYRIAN CHILD ARTISTS WINNING WAY IN FILMS

Among the latest recruits to the ever-growing ranks of child players are George and Basael Baseal, Syrian natives who have been given interesting parts with Mary Pickford in "Rosa." They are being shot through a large gauze and are strikingly similar in appearance. Although they have been in pictures only six months they have already played in many good productions and give every promise of blossoming forth into two of the finest child character artists on the screen.

The high caliber of work they did in the Pickford film, coupled with their size, makes it probable that they will be given even more promising parts. Both are almost identical in appearance. George has black hair and black eyes, was instrumental in their selection for principal roles in Douglas Fairbanks' forthcoming film, "The Thief of Bagdad," in which they will enact the part of the page boys. Furthermore the fact that they are of Syrian descent and possess the natural expression necessary for the interpretation of the character described by Fairbanks' story, would add a touch of realism to the film, and will be a decided asset, for they will have the attention of the audience to them when the picture is shown.

INCE SIGNS "BIG THREE" FOR "ANNA CHRISTIE"

After weeks of careful consideration, Thomas H. Ince has signed up one of the most remarkable collections of acting talent in one picture for the leading roles in his screen adaptation of "Anna Christie." With the exception of Blanche Sweet, who has been selected for the title role, George Marion, who created the character of the Irish "head" father, for the stage play, has been brought back from London, where the play had a sensational run, to play the same part on the screen. William Russell has been cast for the part of the Irish stoker lover of the drama.

Miss Sweet, who has been enthralled by the screen which Pauline Lord has made famous on the stage, is considered one of the most desirable and emotional actresses of the silver sheet. She has been a "fan" favorite since the old Biograph "Anna Christie". And the position of the character "Christie" was put on at the Vanderbilt Theatre two years ago. No one else has appeared to measure up to her since then, so successful was her interpretation.

William Russell, who plays the part of the young Irish stoker in the picture, has been such a favorite with the film work that he has been given three and a half days in eight years. After completing a long contract with the American, he went to work the following day as a Fox star and had just finished a four year starring contract with the company, which was annulled by Mr. Ince for the new role.

John Griffith Wray, who directed "The Halls of分配 and "Her Reputation" and who just recently completed work on Mrs. Wallace Reid's production of "The Wreckage," is megaphoning "Anna Christie."

Bradley King, chief of the Ince staff of editors, made the screen adaptation.

AUBREY FOLLOWS RUSSIAN FILM WITH CHINESE ONE

Jimmy Aubrey is doing "The Lobogrov," a Chinese tale that calls for all sorts of exciting and thrilling stunts and many complex situations. The story was written by Leon Lee and is being directed by Marcel Perez, while Phyllis Byrne is signed as his leading lady. Aubrey de Silva, the villain, tries to force his attentions on, and his fellow sitters in the saddest pair of eyes in pictures, attempts to rescue Phyllis and cause no end of trouble to all concerned.

This is the second subject Jimmy Aubrey has made since he signed his contract to make one a month for the next two years for the Chadwick Releasing Corporation of New York City. The first was "The Bastard," a story of Russia.

CAMERA ARTIST WINS MANY HIGH HONORS

Artist photographers are these days taking the place of the former "camera boys." Karl Struss, for three years artist photographer with Cecil De Mille, has just been given his high rank as a camera artist by winning prizes in a recent London exhibit, where his prints were shown. Four of his art prints were also chosen to hang in the Pittsburg Saloon, and another group was displayed in the exhibition at the Albright Art Gallery in Buffalo.

Sam Hulbert won a prize in the American Photographers' Annual competition held in Boston and was awarded another prize in the annual exhibit of photography held at the Frederick and Nelson Company of Seattle. Before this he won the prize for the picture colony in Hollywood.

MARY MAKES TEST FOR "DOROTHY VERNON"

A pink brocaded costume, a Priscilla cap and a few clicks of the motion picture camera were all that Miss Pickford, Mary's test for "Dorothy Vernon" in "Haddon Hall" early this week, which means she has just about decided on this as her next feature production. She has long contemplated transcribing the Charles, Major story to the screen, but this is the first tangible evidence that she proposes to carry out her intention in the near future.

Tests are to be made with various other Elizabethan sagas and mediaeval stories, but Miss Pickford has in mind a director, but is not yet ready to announce his name.

Immediately after completing "Dorothy Vernon," Pickford considered several other stories and for a time thought she would contemplate "Dorothy Vernon."

The recent test was made under the supervision of Mary's mother, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, with Douglas Fairbanks as an audience, and was surrounded with more ceremony than such things usually are, owing to the pretentiousness of the picture and its place.

The probabilities are that actual camera work will begin in about a month or six weeks, as there still remain the details of casting.

VIOLA DANA TO DO PARISIAN STORY NEXT

Paris, from the gilded elegance of the Ritz-Carlton down to the lowest dives of the Apaches of the underworld, will be filmed in exact detail in Viola Dana's next starring vehicle, "The Spirit of the Rose," which Oscar Apfel will direct for Metro.

Apfel will not have to consult Biedeker's Guide or French archives to make sure of the atmosphere, for less than a year ago he spent several months there, studying film production methods abroad.

He has just completed his first starring vehicle for Miss Dana, "The Social Code," which featured the smashy set of fashionable Long Island, and it was so well liked that the Metro management decided to entrust him with the making of a continental production.
RENALLES TO AID ORIGINAL FILM WRITERS

Weekly Wake-'Em-Up—CAMERA'S News Section

EDUCATIONAL TO ENTERTAIN

True, the term "Educational Film" as a rule rests lightly in the minds of a large proportion of an average motion picture audience. Yet, the present time, invariably failing to arouse the enthusiastic reception usually accorded a fresh offering of the title of most anything else from a mediocre comedy to a super-sitcom, which state of the art the part of the audience has apparently been caused by the fact that in the past many of the so-called "Educational" films have been so little educating and even less entertaining.

Which brings us to the point of this story—for after having attended a private preview of four of a series of twenty-five educational films produced by Capt. M. McKenzie, Production Manager for the Balmac Education Company, we were parent beyond all reasonable question of doubt that the truly entertaining Educational has arrived.

The four films shown at the preview were entitled: "The Everlasting Snow," "From Forest to Mill," "The Land of Burnt Out Fires," and "Modern Life." They were most excellently photographed, including truly majestic cloud effects, which entailed, at times, delays of many days awaiting the supreme moment of the greatest beauty, and the atmosphere of handling each and every scene and situation on the actual historical spot, together with the thread of a dramatic plot running through the picture, reflects their entertaining thoroughness.

The "Modern Whaling" is in every sense of the word a "whale" of a picture. It was some eighteen miles at sea, near Trinidad, California, and one's blood must surely be as sluggish and cold as an Arctic stream not to be intensely thrilled by the sensational episodes depicting the stalking and shooting of the giant eighty ton mammals, and thoroughly interested in the modern methods used in hunting whales to shore and cutting it up for commercial use—"everything but the oil." Capt. McKenzie, in the combined capacity of director and producer, has managed to so clearly shown rare ability in the selection of subjects so diversified in their character and portrayed with authentic historical atmosphere and in an intensely dramatic manner.

NO AUTUMN SLUMP EXPECTED BY LEVÉE

There will be no fall slump in motion picture production.

That is the prediction of M. C. Levee, president of the United Studios, based on contracts he has recently filled.

"With the unprecedented production of the Spring and Summer everyone has expected that there would be a decline falling off by October, or before," he said. But every one of the eleven companies housed on the United lot has a schedule calling for continued work clear through until winter. That means that there will be seven companies busy before the camera every day at United, with four either editing or preparing pictures.

Robert Draper and William Dalles Fitzgerald are a well known director of successful short running movies, while H. S. Walker, Secretary and Treasurer, is a well known figure.

To Attend Convention

Ralph Lewis, starring in "The Malam," is getting to be the regular delegate from the News Media, and will soon depart for Providence, R. I., to attend the convention of the National Association of Letter Carriers. Since he started the series of commercial heroes, husky Ralph has participated in the legitimate field, having just returned from the recent convention of Police Chiefs in San Francisco.

3 SCHENCK STARS MAKING COSTUME PICTURES

All three of the Joseph M. Schenck stars—Norma and Constance Talmadge and Buster Keaton—are making costume pictures.

Norma is now supervising the final cutting of "Ashes of Vengeance," a drama about the world war, set in the year 1572 in France. Constance is in the midst of the filming of "The Dangerous Maid," a romantic serio-comedy of the year 1855 when England was torn wide by the Moomouth rebellion. And Buster is now at Truckee, filming a Western costume picture of about the year 1350.

Incidentally, this is the first time that the three Talmadge sisters all appeared in costume pictures at the same time. Natalie, Buster Keaton's wife, appears in a bonnet bonnet of early type and a very long skirt. Constance's gown of the days of James II of England are velvet and brocade, while Norma's on this side of the chime, which were the forefathers of the costumes in 1550.

Victor Heerman is directing Constance in "The Dangerous Maid." Jack Blystone is Buster Keaton's director while Frank Lloyd did both the continuity and directed Norma Talmadge's "Ashes of Vengeance."

INVITATIONS COME HERE FROM CHINA

A novelty which is creating comment throughout the local film colony came as a distinct surprise this week. The local branch of motion picture people received invitations to attend the formal opening of the new Chung Chow Inn, now being completed in Hollywood and which will take place August 9th. The novelty of it was, the invitations came direct from Shanghai, China, bearing Chinese postage stamps and all. They have been mailed from that far-away metropolis in such advance as to reach the addresses nearly two weeks before the opening of the hotel, and it is probably the first time in the history of Southern California that any of a local affair have come from such a great distance.

What was the unique idea of A. H. and A. L. Rabin, proprietors of the Chung Chow Inn and as a publicity stunt it rivals the most recent of the best press agent.

The new eating rendezvous promises to be the most popular resort for the elite in all Los Angeles. There will be cabaret, schlichd, dancing and a general contribution to the gayety of night life in Hollywood. Mah Tom, one of Shanghai's most famous chefs, will have charge of the cuisine and he is expected to arrive from China the early part of next week.

HIRES AMBULANCE FOR RECORD DISTANCE TRIP

What is said to be one of the longest ambulance trips on record was made by the Phyllis Lorraine, mother of Louise Lorraine, now being featured in the part of a young and daring role in C. H. Witwer's "Fighting Blood," pictures, in course of filming at the Powers studios under the direction of Henry Lehman.

Mrs. Lorraine, who was visiting friends in San Diego, was motoring up a steep hill when the engine stalled, and the woman friend who was driving, finding herself unable to control the swing backing of the machine, called to the other occupants to jump for their lives. Mrs. Lorraine did so, and her leap resulted in a fractured limb.

Confronted with the prospect of remaining in the San Diego hospital for a number of weeks, she sent no word of the accident to her daughter, knowing only two days under the doctor's care, chartered an ambulance that day, and made the trip to this city with the injured limb encased in a plaster cast.

Last week Mrs. Lorraine will be confined to her bed for almost two months.
HERSHOLT'S WORK IN "GREED" PRAISED

According to well-founded reports emanating from the Goldwyn Studios and also from San Francisco, Jean Hersholt has assured himself of stardom as a result of his extraordinary performance in the role of Marcus Shouler in the Von Strombe film version of Frank Norris's "McTeague," which will be released under the title of "Greed." As those who are familiar with this unique story know, Marcus is the villain and a most picturesque one, he being a tin-horn sport of the type not lacking in a peculiar sense of humor in the midst of all his misdeeds. This picture will make Hersholt, is a common expression around the studios and now and seldom has any official of that company been so enthused over a forthcoming feature as all of them are over "Greed." It will prove Von Strombe's masterpiece," is a statement heard on every side.

One of the interesting features of Mr. Hersholt's performance in this super-special is, he uses no make-up, but whatever of his manner of combing his hair and his ability to control the muscles of his face, the "stills" show that he is in no way recognizable as himself. It is said he stages a mortal combat in one sequence that will go down in screen history as the master fight of any actor.

Mr. Hersholt is enjoying a brief vacation, prior to going to Death Valley, where Von Strombe will film one of its most important episodes in his story. It is stated that this picture will not be completed until in September and meanwhile there is a lively bidding for Hersholt's services.

MARJORIE DAW HOSTESS TO THREE FAIR HIKERS

Marjorie Daw, appearing with Constance Talmadge in "The Dangerous Maid," is acting as hostess to Misses Ina and Daisy Lipton and Charlotte Ames, three New York girls who hiked from Manhattan to Los Angeles to see the film and are in person. The girls are New York stenographers whose lack of the necessary whereabouts to make the trek "difficult but their enthusiasm to meet the stars in the Restricted area." Daw is acting as escort to the young ladies and is showing them the movies in the making as well as introducing them to their favorites.

The hikers will start back shortly via San Francisco, Seattle and the northern route.

HALLOR FINISHING A BIG ROLE FOR CONNIE

Ray Hallor is just finishing the portrayal of one of the most important characters in support of Constance Talmadge in "The Dangerous Maid," now in course of production at the United Studio. Hallor is rapidly gaining recognition as one of the most juvenile men in pictures and it is reported that he has recently rejected two different offers to go back to Broadway to resume his dramatic work there. His reason for refusing such engagements is, he says, he is completely won over by Southern California and intends to remain here.

A pole Mr. Hallor's forthcoming appearances on the screen will be in a leading role in Charles Ray's "The Courtship of Mlle. Bovary," in which he is said to have given an exceptionally fine performance.

DIXON COMPLETES FEATURE

Denver Dixon and M. Sid Andrus of Feature Pictures, both also studio, have completed the production of a feature written by William Lester, a Western melodrama, days of 1860-70. Held for the New-York City cast are Kathryn McGuire, Pete Morrison, Virginia Warwick, Spottiswoode Aitken, Les Bates, William Morris McCormick, Madge Loree Bates and an excellent supporting cast. Photographer Jack Fuqua, F. S. Bates is manager.

ZEIDMAN TO FILM PECK'S BAD BOY SERIES

Everybody remembers the hit 'Little Jackie Coogan made in "Peck's Bad Boy," the first picture he ever made after leaving Charles Chaplin. Sol Lesser purchased the rights to the Peck series, eight volumes. Principal Pictures Corporation, of which Lesser is president, now announces their intention of filming the remainder of the series of Peck stories. By special arrangement with that organization, Bennie Zieidman will produce the Peck series, beginning with "Peck's Bad Boy and His Pa." According to Zieidman, the pictures will be made on a lavish scale and in feature length. The cast has not yet been selected but will be completed early in the week.

Edward F. Cline has been "loaned" Zeidman by Principal Pictures Corporation. Cline will make the first Peck stories at the studios of Principal Pictures Corporation, Hollywood.

An interesting feature of the new production is the fact that three well-known writers will work together on this picture. Herefore, it has been the custom for one person to compile a scenario. "Peck's Bad Boy and His Pa," therefore, is in the minds of Harry Carr, John Grey and Walter Anthony on the script. These three men are recognized as topnotchers in their line. They are now hard at work on the initial story.

Zieidman has secured the rights for the whole series on the heels of two other productions Zeidman has made for Lesser. These are "The Spider and the Rose" and "Bright Lights of Broadway," both of which have been released and to great success wherever exhibited.

"There is abundance of story material in the Peck series," said Lesser in speaking of the new productions. "Zieidman is to direct the screen version of that picture in "Peck's Bad Boy and His Pa." He will surround the story with the best artists possible, as he did the opening prologue. In the recent drama, starring the pictures of the coming season.

The picture will be started this month at Principal Pictures Corporation studios. Sets are now being planned and erected and the filming should begin later than the first of August.

BARTHELMESS TO STAR IN "WILD APPLES" NEXT

Having completed "The Fighting Blade," Richard Barthelmess will do as his next picture, a film adaptation of the celebrated novel "Wild Apples." After six months research work, Inspira- tion, Richard has been doing a great deal of work. Mr. Barthelmess will bring to the screen Nathan Hale, portraying the character of the American hero ABE WALKER. The heroism of liberty. This was decided upon as a result of many requests to stage the role of the revolutionary hero.

"Wild Apples" is a-human-interest story of today, of which Mr. Barthelmess is given plenty of opportunity to display his versatility as a creator of roles.

COAL BARGE TO "STAR"

After a week of search, John Griffith Wray, who has been chosen by Thomas H. Ince to make the picturization of "Anna Christie," the great stage barge of London and London stage hit, has found a suitable twin-screw coal barge, which is so vital to his picture. He located it at San Diego, where it has been lying since the war. It is now being recommissioned, will be shipped to San Pedro, where the water scenes will be taken. The main characters in this picture are Blanche Sweet, William Russell and George Marion, the latter a member of the original company. Bradley King wrote the continuity for "Anna Christie."

LASKY HAS BOTH TORRENCES NOW

The professional careers of Ernest and David Torrence have been revolting most progressively in harmonious circles upward like a spiral route. Both are very extraordinary cinematic artists and therefore both are much in demand. For instance, no sooner had Universal engaged Ernest to play a leading role in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" than the same company signed David to play a featured role in "The Power of a Lie." Now Ernest has only started a year's engagement with Lasky under contract and the company has assigned David to a featured role in the George Melford production of the Rudyard Kipling classic, "The Man Who Failed." In short, being prominent on the same lot is becoming a habit with these distinguished brothers.

Although there is a close resemblance in the physical appearance of these two stars, these two very dissimilar characters for the screen. David Torrence has established himself as one of the most virile of interpreters of characters of men of distinction such as millionaires, jurists and statesmen. A shining highlight of hisstrionic achievement for him came in Mary Pickford's second screen version of "Tess of the Storm Country" although he previously had won his high niche in the Cosmopolitan production of "The Inside of the Cup." More lately, his work in "The Power of a Lie" was so brilliant and conclusive that Univers- al voluntarily featured him although this had not been the original plan.

Just before Ernest stepped from musical comedy stardom to the screen, David had twenty years of most distinguished performance on the dramatic stage back of him when he transferred his allegiance to the silver-sheet. For eight years he was with Maude Adams and he also was with Jane Cowl in "Smiling" Their stage career had been a great stage star that he has not appeared with and he made his debut in a play in the late Richard Mansfield was starred.

Now that Lasky has a corner on the Torrences, it is being feared that the brothers will have a right merry race for top honors.

LUBITSCH SIGNS HALE

Credilton Hale has just been signed by Lubitsch for one of the leading roles in a picture of Viennese setting which Ernest Lubitsch will direct.
Delacoe Productions, a well-known film producing organization, formerly located in San Francisco, has transferred its production equipment to Hollywood where its future activity in the film-making field will center. Preparations are now being made to start the actual filming of a new feature story within the next two weeks, or as soon as an announcement for the picture is assembled.

Peggy Cartwright, who played the part of Virginia Valli as a child in the star's latest Universal starring vehicle, "A Lady of Quality," was a guest of the company last week when "Universal Night" was celebrated at the Historic Revue and Motion Picture Exposition at Exposition Park.

George Melford has started work on his production of Rudyard Kipling's "The Light That Failed," Jacqueline Logan, Percy Marmont, Sigrid Holmquist, David Torrence, Mabel Van Buren and Luke Cosgrove are the featured players. P. McGrew Wil- lis adapted the story.

Doris Stone just finished playing the lead with Neal Hart in "Beyond the Rio Grande" at Universal.

Edith Taliaferro is a busy little lady these days spending her spare time acting before the camera in "The Little Light," in New York and rehearsal daily with "Pulchrius of 1924."

Matthew Betz has started work on his second picture under his Universal contract.

Betty Gallagher, one of the most accomplished students of Ernest Belcher, ballet master, was selected to do the solo dance number in the big stage scenes of "The Gold Diggers," which Warner Brothers are producing with Hope Hampton in the leading role.

Wallace MacDonald, appearing in Tod Browning's production of "The Day of Faith" at the Goldwyn studio, has been a hero for eighteen feminine stars. He declares that only one took him seriously, and that was Doris May, who is now his wife.

Melville Burke, who is at present directing at the Fox Theatre, Cincinnati, has written a play and scenario which he intends to produce within the next four weeks. He will make the picture version first, taking most of the scenes in and around Cin- cinnati.

"Husbands Wanted" is the title of a Sid Smith comedy for Grand-Asher which Archie Mayo is doing. Duane Thompson is the leading woman.

Robert Murrell and Miss Ma- zie Koppler were married last week in St. Cecelia Orgy at the Mission Inn, Riverside.

Clarence H. Geldert is spending his vacation in a unique way. While enjoying the natural beauties of the Giant Forest, Mr. Gel- dert is utilizing his time writing the denouement of the novel which he began several years ago.

King Baggot is busily engaged at Universal preparing the script for a special production featuring Baby Peggy, famous starlet.

Charles "Buck" Jones is finishing his latest thrill-odrama, "Second Hand Love," on the Fox lot in Hollywood. The big fel- low will enjoy a brief vacation following the completion of the picture.

Another child has entered the ranks of coming screen starlets. "Bonnie" Savin, eight-year-old pupil of Theodore Koslow, will soon have her debut appeared on the screen. She hailed from Pine Fluff, Arkansas, and is the daughter of that town's foremost physician.

Edith Taliaferro is a busy little lady these days spending her spare time acting before the camera in "The Little Light," in New York and rehearsal daily with "Pulchrius of 1924."

Matthew Betz has started work on his second picture under his Universal contract.

Betty Gallagher, one of the most accomplished students of Ernest Belcher, ballet master, was selected to do the solo dance number in the big stage scenes of "The Gold Diggers," which Warner Brothers are producing with Hope Hampton in the leading role.

Wallace MacDonald, appearing in Tod Browning's production of "The Day of Faith" at the Goldwyn studio, has been a hero for eighteen feminine stars. He declares that only one took him seriously, and that was Doris May, who is now his wife.

Melville Burke, who is at present directing at the Fox Theatre, Cincinnati, has written a play and scenario which he intends to produce within the next four weeks. He will make the picture version first, taking most of the scenes in and around Cin- cinnati.

"Husbands Wanted" is the title of a Sid Smith comedy for Grand-Asher which Archie Mayo is doing. Duane Thompson is the leading woman.

Robert Murrell and Miss Ma- zie Koppler were married last week in St. Cecelia Orgy at the Mission Inn, Riverside.

Clarence H. Geldert is spending his vacation in a unique way. While enjoying the natural beauties of the Giant Forest, Mr. Gel- dert is utilizing his time writing the denouement of the novel which he began several years ago.

King Baggot is busily engaged at Universal preparing the script for a special production featuring Baby Peggy, famous starlet.

Charles "Buck" Jones is finishing his latest thrill-odrama, "Second Hand Love," on the Fox lot in Hollywood. The big fel- low will enjoy a brief vacation following the completion of the picture.

Another child has entered the ranks of coming screen starlets. "Bonnie" Savin, eight-year-old pupil of Theodore Koslow, will soon have her debut appeared on the screen. She hailed from Pine Fluff, Arkansas, and is the daughter of that town's foremost physician.

James Woods Morrison upon completing his role in "Held to Answer" at Metro Studios, will depart for New York to take part in a special production to be made by Eastern capital.

Enalia Jensen has finished work in "The Magic Skin," a George D. Baker production, and will shortly begin the interpretation of a dramatic role in another big picture.

Dorothy Phillips is consider- ing two offers to make pictures in Europe in the near future. Should she reject both of these opportunities, the daily would lose one of its most promising production activity in Holly- wood.

Al St. John, Fox funster, is editing his most recent production, "Full Speed Ahead," in which he enacts the stellar role. He will produce a new story upon completing his present task.

Allen Holubar will leave Holly- wood shortly for the Southland to film location scenes for his forthcoming big special production for Metro. He will be absent from the city for about three weeks.

Dale Fuller, of "Footlight Wives" fame, has just completed a complete character role in "Greed" Von Stoehr's conception of "McTeague" for Goldwyn. She expects to start work soon in another big Goldwyn film.

H. C. Hutchinson, veteran cameraman, is the only man who ever photographed the members of the House of Representatives while in official session. It took Hutchinson two weeks to properly place the necessary electrical equipment. He is at present photographing a series of Ashton Dearholt productions.

Helene Rosson has just fin- ished the first piece of screen work she has done in four years. Miss Rosson will be remembered as the dainty blonde star of Mu- tual and American film fame, when she starred in the famous series of "Mustang Girl" westerns. She is co-starring with Edmund Cobb in the Ashton Dearholt series of five-reelers. The second picture is scheduled to start this week.

Ernie Hicks, well-known art director, is perfecting plans in an endeavor to establish sets which do not show that scenes are set by the same studio. As one of the top artists in the field, he has been frequently accused of having his sets "looped" by other studio.

Mickey McBan has just signed for his forthright picture. The four-year-old actor, who played one of the principal roles in "Born of the Cyclone," a Gypsy story which is being filmed at the R-C Studios under the direction of Emil Chautard. This is the fourth time Mickey has been under Chau- tard's direction and special arran-gements have been made with the Fox studios to rush to comple- tion in Mickey's scenes in "The Temple of Venus," which Henry Otto is making. In the meantime, negoti-ations are under way for two more productions for Mickey after he has finished with Chautard.

Marion Nixon lightly hopped up one more rung of the old, and yet ever new, ladder of fame and has been cast for the part of Ann Turley, the Love Interest of the picture, "A Man," featuring Dust- tin Farnum and directed by David Solomon, and has left for location at Victorville.

"A Man," is a Fox Costume play of the period of 1849 and is the third picture in which Miss Nixon has portrayed the role of an old-fashioned girl since Christmas—in fact, all of them have been such prominently of which might be mentioned her work in "The Girl I Love," "The Florentine," "The Bachelors," and "I'm a Man." Miss Nixon also scored in "Ilosita" with Mary Pickford, directed by Ernest S. Nickerson, and there is no one who can be no guess work about it—Marion is going up, going up the ladder fast, and apparently nothing can stop her.
LAURETTE TAYLOR SIGNS FOR TWO MORE FILMS

Laurette Taylor is going to leave Broadway and the stage for Hollywood, where she plans to spend all of the year and time and talent to motion pictures. The noted actress has been signed by Metro again to make a series of films during the coming season.

Miss Taylor made her debut before the camera last year in "Peg O’ My Heart" for Metro, and this picture proved one of the outstanding features of the season.

According to present plans Miss Taylor will star in two of the pictures by J. Harney Manners, her author-husband, in which she has appeared on the stage and which are the first of a series to be titled "Hapay." Miss Reeves-Smith, who is in Hollywood playing an important role in the recently completed production of "No More Women," by Elmer Harris, played a leading part in a stage production of "Charley’s Aunt" for three years and ten months at the Globe Theatre, London, without a day’s lapse excepting Good Fridays and Christmas Days when the British theatres close.

HAMILTON STARTS NEW SERIES

Lloyd Hamilton, appearing in Educational-Hamilton melodramas, has started work on his first production of the fall series. He will be supported by Ruth Hiss, who played with him in many of the past season’s successes. Other stars are being signed, and Percé Gagnon, who has broken and R. Hildebrand. Bill Pratt is directing and Lloyd Bacon, son of the late Frank Bacon, heads the scenario staff.

BRADEY KING FINISHES THIRD YEAR WITH INCE

The third anniversary of her connection with the Thomas H. Ince studio as Scenario Chief, of the story of General King on August 1. During this period she has adapted every production Mr. Ince has made in fact she is credited with the most exact count of the number of stories which have gone to the screen bearing her name.

"The peculiar part of this work is that I haven’t a friend outside of the business, who thinks there is any work to adapting or writing original stories for the screen," she says. "No one considers the almost endless reading of novels, manuscripts and plays, which is necessary. No one thinks it is a pleasant job, the projecting room daily, to view the rushes, do this, that and the other thing which comes up inevitably in the course of the day."

No, there are a great many easy jobs in the world, but I have never enjoyed work as well as in the three years I have spent with Mr. Ince, and never learned as much as in a similar period.

Marcelline Day has finished her part in the Fox Comedy, "Second Hand Love," directed by Wm. Wellman and featuring Buck Jones.

CAMERA'S Weekly Wake-Up—CAMERA's News Section

REEVES-SMITH WINS MANY LONG ENGAGEMENTS

Now that the long distance dancing mania has joined the popular trend for film performers and directors, here comes H. Reeves-Smith, the noted English actor, claiming the long distance acting art in Hollywood. Hapay will be the last of the Reeves-Smiths, who is in Hollywood playing an important role in the recently completed production of "No More Women," by Elmer Harris, played a leading part in a stage production of "Charley’s Aunt" for three years and ten months at the Globe Theatre, London, without a day’s lapse excepting Good Fridays and Christmas Days when the British theatres close.

Laurette Taylor also appeared in "The Private Secretary" and "Our Boys," each an engagement of five years in London. Eighteen months in "Sweet Lavender," also in London, just about gives him the self-finding screen brush for long distance acting.

"HALF-DOLLAR BILL" TO BE NEXT GRAF FILM

Max Graf, Supervising Director of Pathé’s new Home Pictures in San Francisco, has purchased the motion picture rights of "Half-A-Dollar Bill," a series of stories by Curtis Benton, which is to appear shortly in the Saturday Evening Post, and will put the entire production before the Pathé-Mateo studios as soon as the adaptation, which is personally photographing, is complete.

Late this week Graf will leave for Hollywood to engage a director for his production and cast of players. He considered "Half-A-Dollar Bill" an exceptionally fine screen vehicle and will give it an elaborate presentation.

Among the other screen stories written by Benton is "Mighty Lak a Rose," which was produced by Edwin Carewe for First National.

"Six Days" Near Completion

"Six Days," Elinor Glyn’s story which Fox is directing at Goldwyn studios by Charles Brabin, is now in eight reels, and the completion of cutting and editing is almost complete. The feature in which Corinne Griffith and Frank Mayo have the leading roles, has never been longer than nine reels, an unusual thing, as most pictures, when the photographing is complete, have numbers at least eleven or twelve reels. "Six Days" will be released in September.

"BUCK" ENTERTAINS HIS OLD WAR "BUNKIE"

During the days when General Fred Punston was hunting down Aguinaldo in the Philippines, Charles "Buck" Jones, Fox star of Western films, had a "bunkie" by the name of William R. Shakespeare, who has bailed him "Down East" way. The two were together in the fights of the Cavares and Moros and they became such fast friends that the years which have intervened between their army service and the present have served but to strengthen their ties of affection.

So there was a happy reunion last week at the Fox studios when Sherman arrived there after a trip all the way from Providence, R. I., to visit his old "bunkie." Ever since his arrival the two have been talking over their army days and swapping stories about their experiences since they left the Philip- pines.

Sherman is the guest of Jones and his wife, Mrs. Odille Jones, at their home, 1075 Hay- ward Street, Hollywood.

"The Frog" Scores

"Broke all records," is the interesting report on "The Frog," a Graf super production which had its Eastern premiere at Loew’s State, Washington, D. C., last week. The i film continues its success and the technical showing of the film recently given a fine send-off by New York critics who saw it in preview, will take place in August. The cast includes Cullen Landis, Louise Fazenda, Ethel Wales, Mildred Harris, Bapa Lewis, David Butler and others.

DEARHOLT STARTS HIS FIRST PICTURE

Actual camera work on the first of a series of twelve five- reel westerns to be released as the Asylum Dearholt Productions, was started this week at the Ben Wilson Studios under the direction of Wilbur McGaugh, a native of Texas.

Helene Rosson, former Mutual and American film beauty, will be co-starred with Edmund Cobb, who recently completed a series of two-reel westerns at Universal.

Wilbur McGaugh, protege of Ben Wilson and Dearholt, has been given the leading character for eight months as a result of her selection for the series, is working with Ernie Hickson, art director, in the matter of securing the best exteriors.

The first of the series is scheduled to reach the New York offices of the Aryan Distributing Company by August 15.

Kathleen Kirkham in "Other Men’s Daughters," a Ben Wilson production for Grand-Amber, is doing her first screen work in nearly a year, following a long rest and a lot of outdoor hiking and general relaxation.

HELene "Training" For Return To Silversheet

Helene Chadwick, who has been absent from studios for a long period, has taken "training" for her return to the goldwyn company, which has just been set up but is commission to give her return in Rupert Hughes’ "Law Against Law."

This is to be taken literally for in the next few weeks she will be five miles before breakfast daily, riding before lunch and doing daily double rides. In between times she plays tennis and golf.

Her part in the forthcoming Goldwyn film will demand much of Miss Chadwick, it is whispered, and after the long lay-off, Helene feels the same now ripe to get in condition.

"The Frog" Scores

"Broke all records," is the interesting report on "The Frog," a Graf super production which had its Eastern premiere at Loew’s State, Washington, D. C., last week. The film continues its success and the technical showing of the film recently given a fine send-off by New York critics who saw it in preview, will take place in August. The cast includes Cullen Landis, Louise Fazenda, Ethel Wales, Mildred Harris, Bapa Lewis, David Butler and others.
Pulse of the Studios

For Week Starting Monday, July 30

Camera intends to keep the Pulse of the Studios accurate in every detail. You can help by reporting any error to Pulse Editor, 439-869

BERWILLA STUDIO. 5821 Santa Monica Blvd. Ashton Dearhart, Pro. Mgr. Holly 3130

Eddie Lyons Productions (Arrow release). Eddie Lyons Productions (Federated release).

Buster Keaton Productions (Federated release).

Feature Pictures Co. All-Star.

Dearhart Productions.

BRENTWOOD STUDIO. 4811 Fountain Ave. 598-146

BRONX STUDIO. 1745-51 Glendale Blvd. Kenneth Bishop, General Mgr. Wilshire 4275

BELASCO PRODUCTIONS, INC. 6912 Hollywood Blvd.

BUSTER KEATON PRODUCTIONS. 1025 Lillian Way. Eddie Cline, Casting. Holly 2814

Lou Anger Productions.

HARRY KEATON PRODUCTIONS. 302 Luckenbach Blvd. 148-55

Fred Caldwell Productions. 4513 Sunset Blvd. 593576

Century Comedies (Universal release).

CHOICE STUDIO. 6044 Sunset Blvd. Martin J. Heyl, Prod. Mgr. 439-764

CULVER CITY STUDIOS. Ralph M. DeLacy, Mgr. 6529 Venice Blvd. Culver City.

Renaless, Inc. Clarke Renaless, Director General.

FINE ARTS STUDIOS. 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FRANCIS FORD STUDIO. 6040 Sunset Blvd. Holly 2632

ROCKY Mt. Production Co.

GARSON STUDIOS. 1845 Glendale Blvd. Wilshire 81

Metro Release.

GOLDEN WEST STUDIO. 4011 Lankershim Blvd. Lankershim 132-J

GOLDSTONE STUDIO. 1426 Beechwood Dr.

Goldstone Productions. (State Rights release).

HOPE STUDIO. 7435 Santa Monica Blvd. Harry Tenbrook Staff. "Dark Faces" 4th Week.

GOLDWYN STUDIO. R. B. McIntyre, Casting. Culver City. 761711

GODWIN STUDIOS. 1438 Gower St. Ben Verscheiler, General Manager. Holly 162

Monte Banks Productions, Inc.

Sid Smith Productions, Inc.

Joe Rock Productions.
CAMERA

"Pulse of the Studios"

Page Seventeen

HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS. 6642 Santa Monica Blvd. J. Jasper, Mgr.

Harold Lloyd Corporation.—Wm. Fraser, Gen. Mgr.
Richard Thomas Productions.
Irby Comstock Productions. Charles Woolstenhulme, Production Manager.
Supreme Art Productions. Chas. J. Hall
Donald MacMill. J. All-Star

HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr.
Horner

World Educational Films.

Chas. R. Seelinger Productions. (Aynor release). 1442 Beachwood Drive.

Hercules Film Productions, Inc. P. Andrews, Mgr. 1442 Beachwood Drive.

INCE STUDIO. Horace Williams, Casting. Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr. Culver City

Palmer Photoplay Productions.

Cortland Productions.

Trimble-Murfin Productions.

LASKY STUDIOS. L. M. Goodstadt, Casting. 1520 Vi

Paramount Pictures. (Famous Players-Lasky Release.)

Zane Grey Productions. Victor Fleming

MAYOR-SCHULBERG STUDIOS. 3800 Mission Rd. Individual Casting.

LOUIS B. MAYOR PRODUCTIONS. (Metro release).

METRO STUDIO. Romaine and Cahuenga Ave. Harry Kerr, Casting.

NEVA GEBER PRODUCTIONS. 6735 Holly Blvd.

TECHNICOLOR M. M. Corps. C. A. Williat, Mgr.

PICKFORD-FAIRBAINS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 7100 Santa Monica Blvd.

United Artists Release.

PRINCIPAL CORP. 7720 Santa Monica.

R-C STUDIO. Melrose and Gower. 760 Gower St.

Individual Productions. (Film Booking Offices.)

JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. C. Walker, Mgr. 6701 Santa Monica Blvd.

ROUSH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

Hal Roach Comedies (Path release). R. C. Miller

Individual Productions.

JOE NIEHOFF STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr.

RAY STUDIO.  Albert A. Kidder, Jr., Gen’l Mgr. 1425 Fleming St.

RUSSEL STUDIO.  B. D. Russell, Mgr. 1439 Beachwood Dr.  Holly 79456

LOGAN-BAYHAM PRODUCTIONS. Logan-Bayham Productions.  Tom Gibson Morante Manigan

SENNETT STUDIO. 1712 Glendale Blvd.

Mack Sennett Comedies.  (First National Release).

SUNSET PRODUCTIONS. 7425 Sunset Blvd.

UNIVERSAL STUDIO. Fred Datig Casting.  570-081

VITAGRAPH STUDIOS. 1708 Talmadge. W. S. Smith, Gen Mgr.

WARNER BROS. STUDIOS, 5842 Sunset Blvd.

WILNAT STUDIO. 6070 Sunset Blvd.  Al. Brandt Mrs.

INCE $2 GOLDWYN ROACH STUDIOS

578-280 SUNSET TAXI  578-307
They'll be there:

Mary Pickford
Douglas Fairbanks
Norma Talmadge
Constance Talmadge
Lois Wilson
Madge Bellamy
Thomas H. Ince
B. P. Shuberg
Joseph Schenck
Tully Marshall
Frank Keenan
J. Warren Kerrigan
Ernest Torrence
Rupert Julian
Reginald Denny
Irvin Willat
Johnny Walker
Jack McCrea
Lionel Belmore
Charlie Murray
Niles Welch
Antonio Moreno
Buster Keaton
Carter DeHaven
Cullen Landis
Theodore Roberts
Lloyd Ingraham
Hoot Gibson
Larry Semon
Truly Shattuck
Bull Montana
Jack Dillon
Lottie Pickford
Irving Cummings
Viola Dana
William Farnum
Francis Ford
Lew Cody
William H. Crane
Art Acord
Monte Blue
Clyde Cook
Edwin Carewe

They'll be there:

at the

Boxing Carnival Benefit for the Crippled Children's Guild of the Orthopaedic Hospital-School of Los Angeles at the

Legion Stadium, Hollywood

on the

First of August

—this Wednesday evening—

The biggest night of the season, both for fight fans and film fans. Better be there than sorry.

Announcing the Removal of Our Offices to 5307 SANTA MONICA BLVD. (Cor. Western)

To Producers, Directors, Players

Our studio edition, published monthly, contains many absolutely original, copyrighted plots, both drama and comedy. It is a gold mine—dig in it.

We revise and copyright scenarios and are scenario brokers.

UNIVERSAL SCENARIO CORPORATION

5307 SANTA MONICA BLVD. (Cor. Western) Publishers

Scenario Bulletin-Digest

(Sample Copy on Request)

On the other hand Douglas Fairbanks, Ramon Novarro, Rudolph Valentino, Richard Barthelmes are always heroes. Mr. Sainpolis, however, is alternately the hero and the "heavy." In Rex Ingram's "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" he had a sympathetic role. In "Shadows" he was a scoundrel. In "The Hero" he had the title role. In " Held to Answer" he is a narrow minded and stone hearted man.

"It's all in the way a person looks at it," said Mr. Sainpolis. "I feel that people don't believe I'm quite as good as I'm sometimes made to appear and I hope they don't think I'm quite as black as I'm painted. I'm just an everyday average man."

Others in the cast of "Held to Answer" which is headed by House Peters, include Grace Carlyle, James Morrison, Evelyn Brent, "Bull" Montana, Gage Henry, Thomas Guyce, Lydia Knott, Robert Daly, Charles West and Charles Mailes.
American Legion Stadium
Hollywood Boulevard at El Centro Ave.

Hugh Hoffman
Scenario and Production Supervisor

Lloyd Hughes is Not—
The son of Rupert Hughes.
Related to Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes.
An Australian, member of the same family as Sir John Barbiere.
"I'm just a picture actor, son of an Arizona lope engineer," he says. "I started life, after leaving high school, as a butcher's delivery boy."

Twenty-six persons were considered for the presidential role of Maximilian Robespierre in Rex Ingram's "Scaramouche." The man selected was Curt Fuehrberg, who bears an uncanny resemblance to the noted French patriot.

Several of the costly costumes worn by Lewis Stone in Rex Ingram's French Revolution production, "Scaramouche," became rags and tatters during the filming of the Paris street battle scenes in which Mr. Stone suffered many attacks by the blood-thirsty mobs.

Among the other implements used in Rex Ingram's monster French Revolution production, "Scaramouche," are a pair of twin cannons. One was manufactured in 1620 and was used in the revolution. The other was made 300 years later, in 1920. About half of the hundreds who loaded at the guns were able to tell which was older.

H. and B. FILM COMPANY
Bronx Studio, 1745 Glendale Blvd. Wilshire 4275

GRACE CARLYLE WASTES NO TIME MAKING GOOD IN SCREEN CAREER

Rumors are beginning to emanate from the Metro studio that a new emotional actress is about to make a very definite bid for success in "Held to Answer," an all-star picturization of Peter Clark MacFarlane's most successful novel.

According to reports, those who have seen the rushes from this picture in which Grace Carlyle appears are enthusiastically preparing a brilliant screen future for her. Although Miss Carlyle is making her screen debut in "Held to Answer," she has had splendid dramatic training as a leading woman in Charles Frohman productions for the past seven years. She came to Los Angeles a short while ago for a rest, but soon after her arrival was induced to play the leading role in Ossian Apfel's "Morphine," now called "The Dangerous Road," at the Elgin's Little Theatre.

At that time Harold Shaw was casting "Held to Answer," but was encountering considerable difficulty in selecting the actress who could portray the leading feminine role. When the director saw "Morphine" he instantly made up his mind that Miss Carlyle was just the one for the part. The subsequent screen test confirmed his judgment, and her name was soon placed on the dotted line.

The east for "Held to Answer" also includes several favorable parts, House Peters, Evelyn Brent, James Morrison, John Sainpots, Gale Henry, Lydia Knott and "Bull" Montana.

WHY BE FAT

When the Marshelle Method will reduce your weight a pound a day safely, inexpensively and permanently.

Consultation free.
Phone 593-262 for appointment
Home Office: 1733 Maltman Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.
Have your figure permanently Marshelled NOW

Good Studio Space on Glendale Boulevard!
Here's a snap, independent producers! The Bronx Studio has some good space for rent at a give-away. Save a big sum on your overhead and put it in the picture! Look into this . . . TODAY!

H. and B. FILM COMPANY
Bronx Studio, 1745 Glendale Blvd.
"The Digest of the Motion Picture Industry"

FROM U TO YOU

Sheldon Lewis, arch-villain, has reformed! He's emerged from his dark ways as "The Clutching Hand!" and his malignancy menace as "The Iron Claw!"; forgotten "Mr. Hyde" and his malevolence—and has played a part where he for the first time in his long screen career wins sympathy from the audience.

And a little girl did it—Sheldon plays the first sympathetic role in his history in "Whose Baby Are You?" Baby Peggy's Universal Jewel starring vehicle, which King Baggott directed.

"I consider the part 'Giovanelli' in the Baby Peggy picture the best acting role I have ever had," the famous "heavy" asserts. "Perhaps it's because down in our hearts we believe like little girls once in a while, and the lovable Italian is a wonderful character as the author has written him and as King Baggott directs him. Baggott always sounds the human note, and no matter how 'high-brow' the director may be, the simplest and most direct method of doing this is always the solution of his problem. Baggott knows this from years of acting and directing.

"I am confident of a great success for Baby Peggy's first starring vehicle for this reason—it is primarily life."

Sheldon Lewis has played over 300 roles on the stage and screen. His first big role was "The Clutching Hand!" in the first big serial ever made in pictures; followed "The Iron Claw!"; then other notable villain parts. His "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is one of his outstanding successes—he played "Jacques Pouchard" in D. W. Griffith's "Orphans of the Storm," played with Virginia Pearson in "The Bishop's Emeralds," and has "villain" other successes such as "Jacqueline!" and "The Little Red Schoolhouse."

His "Giovanelli!" is the principal male role in the new Baby Peggy picture; the portrayal of a lovable Italian of New York's little Italy, rich in character and vivid portrayal of the volatile emotions of the Latin people.

Universal City will be the scene next Monday of an elaborate outing of the Retail Clothes' Association of Los Angeles, preparations for which are now under way. A barbeque will be staged on the setting of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," largest picture scene in the history of the industry, where giant pits will be utilized to prepare the roast meat, under the direction of a German barbeque expert, and several hundred guests will be served.

The details of the affair are in the hands of a committee headed by William Stanbury and G. E. Nagel. An elaborate program will follow the barbeque, and also a tour of the four-hundred acre picture city. The association, composed of retail merch- ants of Los Angeles, is one of the important mercantile organizations of Southern California.

Another noted actor of the legitimate stage has hearkened to the siren song of the celluloid. This latest arrival in the army of film stars is Harry Mestayar, for years one of the best known figures on the legitimate stage. He is now at Universal City, playing the part of the District Attorney in "The Hunchback," a Jewel production hinging around a trial more dramatic than even the celebrated trial scene in the stage version of "Madame X."

Harry Mestayar has long been a featured player in New York, with David Belasco, Charles Frohman and George W. Cohen. He has also been a producer in his own right, having launched a number of successful plays. As the district attorney, he has one of the most vigorous character roles in the big play, adapted from Rita Weiman's Broadway stage success.
And May Return Ye Olden Sport

Because she believes the Maryland tournament is the most romantic outdoor sport in America, Dorothy Phillips, star of "Slender the Woman" and numerous other photoplays, plans to introduce this last surviving spectacle of the days of chivalry into Southern California, where she expects it to rival polo as a grand society event.

"I was born in Baltimore, you know," Miss Phillips said in telling her plans, "and I remember, when a girl, how I was thrilled whenever I saw a tournament, for the romance which surrounds the men and days when knights were bold. So far as I know, these tournaments are not held anywhere else but in parts of Maryland and the Valley of Virginia.

"They are a gorgeous spectacle, beginning with a parade of the knights, every one of whom must be in uniform, with his own particular colors floating in pennons from his lance and streaked across his breast in a sash. Sometimes, if he is riding for a 'ladye face,' he wears his sweetheart's colors on his left arm. And, whenever a knight rides for some particular girl, she always fashions her sash and decorates his lance.

"After the parade behind a band, the knights assemble at the tilting ground and hear a 'charge' to the Knights' delivered by some orator who knows all about the romantic days of chivalry and can tell about them in flowery phrases. The knights then pass in review before the judges' stand and are marshaled at the head of the lists. Each rides under some selected name, generally that by which the home place of his family is known, for the estates in Maryland have names like 'Carrollton,' where the famous Charles Carroll lived; 'My Lady's Manor' and 'My Lord's Gift,' where tournaments are held every year; 'Chesterfield,' 'Skeibarnes,' 'Corsele' and such names, and the knights title themselves in this way.

"When the tilting begins, each knight has three scoring rides at rings that are placed in arms suspended from arches that are 75 feet apart. If he gets three rings, the music plays as he gallops up to the judges' stand, surrounded by the heralds and pages, also in uniform. If he misses all the three rings, he must gallop around behind the stand. If two or more knights tie, they have to ride until the tie is broken, which sometimes takes quite a while.

"After the tilting is finished, the champion knight selects his Queen of Love and Beauty and the next four knights in order pick the maids-of-honor. Then they escort their ladies to the stand, place flowery crowns on their heads and hear the 'Coronation Address' delivered by another flowery-tongued orator.

"The next event of the tournament is the bull at night and these dances are real social events of importance. The Tournament Ball is opened by the champion knight and the Queen of Love and Beauty occupying their thrones while the other winning knights and the maids-of-honor dance the royal quadrille. Upon its completion, the champion and queen descend from their dais and the dancing becomes general.

"All this may sound rather tame, but the sight of a uniformed knight dashing madly down the lists on a horse that must run 125 yards in not more than ten seconds in a sight that will make any girl's heart thrill to the glow of romance and chivalry. And it takes an expert horseman to sit firmly in the saddle while his eyes are glued to the holes in little rings 1½ inches in diameter that knights tell me look almost as small as the eye of a needle. The lance used must not be less than eight feet long and it is balanced solely by the forefinger as it lightly rests in the curved palm of the hand.

"I want Southern Californians, especially the motion picture folk, to see a Maryland tournament staged here and I expect to see knights charging down the lists once again before the Fall is over. And I'll promise any girl who attends that she will be enraptured by the chance to become some dashing victor's Queen of Love and Beauty."
Capt. M. McKenzie, Production Manager

LORRAINE EASON

who portrayed the role of "Echo" in the William Fox late offering, "The Temple of Venus," under the direction of Henry Otto.

Charles Cruz

who has just finished the Juvenile lead in a four weeks' engagement in "You Can't Get Away With It," under the direction of Roland V. Lee—one of a special series being produced by William Fox.
Clarke Renalle
President and General Managing Director

"THE ELK'S TOOTH"

An Eloquent Plea for the Preservation of America's Favorite Monarch of the Forest

Told in a Beautiful Romantic Comedy Drama of the Great Outdoors

A Feature Production with an All-Star Cast

Now in Preparation

Culver City Studio
6529 Venice Blvd. Culver City, Calif.
ALEC FRANCIS IN "THREE WISE FOOLS"
AT THE CALIFORNIA THEATRE
THE DIGEST OF THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY

UNO

Authentic Details and Photographs of Foreign Interiors and Exteriors of Every Description.

ASSOCIATE CORRESPONDENTS IN ALL FOREIGN COUNTRIES

INTERNATIONAL CINEMA RESEARCH
L.A. HOWLAND
Phone 438-761
300-301 HOLLYWOOD SECURITY BLDG.

Marguerite LaMont
Vermont 5780

RENALLES, Inc.
CLARKE RENALLES
General Managing Director

Distinctive Cinema and Legitimate Productions

"The Elks Tooth"
Now in Preparation

General Offices:
Culver City Studio, 6529 Venice Blvd., Culver City.—Take P. E. Cars.

"Make-Up Headquarters of the Motion Picture Industry"

The service of this shop is unusual in its scope and completeness. Here the discriminating artist can find all of the foremost imported and domestic manufactures of fine make-up accessories, and among those people not of the profession this shop has gained equal renown as the guild of expert wig-makers. We deal exclusively in make-up preparations and hair goods. They are the best that can be made.

ZAN MAKE-UP SHOP
819 South Hill..... Pico 498
Incidentally, Hollywood Grows, Just Like the Movies

When a man is downright simple, he is simply not upright.

Another foolish fad has gone by the boards—they've quit maligning Hollywood so unmercifully.

It's about time a new genius leaped into the cinema limelight—a Babe Ruth or a Fipron—explicitly, a boy with a wallop, not a "knock."

Some expositions may be all right, but most people hereabouts seem to think the motion picture one just ended after five weeks was all wrong.

Carl Laemmle spends most of his money at Universal City, but he spends much of his time in Europe, which is fair enough for this community!

But then, of course, the people have had no opportunity to pass judgment on the effects of Prohibition in America as yet since there has been so little of it to judge.

Somebody should start a campaign to end the fulsome campaigns of back-bitters within the film industry. The time has come when the whole motley lot of them should be forced to go.

"The whole world has gone movie-mad," complains an eastern fanatic who holds down a job as pastor of a prominent church. Granting the complainant is correct, is it anything wrong?

"Satisfactory business," is the report from most motion picture theatres throughout the country thus far this summer. That means more satisfaction for Hollywood since increased production is thus assured.

Now that Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., has decided to launch himself in the Los Angeles field as a full-fledged publisher of a daily newspaper, may we not expect to see Edsel Ford start another "weakly" here like the Dearborn Independent?

Now that Charlie Chaplin has nearly finished his new palatial home in Beverly Hills, Pola Negri has completely finished her engagement with him, which leads countless of interested admirers to wonder just what the grand finish will be.

According to present indications Douglas Fairbanks will not be able to complete "The Thief of Bagdad," his current film production, until some time next December. Obviously, he's not going to let this thief be robbed of anything by haste.

"The Rendezvous of Beautiful Women," is what one observer calls Los Angeles. A Frisco critic calls that observer a liar. And, we, being prone to be mild and charitable, call the Frisco critic frank although we understand his Christian name is Bill.

There is now under way a rather unusual exodus of film magnates to Europe, all bent on business missions. Evidently there has come authoritative information of the early return of better conditions across the pond. Surely so many American picture kings would not be making blind jumps if the European situation really is as bad as it seems.

If they have a second World War soon, it will be neither surprising or reprehensible if there are millions of slackers among the masses of common people, because there is no longer even a passive susceptibility to the wiles and stirring tirades of munition manufacturers and unscrupulously aspiring diplomats. It is high time for everybody to be tired enough of war to abolish it.

Camera! doubts that there ever was any city in all history to make such strides of progress as Hollywood is making these days. The transformation of this film-making center into a bustling metropolis of gigantic proportions in three short years has been absolutely amazing and surely unprecedented. That this same Hollywood will be a cosmopolitan community of a half-million population in a record-breaking short space of time seems to be a foregone conclusion. Anyone who advises an out-of-town relative or friend to move to this superb city among the world's most picturesque foot-hills and to invest his or her bank-roll here is doing a double good turn—one for the relative or friend and one for Hollywood.

The quality of photoplays is being improved reassuringly, but we doubt the possibility of perfecting the cinema as a distinct and independent art until a revolutionary change is made in technique and general manner of presentation of story. Many of the highest authorities seem to hold such an opinion, too. Why not a little curtailing of expenditures on studio improvements in order to have some cash to divert to the cause of intelligent, scientific experimenting with some of the more reasonable ideas of a few so-called radicals who try so much in vain to get a hearing? We personally know of one new technique which we are confident has at least the nucleus of a truly great idea. There are other notions available. Indeed it seems a pity there is only lethargy among those whose interest in the subject would be most beneficial to the photoplay.
"M" Is Her Mascot
Just as the street car lines of Los Angeles are distinguished by certain letter's, so has a certain street car line of the Warner Brothers, and now almost invariably appears in the ride through life of Dale Fuller character star, which she just finished a big role in Von Stroheim's "Greed." The letter "M" has been Miss Fuller's name since school days. She was graduated from Mills College, near San Francisco. All three of her big film roles have started with an "M." She was christened "Marischa" in "Poo-lish Wives," she was "Marineka" in Robert Julian's "Merry Go Round" and in "Greed" she appeared as "Maria Miranda Macapa"—a bevy of "Ms." And to top it all her own name really is Marie Dale Fuller. At present, Miss Fuller is enjoying a much-needed rest after several weeks of character complexes in San Francisco.

Utson 2,500 "Extras.

To Herbert Brenon's production of "The Spanish Dancer," starring Pola Negri with Antonio Moreno featured, goes the honor of having the largest set constructed in recent years by Paramount's West Coast studio. Approximately twenty-five hundred minor players attired in the colorful costumes of Spain of the seventeenth century were used in conjunction with this mammoth structure. The famous "Square of the Gallowing Charger" in Madrid was reproduced in its entirety at the Lasky ranch as a background for the lavish military and religious celebration in which Pola Negri and most of the members of the cast appeared.

Burdened With Phantom.
Phantoms seem to run in Harold Austin's family. After working for over six months with Strongheart and Director Lawrence Trimble as leading man in "The Phantom Pack," which has been re-titled "The Love's Master," Austin was invited to take a cruise of a few days' duration with a party of friends. On reaching the harbor, Austin discovered the name of his friend's boat to be "The Phantom Poodle." Now, Austin is afraid the cruise will last for another six months, although the destination was supposed to be Catalina Island.

Title Is Selected.
"Stephen Stoute Out" has been chosen as the title of Douglas picture from Richard Harding Davis' famous story, "The Grand Cross of the Crescent," according to an announcement from the office of Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production. Theodore Roberts is featured with the thirteen-year old star with Noah Berry and Harry Myers heading the list of supporting players. Although the full cast has not been named, Frank Currier and Bertram John are also included to date. Edrid Bingham adapted the Davis story and Henbery will direct the boy star.

Warners Sign Louise
Louise Fazenda has signed a long term contract for featured roles of stellar significance with the Warner Brothers. Miss Fazenda occupies a most unique place on the screen where, for nearly a year now, she has appeared in numerous dramatic productions where she played straight comedy roles. In "The Gold Diggers," where her work won her a starring contract, Miss Fazenda played the role of a highly dramatic lines demonstrating that she is both comedienne and dramatic artist.

Chapin to Assist.
Associated First National Pictures have engaged James Chapin to assist John McDermott in the direction of "Her Temporary Husband," which he will start shooting on August 5. The story is adapted from the stage play of the same name and the exteriors will all be taken in Long Beach. Sidney Chapin, Tully Marshall and John Rice are among those present in the cast, which has not been completed as yet.

C. B. Is Back.
Cecil B. De Mille and a number of the featured players in "The Ten Commandments," a story of which was written by Jeanie Macpherson, returned this week from San Francisco where an important sequence of scenes in the modern story of this Fairmount picture was filmed on and about the structural work of a new church now under construction there. In addition to Latrice Joy, Richard Dix, Nita Naldi, Rod LaRocque, Eddy Chapman and Robert Edeson of the cast of featured players, Mr. De Mille was accompanied by his production staff, including Jeanie Macpherson, author, and similar staffs of Paul Irbe, art director, Bert Glennon, chief of the camera staff and Cullen Tate, assistant director.

Going to Arizona.
Zane Grey and Victor Fleming will leave for Flagstaff, Ariz., within a few days in search of locations to be used in filming the Zane Grey production of "The Call of the Canyon," which Fleming will direct for Paramount. "To the Last Man," the preceding Zane Grey production featuring Richard Dix and Lois Wilson, was recently completed under the direction of Fleming.

Hart Starts Soon.
William S. Hart will start work on his first Paramount picture since his announced return to the screen next weekend according to the star and Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production. William S. Hart in "Wild Bill Hickock" is the title of the initial Hart picture. The story is an original by the star and screenplay by Albert Sydney LeVino.
Making Luck
By DONALD H. CLARKE

During a general conversation about motion pictures the other day King Vidor's name was mentioned. Someone recalled that, although recognized as one of the most successful of directors, he is only twenty-nine years old. Someone else observed, "Some people are born lucky."

"Wait a bit," exclaimed a man who has been closely associated with pictures for many years, and who had been active hitherto only as a listener. "Vidor wasn't born any luckier than thousands of other chaps who are lots older and lots poorer than he is now. The only difference between him and them, as nearly as I can see it, is that he fixed on a definite objective early in life and started plugging for it to the exclusion of everything else. The more obstacles he had to overcome, the harder he plugged. There is a great lesson for young men, and women, too, for that matter, in Vidor's career."

"Vidor always had the idea he could write, and while he was in high school in his native state of Texas, and later when he was at Tom Institute, in Maryland, he kept grinding out short stories and articles. Then, just about the time he left the institute he made up his mind definitely that motion pictures were his career, and he started in to write scenarios. He wrote fifty before one was accepted, and he didn't get much reward for that. But his ardor, instead of being damped, was increased by disappointment.

"He was away off from the beaten track of motion pictures—in Galveston, Tex. There weren't any studios there, or any players, or experts in any branch of his chosen field. He decided to make his own pictures, nevertheless. He furnished the stories; the parts he recruited from visiting vaudeville he, acts, whose services he secured for practically nothing. His sets were shanties and business buildings already built. His two reapers were made in four or five days.

"During this period he passed an unusually pretty girl on the street. He sought an introduction because he wanted her for a leading lady. Her family wouldn't hear of such a thing, so Vidor married her. No one who knows anything at all about pictures doesn't know about Vidor's wife, Florence Vidor."

"Well, the Vidors made a few more two-reelers in Texas, after which they went to New York for experience. They worked as extras, and in all sorts of other capacities in the industry. There are no pictures which they went back again to picture making in Galveston. But they weren't satisfied with the results, due to their poor facilities, so finally they made the big plunge, gave up everything, and motored to Los Angeles. They took any work they could get in the studios, the first good break finally occurring when Vidor got a position in the scenario department of Vitagraph. That was in 1914-15. From then on his rise was rapid. He soon became a director, and clinched his future in 1918 with "The Turn in the Road," which he adapted and directed. It was one of the first big successes with a spiritual theme."

"Now he is one of the big directors engaged by Goldwyn, his first picture for them being an adaptation of the stage success, 'Three Wise Fools,' which is said to be one of the best photodramas he ever has made, and which will be seen on the screen this Fall."

"It would be a fine thing," concluded the speaker, "if every young man and woman who sees 'Three Wise Fools' could look back of the screen at the life of Vidor, and not see only his beautiful home, and his motor cars, and yachts, and things like that, but also the everlasting stick-to-iveness, the hammer-at-one-thing-until-you-get-there spirit, that taking him through all barriers, brought him success at the age of twenty-nine. He wasn't born lucky. He made his own luck."

Days of Pretty Girl Parts--Are They Over?

The wide-spread practice of holding beauty contests in the selection of new screen material has given many followers of motion pictures the idea that all one has to have to achieve movie fame is good looks.

Evelyn Brent, pretty English actress now appearing in American productions, hits upon an important truth that should be of interest to all film aspirants, when she declares that the day of "pretty girl parts" is over and that beauty contest winners must work as hard as extra girls to achieve lasting success.

"Beauty contests are valuable in that they afford opportunities to those who might otherwise, never attempt a screen career," says Miss Brent. "However, there is no doubt but that these contests have tended more than anything else, to give 'fans', generally, the impression that good looks is the prime requisite to screen success.

"Every day I receive letters which read in effect: 'My friends say I am beautiful and should be in the movies.' A large percentage of beauty contest winners who come to Hollywood are subjected to sad disappointments. Because they won the contest they feel they should be allowed to walk right into the star part. When they find they must start at the bottom, just like extra girls and must work just as hard as anyone else to get ahead, they feel they have been disappointed. Most of them return home. A few of them stick and some of them, after years of hard work, reach their goal—just like anyone else.

"Hazel Keener won a Chicago contest two years ago. Today she is beginning to play important parts. She has studied hard and learned the art of acting. In another year she will perhaps be playing leading parts. She is one of the few who have seriously taken to the art. At first she was disappointed, but she soon found that she must 'deliver' before she could get ahead.

"There are no bigger stars who get by on their beauty alone, as was the case some years ago. One girl, who was made a star immediately upon entering the business, met with a sad fate. She was beautiful, but could not act. She had back-bone, however, and instead of bewailing her inability to 'get over', she stepped down from starring parts to small 'bits'. Now, after four years, she is again playing leading characters, but this time she has the training and the ability to do her parts justice.

"Looks are important, but they do not be-
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., July 30th—
Edward Belasco, head of the Belasco Production Corporation of this city, and his general manager, A. H. Sebastian, are in Los Angeles making preparations for the filming of the organization’s next picture. The picture will be shot in one of the Southern studios, and the full plans will be given out at an early date.

Milton Gardner, Vice-President of Goldwyn, came to San Francisco Friday and spent several days looking over the last of the work on "Greed," to be made in this city.

San Francisco is taking great interest in the first showing here of "The Fog," which is the attraction of the week at the Warfield Theatre. "The Fog" is the second picture to be made by the Graf Productions, and was made with San Francisco money at the Pacific Studios at San Mateo, released through Metro. But quite aside from its local interest, it’s a cooking good picture, directed by Paul Portal, with a cast that includes such well-known names as Cullen Landis, Mildred Harris, Louise Phillips, Constance Morris, Edward Wales, Ralph Lewis, and Eddie Phillips.

Eric Von Stroheim and the company making "Greed" under his direction are almost through with their work in San Francisco. They have been here long enough to feel almost like familiar faces. Eric, director, producer, manager, has been here long enough to vote, and it’s four months and a half since he last took a real shooting scene on the picture, but now they expect to finish here on Wednesday, and leave for the South on Thursday. The preliminary plans have been changed a bit, so the company will go from here to Los Angeles, and after a stay there of only one day, on to Keeler, where a short sequence will be shot. Then from there, equipped for the great heat, they will go into Death Valley to film the final scenes of the picture. After that is finished Gibson Gowland as "McTeague" can shave his beard, and the company will leave for Colfax, to make the early part of the story, and the scenes of his boyhood as a miner in the Great Dipper Gold Mine. Zasu Pitts has just about finished her part in the picture, and expects to leave in the near future for New York, where she is engaged for a picture soon to be filmed by the Famous-Players.

Hal Reed, well known publicity man, and former press agent of the First National Productions, has been appointed Director of Publicity for "If Winter Comes," the latest picture of the Fox Film Corporation. He is also handling all the San Francisco publicity for Warner Brothers.

Cecil DeMille and the company making the "Ten Commandments" did four very strenuous days of work in San Francisco last week. They were working in Warner Bros. studios, and finished a long shot on the picture, but now they expect to finish here on Wednesday, and leave for the South on Thursday. The preliminary plans have been changed a bit, so the company will go from here to Los Angeles, and after a stay there of only one day, on to Keeler, where a short sequence will be shot. Then from there, equipped for the great heat, they will go into Death Valley to film the final scenes of the picture. After that is finished Gibson Gowland as "McTeague" can shave his beard, and the company will leave for Colfax, to make the early part of the story, and the scenes of his boyhood as a miner in the Great Dipper Gold Mine. Zasu Pitts has just about finished her part in the picture, and expects to leave in the near future for New York, where she is engaged for a picture soon to be filmed by the Famous-Players.

Hal Reed, well known publicity man, and former press agent of the First National Productions, has been appointed Director of Publicity for "If Winter Comes," the latest picture of the Fox Film Corporation. He is also handling all the San Francisco publicity for Warner Brothers.

Cecil DeMille and the company making the "Ten Commandments" did four very strenuous days of work in San Francisco last week. They were working in Warner Bros. studios, and finished a long shot on the picture, but now they expect to finish here on Wednesday, and leave for the South on Thursday. The preliminary plans have been changed a bit, so the company will go from here to Los Angeles, and after a stay there of only one day, on to Keeler, where a short sequence will be shot. Then from there, equipped for the great heat, they will go into Death Valley to film the final scenes of the picture. After that is finished Gibson Gowland as "McTeague" can shave his beard, and the company will leave for Colfax, to make the early part of the story, and the scenes of his boyhood as a miner in the Great Dipper Gold Mine. Zasu Pitts has just about finished her part in the picture, and expects to leave in the near future for New York, where she is engaged for a picture soon to be filmed by the Famous-Players.

Hal Reed, well known publicity man, and former press agent of the First National Productions, has been appointed Director of Publicity for "If Winter Comes," the latest picture of the Fox Film Corporation. He is also handling all the San Francisco publicity for Warner Brothers.

Cecil DeMille and the company making the "Ten Commandments" did four very strenuous days of work in San Francisco last week. They were working in Warner Bros. studios, and finished a long shot on the picture, but now they expect to finish here on Wednesday, and leave for the South on Thursday. The preliminary plans have been changed a bit, so the company will go from here to Los Angeles, and after a stay there of only one day, on to Keeler, where a short sequence will be shot. Then from there, equipped for the great heat, they will go into Death Valley to film the final scenes of the picture. After that is finished Gibson Gowland as "McTeague" can shave his beard, and the company will leave for Colfax, to make the early part of the story, and the scenes of his boyhood as a miner in the Great Dipper Gold Mine. Zasu Pitts has just about finished her part in the picture, and expects to leave in the near future for New York, where she is engaged for a picture soon to be filmed by the Famous-Players.

Hal Reed, well known publicity man, and former press agent of the First National Productions, has been appointed Director of Publicity for "If Winter Comes," the latest picture of the Fox Film Corporation. He is also handling all the San Francisco publicity for Warner Brothers.

Cecil DeMille and the company making the "Ten Commandments" did four very strenuous days of work in San Francisco last week. They were working in Warner Bros. studios, and finished a long shot on the picture, but now they expect to finish here on Wednesday, and leave for the South on Thursday. The preliminary plans have been changed a bit, so the company will go from here to Los Angeles, and after a stay there of only one day, on to Keeler, where a short sequence will be shot. Then from there, equipped for the great heat, they will go into Death Valley to film the final scenes of the picture. After that is finished Gibson Gowland as "McTeague" can shave his beard, and the company will leave for Colfax, to make the early part of the story, and the scenes of his boyhood as a miner in the Great Dipper Gold Mine. Zasu Pitts has just about finished her part in the picture, and expects to leave in the near future for New York, where she is engaged for a picture soon to be filmed by the Famous-Players.

Hal Reed, well known publicity man, and former press agent of the First National Productions, has been appointed Director of Publicity for "If Winter Comes," the latest picture of the Fox Film Corporation. He is also handling all the San Francisco publicity for Warner Brothers.

Cecil DeMille and the company making the "Ten Commandments" did four very strenuous days of work in San Francisco last week. They were working in Warner Bros. studios, and finished a long shot on the picture, but now they expect to finish here on Wednesday, and leave for the South on Thursday. The preliminary plans have been changed a bit, so the company will go from here to Los Angeles, and after a stay there of only one day, on to Keeler, where a short sequence will be shot. Then from there, equipped for the great heat, they will go into Death Valley to film the final scenes of the picture. After that is finished Gibson Gowland as "McTeague" can shave his beard, and the company will leave for Colfax, to make the early part of the story, and the scenes of his boyhood as a miner in the Great Dipper Gold Mine. Zasu Pitts has just about finished her part in the picture, and expects to leave in the near future for New York, where she is engaged for a picture soon to be filmed by the Famous-Players.

Hal Reed, well known publicity man, and former press agent of the First National Productions, has been appointed Director of Publicity for "If Winter Comes," the latest picture of the Fox Film Corporation. He is also handling all the San Francisco publicity for Warner Brothers.

Cecil DeMille and the company making the "Ten Commandments" did four very strenuous days of work in San Francisco last week. They were working in Warner Bros. studios, and finished a long shot on the picture, but now they expect to finish here on Wednesday, and leave for the South on Thursday. The preliminary plans have been changed a bit, so the company will go from here to Los Angeles, and after a stay there of only one day, on to Keeler, where a short sequence will be shot. Then from there, equipped for the great heat, they will go into Death Valley to film the final scenes of the picture. After that is finished Gibson Gowland as "McTeague" can shave his beard, and the company will leave for Colfax, to make the early part of the story, and the scenes of his boyhood as a miner in the Great Dipper Gold Mine. Zasu Pitts has just about finished her part in the picture, and expects to leave in the near future for New York, where she is engaged for a picture soon to be filmed by the Famous-Players.

Hal Reed, well known publicity man, and former press agent of the First National Productions, has been appointed Director of Publicity for "If Winter Comes," the latest picture of the Fox Film Corporation. He is also handling all the San Francisco publicity for Warner Brothers.

Cecil DeMille and the company making the "Ten Commandments" did four very strenuous days of work in San Francisco last week. They were working in Warner Bros. studios, and finished a long shot on the picture, but now they expect to finish here on Wednesday, and leave for the South on Thursday. The preliminary plans have been changed a bit, so the company will go from here to Los Angeles, and after a stay there of only one day, on to Keeler, where a short sequence will be shot. Then from there, equipped for the great heat, they will go into Death Valley to film the final scenes of the picture. After that is finished Gibson Gowland as "McTeague" can shave his beard, and the company will leave for Colfax, to make the early part of the story, and the scenes of his boyhood as a miner in the Great Dipper Gold Mine. Zasu Pitts has just about finished her part in the picture, and expects to leave in the near future for New York, where she is engaged for a picture soon to be filmed by the Famous-Players.
Details of the making of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," Universal super-jewel spectacle starring Lon Chaney, and employing a cast of thousands, are to be the topic of a lecture before the Photographic Institute of Arts and Sciences of New York.

Miss Marjorie Weirich, instructor lecturer and former science department of the Erasmus High School of Brooklyn, passed an entire day at Universal City going over the details of the making of the picture and inspecting its settings, in preparation of her lecture.

"I compared every detail of the Universal replica of the Cathedral of Notre Dame with the cathedral itself, which I visited not six months ago," said Miss Weirich. "And the fidelity with which the artists reproduced it for the picture astounded me."

"I was particularly interested in the historic statuary and the fidelity to types in costumes and in depicting the customs of the day. Aside from its value as a picture spectacle and an entertainment, I really believe that it is the biggest thing the motion picture has given to the world of culture, and a striking demonstration of what the pictures can do toward education. The picture is one that will be of value to the whole world for centuries."

Los Angeles newspaper folk were extended the unique honor of being the first persons in the world to see the completed film of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," when, on the eve of its departure for New York, where the final part of the tour was held, the management of Universal City held a luncheon and preview for the writers and several film experts visiting the studio.

"I've seen Catalina, Mount Lowe, Yosemite and other things—but this is the biggest kick I've had in California."

This is the comment of Edwin Marcus, internationally famous cartoonist, following his visit to Universal City, where, as the guest of James M. Sheehy, manager of the New York Times and now the "pre-critic" at Universal City, he visited the big sets and saw the making of "The Acquitall," "Beasts of Paradise" and other photoplays.

Marcus, whose political cartoons on the New York Times are known throughout the world, was specially interested in the mammoth settings of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." He had recently been in Paris and had visited the Cathedral, and proclaimed the replica at Universal City a remarkable duplicate of the celebrated structure.

"The biggest thing that impressed me," he said, "is that I knew they used big settings, but I imagined they were just scenery—I had no idea of the structural detail; of the solidity of the buildings and the remarkable attention to detail that makes the marking of pictures. I think without a doubt my visit to Universal City is the most interesting thing I have experienced on my California trip."

The famous "loud speakers" which were first developed for practical outdoor use on the gigantic set of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," have been adopted by the Universal Pictures corporation for use when President Harding speaks at the Motion Picture exposers.

Scientific experts were interested all over the country by the remarkable results achieved in the construction of the "loud speakers," thru which lights directed the filming of the mob scenes in which an army of people took part. The voice of the director could be heard over a half mile, clearly and distinctly. The electrical engineer used it and the assistant directors.

Since the Coliseum at the Exposition grounds seats 70,000 people, it is problematical if a human voice could be heard at one time by the entire gathering, Julius Bernheim, general manager, and William Koong, business manager, offered the services of the electrical department in installing its voice magnifying apparatus.

Work will start Monday at Universal City on "The Texas Ranger," screen adaptation of the novel by William McLeod Raine, noted writer of Western tales, and starring Roy Stewart and a picked east. Nat Rose, who directed "The Six-Fifty" in its screen form, and has made several other Universal pictures, will direct the new offering.

The story deals with the work of the famous Texas state police, and tells the conflict between two rangers sent to bring to prison from another state a woman accused of a crime. Both love her; one seeks to aid her to escape, and the other, holding his duty higher than his love, seeks to bring her to justice.

Spectacular episodes cram the last section of the drama, and some scenic locations of special interest have been arranged for by Jack Lawson, location director, for the outdoor parts.

Isadore Bernstein wrote the screen adaptation of the novel, and the interior settings are designed by Rosemary Forsyth.

One by one the actors of the legitimate stage have succumbed to the call of the celluloid—but Koenig, the scenic decorator, is staying at vaudeville, too. William Gould, one of the best known figures in present day vaudeville, is the latest screen villain. Gould has started work on his part as the villainous sea captain in "Beasts of Paradise," new Universal chapter play starring William Desmond and Eileen Sedgwick.

The story, opening as a sea adventure and carrying its characters through the perils of a jungle in a search for a fortune seized by a submariner, is one of the most pretentious plays of its kind in years.

Gould, latest screen villain, is known as the sailor in the New Chief of Police," a nationally-known vaudeville sketch which played "big time" all over America for several seasons. He has been on the speaking stage for the past seven years, starting in an Eastern stock company, thence entering vaudeville.

Some time ago he entered pictures, playing character roles, such as those in "The Age," but William Craft, director of "Beasts of Paradise," discovered him in what he believes is the premier villain of future photoplays. Gould was a personal friend of the late Morgan Robertson, noted author.

"But the offer of this exciting and important part of the speaking stage does not," says Gould. "But I believe the vaudeville stage is an invaluable training for the celluloid. You learn in vaudeville condensation which is an important thing in registering the maximum of impression with the minimum of footage." Gould assisted in the production of several pictures prior to acting in them.

"Hold the pose!"

The instruction issued from the electrical amplifier overhanging the massive setting of the courtroom in "The Acquitall" at Universal City, during the emotional climax of the big trial scene stopped, hesitated and looked confused. For the voice of Clarence Brown, director, as it issued from the loud-speaking device, echoed and oldfashioned until its meaning was lost.

"Call a fresh shot!" bellowed the director. "We can't reach 'em all by megaphone, and in these interiors a magnavox echoes awfully. I don't know just what to do."

"Maybe I can help," volunteered a shortish, different man, who was looking at the scene with a publicity-man. Brown smiled, "If you can make 'em all hear when I want them to hold their pose, you'll be a wonder!" he said.

The visitor grinned, and nonchalantly opened his mouth.

"Hold the pose!" bumbled forth in a deep bass that shook the set like a low organ-pipe. Further directions were issued and relayed by the owner of the megaphone pipes, until the scene was completed.

"Great! Those are some pipes!" marveled the director, in thanking the actor. "What kind of a man are you, anyhow?"

The visitor smiled and extended his card. "I'm Robert Finogen, dramatic bass," it read. The opera singer, possessed of one of the most remarkable bass voices in the world, had come to Los Angeles to design his future Picture Exposition, and paid a visit to the studio during his engagement. "The Acquitall," which has been his last direct, is a spectacle based on Rita Weinman's famous stage play.
The Allurement of Athletics

Mickey McBan, who is now at work on his fourth picture, is also training for the swimming exhibition to be held in Los Angeles very soon. His father has built a small gymnasium in the McBan home in Laurel Canyon and here the budding starlet spends most of his time these days when he’s not at the studio or in the swimming pool. He in learning to box, wrestle, fence, swim the bar and perform aero-graphics, and it’s a certainty if he’s called upon for any athletic stunts during the aquatic show, he’ll be ready. He is playing one of the principal roles in “Born of the Cyclone,” the Gypsy story Enile Chautard is filming at the R-C Studios, and as the contract was signed during the last of Mickey’s sevices in Henry Otto’s “The Temple of Venus” at the Fox Studios, these were rushed to completion with all possible speed to enable him to join Chautard promptly. This is the fourth time the youngster has been under Chautard’s direction, and further evidence of his growing popularity is reflected in the fact negotiations are well under way for another production to follow this one. Young Mr. McBan is keeping up the pace even during what is generally considered the slack cinema season, and statements relative to his future come in never-ending procession.

CHARACTER MEN

Getting right down to “brass-tacks,” it would indeed be difficult to select a more capable, a more conscientious and successfully seasoned character actor than Bert Sprotte, who is now enjoying a few days of recreation before again getting into the eternal grind of portraying any one of a possible thousand roles for which he is admirably fitted.

The character artist is at a disadvantage, to a certain extent, with the motion picture audience unless they be the real dyed-in-the-wool fan who carefully studies the casts and associates the various character portrayals with the well-known name of the actor, otherwise, simply the “character” gets the applause and approval and not the individual.

Bert Sprotte first associated himself with the motion picture industry in 1915 at which time he was cast in a prominent role in “Mother O’Mine” at the Universal, directed by Rupert Julian, and since that period he has worked quite continuously in possibly more than a hundred productions, prominent among the more recent ones are: “The Fighting Striker” and “For Big Stakes,” William Fox productions; “The Soul of a Beast,” a Thomas Ince; “Conquering the Woman,” a King Vidor; “The ima,” a Chester Bennett; “The Purple Dawn,” a Charles Seiding; two Universals, “Trimmed in Scarlet” and “The Prisoner,” and the R-C pictures, “The Alkalies.”

Critics, however, who have carefully followed Bert Sprotte’s very spectacular career, are quite in accord with the fact that even tales of men and heroism of versatility lends itself to practically any type of a character, his portrayals of Western roles back in 1916 to 1920 with the William S. Hart productions stands out ahead, if possible, of all others and that his characterization of Eliphlet Moss in “White Oak” and that of the Sheriff in “O’Malley of the Mounted,” working opposite “Bill” Hart, were among the best of his extensive repertoire.

COMEDY CAMERAMEN

The work of a cameraman in a comedy studio is indeed strenuous, for about fifty percent of the work is “trick stuff,” as it is called. The Grand Studio has three experts—Jerry Ash, Kenneth MacLean and William Williams. Everyone of them possesses an instinct for comedy photography, else they would not be in the business—that part of it, at least.

Animals afford some of the hardest work. In Joe Rock’s new picture, “It’s a Bear” directed by Reggie Morris, the efforts to get even a well trained animal to work just right were productive of much strenuous and persistent application. Then there was a scene wherein a dog had to jump into a picture frame and lie himself into a cut out of a dog beside the hunter. It was amazing that the result was obtained at all, but they got it and Jerry Ash, as the camera, had to grind and grind with infinite patience.

A trained goose in Mounty Banks’ picture, “Home Cooking,” was also a source of “in-scent meritment,” but also of hard and patient striving on the part of all concerned, Herman Raymak director.

Sid Smith has a lot of animals in his picture, “The Midnight Watch,” directed by Charles Lamont. But they were all stuffed, “That’s the kind I love to work with,” sighed MacLean, the lens expert.

The cutting room can do wonders with the film, but after all, there must be a scene to cut—and there is where the cameraman must be on the job!

Several trained lions in a recent Sid Smith comedy for Grand-Asher caused much excitement, but the results are ‘amazingly’ good, it is said. Yes, the cameraman in a comedy studio has his work cut out for him!

HERE IS INFORMATION ON CAREER OF THE SECRETFIVE HOUSE PETERS

Born in Bristol, England, educated all over the world, featured on the stage in New York, Hong Kong, Peking, Johannesburg, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Melbourne, Sydney and Mexico City, and now starring in motion pictures in Hollywood—such is a brief resume of the colorful history of House Peters, headmember of the all-star cast of Metro’s production of “Held to Answer.” Few screen players have had so varied a career as this pugular frencce-star and few have made known so little of their personal life.

On the stage, House Peters has done everything from “East Lynne” to “The Square Man” and had the leading role in the original productions of “Everywoman” and “Bought and Paid For.” While he has never appeared on the stage west of Chicago he has never made a motion picture in the East. His entry into pictures was made opposite Mary Pickford in “The Bishop’s Carriage,” and his more recent successes have been in “The Storm,” “Human Hearts,” “Lost and Found” and “Don’t Marry For Money.”

Six feet one and one-half inches tall and weighing 190 pounds, Mr. Peters recently learned from his tailor that his measurements were identical with those of Jack Dempsey.

A splendid actor and a loc-nim, Mr. Peters admits to having recently celebrated the ninth anniversary of his wedding. Two of “the most wonderful children in the world” assisted in making the celebration an unusually joyful one.
Miss Novak Honored in Africa

Jane Novak has just had a theatre named in her honor in Capetown, South Africa.

SIR Richard Edmonston, President of the British-Africa Theatre Syndicate, contributed this big chain of motion picture theatres in British South Africa, has completed the building of a big playhouse seating two thousand persons in the South African metropolis, and dedicated it to Miss Novak. He cabled the Chester Bennett star, wanting her to be the guest of honor at the dedication ceremonies. Miss Novak has confirmed his activities to christen The Jane Novak Picture Palace, but she was too busy filming her latest starring vehicle, "Living in Haste," to make the trip of several weeks off to go to Africa.

SIR Richard Edmonston wrote that he planned to dedicate this theatrical syndicate decided to dedicate the new theatre to a film star, they were almost a half in naming Miss Novak, because she represented their ideal of womanhood.

Eastern Genius Joins Schenck Forces

David G. Fischer, actor-producer-director, who for the past several years has confided his activities to Eastern studios, has been signed by Joseph M. Schenck Productions. Fischer will start his activities with the Schenck organization by assisting Frances Marion and Chester Franklin, and direct "Night and Day," Talmadge's next picture, "Dust of Desire," which is due to be started within a week at the United Studios, Hollywood.

Fischer is one of the pioneers in picture making, having served with the now defunct Essanay and American companies. His work picture was not continuous, as on a number of occasions he turned to stage acting and producing. He wrote and produced for the stage, "Behind Old Lace," which Lloyd Inwarhale recently transferred to the screen.

Mary Carr has arrived from New York, having signed to appear in two special features.

Hamilton Secures Role Jolson Quits

Lloyd Hamilton, the motion picture comedian, has left Los Angeles for New York, where he will immediately begin production at the D. W. Griffith Studios in Manasooek, of his first reel comedy. The story in which he will appear, is to be called "Black and White," and is the same production in which Al Jolson was rehearsing when he fell with notice to Europe.

Jack Noble will direct Hamilton, and the latter is bringing with him a personal staff, including Lloyd Bacon, son of the late Hugh Fay. Bacon and Fay have been associated with the comedian in several of his recent productions.

Arrangements by Hamilton's appearance were made through the courtesy of E. W. Hammont, president of the Educational Film Corporation, who has Hamilton under a long term production contract. Hamilton's short comedies have been released through the Educational company.

Several of the original cast selected to appear with Al Jolson will be included in the cast with Hamilton.

Production work is expected to begin next week.

IT SURE LOOKS LIKE AN INDEPENDENT YEAR

This is an "Independents' Year," says Harry Colin, by which the general manager of the C. B. C. studios means that the big production companies will have considerable opposition this year.

Activity is reigning supreme at the C. B. C., and Gower. Edward J. Le Saint has just completed "Yesterday's Wife" with Eileen Percy, Irene Rich, Josephine Crowell, Philo McCullough, Lewis Dayton, Lottie Williams and William Scott. The negative was shipped to New York this week.

Director Howard Mitchell is just completing "Forgive, and Forget" with Pauline Garon, Wyndham Standing, Philo McCullough, Joseph Swickard, Lewis Belmore, Estelle Taylor, William Scott and Vernon Steel.

Le Saint is making ready to start work on "The Marriage Market," a big sex drama by Evelyn Campbell, which appeared in a well-known magazine under the title "Garon" is this product a "Garon" feature, with a sensationalistic and "Garon" being an important theatre in this field. A spectacular and feature, with a sensationalistic and...
Doug’s New Game Plays Havoc With Noses

Rasad Walsh, well-known director of the megaplex on Douglas Fairbanks’ latest costume-romance, “The Younger Girl,” carried today carrying his distinguished prob- lom in a sling and at the same time a three-month-old railroad roam- ing picture. This week at the United Studios where Constance Talmadge is appearing in her new film, “Barbary,” a Joseph M. Schenck at- traction, Cameraman MacWilliams is filming Constance in the picture, rapped on her dressing room door. “Do you remem- ber this?” he asked Con- stance, looking at her a much bade- sted “still.” Constance looked long at the picture which is called “I’m going to quote word for just what you wrote on it. You were the first to predict that I would some day become a star and it was to make your prophecy come true for both of us that I asked Mr. Schenec to let you be my cameraman.”

SCENTS WEALTH, IT’S LESS THAN A CENT

“Bull!” Montana may hail from Voghera, Italy, but he is now rich to the extent of 2,600 German marks.

When wealth bowed in upon him recently via his far mail Hamburg, Germany, which and accompanied a letter from a French con- ceded request that the Metro con- median send the writer an autographed picture of Miss Montana. The enclosed money was to cover the cost of the picture.

Fanatic for many years excited over this great generosity of his unknown admirer until he began figuring the value of 2,600 marks in American money.

According to the rate of ex- change, at the time, his anticip- ated wealth amounted to the miniscule sum of three-fourths of a cent.

Trimble Adds Scene.

After spending two weeks in the cutting room editing the next Strongheart starring vehicle “The Love Master,” Director Laurence Trimble has decided to make some- added scenes which will be added to the film he is taking at the Thomas H. Ince studios. Those who have seen the first scene of the new picture de- clare Trimble has not misstepped, thrills never before equaled on the screen. One of the punches of this film will be a scene between twelve teams of hockey players at Lake Louise, Canada.

WHEN CONNIE WAS A SCHOOL-CHILD

Here’s a true one:

Eight years ago a school girl of fourteen came to the old Vigna- graph studio out in Flatbush, Brooklyn. Her name was Con- stance Talmadge. J. Stuart Blackton, ever on the lookout for budding talent, gave the young school girl a small part in a picture.

Glen MacWilliams was the cameraman on the production. This week in old Talmadge wa- cested in the camera than anything else in the studio, and a friend- ship was born up between Mac- Williams and the Erasmus Hall student.

MacWilliams explained all the details of picture making to Miss Talmadge, when she went back to school, gave her the pic- ture. MacWilliams wrote on the back of it:

“Some day you will be a star, Miss Talmadge, and when that time comes, I hope that I will be your cameraman.”

OUTDOORS IS FAVORRED “SET”

The greatest set ever built, the most stupendous and the most enduring, is being used by Jack Pickford in his present production, “Valley of the Wolf,” which is now in the making.

The set is the greatest out-of-doors. More than two-thirds of Jack’s picture will be made on location— in the mountains, val- leys, and other natural sets.

The initial scenes of the pic- ture have been taken. The principal interior sets have been photographed at the Pickford- Fairbanks studios.

The Jack Pickford company is now ready to use the bingest of all sets—the out-of-door country. In this set there is no artifici- ality. Bravisom is the theme.

When “Valley of the Wolf,” which is being directed by George Siegel, is shown on the screen, wilderness will be brought to the screen to give the earthy old men, ten years ago toured the Orpheum circuit in a special dancing act.

Although an expert dancer, she has seldom been called upon to demonstrate her terpsichorean ability before the camera. Her experience is that of the most pop- ular interpretive dancers in Paris and it is perhaps from her that Miss LaJuunesse inherits her own classical education.

Among a number of notable success in which she has played important Char-acters is “Robin Hood,” “The Four Horsemen,” “If You Believe It’s So” and others.

New “Find” Has Had Extraordinary Experience

Joan Lowell, one of the latest screen “finds” of the year, was taken aboard her father’s ship at the age of three months in a des- tination to stem the tide of death which medical men fore- casted. Suffering from malnutri- tion, the little infant was nursed by her sea-captain father on the usual ship rations.

Today, at the age of seventeen, she is considered a sturdy example of American girlhood and is taking a part in receiving the highest of screen honors for her work in the Associated Authors production of “Loving Lies.”

In the hit comedy, “Hospitality,” Miss Williams, understudy of Peter B. Kyme’s story, “The Harbor Bar.”

He’d Never Be Safe in L. A. Traffic

Ninety-two years between trainings.

Thomas Finch, 104 years old, who came to California during the days of the gold rush, is a from- railroad train at Trucee, California, this week, where Bus- ters Wood, author of his latest comedy, “Hospitality,” Finch saw his first railroad train in 1831.

The aged miner left Kentucky in 1859 and has lived in the mountains near Trucee for more than sixty years. Four years ago he saw his first automobile, a flivver, and marvelled much at its ingeni- ous mechanism.

This week Buster showed him his “Roocket” engine of the type used on American railroads about 1870, which comprise water and baggage tenders and six-passenger coaches.

Finch was amazed at the power the engine and coaches. “So that’s the latest railroad machinery,” he mused. “Well, it do beat all what wonderful improvements in nature is making. Things ain’t changed much since I was a boy, haven’t got nothin’ over the old train.”

Finch much enjoyed his ride on Boston Brown’s new train which our great-grand fathers used to ride on.

“I ain’t afraid of nothin’ on this here train,” said Finch, “but there they things they call flivvers sure do beat all locomotion, don’t they?”

Meighan in Third Ade Film

Thomas Meighan returned to Paramount’s West Coast studio after a month’s vacation to be- gin work at once on George Ade’s original screen story, “Woman- Proof,” which has been an- nounced previously under the title, “All Must Marry.” Mrs. Meighan, his wife, and their three children and they expect to make their home in California for some time.

Lila Lee, who will also play the lead- ing female role in “Woman- Proof,” also arrived from New York. Alfred E. Green will di- rect this Paramount picture and Thomas Geraghty scenarized Ade’s original story, Meighan, who arrived in California several days in advance of Meighan, has been busy in daily conference on this, the third original Ade story to serve as a starring vehicle for Meighan.

Pioneer Trouper Passes Away Here

Charles Ray Smart, profession- ally known as Charlie Ray Ar- cher, late technical director for the John P. McCarthy Produc- tions, died Monday morning, Aug. 21st, at his residence, Bunker Hill street, Los Angeles. Mr. Archer was born in Lon- don, England, with William and Dean Smart, known in his day as one of the greatest artists in all Europe. When a young man, Mr. Archer came to this country, first settling in Denver, Colo., afterwards traveling throughout the country with one of the first minstrel troupes ever organized.

Of a wonderful personality, combined with a musical talent that was rare and extraordinary, he soon became a favorite in the amusement marts of every city he sought after by the most promi- nent theatrical managers of his time. In the course of his trav- els, Mr. Archer made many trips across the plains; saw the Colo-rado mountains, and busied himself in a small mining camp of a few log shanties and tents to a magnifi- cent city. The greater part of his life after he saw the West was spent on the frontier. For some years he lived in Dead- wood, South Dakota, where he was intimately acquainted with "Wild" Bill Hickock, then Mar-shall of Deadwood, and was an eye-witness to the assassination of this famous character.

Mr. Archer was a gentleman and a genial-hearted fellow. He was always sociable and ever ready to lend a helping hand whenever the occasion arose. In later life, he found much comfort and solace in his writings, becom- ing known as a poet and an art- poet. His productions had great merit and were widely exploited in the leading magazines throughout the country.

Looking back far into the year of his death, he felt no pangs of regret, having never wronged anyone, leaving a name that will live in his memory, and all his life's dealings with man-kind.

Real Mother and Son Play Together in Reel Play

Mother and son in the same picture! Grace Parker and Jack Parker, who are members of the cast of "Flaming Youth," a First Na- tional picture, in which Colleen Moore plays and choreographs, are more often taken for father and son than for mother and son. Miss Parker's youthful appear- ance is so natural that it would not be out of place in Jack's first picture. He has just come out to the coast, from school in Phil-adelphia, where he has been on a screen favorite for several years.

CHARLES CHRISTIE TO EUROPE

Charles H. Christie, general manager of the Christie Film Corporation, left Los Angeles this week for his second trip to London and Paris. Mr. Chris- tie's journey comes right on the heels of his brother's vacation in the Orient, but his three-week tour will be more in the nature of business visits to the firms which are handling the well-known Mr. Christie product abroad.

Charles Christie has not vis- ited these foreign offices for a period of two years, and during his present tour of about eight weeks, will be in consulta- tion with John H. Taylor, managing director of Christie Film Sales, Ltd., of London, the office which distributes the comedies throughout the continent. He will also hold conferences with Messrs. Bronhead, owners of Goldman Bros., London, which is now entering the eighth years as exclusive distributors of Christie Comedies in the British Isles.

"London is the largest distri- buting point for films for world markets," said Mr. Christie, "in the United States, it is known as the small mining camp of a few log shanties and tents to a magnifi- cent city. The greater part of his life after he saw the West was spent on the frontier. For some years he lived in Dead- wood, South Dakota, where he was intimately acquainted with "Wild" Bill Hickock, then Mar-shall of Deadwood, and was an eye-witness to the assassination of this famous character.

Mr. Archer was a gentleman and a genial-hearted fellow. He was always sociable and ever ready to lend a helping hand whenever the occasion arose. In later life, he found much comfort and solace in his writings, becom- ing known as a poet and an art- poet. His productions had great merit and were widely exploited in the leading magazines throughout the country.

Looking back far into the year of his death, he felt no pangs of regret, having never wronged anyone, leaving a name that will live in his memory, and all his life's dealings with man-kind.

BARKER ADDS THREE MORE STARS TO CAST

Three more notable stars have been added to the cast of "Pleasure Mad" which Reginald Barker is now filming at the Louis B. Mayer Studio for Metro release. They are: William Collier, Jr., son of the famous stage star, Norma Shearer, famous Montreal beauty who has just completed an important role in "The Wanters," and Joan Stand- ing, the youngest of the celebrated Standing family that contributed seven leading lights to the thespian hall of fame. Hunt- ington Clutterbuck and Mary Astor have previously been selected for the main characters in the story. "Pleasure Mad" was adapted by A. P. Younger, from the popu- lar novel by Blanche Upright. Work on the picture is going along rapidly at the studio where the company is busily engaged on interior scenes.

LLOYD HUGHES STARTS FILMING "BORN OF A CYCLONE"

Lloyd Hughes, following his appearance with Colleen Moore in "The Huntress," started his characterization in "Born of a Cyclone," under the direction of Emile Chautard at the Robertson-Cole studio this week.

In the picturization of M. Mar- ion Burton's play, Mr. Hughes plays the part of Francois, philo- sophical student of the parish who has been chosen by his love for a gypsy maid who comes to his quiet little Louisiana village in the midst of a cyclone. This marks Mr. Hughes' first appearance before the camera since his introduction of "Ponjola," the actor's work in "The Huntress" is said to be one of the outstanding histrionic achieve- ments of the year by persons in the know around the United Studios.

Kirkwood With Vidor

James Kirkwood, noted stage and screen actor, will play the leading role in Joseph Herge- shemeier's "Wild Oranges," which is now in the hands of Goldwyn studios. It will be the first Goldwyn picture in which Kirkwood has been cast since he signed a long-term contract with the company. Kirkwood is the second player chosen for parts in this production. Following the casting of Vidor, noted film comedian, who recently has turned to dramatic work as the first player selected by Vidor. The entire cast includes only five players. The structure of the film is based on the code of Georgia, the exact spot where Hergesheimer laid his novel.

Mary's New Film Opens in New York

The first showing of Mary Pickford's new picture, "Rosita," will be at the Lyric Theatre in New York, where it will open September third for an indefinite run.

This announcement was made this week by Miss Pickford, who is now working at the studio on the titling and final cutting of the film. Extensive preparations are being made for the Metropoli- tan premiere of "Rosita." The pres- entation will be in charge of Ed- ward Manson, special representa- tive of the United Artists Corpo- ration, who left the studio recent- ly for New York with a brief case full of special orders from Little Germany.

Following the run of "Rosita," the new Charlie Chaplin play, said to be the most sensational celluloid event ever cut by the Comedy Knig, will enter the Lyric for its introduction to the New York audience. Very few things make the film unique is that Chaplin does not appear in it. Instead, he is the author and director of the piece, and Edna Purviance is the star. After many changes, the piece has finally been fixed as "A Woman of Paris." This represents Char- lie's first offering for United Artists.

In all probability this feature, as well as Mary's new film, will be presented in the key cities as a road show attraction. Miss Pickford is launching the most stupendous exploitation campaign that she has ever undertaken in connection with this picture.

Their Honeymoon Will Be Much Deferred

James Kirkwood and Lila Lee are on their honeymoon—but not together.

Four hundred miles separate them. Jim is in Los Angeles playing the principal role in Sam Goldwyn's First National picture, "Ponjola." His bride is spending her lonely honeymoon doing her own makeup in "Woman Prood," in San Francisco.

Beginning next week and continue- ing for quite a spell a whole continent is going to divide the honesmoomers, for Kirkwood's picture is the completion of "Ponjola," to ap- pear in a picture to be made in that state.

But when that picture is fin- ished there is going to have a real honeymoon, with sea trip and everything, the newlyweds declare.

James and Lila were married in Los Angeles, Wednesday, July 14th. It is Kirkwood's second trip on the sea of matrimony. His first venture with Gertrude Hoffman ended in divorce at Reno, six days before he and Lila were married.

They will spend James' 28th birthday. It is her first trip to the altar.
From All Walks They Walk

Interesting, possibly above all other facts relating to the cinema industry, are the happenings attaching to the manner by which the various actors, from those simply enacting "attendants" to the stars, have entered the ranks of stardom; which, though a felicitous method of earning their living, has been found an exacting task. Among the many outstanding examples of this latter circumstance can easily be found in Kenaugh Gibson, who recently finished his role as "Captain Harrington," a juvenile lead with Constance Talmadge in "The Dangerous Maid," a First National release being made at the United Studios by the Joseph M. Schenck Productions, under the direction of Vic Heerman. Mr. Gibson was educated in France, at Sorbonne, the University of Paris and the Alliance Francaise. Returning from Paris, he accepted a temporary political position in the French foreign office, but was called to San Francisco in 1920, expecting to shortly return to Washington. However, he tendered his diplomatic service for which he had been educated. On the way back, however, he stopped off in London to refresh his memory and to recuperate after being gassed while at Chateau Thierry. He has now returned, having been discharged from the service after six weeks after eight years old, and it is interesting to note in this connection that four of his great grandfathers were in the army of the Revolution and that he has had ancestors in every American war that has been fought, thus truly comes of fighting stock.

Simply as a means for temporary support while on his visit to London, he tried to break into the motion picture game and succeeded in getting cast in the "atmosphere" of a current production. He found the work so much to his liking that he stuck to it in San Francisco but in his last film, "The Magic Wanderer," "Broad Daylight," "Dame," and "Young Men and Women," he secured a leading role at the Fox Studio playing opposite Miss Elvira Fay, and in quite rapid succession of importance played his roles in "The Masquerader," "Broad Daylight," "Dangerous Day," and others.

Kenneth Gibson is now looked upon by producers and directors alike as being one of the younger men with a brilliant future in the realm of the silent drama.

STALLINGS JOINS MAYER

Charles P. Stallings, former Production Manager for Universal on over fifty productions, has joined the Louis B. Mayer forces, where he will have charge of production for units under the Mayer banner. Stallings has just completed the management of the "Hunchback of Notre Dame," for Universal, which speaks for itself as this picture, taking over five months to film and having bigger crowds and sets than any picture heretofore filmed anywhere, has presented production difficulties greater than any recent picture in this country. Stallings has been through every stage of production for the last twelve years and has filled nearly every capacity in the studio from property boy to directing, and has shot second camera as well, but is one man in the business who has no desire to direct which probably accounts for his success in the production and technical end of the game. Irving Thalberg, General Manager of the Mayer organization, under whose directing Stallings handled so many successful productions at Universal, is responsible for bringing Stallings into the Mayer organization.

DULCIE COOPER PRAISED

In his criticism on the initial release of Marjorie Main's latest stage play, "The Valley of Content," which opened at the Capitol theater, San Francisco, Monday night, Walter S. Gwyer, drama critic for the San Francisco Bulletin, extols the wonderful rise to stardom of the dramatic and emotional talents of Miss Dulcie Cooper, a local girl and the daughter of Ashley Cooper, well known character and screen actor. "The Valley of Content," in which Miss cooper essays one of the leading roles, promises a great future, and in it, this rising young star is bound to achieve triumph success in her characterization of the Miss Staton Benton. "Dulcie Cooper," writes the famous critic, "is charming and emotionally a revelation in her part, possessing every dramatic requisite which forecast a brilliant future in her profession.

Miss Cooper is a protege of Clara Kimball Young.

Stanley Orr, recently business manager for the Dallas Fitzgerald-Peters, is now filling the chair of assistant business manager for the Associated First National Pictures Corp.
Viola Will Be An "Apache" For a While

Viola Dana is going to enact the role of a little Apache in her next project, "The Search of a Thrill," which Oscar Apfel will direct. In a scene in the thriller recently adapted by Basil Dickey from Kate Jordan's magazine story, "The Spirit of the Wild.

The entire action of this story takes place in Paris and Miss Dana in the role of the rugged little gangster has a part entirely different from anything she has done since she made the "Cossacks Whip" several years ago.

Warner Baxter has been signed to enact the leading male role in "In Search of a Thrill." Mr. Baxter has recently appeared in "Divorce" and "Blow Your Own Bugle." He will play the part of a struggling author who differs from a great many young struggling writers in that he finally achieves success.

"In Search of a Thrill" is Miss Dana's third picture for the coming season. The film is known as "Rouged Lips" and the second was "The Social Code." Miss Dana is looking forward with great zest upon the two months or more of apachie shooting she will have during the filming of "In Search of a Thrill." During the past year or so she has appeared in three foreign films, one in a Spanish girl, chorus girl, dancer, country girl, shop girl, maid, but this will be the first opportunity she has had to get away and do a character role.

Arthur Bernstein Rejoins Jackie Coogan's Forces

After an absence of several months, Arthur Bernstein has rejoined Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc., as production manager. Mr. Bernstein was formerly associated with the Metro Studios in Hollywood, and was associated with the Coogans during the period when they were producing pictures for Associated First National. At the dissolution of that company, Bernstein went with the Principal Pictures Corporation, where he has been installing its systems of accounting and production management.

After a two weeks' vacation, during which he will play the host to his mother, who is coming to him for a visit from New York City, Bernstein will be permanently located with Jack Coogan, senior, at Metro.

It isn't surprising that Betty Blythe isn't in any particular hurry to return to the United States, after being wined and dined by royalty. We'll have to try her again, though, because we're quite sure that such proceedings would undoubtedly turn our foolish little heads, and we feel our minds won't be entirely at ease until Betty sets foot (or is it limb) on good old U. S. A. again.
Who's Who and What's What in Filmland This Week

Richard Dix, Lasky featured player, is spending his spare moments when he is not on C. B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" in a most enjoyable manner—reaching at ease? in the dentist's chair.

George Marion, who is playing the part of Chris in "Anna Christie," Eugene O'Neill's New York stage success which is being pictured by John Griffith Wray for Thomas H. Ince, has crossed the Atlantic more times than any actor in Hollywood. Marion, a member of the original cast which recently closed in London, has made fifty trips across the Atlantic, has last been to the part in Wray's picture.

Eddie Phillips, well known juvenile, is one of the busiest young actors in Hollywood. He is working nights under the direction of Ford Sterling, who added scenes for his recent Cosmopolitan picture, "Daughter of Mother Murray," so he is working on "The Politician," playing the sympathetic lead with Wesley Barry in the George M. Cohan hit, "George Washington, Jr.," for Warner Brothers. Mal Saint Clair is directing.

Recently an Anthony J. Bruno fell afoot of the law on a charge of peddling drugs, it is said, and in the course of the story of this name to his own, J. Anthony Bruno, the popular photographer of 6412 Hollywood Boulevard, says some people seemed to think he was the man accused and he asks Camera! to impress upon the public that he has never been under arrest in his life, or any charge.

Joe Rock is completing "It's a Bear!" this week for Grand-Asher, with Reggie Morris at the helm, they start his ninth picture next week.

Joe Butterworth, who recently played the part of "Sam," in "Penrod and Sam," has been signed by Sol Lesser to portray the leading role in "Peck's Bad Boy and His Dad," a Principal Pictures production. It is planned to star the promising young actor in a series of pictures depicting the life of American childhood.

"Broken Nose" Murphy is playing the character part of a hard-boiled "boon mate" in "The Storm Daughter," Priscilla Dean's next starring vehicle, a universal, being directed by George Archainbaud.

Immediately upon the completion of the picture he is now making, "The Bungalow," Murphy is to head for New York to start rehearsing for "The Crooked Square," which will open at the Hudson Theatre in September.

Mary McLaren has returned from location, where she has been playing the lead in Murray Garm-son's "Goldwyn's Latest," a picture of which will be announced in the near future.

Buzell has just completed his second screen comedy, and will shortly start rehearsing for his next picture which opens on Broadway this fall.

Joseph Schildkraut, who is at present playing opposite Norma Talmadge, likes the west coast so much that he is building a beautiful California home, and will in all probability remain on the coast for the next two years.

Alma Rubens may head her own producing company if plans now being made are correct. Miss Rubens will shortly announce her decision.

Frances Hatton, character actress, now interpreting a part in Tod Browning's production of "The Day of Faith" at the Gold-wyn studio, is the wife of Raymond Hatton, one of the screen's best actors.

Ina Anson, who danced her way from a stage career to a long-termon contract with Goldwyn, has been in pictures six months—and has played in six pictures.

Madge Bellamy, recently starred in "Soul of the Beast," Thos. H. Ince's screen novelty featuring Oscar, the elephant, the woman, has been allowed to play the lead in "No More Women," an Associated Authors production which is being filmed at the Ince studios.

Thomas H. Ince has completed the cutting and editing of "Her Reputation," an unusual drama built around the modern day press, which will be released by First National this fall. Ince, who is famous in the industry for the fast action of his productions, claims that this is one of the fastest moving productions he has ever put out. May McAvoy is starred with Lloyd Hughes in the chief male role.

Montague Love, who is in Rome with the George Fitzmau-rice company, filming "The Eternal City," was the guest of honor at a dinner given in the home of Count Raspaei.

Marie (Lefty) Flynn has started work on "The Tempest," in which he will be featured. The entire production will be made here.

Ruth Renick has started work on her new production, "Back to Back," in which she will be starred. Miss Renick will remain here for a few years to come.

Having completed "Girl O' Mine," in which she will be featured, Alyce Mills will immediately work on "Below the Mason-Dixon Line," which will be filmed in Savannah.

Madge Carver has arrived here and was immediately engaged to play the lead in "Desires," a picture production in which she will be featured.

Lucy Fox is with Fox, playing the leading feminine role in the Fox special, "Around the Town With Gallagher & Shank." She is directed by Mr. Gallagher, "She's a peach, Mr. Shanw." R. W. Neill, the director at present in charge, is on the finishing scenes of a big special feature, and will return shortly to New York to start work on a new feature.

Norma Shearer has started work on her third special under her Mayer long-term contract. Miss Shearer will remain here for the next two years.

Evelyn Brent, who has been signed by Metro for one of the important roles in "Held to An-swer," made her screen debut in a Metro picture several years ago when she appeared as opposite Lionel Barrymore in "The Millionaire's Double." Edward C. Thomas, formerly West Coast Manager of Exhibi-tors' "Trade Review," and erstwhile publicity director for Mon-te M. Katterjohn and the Henry Lehrman Studios, has again en-tered the film industry in the role of free lance publicity writer. Thomas "enjoyed" a long vacation from his labors through the summer of an excellent trip to the West, followed by a rousing automobile accident which almost brought on a total collapse.

Tom Kennedy and Kala Pasha, well-known heavy-weight boxer and wrestler respectively, and equally well-known as featured Mack Sennett comedians, left their diversified artifices to the production of Rex Ingraham's visualization of "Seara-menouche" during some important mob scenes.

Malcolm McGregor, Metro fea-tured player, recently made a personal appearance at the Metro bungalow at the Motion Picture Exposition in Los An-geles, and is now suffering from an attack of writer's cramp as the result of being forced to au-tograph hundreds of fan thousands of photographs of himself which were given away at the time.

When the umpire called "play ball" down Mack Sennett's way, on Bob Campbell's set, Muriel MacCormac took the mound and is reported "threw a mean ball, and nothing else but.

After the game the young celebri-ties were feasted on ice cream and cake, followed by a short speech by Johnnie Lucas the feature's director.

Director Campbell promises something different in the way of announcement from "Rough and Ready" is released.

Virginia Foltz is visiting her mother, Clara Shortridge Foltz, 152 So. Normandie. Since retiring from professional life Miss Foltz, who is Mrs. J. W. Catron, has been living on their 7600acre ranch near San Fe, New Mexico. Miss Foltz is well known for her song, "Miss Sherry" and other big musical productions, beside playing leading roles in local cinema productions.

Harry Keaton is now working on a part in the film in which he is making his third two-reel comedy. Keaton is directing as well as starring in his production. The cast includes Bille Baird, a new find in the picture field, Harold Prun-dam and Lee Parker. Elmer Edwardson is behind the camera as usual.

Count up another one for Josephine Adair! Now she's over at the Fox Studios, playing in Buckingham's current comedy. She got over there right after appearing in the having sang in the revival of the "Mikado" with Ferris Hartman and Frank De Shon. She also sang "The Skew" and "Sherry" and other big musical productions, beside playing leading roles in local cinema productions.

George and Basil Bookbats are getting along fine with Fairbanks, Jr., in his first starring venture at the Lasky Studios while awaiting their camera to play Douglas Fairbanks' "The Thief of Bagdad." They recently completed interesting parts with Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks. They have evinced the greatest interest in these five years old. They are of Syrian descent.
BUSY BOYS ARE ON MAYER’S LOT

With three big pictures, representing an investment of close to a million dollars now being completed for early fall release, Louis B. Mayer is now preparing to inaugurate a schedule of production which will result in an expenditure of over three million dollars for films in this quarter. Approximately $100,000 of this amount will be spent in stage and equipment improvements.

Two of the three pictures now being finished, Fred Niblo’s “Strangers of the Night,” adapted from “Captain Applejack,” and Reginald Barker’s “The Eternal Struggle,” based on The Law. Berkeley cases, are being produced for the theatres, while John M. Stahl’s new special, “The Waif,” is in the hands of John Ford.

Reginald Barker is now shooting his next production, “The Valley of Content.” Later he will film “The Little Folks,” by Robert W. Service’s great epic of the North country, “The Trail of Ninety-Eight,” also for Metro release.

“The Name Is Woman,” adapted by Bess Meredith from the stage play of the same name, will be Fred Niblo’s next picture. Following that is scheduled to produce an original story entitled, “Man, Woman and the Devil,” written by Bess Meredith. It is a colorful and romantic story dealing with the expulsion of the Moors from Spain in 1483.

Three important vehicles are now being scenarized for production by John M. Stahl. The first will be “Why Men Leave Home,” directed by Aver Hopkins; the second, “At the Hour,” and the third, “In the Night,” and an original by Paul Bern, are being prepared for filming. Following that, John Ford will finish “Why Men Leave Home.”

SCREEN TO PRESENT NEW PLAYERS

The public’s cry for new types, new faces is being answered by motion picture directors. Actors and actresses whose names have been well known in the adtivation in the film world are now coming into their own.” It is now difficult to find a studio of any size in Hollywood that does not have a newcomer playing one or more of the leading roles in the development of its pictures. Of course it must not be understood that这些 players are in any way trained artists. The majority of them have had little or no training on stage or screen but they have failed to reach any great height in the world because they have never been given a chance to demonstrate their histrionic talents.

DIRECTOR WRITES SOME ADVICE

Every girl who aspires to be another Mary Pickford or youth who is eager to outdistance Valentino will find interest in a new and fascinating series of articles in the pages of “Science of Movement” which are being written in collaboration of Mr. and Mrs. Wray Thomas H. Ince director.

Wray is trying out his theories in the making of “Altered States,” Ince’s screen adaptation of Eugene O’Neill’s big stage success. One of the fundamental ideas is the plus quiescent state in which an actor can throw himself into a mood or emotion by going through the actual action. It accomplishes the emotion, following Spencer’s axiom that “every idea tends to discharge a motor effect.” He is rehashing every scene for the O’Neill drama at least a dozen times before the cameras get into action.

Blanche Sweet, George Marion and Mary Philbin, all working in the leading roles in the production, and are required to “walk” their scenes four or five times before they even think about the emotion they are to portray. When they have thrown themselves into the proper “moods” by going through the physical experiences, they are required, they then begin to act, naturally and spontaneously. In fact they are being frank and fresh with their rehearsals “walks” but their work is said by critics to be unpremeditated, early rushes, to be unusually fine.

The hours of time which are being spent in rehearsing have resulted in that production costs of the drama will run into a fabulous sum, in view of the high salaries being drawn by every member of the trio of leading characters. Ince has O.K’d the experiment, and declared that the success of this unusual play is due to his fine skill in emotion resulting from the drama’s remarkably tense situations, rather than upon action and color.

“Anna Christie” will be released by First National this fall.

CLUB TO CARE FOR THE "MOVIE-STRUCK" GIRL

A new club composed of artists from the Hollywood film colony is now in the process of formation under the direction of Margaret Morris, one of the newest and most promising leading women in Hollywood. The purpose of the club is to provide for the care of the hundreds of girls who come to Hollywood by a course of a year to seek work in motion pictures. Turned away from the studios because they are not suitable types, the girls are often left penniless and unable to get back to their homes out of town. Naturally, they face a most distressing situation and on more than one occasion they have been tempted to commit some unlawful act. In an interview with one of the girls until arrangements can be made to transport them back home. Many insignificant women of Hollywood have pledged their support to the venture and from every indication it will be a great success. Miss Morris is now arranging for club quarters.

KELLY JOINS CHAPLIN

Arthur Kelly, assistant business manager of First National’s own production unit at the Giant Studios, has tendered his resignation in order to become Chaplin’s personal representative. He will make his headquarters in New York, but will spend a good deal of time in France and in Paris. In his new capacity, he will represent Chaplin in connection with the United Artists. Kelly, who has been assisting John Francis Dillon in the making of “Flaming Youth,” and “The Prince of Venus,” has just completed the role of a Navy captain in “Ready.” He will have succeeded the late John Francis Gould, famous capitalist and sportsman.

UNUSUAL CAST ENGAGED FOR "FLAMING YOUTH"

"Flaming Youth," Warner Fa-brian’s delightful exposé of modern social life, is to be filmed by First National and interpreted by one of the most remarkable all-star casts assembled this year.

The role of Colleen Moore, First National’s newest star, and who has just completed the stellar role of "The Huntress," is to enact the role of Patrilla, the naive and curious flapper; Milton Sills, popular veteran of the screen, as the evasive and dashing policeman; Edward H. Griffith, as the good little man; Ben Lyon and Edith Hallor who is also popular with film fans.

"Flaming Youth" is being directed at the United studios by John Francis Dillon, and is scheduled for fall release.

YOUTHFUL PLAYER STARTS NEW PART

Due to the bigger opportunity which will be given him in enacting two parts in the elaborate Fox production, "The Temple of Venus," little Walter Wilkinson was released from his contract with United Artists, "Ready," and was signed by Edward H. Griffith, famous producer. Walter, who has been generally type-cast as the hero of the screen, enters the capital of Switzerland, where he will direct. Butcher, Jr., a brother of Joe Butcher and both of whom are the cleverest child actors on the screen.

VERNON AND CHRISTIE ARE CO-WORKING AGAIN

Bobbi Vernon was seen working on Hollywood Boulevard the other day with Al Christie directing, and one couldn’t help but admire the duo, for they worked so smoothly and quietly, that one couldn’t help but appreciate that they knew their business from every point of getting the proper results.

After three months vacation, Director Christie should have stored up a world of new ideas for he isn’t the kind of man that forgets his business, but actually is thinking and working things out no matter where you meet him.

Bobby loves to use his thinking cap when one sees him in a scene, you notice he is figuring everything down to the smallest detail, just how he can appear in a funny light, and how he can help those that work with him to get their “stuff over.”

ERNEST BUTTERTHORPE, Jr., has been signed to play principal roles in Educational Pictures. He started production on his second picture last week, and will direct. Buttersworth, Jr., is a brother of Joe Buttersworth and both of them are the cleverest child actors on the screen.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Director</th>
<th>Star</th>
<th>Cameraman</th>
<th>Asst Director</th>
<th>Scenario</th>
<th>Type</th>
<th>Progress</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS.</td>
<td>6642 Santa Monica Blvd.</td>
<td>J. Jasper, Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 1431</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Harold Lilloyd Corporation.—Wm. R. Fraser, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Irving Cummings Productions.</td>
<td>Charles Woosthenholme, Production Manager.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supreme Art Productions.</td>
<td>Chas. J. Hall</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>J. D. Partch</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>HORSLEY OFFICE BLDG., 1442 Beachwood Dr.</td>
<td>Bob Horner Productions (Independent release), 1442 Beachwood Drive.</td>
<td>Monte West, Studio Mgr. 438740</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fellow</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Geo. Meehan, Midd.</td>
<td>Horner</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Flame of the Sahara&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>World Educational Films.</td>
<td>Elison</td>
<td>Baby Betty, Wm. Field</td>
<td>F. M. Abbey, Robinson</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Forty Niner&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chas. R. Seeling Productions. (Aywor release). 1442 Beachwood Drive.</td>
<td>All Neitz</td>
<td>Big Boy Williams, Hughes</td>
<td>Stafe</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Eagle Claw!&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>INCE STUDIO.</td>
<td>Horace Williams, Casting.</td>
<td>Clark W. Thomas, Gen. Mgr.</td>
<td>Culver City 761731</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Assoc. Authors, Inc.</td>
<td>Lloyd Ingram</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LASKY STUDIOS.</td>
<td>L. M. Goodstadt, Casting. 1520 Vi</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 2400</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wm. DeMille</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Guy Wilke, Geo. Hippard</td>
<td>J. McPherson</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Marriage Maker&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cecil B. DeMille</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Bert Glennon, H. Tate</td>
<td>J. McPherson</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Ten Commandments&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geo. Melford</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Ernest Haller, Bob John, Jos. Clark, Feth, J. Robinson</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Light That Failed&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Art. Green</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Theed, Clark, Joe S. Leblanc</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Woman's Frenzy&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zane Grey Productions.</td>
<td>Vic Fleming</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Wm. Hart in Wild Bill Hickock-repainging&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MAYER-SCHULBERG STUDIO. 3800 Mission Rd.</td>
<td>Individual Casting. Lincoln 2120</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>William Seiter Productions. (Metro release).</td>
<td>Essiegle Barker, All-Star</td>
<td>A. Wyckoff, Harry Schenck</td>
<td>A. P. Younger</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Pleasure Mad&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B. P. Schulberg Productions (Preferred Pictures Release)</td>
<td>Tom Forman</td>
<td>All-Star, Harry Perry, Sam Nealon, Sam, Meighan</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Boomers&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vic Scherttng</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Jack Pickford, Eric, Wray, George Yobahan, Jack Johnson</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Virginian&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Horace Shaw</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Andre Bartleiler, Nat Watt, Fred Jewel</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Hold to Answer!&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oscar Apfel</td>
<td>Viola Duna</td>
<td>John Arnold, Chas. Watt</td>
<td>J. J. Dickey</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;In Search of a Thrill&quot;</td>
<td>2nd Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Res Ingram Productions. (Metro release)</td>
<td>Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Allen Halubar Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NATIONAL STUDIO. 1116 Lodi St.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 4470</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Technicolor M. P. Corp.</td>
<td>C. A. Willits, Mgr.</td>
<td>Geo. A. Yehanna, Geo. A. Cave</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PICKFORD-FAIRBANKS STUDIOS. Individual Casting. 7100 Santa Monica Blvd. Holly 7901</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>United Artists Release.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Essential Walsh</td>
<td>Douglas Fairbanks</td>
<td>Arthur Edson, J. T. O'Donnahue, Alex Gower</td>
<td>Staff</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Thief of Bagdad&quot;</td>
<td>5th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Valley of the Moon&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PRINCIPAL PICTURE CORP. 7250 Santa Monica.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Holly 2806</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eddie Cline</td>
<td>Box, De La Mott, Nen Van Ruren</td>
<td>Geraghty, Harry Landen</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;When A Man's a Man&quot;</td>
<td>7th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alf. Goulding</td>
<td>Harry Lannon</td>
<td>David Smith</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2-Role Comedy</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>R C STUDIO. Melrose and Gower. 780 Gower St. Holly 7780</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Individual Productions. (Film Booking Offices)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>All Saints Productions.</td>
<td>Ralph Lewis</td>
<td>Geo. O'Hara, Leona Hearn</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Flaming Waters&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Emory Johnson</td>
<td>Georgio Lewis</td>
<td>George Moros</td>
<td>Beatrice Van, E. Fisher</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Thirteen Orphans&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Emilie Cahnard</td>
<td>Dercy Pauleau</td>
<td>Joseph Duhey</td>
<td>Emile Johnson</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Mail Mote&quot;</td>
<td>Editing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ocean Productions.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>All Saints</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Jack of Diamonds&quot;</td>
<td>4th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Douglass McLean Productions.</td>
<td>Penny Home</td>
<td>Douglas McLean</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;The Lullaby&quot;</td>
<td>Preparing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Not For Publication&quot;</td>
<td>8th Week</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Nancy Street</td>
<td>Douglas McLean</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>JEAN RILEY STUDIO. E. G. Walker, Mgr., 6701 Santa Monica Blvd. 579.440</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kaynorson</td>
<td>All-Star</td>
<td>Bill Severin</td>
<td>Riley</td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;Light of the World&quot;</td>
<td>Casting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>KOACH STUDIO. Culver City. Warren Doane, Mgr. 761-721</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Ha1 Rouch Comedies (Pathre release).</td>
<td>Hal Rouch, &quot;Paul&quot; Parrott</td>
<td>Frank Young</td>
<td>Henschke-Brandie</td>
<td>Comedies</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Harry Gernadt</td>
<td>C. Moorehouse</td>
<td>&quot;Our Gang&quot;</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>1-Role Comedy</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>&quot;What Should A Girl Do?&quot;</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>Animal Comedy</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>2-Role Comedy</td>
<td>Schedule</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Director</td>
<td>Star</td>
<td>Cameraman</td>
<td>Asst. Director</td>
<td>Scenarist</td>
<td>Type</td>
<td>Progress</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---------------------------</td>
<td>-----------------------</td>
<td>---------------</td>
<td>----------------</td>
<td>---------------</td>
<td>--------------------</td>
<td>----------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RAY STUDIO</td>
<td>Albert A. Kidder, Jr.</td>
<td>Gen'l Mgr.</td>
<td>1425 Fleming St.</td>
<td>Holly 598-141</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RUSSEL STUDIO</td>
<td>B. D. Russell, Mgr.</td>
<td>1439 Beachwood Dr.</td>
<td>Holly 7945-6</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SEXTON STUDIO</td>
<td>1712 Glendale Blvd.</td>
<td>Wils. 1550</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUNSET PRODUCTIONS</td>
<td>7425 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UNITED STUDIOS</td>
<td>5341 Melrose, M. C. Levee, Pres.</td>
<td>Nan Collins, Casting.</td>
<td>Holly 4080</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UNIVERSAL STUDIO</td>
<td>Fred Datig Casting.</td>
<td>570-081</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VITAGRAPH STUDIOS</td>
<td>1708 Talmadge, W. S. Smith, Gen Mgr.</td>
<td>598131</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WARNER BROS. STUDIOS</td>
<td>5842 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>Holly 4181</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WILNAT STUDIO</td>
<td>6070 Sunset Blvd.</td>
<td>Al. Brandt Mrs.</td>
<td>Holly 7940</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

!Advertisement
THE ERSTWHILE USHER

Several years ago, when the motion picture industry was in swaddling clothes, John Francis Dillon, the well-known director, was an usher in the old American theatre on Broadway, New York, and Elliott Dexter, prominent screen leading man, was a member of that theatre's stock company.

Naturally there was quite a bit of reminiscing when these two met recently at the United Studios, Hollywood, on the stage where "Flaming Youth" is being produced for First National, with Dillon directing and Dexter playing one of the principal parts.

"The Spirit of the Road," a story by Kate Jordan, has been purchased by Metro as a starring vehicle for Viola Dana. It will serve as her next production, but will be known as "In Search of a Thrill" on the screen.

Charles West, who has been engaged as a gangster in Metro's all-star production of "Held to Answer," will be recalled as a popular leading man of D. W. Griffith's famous Triangle Fine Arts company.

Gypsy Hart, who is portraying an historical role in Rex Ingram's Metro picturization of "Scaramouche," made her motion picture debut several years ago in "The Reward of the Faithless," one of the first pictures ever directed by Rex Ingram.

Among the many interesting paintings in Rex Ingram's splendid art collection is one called "The Lady and the Swan," which was painted by Slavko Vorkapitch, a young Serbian artist whom Rex Ingram induced to portray the role of the young Napoleon in his Metro production of "Scaramouche."

Mr. Gerard is the only villain in "The Social Code." Others who appear in this picture include Malcolm McGregor, Edna Flugrath, John Sainpolis, William Humphrey and Huntly Gordon.

Wardrobe Buys
Of Superlative Quality

We are now showing a new and unusually fine selection of hats, wraps, furs, suits, shoes, riding habits, afternoon and evening gowns, and feminine apparel of every description at our shop at 1060 North Western Avenue.

Your early inspection of our offerings is cordially invited. This does not obligate you in any respect.

Screen Stars Wardrobe Exchange

EDA B. ARTHUR
Proprietress
Telephone 435-677
1060 North Western Ave.
American Legion Stadium
Hollywood Boulevard at El Centro Ave.

KING TUT FACE POWDER
in light and dark shades. Suitable for street or studio. Attractively priced at $1.00 Box.
YE RUB SHOPE
621 West 5th St., Los Angeles, Calif. Phone Metropolitan 1564.

Hugh Hoffman
Scenario and Production Supervisor

WE MOVE THE MOVIES and Shoe
on Service

Reproductions, Publicity, Photography
LITTLE
Commercial Photographer
Phone 437-902
5374 Hollywood Blvd. Corner Bronson

Frank the Shoe Doctor
"We save your sole and feel you, too"
6666 Hollywood Blvd. Holly 3752

LOCATION LUNCHES
Holly 7660

KWIK LUNCH
1626 Cahuenga Ave.
714 Highland Ave. Holly 6850

Good Studio Space on Glendale Boulevard!
Here's a snap, independent producer! The Bronx Studio has some good space for rent at a give-away. Save a big sum on your overhead and put it in the pictures! Look into this... TODAY!
H. and B. FILM COMPANY
Bronx Studio, 1743 Glendale Blvd. Wils 4725
Colored Portraits!

You can transform your ordinary photographs into colored portraits of the most beautiful kind at a very reasonable cost. There are special rates on fan pictures.

EMMA G. HOFFMAN
907 Central Bldg. Phone 142-38.

---

Walter Frederick Seely
Shaded Photography
1448 North Wilcox
(One-half block west of Cahuenga at Sunset) Telephone 439-774

---

MARION WARDE

Acting and Make-Up for the Stage and Films

Classical, Character, Ballet and Step-dancing

423-4 MUSIC ARTS BUILDING
233 SOUTH BROADWAY
PHONE 821-181

---

Hardee Kirkland’s
Phone Number is

Hollywood
6298

---

YOUR PHONOGRAPHER
will reproduce in soft Mellow Tone Without Scratch and Surface Noises by using a

Deflexograph
Fits any Phonograph or Victrola Using Changeable Needles Pliny, after hours — will not disturb. Deflexograph attaches to needle holder, filters sound oscillations, prevents scratching and surface noises entering your record. No metallic noises.

Gold Plate $1.50
Nickel Plate $1.00
VANTONCO CO., Dept. 416
110 W. 15th St., New York, N. Y.

---

All Legal Matters
Attorney and Counselor-at-Law

JACK P. LEONARD
340 Douglas Bldg. Consultation Free
Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone 658-19

---

Coy Watson, Jr.
Age 10. Wilshire 3616
No Luck. You Never Know. The Right of the Strongest. Featured in Campbell Comedies

---

Hollywood Scenario Exchange
5617 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 431-420
EXCLUSIVE CALIFORNIA REPRESENTATIVES FOR THE AMERICAN AND CONTINENTAL COMPANY, Paris, France, agents for well known French plays and published works, including the late Bernard’s successes.

---

Hoover Garden Studios
160 Vine Street
HOLLYWOOD

---

COLBURN’S
Taxidermy Studio
Phone 643-13
1033-37 Broadway Place
...excell in mounting of fish...trout our specialty...see samples at our studio...

---

SCREEN SERVICE
(formerly The Service Bureau)
1036 SOUTH HILL
PHONE 821-071

---

THE HILLVIEW GRILL
Hillview Apartments Bldg.
Hollywood at Hudson
Holly 7880
Holly 6626

MERCHANTS LUNCH
11:30 to 2
5:30 to 8

---

Experimental Matters
Co. for Motion Pictue People

---

Colburn’s Antique Shop
HOOVER HAS NEW CHIEF

Considerable interest has been evinced in the appointment of Albert, noted Russian photographer, as the head of the Hoover Art Studios, which recently established new headquarters at 1616 Vine street. He formerly had a photographic studio in the city of Sebastopol, Crimea, which is one of the noted recreation centers of Russia, and while conducting this salon photographed many of the royalty of old-time Russia, including the late Czar Nicholas and the Czara.

He is also talented as an artist, being a graduate of the Russian Academy of Art. One of his most notable works is an oil painting of Maxim Gorky, which is declared to be an exceptionally fine life study. Without a doubt the technique of Albert is vastly different than that of our American artists.

He has a distinct aversion to what he terms "jazz lighting" in the preparation of portraiture, and all of his work has the stamp of very keen artistry in lighting effects and in the posing of the subject. His style is similar to that of Nickolau Muray, the renowned Russian photographer, who now has a studio in New York City, and he is an adept in the use of futuristic effects in photography, but fortunately he does not carry them to extremes. Already he has been called upon by some of our most famous cinema folk, and the results of the work he has done for them is declared to be amazing in its perfection. Kosaloff and Pola Negri were two of his recent subjects.

Renee Adoree, the little French emotional actress who has lately achieved favorable mention throughout the film colony for her dramatic ability, is enacting the feminine lead in the Universal all-star production, "The Six-Fifty," now being made under the direction of Nat Ross.

HIGHEST TITLE EFFICIENCY OUR AIM

We secured the services of Mr. Irving W. Bunce from Craftsmen Laboratories, New York, who is the Greatest Hand Letter Artist in the country.

Also introduce the Lane Patent Process for 100 per cent Printed Titles.

"GIVE US A TRIAL!"

Quality Title & Film Co.

1142 BEECHWOOD DRIVE HOLLY 4830

CAMERA

Harold Shaw Sets Precedent by Never Using Megaphone to Direct

Every now and then someone shatters motion picture traditions, literally smashers them to pieces while those who surround the catastrophe look on with mingled feelings of horror and hurt dignity.

Therefore, consider Harold Shaw, Metro director, who has recently completed the direction of "Rouged Lips," starring Viola Dana, and is now engaged in transplanting Peter Clark MacFarlane's "He!d to Answer" to the screen.

Although for the past eight years Mr. Shaw has been producing pictures abroad, he is in reality one of the pioneer motion picture directors of America. He directed one of the first pictures in which Viola Dana appeared in the old Edison days. All of which goes to prove that Harold Shaw is no newcomer to the world of Klieg lights and cameras.

But in all of the time he has been directing pictures, not once has Mr. Shaw used a megaphone.

Nor does he need one. He is perhaps the quietest director in the studios. A visitor to the set while he is directing a scene of "Held to Answer," would never know that he was the all-important director. He has a method of gripping the attention and reaching the understanding of one actor or a whole crowd that frees him from ever having to shout his instructions to anyone.

It is an unusual fact that Grace Carlyle, who is making her screen debut in "Held to Answer," secured her greatest triumphs on the stage in "Pollyanna," "Enter Madam" and "The Storm," all three of which were later acknowledged motion picture successes.

HIGHEST TITLE EFFICIENCY OUR AIM

We secured the services of Mr. Irving W. Bunce from Craftsmen Laboratories, New York, who is the Greatest Hand Letter Artist in the country.

Also introduce the Lane Patent Process for 100 per cent Printed Titles.

"GIVE US A TRIAL!"

Quality Title & Film Co.

1142 BEECHWOOD DRIVE HOLLY 4830

Educationally Entertaining

Excerpts from letters received by Capt. M. McKenzie, from the Department of the Interior, Office of Indian Affairs:

"Pursuant to your informal request, permission is hereby granted you to go upon the Hoopa Valley and Mission Indian Reservation, for the purpose of taking motion pictures and photographs of natural scenery and Indian life, it being understood that you wish to feature the native industries of the Indians."

Historically Authentic Diversified in Character

INTRODUCING

BALMAC EDUCATIONAL FILM COMPANY

Capt. M. McKenzie, Production Manager
SAN ANSELMO, CALIFORNIA

Intensely Dramatic

Completed Films Now Ready for Release:

"The Land of Everlasting Snow,"
"From Forrest to Mill,"
"The Land of Burned Out Fires," "Modern Whaling."
Films Under Production:

"Gold Mining"—past and present.
"North Coast Sea Lion Story," and modern glazier period.
"The Guardian of the Golden Gate"—historical.
Three Wise Investors

Wise because they bought lots in the beautiful hillslopes of Bellehurst Park, overlooking forward-marching Glendale, and so did 597 others.

Wise because they know that these charming homesites at present prices are way below surrounding values, and that the wild-fire growth of Glendale, the fastest growing city in America, assures rising values here for years to come.

You will be doing yourself a good turn by seeing me as soon as possible. I will call whenever it is most convenient for you. Write or phone at once.

Landers Stevens
Associate
WALTER H. LEIMERT COMPANY

Phone Glendale 3098 or 354-W 246 So. Brand Boulevard, Glendale ANNOUNCING

with the greatest satisfaction that we now have associated with us . . .

Mr. Alfred R. Linstedt

Mr. Linstedt's artistic creative ability needs no introduction to the professional public, and we feel, that coupling his qualifications with our studio, which is the finest equipped in the United States, we will be able to produce photographs and portraits of unusual quality and artistic distinction.

We wish to assure our patrons that we are better prepared than ever before, to give them the utmost in artistic photographic creations, as well as prompt and efficient service.

Portraits    Fan Photos
Publicity Photographs
---at our regular prices
Stop in and see our new samples

Evans Studio

LYMAN A. POLLARD     RUTH A. DOWDALL
Holly 2560
6039 Hollywood Blvd.
HARRY CAREY in "CRASHIN' THRU"
AT THE HILLSTREET THEATRE
Have You a Commercial Value?
Are You Well Represented?
Are You Working?
If Not, Why?

HOWARD LICHTENSTEIN COMPANY
Purveyors of Publicity
To Their Majesties
The Kings and Queens of Movieland
6047½ Hollywood Boulevard
Second Floor 432-030

HELEN ANDRUS
recently with the Famous-Players in the East under the direction of Victor Fleming.
Ingenues Dancing Characters 579-979

ZAN MAKE-UP SHOP
819 South Hill Pico 498
As Eventful Time Passes On

All honor to the late President Warren G. Harding. In his passing, all mankind has lost a loyal friend and the world is deprived of a great leader. He was particularly partial to the cause of photoplay uplift and was one of the most consistent of movie fans. He had expressed happy anticipations of visiting the motion picture studios of Los Angeles and Hollywood and had indicated a desire to be of service to the industry. The Grim Reaper intervened on the very eve of his intended visit here and just as the whole nation became a heavy loser thereby, the film world became a heavy loser. Verily, as long as the annals of man are preserved, the name of Warren Harding will always shine forth in the brilliance of countless good qualities and utterly devoid of elements reprehensible. He was a great, good man. Everlasting peace is his lot, now. Forever shall his memory be cherished.

The word "star" is a futile one in its application to cinema folks. Most all recognized photoplayers are called "stars" nowadays. And how much better it is to be recognized as simply an artist!

Mary Miles Minter is determined to press her suit for a million dollars against her mother, despite the latter's illness, which the famous movie star declares to be feigned, insofar as seriousness is concerned. It looks like a merry old family feud, just like the merry old Kentuckians used to stage, and it does not screen well. However, if what Mary says in an interview this week is true, she deserves her full share of sympathy, for she declares she did not fare so well as a meal-ticket, and when the meal-ticket does get the worst of it, same is more deserving of pity than censure. Meanwhile, if the mother is critically ill and there is no pretending, there's justification for some sympathizing in the other direction. By all means, and above all, it is to be hoped a basis of compromise can be found and that a happy family reunion will result with the cleverly charming Mary replenished with incentive to return to the screen she has graced so successfully.

The cloud of tragedy descended upon and enveloped several film folk this week, notably Gloria Swanson, who is seriously ill in New York, and Mabel Normand, now in a hospital suffering from serious injuries sustained in a fall from a horse. It is only one more proof that life in Filmland is the same as in any other sphere of human endeavor, despite all the defamers have said and written.

Good luck to President Coolidge! May he succeed in performing great services for his country. His is a trying ordeal and to him all should deal the utmost co-operation.

Whenever a slight dull comes in picture production, you'll generally find Douglas Fairbanks in the role of Salvation, spending a cool million or so and depleting the ranks of the unemployed thereby. He saved hundreds from actual poverty when he made "Robin Hood," and he is more than duplicating the good turn now in the filming of "The Thief of Bagdad." Congratulations are always due the enterprising Doug.

We sincerely hope there is some improvement in the dope situation, but we can still observe sickening evidences of the continued prosperity of many implicated in the vicious drug traffic. Hang a few higher-ups and impose life sentences on a few common dope peddlers, and there will undoubtedly be a greater degree of improvement. Severe punishment is the only one remedy, of course, but let us have that one!

Fewer but more expensive pictures is in prospect for the coming fall and winter production here. Quality has superseded quantity in the mental workings of most producers and it is a promising change. They still "grind out" two-reel comedies in factory style and get away with it more or less, but they cannot make features pay on that basis any more, because the public refusal is too overwhelming.

Liquor is becoming so plentiful that drunkenness is decreasing. It is natural logic that if human beings can have all they want of a thing, their craving becomes less insistent, so far as booze is concerned. In the old "wet" days there was not half as much intoxication as there is in these prohibition days. Of all the legislation most needed for the conservation of morale in America, it is a modification of the Eighteenth Amendment. Why deny so obvious a fact? Why permit boot-legging as such a Midas-like occupation, when it is so easy to obliterate the whole lane by simply legalizing light wines and beer?
Morosco
744 So. Broadway

"The Broken Wing"

Mason
137 So. Broadway

Margaret Anglin in "A Woman of No Importance"

egans
Fico and Figuras

"Getting Gertie's Garter"

Hippodrome
370 So. Main

Olive Tell-Montagne Love in "The Wrong Woman"

Orpheum
636 So. Broadway

Vaudeville

Pantages
Hill at Seventh
Charles (Chic) Sale in "His Nibs"

Hillstreet
Hill at Eighth
Harry Carey in "Crashin' Thru"

Burbank
Main near Sixth
Musical Comedy

Majestic
841 So. Broadway
Marjorie Rambeau in "The Goldfish"

Tally's Broadway
532 So. Broadway
Dorothy Phillips in "The White Frontier"

Symphony
Broadway near Sixth
Norma Talmadge, Eugene O'Brien, in "Her Only Way"

"This Week's Theatre Notes"

Jackie Coogan as the star of a five ring show under the "big top," in "Circus Days," will play at Loew's State Theatre all week. At last the famous Oris story of "Toby Tyler," the most popular book of circus life for twenty years, has been screened amid the atmosphere and glamour of the greatest game in the world.

"Circus Days" was directed by Eddie Cline. It is a First National picture and supporting Jackie are Barbara Tennant, Russell Simpson, Claire McDowell, Ceasare Gravini, Peaches Jackson, Sam De Grasse, De Witt Jennings, Nellie Lane and William Barlow.

Jackie plays the stellar role of "Toby" who runs away from an unhappy home to join a circus, becomes a peacock salesman and, then, in an entirely unexpected manner, the star clown of the show. Jackie has an exceedingly lovely little leading lady in the person of Peaches Jackson, and his efforts to aid this little lady in her distress results in his suddenly being projected into fame and success "under the big top."

The score of trumpets, the scraping note of the cello, and the prancing of horses, the screeching of monkeys and the roaring of lions will all seem real when Jackie Coogan stirs emotions in this production, which is said to be his greatest picture to date.

Loew's State Theater, in addition to "Circus Days," presents the first of the new Mack Sennett-Pathé comedies, "Nip and Tuck," in which an all-star cast of comedians is featured.

Continuing its remarkable sensation, Run-Tin-Tin in "Where the North Begins," is playing at the Alhambra Theater to the biggest crowds in the history of that house.

Having closed a record week during its first showing, this famous police dog picture has been demanded for an immediate continuation of the run and thousands of theatergoers have thronged the Alhambra ever since it has been reopened there. The production is a Warner Brothers' screen classic, directed by Chester M. Franklin under the personal supervision of Harry Rapf. Its leading character is the wolf-dog, Run-Tin-Tin, lost in the snowy wastes of the northland when a pup and reared by his wild ancestors into a splendid specimen of a wolf-dog. The meeting between this wild dog and a man brings to the screen one of the most absorbing episodes screen fans have ever beheld.

"The Broken Wing," a comedy-drama by Paul Dickery and Chas. Goddard, ranks as one of the biggest successes to be presented the Motion Picture goers, and offers the most spectacular scenic effect ever seen on a local stage.

Margaret Anglin and her well selected supporting cast, enter into a second week at the Mason in Oscar Wilde's brilliant "A Woman of No Importance."

"Getting Gertie's Garter," Avery Hopwood's speed farce, which opens its eighth consecutive week at Egan's Theatre, bids fair to see a new mark in comedy offerings.

Harry B. Carey, probably the most popular western man of today, comes to the Hillstreet theatre in a feature photoplay, "Crashin' Thru," a volcanic drama of the Golden West. Eva Shirley and Al Rohl, with Oscar Adler's orchestra, lead the vaudeville list.

Norma Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien will be seen in a revival of "Her Only Way," a Sidney Franklin production, which opens the Symphony Theatre.

